

Iraq destroys more missiles

By Bassem Mroue
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD, Iraq — With U.N. weapons inspectors watching, Iraq destroyed six Al Samoud 2 missiles Sunday but warned it may suspend the program if the United States plans to go to war anyway.

In two days, Iraq has destroyed 10 of the banned weapons, about a tenth of its stock of the missiles, which the United Nations has ordered eliminated. It has also destroyed two casting chambers used to make engines for the Al Fatah missile. Iraq destroyed those chambers in the 1990s, only to rebuild them.

"As you can see, there is proactive cooperation from the Iraqi side," Saddam Hussein's scientific adviser, Lt. Gen. Amer al-Saadi, said.

"Practically all the areas of concern to UNMOVIC (the U.N. inspection team) and the subjects of remaining disarmament questions have been addressed," he said. "We hope that it will be to the satisfaction of UNMOVIC."

But he cautioned that if the United States said it will go to war anyway, Iraq might stop destroying the missiles, which fly farther than the 93 miles allowed by the United Nations.

The United States derided the beginning of the destruction on Saturday. A White House spokeswoman called Iraq's move "part of its game of deception."

Sen. Joseph Biden, the top Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said on "Fox News Sunday" that "destroying all of the missiles is not enough for me."

He said Iraq also needed to account for "all of the other weapons of mass destruction that we know have not been accounted for."

Inspectors returned Sunday to al-Aziziya, an abandoned helicopter airfield 60 miles southeast of Baghdad where Iraq says it destroyed R-400 bombs filled with biological weapons in 1991.

Al-Saadi said 157 of the R-400 bombs contained anthrax, aflatoxin and botulin toxin. He said Iraq has been excavating them and so far has uncovered eight bombs intact.

INSIDE

Read about how faith and science may clash in the debate over God's existence.

The Edge, Page 7

Economy may receive boost from increase in soldiers

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLECIAN

The local economy is expected to receive a small boost as a result of the high number of soldiers deploying from Fort Riley.

The military base is currently housing many soldiers in Manhattan and Junction City hotels.

The unusually high number of soldiers who are receiving orders and being deployed resulted in sleeping quarters on base to fill up. So far, Ft. Riley has assisted with 3,600 Reserve and National Guard mobilizations.

Christie Vanover, deputy media relations officer, said most of the soldiers who are staying in the community are noncommissioned officers and officers.

Needing to house soldiers within the community, however, did not come as a surprise to Ft. Riley, she said.

Vanover said it was one of several options the base had to consider concerning increased deployments.

"When we heard about the deployments, we looked at several options," she said. "This one seemed to be the best solution."

While it is unknown exactly how long these soldiers will stay in local hotels, Vanover said it could be up to a year.

During that year, the local economy should receive a boost, said John Armbrust, vice president of the Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce.

He said he is unsure of solid dollar figures, but Manhattan should see an increase in revenue.

"It's just like having any other visitor in town," Armbrust said. "Not only are they spending money on the rooms they are staying in, but they will spend money on food and other things they need."

The soldiers staying at local hotels, however, must be flexible, Vanover said.

She said it is possible that they will have to move into different rooms or even change hotels for events like graduation when hotels are already booked.

"We've tried to work around other major events in town to find out which hotels are full and when, but some moves are inevitable," Vanover said.

"But we want to give them as much stability as possible, because it's good for their morale."

Vanover said the soldiers are venturing into the communities they are staying in much more than they would if they were stationed on base.

"This is definitely going to be a good thing for the local economies and communities," she said. "They will spend their money in the community, and the community will benefit."

Top: Ben Hodge, senior in electronic journalism, has his makeup applied by floor director Azure Jacobs, junior in mass communications, before appearing as anchor of the show.

Above: Ben Hodge and Erika Nelson, both seniors in electronic journalism and anchors for the TV show "Manhattan Matters," relax before their first taping in Dole Hall. The show was student-produced as a cooperative effort between the Educational Communications Center and the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

1st student-run show prepares staff for next production

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLECIAN

Now that the first episode of K-State's new TV show has been filmed and aired, many from the production staff said they are relieved.

"There was a kind of quiet, nervous energy running throughout the group," said Bambi Landholm, executive producer of "Manhattan Matters."

The first student-run episode was filmed on Friday afternoon in Dole Hall with the help of the Educational Communications Center.

"It is nice having one show under the belt, so now everyone knows what to expect. Everybody has a format they can follow for the next seven shows," Landholm said. "Now we Dione Keeling, right, and Andrea Appelhans, both juniors in mass communications, make a sound check prior to the taping of Manhattan Matters. Keeling and Appelhans worked as audio operators for the show as part of their Video Techniques class.

See TV Page 8

SafeRide, wait-list system among candidates' debate topics

Photos by Drew Rose | COLLECIAN

Julie Quackenbush, SGA vice presidential candidate, and John O'Hara, SGA presidential candidate, discuss issues dealing with their platforms during a radio debate last night on Wildcat 91.9. The debate was sponsored by KSDB-FM 91.9. There will be another presidential debate at 7 tonight at the Academic Resource Center at Kramer Dining Center.

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLECIAN

KSDB-FM 91.9 sponsored a live presidential debate Sunday night in a nearly vacant Union Big 12 Room.

Presidential candidate John O'Hara and running mate Travis Stryker sat opposite vice presidential candidate Julie Quackenbush in the debate moderated by Josh Wells, KSDB program director. Quackenbush's running mate, presidential candidate Tammy Jo Osborn, was unable to attend because of obligations to Blue Key Honor Society.

Wells opened the debate with questions about the current budget crunch.

SGA Elections 2003

Vote at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu

O'Hara said the Student Governing Association should not implement any new initiatives that will result in additional cost to students. In a time of increasing tuition and tightening personal budgets, O'Hara said, students cannot afford additional programs.

O'Hara said students are paying more money for fewer services, but students should write legislators to express their concerns. O'Hara said he and

See DEBATE Page 8

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

U.S.-Turkish relations strained after parliament snubs U.S. troops

A top member of Turkey's governing party on Sunday rejected a quick new vote on letting U.S. troops use the country for a northern front against Iraq. Turkey's parliament Saturday failed to approve a government-backed motion to allow 62,000 U.S. combat troops in the country.

Authorities arrest suspected mastermind of Sept. 11 attacks

U.S. authorities have taken the suspected mastermind of the Sept. 11 attacks out of Pakistan to an undisclosed location, an government official said Sunday. The arrest of Khalid Shaikh Mohammed will hurt the terrorist organization's ability to strike.

Despite Iraqi outrage, UAE presses proposal that Saddam step down

Iraq poured scorn on the United Arab Emirates on Sunday for urging Saddam Hussein to go into exile. The UAE also submitted their proposal to a gathering of Gulf nations on Sunday.

Inspectors check travelers at airports

Federal inspectors are checking all travelers arriving in the United States for radiation as part of an expanded effort to screen for terrorist activity. Inspectors began using small, pager-like detectors Saturday at U.S. ports of entry.

Yale workers going on five-day strike to protest deadlocked contract talks

About 5,000 employees of Yale University plan to walk off the job today for a five-day protest over contract talks.

Memorial planned for tonight

There will be a memorial service for Melissa Bachman at 6 p.m. Monday at All Faiths Chapel. Bachman, junior in family studies and human services, died Feb. 20 from an arteriovenous malformation. The memorial is open to the public.

Weather

Today 48 | 30

Partly cloudy

Tuesday 35 | 13

Snow showers

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Read about the first Chocolate and Tea at Three benefit for Habitat for Humanity.

Vol. 107, No. 110

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Enthusiast
4 Gentle souls
9 GE merger
12 Mrs. McKinley
13 Winglike
14 Every last crumb
15 Given to plundering
17 Young seal
18 Adia's opponent
19 Puts into words
21 Prison VIP
24 Medel
25 After constellation
26 Archery-wood
28 Baseball great
31 Mischievous tykes
33 Conger, e.g.
35 Linger
36 Used a keyboard
38 Satchel

DOWN

1 Evergreen
2 Cousin of FORTRAN
3 Siesta
4 Underling
5 Properly recipient
6 Long March leader
7 Rub against lightly
8 Method
9 Predatory lion
10 Suggestion
11 Hannibal's here
16 Succor
20 Speedy steed
21 Linger
22 Service division
23 Descended by rope
27 Symbol of intrigue
29 Between jobs
30 Eventual flower
32 "And — fine seam"

Solution time: 23 mins.

Friday's answer 3-1

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-326-6865/99¢ per minute, touch-tone only. (11¢ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

UNIICDN BTRZMNA JZ
GCPF JH CZRUCX PTCFNT
BCPFCDN: "AJ ZJM NCM
RH INCX RI OTIFNZ "

Saturday's Cryptquip: BEING A TAILOR IS A GOOD THING. THERE ARE DEFINITELY A LOT OF FRINGE BENEFITS.

Today's Cryptquip clue: I equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK #1 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Cryptic Classics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

NAMES IN THE NEWS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Letterman's late-night absence due to condition caused by viral nerve infection

NEW YORK — The eye infection that has kept David Letterman from hosting his "Late Show" this week was caused by shingles, his doctor said.

The condition is a viral infection of the nerve roots that typically results in pain and rash. It's caused by the same virus that causes chickenpox.

Except for when he missed after a heart bypass operation, this is the first time Letterman, 53, has called in sick in 20 years, a representative for the CBS show said.

Bruce Willis filled in as emergency guest host Wednesday night, and John McEnroe sat behind Letterman's desk Thursday. Regis Philbin was scheduled to fill in Friday, and next week is a planned "dark" week, when reruns will air.

Singer McGraw's relative sentenced

VALLEJO, Calif. — An uncle of country music star Tim McGraw was sentenced to life in prison for killing a neighbor.

A jury convicted Dennis McGraw, 55, of first-degree murder Friday in the shooting death of 31-year-old Jason Garfield.

He also was found guilty of using a firearm in the commission of the crime.

Judge Allan P. Carter sentenced McGraw to 25 years to life in prison, plus 25 years for the firearm violation.

A representative of Tim McGraw said the singer would have no comment on his uncle's sentencing.

Dennis McGraw is a brother of Tim McGraw's father, former baseball star Tug McGraw.

Glover praises educators

MADISON, Wis. — Actor Danny Glover has no trouble remembering when he was 7, humiliated in school for being a slow reader.

His savior was a teacher who emphasized his math skills and appointed him to pass out milk and graham crackers.

"I'm able to stand before you today because of the caring compassion of a teacher," Glover told about 375 educators at a convention Friday.

He said he still struggles with dyslexia, a reading and language disorder.

Illustration by Adam Hayes | COLLEGIAN

"We're in trouble in terms of art in our schools," he said. "Music and art aren't just for those who are able to pay for it. Music and art are for all of us."

Scorsese gains star

LOS ANGELES — Martin Scorsese, a director known for chronicling the "Mean Streets" of New York, found nothing but kindness on a Hollywood sidewalk.

Scorsese, 60, director of "Taxi Driver," "Raging Bull," "Goodfellas," and "Gangs of New York," said he was honored to receive the 2,217th star on the Walk of Fame.

Scorsese was also set to receive a lifetime achievement honor Saturday at the Directors Guild Awards, where he was nominated in the competitive category for "Gangs of New York."

'Mad Max' sequel filming delayed

LOS ANGELES — The start of production on "Mad Max: Fury Road" with Mel Gibson has been delayed by the possibility of military action against Iraq.

The fourth in the "Mad Max" series, which had been expected to begin filming in Namibia in July, now will go into production sometime in the fall, a 20th Century Fox spokeswoman said Friday.

Gibson and writer-director George Miller remain committed to filming in Namibia in Africa, Gianopoulos said.

"Mad Max," the first of the films, was released in 1979 and starred Gibson as a highway cop in a violent future ruled by motorcycle gangs.

Pope poetry becomes bestseller

WARSAW, Poland — Pope John Paul II's first poetic work since he became pontiff in 1978 is a best seller in his native Poland even before hitting the bookstores, the Polish publisher said.

Buyers have already bought 80 percent of the first-edition copies of "The Roman Triptych," said Pawel Piotrowski, sales manager for the WAM publishing house.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, Feb. 27

- At 1:40 p.m., Jermaine Rhodeman, 2002 Casement, No. 2, was arrested for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $500.
- At 3:25 p.m., Mizmureen Shabazz, 2500 Farm Bureau, No. 201, was arrested for aggravated assault and failure to appear. Bond was set at $2,195.
- At 4 p.m., Jason Ferreira, 1909 Beck, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 4 p.m., Jerry Rash, 913 Leavenworth, was arrested for probation violation. No bond was set.
- At 5:15 p.m., Edward Wigglesworth, 1006 Kearney, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $139.
- At 8:35 p.m., Stewart Smith, 1031 Yuma, No. 2, was arrested for aggravated battery, criminal damage to property and illegal discharge of a firearm.
- At 10:30 p.m., Dwayne Bibb, 1528 Harry, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 11:08 p.m., Henry Thomas, 2411 Woodway, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $114.50.

Friday, Feb. 28

- At 12:19 a.m., William Light, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for resisting arrest, battery against law enforcement, driving on a suspended license, DUI and attempting to flee. Bond was set at $2,500.
- At 2:18 a.m., Bryan Caldwell, Fort Riley, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 2:47 a.m., Dalton James, 309 Sherry, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance, unlawful possession of depressants and DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Keadie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- There will be an International Agriculture Seminar at 3:30 p.m. today in Waters 137.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Aheam 301.
- The Apostolic Campus Ministry will meet for Bible study at 7 tonight in Union 202.
- There will be a presidential debate at 7 tonight in the Kramer Academic Resource Center, Room 120.
- There will be a KNEA-SP meeting at 7:30 tonight in Blumont 217.
- Circle K will meet at 8 tonight in Union 206.

Up next

In Tuesday's Collegian

News | Election guide
Check out the Collegian Voter's Guide for your 2003 election coverage.
Opinion | Life in the city
"City girl" Lindsey Praechter discusses urban life.

dependable, quality service

✓ fax service

Clafin Books and Copies

"I got a better computer for a lot less because they don't run silly ads on TV."

- Factory direct savings
- Every computer custom built
- Name brand components
- Full factory warranty
- Easy to order — see & SAVE!

MY WHITE BOX Custom Built Computers

www.mywhitebox.com

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

For the fastest delivery, lunch or night call

776-5577

Porter's Babes in Beads Bash!

Fat Tuesday March 4th

Don't miss Porter's Beads & Babes

"start yo fat tuesday rit here"

Crawfish Dinner 3-9 pm

FREE Prizes

100 Free T-Shirts @ 6 pm

COOKIN' ON THE PATIO

TONS of beads

202 N. 11th Street, Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m. Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m. Thurs. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m. Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

Join the KSU Water Ski Team

New Members Meeting

Monday, March 3, 2003

9:00 pm

Union Rm. 207

no experience necessary

for more info or questions, email water@ksu.edu

Say HEESE Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 537-1909

Paddle a River

with a canoe from The PATHFINDER

OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

304 Poyntz, Downtown Manhattan 785-639-5629

OPEN THE LATEST!

GURBY'S

Delivers the latest! Pizza & Pub

770-3333

Monday mania $3.99

LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY

CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA

stick it to me Tuesday

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE

GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE

ONE BUYER ONLY • CARRY OUT • TUESDAY

Rock N Roll wednesday

$6.99 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ minimum 6

MINIMUM DELIVERY pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.

DELIVERY DINE-IN CARRY-OUT

Wash PALACE

Wednesday Men's Shirts $1.50

laundered and starched

BRING IN THIS AD RECEIVE

off any 20% DRY CLEANING

DROP OFF LAUNDRY

The Wash Palace

Exp. 5/31/03

Sen. Roberts addresses soldiers deploying from Ft. Riley

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Pfc. Shiloh Hawkesworth is tired of waiting for more orders.

But now, the 19-year-old soldier's wait is over. Hawkesworth, along with 250 other Ft. Riley soldiers, is on his way overseas.

Ft. Riley officials won't disclose the soldiers' destination. But in a gymnasium on base Friday, the soldiers, dressed in desert camouflage and tan combat boots, heard U.S. Sen. Pat Roberts tell reporters that the soldiers are headed back to Kuwait, where they trained.

Roberts implied to reporters, as soldiers listened, that it wasn't just for training this time.

But Hawkesworth isn't overly worried. He said, as other soldiers did, that he was nervous, but confident in his peers and his mission.

"I'm eager, ready to go," he said. "I'm tired of waiting."

Sgt. Anthony Novak, a 21-year-old from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, said he too was a little nervous, but he is trying not to focus all his energy into that emotion.

"Of course I'm a little nervous, but I'm confident in my equipment and my peers," Novak said. "We have to trust in each other and it makes it easier."

The soldiers, members of the 1st Battalion, 41st Infantry, are among the first fighting units being deployed from Fort Riley.

But other Fort Riley units, including armored elements and engineering detachments, also have received deployment orders recently. Soon, nearly 3,500 of the fort's active-duty soldiers will be overseas.

Most of these soldiers are leaving behind families. That, the soldiers say, is one of the hardest parts about leaving.

While the base is training soldiers and mobilizing them, it is also preparing the family members who will be left behind. In the past three weeks, the fort's family readiness center has been full nearly every night, said Pearl Speer, a family programs manager.

"Soldiers have to be trained and ready before they go out," Speer said. "We are applying the same thing to families. They have to be prepared as well. Some of it is harder than you think."

Families go to the center to learn about mail restrictions, wills, medical care, finances and access to chaplains and counselors. Parenting classes are also available, Speer said, because spouses become single parents when their husbands or wives are deployed.

Caroline Ingram, wife of armored-unit commander Lt. Col. Jeff Ingram, knows all too well what it's like to be a single parent while her husband is gone.

Her husband has been deployed several times before for missions in the Gulf War, Macedonia and Kosovo.

When asked what change a deployment has on the family, she simply said, "it changes everything."

"It impacts the whole family," she said. "I won't lie. It is incredibly difficult, but I stay confident that the army is taking care of my husband while I'm taking care of the family."

The soldiers say leaving their families behind is the hardest part about deploying.

And going through several deployments, doesn't always make it easier, Lt. Col. Ingram said.

"I just tell them dad is leaving again," he said, "and they have to step up and help their mother."

While he is confident his family is ready to handle the deployment, it is still hard on him. Being separated from a family, he said, is one of the hardest things anyone will ever go through.

"I've been gone for six of the past 20 years," he said. "One day my son was two, and now, suddenly, he's 14. And I've only spent half of his life with him."

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN
U.S. Sen. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., talks with soldiers of the 1st Battalion, 41st Infantry on Friday afternoon. The troops are among the first units deployed from Fort Riley.

Despite the sadness and anxiety about leaving a family, Ingram knows he has a duty to his country. And it's a duty he accepts wholeheartedly.

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

K-State-Salina candidates encourage students to vote

By Jessica Pitts
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Examine the complete list of platform issues that the Homan/Zerr and Sanders/Sanders tickets are focusing on.

Round two: Robbie Sanders and Chad Sanders versus Paul Homan and Doug Zerr.

The reward: K-State-Salina Student Governing Association presidency.

After emerging in the primary election last week, two pairs will now face off at the general election Tuesday and Wednesday.

But both tickets are focusing on one issue - voter turnout.

"We have turned our campaign towards people that don't historically vote," Zerr, vice presidential candidate said.

"The huge majority of our campus - Art, Science and Business - don't come out and vote. We want to change that."

Today, the Homan/Zerr ticket will hand out doughnuts, a strategy they hope will give them a few minutes to talk to students about the importance of voting.

"Of course, it matters to me who they vote for," Zerr said. "But it matters more that they just vote."

The Sanders brothers also are focusing their campaign on increased voter turnout.

"We think a lot of the campus doesn't even know the SGA elections are going on,"

Chad said. "We want to make sure they know when and where to vote."

About 25 percent of the 862 students at the K-State-Salina campus voted in the primary election last week. The Sanders ticket received about 129 votes, while the Homan/Zerr ticket earned 70.

Twenty-three votes were cast for other candidates.

While the focus is the same, each pair said it has a distinct characteristic to bring to the office.

For the Homan/Zerr ticket, it is experience.

"We have both been senators for two years, we have both been on numerous committees and we have both held an office for clubs on campus," Zerr said.

The Sanders/Sanders ticket relies on the candidates' family ties.

"The fact that we are brothers and have been together our entire life gives us an edge," Chad said. "We have worked through the tough times, and we can guarantee that we will use that experience in the office."

ADVANCED

Cake Classes

*Beginner classes start March 5th.

Every Thursday Night for 6 weeks.
Classes starting March 6th.
For more info call 776-7637.
Vern's Wedding Cake Shop

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories
you've got to read.

Get your 2003 Royal Purple yearbook for $34.95 in Kedzie 103,
or call 532-6555.

From retro to Right Now

from retro music
retro prices to right now

100+ Draw to the Outback
$1.99 Big Beer everywhere

Bud Light
Bud Light
Coors
Coors Light

Restops
LAST MINUTE
MARKET

Ksu Opera Theatre Presents The Merry Wives Of Windsor

McCain Auditorium, 8 p.m. March 6-8

$8.00 students

$12.00 general

Box office open noon-5 p.m.

call 532-6498

A comic opera by Otto Nicolai

Based on the William Shakespeare comedy

2003 Spring GRADUATION FAIR

Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday
March 3, 4 & 5 12p-7p

Announcements by
C-B Announcements

Diploma Frames by University Frames

TO THE POINT TV news show benefits K-State, community

After nearly four months of planning and preparation, the student-run "Manhattan Matters" TV show is off and running – with the promise of providing a new outlet for information in Manhattan and benefitting K-State students.

With the first episode taped and aired, the next seven episodes will be a great opportunity for those involved with the show to explore different stories and present them in unique and interesting formats.

The addition of a regular television feature produced by K-State students will solidify the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communication's commitment to new forms of media, including Web design and production.

The step also serves as a valuable opportunity for students wishing to pursue a career in broadcast journalism. With few work opportunities in a broadcast market heavily reliant on Topeka-based networks, a local production focused on local issues will serve both those in the studio and viewers as well.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin | EDITOR IN CHIEF Jamie Barrett | MANAGING EDITOR

Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

I have one word that describes the K-State men's basketball team. That word is "pathetic" — just like the attendance.

Yeah, John Mayer is a toolbox. Get over it.

If a K-State vehicle hits you, you'll get free tuition. But if a pizza car hits you, do you get free pizza?

Going out on a Thursday night and not drinking is like seeing a midget in a Barney costume. It's not something you see every day.

Goodbye, Mister Rogers. You will always be my neighbor.

God created marijuana. Man manufactures beer. Who do you trust?

Why is it that the Manhattan police always write tickets at the end of the month? Is it because they're trying to meet their quota? I think so.

Death to the snowman killer.

Is it too much to ask for once in their lives for girls to bring beer to a party?

I've been in the Blotter too, too many times. I think I need to stop breaking the law.

Doesn't anybody root for the underdog anymore?

You know you have a jealous boyfriend when you say you're going to Bob's, and he asks "Who's Bob?"

It's not when your vagina starts a monologue with you that should worry you. It's when it gives you a big, toothy grin and winks at you.

Who is the idiot that hit the bicyclist on Clafin and Sunset?

Why does our toilet paper hurt my butt?

Hey, to the girl with the cute toe socks on: Can I have your number?

I'm Jesus.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.ksstatecollegian.com for the full version.

CANCELLED CLASSES

Illustration by Ben Dolezal | COLLEGIAN

Portland school district's drastic budget woes could spread if unchecked

How cool would this be? You are back in high school. As another boring lecture on Vietnam or something or other drags on, you try to stay awake.

Your mind wanders about what to do after practice tonight or whatever it is that high schoolers think about.

Then an announcement comes over the loudspeaker, "Excuse me, kids. Due to budget constraints, we have to cut five weeks off of school. Spring break will run an extra week, and then we will end school a month early. Oh, and the track team has been canceled too. And the band. And all our special-ed kids, umm, we need to talk in private later. And we don't exactly have janitors anymore, so we need to pack out our own trash and no more restrooms anymore. That is all."

Realistically, the last audible word would have been "spring." Sheer hysteria would reign throughout the halls. Mass celebrations would spontaneously erupt. Alice Cooper would blare: "School's out forever!"

Well if only you had attended public school in Portland, Oregon, this dream could have been a reality. A drastic state budget crisis and the failure of a vote to increase taxes last fall forced the school district to cut five weeks off of class. Yeah, five weeks. That's adding over a month to summer vacation.

More days playing basketball in the park. More days lounging at the pool. More days sitting on the couch all day doing nothing but watching the drool form and staring at the television. I can't even fathom what that would be like.

Then something happened. Those kill-joy teachers, who, as we all know, only go into education for the three-month vacation, started making noise. Parents got involved, too. You expected that, because we know they'd stop at nothing to keep that school year as long as possible.

But it gets even weirder. Instead of the enthusiasm at the prospect of five bonus weeks of vacation, kids of all ages began to get upset. They realized that they could get behind. They saw five weeks as a lot of math problems, history lessons and spelling lessons that they wouldn't understand.

They wondered why people always talk about helping education but don't want to pony up the dough to actually do something about it. They saw education as an important tool. They didn't want the five extra weeks of vacation.

FLETCHER JACOBS

Obviously, these Portland kids are some sort of communists. The teachers threatened strikes and both parents and teachers led protests. Did the teachers know that five weeks meant more vacation time for them? What are they, trying to teach these kids or something?

So the teachers agreed to teach for 10 days for free and some city tax money was diverted for all the days to be back. All the days were restored and now those strange kids won't get their extra vacation and can learn.

But the story doesn't end. How many times are they going to scramble and find funds? There is already concern about how next year's school calendar is going to look. People and businesses still resist raising taxes.

Of course, several states face a similar budget crisis. Our own Sunflower State is in the middle of one right now. This crisis is why our university is cutting classes and leaving positions open. More and more K-12 schools are being consolidated or closed every day. If things get too bad, would Kansas have to shut down its own schools early?

President Bush made it clear this week that we can't just be throwing around money to help these states out. We have got some bigger fish to fry. The federal government needs to stimulate the economy by cutting taxes. What, would people rather help fund schools with this money? How is that going to improve stocks right now?

There is also some war thing going on. War, of course, costs a lot of money. Maybe $100 billion when we stay around for occupation. That is money that we can't afford to spend on some reading books for little Timmy.

President Bush once wondered, "Are our children learning?" I had my doubts about these little Portland commies since they didn't want extra vacation. But one little eighth grader quoted in the Portland Oregonian changed my mind.

When asked her thoughts on missing school, she worried that when she grew up she wouldn't be able to solve adult problems, like education, because she wouldn't be smart enough. I guess she could have that in common with the current generation of leaders.

Fletcher is a senior in geography and natural resources and environmental sciences. You can e-mail him at fj1961@ksu.edu.

Bush's war game with Iraq could ultimately be harmful

You never were elected. Half the public hates you. You've got activist groups breathing down your neck, getting in the way at every turn. The economy is going down the tubes, and all the while you're expected to live up to Daddy's expectations.

How do you get the pressure off of you? Pick a fight. Or at least that's how George W. Bush wants to solve things.

War with Iraq is seemingly inevitable, and all the while, the real threat in North Korea becomes an even larger wild card in the world game.

Saddam Hussein has been giving U.N. inspectors the runaround and most likely is hiding things, but he is not stupid. You don't gain and hold a dictatorship by being stupid. I mean, come on, put yourself in his shoes.

If your country is little more than sand, oil and starving people, would you really want to directly harm the biggest consumer of your No. 1 export?

That would put you in a bad spot, would it not? If the United States boycotted your oil, you'd be out quite a bit of food for your already sickly, starving people. It would make no sense to attack such a well-armed and influential country as the United States.

AIMEE NOEL

Also, should Iraq be out to attack us, Saddam would never be so foolish as to do so himself. He would most likely give money or weapons to some other country, political leader or militant group to attack the United States for him.

Enacting an attack on his own would blatantly point the finger at him, and President Bush would have a far more concrete reason, rather than the fact that he's getting impatient, to blow Iraq off the face of the map.

Saddam would have gotten rid of any weapons he had before the U.N. inspectors resumed their inspections. He wouldn't try to hide them with someone so adamant about being rid of him as President Bush is. It's just not an intelligent military choice.

Furthermore, Iraq really kind of does have a reason to be angry with us. I mean, are the United States and our allies to be the only countries allowed to have weapons to defend ourselves and all others bow before our might? While it might provide us with a sense of security, it's far from how things should be.

Concerning Iraq, U.S. policy should be more of a watchful eye than bristled for attack. By devoting so much time, money and attention to Iraq, we are potentially letting our guard down to North Korea, a far more dangerous and real threat. Nuclear weapons that could be aimed at, and actually strike U.S. territory, are a far more real threat than possible biological weapons that might be able to cause some damage somewhere at some time.

Also, have we forgotten our search for Osama bin Laden and remaining members of al-Qaeda? What about the Americans kidnapped and held in Colombia? There are many real threats that our President should be looking at more closely, rather than trying to finish the squabble his daddy started or save face with Americans.

War with Iraq would be a waste of our money, our time and, most importantly, our service-men's and women's lives. Wasting time, resources and getting people needlessly killed is a stupid and wrong decision for our president to make.

He's ignoring crucial details and making more of a fool of himself than usual for all the wrong reasons. He's going to make a mess of it all, and we'll be the ones that suffer for it.

Aimee is a sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine. You can e-mail her at aln5544@ksu.edu.

Game show contestants don't find love on dates

1st couple disqualified, 2nd couple opts for friendship after contest

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tracy O'Halloran knew the results from "Singled Out" could provide an interesting match — but she didn't expect to be dateless after having a group of men compete for her attention.

O'Halloran, senior in apparel design, was the contestant in Union Program Council's Valentine's Day version of the MTV dating show. The winners were awarded an all-expenses paid date.

But her date was ineligible. The winner, Marcus Perry, claimed he was a freshman at K-State. Samantha Musil, director of UPC's After Hours, said Perry failed to give an address on the evening of the competition, and it was later discovered Perry was not a K-State student.

"It was obvious he knew he was supposed to be a student," Musil said.

Musil said the rules of the event made it clear that all participants must be K-State students. After eliminating Perry, Musil contacted the top two runners-up, but neither were able to attend the date with O'Halloran.

O'Halloran was allowed to take a friend on the date,

Musil said, to reward her for her participation.

The other couple formed from "Singled Out" was able to go on the planned date, Musil said.

Matthew Painter, senior in criminology, went on a date with Komoss Creamer, graduate student in marriage and family therapy. The couple was picked up by a limousine and taken to dinner at Little Apple Brewing Co., and went to the K-State production of "Private Eyes."

Painter and Creamer agreed the date was fun, but neither expressed an interest in continuing a romantic relationship.

"He's a really nice guy," Creamer said, "but I think we're just going to continue as friends."

The highlight of the date, Painter said, was when Creamer convinced nearly half of the patrons and employees at the restaurant to sing "Happy Birthday" to Painter, despite his birthday being a few weeks away.

"He didn't think I'd do it," Creamer said. "We didn't get any free cake, but the meal was free. So it was a good deal."

Painter said he enjoyed the date, and that the game show fulfilled its purpose.

"The game accomplished its goals," he said. "It kept a lot of single students entertained on an evening that is usually reserved for couples."

Human resources celebrates cultural histories

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

To show off their cultures and educate their co-workers, members of the Division of Human Resources and Human Relations brought souvenirs and food to share at a celebration Friday.

Vera Springer, a member of the Culture Day Celebration committee, said she had asked everyone to bring something representing his or her nationality.

"We asked if they could bring in souvenirs for everyone to look at," she said.

People brought a variety of items, including coins, musical instruments, paintings, statues, clothing and dishes.

"I am curious about the people I work with. I thought this would be a wonderful way for us to get to know each other's backgrounds," she said.

Springer said she got the idea for a cultural celebration from her co-worker Robert Bailey.

Bailey, administrative specialist, said his church in Junction City has a yearly cultural celebration for its members.

"About 20 different nationalities are represented within the church," he said.

"We call the event Martin Luther King Day Celebration. We don't want it to be just a black holiday. We want to include everyone."

Bailey said he enjoys learning from cultural celebrations.

"I like trying all the different

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN
Kris Lundquist Mauck, assistant to the director of human resources, tells co-workers about her Swedish heritage at the Cultural Day Celebration on Friday afternoon.

foods and learning different things about different nationalities. And I get to learn the backgrounds of everyone I work with," he said.

Kristine Mauck, assistant to the director of human resources, said the event was an opportunity for people to be proud of their various heritages.

"To me, this shows how much pride everyone has in their background and in their culture," she said. "I know that is how I feel about my Swedish background."

Bailey said he wanted to do something different to represent his African heritage so he and Springer sang a song Bailey learned when he was a missionary.

The lyrics tell of how the people knew that God has never disappointed them through it all, Bailey said.

Alma Deutsch, training administrator, said she noticed similar foods on the menu.

"There are a lot of potatoes. About four countries are representing potatoes. It shows that way back then, potatoes were a staple. Everyone relied on potatoes," she said.

Deutsch said she thought the celebration was successful.

"It is exciting. I think this is gonna be an annual event," she said. "I think if we have this next year, more people will dress up."

We've got the stories you've got to read.

The 2003 Royal Purple yearbook is available for $34.95 in Kedzie 103. Stop by or call 532-6555.

University Speed Reading

Become an Honor Student and Still
Have Time to play

or work, sleep, visit loved ones, write and epic...

Attend a Free introductory Class

Mon. or Tue.

March 3 or 4

Kansas State Student Union, Rm 220

Mon. March 3, 10:10 12:10 1:10 3:30 4:30

Tue. March 4, 10:10 12:10 1:10 3:30 4:30 7:00

Free Classes are 45 minutes of Reading Training.

Bring Two Books, or use mine.

Taught by Dr. John Sawyer, Ph.D.

Pet Health ALERT

Have you had your dog tested for heartworms this year?

The Pet Health Center recommends annual testing of all dogs over 6 months of age

The Pet Health Center Heartworm Clinic will be
March 10-14

Call 532-5690 to make an appointment

Dogs must be at least 5 1/2 months old to be tested

The Pet Health Center at Kansas State University
Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital
Quality, compassionate care...for life

STUDENT TRAVEL web fares

and NOT just online

London.....$350
Paris.....$318
Amsterdam....$340
Madrid.....$359
Sydney.....$1614

Fare is roundtrip from Kansas City. Subject to change and availability. Tax not included. Restrictions and blackouts apply.

(800) 554.7547

www.statravel.com

STA TRAVEL

ONLINE  ON THE PHONE  ON CAMPUS  ON THE STREET

Criminology and Social Service Career Fair

March 5th

EVERYONE WELCOME!

Over 20 Federal, State and Local Employers
Kansas State University Student Union Ballroom
10am to 2pm

For more information, Call 785-532-4963
or Email nofzig@ksu.edu

world renowned presidential historian

Michael Beschloss book signing

1 P.M. to 2 P.M. Tuesday, March 6th

immediately following the Landon Lecture Lunch
outside the K-State Student Union Ballroom

Books are available for purchase at the K-State Student Union Bookstore, Varney's Bookstore, and also at the signing table.

best selling author

Books available for signing are
The Conquerors,
Reaching for Glory,
and Taking Charge.

Cats send 9 to nationals in club wrestling

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's wrestling club figured on competing well Saturday at the National Collegiate Wrestling Association Southwest Conference Championships.

K-State, which hosted the event, did exactly that — and then some.

All nine Wildcats who competed on Saturday placed in the top four in their respective weight classes. And four, Jacob Eisenbise (235), David Karnowski (285), Steven Kern (165), and Beau Tillman (133), won their respective weight classes.

K-State ran away with the 10-team tournament, amassing 133.5 points. The total topped second place University of Southern Colorado by 55 points.

Tillman said K-State's effort on Saturday was a little more than he expected.

"I was totally impressed with the team," he said. "I expected us to win, but it blew my mind how well everybody performed today. Everybody worked hard and looked good and sharp with technique. I felt good at my weight."

"We still need to get a little stronger and we still need to push and use the snowball effect to go into nationals feeling good, and this is kind of our stepping stone."

Tillman said K-State could finish 2003 ranked as one of the top teams in the NCWA when the Wildcats travel to Easton, Penn., on March 13-15 for the 2003 National Championships at Lafayette College.

"I think we could be up there within the top five," he said. "If we go up there and wrestle hard and wrestle tough like we did here, we've got a good shot of being one of the top-five teams in the country."

Eisenbise and 197-pound Marques Jackson will be making their third-straight trip to nationals.

Eisenbise said he believes K-State could do even better than the top five.

"It feels great to be going to nationals for the third time," he said. "I'm looking to hopefully make a run at the big show this year in the finals. The team is looking great. We are really solid this year."

"We pretty much blew everybody out in points today and we have a solid top-three team at Nationals this year. I think everybody's looking real good and I feel real good."

But if the Wildcats are going to place anywhere near the top in the NWCA National Championships, they have to prepare like a team that can.

That means practicing like one of the top teams in the nation.

Kern said K-State is a wrestling team that takes preparation seriously.

"We practice really well," Kern said. "We work hard with conditioning and being in top physical shape. We work a lot on takedowns and we wrestle live a lot, which takes all your energy."

Jackson said K-State will be ready to wrestle by the time the middle of March rolls around.

"We're stacked this year," he said. "We have quality people and we will be a team to be reckoned with at nationals."

Verizon Texas A&M 'Mo'Morial

K-State's Christine Boucher watches a drive during the Big 12 women's golf championship last April at Colbert Hills.

WEATHER ADVANTAGE

Chilly climate may benefit Cats

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Heading to Texas for a golf tournament, often-times the cold weather of Kansas is thought to have been left behind. But as the women's golf team heads to Houston, Texas, today for the Verizon Texas A&M 'Mo'morial, cold weather is not out of the question.

Classes were cancelled last week at Texas A&M due to snow, something that doesn't happen too often in Texas.

Coach Kristi Knight said K-State might have a small advantage having practiced in poor weather, but she said there are more factors to winning a tournament than the weather.

"We're maybe more used to it," she said. "College golf is never a dull moment with traveling and weather. Maybe we have an advantage over some of the Texas schools, but we all travel and it doesn't really matter what school you are, if you're around college golf long enough, you're going to be exposed to some bad conditions."

K-State returned from a third place finish in Florida last week and was forced to practice inside all week because of snow in Manhattan.

"It would have been worse had we not just come back from a tournament," Knight said. "I was more concerned had we not had that experience. It's really nothing new to us. It usually happens once a spring season that we go to a tournament having not been outside for a few days."

"We haven't talked about it and the players haven't complained about it because it's out of our control," she said. "Most of the teams in the Christine Boucher puts on the back nine during the Big 12 Women's Golf Championship. She shot a 37 on the back nine, with 76 strokes for all 18 holes.

File photo by Karen Mikols
COLLEGIAN

field are going through the same thing. There's a handful of teams that have had good weather. When I look at the field, I'm not sure that any of them are having any better weather than we are

See GOLF Page 10

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College basketball | Texas upsets Tech
Jamie Carey scored five points in the last 30 seconds to lead No. 10 Texas to a 70-67 victory over No. 7 Texas Tech on Sunday. Carey finished with 17 points and Nina Norman scored 16 for Texas, which led by as many as 12 points in the second half, but had to hold on to win.

K-State, which plays at Texas Tech on Thursday, can lock up the conference's regular season title with a win over the Lady Raiders. If the Cats lose, the Longhorns will take over the No. 1 seed in the tournament.

With the loss, the Lady Raiders have secured the No. 3 seed in the Big 12 Tournament.

Track and field | Pole vault record falls
Stacy Dragila broke the world indoor record in the pole vault Sunday by clearing 15 feet, 8 1/4 inches at the U.S. Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Dragila had won the title at 14-5. She then cleared 15-1 before going for the record of 15-7 3/4.

Dragila missed on her first attempt, grazed the bar on her second, but she popped off the mats, saw that it hadn't fallen, and raised a fist in triumph.

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
No. 5 K-STATE 67, COLORADO 59

K-STATE (27-2, 14-1)
Mahoney 10-25 4-6 23, Ohlde 5-12 7-9 17, Wecker 5-15 2-2 13, Koehn 3-8 2-2 11, Domenico 1-7 0-0 3.

COLORADO (20-6, 10-5)
Bjorklund 10-25 4-6 24, Scott 5-11 2-2 14, Lappe 4-8 0-0 8, Wirt 2-7 3-4 7, Johns-Richardson 1-8 0-0 3, Billingsley 0-3 2-4 2, Metoyer 0-2 1-2 1.

K-STATE 23 44 — 67
COLORADO 22 37 — 59

3-point goals — K-State 8-22 (Mahoney 4-4, Koehn 3-6, Wecker 1-4, Domenico 1-7, Dutmer 0-1), Colorado 3-19 (Scott 2-5, Johns-Richardson 1-5, Billingsley 0-1, Lappe 0-2, Fagan 0-6). Fouled out — K-State (Domenico), Colorado (Wirt). Rebounds — K-State 53 (Ohlde 17), Colorado 34 (Bjorklund, Wirt 7). Assists — K-State 10 (Wecker 6), Colorado 12 (Lappe 3). Total fouls — K-State 19, Colorado 17. Technical — none. Attendance — 6,728.

MEN'S BASKETBALL
MISSOURI 77, K-STATE 70

K-STATE (12-15, 3-11)
DeJesus 5-9 3-17, Seibrandt 7-8 2-4 16, Richards 6-10 1-2 13, Pasco 2-6 1-1 10, Hart 1-5 2-2 4, Ellis 1-7 2-2 4, Thomas 1-1 0-0 3, Buchanan 1-2 0-0 2, Hayden 0-2 1-2 1.

MISSOURI (18-7, 9-5)
Paulding 8-13 4-4 23, Clemens 4-14 7-17, McKinney 5-8 1-1 12, Bryant 4-7 1-2 10, Johnson 3-9 1-2 7, Kroeke 1-1 2-2 5, Young 1-1 0-0 2, Ferguson 0-1 1-2 1.

K-STATE 37 33 — 70
MISSOURI 37 40 — 77

3-point goals — K-State 5-11 (DeJesus 4-6, Thomas 1-1, Richards 0-1, Ellis 0-3), Missouri 8-20 (Paulding 3-6, Clemens 2-10, Bryant 1-1, Kroeke 1-1, McKinney 1-2). Fouled out — K-State (DeJesus), Missouri (None). Rebounds — K-State 33 (Hart 7), Missouri 28 (Johnson, Bryant 7). Assists — K-State 15 (Hart 4), Missouri 14 (McKinney 7). Total fouls — K-State 15, Missouri 21. Technical — none. Attendance — 12,409.

BASEBALL
WIREGRASS CLASSIC
K-STATE 4, NORTHWESTERN 3

NORTHWESTERN 110 000 001 — 3 9 2
K-STATE 100 000 021 — 4 11 2
W — Rollins (2-0), L — Mikrut (0-1). Attendance — 172.

TROY STATE 8, K-STATE 7

K-STATE 101 001 004 — 7 12 6
TROY STATE 002 000 010 5 — 8 19 3
W — Atkins (3-1), L — Bauer (0-1). Attendance — 273.

K-STATE 10, TEMPLE 6

K-STATE 000 101 220 4 — 10 13 1
TEMPLE 010 002 030 0 — 6 6 1
W — Rollins (1-0), L — Foulkrod (0-1). Attendance — 285.

WOMEN'S TENNIS
No. 59 K-STATE 5, TEXAS TECH 2

SINGLES
1. Sedlmajerova, KSU def. Tereshchenko, TTU 6-3, 6-1
2. Rosenberg, KSU def. Dawson, TTU 6-0, 6-3
3. Simosa, KSU def. Browning, TTU 4-6, 6-0, 6-1
4. Castillejos, KSU def. Brooks, TTU 3-6, 6-4, 6-3
5. McIver, KSU def. Kovacic, TTU 6-4, 6-2
6. Schraml, TTU def. Alkhatib, KSU 6-1, 6-0

DOUBLES
1. Dawson/Tereshchenko, TTU def. Simosa/McIver, KSU 8-2
2. Brooks/Browning, TTU def. Sedlmajerova/Castillejos, KSU 8-3
3. Kovacic/Schraml, TTU def. Rosenberg/Alkhatib, KSU 9-7

Cats play marathon baseball at Wiregrass Classic

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The itinerary for K-State's weekend trip to Dothan, Ala., included three games and a flight home.

It's a good thing the schedule didn't include much sight-seeing time, because the Cats spent most of theirs on the diamond or in bed.

"We played a 10-inning game, an 18-inning game, got three and a half hours of sleep and then played a 1-run game at 10 o'clock in the morning," Coach Mike Clark said Sunday on his way to the airport after K-State's 4-3 win over Northwestern wrapped up a 2-1 showing at the Wiregrass Classic.

"We've been tested pretty good as far as keeping our emotions, trying to stay positive and work through some situations we've put ourselves in," he said. "Hopefully, it's a good learning experience."

The situation the Wildcats were in Saturday night was one no K-State team had ever faced.

Five hours and 22 minutes elapsed before the longest game in Wildcat history — an 8-7 loss to Troy State after 18 innings that almost drained Clark's squad — was in the books.

"It was a late night," third baseman Ty Soto said.

K-State's first contest had its share of drama too.

On Friday, the Cats were locked in a 6-all tie with Temple at the end of nine innings.

Then the K-State offense growled back. Terry Blunt reached base after being hit by a pitch to start the 10th. After a walk to Brandon Taylor pushed Blunt to second, a sacrifice fly to center field preceded Ryan Baldwin's two-run double and Brett Williams' sacrifice fly to center field to give the Cats a 10-6 cushion.

"I like getting in clutch situations," Baldwin said. "I just take advantage of it."

Baldwin had four RBI for the tournament to push his team-leading tally to 16 and Soto pushed his hitting streak to 16 games to lead the K-State offense, while Eric Rollins picked up both Wildcat wins out of the pen in a weekend full of great K-State pitching.

"We just went through 37 innings of baseball, and for 36 of them, we pitched pretty well," Clark said.

In fact, two Wildcat newcomers — Brett Bagley and Jim Ripley — logged 100-pitch games against Troy State, and nine pitchers saw action from the mound.

The one inning Clark was referring to was the eighth frame of Friday's tilt with the Owls.

Down three runs, Temple rallied back against Wildcat reliever Ryan Ashley to tie the

See CLASSIC Page 10

Jones-Ruiz well worth $50

Usually when I drop 50 bucks at the click of a button, it's to pay some awful bill.

Not Saturday night, though. I chucked out $49.95 to to watch the Pay-Per-View Roy Jones Jr.-John Ruiz fight, and it was well worth it.

My generation has lacked anything close to a good boxer. My parents' generation got legends Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier. I get fat slobbs like Butterbean and nut-jobs like Mike Tyson, who apparently has been fighting with a broken back — quite an amazing feat.

But Saturday night I, along with all the others who spent their hard-earned 50 bones, saw the best fighter of our generation. No, not Heavyweight Champion Lennox Lewis or Tyson, but Roy Jones Jr.

Jones has only one loss on his professional record, a cheap disqualification loss because the referee forgot to do his job and step between fighters soon enough. He has been criticized for the guys he fights, but he just keeps winning.

On Saturday, he dominated not a guy just a little heavier than him, but 33 pounds heavier than him. People said Jones would run from Ruiz, and he would try and make the big guy tired. He shut those people up, going toe-to-toe with Ruiz,

TOM FONTANA

See BOXING Page 10

Wildcat weekend wrapup

Men's basketball | Missouri beat K-State 77-70 on Saturday to drop the Wildcats to 13-14 overall and 3-11 in Big 12 play. The Cats went up five behind a 10-0 run in the second half, but Paulding's big night coupled with Ricky Clemens' clutch 3-pointers late put K-State away. Clemens' first 3-ball gave MU a 60-59 lead, and his second put the Tigers up 65-62. The Cats would never lead again.

Women's basketball | K-State beat Colorado 67-59 on Saturday to improve to 27-2 overall and 14-1 in the Big 12. Megan Mahoney's fourth-straight double-double was too much, but things were up in the air until Laurie Koehn drained two 3-balls and Mahoney added another from long range to widen K-State's gap to 42-33. The Cats have a shot at the Big 12 regular season title Thursday against Texas Tech in Lubbock, Texas.

Tennis | K-State lost the doubles point and the first set in two of the first four singles matches against Texas Tech, but the Cats won both those matches and took the other two singles matches as well to improve to 5-1 overall and 1-0 in the Big 12.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN
Gilson DeJesus takes a charge against Missouri's Rickey Paulding in the first half of K-State's 70-77 loss Saturday afternoon. DeJesus fouled out of the game with 17 points in 35 minutes of action.

Track and field | Amy Mortimer, Joseph Lee, Erik Sproll and Kyle Lancaster each earned individual championships for Kansas State Saturday as the Wildcat men and women finished third in the team standings at the Big 12 Conference Indoor Track and Field Championships hosted before 3,677 at Nebraska's Devaney Center.

FAITH AND SCIENCE OFTEN CLASH

Evolution, religion controversy remains up to individual

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Is there a greater being watching over us? Some people want hard evidence to prove that God exists, but evidence that God is present is all around us, said Manhattan Baptist Church Pastor Dennis Ulrey.

"I know I believe in God because he has made a difference in my life," Ulrey said. "Others believe because during times of unsettling, we look for answers."

"Like now, crime is going up and the stock market is going down, and we have Iraq and North Korea to deal with. People are searching for something. They look for help in bad times."

Some people look at the evil in the world and will lose their faith in God, Ulrey said. Even though we are having bad times, that shouldn't deter their faith.

"Even though God doesn't create evil deeds, things like 9/11 could be a wake-up call for America," Ulrey said. "America has been on the decline spiritually, and I'm sure that he might be testing us."

"Some people's faith can be strengthened from tragedies like that. Others, I'm sure, might have lost their faith by taking their eyes off of God's goodness and who he is."

Some people see scientists as opposing religious beliefs, but that's not true, Martin Ottenheimer, professor in anthropology, said. With debates over creation and evolution, arguments can occur in the scientific world, he said.

"There are anthropologists who believe in evolution and Christians who believe in creation," Ottenheimer said. "But the beliefs aren't exclusive. There are some in both groups who believe in both and then there are extremists. Both theories are possible, but maybe neither are [true]."

Evolution isn't the only scientific theory that conflicts with the Bible. Some scientists believe the earth to be billions of years old and some Christians believe it to be created by God, he said. Figuring out how and when the earth was created is another debatable topic, Ottenheimer said.

"Both are interesting stories, and both have evidence," Ottenheimer said. "But, both are myth, in an anthropological sense, because which one is really true?"

"The biggest problem is that people get so committed to their belief that they are willing to believe their theory is the only correct theory, and they are willing to die for it."

There has also been philosophical debates over the existence of God, Stephen Glaister, professor of philosophy, said. There are two main philosophical theories on the existence of God, he said.

"One theory is that people look around and see that the world seems a little too perfect," Glaister said. "They see how things work a little too well together. Some people believe that there is a good designer, God, who created everything."

"Another theory is that people see how awful the world can be. They see the diseases and birth defects. They see that the world can be nasty, and some believe God to be something feared."

Ulrey said that no matter what story you think is right, it all comes down to faith when it comes to believing in God. He said he thinks the existence of God to be similar to Iraq's existence of weapons of mass destruction.

"Colin Powell tells us that they have satellite photos and all of this evidence that there are weapons there. Others need more proof than that. Some people want Hans Blix to come across some nuclear weapon in a warehouse somewhere," Ulrey said.

"I think it's similar with faith. People see the evidence, but they need a note that says: 'I created the world, signed God.' But, we don't really have that luxury."

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Lance Bass to judge 'Most Talented Kid in America' reality series

Think you're a talented youngster? Lance Bass will be the judge of that.

Pop singer Bass of 'N Sync will serve as lead judge for NBC's four-episode reality series "The Search for the Most Talented Kid in America," debuting March 21.

Bass will be joined each week by two guest judges whose names are to be announced later, the network said this week. Mario Lopez ("The Other Half") is the host.

Sam Donaldson staying put at ABC after talking with MSNBC about prime-time show

Sam Donaldson is staying put. The veteran ABC newsmen was in talks with MSNBC about a prime-time talk show, but those negotiations have ended without a deal, network representatives said Friday.

Struggling MSNBC still has its eyes open for a new prime-time host, following this week's firing of Phil Donahue.

Globetrotting dating show delayed by threat of war with Iraq

Global tensions have put the brakes on a dating show planned by NBC.

"Around the World in 80 Dates," which would send a man out to look for love in foreign countries, is on hold because of the threat of war with Iraq. Production was to have started in two weeks.

Gaspin wouldn't say which countries the show had planned to visit but said there were no plans "to pass through Iraqi airspace or probably anywhere within 1,000 miles of Iraq."

Rare items from Vatican make first U.S. stop in Houston

Hundreds of priceless items from 2,000 years of the Roman Catholic papacy, many of them stored in Vatican collections, go on display this weekend for the first time in the United States.

The exhibition, titled "St. Peter and the Vatican: The Legacy of the Popes," makes its debut Sunday at the Houston Museum of Natural Science and will be up until July 27.

CHARTS

Billboard Hot 100

Top 10

1. "In Da Club," 50 Cent
2. "All I Have," Jennifer Lopez Featuring LL Cool J
3. "Mesmerize," Ja Rule Featuring Ashanti
4. "Miss You," Aaliyah
5. "Cry Me A River," Justin Timberlake
6. "Bump, Bump, Bump," B2K & P. Diddy
7. "Landslide," Dixie Chicks
8. "Gossip Folks," Missy "Misdemeanor" Elliott Featuring Ludacris
9. "I'm With You," Avril Lavigne
10. "Beautiful," Christina Aguilera

Billboard 200 Top Albums

Top 10

1. "Chocolate Factory," R. Kelly
2. "Get Rich Or Die Tryin'," 50 Cent
3. "Come Away With Me," Norah Jones
4. "Home," Dixie Chicks
5. "Cocky," Kid Rock
6. "Cradle 2 The Grave," Soundtrack
7. "Let Go," Avril Lavigne
8. "Chicago," Soundtrack
9. "Daredevil: The Album," Soundtrack
10. "Grammy Nominees 2003," Various Artists

Illustration by Stefanie Shank | COLLEGIAN

Greek comedy uses sex as symbol for war protest

By Katie Lane
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Is a sex strike to stop war a feasible option? It is in the Greek comedy, "Lysistrata."

The play tells the story of a group of women who refuse to have sex with their husbands until they put an end to the war they are fighting.

The play, which is over 2000 years old, is another way to speak out against the war, said Marci Mauller, associate professor of speech communication, theatre and dance.

"I'm a member of the Manhattan Alliance for Peace and Justice, and we've been doing everything we can to show the public that we don't believe in this war at this time," Mauller said.

K-State is one of more than 800 groups around the country who will be reading the play today. March 3 was declared the day for artists to protest war through the play, said Charlotte Macfarland, associate professor of speech communication, theatre and dance.

A small group of faculty members got together and decided to bring "Lysistrata" to campus, she said.

"We're joining in. It's just a group of faculty who are against the war," Macfarland said.

"We wanted K-State to be a part of this movement."

The actors have only read through the play one time as a group. This particular play isn't considered a performance, but can be viewed as a reading, Macfarland said.

"It's not a performance," she said. "It's very loose. Our purpose is not to do a carefully rehearsed play, but simply a reading of it."

The MAPJ and the Commission on Non-violence will be handing out anti-war literature before the reading. There will also be a discussion afterward, if the audience wants to stay, Mauller said.

"It's another way to connect with other people," Mauller said. "It's a place to meet people who have thought about where they stand on war."

Don Hedrick, English professor,

See the show

- When: 7 tonight
- Where: Nichols Theatre
- Cost: Free (reading intended for mature audiences only) said the reading of the play will encourage people to start thinking about the possible war with Iraq.

"Most of all, people should be thinking about whether we should be going to war," Hedrick said. "Men making war to save face and men controlling power and money - this was a protest against war 2000 years ago."

"Whichever side they are on, it will get people thinking."

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

TV | Journalism majors learn about planning ahead, working together to create community issues news show

Continued from Page 1

can work on tweaking the show for next week."

Landholm said she had to watch what was going on during the filming.

"We had to keep in touch with the anchors to see if they wanted to change anything. Before the show, we let them know about the rundown to see if we needed to add anything," she said.

Landholm said she is still surprised by how many people it takes to produce a show. Students in a video techniques course make up the crew of the TV show. Students in a practicum course provide some of the video tape reports and talent.

"The average person doesn't realize that about 20 people are involved before the show was even recorded," she said. "Then there's another 20 people behind the scenes. I don't think people really understand the preparation that's involved. They underestimate the pre-production."

After the show is filmed, an ECC staff member will digitize the show onto a server, Landholm said.

"Channel 8 will kick over to the server at 8:30 p.m. They will cut out of the research channel to air our show," she said.

The episode was filmed in one run. Landholm said they will probably air the show as it was filmed, leaving the few small mistakes.

"We probably won't cut anything out or edit unless people start saying four-letter words," she said.

Ben Hodge, co-anchor and senior in electronic journalism, said he does not mind his mistakes being aired.

"It made me feel better that everyone knows that it is a student-produced show, so no one expects national, CBS news quality," he said. "We will improve as the show goes on."

Lori Bergen, associate professor in journalism and mass communications, said she is confident of the show's potential.

"The promise is certainly there. The first one went great, and I think we can count on subsequent programs to be even stronger," she said. "As we develop the program, this will become a service to Manhattan and K-State."

The Manhattan community might see itself in a different way after getting television coverage, Bergen said.

"While that might sound arrogant, what matters here matters whether the program is here or not. There is a validation for news," she said.

Bergen said she would be delighted to hear from people with story ideas and suggestions.

"We would like people to help in finding guests with stories to tell that have not been told somewhere else," she said.

"We are incorporating activities that happen within the community into our broadcast."

Hodge said he, too, feels that the program will be very beneficial to the university and the community.

"Right now, we have the opportunity to take some really good stories, and I hope we take advantage of it," he said. "I hope we really challenge ourselves with some very important and in-depth coverage."

The addition of a TV show completes the school of journalism, Hodge said.

"We have excellent print and radio departments, but we really haven't had TV," he said. "Previously, people had to get all their training through internships."

Internships are still important, Hodge said, but students now can get training while still in school.

"This makes K-State a much more competitive journalism school," he said. "This will be good material for me to put on my résumé tape."

Mahalakshmi Ganapathy, graduate student in journalism, said she agrees that the show is a good addition to a résumé.

"Everyone is getting hands-on experience. Everyone will become a master in what they do," she said. "Someone in audio, for example, will be sure of the job when they graduate."

Ganapathy said she did some of the camera work for the show. She said this is especially exciting for her because she is not from the United States.

"I am thrilled that my creation is going to be on American television," she said. "I am glad to be part of the team. We worked very well together. We were very organized for the first show."

DEBATES | Candidates hope to introduce initiatives, implement open-door policy to reach out to student body

Continued from Page 1

Stryker also want to make themselves available to students by implementing an open door policy.

Quackenbush said PULSE, one of four initiatives she and Osborn are proposing, would provide a voice for all students on campus. PULSE, Quackenbush said, would provide a link between the Kansas Legislature and the student body, allowing legislators to see how the budget cuts affects individuals rather than simply seeing statistics.

In addition, Quackenbush said PULSE and the pair's other issues are viable possibilities to be implemented during next year's term.

"We are presenting students with initiatives that will not cost a dime," Quackenbush said.

The wait list and problems with advising are some important issues facing the university, O'Hara said. He said the administration wasn't aware of some of the problems with the wait-list system, which O'Hara attributed to a lack of communication between students and administration. O'Hara and Stryker are focusing on the wait list as part of their platform.

Quackenbush, however, said the university has many talented faculty and advisers. She said the wait-list system is being addressed by Student Senate, and a new system is expected. She said students should take responsibility to talk to other students and professors rather than relying entirely on their advisers.

O'Hara and Quackenbush disagreed on how soon the new wait-list program is expected. O'Hara said it would take four years, but Quackenbush said the system should be in place within two years.

Quackenbush and O'Hara said they agreed on the smoking policy, both saying designated smoking areas would be the best possibility, pending feedback from the plebiscite vote Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both candidates agreed they would explore other options if the campuswide vote showed strong interest in another possibility.

Wells asked if the candidates would consider ideas proposed by candidates who were defeated in the primary election. Both candidates said they would explore the option of an online book exchange, but they had not done enough research to make any promises during the campaign.

Quackenbush said SafeRide could become important to all students, and she and Osborn want to ensure it is meeting the needs of students.

O'Hara said the SafeRide program, which would provide taxi-cab service for students from Aggieville, is an important part of his platform. He said he and Stryker are committed to implementing the program.

The debate concluded with each ticket reiterating its respective platform.

O'Hara and Quackenbush said it is important for students to vote during elections Tuesday and Wednesday. All voting is done online at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu Tuesday and Wednesday.

UPC multicultural committee presents...

festival of nations

Experience Vietnamese Culture
Free food, entertainment and more!
March 3rd | Union Courtyard | Noon-1

UPC

LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.

WIN FREE DARRELL HAMMOND TICKETS!

To be eligible to win you and one other person must attend UPC's meeting this Tuesday, March 4th. Meeting will take place at 5:00p.m. in Union Station. See you there! If you would like more information, please call 532-6571.

HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

AS SEEN ON SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE

DARRELL HAMMOND

$10.50 Students
$15.50 Public

8:00pm April 14, 2003
McCain Auditorium

Tickets available at the McCain Box Office
• Call 532-6428 • www.ksu.edu/mccain

TICKETS ON SALE NOW

UPC

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM
1119 Laramie #4 W 5p-8p Sat/Sun 1p-3p *Starting at $475	926 Bluemont #9 W & Th 3:30p-6:30p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $560	1524 McCain #2 M & Th 3p-6p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $565
411 N 17th #4 M 3p-6p Th 4p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $400	1856 Anderson Ave #18 M 4p-6p T & Th 5p-7p Sun 3p-5p *Starting at $540	700 Fremont By Appointment Only *Starting at $490
1722 Laramie By Appointment Only *Starting at $415	1026 Osage By Appointment Only *Starting at $520	2514 Stagg Hill Rd By Appointment Only *Starting at $570
1005 Bluemont By Appointment Only *Starting at $420	1113 Bertrand #9 M & W 3p-6p T & Th 12p-3p *Starting at $580	LEASED
1700 N Manhattan By Appointment Only *Starting at $430	1005 Bluemont #7 M, T, & Th 3p-5p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $525
1941 College Heights #9 W & Th 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $375	1001 Bluemont #1 M & Th 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $700	1611 Laramie #6 M 1p-4p Th 3p-6p Sun 2p-5p *Starting at $765
1803 College Heights #7 T & W 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $425	1115 N 12th St By Appointment Only *Starting at $625	2521 Candlecrest Cr M, W, & Th 3p-6p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $940
1858 Claflin #15 M, W, & Th 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $410	1419 Leavenworth #1 T & Th 2p-5p Sun 2p-4p *Starting at $585	1700 N Manhattan #305 M, W, & F 1p-4p Sat 1p-4p *Starting at $780
418 Poyntz Ave By Appointment Only *Prices vary		1620 McCain #15 T & Th 3:30p-6p Sat 2p-5p *Starting at $925
700 Fremont By Appointment Only *Starting at $400
210 N 4th St #306 Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p *Starting at $510

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

CLASSIFIEDS

Monday, March 3, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO next to campus. $330/month plus deposit, no pets. June and August leases. (785)456-2812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

1628 FAIRVIEW open house, Sunday March 2nd, 2:30-3:30pm. Quiet, two blocks from campus, garage. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. Studio, $375 including water, trash. August 1. One-bedroom, $395 including water, trash. June 1. One-bedroom with private deck, $435 including water, trash, August 1. (785)537-7431.

514 N. 9th Open House, Sunday March 2nd, 12-1pm. Two-bedroom 100% Remodeled. $480 including water and trash, June 1. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. (785)537-7431.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio one, two, three, and four-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722

AUGUST, TWO-BEDROOM apartments, central air, dishwasher, disposal, $18 Osage. See daily 5:30, 1026 Bluemont see at 5p.m.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Clafin.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 1230 Clafin, across street from Ford Hall. 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Starting $550. Also, nice one-bedroom apartment. Heat, water, trash, two-thirds paid. Laundry mat. $360/ month. Nice large two-bedroom apartment, heat, water, trash, three-fourths paid, laundry mat. $480. (785)539-2482.

FOUR-BEDROOM LARGE luxury apartment across street from west campus with two bathrooms. Like new. No pets. No smokers. $1200. (785)776-6318.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, and six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment for rent 1215 Ponty. Water and trash paid. No pets. June lease. (785)313-4812.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus, $405/ month plus deposit, no pets, 1225 Clafin. (785)456-2812.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOM TWO bath house, 500 block of Bluemont, available August 1, no pets, $900 plus utilities, laundry included. (785)776-9573, leave message.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

TWO, THREE, four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2307 ANDERSON, six-bedroom house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/ dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

820 Osage June 1, four-bedroom/ two bathrooms, washer/ dryer, central air, see at 5:15p.m.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, hard wood floors, washer/ dryer hookups, no pets. June lease. 1310 N. 10th. $1150. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

GREAT HOMES in great campus locations. Homes available June 1, 2003. 2709 College View- lot's of living space! Four bed/ two bath. Phone and cable jacks in every room. $1200 monthly. 926 Clafin- brand new interior! Four bed/ two bath. Open floor plan. Really close to campus. $1300 monthly. 314 S. 17th St. Very unique! Four bed/ two bath. $1200 monthly. Call Spirit Properties today. (785)587-0183.

THREE-BEDROOM BRICK house all new paint with neutral carpet. Central air, washer/ dryer hook-ups. No pets. June lease. $300 bedroom. 1517 Pipher. Call (785)313-4812 for appointment.

HOMES AVAILABLE August 1, 2003. 1510 Leavenworth- Absolutely charming four bed/ two bath home. Beautiful hardwood floors! $300 monthly per bedroom. 1000 Thurston A-Light and airy! Three bed/ two bath. Great location! $300 monthly. Call Spirit Properties today (785)587-0183.

NEAR CAMPUS. Three, six, and eight-bedroom houses. All appliances, central air. Attentive landlord. June and August leases. No pets. (785)539-0549.

REASONABLE RENT, neutral colors and tons of space for only $275 a bedroom. This five-bedroom duplex has dishwasher, washer/ dryer, central air with off street parking and 2400 square feet. 713 Moro no pets. June lease. Call (785)313-4812 for appointment.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

THREE-BEDROOM NICE house with large rooms. West of campus. Garage and laundry room. No smoking. No pets. Available August. (785)776-6318.

TWO-BEDROOM AUGUST lease. Close to campus. (785)539-2857.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house, $350/ month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)648-7253.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

ROYAL TOWERS
4 Bedroom
APARTMENTS
• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-
WEST of KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, central air, two bathrooms with showers. (785)776-3114.

THREE-BEDROOM. No pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-
MENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1. $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM NEAR campus. Air-conditioning, washer/ dryer. $500/ month. August 1st. (785)537-8055.

TWO-BEDROOM. No pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, WASH-
ER/ dryer hook-up, off-street parking. June / August lease. 1616 pierre $620/ month. (785)539-2347.

115
Rooms
Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke free, pets considered. $275/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1. Five-bedroom, two baths, 1415 LeGore Lane, year lease. $280 per bedroom, washer/ dryer hook-up, central air, (785)776-7202.

FOUR AND five-bedroom houses, two bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry hook-ups. No pets. June-August lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)556-5668.

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bathroom. Central air. Laundry hook-ups, no pets. August lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)336-2685.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry. Available June 1. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO CHARMING homes available. 2505 Winnie, $900, three-bedroom, immaculate condition. 815 Kearny, three-four bedroom charming bungalow, $850. Available June 1. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706, evenings.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE and one-bedroom basement apartment for rent. No pets. Open house Sunday March 9, 1-3pm. 1112 Thurston. (913)829-0985.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Valtier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-
ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Valtier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

Trying to sell your car?
Try the Collegian Classifieds
532-6555

Back pain? Neck pain? Headaches?
WE CAN HELP!!
Call 537-8305 today!
Chiropractic Family Health Center
Dr. Mark J. Hatesohl conveniently located next to Blockbuster Video 120

For Rent-
Houses

Discover Brittney Ridge
TOWNHOMES
• 4 Bedrooms
w/ study
• 2 1/2 Baths
• Washer/ Dryer in each unit
• Sand Volleyball Court
• 1440 sq. ft.
www.mdi-manhattan.com

Starting at $940
776-3804
Model Showings
2521 Candlercrest
M, W, Th 3-6
Sat 12-3
McCullough Development

NEWER DUPLEXES four-bedroom, two bath with washer and dryer. No pets. $1100. Call (785)539-2356 or (785)776-6083.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Rick (816)985-3114.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-
ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

VERY NICE, one and two-bedrooms close to campus. Available June 1st. (785)539-9582 leave message.

130
For Rent-
Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

AFFORDABLE TWO-BED-
ROOM, one bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES east of KSU, country setting, three-bedroom, two bath. 1997 mobile home on two city lots. Chain link fence $38,000. Kaw Valley Realty (785)456-2061.

145
Roommate
Wanted

CLOSE TO Aggieville, off-street parking, washer/ dryer, no smoking or pets. $180/ month plus utilities. Available immediately. (785)313-6084.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. One block to campus. $250, utilities paid. Available now. Call (785)537-4947.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed for August 1 lease. All appliances provided. $250/ month, one-fourth utilities. Call Mandy or Jenny (785)323-1480.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer with pool. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ONE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Next to Aggieville, one block from campus. June or August lease, $235/ month plus one-third bills. Leave message. (785)770-9515.

ONE TO two-bedrooms immediately available. Brittany Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUBLEASER NEEDED available April 1. Rent $250/ month plus one-third utilities, two blocks from campus. (785)539-8955, ask for Lacey.

TWO-BEDROOM, WATER/ trash paid. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. Smoking, no pets, $550/ month. Contact, (785)537-4114.

200 service directory

300 employment/opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

AD SALES, PR, Distribution. Part-time internship. Well-paid, flexible hours. E-mail resume/ GPA to usal@bendnet.com with "intern" in subject line.

BABYSITTER NEEDED for two year old in my house on weekends during the day. Must have references. Pay discussed upon interview. Please call (785)313-2147.

BARTENDER POSITION Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext 1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext 548.

BE A summer camp counselor/ educator in Kansas. Wildwood Outdoor Education Center 45 minutes south of Kansas City seeks qualified counselors to lead educational and recreational activities. June-August. Salary DOE plus room and board. All are welcome to apply. WSI and male staff strongly needed. (913)757-4500 or wildwood@people.stelecom.net

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajo.com

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

310
Help Wanted

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000- $5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)566-9355 Manhattan for information.

DIRECTOR OF youth ministry, full-time. Must have love for Christ and young people; preferably trained or experienced in youth and family ministry; strong leadership, administrative, and teaching skills. Able to work cooperatively. To apply, contact First Lutheran Church, 930 Poyntz, Manhattan, KS (785)537-8532.

DISABLED WAMEGO male seeks home health aide for the position of personal assistant. Day, weekend, and overnight shifts available. $7.25/ hour or $25.00/ nights. Serious applicants only. Please call Pastor Dave at (785)537-8532, (785)313-5465 or (785)537-1892.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com

HELP WANTED; earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. INFO 1-985-646-1700 DEPT. KS-6438.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day! (888)820-0164 extension 1016.

OFFICE ASSISTANT, Part-time/ full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. 3.0 GPA. Ability to self-direct and multi-task necessary. Outgoing personality and excellent people skills desired. Training will be provided with possible advancement opportunities. Team-oriented and fun atmosphere. Business or marketing/ sales experience preferred. Send resume to: Westchester Park, 2100 Westchester Drive, Manhattan, KS 66503. No phone calls please.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply online: www.campcedar.com

WANTED FEMALE dancers to dance Wednesday- Saturday, 8p.m.- 2a.m. Old West Chuckwagon in Hayes, KS. (785)628-1113, (785)628-8844.

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED: COWBOYS. Cowgirls and couples to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Visit our website at www.sombrero.com or write to us at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301.

WANTED: LOOKING for two young men to work with our custom harvesting operation. New equipment, great pay, great benefits, and will travel six states in the Midwest. Summer only or for six months. We will train. Starts last half May. Duane Keller (785)726-3555 or duankell@gbta.net

WELL ESTABLISHED local nursery and Garden center seeking qualified person to manage receivables, payables, payroll, and financial reporting. Communication skills necessary with proficiency in Microsoft Office applications. Salary commensurate with experience and ability. Major medical, paid leave, 401(k). Work hours Monday through Friday 8:00-5:00. Respond to (785)776-0397.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajo.com

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

MODEL 9204, 40 MHz Dual Trace Oscilloscope, Beckman Industrial, and FG-8002, Function Generator, LB Precision Company. Have manuals to both. Contact at (785)776-2022 or leave message.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1994 FORD F 150 4x4 with topover. Great condition, no rust, no air-condition. 133,000 miles. $5000 or best offer. Call (785)564-1872.

1998 CHEVROLET Z71 Pick-up. Extended cab. Good shape. (785)323-1414.

530
Motorcycles

2002 HONDA CBR954RR, black/ silver and 1987 Honda XL600R 4400 miles (785)587-8225.

WANTED
DEAD OR ALIVE

MOTORCYCLES
1964-2000
ALL CONSIDERED

785-564-2423
ANY TIME

600 travel/trips

610
Tour Package

[illegible]

Tuesday, March 4, 2003

IN MEMORY

Nichole Barker, the roommate of Melissa Bachman, who died from an arteriovenous malformation on Feb. 20, is consoled by Ray Bachman, Bachman's uncle, at a memorial held for friends and family on Monday night at All Faiths Chapel.

Photos by Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Mourners remember student

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sobs filled All Faiths Chapel on Monday night as friends and family gathered to remember the life of K-State junior Melissa Bachman, who died Feb. 20 from an arteriovenous malformation.

Don Fallon, coordinator of religious activities, asked the congregation to join hands and remember Bachman's face and voice and to recall special memories. He then told them to feel the hands of those around them, to know there is comfort during this time of grieving.

Bachman was a junior in family studies and human services and was a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Father Keith Weber offered solace to those who mourned the loss of such a young woman.

"It would have been wonderful if Melissa could have stayed longer with us on earth," Weber said. "But we should be thankful God chose to create her."

Bachman's friends, family and co-workers were blessed to have spent time with her, Weber said, and they can take comfort in knowing they will see her again in heaven.

Sara Jahansouz, junior in life sciences and member of Sigma Kappa, said she was honored to have been a member of the same sorority as Bachman. She said members of the sorority could look to each other for comfort while remembering Bachman.

"We were all her sisters, and we will keep her in our hearts forever," Jahansouz said.

See MEMORIAL Page 12

The memorial service for Melissa Bachman concluded with members of Bachman's sorority, Sigma Kappa, joining hands and singing the sorority's song, "St. Elmo's Fire," to honor her.

Deployment leaves gaps in police force

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

National Guardsmen and reservists being called to active duty are leaving more than their friends and family behind — they're leaving their jobs.

As a result, area police departments — some of the employers hit the hardest — are faced with an employee shortage during a nationwide budget crisis.

Steve French, Riley County Police Department assistant director, said the department has already lost five key employees.

"We have a couple of people that have been called up, but that's only short term," he said. "We have two detectives and a corrections officer who have orders up to 365 days with the possibility of extensions."

Future employees are even being affected.

"We were in the process of doing a background check for a police officer position and he had called and said he was mobilized," French said.

According to The Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act of 1994, employers are required to rehire employees upon their return from active duty. This means employers have to find ways to fill those positions only while active duty employees are away.

"Anytime you lose key employees, it has an effect on us," he said. "This means their cases have to be reassigned and changes must be made, but we still support the Army Reserve and

See POLICE Page 10

Defense department awards 2 of 18 grants to K-State departments

By Kelli Pitman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's science and engineering researchers continue to prove their strength, receiving two out of the four grants recently awarded to Kansas universities by the U.S. Department of Defense.

The purpose of the grants is to support research in science and engineering that is important to national defense. There will be $15.7 million awarded to 18 academic institutions in 14 states.

Kansas received four grants, more than any other state.

Besides the two grants that were awarded at K-State, the University of Kansas and Wichita State University both received one, said Peter M.A. Sherwood, chemistry department head and university distinguished professor.

Sherwood has served as the director for the state of Kansas in the Department of Defense's Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research since beginning the program in 1993. His job includes overseeing the entire state's involvement in the competition helping, creating and submitting the proposal.

There were fewer grants awarded this year for a greater amount of money making the competition very tough, he said. The minimum grant was set at $500,000 of federal funding which must be matched by $250,000 from the state.

"The program was much more competitive, which makes it all the more impressive that Kansas received four of the 18 grants awarded," Sherwood said.

Keith Hohn, assistant professor of chemical engineering, was part of the chemical engineering team that received one of the two grants.

He said that a competitive proposal was prepared for state competition where 10 proposals were chosen to be presented to the Department of Defense. The proposals

See AWARDS Page 3

Ballot includes plebiscite vote on smoking

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's a policy that even Student Body President Zac Cook and his partner Todd Kohman, vice president, fight over.

After months of controversy over the university's smoking policy, students will now have the chance to voice their opinions with a plebiscite vote found on today's and Wednesday's election ballot.

"The matter came up in Senate, and the senators felt that rather than the smaller body representing the question that the student body should have a direct say," Cook said.

The question that will appear on the ballot asks whether or not the university should enact changes to its smoking policy, which states that there is no smoking allowed inside buildings and within 30 feet of all entrances.

Voters may choose yes or no to the question, and all of those selecting yes will proceed to a second question that asks about specific changes to the smoking policy, including the choices of a campuswide ban, an academic area ban, designated smoking areas, or abolishing the policy.

SGA Elections 2003

Vote at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu

Look at today's Voters' Guide for more information about candidates and positions listed on the ballot.

said.

The unofficial plebiscite vote totals will be announced Wednesday night, along with the winner of the presidential election. An official count will be available Thursday, and will then be dealt with in Student Senate.

Student Affairs Chair Eleri Griffin said the reason she and committee members decided to have the plebiscite vote was to receive an accurate opinion of the student body.

"We would really like to garner a student opinion," she said. "It's really important for students to be able to have an accurate representation like that."

In addition, Griffin said a plebiscite vote was needed for the current policy.

"It's a policy that hasn't

See VOTE Page 12

INSIDE

Columnist Paul Restivo's life is forever changed upon Mr. Rogers' recent death.

Opinion, Page 4

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

U.S. expects vote on resolution to authorize war in Iraq "quite soon"
A vote on a new U.N. resolution authorizing force against Iraq will likely come next week, after the chief weapons inspectors address the deeply divided Security Council, U.S. officials said Monday.
Page 6

Without Turkish bases, U.S. military mission in Iraq would be riskier American troops could seize Baghdad without a Turkish-based northern front, but at higher risk, defense officials said. White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said Monday the United States would prevail in a conflict with Iraq, regardless of whether Turkey cooperates.
Page 6

Pentagon says North Korean fighter jets intercepted U.S. spy plane
North Korean fighter jets intercepted a U.S. Air Force plane, and one used its radar in a manner that indicated it might attack, officials said Monday. At one point one of the fighters "locked on" to the plane with its fire-support radar.
Page 12

Design selected for memorial to Sept. 11 Pentagon victims
Victims of the Sept. 11 attack on the Pentagon will be remembered by a grove of trees, 184 lighted pools and benches engraved with the names of those who died. Officials announced the design Monday, chosen from more than 1,100 entries.
Page 12

California school district to appeal pledge ruling to Supreme Court
The school district at the center of the fight over the "Pledge of Allegiance" said Monday it will ask the Supreme Court to overturn a ruling barring its use in classrooms. The ruling, which says the phrase "under God" is unconstitutional, takes effect next Monday.

Weather

Today 38 | 16 Wednesday 35 | 26

Rain to snow

Snow showers

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 111

PIZZA SHUTTLE 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Witticism
5 Shiver of 8 Prove
12 Iowa city
13 Perfume
14 Material
15 Gatsby's
17 Horse of 18 B&B
19 Violin
21 Taking 24 Very, very
25 Dineoff's
26 Dineoff's
30 Eses'
31 Coastal 32 Com-
33 Actor Ford
35 Despot

DOWN
1 Poka
2 Flightless
3 Moment
4 Unisex
5 'I Am
6 Motorists
7 Lollipop
8 '9 to 5
9 Enthusi-
10 Winkiki
11 Fast time

18 Whatever
19 One side
20 Urals
21 Beehive
22 Antitoxina
23 Cold War
24 Baseball
25 Rubs
26 Indolent
27 Dutch
28 Days
29 gone by 30 Swindle
31 Swindle
32 Horse-
33 Unip
34 Hardy
35 Exam
36 Exam
37 Toll road
38 Journey
39 Emulating
40 Erstwhile
41 Dr.
42 Jekyll's
43 Cloning 44 material

Solution time: 23 mins.

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-228-5895 (the per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones, (18¢ only) A King Features service, NYC).

CRYPTOQUIP

Q K N D C A F Y A D J M D Y
I F X I A Y Q K Y F J N L M P F X W.
K A D K Q Y V L W W F Q M K Y D J.
"K F V Q, K F P F F C!"

Yesterday's Cryptquip: MESSAGE PRINTED ON BACK OF ANIMAL CRACKER PACKAGE: "DO NOT EAT IF SEAL IS BROKEN."
Today's Cryptquip clue: F equals O

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Crypt Classics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.
The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

Group plans to use bowling balls as simulated meteors

By Chuck Shepherd
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE

In January, the engineers and hobbyists of Utah's Salt Lake Astronomical Society told reporters they were planning to air-drop bowling balls, at very high altitude, to check out their impact when they land on the salt flats, to simulate the impact of meteorites.

The society said it had been frustrated that it could not find any meteorites so far and had been wondering whether they had disintegrated or been pulverized on impact.

Two days later, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, citing the many people engaged in work projects on the salt flats, said it was a bad idea to be dropping bowling balls around them.

'Woefully incompetent'

In December, Texas murder defendant Leonard Rojas' time for appeals ran out, and he was executed. Sixty-eight days later, three members of the state's highest court for criminal cases explicitly concluded that Rojas' appointed lawyer was woefully incompetent and that the court's majority had ignored that incompetence while Rojas was still alive.

The lawyer, David K. Chapman had never handled a death-penalty case, failed to investigate Rojas' case, rarely met with Rojas, admitted he missed filing deadlines (one of which barred Rojas from any federal appeal), and had had his license suspended three times by the Texas Bar (once during the time he was representing Rojas).

Readers' choice

The race-discrimination lawsuit of two black sisters (Grace Fuller, 48, and Louise Sawyer, 46) against Southwest Airlines is scheduled to go to trial in Kansas City, Kan., in March.

The sisters' entire case is that a white flight attendant, in a hurry to get passengers seated, recited Southwest's version of a rhyme that has a racist history: "Enie, meeny, minie, moe / Pick a seat, We gotta go." The sisters felt degraded and believe they are due some money.

Nation at war

Most recent antiwar demonstrations have been by clothed people, but since November, nude demonstrations against an invasion of Iraq have taken place in Marin County, Calif. (200 women at three sites); near West Palm Beach, Fla. (23 people); Byron Bay, Australia (700); and New York City's Central Park (30, in the snow).

According to Britain's "The Sun," both George W. Bush and Saddam Hussein recently ordered the same $975 handmade shoes from the Milan, Italy, shoemaker Vito Artioli (Bush in size 10, Saddam 9 1/2).

The litigious society

In February, a 23-year-old woman who had once changed clothes in the office of a talent agency in Brighton, Mich., while a hidden video camera was running, convinced a jury that one humiliating experience was worth $575,250. She said that the incident was so severe (even though she had not sought counseling or taken medication for it), she had lost all trust in people and would have to give up on being a model.

Anne Stanley filed a lawsuit in Westmoreland County, Pa., in December, asking $90 million as her compensation for a period of time when she was unsure whether or not she had received a deadly infection.

A defective bronchoscope was allegedly used on her at Latrobe Area Hospital in January and June of 2001, and one of the things that this particular defect (loose valve) permits is for bacteria to form in a pocket that cannot be reached by sterilization equipment.

High school senior Brian Delektka filed a lawsuit in February against the school system in Memphis, Mich., alleging that he actually did A-plus work in one course but only received an A for it, and that his average should be even higher than it is (and Delektka was ranked first in his class by the end of his junior year).

The course at issue here is a "work experience" course in which he served as a paralegal in a law office and did a fine job, according to his supervisor. That supervisor happened to be his mother, Diane, who said she meant that he did A-plus, not A, work.

Something else to worry about

In her Daily Telegraph (London) column of Jan. 16, Medical Editor Celia Hall reported that a doctor in western England has been summoned to a hearing before his local primary-care trust because he refused to certify a male patient for a Pap smear to screen him for cervical cancer.

The man sincerely believes he is a hermaphrodite, but his doctor said he can find no evidence of that (and in fact, the man once fathered a child).

At least one colleague suggested appealing the patient, which the doctor said he might do if someone would teach him the procedure for performing a cervical smear on a 34-year-old male.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Friday, Feb. 28

■ At 5 p.m., James Barber, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, No. 198, was arrested for leaving the scene of an accident. No bond was set.
■ At 6:10 p.m., Nathan Thurman, 2514 Stag Hill, No. 9, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $200.
■ At 7 p.m., Derek Jones, 1540 Pipher, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 11:50 p.m., Andrew Leon, 302 Westwood, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

Saturday, March 1

■ At 1:28 a.m., Chad Jager, 2400 Greenbriar, No. F, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2 a.m., Kara Gross, 1807 Todd, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 3:01 a.m., Tanechra Channel, 510 Tuttle Creek, No. 210, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 6:01 p.m., Jennifer Pope, 1370 Flinthills, was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 6:01 p.m., Gregory Vandyke, 1370

Sunday, March 2

■ At 2:05 a.m., Jason Patton, Fort Riley, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:38 a.m., Daniel Dressman, Baileyville, Kan., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:44 a.m., Sam Maiorana, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 3:02 a.m., Joshua Thies, 323 N. 15th, was arrested for battery and criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 6:15 a.m., Matthew Spooner, 2013 College Heights, was arrested for vehicle burglary, possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $3,000.
■ At 1:02 p.m., Bradley White, Fort Riley, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $463.
■ At 7:26 p.m., Logan Spurlock, 1612, was arrested for DUI. Bond amount was unavailable.

Monday, March 3

■ At 1:20 a.m., Jason Campbell, Hope, Kan., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Keadie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ Career and Employment Services will have an internship panel at 3:30 p.m. today in Union 212.
■ Powercat Master Toastmasters Club will meet at 5:30 tonight in Durland 1029.
■ SGA committee meetings today in OSAS conference room: Senate operations at 6 p.m. and governmental relations at 9 p.m.
■ Habitat for Humanity will meet at 8 tonight in the Big 12 Room.
■ The pre-health club (AED) will meet at 7 tonight in Union 213.
■ Mentors for International Experiences will meet at 7:30 tonight in Rathbone 1052.
■ The Department of Geology will have a seminar, "Relative Rates of Fluvial and Glacial Erosion, and Implications for Landscape Evolution," at 4 p.m. today in Thompson 213.

■ "The Gospel According to Harry Potter" study group will meet at 5 p.m. today in the ECM Campus Center.
■ The Lutheran and Episcopal campus ministries will have a Mardi Gras Jazz Service at 6 p.m. in the Union Little Theater.
■ There will be a seminar in religious studies at 7:30 tonight in the ECM Campus Center.
■ Christian Explorers will meet for praise and worship at 9 tonight in the ECM Campus Center.
■ There will be a criminology and social services career fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Ballroom.
■ Career and Employment Services will conduct a Winning Interviews Workshop at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in Union 213.
■ The Episcopal and Lutheran campus ministries will have an Ash Wednesday Service at 12:15 and 9 p.m. Wednesday in Danforth Chapel.
■ Applications from the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are now available at OSAS, the K-State Alumni Center or at www.k-state.com/programs/currentstudent/homecoming.asp. Applications are due March 14.

Quotable | From the Associated Press

"This is the right thing to do. This makes our country stronger when everyone's views are given equality, especially when it comes to religion." — Michael Newdow, the plaintiff in a federal suit, after an appeals court refused to reconsider its ruling that reciting the Pledge of Allegiance in public schools is unconstitutional

Up next | In Wednesday's Collegian

Opinion | Rhetoric views

Rhetoric runs thick in Micah Hawkinson's Wednesday column. Also, read about Kathryn Hollingsworth's disgust with e-mail forwards.

Sports | Ranked competition

See if the Wildcats can knock off nationally ranked Wichita State tonight at Frank Myers Field, and see how the men's basketball and women's golf teams did on the road.

ROSES ARE RED,
VIOLETS ARE BLUE,
OUR COLOR COPIES...

ARE ALWAYS
TRUE HUES.
Clafin Books and Copies

"I got a better
computer for a lot less because they don't run silly ads on TV."

• Factory direct savings
• Every computer custom built
• Name brand components
• Full factory warranty
• Easy to order — see & SAVE!
MY WHITE BOX Custom Built Computers
www.mywhitebox.com

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS

1022-1026 Sunset 1950-1960 Hunting
$345-385 $440-460
1212 Thurston 1837 College Heights
$440-460 $385

537-7701

1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502

Criminology and Social Service Career Fair

March 5th

EVERYONE WELCOME!

Over 20 Federal, State and Local Employers
Kansas State University Student Union Ballroom
10am to 2pm

For more information, Call 785-532-4963
or Email nofzig@ksu.edu

Say
HEESE
DELICATESSEN

Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 537-1909

University Speed Reading

Become an Honor Student and Still
Have Time to play

or work, sleep, visit loved ones, write and epic...

Attend a Free introductory Class

Mon. or Tue.

March 3 or 4

Kansas State Student Union, Rm 220

Mon. March 3, 10:10 12:10 1:10 3:30 4:30

Tue. March 4, 10:10 12:10 1:10 3:30 4:30 7:00

Free Classes are 45 minutes of Reading Training.

Bring Two Books, or use mine.

Taught by Dr. John Sawyer, Ph.D.

Chicken Tender Basket

$4.75 Fat Tuesday
EST. 1985 Special

Tao Massage Therapy $10 off first appointment!

RATES	Regular	Seniors & KSU Students
15 Min	$15	$10
30 Min	$25	$20
1 Hr	$45	$40
1 1/2 Hrs	$67	$60

For your wellbeing:
► Deep Tissue
► Swedish Massage
► Sports Massage (pre or post-event & rehabilitative)
► On-site Chair Massage

Call for your appointment
785-341-9928

THAI HOUSE

Good Food-Good Price
$2.50
Sweet & Sour Chicken
w/ steamed rice

Bring in this ad & a KSU student ID.
*Expires April 4.

Available Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday
from 5-9 p.m.

THAI HOUSE
587-8999
Manhattan Town Center
Picnic Place

3rd student finalist for Truman

Senior to interview in Washington for national scholarship

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A third K-State student was named a finalist for the Harry S. Truman Scholarship.

Jessica Burch, senior in criminology and pre-law, will interview in Washington, D.C. on March 14 against students from across the United States.

Other K-State students competing in the final round of the competition are Mindi Russell, senior in food science, and Sarah Ashley, junior in political science and criminology. Russell and Ashley will compete in Kansas City on March 7.

Burch will be in a different competition because she is an appeal candidate, she said.

She said she would like to earn a minor degree in political science and then go to law school.

"I'm not sure where I would go to law school, but I might pay for that on my own," she said. "I would like to use the Truman Scholarship to pay for my L.O.M., which is the legal equivalent of a Ph.D."

She said her main focus will be on public policy — more specifically child welfare.

"I would also like to help create new public policies and legislation to keep child welfare efficient and make it more effective," she said.

Burch said she hopes the Truman Scholarship Committee will see that she deserves the scholarship.

"I am excited to show them the candidate that I am," she said. "Hopefully they will see that I have a strong future."

Because she was not named

Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN
Jessica Burch, senior in criminology and pre-law, is a finalist for the Truman Scholarship.

as an original finalist, Burch said there was about a 10-day period in which she did not think she would be nominated.

"I was a little upset, but then I found out my application had been appealed. That's why I get to go to D.C.," she said.

Scholar adviser Jim Hohenbary said Burch's application was re-submitted to the scholarship committee at the recommendation of K-State's faculty panel.

"The foundation gives you the option of taking a second look at one of your candidates if you think it was passed over," he said. "There is a clause that if a particularly strong candidate was not named, we can ask them to look at her application again."

Hohenbary said this is just part of the normal selection process.

"I think it is a really nice feature. They recognize that it is possible for them to miss someone really good," he said. "This is the first time since I've done it that it has been successful, though."

When a candidate is reconsidered, no additional information is given to the committee, Hohenbary said. Officials take the information they already have and will possibly have different readers review the application.

Hohenbary said the application process is fairly extensive, but he will help students with it.

"I will work with them on the written application," he said. "I also organize mock interviews, which students will usually go through several of. We want to help them anticipate some of the more common questions."

Burch said Hohenbary was very helpful to her during the application process.

"I worked really hard last semester with Jim. He was constantly helping me revise my application. He would make suggestions, and I would work on them," she said. "I probably wrote about 20 drafts."

She said her application has changed greatly since she began the process, partially because she began working on it while she was in the Czech Republic.

"I didn't have access to English libraries, so I had to use the Internet a lot."

Candidates have to research and write about a current public policy of their choice that they would change. Burch said Hohenbary helped her and the other K-State candidates with that.

"He would send us each informative articles about our topics," she said.

"He did a good job of keeping us all really prepared. I think that's why K-State has had such a success with producing Truman scholars."

Committee to vote on special-fund spending

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State administration officials presented their goals last week to the City/University Special Projects Fund Committee.

The committee, which is made up of Manhattan residents and K-State students and officials, evaluates projects suggested to receive money from a special fund that contains revenue generated by the campus.

Tonight they will vote on which projects to recommend for approval by the City Commission.

"The first priority for this year is to continue funding for a sidewalk on the east side of Denison," said Jerry Carter, director of facilities and university architect.

Carter said this area is no longer safe for pedestrians because of an increased number of cars.

Denison Avenue will be reconfigured much the same as North Manhattan Avenue, making it much safer, he said.

A second project would complete funding for a stone wall along Anderson and Denison avenues.

The K-State campus was originally bound on four sides by a stone wall, and now they will keep the wall at the same height as the existing wall around campus, Carter said.

Money is also requested to continue operation of K-State's recycling program.

John Woods, director of facility services, said student government requested a recycling facility on campus, but it would be too expensive.

The purchase of two types of smaller machines is recommended, he said.

"I would like to use this money as matching money for a grant from the government,"

he said.

In addition, Woods said recycling should continue because the pilot program has been working extremely well.

Officials said they would also like to see some money applied toward University Gardens.

"At the butterfly conservatory, they have been keeping track of the locations and the numbers of visitors," Carter said. "People from 35 different countries and states have visited."

The final project suggested would be the purchase and installation of a fire hydrant along North Manhattan Avenue.

Carter said local firefighters would have to lay their lines longer than recommended lengths at this location. A fire hydrant would be more conducive to fighting fires, he said.

AWARDS | Grants to support research facilities

Continued from page 1

were selected if they matched the objectives that the Department of Defense was seeking.

"This is a nice-sized grant, and a great honor to receive it," Hohn said. "It shows that we are doing quality research and the Department of Defense recognizes that."

Ted Knous, associate vice provost for technology transfer and research administration, said that this is a competitive grants program that seeks to find the best proposals out of the state of Kansas.

The winning projects are based on their quality and topic.

The proposal that is selected is based on the project that meets the objectives that the Defense Department is looking for.

This form of outside funding is very important to the university. It helps to continue to enhance new research capabilities, to allow students and faculty to have cutting-edge information, and it contributes to the general economy, he said.

Jingyu Lin, professor of physics, was part of the physics team that received the other of the two grants. The main purpose of this grant will be to enhance the infrastructure in the state by using the money for equipment.

"The money will provide greater capabilities to improve the infrastructure of the state and will enhance the possibility to compete for bigger grants in the future," Lin said.

Wash PALACE

- coin laundry • laundry drop-off •
- drive-up window & door •
- professional dry cleaning & alteration •
- bargain laundry center w/ large capacity washers •
- bigscreen TV • pool table • snacks •

BRING IN THIS AD AND RECEIVE

20% off any DRY CLEANING or DROP OFF LAUNDRY

The Wash Palace

Exp. 5/31/03

7 am - midnight 3216 Candlewood Center 537-9833

NOW OPEN LATE!

At last, great financial news for all you business majors.

!!!

A career-building job in Kansas City with an international financial services firm and outstanding benefits could be yours.

Whether you're pre- or post-grad, State Street, a world leader in financial services, has full- or part-time job openings at its Kansas City office, right now.

Join your future - today!

STATE STREET.
For Everything You Invest In

Apply online.
statestreetkc.com

©2003 State Street Corporation EOUAA

giveaways tonight

8 open @ 9 Mardi Gras

$1.50 Wells

$3 Pitchers LONGHORNS

no cover with mardi gras attire

FREE Haircut

w/ Hilite Foil Weave or 2 Color Weave

$50 to $70

by Kelly and Jessica

TINA'S Studio 32

FOR HAIR

776-8830 Candlewood

world renowned presidential historian

Michael Beschloss

book signing

1 P.M. to 2 P.M. Thursday, March 6th

immediately following the Landon Lecture Lunch

outside the K-State Student Union Ballroom

REACHING FOR GLORY

THE CONQUERORS

MICHAEL BESCHLOSS

TAKING CHARGE

MICHAEL R. BESCHLOSS

Books are available for purchase at the K-State Student Union Bookstore, Varney's Bookstore, and also at the signing table.

best selling author

Books available for signing are The Conquerors, Reaching for Glory, and Taking Charge.

TO THE POINT

Plebiscite vote valuable tool for gaining feedback

Not only will students vote today for student body president and student senators, a plebiscite vote will give students the opportunity to voice their opinions about smoking policies.

A plebiscite vote with a positive result doesn't mean policies will be enacted. Rather, it is a valuable tool for senators to gain feedback from their constituents.

Last year, a positive vote kick-started the SafeRide program, which is on its way to implementation this fall.

Students are not always given such an opportunity to influence Student Senate legislation.

Not many students speak at Senate meetings or write letters to their representatives. Now, it takes just a click of the mouse.

Senators could have authored legislation without seeking student opinion. Instead, they recognized they serve as representatives and are seeking to fulfill their duties.

The smoking policy vote will tell senators whether they should pursue the possibility of a smoking ban or if the issue is unimportant in students' minds.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF		Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane A&E EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM

395-4444

The campus cops don't have time to do anything about underage drinking, yet they have plenty of time to ticket all our cars and rack up money from us.

Girls who wear too much makeup are trying to cover up for something.

Just for the record, Johnny Cash sucks.

If a guy knew what he was doing, a girl wouldn't have to fake an orgasm.

Faculty Senate, listen to the students.

K-State basketball, those jerseys are cool, but get some shorts to match.

So they say smoking 30 feet within the building is illegal. Does that mean it's legal to smoke inside the building as long as you're 30 feet away from the entrance?

The "Vagina Monologues" sucked.

Somebody got stabbed at my party. The ghetto has reached Manhattan.

This is Jesus, and I know what happened at McCain last Saturday morning. Viva la musical!

Last night, my roommates were being so gay with each other, and I didn't even mind. Is that weird?

My name is Henry, and I'm a player.

It smells like pee. I think it's because I pissed on the floor.

Last night, I drank the beer the dog wouldn't. Does that make me gross?

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

FAREWELL, FRED

Television icon's legacy will live on in the hearts of avid viewers

For Mister Rogers:

You were my teacher, my mentor and my TV father for 30 minutes every day during my childhood.

PAUL RESTIVO

I knew, while snuggled up in my bean bag on our shag carpet, that you were only addressing me. The legions of admiring children that watched you did not exist as far as I was concerned.

Every day you greeted me with your funny grandpa sweaters, the goofy sneakers, the trolley and the Neighborhood of Make-Believe. Your Neighborhood of Make-Believe was my getaway. It was a place in which disasters, war, arguments and yelling parents did not exist. There were no school shootings in the Neighborhood of Make-Believe. There were no children making fun of me. There were no parents telling me to be someone I was not.

To me, you were real. I could be myself with you. You were never afraid to tell me that everything would be all right. You showed me how to tie my shoes. You showed me how to spell.

Furthermore, you told me that despite my parents' divorce, I would get through it. You reassured me that I could go on after the death of a family member.

You never talked down to me. You talked to me in a way that no other person could. I never questioned your teachings. When the trolley toot-tooted its way in the Neighborhood of Make-Believe, I traveled with it. I paid close attention when the tiger puppet complained about not fitting in. I listened attentively when the squirrel lost his family and felt alone. You always had answers for these problems.

I remember my mother, giving the roll-eye gesture every time your show came on. "Not him again," she would say. It saddened me to think that I may be your only avid viewer. But if that was the case, I still was ever-grateful for your continued devotion to filling 30 minutes of PBS.

Upon hearing about your death, a feeling of immense shock came over me. But almost immediately, I was filled with a great joy — joy, because I knew you were ageless. Your teachings would live on. Many people come into this world and leave without making their marks.

You were special. Your mark was left in the hearts of millions of children. None of us ever met you, but it did not matter. You knew us. You knew how we thought. You knew how we felt.

I look at our world today and feel that we could use another visit from the trolley. In this time of war, you would tell us that peace is the only option. You would tell us that no matter how evil a person is, he or she does not deserve to die. "Everyone on this planet is special," you said once. I believe you.

You taught me to care. "What difference does it make?" is a question you never asked. Everything matters.

Mister Rogers, I salute you on an exquisite life. You were the neighbor we all wish we had. Some made jokes about you. Others rolled their eyes at the sound of the trolley. But deep down, all people have a little Mister Rogers in their hearts.

You were not our father, for you were too old. You were not our grandfather, for you were too young. You were our neighbor.

Farewell, Mister Rogers

Paul is a junior in secondary education. You can e-mail him at restivo@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Anna Wetzell | COLLEGIAN

Major cities provide culture not found in small-town life

It came as a shock when I was called a "city girl" recently.

Sure, Overland Park is a city, and I lived just south of the city limit, 20 minutes from a mall and some movie theaters, but it made me wonder how people from small towns defined "city life."

Even with the city soaking up land as quickly as it can, Overland Park is not the metropolis that many small-town people think it is.

My high school graduating class was a little over 250 people. It certainly didn't have enough people to be considered urban, like that of an inner-city Detroit school. I had to drive 14 miles to get to my first job, not walk down the alley to a grocery store to be a cashier.

A frightening realization hit me when I thought of all of the people born in Kansas that stay here and live the rest of their lives within the bounds of Topeka and their hometown. Or if they venture out east to the oasis of Kansas City they believe to have seen enough "city" for their lifetime.

Topeka, Wichita, Kansas City, even Wamego is a city. Kansas City, Kan., has 157,900 people. It encompasses three counties but still doesn't come close to what a real metropolis population is like.

According to the latest U.S. census, Chicago has more than 2.8 million people and our neighbor St. Louis, Mo., has more than 2.6 million people and the ranking of 14th largest metropolitan area in the United States.

World travel is ideal to see a city in all its glory. Sydney, Australia, which I had the honor of visiting last summer, has about 4 million people.

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

I know it seems overwhelming, but you are cheating yourself if Wichita or Manhattan is your idea of urban life. Even if living in a big city is not your preference, and it's not mine, the experience alone of seeing commerce, industry and a rich influence of culture and the arts is enough reason to visit.

Cities aren't pits of sludge, sewage or assaults waiting to happen.

As I walked around St. Louis, Chicago, Minneapolis, Dallas and Sydney, I felt safe with only one other person accompanying me. I also realized that city dwellers are helpful and polite, much like those of small-town Kansas. They may not know your name or wave at you as you drive by in a cab, but they will tell you how to get to Fourth Street and where you can find the best beer in town.

It's cheap to fly to Chicago and have deep-dish pizza or see the Cubs play. Traveling to most cities right now is cheap, so take advantage of it. Don't be afraid of a little pollution or heavy traffic. You will find that the positives outweigh the negatives immensely.

Seeing the uniqueness of the arts in Europe, enjoying what made America into what it is today, and understanding your cultural background can all be accomplished abroad.

In order to become a well-rounded and better educated person, you must explore the world outside the comfort of the Midwest and outside of this country. Go out to see and experience diversity, culture and antiquity because I can guarantee that it is not to be found in small-town Kansas.

Lindsey is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at lrp6666@k-state.edu.

Speed-reading class to take place in Union

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students who have trouble understanding textbook reading material may find some relief at the Union this week.

John Sawyer, a nationally recognized author, expert and consultant on advanced reading and learning techniques, is offering an academic speed-reading seminar on campus.

"My course deals with a lot more than just speed reading," Sawyer said. "You can't increase your reading speed without increasing your comprehension level."

Free introductory courses are today at the K-State Student Union in Room 206.

At the introductory course, Sawyer tests students' current reading levels, explains his course material and invites students to enroll in the class.

The actual class meets three times, beginning Wednesday, for 2 1/2 hours each, he said. Sawyer said he charges an enrollment fee, and enrollment is limited to about 50 students.

"Once it is full, you cannot get in," he said.

The enrollment fee includes a textbook that Sawyer will give to students, but he said he does not assign extra homework.

"I teach it in your textbooks," he said. "I use the assignments of your instructors."

Throughout the course, Sawyer said he will keep track of students' reading speeds.

"If you or I am not happy with your improvement, I will teach you individually," he said.

Sawyer said 68 percent of readers read 160 to 320 words per minute.

"That is the normal range for the typical reader, reading for his or her own personal pleasure," he said. "That's the same for spoken English."

When reading textbooks, Sawyer said, the reading speed tends to drop.

Aaron Knight, freshman in Spanish, said he attended the free seminar because he has trouble staying focused on reading assignments.

"Concentration is something I need help with," he said.

Knight said he thought Sawyer's seminar was informative.

"He seems like he would be very helpful," he said. "He is very excited about what he does."

Although the information was interesting, Knight said he is not sure of its success.

"I doubt people's reading speeds can improve that quickly, but I might try the class anyway. I'm going to have to find out if it works. If it does work, that would be awesome," he said.

Sawyer said the course has been successful for more than 30 years. He developed the course in the 1970s after a university asked him to develop a seminar.

"It worked well, but it was designed for popular literature," he said. "It didn't work with academic textbooks."

He then developed a course that was more academic in nature, he said.

Sawyer, who lives in Colorado and has a reading clinic on his farm, is also an adjunct professor at several different universities.

Speed Reading Class

■ Informational meetings will be at 10:10 a.m., 12:10 p.m., 1:10, 3:30, 4:30 and 7 today at the Union in Room 206.

■ Classes will be from 3:30-5 p.m. and 7-9:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday.

■ The cost for the class is $295. Attend an informational meeting to sign up.

USD 383 to auction property on Poyntz

By Jessica Packard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Manhattan-Ogden School District will have an auction for real estate on Poyntz Avenue today.

The property consists of six lots located on 801-807 Poyntz Avenue. Now residing on the property is a one-story office building containing 6,392 square feet of floor space, which housed the former Adult Learner Center, and a two-story residence with approximately 2,375 square feet, which housed the former Wonder Workshop.

Robert Seymour, associate superintendent, said the property was originally purchased to expand the middle school, which is now the east campus of Manhattan High School.

The bond issue that would cover the costs was not passed.

The board made a plan — that was approved — to build middle schools, Susan B. Anthony and Dwight D. Eisenhower, in addition to Frank V. Bergman Elementary School, he said.

Seymour said the Board of Education asked him to arrange the sale of the property because they determined they would not need it in the future.

"The district has advertised the sale of real estate since late January, early February," Seymour said. "I have not received any bids yet, but I do expect to receive bids the day of the sale."

Seymour said he has advertised the real estate in regional newspapers and has had some inquiries.

"I have talked with people in Kansas City, Wichita, and of course Manhattan," Seymour said.

Seymour said the real estate is valuable to various organizations because of the location and the buildings located on the land.

The sale begins at 1:30 p.m. today. All bids will be opened and revealed in the Board of Education Office.

If present, those who submitted the five highest bids can participate in a verbal auction. The starting price will begin at the highest bid received.

The person or organization whose bid is accepted will be given a warranty deed on behalf of the board, Seymour said, and the real estate will be available for use around July 15.

Those interested can call Robert Seymour at 587-2000 and will have until 1:30 p.m. today to submit a bid.

WEIGHT LOSS - FUN AND EASY?

Dr. Rick Tague would like to offer you absolutely free:

Body Composition Analysis & Introductory Visit

You will receive a computerized impedance plethysmography examination (which measures your muscle to fat ratio). From this exam we will generate a written report for you that includes your Body Mass Index, Weight Goal and other key health information. With this report, when you start, Dr. Tague will sit down with you and create a personalized weight management program based on your personal preferences and your individual physical, genetic and environmental characteristics. We will listen to you and tailor a program just for you.

Fun and Easy? YES!

Using an individualized high nutrient program (including shakes, bars, snacks and food from your own pantry) and FDA approved medications (if needed) your fat pounds will melt away making weight loss fun and easy.

If it feels as if you tried almost every diet there is...but still struggle with your weight...there likely is a medical reason causing your lack of success. Genetic, metabolic and environmental factors are typically to blame and it's not your fault! Quit feeling frustrated and depressed about your weight. Make the choice to let Dr. Tague help correct what is causing your weight problem so you can look better and have a more energetic, fun life.

Call Today. The first 15 people who call will receive a FREE individualized metabolic rate exam using state-of-the-art equipment that measures your resting metabolic rate. Information from this test is used to develop a program for you that will jump-start your sluggish metabolism which further increases your weight loss.

Call 776-4443 Now

Call 776-4443 today to get your FREE Body Composition Analysis and to find out how losing weight can be fun and easy.

ADVANCED

Cake Classes

*Beginner classes start March 5th.

Every Thursday Night for 6 weeks.
Classes starting March 6th.
For more info call 776-7637.
Vern's Wedding Cake Shop

Welcoming former and new customers.
Call for an appointment today.

Wildcat Barber Shop

Walk-ins welcome. 539-8920 1100 Laramie

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 1p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M, W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 3p-6p
T & Th 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont #1
M & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th St
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $925

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

Ksu Opera Theatre Presents The Merry Wives Of Windsor

McCain Auditorium, 8 p.m. March 6-8

$8.00 students

$12.00 general

Box office open noon-5 p.m.

call 532-6498

A comic opera by Otto Nicolai

Based on the William Shakespeare comedy

win DARRELL HAMMOND tickets

To be eligible to win you and one other person must attend UPC's meeting this evening at 5:00p.m. in Union Station. Food will be provided. If you would like more information, please call 532-6571.

HOTLINE: 532 6572

WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

U.S. expects vote on resolution to authorize war in Iraq 'quite soon'

By Edith M. Lederer
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — A vote on a new U.N. resolution authorizing force against Iraq will likely come next week, after the chief weapons inspectors address the deeply divided Security Council, U.S. officials said Monday.

U.S. Ambassador John Negroponte said the United States expects a vote on its resolution "quite soon" after Hans Blix and Mohamed ElBaradei update the council Friday on Iraq's cooperation in eliminating its nuclear, chemical, biological and long-range missile programs.

"Our view is that we don't need to debate this very simple and straightforward resolution," the U.S. envoy said after discussing the date for the inspectors' briefing with Guinea's U.N. ambassador, the council president for March. "We would expect a vote quite soon thereafter."

A U.S. official said "there is no current plan to vote" immediately after Friday's report. "All indications are that the vote would be next week," the official said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The sponsors of the resolution — the United States, Britain and Spain — are allowed to call for a vote at any time.

The resolution declares that Saddam Hussein has missed "the final opportunity" to disarm peacefully and indicates he must now face the consequences — an assessment that France, Russia, China and Germany reject.

Officials: Turkish front not needed

Seizing Baghdad will be more difficult without aid from Turkey, analysts say

By Robert Burns
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — American troops could seize Baghdad without a Turkish-based northern front against Iraq, but at higher risk and with more difficulty, defense officials and analysts say.

U.S. war planners have envisioned attacks on Iraq from Kuwait in the south and Turkey in the north. That approach would complicate Iraq's defense planning and ease U.S. logistical problems.

But to the surprise of American officials, the Turkish Parliament on Saturday narrowly rejected a motion to grant a U.S. request to position tens of thousands of troops for the assault into northern Iraq and to station about 200 additional strike aircraft at two other bases.

White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said Monday the United States would prevail in a conflict with Iraq, regardless of whether Turkey cooperates.

Turkey fears that if it does not allow U.S. troops it could lose a $15 billion package in grants and loans promised by

Washington to compensate it for any losses incurred in war. Fleischer said "no final judgments have been made."

"Turkey is a NATO ally, and in the event of war, Turkey would be adversely affected by the impact of war on a neighboring state — that was part of the consideration, in addition to any expenses incurred in basing, etcetera," he said.

A top member of Turkey's governing party rejected a quick new vote on the proposal, but Foreign Minister Yasar Yagci appeared to leave the door open for another vote, saying leaders will conduct a "process of evaluation" first.

are you ready?

SWIMSUITS!

NOW $46-$76

VIX, CALIFORNIA DIPPER, SUNSET SEPARATES, HOBIE, HOT KISS, SURFSIDE, PIECES

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie

1224 Moro Aggieville

Mon-Thurs, 10-7 Fri-Sat, 10-5

Need Extra Cash for Spring Break?

Mister Money will turn your electronics, jewelry, sporting goods, music, cameras, guns, DVD's, etc. into cash. We loan or buy any of these at the highest prices in town

• 565-0046 • • 537-1803 •
• 705 N. 11th • 501 A Fort Riley Blvd. •

Too broke for a trip?

Take a break at Impressions.

We'll make you look & feel refreshed!

Buttery blondes. Edgy reds. Bittersweet brunettes. Ask us to personalize a Redken haircolor for you.

$5.00 OFF	$10.00 OFF
Colors	Highlight $60 and up
Fills	Perm
Massages	Full Set
$2.00 OFF
Men's Haircut

Exp. 3-30-03

IMPRESSIONS
HAIR DESIGN AND NAIL STUDIO
1129 Moro • 537-1332

SPRING BREAK SKIING??

- ☐ fanny pack
- ☐ water bottle
- ☐ waterproof shell
- ☐ layers: fleece
- ☐ warm socks
- ☐ hat or headband
- ☐ gloves
- ☐ ski pants
- ☐ sunscreen/lip balm
- ☐ sunglasses/goggles

304 POYNTZ, DOWNTOWN 539-5639

Driving Somewhere for Spring Break?

Ekart's Automotive Services

We Service All Makes of Cars
Our FIVE Full time mechanics will get you in tune!

American & Foreign Cars • Engine Overhaul • Motor Tune-ups • Complete Brake • Electrical & Automatic Transmission Service • Manual Transmissions & Clutch Repair • Sun Computer Print Out • Diagnostic Center • Air Conditioning Service

Present this ad and receive a 10% discount up to $50!

411 S. 5th St. • 1 Blk. North of Ft Riley Blvd • 776-5110

Master Card • Visa • Discover • American Express

Spring Break Specials

Bed Head Liter Sale

$80 Foil Highlight & Haircut
$60 Cap Highlight & Haircut
$35 Men's Highlight & Haircut
$15 Bikini Wax

AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS

Trendy styles with the experience you deserve!

1220 Moro • Aggieville
776-3600

Expires March 24, 2003

2003 Royal Purple yearbook

we've got the stories you've got to read.

Buy your copy for $34.95
in Kedzie 103
or call 532-6555

Sun Connection I & II

10 Super bed tans • $20

10 Mega bed tans • $30 or 2 weeks Super • $10

2 weeks Mega • $20

*All offers good with lotion purchase of $25 or more

1125 Laramie | 1814 Claflin
776-2426 | 537-0744

Get ready for spring break with

A CU+ ABOVE Hair and Nail Salon

1800 Claflin Road, Site 110
(785) 537-3200

FREE

Haircut with any Highlight

Valid with coupon only
Exp. March 16

FREE Mini

Manicure With Any Spa Pedicure

Valid with coupon only
Exp. March 16

Rustys LAST Bourbon Street CHANCE SALOON

OVER 5,000 GIVEAWAYS

$2 All-You-Can-Eat Giant Tacos

K-Rock LIVE

$2 Bud, Bud Light, Coors Light, and Coors Bottles

$2 Pitchers • $2 Margaritas

All Plus- Burger Night of our Gourmet Burgers on Special 5-10:30 PM

are you ready?

Spring Break 2003

$9 FRENCH PEDICURE

$7 BIKINI WAX

ALL SERVICES PERFORMED BY SUPERVISED STUDENTS
CRUM'S
 512 POYNTZ AVE. • 776-4794

$22 FULL LEG WAX

SCALP MASSAGE FREE WITH ANY PAID SERVICE

BEAUTY COLLEGE

Exp. March 21

Planning a Spring Break Road Trip?

Is your car ready?

Westgate

Wheel Aligning & Balancing
776-4239
 610 Hayes Dr. • Behind Wal-Mart

Say No to Naked

Come check out our new spring clothes

Krystallos

708 North Manhattan Ave.
 Aggieville

DR. PAUL E. BULLOCK

OPTOMETRIST

40% OFF

SUNGLASSES

WITH COUPON
 EXPIRES 3/21/03
 Save up to $20
 on complete eyeglass or contact lens package
 Most contact lens fitting done same day.
 Glasses also available same day in most prescriptions.
 1441 Anderson Ave. • Anderson Village • 776-9461 • Toll Free 1-800-432-0036

Stock up for Spring Break at n The Wildside

- New Spring Attire
- Fun Fashions for Spring Break
- Gurki Sandals & Lava Flip Flops
- Fun Bags

20% off Winter Merchandise

1128 Moro in Aggieville • 776-2252 • Mon-Fri 11-6:30 Sat 11-6

Let's Get Ready for SPRING Break

GALLERY

Glen Theodore FOR HAIR

"Bring a Friend"

2 Haircuts for the price of 1

GALLERY Candlewood 776-5632 Exp. 4/1/03

$5 Off Haircuts

GALLERY Candlewood 776-5632 Exp. 4/1/03

25% Off Any Hair Color Service

GALLERY Candlewood 776-5632 Exp. 4/1/03

Don't wait 'till the last minute to get ready for spring Break! • 3226 Kimball • Candlewood • 776-5632

March specials

Crimpers Too in K-State Student Union

- $55 Foil Highlight ($10 for each additional color)
- $12 Brow & Lip wax combo
- $30 Men's Highlight & Haircut
- $10 Manicure
- $20 Full Set
- $18 Fills

CRIMPERS TOO

Be sure to visit Crimpers in Aggieville for the "Best Deal in the Ville"

K State Student Union Lower Level
 532-5972

THE LIBRARY

DISCOUNT LIQUOR
 Corner of 12th & Laramie
 Aggieville
 539-5269

Over 20 Beers • 5% over cost!

Boones Farm 750 ml 2 / $4

Killians Irish Red 12 pks $8.99

Bacardi Flavors 1L $15.18

Seagram Coolers 4 pks 3 / $9.99

Get a taste of this! Party away till Spring Break!!

Prices good while supplies last.

Going on Spring Break?

Dollar Days!

• $1 everyday till Spring Break sign up March 3rd - 9th
 • Call store for details

Don't Get Your Tan!

Candlewood Next
776-8060
 3232 Kimball Ave
 Southern Sun

DRIVE NOW. PAY LATER.

DON'T PUT OFF GETTING THE SERVICE YOU NEED.
 JUST PUT OFF PAYING FOR IT!

BUY NOW, PAY LATER

WITH THE QUALITY CARE CREDIT CARD.

Minimum $150 purchase required. See Dealership for complete details.

$59⁹⁵ Motorcraft® Tested Tough® PLUS battery

FREE Motorcraft® Car Care Kit with purchase!
 • With 84 month warranty

MSRP. With exchange. Taxes and installation extra. See Dealership for price. Limited warranty details and mail-in certificate through 3/31/03

4 TIRES FOR $99!

Mounting, balancing and taxes extra. Offer valid on select tires for 94-97 Ford Aspire 165/70R13 Goodyear Club 92-94 and 96 standard Ford Escort LX 92-93 standard Mercury Tracer 175/70R13 Republic Horizon Metro/Ensign and Goodyear Club 92-97 standard 4x2 Ford Ranger 190/70R14 Republic Horizon Metric. See Dealership for price and details on tire sizes. Offer valid with coupon. Expires 3/31/03

$39⁹⁵ Wheel alignment Two-wheel

Check and adjust camber and toe.
 Additional parts and labor may be required on some vehicles.
 Taxes extra. See Dealership for details. Offer valid with coupon. Expires 3/31/03

$34⁹⁵ Maintenance Value Package

• Motorcraft® oil and filter change • Rotate tires
 • Check belts and hoses • Test battery • Top off all fluids
 • Check air filter and cabin air filter • Inspect brakes
 Up to five quarts of Motorcraft® oil. Taxes and disposal fees extra. See Dealership for details. Offer valid with coupon. Expires 3/31/03

QualityCare Auto Service

DICK EDWARDS SERVICE DEPARTMENT
 7920 EAST HIGHWAY 24
 MANHATTAN, KS. 66502
 785-776-4004
 WE SERVICE ALL MAKES AND MODELS

Game ignites spark in fans

Give me a 3-pointer with six seconds left to send the game to overtime.

Give me a 57-yard touchdown pass between three defenders to preserve a bowl bid.

Give me a slapshot that bounces off the post on a power play with 20 ticks left, capped by the guy who makes it going to start a fight with the goalie.

Give me a no-time-left field goal to tie or win, dead-clock free throws, the guy that goes in with blood running in his eyes because pain isn't enough to make him quit — especially when the game's on the line.

That's why I watch. That's really why anybody who's watching is watching. Sure, we want to see blood, we want to see pain, and we want to see somebody catch a good beating.

But most of all, we want those last few seconds when all eyes are glued to the flick of some guy's wrist on a jump shot or the motion of a quarterback's arm before the Hail Mary or the flex of a stick after the impact of a 100-mph slapshot.

Because what happens in those last few moments means somebody gets the girl, and somebody else is going home to take that long stare into the mirror.

It's different for everybody. Everybody has their own thing they need to see out of a game. And everybody's got their favorite game. Tennis, golf, hockey, basketball, whatever, people are out to get what they need from the sport they get it from.

For me, it's baseball. This is probably because I played and can't let it go. But it's another thing altogether that keeps my eyes calmly scanning the field for nine innings without a single pang of boredom.

All it takes is a single. It's a seeing-eye grounder that goes off a second baseman's cup out to center, a clean shot that almost hits the pitcher in the face, or the roller that, by fractions of inches, misses the glove of both the diving third baseman and the shortstop.

One single, and you've got potential. After that, the first baseman crushes one into the gap in left. It bounces off the wall and the center fielder bare-hands it, cocks his arm and fires a to the shortstop.

And the guy who was on first misses it all, because he knows a peek could cost a run, and he's around third, fists pumping, eyes peeled back, teeth bared, tearing along the baseline at break-

See FEHR Page 10

Photos by Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Pat Maloney throws on the breaks to get back to second base during the Wildcats' win over Creighton in February at Tointon Family Stadium.

Wichita State (9-1) vs. K-State (5-2)

STATE Vs. STATE

Cats seek to improve against Shockers

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With the conference season only three weeks away, K-State's baseball team seems to be hitting its groove early this year.

But even with a .322 team batting average and an offense producing nearly 10 runs per contest through seven games, a 5-2 record can be frustrating.

Squandering Jared Bunn's no-hit bid in a 10-7 loss to Illinois on Feb. 21 and dropping an 18-inning decision to Troy State last weekend is disappointing to say the least.

"We all think that we were the better team in both those instances," third baseman Ty Soto said. "Those two games could have gone either way, but you have to take the good away and learn from those experiences."

The good has outweighed the bad so far this season. The Cats have plated double-digit runs in four games and more than 10 hits five times.

K-State won't be thinking about the past tonight when it welcomes Wichita State (9-1) to Manhattan to open a two-game, home-and-home series. The Wildcats travel to Wichita for the series finale Wednesday. The first pitch is scheduled for 6 p.m. both nights.

"Our guys will be excited to play," Coach Mike Clark said.

The Cats' chances against the Shockers improve if K-State continues its production from the plate.

Soto and Ryan Baldwin have led the Wildcats offensively. Soto extended his hitting streak to 16 games with a single on Sunday, and Baldwin is making an early season run at the school's RBI record with 16 so far.

Eight K-State players, including six starters, are maintaining averages over .300, and the Cats have a .413 on-base percentage.

Statistical comparison

Wichita State's three-game series with Iowa was rained out last weekend, while the Cats took two of three games in Dothan, Ala., as part of the Wiregrass Classic.

K-State	Category	Wichita State
5-2	Overall record	8-1
.322	Batting average	.349
6	Home runs	6
132	Total bases	162
.457	Slugging percentage	.495
5	Ground-into double play	5
.413	On-base percentage	.442
5	Stolen bases	17
.940	Fielding percentage	.987
72	Runners stranded	77
6	Double plays	9
3.68	ERA	3.21
.251	Opponent's batting average	.254

But this week's series with Wichita State doesn't just hinge on offense.

"We better be able to pitch, play defense and hit if we hope to compete against these people," Clark said.

Pitching hasn't hurt K-State this season. Wildcat opponents are hitting only .251, and this week's starters — Kevin Melcher (0-0, 4.00 ERA) and Jonathan Gutierrez (0-0 0.00 ERA) — have seen the Shockers before.

But K-State's defense is another matter.

The Cats have committed 17 errors, including six against Troy State.

Monday was a rest day for the Wildcats, but they need to be on top of their defensive game in order to deal with a K-State third baseman Ty Soto fires a throw to first during the Wildcats' win over Creighton in February at Tointon Family Stadium.

Shocker offense connecting at a .349 rate. Five games in six days shouldn't rattle K-State though.

"It's good that we play right away and that we don't have much of a break in between," Soto said.

An early rivalry game against the Cats' top in-state competition could give K-State the incentive it needs to put together the complete package.

"I know Wichita State is an important game," Clark said. "It's a good marker for us as far as where we're at right now and where we need to be to get into conference play."

Men still hoping for late-season run

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

February wasn't much of a month for the K-State men's basketball team.

The Cats went 1-7, including an 0-4 mark on the road.

They started the month by hanging tough with some of the nation's top teams in Oklahoma, Kansas and Oklahoma State, but later collapsed

K-State (12-15, 3-11) at No. 4 Texas (20-5, 11-3)

■ When: 7 tonight
■ Where: Frank Erwin Center (16,079)—Austin, Texas against Big 12 bottom-dwellers Baylor, Nebraska and Iowa State.

The result was a crucial blow to Wildcat confidence, coach Jim Woodriddle said.

"It's hard to pinpoint exactly what happened,"

he said. "I know confidence is a fragile thing. Perhaps what happens is they got on the threshold of a win against a ranked team like (Oklahoma) and it has an effect on other games."

The Cats' end-of-the-month spiral doomed their postseason hopes, but they still mustered the character to fight a ranked Missouri team to the wire on Saturday.

Now, K-State hopes to build on that resolve when it travels to Austin, Texas, tonight to battle the No. 6 Longhorns, senior Matt Siebrandt said. Being able to hang with the Tigers has rejuvenated a downtrodden squad.

"We got our identity back and played tough again," Siebrandt said. "Guys had started giving

See RECOVERY Page 12

K-State's Jarrett Hart fights for the ball against Missouri's Jimmy McKinney during the first half of Saturday's game at Bramlage Coliseum. Missouri won the game 77-70.

Kelly Glasscock
COLLEGIAN

Weather washes out Cats after playing 8 holes in Texas 'Mo'morial

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The women's golf team can't seem to escape bad weather.

K-State managed to play only eight of a scheduled 36 holes in the first day of the Texas A&M 'Mo'morial. The field will tee off with a shotgun start at 7:30 this morning to finish the first round and then play the second round.

Coach Kristi Knight said the weather was frustrating.

"We knew there was a chance of rain," she said. "We were hoping to get lucky because there was a chance of rain yesterday and it never rained. But sure enough, right when the girls got to their starting holes it started raining and it rained pretty heavy.

"The fairways were good, but the greens were starting to hold water," Knight said. "To tell you how wet it was, they don't have caddies or anything, in three hours they played eight holes."

Officials hoped the rain would clear after a few storm cells moved through, but the rain never let up.

"There was some thunder and lightning, so we came off the course," Knight said. "We were hoping to get back out there, but it just never let up."

Knight said a few of K-State's players were playing well through the conditions, but she said others had significant problems.

"Miranda (Smith) was playing very solid," she said.

"Christine (Boucher) was having a pretty good day. Other than that, it was a struggle. I'm sure it was hard for everybody. I have a feeling that a lot of players were struggling."

"It's a chance to regroup and put those eight holes behind us," Knight said. "We'll get at it again tomorrow and go from there. That's all we can do."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Simoneau traded to Eagles
The Philadelphia Eagles acquired former K-State linebacker Mark Simoneau from the Atlanta Falcons for a draft pick this year and another in 2004, a source close to the team told The Associated Press on Monday.

Simoneau will replace Shawn Barber, who signed with the Kansas City Chiefs earlier in the day.

The Eagles and Falcons will announce the trade Tuesday, according to the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
ASSOCIATED PRESS TOP 25

Number of first-place votes are in parentheses. Total points and previous rankings are also listed. Big 12 teams are bolded. Team records are through Monday, when the poll was released.

TEAM	RECORD	PTS	PVS
1. Connecticut (44)	28-0	1,100	1
2. Duke	28-1	1,048	2
3. Tennessee	26-3	1,019	3
4. K-STATE	27-2	958	5
5. Texas	21-5	867	10
6. LSU	24-3	865	4
6. Louisiana Tech	25-2	865	6
8. Texas Tech	23-4	756	7
9. Stanford	23-4	674	9
10. Mississippi St.	22-6	673	11
11. North Carolina	25-4	653	8
12. Purdue	23-5	638	12
13. Minnesota	23-4	547	13
14. Penn St.	23-7	519	15
15. Vanderbilt	19-8	449	17
16. South Carolina	21-6	443	16
17. Georgia	19-8	371	14
18. Rutgers	20-5	352	20
19. UCSB	21-4	346	19
20. Villanova	21-5	273	18
21. Wis.-Green Bay	24-3	200	22
22. Arizona	20-7	157	24
23. Arkansas	20-9	146	21
24. Boston College	19-7	100	23
25. Washington	21-6	79	25

OTHERS RECEIVING VOTES

Utah 69, Ohio St. 44, DePaul 21, George Washington 20, Colorado 12, Austin Peay 8, Liberty 7, Charlotte 6, N.C.-Wilmington 4, Cincinnati 3, Notre Dame 3, Creighton 2, Chattanooga 1, Oklahoma 1, St. Francis, Pa. 1.

MEN'S BASKETBALL
ASSOCIATED PRESS TOP 25

Number of first-place votes are in parentheses. Total points and previous rankings are also listed. Big 12 teams are bolded. Team records are through Monday, when the poll was released.

TEAM	RECORD	PTS	PVS
1. Arizona (59)	23-2	1,787	1
2. Kentucky (13)	24-3	1,737	2
3. Florida	24-4	1,633	4
4. Texas	20-5	1,528	5
5. Oklahoma	20-5	1,466	3
6. Kansas	22-6	1,453	7
7. Pittsburgh	21-4	1,382	8
8. Marquette	22-4	1,271	10
9. Wake Forest	21-4	1,135	12
10. Duke	20-5	1,116	6
11. Xavier	22-4	1,083	13
12. Syracuse	21-4	996	15
13. Maryland	19-7	943	14
14. Illinois	20-5	864	18
15. Louisville	20-5	772	11
16. Notre Dame	21-7	689	9
17. Stanford	22-7	537	19
18. Memphis	20-5	461	24
19. Creighton	25-4	438	17
20. Oklahoma St.	20-7	344	16
21. Dayton	21-5	297	25
22. California	20-6	240	23
23. Mississippi St.	18-7	206	20
24. Wisconsin	21-6	204	—
25. Georgia	17-8	198	21

OTHERS RECEIVING VOTES

Saint Joseph's 134, Utah 118, Connecticut 113, Missouri 98, S. Illinois 58, Butler 50, Weber St. 10, Boston College 6, Gonzaga 6, Kent St. 6, Oregon 6, Purdue 6, Troy St. 3, Penn. 2, BYU 1, Holy Cross 1, N.C.-Wilmington 1, Seton Hall 1.

MEN'S BASKETBALL
K-STATE at No. 4 TEXAS

Texas is looking for its third undefeated season at the Erwin Center tonight against K-State during the Longhorns' Senior Night. The Wildcats have lost five straight and nine of their last 10.

Wildcats	PPG	RPG	AST/G	BLK/G
G. DeJesus - G	11.2	5.6	0.9	0.0
M. Siebrandt - F	11.0	5.1	1.8	0.3
P. Pasco - C	10.5	7.7	1.8	1.6
J. Ellis - G	9.8	2.9	1.6	0.5
F. Richards - G	9.6	2.7	5.2	0.2
Longhorns	PPG	RPG	AST/G	BLK/G
T.J. Ford - G	14.8	3.7	7.1	0.2
B. Mouton - G	14.4	4.4	1.8	0.2
J. Thomas - C	11.2	11.4	0.6	0.8
R. Ivey - F	8.0	2.9	1.6	0.1
B. Buckman - F	6.6	5.7	0.1	0.9

SERIOUS BUSINESS

Photo illustration by Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Harassment illegal regardless of legal ignorance or intentions

By Rachel Krier
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Joking or not, intentional or accidental, it doesn't matter.

Sexual harassment is not a matter of intentions, but a matter of impact, said Susan Valdovinos, assistance director of the office of Affirmative Action.

Any sexual harassment complaints are investigated by Affirmative Action, and all major or minor reports have to be forwarded to the office as well.

"We never ignore a complaint. We do not look at intent. If that person meant to sexual harass or not, we look at the impact on the victim," Valdovinos said. "When investigating a complaint, we use the reasonable person's standards — looking at context, not just one event or just one thing the person's said."

The official policy defines sexual harassment as "[a]ny behavior which, through inappropriate sexual content or disparagement of members of one sex, interferes with an individual's work or learning environment."

All students have a responsibility to be familiar with the policy, Bob Shoop, professor of educational law, said.

"Sexual harassment is not just tacky and rude, it's against the law. Even if an individual does not agree with the validity of the law, they have a legal duty to obey it," Shoop said. "Ignorance to the law is no excuse. Intent is irrelevant. It's the impact of a person's actions they have to be accountable for."

Of the 10 sexual harassment cases filled in 2001-02, five were ruled as violations of policy in addition to two instances in which the persons in question of violation resigned.

Although Valdovinos cannot release any personal information about those involved, she did state that the majority of complainants are female with the majority of respondents being male.

"Most guys probably don't feel that they can be sexually harassed. They'd actually like the attention," said Michael Pule, senior in radio and television and sociology. "But sexual harassment can go both ways. Men can be victims, too. It can be man to woman, or man to man, or woman to woman."

"Sexual harassment still promotes inequality among the sexes. We all deserve the equal opportunity to excel in our work," he said. If a person has any doubt about their behavior or the behavior of others toward them, the K-State policy offers a few ways to identify the treatment, available at www.ksu.edu/dh/sex_harass.html.

Sexual harassment is a form of sexual discrimination, which are both made illegal by Title VII and IX of the Civil Rights Act.

"Not getting a job because a person does not hire women is discrimination," Valdovinos said. "Not getting a job because she refused the sexual advances of the person who interviewed her, that's sexual harassment."

The aforementioned example of sexual harassment is the quid pro quo form that includes sexual bribery or sexual favoritism. The other form of sexual harassment outlined in the K-State policy is creating a hostile environment. A hostile environment can include generalized sexist remarks that insult or degrade, seductive behavior, unwanted touch and sex-related comments or gestures, even jokes or looking a person up and down.

"Different people have been brought up in different ways. Different things are appropriate in different social settings. It's about boundaries," Christina Heptig, senior in biology, said. "The policy is there to say that we need to be aware of difference people's feelings and their boundaries."

As for K-State's dedication to the policy, Valdovinos said it goes from the very top to the bottom.

"There is a very clear, sincere commitment to ensuring that the environment is free from sexual harassment. It starts from the presidency on down," Valdovinos said.

Valdovinos also said that the university has recently redoubled its efforts to educate and empower people about the sexual harassment policy. Up to about a year and a half ago, the office of Affirmative Action was short-staffed, she said.

K-State has recently revised its sexual violence policy, said Dorinda Lambert, assistant director of clinical services at University Counseling Services. She said the sexual harassment policy is in need of similar attention.

"There's a great interest in continuing to improve policy and procedures," Dorinda said.

"But some confusion needs to be sorted out. The sexual harassment policy needs revamping so that the overlap is cleared up and procedures are more user friendly."

2000-01 Sexual Harassment Complaints Report

Complainant status	Number of Complaints filed
Student	2	2	2	1
Employee
Associate Professor Department
Student
Respondent Status	Classified Employee	Associate Professor	Department	Student

2001-02 Sexual Harassment Complaints Report

Complainant status	Number of Complaints filed
Employee	3						1
Student Worker		1
Graduate student			2	1
Research assistant					1
Student							1
Respondent Status	Employee	Associate director	Graduate student	Faculty	Research assistant	Student	Professor

Source: Office of Affirmative Action

CALENDAR

Music

■ Fraid (formerly Commonground) and The Clap will perform at 9 tonight at Gumbo's Pizza and Pub.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Courtesy Photo

NBC executives feeling uneasy about Martin Sheen's opposition to war

Martin Sheen said NBC executives fear his opposition to a U.S.-led war against Iraq will hurt his popular TV series "The West Wing."

Sheen told the Los Angeles Times that the show's staff has been "100 percent supportive" but top network executives have "let it be known they're very uncomfortable with where I'm at" on the war.

The 62-year-old actor helped lead a "Virtual March on Washington" last week that flooded the White House with thousands of anti-war e-mails and has spoken out against the potential war in public.

But NBC spokeswoman Rebecca Marks told The Associated Press on Sunday that she knows of "no concern among top management at NBC regarding Mr. Sheen's stand against the war or fear that it could impact the show."

BET takes a questioning view of possible war with Iraq in coverage

Lee Gash-Maxey, BET's news vice president, said Black Entertainment Television's theme for war news is "Iraq: Is War the Answer?" That's an allusion to Gay's Vietnam era song "What's going on?", which includes the lyrics "war is not the answer, for only love can conquer hate."

NEW RELEASES

DVD (*also on video)

"1984"
 "Black Sabbath"
 "Chobits 1"
 "The Day Earth Stood Still"
 "Europa Europa"
 "Hack/Signs 1"
 "Half Past Dead"
 "Jonah: Veggie Tales"
 "Of Mice and Men"
 "Osbourne's First Season"
 "The Ring"
 "Falaam Bombay"
 "Smoke"
 "Weight of Water"

Music

Johnny Cash "American IV: The Man Comes Around" (Bonus DVD)
 Hootie & The Blowfish "Hootie & The Blowfish"
 Lil' Kim "La Bella Mafia"
 Conway Twitty, Loretta Lynn "Country Gospel Greats" Chuck Berry "Crown Prince of Rock N Roll"

Supported by Digital Shelf
 5,000 + different DVD titles
 701 N. 11th 776-6959
www.ksuDIGITALSHELF.com
 Hours:
 Mon.-Sun. 11 a.m.-midnight
 sell us your DVDs & video games

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

Online transcripts halted due to security, tight budget

By Amy Link
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Student Senate's campaign for online transcripts has come to a standstill.

Seth Bridge, Academic Affairs and University Relations Committee Chair, said that due to the budget crisis and the Registrar's Office concerns with security, the much-needed project will take a back seat.

However, this does not mean the job is done.

Bridge said he knows student support is there for the project.

"Everybody wants online transcripts. Senate is just not in a position to get there," Bridge said.

While budget issues may be hindering the campaign, Bridge said that technology is paving the way.

"Everyone knows the technology is there, but it's just a matter of time," he said.

Bridge said he knows other schools have moved forward on this issue and that K-State may be behind, which is unfortunate.

Mary Elizabeth Kasper, senior in education and Senate vice chair, has been researching other Big 12 schools and their online transcript programs.

Kasper said K-State is the only school in the Big 12 that doesn't have some sort of online transcripts available for students.

Kasper said cost is the biggest reason for students wanting online transcripts.

"If students are applying for grad school and want to send transcripts to 10 schools, that's 50 bucks," she said.

Kasper said student advisers are able to access students' transcripts online. Currently, students and advisers receive different DARS reports. The student's version is several pages, she said, while the adviser's version is two pages.

She said the adviser version includes a student's name, transcript and even the student's picture, and wonders why the university cannot provide online transcripts to the student body.

"We're just asking why can't we get access to this," Kasper said.

Online transcripts would not work when students are asked to give an official transcript with the seal, Kasper said. Those students would still need to pay for the transcript, because the five dollars is used to pay for the paper, stamp and the staff.

In addition, the need for official documents is increasing, Gunile DeVault, associate registrar, said. He said people are concerned about documents being tampered with.

"People are more concerned with official documents," he said. "People are nervous about security and any documents that could be altered."

He said the ease of doctoring an online transcript would be a concern for K-State officials.

However, security is not the only reason for K-State not having online transcripts.

Kasper said K-State has been busy trying to develop K-State Online. Thus, online transcripts have not been a concern.

She said another reason for not having them is that students have not complained.

"No one has said, 'Hey, transcripts are expensive. Let's do something about it,'" Kasper said.

She said other universities provide ways for students to spend less. For example, Fort Hays State University allows students three free transcripts per semester Kasper said.

Kasper said convenience is another advantage of online transcripts. She said having to go to Anderson Hall to make the copy can be a hassle, and if students were able to print a copy from their home computer, it would save time.

"It's convenient and inexpensive," she said.

POLICE | Departments affected by deployment

Continued from Page 1

National Guard."

French said positions probably won't be filled during the employees' absences due to budget structure. He said current employees will work overtime and the work schedule will be altered to make up for any absences.

"We don't have part-time employees, but if the military gives extensions, we'll eventually have to hire other people." But hiring other officers isn't easy.

"Law enforcement officers have to be certified, and that takes about 11 weeks," French said. "If we hire someone else, we'll have to count on losing them eventually."

French said the detectives' departure could cause additional problems in the courts.

"They have cases pending in the court systems," he said. "We're working with the judicial system to get depositions, but it could delay court proceedings."

Riley isn't the only county hurting.

Other law enforcement agencies could be in even worse shape, French said.

"Mobilization is affecting the smaller departments more than it is ours," he said. "Places like the Pottawatomie County Sheriff's Department could be affected to a much higher degree than us."

Pottawatomie County Sheriff Greg Riat said one part-time officer was deployed about one month ago, and three other full-time officers could be deployed.

"If they took all our reserves, then it would absolutely affect the department," he said.

However, Riat said the 19-officer department is prepared. He said the department would rearrange shifts and rely on part-time officers more if other reservists were deployed. He and other supervisors could also leave some of their administrative duties by the wayside and work the front lines, Riat said.

"We've set up contingency plans, we've really thought about this," he said. "We aren't going to be caught by surprise. We'll continue to provide protection for Pottawatomie County, uninterrupted."

This may not be the last round of employees to leave RCPD either.

"We have probably another four or five officers and employees associated with the National Guard who have not been called yet, so it's always a question of will they or won't they," he said.

French said he doesn't know if more reservists will be deployed.

"That's a question every employer in the nation is asking, 'are there going to be more?,' but I don't have the answer to that."

FEHR | Love of the game enough to merit interest

Continued from Page 8

neck speed, 10 feet off the bag when the shortstop turns with the ball.

Everybody leans forward because they know as soon as the shortstop cuts it loose that it's going to be close. There's the smack of the glove when the ball gets there a second before the runner, taken by the catcher kneeling on either side of the plate.

The runner lowers his shoulder and drives the catcher's mitt back into the chest protector, the backstop's head snaps back, spit goes flying, and the runner splits his eyebrow open on the mask. And the ball comes loose. Or doesn't.

The words to describe the poetry of that moment aren't in me. And that's why I watch.

At 6 tonight, one of college baseball's storied programs comes to town in Wichita State. And your 5-2 Wildcats are a team that can beat the nationally ranked Shockers.

Can I guarantee a play at the plate? Nope.

But I can tell you Frank Myers Field at Tointon Family Stadium will play host to baseball worth watching tonight.

Anyone searching for a moment to hang onto ought to make it out.

Ben is a senior in social sciences. You can e-mail him at fehr7@k-state.edu

2003 Royal Purple yearbook
we've got the stories you've got to read.

Buy your copy for $34.95 in Kedzie 103
or call 532-6555.

Potter's Babes n Beards Bash!
Fat Tuesday March 4th
Don't miss Potter's Beards & Babes
"start yo fat tuesday rit here"
$2 MGD & Live Beards
Crawfish Dinner 3-9 pm
FREE Prizes
Coolin' on the Patio
100 Free T-Shirts @ 6 pm

MARCH MADNESS AT SALON 1
3104 Anderson
539-3626
Heather
$20 Pedicures
$20 Manicures
$15 Off Women's Foil Highlights
$10 Men's Haircuts
Please mention ad when scheduling
valid with Heather only
Offer expires 3/31/03

JOE'S TAP ROOM
$2 Big Beers tons of beads prizes
Live DJ earn your beads
Your FAT TUESDAY Headquarters

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!
Delivers the latest! Pizza & Pub
770-3333
stick it to me Tuesday
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY-TUESDAY
DORM special
12" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 12" POKEY STICKS $5.99
14" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 14" POKEY STICKS $6.99
M - TH, ONLY TOPPINGS EXTRA + CAMPUS ADDRESS ONLY
Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Wednesday / minimum 6
pizza sauce / ranch extra + tax.
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY MINIMUM DELIVERY $6.99

No more War "?"
Stop, Breathe, Look inside
Date: March 5
Time: 1:30 to 3:00 p.m.
Forum Hall
Episcopal Student Ministry (Canterbury)
St. Isidore's Catholic Student Ministry
Lutheran Campus Ministry (ELCA)
Mennonite Student Ministry
Cats for Christ
Quest Campus Ministries
World Christian Fellowship
Victory Campus Ministry
Campus Crusade for Christ
Ichthus Student Ministry
*Campus Ministers will share their Christian faith perspectives on whether war is justifiable or not
*All faith perspectives are welcome to attend and participate
*2:00 p.m. open mic for questions of panelists and personal reflections

Kinesiology Student Association Meeting
Tuesday March 4 Union 207
6:30 Speaker Jeff Bullock, physical therapist from Mercy Health Center 7:00 Speaker Chad Joyce, physical therapist from Orthopedic and Sports Medicine Center
Everyone Welcome!

2003 Spring GRADUATION FAIR

Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday
March 3, 4 & 5 12p-7p

Announcements by
C-B Announcements

Diploma Frames by University Frames

CLASSIFIEDS

Tuesday, March 4, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 11

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO next to campus. $330/month plus deposit, no pets. June and August leases. (785)456-2812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio one, two, three, and four-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722

AUGUST, TWO-BEDROOM apartments, central air, dishwasher, disposal, 518 Osgage. See daily 5:30, 1026 Bluemont see at 5p.m.

AVAILABLE AUGUST= Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU, Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 1230 Claflin, across street from Ford Hall, 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Starting $550. Also, nice one-bedroom apartment. Heat, water, trash two-thirds paid. Laundry. $360/month. Nice large two-bedroom apartment, heat, water, trash, three-fourths paid, laundry. $480. (785)539-2482.

FOUR-BEDROOM LARGE luxury apartment across street from west campus with two bedrooms. Like new. No pets. No smokers. $1200. (785)776-6318.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment for rent 1215 Poyntz. Water and trash paid. No pets. June lease. (785)313-4812.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Claflin.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus, $405/month plus deposit, no pets, 1225 Claflin. (785)456-2812.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOM TWO bath house, 500 block of Bluemont, available August 1, no pets, $875 plus utilities, laundry included, (785)776-9573, leave message.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

TWO, THREE, four-bedroom. Close to campus, central air, heat, laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2307 ANDERSON, six-bedroom house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

TWO-BEDROOM AUGUST lease. Close to campus. (785)539-2857.

724 KEARNEY, four-bedroom, two bath, central air, washer/dryer, June 1. No pets/ smoking $1200. (785)776-9719.

820 Osgage June 1, four-bedroom/ two bathrooms, washer/dryer, central air, see at 5:15p.m.

AVAILABLE JUNE 2nd, six-bedroom, two bath, two kitchens, three floors, central air, washer/dryer. Located at 1011 Laramie. $275 per person plus utilities and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease, $900 per month washer/dryer/ central air. 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, hard wood floors, washer/ dryer hookups, no pets. June lease. 1310 N. 10th. $1150. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

GREAT HOMES in great campus locations. Homes available June 1, 2003. 2700 College View- lot's of living space! Four bed/ two bath. Phone and cable jacks in every room. $1200 monthly. 926 Claflin- brand new interior! Four bed/ two bath. Open floor plan. Really close to campus. $1300 monthly. 314 S. 17th St. Very unique! Four bed/ two bath. $1200 monthly. Call Spirit Properties today. (785)587-0183.

HOMES AVAILABLE August 1, 2003. 1510 Leavenworth- Absolutely charming four bed/ two bath home. Beautiful hardwood floors! $300 monthly per bedroom. 1000 Thurston- A-Light and airy! Three bed/ two bath. Great location! $300 monthly. Call Spirit properties today. (785)587-0183.

NEAR CAMPUS. Three, six, and eight-bedroom houses. All appliances, central air. Attentive landlord June and August leases. No pets. (785)539-0549.

THREE-BEDROOM BRICK house all new paint with neutral carpet Central air, washer/ dryer hook-ups. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. 1517 Pipher. Call (785)313-4812 for appointment.

REASONABLE RENT, neutral colors and tons of space for only $275 a bedroom. This five-bedroom duplex has dishwasher, washer/dryer, central air with off street parking and 2400 square feet. 713 Moro. no pets. June lease. Call (785)313-4812 for appointment.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

THREE-BEDROOM NICE house with large rooms. West of campus. Garage and laundry room. No smoking. No pets. Available August. (785)776-6318.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air-conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment; could rent as five-bedroom house.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house, $350/month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)648-7253.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS 1620 McCain Starting at $925 Available for June and August 2 full baths Laundry facilities Off Street Parking CLOSE TO CAMPUS Model Showings Apt. #15 Tues. & Thurs. 3:30-6 Sat. 2-5 776-3804 www.mdi-manhattan.com

115
Rooms Available

2505 Winnie. Newly remodeled brick ranch, spacious three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets. Quiet neighborhood, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706, evenings.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1. Five-bedroom, two baths, 1415 LeGore Lane, year lease. $280 per bedroom, washer/ dryer hook-up, central air. (785)776-7202.

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bathroom. Central air. Laundry hook-ups, no pets. August lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)556-5668.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry. Available June 1. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

Discover Brittney Ridge TOWNHOMES *4 Bedrooms w/ study *2 1/2 Baths *Washer/ Dryer in each unit *Sand Volleyball Court *1440 sq. ft. Starting at $940 776-3804 Model Showings 2521 Candelcrest M, W, Th 3-6 Sat 12-3 McCullough Development

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, four blocks from campus, off-street parking. (785)776-3114.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-WEST of KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

Park Place Apartments Make this your first stop. 1, 2 & 3 Bedrooms 539-2951

THREE-BEDROOM TWO bathroom with showers. (785)776-3114.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1. $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, WASH-ER/ dryer hook-up, off-street parking. June / August lease. 1616 pierre 2620/ month. (785)539-2347.

130
For Rent-
Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1993 16X 80 Schult three-bedroom, two bath. Fenced yard, dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator included. $16,500. #187 Colonial Gardens. (785) 313-2997.

AFFORDABLE TWO-BED-ROOM, one bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext.1436.

115
Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered. $300-$325/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 Winnie. Newly remodeled brick ranch, spacious three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets. Quiet neighborhood, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706, evenings.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1. Five-bedroom, two baths, 1415 LeGore Lane, year lease. $280 per bedroom, washer/ dryer hook-up, central air. (785)776-7202.

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bathroom. Central air. Laundry hook-ups, no pets. August lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)556-5668.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry. Available June 1. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

Discover Brittney Ridge TOWNHOMES *4 Bedrooms w/ study *2 1/2 Baths *Washer/ Dryer in each unit *Sand Volleyball Court *1440 sq. ft. Starting at $940 776-3804 Model Showings 2521 Candelcrest M, W, Th 3-6 Sat 12-3 McCullough Development

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, four blocks from campus, off-street parking. (785)776-3114.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-WEST of KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

Park Place Apartments Make this your first stop. 1, 2 & 3 Bedrooms 539-2951

THREE-BEDROOM TWO bathroom with showers. (785)776-3114.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1. $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, WASH-ER/ dryer hook-up, off-street parking. June / August lease. 1616 pierre 2620/ month. (785)539-2347.

130
For Rent-
Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1993 16X 80 Schult three-bedroom, two bath. Fenced yard, dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator included. $16,500. #187 Colonial Gardens. (785) 313-2997.

AFFORDABLE TWO-BED-ROOM, one bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext.1436.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES east of KSU, country setting, three-bedroom, two bath. 1997 mobile home on two city lots. Chain link fence $38,000. Kaw Valley Realty (785)456-2061.

145
Roommate
Wanted

CLOSE TO Aggieville, off-street parking, washer/ dryer, no smoking or pets. $180/ month plus utilities. Available immediately. (785)313-6084.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed for August 1 lease. All appliances provided. $250/ month, one-fourth utilities. Call Mandy or Jenny (785)323-1480.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Next to Aggieville, one block from campus. June or August lease. $235/ month plus one-third bills. Leave message. (785)770-9515.

ONE TO two-bedrooms immediately available. Brittany Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)632-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUBLEASER NEEDED available April 1. Rent $250/ month plus one-third utilities, two blocks from campus. (785)539-8955, ask for Lacey.

TWO-BEDROOM, WATER/ trash paid. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. Smoking, no pets, $550/ month. Contact, (785)537-4114.

200
service directory

300 employment/
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

AD SALES, PR, Distribution. Part-time internship. Well-paid, flexible hours. E-mail resume/ GPA to ucal@bendnet.com with "intern" in subject line.

BABYSITTER NEEDED for two year old in my house on weekends during the day. Must have references. Pay discussed upon interview. Please call (785)313-2147.

310
Help Wanted

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)-293-3985 ext. 548.

BE A summer camp counselor/ educator in Kansas. Wildwood Outdoor Education Center 45 minutes south of Kansas City seeks qualified counselors to lead educational and recreational activities. June-August. Salary DOE plus room and board. All are welcome to apply. WSJ and male staff strongly needed. (913)757-4500 or wildwood@people-telecom.net

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajo.com.

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000- $5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571. Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

DIRECTOR OF youth ministry, full-time. Must have love for Christ and young people; preferably trained or experienced in youth and family ministry; strong leadership, administrative, and teaching skills. Able to work cooperatively. To apply, contact First Lutheran Church, 930 Poyntz, Manhattan, KS (785)537-8532.

DISABLED WAMEGO male seeks home health aide for the position of personal assistant. Day, weekend, and overnight shifts available. $7.25/ hour or $25.00/ nights. Serious applicants only. Please call Pastor Dave at (785)537-8532. (785)313-5465 or (785)537-1892.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com.

HELP WANTED; earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. INFO 1-985-646-1700 DEPT. KS-6438.

KSU EXPERIENCED photography student wanted to photograph a wedding. Call (785)776-4643.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

MASTER LANDSCAPE. A growing local landscape firm has a greenhouse/ grower position open. This requires a detail-oriented, motivated, full-time individual. Other position also available. Competitive compensation. Call (785)539-2842.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day!! 1(888)820-0164 extension 1016.

OFFICE ASSISTANT, Part-time/ full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full

U.S. reconnaissance planes intercepted by North Korean jets

By Robert Burns
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — North Korean fighter jets intercepted a U.S. Air Force reconnaissance plane over the Sea of Japan and one used its radar in a manner that indicated it might attack, U.S. officials said Monday.

Lt. Cmdr. Jeff Davis, a Pentagon spokesman, said it was the first such incident since August 1969 when a North Korean plane shot down a U.S. EC-121 surveillance plane, killing 31 Americans.

The latest incident happened Sunday morning Korean time, and there was no hostile fire, Davis said.

Four North Korean planes "shadowed" the American plane over international waters for about 20 minutes before breaking off, he said.

Two North Korean MiG29 fighters and two other aircraft that Davis said appeared to be MiG23 fighters intercepted the Air Force RC-135S reconnaissance plane, which Davis said was conducting a routine intelligence mission over the Sea of Japan about 150 miles off North Korea's coast.

The closest the fighters came was about 50 feet, Davis said.

He did not know whether there was any communication between the North Korean and American crews.

At one point one of the fighters "locked on" to the U.S. plane with its fire-support radar, Davis said. This is an action that would indicate a possible intent to fire, although in this case there was no hostile fire.

The U.S. plane broke off its mission and returned to its home station at Kadena Air Base in Japan, Davis said.

The incident happened amid heightened tensions between the United States and North Korea. The two countries have no formal diplomatic relations, and North Korea frequently complains that joint U.S.-South Korean military exercises are a prelude to a U.S.-led invasion.

The U.S. Air Force regularly flies U-2 spy plane missions to monitor North Korea's military, including its nuclear facilities.

RECOVERY | Cats look to set up play with rejuvenated spirit

Continued from Page 8

up a little bit — losing focus and just giving up on the season."

The drive behind the surprising spring in the Cats' step? It starts at the top, Siebrandt said.

When the Cats lost four in a row to finish the month, Wooldridge kept his patience and reassured his players. Wooldridge's vote of confidence made an impression on Siebrandt.

"I think in the last few weeks we lost ourselves as a team, and we didn't know what we were about anymore," the senior forward said.

Rejuvenated or not, K-State will have to show up in style if it harbors plans to steal a win tonight against Texas.

Texas doesn't register any scorers in the conference top 10 and only has three who score in double figures. But that isn't to say the Longhorns lack firepower.

The Horns are No. 20 in the nation in scoring margin and No. 24 in scoring offense.

"They are a great team," Wooldridge said. "They have all the ingredients of a team that can go as far as can be gone in the NCAA Tournament."

Texas is led by All-America candidate T.J. Ford. The Longhorn guard leads the Big 12 in assists and leads the team in scoring with 14.8 points.

Texas coach Rick Barnes said having a horse like Ford in the stable supplies the assurance his team needs.

"It gives you supreme confidence. Not only myself, but he gives his teammates that too," he said.

"He can handle pressure and will get us really good looks at the basket. He can be a one-man fast break and he clearly puts a lot of pressure on people working down the court."

After the Texas game, the Cats will wrap the regular season at home against Iowa State.

Facing a daunting task in Austin and a seemingly meaningless battle against the Cyclones later this week, it might be easy to finish the season and throw in the towel, Gilson Defesus said.

But K-State isn't done yet, the Cats leading scorer said.

"We're in our last week of the regular season, and we've still got to fight for something," he said. "We've still got one more road game and we haven't won a road game yet. We've still got hope, and we still have a chance."

Design selected for Sept. 11 memorial

By Pauline Jelinek
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Victims of the Sept. 11 attack on the Pentagon will be remembered outside the massive Defense Department headquarters by a grove of trees, 184 lighted pools and benches engraved with the names of those who died.

Pentagon officials announced Monday that the memorial's design, by two New York architects, had been chosen from among more than 1,100 entries in a competition.

The two-acre memorial will be 165 feet from the Pentagon, near the spot where terrorists crashed a hijacked jetliner into the building.

The benches will sit atop small lighted reflecting pools, arranged by age of the victims, from 3 to 71, and positioned parallel to the plane's flight path, officials said. The Sept. 11, 2001, crash killed 125 people in the building and 64 on the plane. The five al-Qaeda hijackers are not among the 184 people honored by the memorial.

"The thing I liked about it was it was a collective memorial and an individual memorial, yet it told the story of what happened on that day," said Jim Laychak, who served on the victims' family steering committee.

His brother, 40-year-old David Laychak, was a civilian budget analyst for the Army who died in the attack.

Stephanie Dunn, widow of 39-year-old Navy Cmdr. Patrick Dunn, said the design satisfies her need for a place where her year-old daughter and other visitors someday will be able to sit and reflect on the lives of those lost.

Officials said they hope to have the memorial complete by Sept. 11 next year. Its cost is estimated at $4.9 million to $7.4 million, to be paid from contributions and other funds with no federal money.

The designers are Julie Beckman and Keith Kaseman of New York City.

VOTE | Plebiscite intended to reflect recommendations from students been enforced because I believe it's (not enforceable)," she said.

Continued from Page 1

"To have someone carry around a measuring tape and ticket people seems impractical. I don't know how you would logically do that."

Cook said the vote will give students the opportunity to finally take action on the policy, especially those who disagree with the policy.

"There were people that said both smokers and non-smokers felt that the 30-foot rule was a joke," he said. "Smokers felt they could smoke anywhere, and it developed into a battle because people thought it was a rights issue."

However, Cook said he would like to see a campus-wide smoking ban.

"There's nothing positive about smoking. There's a lot of negativity generated about it," he said. "It gives the campus a general negative feedback."

"If you have a recruit on campus and a smoker blows smoke on them during their tour or parents are worried about their son or daughter smoking, by taking that away K-State doesn't relate any unhealthy practices anymore."

Cook said that before the plebiscite decision, members of the Student Affairs Committee took a survey of about 800 students in human development classes posing questions similar to those found on the ballot. About 75 percent of the students were in favor of a ban, he said.

Kohman said that while he feels the plebiscite vote is a step in the right direction, he disagrees with campuswide ban.

"I think it should be looking toward designated smoking areas rather than banning it on campus," he said.

"We need to make sure to include everyone rather than elimininating the people who smoke."

One thing the pair said they do agree on is the importance of students voting on the issue.

"A plebiscite is a recommendation from the people," Kohman said. "The worse part about something like this is when it's done, people complain about it, and if you're not taking an active role in voting, then you should have no reason to complain at all."

"There will be people that complain, but I hope that everyone will exercise the right as a student to voice their opinion and at least vote for something that affects everybody."

Continued from Page 1

Sarah McCaffrey, president of the Panhellenic Council, said sororities were founded on love, friendship and trust in a greater being.

"You have to rely on the Lord and the greek community to get you through this difficult time," McCaffrey said.

To conclude the memorial service, the members of Sigma Kappa joined hands and sang the sorority's song, "St. Elmo's Fire," in honor of Bachman.

In addition to Bachman's sorority sisters, others offered their condolences to her family by telling how she had touched their lives.

Crystal Harris, senior in elementary education, worked with Bachman at Pizza Hut. She said Bachman's coworkers would miss her laugh, helpfulness and willingness to be there when others needed her.

"Some still need time to digest the reality," Harris said. "It's hard to believe she's gone."

Bachman's father, Everett Carpenter, read a poem titled "The Dash." The poem spoke of the dates of Bachman's life: 1981-2003.

The poem said the shortness of her life was saddening, but the dash — what she did with her life — is the more important.

"I think we can all agree," Carpenter said, "that Melissa spent her dash very well."

MEMORIAL | Friends, family of Bachman gather to remember

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

Tomnight
Live on Stage
TEN TIL BLUE
Tripwire
• Tons of beads given away! •

Thursday
Kappa Sigma Wildcat
WOMEN'S CALENDAR CONTEST
ROUND 2
$2 COORS LIGHT BOTTLES

Little Caesars
TUESDAY SPECIAL!
1 18" GIANT PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING
PLUS AN 8 PIECE ORDER OF CRAZY BREAD
$8.99
539-3333
PLUS TAX DELIVERY CHARGE MAY APPLY

Laundro-mutt
Affordable self-service
baths for your dog.
Elevated bath, shampoo,
towel and dryer provided.
Call for details
Bark Avenue Canine Designs
607 N. 11th • 565-0612

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
Free 10" one topping
pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or
more toppings.
For the fastest delivery,
lunch or late night call 776-5577

Apple Station
FREE Budweiser throw w/ every purchase of Bud Light pitcher starting at $4
Bud Light
Pitcher
$2 Learn near everything that is local

Bobby T's
#1 Sports Bar & Grill
$1.50
Margaritas
50¢ Tacos
$1.50 Draws
$2 Coronas
Taco Tuesday
Wednesday Night Karaoke 9pm

KANSAS STATE BASEBALL
MAKE THE CONNECTION
"Under the Lights"
K-State vs. Wichita State
Tues. March 4th, 2003 6 p.m.

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Pet Health ALERT
Have you had your dog tested for heartworms this year?
The Pet Health Center recommends annual testing of all dogs over 6 months of age
The Pet Health Center Heartworm Clinic will be
March 10-14
Call 532-5690 to make an appointment
Dogs must be at least 5 1/2 months old to be tested
The Pet Health Center at Kansas State University
Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital
Quality, compassionate care...for life

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN VOTERS' GUIDE

Tuesday, March 4, 2003

SGA Elections 2003

Vote at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu

BATTLE OF THE SEXES?

John O'Hara and Tammy Jo Osborne, presidential candidates

Photos by Nicole Donnet | COLLEGIAN

Candidates say gender isn't a defining issue in SGA elections; ask voters to study platforms

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Candidates agree gender shouldn't play a role in elections — but it might.

This year's election is the first in which an all-female ticket has made a run for the presidency since 1995, Mark Threeton, elections chair, said.

"It could be a subconscious factor," presidential candidate Tammy Jo Osborne said. "But it's something we must fight against and utilize all individuals for their qualifications."

Travis Stryker, the vice-presidential candidate running against Osborn, said he has not noticed anyone at K-State making the candidates' gender an issue during the elections.

"It's past that," Stryker said. "You should vote for someone if you strongly feel you can relate to them — that's good politics."

Osborn said the topic of the all-female ticket had not been mentioned until a campaign meeting Saturday night. She said gender was not an issue prior to that meeting.

Osborn said she did not consider gender in choosing running mates. Instead, finding someone who complemented her and adhered to integrity and morals was more important, she said.

The idea of an all-female ticket does supplement the pair's slogan, though.

"I guess it adds to the idea of a new twist," Julie Quackenbush, vice presidential candidate, said.

Rather than winning votes because of their gender, Osborn and Quackenbush hope to garner popular support among students.

The backbone of their campaign, Osborn said, is that people support what they help create. Building popular support in the elections and allowing students to have a hand in the process will help the office grow, she said.

Likewise, O'Hara said he also hopes to gain support from the student body. He said he is hoping for a better voter turnout this week than there was for the primary election.

"Any time you have 22,000 students, 12 percent is not representative of the entire student body," O'Hara said.

"I hope they will get out and vote for the person who will be representing them for the next year."

What does separate the candidates, Stryker said, are experience and issues.

Stryker said he and O'Hara have a good variety of experience. O'Hara is the current Senate chair and Stryker is the privilege fee committee chair. He said students can relate to their platform.

"Before we start new stuff, let's make it solid," Stryker said.

Osborn, though, said looking toward the future is what separates the two tickets. She said her focus on communication would be beneficial to the student body.

"Our issues are not bound to anything present," she said.

"They will enhance the university, as well as students' lives."

Whatever the differences between the two tickets, all candidates agreed the voters should focus on the issues and the candidates' atti-

Vote today

■ Voting for the general election begins at 8 a.m. today and ends at 6 p.m. Wednesday. All voting will be done online at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu. Voters can use their home computers or university computer labs. Results will be announced at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday on KSDB-FM 91.9 and on Channel 8.

Students have the opportunity to vote for:

- Student body president/vice president
- Board of Student Publications
- College Councils
- Fine Arts Council
- Student Senate
- Union Governing Board

tudes rather than any outward appearances.

"Everybody's got stereotypes," Osborn said. "I believe individuals must challenge themselves to look above and beyond looking at the appearance of candidates and find out everything they can about the candidates and the issues."

"Knowledge is crucial to the idea of democracy that we hold so dear."

THE PLATFORMS

John O'Hara,
Travis Stryker

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

John O'Hara and Travis Stryker, candidates for student body president and vice president, want students to be aware of problems on campus.

The pair said K-State has access to resources that will help solve those problems, and if elected, they plan to hold the right people accountable to fix those problems.

O'Hara and Stryker said their campaign initiatives won't require any additional funding from students, but instead will use the revenue from the increased tuition that students are already paying.

Awareness, Access and Accountability, the pair's campaign slogan, plays into all four of their platform issues.

First, O'Hara and Stryker want to change K-State's wait-list procedure. They say the $9 per credit hour students pay for technology should be used toward making the system more efficient, effective and consistent across the university.

The pair also wants to hold the administration accountable to take revenue from the tuition increase and put it toward increasing diversity.

Stryker said Student Senate allocated an additional $14,000 to multicultural groups to increase events and programs that celebrate diversity. He said he and O'Hara would like to see the administration make a similar effort.

O'Hara and Stryker plan to change the Dead Week policy as well.

Although Faculty Senate is in the process of changing the current policy from prohibiting tests five days before Finals Week to seven days, the pair said there is a bigger issue.

O'Hara said giving students quizzes, papers and projects the week before final exams is contradictory to what Dead Week was intended to be.

The pair's final initiative is to hold the administration accountable to use revenue from the tuition increase to raise wages for student employees and graduate teaching assistants.

Stryker said these groups are a great resource to K-State, and unfortunately, K-State may be losing GTAs to neighboring schools that pay more. Also, he said, it's unfortunate that student employees have to deal with the tuition increase, but are not receiving a pay increase as well.

Tammy Jo Osborn,
Julie Quackenbush

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tammy Jo Osborn and Julie Quackenbush say they will bring a new twist to campus through their four original platform issues, which are well-researched, achievable and without additional costs to students.

And that, they say, is what sets them apart.

Quackenbush said the pair will continue to monitor issues like Dead Week, wait lists and student-to-teacher ratios, but students, faculty and administrative leaders are already working to implement solutions to these problems.

If elected, Quackenbush said all platform issues are achievable during their term and won't add to budget problems. In addition, she said they guarantee that their proposals will not cost students anything more, not directly or through hidden costs or mandates.

The pair's first platform issue is the development of a student-lobbying group, known as PULSE. Osborn said the group will teach students to contact university, local, state and national government officials to voice concerns. She said the group will also disseminate budget data and other information to the student body.

Developing a new Wildcat Weekend is also on the pair's agenda.

Osborn said the improved orientation program will provide students a change to acclimate themselves to university lifestyle, making the transition easier for new students.

A student involvement portfolio is next on the pair's to-do list.

The online service is a visual and electronic way for students to show their skills and training to employers, alumni and current and prospective students, Quackenbush said.

The pair's fourth issue, a United University Safety Board, will proactively address safety concerns, Quackenbush said.

The joint committee will improve and reinstate the Wildcat Walk program and ensure that all students needs are being met as SafeRide is implemented.

Quackenbush said they have done their homework and are eager to implement proposed programs. She said when she and Osborn take office, they will be prepared and ready.

Election short on candidates; nominations may occur

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While some campaigns during the general elections Tuesday and Wednesday will be competitive races among candidates vying for the same job, others will be handed out to whoever filed on time.

In many cases, scheduling conflicts or a lack of interest in running can limit the number of candidates in a race for student government, said Bill Harlan, interim assistant coordinator of Student Activities and Services.

Four Senate races – for the Colleges of Education, Human Ecology and Veterinary Medicine and the graduate school position – as well as each college council, have at least one position that will not be filled by a candidate on the ballot, according to a list of candidates on the election Web site.

Harlan said many students filed to run, but missed the mandatory meetings and were therefore not allowed on the ballot.

Bill Muir, assistant vice president for student life, said the College of Veterinary Medicine and graduate school often have trouble filling the ballot, but they usually find representation.

"It's not a problem as far as getting people to serve," Muir said, "but it's more of a filing issue."

Write-in candidates could be offered the open positions, Elections Chair Mark Threeton said. If write-in candidates do not fill the positions, each college council may nominate a senator, who must be approved by Senate.

Filling vacant positions on college councils will be the responsibility of each college.

Muir said that despite a persistent shortage of candidates on the ballot, most Senate positions are usually filled. This year, he said, 58 of the 60 positions were filled.

Virginia Moxley, associate dean of the College of Human Ecology, said there usually are plenty of interested willing to run for office, but that there was a lack of communication this year about the filing deadline.

"We didn't learn of the deadline until it was literally too late for the students to apply, which we regret," Moxley said.

Moxley said she is unsure of where the communication faltered, but said it is important to maintain contact when students are only at K-State for four years.

"We had almost all new players this year," Moxley said. "That's a phenomenon of student life."

To compensate, Moxley is encouraging students to begin write-in campaigns. She said that students who are interested in being in Senate or college councils should tell their friends to write in their names.

In the College of Education, only two candidates filed to run for 15 open positions on the college council.

David Griffin, associate professor of education and college council adviser, said there is no pattern to how many students apply for open positions.

There is no single explanation for the shortage, Griffin said, but that there sometimes simply isn't an interest from students to participate.

But Moxley said the opportunity to get involved in Senate or college council is invaluable.

Candidate shortage

Some races on the election ballot have more open positions than they do candidates.

Office	Term	Positions	Candidates
Board of Student Publications	1 year	3	0
Fine Arts Council	2 years	1	0
Union Governing Board	2 years	3	2
Education senator		5	4
Graduate school senator		8	2
Human ecology senator		4	3
Vet Med senator		1	0
Ag council activities director		1	0
Architecture council		8	6
Arts and sciences council		12	6
Business council		15	9
Education council		15	2
Engineering council external vice president		1	0
Human ecology council		16	3

"Student leadership is one of the most important experiences a student can gain in college," she said.

As for future elections, Moxley said the college will make an effort to get information out to students so enough in advance so that students will have time to file before the deadline.

"A lot of students were interested, but didn't make the connection," she said. "We'll do better next year."

Meet the candidates

Each candidate was asked to fill out a survey concerning their goals for the positions for which they are running. Answers were cut off after the 20-word limit. Some of these candidates may not appear on the ballot because they were disqualified.

Patrice Holderbach
BOARD OF STUDENT PUBLICATIONS
(2-YEAR TERM)

1. Why should students vote for you?
I bring to our community experience from the Collegian, the Topeka Capital Journal and KSDB 91.9 FM.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to encourage a more productive relationship between Student Publications and KSDB 91.9 FM.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
New media and multimedia opportunities exist and are not being employed to the community's fullest advantage.

Jason Heaser
UNION GOVERNING BOARD
(2-YEAR TERM)

1. Why should students vote for you?
My involvement within UGB will reflect my personal goal to increase student activation and awareness.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To increase student involvement and opinions through the UGB planning and operations processes.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
If you are reading this then please recognize that you and students like you are the issue for every year.

Dustin Kammerer
UNION GOVERNING BOARD
(TERM NOT STATED)

1. Why should students vote for you?
I care about making a difference and I feel UGB needs a proactive voice for its governing body.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to make sure that the services that students want are offered.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Making sure the Union stays profitable.

David McCandless
UNION GOVERNING BOARD
(1-YEAR TERM)

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have 2 years experience on UGB, including president and vice president, so I have experience.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Continue what I started and see the Union successful at serving students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
How can we best serve the students of K-State?

Jason Hitchcock
FINE ARTS COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I would like to bring more diverse program to K-State.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To bring something to K-State that sparks interest.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
No response.

Victoria Lowdon
FINE ARTS COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am responsible, hard working, have good ideas and am willing to listen so we can create programs students want.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Quality fine arts programs and opportunities and increased student interest and involvement.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
A major problem related to the Fine Arts programs at K-State is ineffective advertising.

Joseph Blecha
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
PUBLIC RELATIONS DIRECTOR

1. Why should students vote for you?
I feel as though I am an experienced candidate who will be able to effectively communicate with the public.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To continue the positive image of the College of Agriculture and encourage more involvement in the College of Agriculture.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The negative stereotypes and misconceptions of agriculture, along with all the biotechnology, trade and environmental issues in today's agriculture community.

Alicia Dale
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
PRESIDENT

1. Why should students vote for you?
My experience as a leader on Ag Council has given me insight to promote our college. I'm dedicated and outgoing.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Increase club participation. I envision Ag Council as a pro-active, dynamic part of our college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Recruitment Ag has a bright future. We need to recruit and educate prospective students about opportunities and careers in agriculture.

Troy Soukup
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
PRESIDENT

1. Why should students vote for you?
I enjoy agriculture, I have two years experience on Ag Council, and I'd be a good ambassador for the college.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Promote the College of Agriculture through increased awareness of college activities, and ensure students fully benefit from student activity funds.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
We need to continue to promote the College of Agriculture to keep enrollment numbers increasing, despite rising tuition costs.

Amber Brazle
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
SECRETARY

1. Why should students vote for you?
In every endeavor, I strive to give each duty and responsibility 110 percent and see it through to the end.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
As secretary, my responsibilities would include keeping accurate organizational records and dispensing information to members about all current issues.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The lack of resources which allow the students in the college the opportunity for applied research and hands-on experience.

Caleb McNally
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
SECRETARY

1. Why should students vote for you?
I'm able to dedicate my time, good work ethic, and strong leadership background to become more involved with the college.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to increase the involvement and participation of the students with activities we sponsor.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
One important issue has to do with the decreasing budget. Another is keeping enrollment numbers at a competitive level.

Kent Nichols
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
TREASURER

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am currently a member of Ag Council, and would like to represent everyone in the College of Agriculture again.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Make sure that budget cuts doesn't cause SGA to allocate less money to the College of Agriculture.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Tuition increasing is important to the College of Agriculture.

Tim Pralle
AGRICULTURE COUNCIL
TREASURER

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a dedicated and hardworking leader who understands what it takes to serve in an Ag Council position.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I will stress the importance of using our limited budget in the best for all College of Agriculture students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Important student programs and services which are being limited due to the declining budget we have available.

Adam Arehart
ARCHITECTURE COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a responsible, reliable student with ambition to be involved and make a difference.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Help the college work around budget cuts and get more students involved in college organizations.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Losing faculty, staff and accreditation as a result of state education budget cuts.

Gretchen Johnson
ARCHITECTURE COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a hard-working person who wants to help maintain existing and develop new programs for the College of Architecture.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to introduce new programming that would benefit all students in the College of Architecture.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue is the loss of faculty members due to budget cuts.

Katie Martin
ARCHITECTURE COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
Students should vote for me because I am easy to talk to, dependable and full of great ideas.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
If elected, I will try to get DSAC more involved in activities to help benefit the college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Funding is a major issue facing our college. I will help organize activities to help raise funding for our college.

Amy Mattingly
ARCHITECTURE COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I'm aware of our financial woes. I'm a hard worker and want to help find new solutions to this problem.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to make sure students are affected as little as possible by our current budget constraints.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
I don't want to lose any great faculty due to our budget woes. Happy faculty = Happy students.

Sarah Puchosic
ARCHITECTURE COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I encompass the leadership skills needed for the position and have the best intentions for the college in mind.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to achieve more organization and communication throughout the college departments and educate students about our various disciplines.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The effect of the budget crisis on the education of current students and how we must maximize education throughout departments.

Luke Urie
ARCHITECTURE COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
People should vote for me, because I am outgoing and friendly.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to achieve more student involvement in activities.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
If elected I would get students more involved and help fund for activities.

Christine Baker
ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I served on Senate this year and will use my experience to serve the college.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to increase communications between SGA, students and faculty.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts from the state. Losing state funds means higher tuition and cut programs.

Glenda Blackman
ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am hardworking and dedicated to helping my fellow students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
During my term I would like to achieve a better learning environment for those in the Arts and Sciences college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The budget is an issue facing my college cuts backs are affecting the learning process.

Seth Bridge
ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
As a past member of Arts and Sciences council, I am easily approachable and welcome your concerns. Contact me anytime.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to see an increase in the number of organizations seeking the council's funding.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Arts and Sciences Council must move forward and help establish relevant clubs and organizations within the college.

Jason Heaser
ARTS AND SCIENCES COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
My involvement within SGA has allowed me to view the reorganization of allocations so that I may better serve students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Increased student organization activation within the College of Arts and Sciences through communication and better allocation of funds.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The rewriting of College Council Allocations is the newest and most prominent issue for Arts and Sciences.

David Hart
BUSINESS COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a hard-working freshman with new ideas and want to get involved early to learn and help out.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
As a Business major I would like to continue to push for the reinstatement of Business honors.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
If there will be continual budget cuts in future and how can we help the Business college.

Scott Tatro
BUSINESS COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I feel I am a hard-working, motivated individual who can represent the needs of business students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would listen to my and make sure their voices are heard and opinions addressed.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Allocating appropriate amounts of money to all business organizations and for student's needs.

Maggie Trambly
BUSINESS COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
From my experience on the CBA council, I understand the importance of allocating the limited budget to benefit students most.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to increase the activity of the CBA council and utilize it to benefit the CBA more.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The CBA is in severe financial trouble and is having to cut programs that are essential to the college.

Andrea Yadon
BUSINESS COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
Because I am a good representative of the common student and I have a lot to offer on Business Council.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to make sure that more students can take classes they need when they need them.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Ensuring engineering student groups are aware of the new SGA funding guidelines and the new legislative developments concerning higher education.

Kristin Kiehnhoff
EDUCATION COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I will work hard to bring about the changes that students want and need for a better education at K-State.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like the Education department to become more involved in activities on campus.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Awareness of opportunities is the most important issue facing the College of Education. Spreading awareness is key.

Wes Pike
EDUCATION COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am willing to serve, eager to learn, and ready to provide ideas and action for the College of Education.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I hope to offer valuable input towards improvement in the college and to gain friendships with my fellow education students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Managing a decreasing budget while still providing quality education is probably the most important issue facing any college at K-State.

Kim Bartak
ENGINEERING COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am finishing up a term as VP-Internal, and I've been Director of Publicity before that.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
More E-Week events and increase participation in council activities.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts. The college has already been forced to eliminate certain programs.

Sam Meier
ENGINEERING COUNCIL
VICE-PRESIDENT INTERNAL

1. Why should students vote for you?
Along with two years of Student Senate experience, I also have two years of ESC experience.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Hopefully expand the horizons of ESC and get more people involved.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Ensuring engineering student groups are aware of the new SGA funding guidelines and the new legislative developments concerning higher education.

Liza Dunn
HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am an innovative, committed individual and I will work hard for the students in the College of Human Ecology.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to see more students knowing about and being involved in the decisions affecting our college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Our college is one of the fastest growing on campus and we need new ways to support the new students.

Melinda Greene
HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
I would like to get more scholarships for Human Ecology students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To have more of our Telefund money go to scholarships.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
No response.

Darla Orth
HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL

1. Why should students vote for you?
My experience as president of Human Ecology Council will allow me to be a valuable resource to next year's council.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
The further implementation of changes, initiated this year and continuing to bridge the gap between faculty and students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The current budget situation is a real problem that will require a great deal of communication and creative thinking.

Jason Amy
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
If elected, I would represent the student body in a fair, unbiased manner while constantly working towards improving K-State.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see the college tighten its spending, since we are in a time of financial difficulty.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue facing K-State is the lack of financial support from the state.

Lori Alexander
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
My dedication, communication skills and experience as a senator make me a strong candidate.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to make sure students understand how SGA affects their K-State experience.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
With enrollment down 7 percent in the College of Agriculture, we must make sure our voice is still heard.

Kale Becker
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a hard-working student that wants to represent Kansas State at the Senate level.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to work on utilizing our funds from tuition more appropriately to benefit students and faculty.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Having sufficient funds to support our college. I hope to draw new and experienced faculty and keep the current facility.

Michael Burns
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a candidate that wants to continue to help find ways to improve student life here at K-State.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To make appropriate decisions concerning issues like student privilege fees that directly affect the whole KSU student body.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The issue of funding is a major concern facing not only the College of Agriculture, but K-State as a whole.

Whitney Coen
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Past leadership experiences have taught me the importance of determination and teamwork; these are assets I can bring to Senate.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to communicate to administrators and legislators the importance of maintaining K-State's academic programs and minimizing budget cuts.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
An important issue facing the College of Agriculture is financial needs and maintaining class availability and other beneficial programs.

Abby Lynn Crow
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Agriculture is a vital aspect of K-State. I would like the opportunity to represent the interests of our college.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to express issues that are important to K-State's agricultural community and ensure that action is taken toward progress.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
I believe our most important challenge will be maintaining high enrollment in agriculture during the massive shift to urban societies.

Craig Doane
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have a clear head enabling myself to think critical decisions through that will make a difference in students' lives.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to increase an understanding of what is happening on the KSU campus so everyone may be involved.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most critical issue facing the agriculture department is funding and keeping or increasing our finances.

Cody Echols
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I want to become more involved in the decisions that affect students and make sure their voices are heard.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see the tuition oversight committee be continued to best use students' money.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The budget cuts, making sure programs and clubs are not left out and they receive their fair share of money.

Jeremy Long
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Students should vote for me because I've been involved in Senate as an intern and love the College of Agriculture.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Help Student Senate be more efficient and boost the popularity of agriculture among all senators.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
One of the more pressing problems would be the better organization and cooperation of "major specific" clubs.

Jed Strnad
AGRICULTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I hope to listen to the concerns of fellow students and be a strong voice for the College of Agriculture.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to maintain the strong relationship between student leaders, faculty, and administration of the college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
One important issue is the tightening budget that may end up eliminating programs and services that benefit many students.

Lindsay Bethel
ARCHITECTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a hard-working and motivated individual who is dedicated to improving opportunities for students at Kansas State University.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to listen to the concerns and opinions of my constituents and make sure their voices are heard.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue facing the College of Architecture is the release of qualified faculty due to budget cuts.

Brad Kingsley
ARCHITECTURE SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
My experience on SGA, as well as other leadership positions, enables me to efficiently target issues that affect our department.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
In order for students to be proactive they need to be well informed. Raising awareness concerning university issues is key.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
This year presents exceptional adversity, it is critical to maintain our outstanding faculty in light of overwhelming budget cuts.

Christine Baker
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have served on Senate this semester and will use my knowledge to better serve the college.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to increase communication between SGA, faculty and students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts from the state. Losing funding means higher tuition and cut programs.

Katie Bartko
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am an organized person that communicates well with others and can always get the job done.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see more students participate in and understand SGA.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Obviously, budget cuts have hit us hard, but the students should not have to suffer because of it.

Stephanie Biggs
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I feel I am a good candidate because of my experience as an intern and my interest in K-State affairs.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like Senate to run more efficiently and continue the support KSU provides for its clubs and organizations.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Arts and Sciences is so large and diversified with majors that we need some common ground to unite us.

Seth Bridge
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
As a student senator and Chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee, I have received the experience to serve students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Students must be keyed into the tuition and state budget situation. These issues must be addressed more fully next year.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Faculty hiring freezes, increasing tuition, and lack of state funding are all issues that must be addressed immediately.

Vicki Conner
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have three years' experience with SGA and am willing to look at issues from a wide range of perspectives.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I hope to continue to make positive changes for KSU and accurately represent all Arts & Sciences students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
It will be vital to set priorities in terms of what can and cannot be cut due to budget constraints.

Layton Ehmke
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I'm comfortable in Student Senate, and I'm not a tool. Paro Altus.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to bring the K-State/KU basketball games to Ahearn and make it free for students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
We need more computers for JMC, in a major way.

Ashley Friesen
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a fellow student who wishes to actively research the issues and work aggressively to implement change.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to deal with the A&S issues in a fashion that upholds the best interest of my fellow students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The College of Arts and Sciences is facing severe budget cuts as well as issues concerning program diversity initiatives.

Jason Heaser
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Throughout my year as a SGA intern I have worked feverishly to put the student into Student Senate.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To continue the SGA newsletter in the Collegian. Also to lead the SASS committee in its drive for student connection.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Communication and connection between the students and SGA. Without the input of informed students SGA is shallow.

Jason Hitchcock
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
A liaison is need for student's use when problems with professional occur. The goal solve problems quickly.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Help with student teacher relations that problems are taken care of before semester over.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
As for all of campus its funding and too many students for teachers.

Eric Hoopingarner
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have an understanding of how Senate works and how to make sure students in my college are represented fairly.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see a free student concert put on each semester, with no charge to students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Technology. We need to set up an electronic marketplace to allow students to trade books, tickets, electronics, etc.

Naureen Kazi
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Having been on the executive branch of SGA, I have the vision, voice and conviction to make K-State a better.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Increase cultural awareness, make the enrollment process easier by working with academic affairs and ensure that students are growing intellectually.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget restraints have created anxiety, because we must find other funds to keep faculty and provide a stellar education.

Adam Kretzer
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I feel I am a smart, dedicated individual capable of handling any tasks put before me as a senator.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see the continuing success of organizations that might have suffered from Kansas budget shortcomings.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The recent budget cuts have left the College of Arts and Sciences in need of further financing.

Jared Kyner
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
With less of an academic load my senior year, I will devote much time to student government, representing your voice.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to get issues in the works like SafeRide passed through Senate. I also will implement new ideas.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts are a problem for everyone especially smaller colleges with degrees like mine. We have to stretch the dollars.

Sarah Laib
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have been involved with Student Senate this current year, and I have the desire to improve campus.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to work to keep tuition down for students, and also help to allocate funds more efficiently.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Tuition is a major concern facing the college. I also think that class availability for students is a serious issue.

Charity Lees
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
As a junior in fine arts, I will strive towards creative and effective ways of dealing with current issues.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see an improvement in the quality of studios, labs and classroom environments.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
I've had classes in nearly every arts and sciences building, and something's either broken or messed up in each one.

Victoria Lowdon
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am knowledgeable about K-State and care strongly about the issues we as students have to face and deal with.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to work with other students to provide beneficial opportunities for us during our time here at K-State.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
We need to work on continuing to provide quality education and opportunities for growth and involvement at an affordable price.

David McCandless
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Because of my experience with student government, and my commitment to advocate for all students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to make sure that a college education remains affordable for K-State students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The budget crisis facing the university could be devastating if the Legislature allows it to get worse.

Emily Meissen
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
From experience, I understand the dedication and hard work needed to serve students well, and will continue exercising these qualities.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to communicate my constituents, opinions and needs in order to enact changes that will benefit them.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Continuing to maintain a high level of education without decreasing class availability or increasing class size.

Charlie Miller
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Students should vote for me because of my concern for the overall well-being of the entire student body.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to increase both the interest and the funding in my college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Funding for the arts is an issue which has been traditionally overlooked in the past but hopefully not in the future.

Tammy Jo Osborn
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
My vision is to enhance communication between Senate and the student body.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I hope to work on creating Pulse, the Student Involvement Portfolio, New Wildcat Weekend and the United University Safety Board.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The budget crisis, the looming war, and lack of knowledge.

Liesl Ott
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I've had previous experience in Student Senate at another university and have held leadership roles. Most importantly, students are everything.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Communicating with students inside my department is my key goal. Their input is vital for effective representation.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
An important issue facing departments are recent budget cuts. Cuts should be made minimizing effects on the quality of education.

Ben Procter
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I'm experienced bringing issues to Student Senate that matter to A&S students — I will work to maintain quality programs.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want the Senate process to be accessible through fair representation with an equal voice to every individual and group.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The direct and indirect consequences of the budget crisis, including cuts in curriculum as well as services.

Abbie Rondeau
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have been an active member for two years and would love to continue serving students in the upcoming year.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To talk to students of Arts and Sciences and voice their opinions and concerns to the university and SGA.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Since budget cuts, I will make sure Arts and Sciences college gets the appropriate funding in the 2003-04 school year.

Paige Tibbetts
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Students should vote for me because I am dependable, motivated, and concerned about the issues that face K-State students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to achieve better awareness and responsiveness from the student body in regards to what SGA is doing.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Lack of funding for research, technology, special programs, etc. is the most important issue facing my college and other colleges.

Winston Wells
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I want to be completely accessible to students so they can play a direct part in the decision making process.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to achieve better communication between the Senate and students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Better funding for vital student services.

Laura Wood
ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
My experiences, such as serving as Governor of Girls State, provide me with political credibility and inspiration to make changes.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
K-State must strongly connect and communicate with the State Legislature. During the upcoming term we must prevent further budget cuts.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
From teaching assistant salaries to the cutting of classes, financial burdens will be the biggest challenge of the year.

Anne Bianculli
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I will represent the College of Business and its students in a positive manner.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to be active in my committee and become a leader within Senate.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Getting rid of programs without student consent. I.e. the Honor's Program.

Sheldon BucI
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I was an active senator last year and I served my constituents fairly and to the best of my ability.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to keep student fees down and spend our dollars as efficiently and effectively as possible.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Finding and retaining quality instructors and advisors in this time of economic crisis is the biggest challenge next year.

Regina Busse
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
My time spent as a senate intern has greatly prepared me for the opportunity to be your representative.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to see a stop in budget cuts and increase students knowledge of an participation in campus wide activities.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts have decreased funding drastically which hinders technological development and advancement for business students.

Zach Hauser
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Some candidates may pursue a personal agenda, if elected, my ambitions will be in the best interests of my constituents.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
A change of attitude is in order, the Business College and its students shouldn't suffer simply because of budget shortfalls.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The future of the honors program and the shrinking number of class sections are crucial issues facing the Business College.

Dustin Kammerer
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I care about making a difference and I feel Student Senate needs a proactive voice.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to make sure that students opinions are heard.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue facing the College of Business and all colleges is keeping tuition costs down.

Damian Lair
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have the necessary experience (two consecutive terms), the desire to continue serving, and am aware of the responsibilities entailed.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to continue our lobbying efforts in Topeka to keep tuition costs as low as possible for all students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
There is a serious shortage in the number of available sections for certain classes, relative to demand for them.

Melody McElwain
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am very interested in what the student body wants and what is best for the students. I would love.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to represent the College of Business and its students, and stand up for the wants and needs.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue facing the Business College is the wait lists to get into your proper classes at good.

John O'Hara
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Serving as Student Senate Chair and Allocations Chair has given me the necessary experience to positively represent the CBA.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I hope to improve the wait list procedures, increase the diversity programming, establish a true dead week and increase student.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Making sure students are able to get into the course they need to enable them to graduate on time.

Tom Roth
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I will work to eliminate the nesience (lack of knowledge/ignorance) that surrounds the Student Senate.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to listen to the students and try to promote what they want. Not to dictate to them.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
An ineffective governing association that does nothing to help our college or the university.

Thomas Stein
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a man of my word that promises to represent the people of the College of Business.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
The item of business that I personally want to accomplish is the reactivation of our business honors program.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
I believe that the most important issue facing my college is the current budget squeeze and cutting of our curriculum

Scott Tatro
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I feel that I am a hard working motivated individual who can represent the needs of business students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would strive to promote the best use of the business technology fee paid by all business students.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Ensure proper budgeting throughout the year that best first the needs of the students.

Lisa Tirrell
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
With two years experience, as well as serving as committee chair, I have the knowledge necessary to serve business students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to continue to be actively involved in my committee, as well as become a leader in Senate.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts. These affect the quality of programs offered, and determines the ones that the administration eliminates.

Maggie Trambly
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have worked hard on Senate for the past two years and will continue to work for my constituents.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to increase communication between students and their representatives so that the constituents voice is heard.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The CBA struggles with class availability and doesn't give students the opportunity to graduate in the desired number of years.

Hayley Urkevich
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have previous experience in Senate and I strongly believe that when student voices are heard, things can be changed.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see the revenue from increased tuition fees be used towards improving class availability in the CBA.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
It's important that programs and services are not cut as the College of Business Administration faces budget constraints.

John Wagner
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I will not be an idle member, but rather an active and participating member of Student Senate.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
My goal would be to accurately represent the student body and their opinions in Senate discussions.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue facing the College of Business is the lack of an Honors Program for incoming students.

Andrea Yadon
BUSINESS SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Because I am a good representative of the common students and I have a lot to offer the student body.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to achieve a more uniform wait list procedure for all the departments at the university.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important thing class size and wait listing in the College of Business and it needs to change.

Alison Darby
EDUCATION SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I've gained knowledge and skills throughout my senate intern experience which will allow me to be successful as a senator.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to strengthen communication and contact between senate and the student body.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The College of Education needs to make improvements in wait lists and advising procedures.

Kristin Kiehnhoff
EDUCATION SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am committed to work for what is in the best interest of my constituents and their education.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see improved communication between senate representatives and the student body as a whole.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
It is important for students to know what SGA can do for student organizations and how they can work together.

Hannah Mueledner
EDUCATION SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am open-minded, dedicated, and have senate experience that would make me a valuable asset to SGA.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to increase communication, awareness, and collaboration between student, senate, the faculty, staff, and students at K-State.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Keeping our curriculum and activities up to date so we can properly train teachers for today's changing and diverse classroom!

Suzanne Steffens
EDUCATION SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have extensive experience in student government and I am willing to work hard for the students I represent.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to help make each student's experience at Kansas State as pleasant and full as possible.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Budget cuts and lack of financial support are the biggest issues being faced by all colleges here at K-State.

Jerad Gubbels
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am honest, intelligent, make good decisions and I feel I could accurately depict the wishes of engineering students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
The implementation of the SafeRide program and reassessing student's fees to make sure they are being used as intended.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The combination of shrinking budget and growing enrollment is producing crowded classrooms and difficulty in getting enrolled into required classes.

Bryce Huschka
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I will strive for an efficient process to extract information from the body, so everyone can be heard.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
My goal is to increase the student's ability and power to affect and sway major decisions that face our school.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Recent cuts have caused a shortage of classes, which is inconvenient and could delay our education and eventually graduation.

Katie Kennedy
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I served as a Senate Intern last term, which allowed me to gain experience and knowledge of K-State's Senate process.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I hope to continue to pass legislation that benefits students at K-State while working to improve our current budget issues.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Many classes, especially at higher levels, are being closed due to a shortage of funding, taking opportunities away from students.

Benjamin Long
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I can most effectively represent the concerns and ideas of students to whom they should most appropriately be voiced.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
A better represented and more adequately informed student body.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
I believe the most important issue facing the College of Engineers are budget allocation and an inadequately informed student body.

Sam Meier
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
With my two years of Student Senate experience students can be assured that I will continue to represent them well.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Continue to ensure that student funds are spent in a manner that benefits the student body as a whole.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Ensuring engineering student groups are aware of the new SGA funding guidelines and the new legislative developments concerning higher education.

Bryan Meyer
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I'll be the voice of reason when deciding how to allocate funds.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I hope to promote the practice of spending restraint.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The shortage of tables in Fieder Library.

Tyson Moore
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Students should vote for me because I am responsible, dedicated, intelligent, and an all-around good guy.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
During my term, I would like to achieve becoming the head member of a committee that directly affects my college.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue facing the College of Engineering is budget cuts; I plan to minimize the cuts.

Lindsey Porter
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I would like to serve a second term as senator to continue working on projects concerning student and campus safety.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I will work with the university and student government to continue all organizations, activities, and clubs in the Engineering College.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
To ensure that the Engineering College receives its representation of funding in light of budget cuts for the 2003-04 year.

Julie Quackenbush
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
As this year's Governmental Relations Senate Committee Chair, I learned much about leading, motivating, communicating, and collaborating with K-Staters.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
Focusing on communication, I hope to form a student lobbying group to address concerns with SGA, administrators, and elected officials.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Facing everything from impending war to increasing engineering fees, students must be able to express their opinions and stay informed.

Brandon Sager
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am an honest candidate who will continually work hard towards achieving my goals to improve the College of Engineering.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
My goal is to increase the accessibility of mandatory engineering classes, especially those required as prerequisites for other classes.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The most important issue is finding ways to reduce the budget while still maintaining a high standard of excellence.

Kristine Sheedy
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
If re-elected, I would continue to voice the opinions of my constituents, as well as remain open-minded and unbiased.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to ensure that student's money is being spent wisely and increase student awareness of senate's operations.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The lack of funding and the decrease of the number of required class sections offered.

Kelli Simmelink
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Being involved in various engineering organizations, I have acquired knowledge about several prominent issues that affect engineering students.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to communicate my ideas and student input to strengthen the connection between all members of Kansas State University.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Dealing with financial issues that affect the quality of education available and our progress to become the most comprehensive college.

Zach Stover
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
Because I will make decisions based on the people I represent, not my own personal agenda.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to help K-State deal with the budget cuts in order to have the best possible education available.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
The financial issues caused by budget cuts and a struggling economy are the most important issues facing engineering students.

Ted Stroope
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have in mind the interests of both current and future students as well as being approachable about issues.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
A textbook exchange and a student/administration forum where people have to explain their decisions face-to-face.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Having to maintain excellence in both teaching and learning despite budget cuts and declining enrollment in engineering nationwide.

Rusty Thompson
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I am a hard-working, devoted individual that will strive to well represent the students in the College of Engineering.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
More communication. Students don't give enough input to the decisions made by SGA. I'd actively seek out other student's opinions.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Tuition and fees have been rising, increasingly. I'd do my best to keep these low as possible without cutting programs.

Matt Woelman
ENGINEERING SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I'm a new face to tackle the tough issues in the College of Engineering.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to help to continue all the success that the engineering programs have recently had.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
Surviving through the budget cuts will be the toughest challenge to the College of Engineering.

Melinda Greene
HUMAN ECOLOGY SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I would like to have more days for our college for Telefund.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
To get more money for scholarships.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
That only 35 percent of the money that students make from Telefund go to scholarships.

Amber Lafferty
HUMAN ECOLOGY SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I have the experience from being a senator last term and I have the drive to get things done.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I want to continue to work on projects that the students will benefit from and meet their interests.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
There needs to be action taken toward diversity in the College of Human Ecology not endless discussion.

Suzanne Lueker
GRADUATE STUDENT SENATE

1. Why should students vote for you?
I would welcome the opportunity to represent the graduate student body and look forward to gaining valuable leadership experience.
2. What would you like to achieve during your term?
I would like to see more funds appropriated for graduate teaching and research assistantships.
3. What is the most important issue facing your college or organization?
One of the most pressing issues facing my department (as well as many others) is budget constraint.

Vote today at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu

What are you voting about? Learn about the positions listed on the ballot.

■ Board of Student Publications

The Board of Student Publications oversees the issues of all student publications. The board hires editors in chief for the Collegian and for the Royal Purple. They also hire the advertising sales manager for both publications on a semester basis. The board also manages finances for the Collegian and Royal Purple and approves the budget.

■ Fine Arts Council

The Fine Arts Council gives money to fine arts departments when they request funds. It also allocates money to fine arts student groups such as the Potter's Guild. Each semester student groups must submit and application in order to receive funding.

There is a set budget for the recipients, which include the departments of Music, Art, Speech Communication, Theater and Dance, and English as well as McCain Auditorium.

The appointed members serve on the council for one year. Two of the elected members serve two-year terms, while the other three elected to the council serve one-year terms.

■ President

The student body president serves as the chief executive for Student Governing Association.

The president's responsibilities include voicing problems and concerns of the K-State student body to Faculty Senate, the Kansas Board of Regents and the Legislature. The president meets with the regents once a month in Topeka.

Other presidential duties include traveling, attending speaking engagements, participating in fund-raiser, attending administrative meetings and functions, appointing students to different committees and attending various meetings.

The vice president has the second-highest position in Student Senate.

The vice president serves as chief executive of SGA if the president is unable to fulfill his or her duties. The vice president also is the chair of the Educational Opportunity Fund Committee.

The vice president oversees and coordinates special SGA projects and programs, assists the president in appointing cabinet members and serves as liaison between the vice president of institutional advancement and SGA.

■ Student Senate

Student Senate is the legislative body and voice for K-State students.

Senate consists of 60 representatives, and each person represents each individual college.

Two faculty members also serve on Student Senate, while three students serve on Faculty Senate.

Standing committees are also a part of Student Senate. Committees include the Operations Committee, which tallies senator absences and makes sure Senate runs smoothly; the Academic Affairs and Social Services Committee, which deals with issues pertaining to student life, student representation and services; the Governmental Relations Committee, which lobbies state and local governments to address student concerns; and the Communications Committee, which serves as a Senate public relations group.

They allocate funds to groups and services such as Lafene Health Center and the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex though privilege fees.

Student Senate writes legislation, looks over recommendations and maintains contact with the Kansas Board of Regents.

Senators also enact policies for the student body, charter college councils and committees of Student Senate and define and establish the Student Conduct Code.

■ Union Governing Board

The Union Governing Board focuses on issues that concern the K-State Student Union. UGB decides whether something follows policy or goes against it. It deals with overall things occurring at the Union. Fiscal issues are also handled by UGB and reviewed annually.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wednesday, March 5, 2003

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

SGA Elections 2003

Vote at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu

Election results to air live

Students to cover results

By Amy Link
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students will have the opportunity to see live coverage of the Student Governing Association elections on KST Channel 8 at 6:30 p.m. tonight.

The show will be presented by two production classes in the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications, along with the help of Orion Online and KSDB-FM 91.9 radio.

This year's coverage will differ from past shows, said Bambi Landholm, assistant professor of mass communications and show director.

In the past, the show started at 7 p.m. and anchors had to fill the time with discussion until the results were available.

"This year, because of the new technology, we can start the show at the same time but have the results right away," Landholm said. "The show will be less talk and more action."

Landholm said the final portion of the show will feature the newly-elected president and vice president with a live interview in the studio.

Jessica Anderson, sophomore in electronic journalism, will anchor the show and said she understands the demands of live television.

"It's a little nerve-wracking," she said. "I am going to be live so everyone will see if I make any mistakes."

Another addition to the show includes the convergence with Orion Online, a student-operated Web design agency. Students can see pre-election coverage on www.kstateelections.com.

In-house voting system successful

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The new in-house voting system continued its success Tuesday during the first day of the general elections, officials said.

There have been no complaints from candidates or voters about the online voting system, said Bill Harlan, interim assistant coordinator of Student Activities and Services.

"There's an overall sense

Voting

Voting in the general elections is open until 6 tonight. All voting is online at www.sgaelections.k-state.edu.

of confidence," Harlan said. "There have been no complaints, and there is no reason to think there will be any."

Last year's general elections were plagued by complaints from candidates and

See ELECTIONS Page 5

Pawn shop burglarized, worker shot

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Three at-large suspects are being pursued on charges of attempted murder, aggravated kidnapping, aggravated robbery and aggravated arson, all stemming from one incident Monday night.

Information

Anyone with information regarding this matter is asked to call the Riley County Police Department at (785) 537-2112 or Crime Stoppers at (785) 539-7777.

At 11:30 p.m., three men kidnapped another man at gunpoint from his apartment at 207 N. 14th, said Capt. Gary Grubbs of the Riley County Police Department.

The suspects took Shiloh Howard to Mister Money USA, located at 501 Fort Riley Blvd., where he is an employee, and forced him to unlock the door.

Immediately after going inside, two of the suspects went to a back room to look around, while the third suspect held Howard at gunpoint and demanded that he open the safe.

When Howard was unable to provide entry to the safe, the suspects poured an unknown accelerant over various items and set fire to them.

The armed suspect then fired at least two rounds at Howard, hitting his right forearm.

The suspects escaped the store through the alley

See ROBBERY Page 5

Commission passes Wal-Mart agenda, street light policy

Commission passes all agenda items

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

All items on the Manhattan City Commission's general agenda were passed unanimously during Tuesday night's meeting.

The first reading of an ordinance to levy a TDD excise tax on Super Wal-Mart was passed.

"While generally I'm opposed to any tax, when the retailer, which is Wal-Mart, agreed to impose this tax on themselves, I think it's an excellent way to pay for it," Mark Taussig, city commissioner, said.

The next procedure will be to approve the second reading at the next meeting, Ron Fehr, city manager, said.

The second item approved was a resolution of intent for the Kansas Department of Transportation.

Fehr said the resolution was a documented guarantee for the department of transportation to ensure the city's intent to carry through with the other related projects.

The street light policy was the third item approved on the general agenda.

The current policy was adopted in 1982, and since that time, many things have changed, said Westar Energy spokesperson.

He said the current mercury-vapor lights have been eliminated from production.

See COMMISSION Page 3

ICED OVER

Julie Whitsitt, junior in interior architecture, clears ice from her windshield after administrators canceled classes Tuesday afternoon because of winter weather conditions.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Ice storm leaves mark on Manhattan

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As students were sliding across campus sidewalks Tuesday afternoon, workers for the Division of Facilities were throwing salt as quickly as they could. Classes after 3 p.m. were canceled and non-essential personnel were sent home.

"I see people falling all over the place," John Woods, director of facilities, said. "We can't cover the whole campus very easily with our resources. It is difficult to get to all of them."

Julia Verby, senior in marketing, said it was most slippery when she got out of her 2:05 p.m. class.

"It was so icy, even the woodchips were icy," Verby said.

The facilities division is responsible for clearing sidewalks and entrances to buildings, while Parking

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Icy weather caused several accidents Tuesday afternoon along Kansas Highway 18 outside Ogden, Kan., near the Manhattan Regional Airport.

Services clears parking lots.

"We have people that do it by hand, mainly entrances around buildings," Woods said. "We have groundspeople that have units with spreaders on them. They go out

See WEATHER Page 3

INSIDE

Are those pants supposed to go so low? Get the lowdown on the low-rise trend.

Life, Page 10

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Pentagon orders 2,100 more Fort Riley soldiers to deploy

An additional 2,100 active-duty soldiers at Fort Riley have received orders to deploy for possible war with Iraq, officials said Tuesday. The Pentagon gave deployment orders to more than 60,000 soldiers.

U.N. secretary-general says Iraq's destruction of missiles a positive move
U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan called Iraq's destruction of missiles a "positive development" on Tuesday. Hans Blix and Mohamed ElBaradei are scheduled to report to the Security Council on Friday.

Turkish government may ask lawmakers to allow U.S. troops

The Turkish government may again ask parliament to allow in U.S. troops for an Iraq war, an official said Tuesday.

Families of 2 victims from fatal nightclub fire file wrongful death lawsuit
Relatives of two people killed in the Rhode Island nightclub fire filed a lawsuit against the club's owners and the band Great White on Tuesday.

Man who sold fake IDs to hijackers given probation

A man who sold fake identification to two of the Sept. 11 hijackers was sentenced Tuesday to five years' probation and fined $15,000. Authorities could not find evidence linking him to terrorism.

Weather

Today 29 | 22

Snow showers

Thursday 56 | 34

Mostly sunny

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 1/2

776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Brewery
5 Commercial
8 Hurries
12 Tend 13 Brother of 14 "...with
15 Long, thin
17 Tail
18 U.N.
19 Job,
21 Eccentric
24 Here-
26 There
27 Litarid
30 Squid
33 Mis-
34 Buenos
35 Prompt
36 Harem
37 Litarid

DOWN

1 "Meyday"
2 Garfield's
3 "Play"
4 Fills the
5 "...Blue?"
6 Billy Ray
7 Appear
8 Don
9 Diego de
10 Compas-
11 Cohort of 12 On the
13 Shell-
14 Shell-
15 Shell-
16 Shell-
17 Shell-
18 Shell-
19 Shell-
20 Shell-
21 Shell-
22 Shell-
23 Shell-
24 Shell-
25 Shell-
26 Shell-
27 Shell-
28 Shell-
29 Shell-
30 Shell-
31 Shell-
32 Shell-
33 Shell-
34 Shell-
35 Shell-
36 Shell-
37 Shell-
38 Shell-
39 Shell-
40 Shell-
41 Shell-
42 Shell-
43 Shell-
44 Shell-
45 Shell-
46 Shell-
47 Shell-
48 Shell-
49 Shell-
50 Shell-
51 Shell-
52 Shell-
53 Shell-
54 Shell-
55 Shell-
56 Shell-
57 Shell-
58 Shell-
59 Shell-
60 Shell-
61 Shell-
62 Shell-
63 Shell-
64 Shell-
65 Shell-
66 Shell-
67 Shell-
68 Shell-
69 Shell-
70 Shell-
71 Shell-
72 Shell-
73 Shell-
74 Shell-
75 Shell-
76 Shell-
77 Shell-
78 Shell-
79 Shell-
80 Shell-
81 Shell-
82 Shell-
83 Shell-
84 Shell-
85 Shell-
86 Shell-
87 Shell-
88 Shell-
89 Shell-
90 Shell-
91 Shell-
92 Shell-
93 Shell-
94 Shell-
95 Shell-
96 Shell-
97 Shell-
98 Shell-
99 Shell-
100 Shell-

Yesterday's answer

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22
23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34
35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46
47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57 58
59 60 61 62 63 64 65 66 67 68 69 70
71 72 73 74 75 76 77 78 79 80 81 82
83 84 85 86 87 88 89 90 91 92 93 94
95 96 97 98 99 100

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-225-8801. $19.95 per month. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

L Z Q H G P F M D T H Q T Z V
V M J B . W A H J G N Z V F
Q W G J Z F J U H F V T W P D W G L
B D G F U J Q F M D N Z P P A D Q
Yesterday's Cryptquip: ASKED HOW HER NEW COUCH WAS WORKING OUT, SHE SAW FIT TO ANSWER, "SOFA, SO GOOD!"
Today's Cryptquip clue: P equals G

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Cryptopuzzles Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. The Cryptopuzzles is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error. © 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2003

BANTER AND BELLOW

Bellow continues search after shady phone message

Our heroine arrives home after a long night to hear the following message on her answering machine:

Hey, yo, Dana. I sees you's lookin' for a writer until your friend wid da long hair gits back.

I'm heres to apply. But first, lemme tell ya a little bit about my compatibility with other broads.

First of all, yous gotta accept two things: I'm Italiano, and I answer only to two people: Don Restivo and Pope John Paul II.

My previous relationship with a broad ended rather suddenly for her.

She was always runnin' her mouth about how I didn't listen and that my family affairs were never divulged to her.

She kept throwing words like "compatible," "independence," and "more proficient sexual partner" at me. Yada, yada, yada, long story short, the broad was gittin' on my nerves.

The arguments never ceased. She even got brave once and slapped me 'side da head.

"You friggin' moron," I'd yell. She never listened to me, so I tossed her dinner troo da winda after she been slavin' over it.

She'd point dat fat finga unda my nose and threaten to have the Don do me off. Madonna mia, I's about to do her a beatin', but my mama, may she rest in piece, taught me betta.

Sorry for goin' on about the broad, but I do gotta warn ya. My history is rough.

My qualifications? Well, I got an uncanny knowledge of bizarre pasta shapes, I'm not embarrassed to wear fur, and, well, let's just say I don't worry about filing for tax returns. My crucifix never leaves my neck, and I find no harm in wearing sunglasses inside.

Capito?

I thinks you'll find this paisano to be just the cup o' joe, or Paulie, that yous been lookin' for.

Ciao, bambina.

Dana's response:

What the ... ? I might expect a message from Aunt Prudence.

But from Paul Restivo? My heart nearly dropped to the Earth's core — not to be mistaken with butterflies in the tummy.

Restivo, from what I hear, is not a loved man. I never thought he'd dare attempt to seep over to Page 2.

But, I must recall the meaning of this journey: to find new partners who might help me discover renewed mojo with my writing.

Italian blood could potentially spice this joint up. Especially if he knows how to cook a good meal — a plateful of pasta is mojo I could use.

Don Paul's assumption that my being a "broad" has anything to do with his possible role as Temporary Banterer is false. I'm not to be mistaken for a woman who's appeased with gifts of fur and gold from a man who disappears to perform mysterious duties.

I have to be a little suspicious of anyone who knows too much about my "friend with the long hair." It would be a tragedy if Restivo got too into the column and attempted to take the "Temp" out of his role as "Temp Banterer."

The guy has charm, but it comes wrapped in gaudy attire and shifty facial expressions.

It's time: this journey's events call for a nice long pit stop. This week I'll be meditating on the nearest mountain, or Flint Hill, and seeking the truth about Banter and Bellow.

Maybe, just maybe, it's time to go home.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Hall, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 1:52 a.m., Timothy Stewart, 521 Vattier, was arrested for reckless driving and DUI. No bond was set.
■ At 9:45 a.m., Richard Patterson, 1704 Fair Lane, was arrested for failure to appear. No bond was set.
■ At 8:28 p.m., Raymond Taylor, 925 Colorado Street, was arrested for driving on a suspended license and DUI. No bond was set.

Friday, March 1

■ At 10 a.m., Reginald Saxton, Fort Riley, was arrested for two counts of probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 1:40 p.m., Sam Maiorana, Ogden, was arrested for violation of a protective order. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 2:16 a.m., Melissa Hargis, 1031 Pierre, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $3,000.
■ At 2:48 p.m., Amber Luckeroth, 300 N. Fifth, Apt. 6f, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 4:01 p.m., Tera Weisbender, 1451 East Lane, was arrested for aggravated battery. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 4:25 p.m., Ron Duncan, 618 N. 11th, was arrested for two counts of probation violation. Bond was set at $500.

Saturday, March 2

■ At 12:41 a.m., Brian Moniger, Junction City, was arrested for two counts of failure to appear. Bond was set at $5,000.
■ At 1:13 a.m., Charles McKee, 402 Marlatt

Sunday, March 3

■ At 12:39 p.m., Cordell Black, 1022 Gardenway, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 1:53 a.m., John Runnebaum, 1612 Stewart, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:09 a.m., Tracey Hull, 3116 Winston Place, Apt. 9, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:22 a.m., Joshua James, Olathe, was arrested for possession of simulated controlled substance, unlawful possession of depressant and DUI. No bond was set.
■ At 2:45 a.m., Brandi Cathard, 1030 Thurston, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $30.

K-State Police

No reports of note were made.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ There will be a Criminology and Social Services Career Fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the Union Ballroom.
■ Career and Employment Services will conduct a winning interviews workshop at 3:30 p.m. today in Union 213.
■ KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ National Society of Collegiate Scholars will meet at 7 tonight in Union 206.
■ Career and Employment Services will conduct an experiential learning orientation at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in Holtz Hall. Call 532-6506 for a reservation.
■ Individuals for Freethought will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in Union 203.
■ NSCS will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in Denison 124.
■ Applications for the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are now available at OSAS, the K-State Alumni Center or at www.k-state.edu/programs/currentstudent/homecoming.asp. Applications are due March 14.

Quotable | From the Associated Press

"Despite whatever limited head-fakes Iraq has engaged in, they continue to fundamentally not disarm." White House spokesman Ari Fleischer, on reports that Iraq destroyed missiles, unearthed bombs and sent scientists to talk with U.N. weapons inspectors Monday.

"The memorial had to be like no other memorial ... because Sept. 11 was like no other day." Julie Beckman, a designer of the memorial chosen to honor those who died at the Pentagon. The two-acre memorial will include a grove of trees, 184 lighted pools and benches engraved with the names of the victims.

"I think it would surprise some of my colleagues who talk to their girlfriends on the phone." Cristian Maquieira, deputy U.N. ambassador from Chile, on reports that the United States is spying on security council delegations.

Up next | In Thursday's Collegian

News | SGA elections

Find out who will be representing the student body with the Collegian's 2003 Election coverage. Also, read about students who work at the campus nuclear reactor as part of the Collegian's on-campus job series.

The Edge | Performance plans

Ultimate Fakebook is in town. It will be performing with Podstar Friday at the Manhattan Arts Center. Read about the upcoming performance.

Sports | Hopeful for victory

We break down K-State's contest against Texas Tech. With a win, the Wildcats would lay claim to their first regular season conference title since 1987.

Jeanel Drake
COLLEGIAN

Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 537-1909

Kansas State University
LANDON LECTURE

Michael Beschloss
Historian

Thursday,
March 6, 2003
10:30 a.m.
McCain Auditorium

HOT & READY
1 LARGE
14" PIZZA
WITH PEPPERONI
$5.00
EXcludes tax
plus tip and delivery

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2001 L.C.E., Inc.
539-3333

suck it up.
A-1 vacuum

sales & service on all major brands

vacuums starting @ $20 with warranties service on all vacuums: $14.95

Blue Hills Shopping Center • 2311 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS 66502 • (785) 776-6976

"THE HUT"

NOW OPEN TILL 2
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHTS

$2 POUNDERS $3 PITCHERS

SMOKING & NON-SMOKING

OTHER NIGHTLY SPECIALS

an aggieville alternative.

The Hibachi Hut 608 N. 12th

SOON
LIVE MUSIC &
LATE NIGHT
MENU

WEATHER | Facilities, RCPD challenged to maintain safe conditions

Continued from Page 1

and spread sand and salt. Other groundspeople spread the sidewalks with fertilizer spreaders.

Nicki Kinzie, sophomore in electrical engineering, walked to campus in her Mardi Gras mask to stay warm.

"It was kind of difficult," she said. "It didn't look slick at all."

Darwin Abbott, director of Parking Services, said the main goal of his crews Tuesday afternoon was to clear parking lots so people could leave the university at 3 p.m., when administration closed the university.

He said traditional salting methods weren't successful with misting on top of the ice, so crews had to use special chemicals for traction.

Rather than following general ticketing procedures, Abbott said, employees removed cars that constituted traffic hazards or potential accidents.

"We want to keep the roadways clear so people can get around, and we don't have problems," Abbott said. "I hope people understand we are out working and doing everything we can. Between Parking Services and Facilities, people should be a lot happier to be here rather than off-campus."

The Riley County Police Department reported numerous accidents around Manhattan.

Kansas Highway 18 was closed periodically as cars piled up, Lt. Kurt Moldrup said. According to the Associated Press, up to 30 vehicles were involved in the chain-reaction accidents.

Abandoned vehicles were towed to clear the roadway. The Kansas Highway Patrol had no additional information.

RCPD enacted its emergency accident reporting plan. Drivers were asked to only call the police for injury accidents or when towing was necessary.

The Kansas Highway Patrol reported a fatality accident that occurred in Pottawatomie County on Kansas Highway 99, a press release from the sheriff's office said. The accident was a two-vehicle accident in which one person was killed. No additional information was available.

With forecasts of more snow or freezing rain for Tuesday night, campus crews were gearing up for more work.

"We will have grounds crews out working tonight," Woods said.

COMMISSION | Street light policy discussed during meeting

Continued from Page 1

Changes in the policy include the distance of streetlights from the mid-point of each block to more than 600 feet.

The standard lighting fixtures funded by Manhattan and provided by Westar Energy were changed.

The new standard lighting includes overhead serviced fixtures on wooden poles with high-pressure sodium bulbs.

Another change in the

City Commission

The following items were discussed:

- Commission approved the first reading of an ordinance to levy a TDD excise tax, 5-0.
- Commission approved the resolution of intent for the Kansas Department of Transportation, 5-0.
- Commission approved a Manhattan street light policy, 5-0.

policy is to allow developers to install poles not provided by Westar under certain circumstances.

Fundraiser for Alpha Tau Omega pledge class

where Pizza Hut in Aggieville (1121 Moro)
when Thursday, March 6, 2003
time 5:30 - 8:00 pm

The pledge class will receive twenty percent of the earnings this evening. The money will go towards our pledge sneek.

The Office of Student Activities and Services again offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

for more information visit the website at:
<http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH HENSON
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours:

Monday - Friday:

9:00 - 11:30 am & 1:30-3:30 pm

Tuesday Evening appointments available upon request.

Ash Wednesday

Come worship at Danforth Chapel
services at 12:15pm and
9:30pm

Sponsored by Episcopal and Lutheran Campus Ministries

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

GUMBY'S
Delivers the latest! Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
Sunday
11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed.
11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat.
11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out

770-3333

Rock N Roll
wednesday

$6.99 50¢ Pepperoni Wednesday / minimum 6
MINIMUM DELIVERY pizza sauce / ranch extra + tax.

BIG ASS 20" One Topping $11.99 or
Two for $21.99
Additional Toppings $1.18 per pizza

THURSDAY Mania
XL - 16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
Must mention coupon when ordering
Not valid w/ any other special

DELIVERY • DINE-IN • CARRY OUT
EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH

No more War "?"

Stop, Breathe, Look inside

Date: March 5

Time: 1:30 to 3:00 p.m.

Forum Hall

Episcopal Student Ministry (Canterbury)
St. Isidore's Catholic Student Ministry
Lutheran Campus Ministry (ELCA)
Mennonite Student Ministry
Cats for Christ
Quest Campus Ministries
World Christian Fellowship
Victory Campus Ministry
Campus Crusade for Christ
Ichthus Student Ministry

*Campus Ministers will share their Christian faith perspectives on whether war is justifiable or not

*All faith perspectives are welcome to attend and participate

*2:00 p.m. open mic for questions of panelists and personal reflections

Wildcat Creek Sports Center

Monday
&
Tuesday

2 Cats + 1 Cart = $22
(9 holes)

* Subject to cart supply.

"GOTTA 'NOTHER BIRDIE!"

A FREQUENT PLAY BONUS

Play 5 Rounds → 1 Small Range Bucket
Play 10 Rounds → 1 9hole Round
or
1 9hole Cart Rental

Last day to vote for SGA to vote go to

sgaelections.k-state.edu

Voting available until 6 p.m. tonight!

See the results on channel 8 at 7 p.m.

TO THE POINT Officials make student safety a top priority

It was a slippery day on campus Tuesday.

Crews from the Division of Facilities and Parking Services pulled together as quickly as possible to make campus safe for drivers and walkers.

Although hampered by a lack of equipment, grounds crews did everything in their power to de-ice sidewalks and building entrances as when freezing rain hit.

When traditional de-icing failed, groundspeople used special chemicals to create traction.

It was also a quick and responsible decision on the part of the administration to cancel classes starting after 3 p.m. so students, faculty and staff could get home safely.

With students slipping and sliding across sidewalks and multiple-vehicle accidents being reported in Manhattan, safety became a primary concern. The decision to close the university may have prevented further injuries.

Although academics are vital to the university, safety is a priority.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

www.kstatecollegian.com

Student Body President Zac Cook wants smoking banned from campus. Visit the eCollegian to read how Cook feels about today's ballot issue regarding a possible smoking ban.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Den Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	CO-COPY CHIEF

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Yeah, with that last article on creation, I'm starting to believe we did evolve from monkeys.

Aimee Noel should move to France.

So, do all the candidates have the same platforms more or less, or is it just shoddy reporting by the Collegian again?

I love two-day-old keg beer.

Are there any Collegian writers who like Bush, or are we all subjected to one side of opinions?

I'm looking out my dorm room window right now, and I feel real sorry for the person getting a boot on their car by Parking Services.

To the person calling and complaining about the Manhattan police: try and know what you're talking about next time before you call and complain about something. It's called the Riley County Police Department. There is no Manhattan police.

It's been over six months since President Wefald sold KKSU's frequency to WIBW. Isn't it about time that he bought another radio frequency as he promised?

Wow, does the Collegian really pay its writers? Because in the real world, no newspaper would hire them.

Hey, it's Mardi Gras. Show me the beads. I'll show you a show.

I don't care if John Mayer is a toolbox. As long as all his tools work, I'm satisfied.

Camels don't have toes. They have hooves.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

BETTER RHETORIC

Hussein's word choice far superior to Bush's

MICAH HAWKINSON

Round one goes to Saddam Hussein. Sorry, President Bush, but Saddam has outsmarted you in the opening sally of your war on him. He has won the initial battle of rhetoric, and there's nothing you can do about it now.

Saddam gained this victory during his interview last week with CBS news anchor Dan Rather. In the interview, Saddam's translator referred to Iraq's enemies as being passengers on the Bandwagon of Evil.

When you compare that particular image to Bush's now-cliché reference to Iraq as a member of the Axis of Evil, it's not even close. Saddam's phrase is so much better that it's not even funny.

Please don't misunderstand - Bush's "Axis of Evil" rhetoric was extremely well-crafted. It did an excellent job of associating Bush's enemies with modern America's traditional enemies: the Nazis. There is almost no stronger image of evil in the American mind than the horrors of the Holocaust.

Unfortunately for Bush, Saddam's translator's simple utterance of the phrase "Bandwagon of Evil" was much more powerful. In scant seconds, it trivialized Bush while simultaneously calling his motives into question.

No question about it - Saddam's rhetoric is definitely better. It's so good, in fact, that I'm going to borrow it for the rest of this column.

While I can't judge whether Bush is, in fact, riding merrily along on the Bandwagon of Evil or whether he simply wants to stop the members of the Axis of Evil by bombing their children, I know of a few other people who definitely belong on the bandwagon. Maybe they're even helping to drive.

■ Avril Lavigne. Congratulations, Avril! You are officially the biggest sellout in all of world history. Did you make sure to get the full 30 pieces of silver from Arista when you prostituted all that was good about punk on the pop altar to the god of capitalism? Oh, I thought so.

(By the way, "Sk8er boi" is a travesty, and I hope all copies of it spontaneously combust before they have a chance to corrupt the next generation.)

■ The people who came up with NBC's "Fear Factor." Human beings should not have to choose between having bodily fluids terrorized out of them for the edification of others and losing a potentially fabulous prize.

Did the Marquis de Sade himself suggest the show to NBC, or was it just a group of pitiful wannabes? Either way, they should be taken out and whipped. Knowing them, though, they'd probably like it.

■ The guy in the sport utility vehicle that tailgated me on I-70 last week. I'd have slammed on my brakes to slow you down in a hurry if you hadn't had your family with you. Take it easy, there, slick, or you'll be in a world of hurt. My van does not stop very quickly, and I'd bet the same applies to your half-ton phallic symbol.

Taking out these evil targets would cost a lot less than taking out Saddam. All you'd need would be a few M2 Bradley armed fighting vehicles equipped with the standard 7.62 mm machine gun and twin TOW missile launchers. That would cost a heck of a lot less than the $100 billion estimated for a war with Iraq. As for soldiers, you could probably get any number of volunteers to man the vehicles for free.

If Bush really wanted to make a difference in the world, he could start by eliminating these verified members of the Bandwagon of Evil. Maybe if he did so, it would prove to the world that he isn't on the bandwagon himself.

And it sure would be a lot more entertaining than another Operation Desert Storm.

Micah is a senior in English and history. You can e-mail him at micah@ksu.edu.

Illustrations by Jeff Young | COLLEGIAN

E-mail forwards should be sent in extreme moderation

There is a child born with a debilitating disease across the globe. You can save this child. Bill Gates wants to give YOU his money.

The love of your life will magically appear on your doorstep in three days and two hours ... If you forward this to 20 other people with better things to do.

E-mail forwards are an impersonal and aggravating means of communication wasting space in people's inboxes and spreading stupidity rampant across the globe.

I will admit, there is occasionally a worthwhile forward. The hilarious joke or a worthy piece of news missed by the mainstream media is a welcome additive to my crowded inbox.

The other 90 percent consists of worthless material sent by people who haven't called their grandparents in three years but have time to send mass forwards to save the June bug.

Sending a forward is not writing people. Sometimes a forward fiend will attempt to make your day really special by forwarding you a friend's card or a smile pop. It reads something like this:

"You are such a special and trusted friend, having you in my life has made each moment sweeter."

My heart may begin to tug slightly while I am reading this card sent specially to me.

But when I glance up and notice the address space looks a little full, my suspicion is aroused. Wait a minute. This special e-mail was sent to 40 other people! Special, huh?

I hope that by congesting my inbox, you can pat yourself on the back for clicking my address into your mass sappy forward that I didn't have time to read in the first place. If you want to let me know you care, pick up a telephone and call me, or e-mail me a three-sentence letter asking how my mother is.

When people aren't feeling sentimental, they are taking up various causes. Forward-happy suckers are trying to stop the impending war, save children in Alabama with asparagus growing on their feet, and stop the mass production of fur with a double-click of the mouse.

As much as I sympathize with the persecuted koala bear, I don't have time to send hundreds of forwards to people who could probably care less. I already have a personal cause this month - paying my rent.

Sending busy people forwards for a cause that you question the existence of is a sad way to make yourself feel better. If forward lovers feel so strongly about the plight of others, maybe they should get out of the computer chair and go volunteer at a local hospital, rest home or soup kitchen.

It is a lot more difficult to actually help someone in real life than it is to sign your name and send your e-mail chain letter through cyberspace.

When my inbox isn't cluttered with hundreds of worthy causes, it is filled with 'quick-fixes.' After reading my forwards, I can e-mail my way into heaven, find the love of my life in three days, have ultimate wealth and power, and have any wish granted I so desire after e-mailing this myth to 20 other people. If I don't forward this key to happiness to everyone in my address book bad luck will follow me for the rest of my life.

I enjoy opening some of these forwards to look on the address bar to see who is dumb enough to send these to everyone in their address book. If your life is so pathetic that you are depending on mass e-mails to improve the quality of your life, I must question our friendship and feel deeply sorry for you.

Before cluttering a friend's e-mail inbox, think about what you are sending. When you send mass forwards, think about the consequences of the forward to each person to whom you are sending it. Is this something that interests them? Is the person to whom you are sending this forward a friend of yours or someone you have not talked to in five years?

If you want to forward your close friends an insanely funny joke, rock on. Forward responsibly, and remember, moderation is the key.

Kathryn is a junior in public relations. You can e-mail her at krh5588@ksu.edu.

ELECTIONS | Some candidates disqualified for failing to file reports and voters alike, Harlan said. The complaints stemmed from troubles with the online vendor, iBallot.com.

Continued from Page 1

While the voting system has gone smoothly thus far, some candidates were removed from the ballots, Elections Chair Mark Threton said.

A handful of candidates were removed from the ballots, he said, because of a failure to turn in expense reports.

All candidates were told that expense reports were required, even if no money was spent, Threton said. Candidates who were removed were notified via e-mail or telephone.

"It was their responsibility," Threton said. "Most of them were upset with themselves that they didn't remember — more than they were at the system."

Threton said there is no by-law that requires removing candidates from the ballots for an infraction, but the discretion was left to the elections chair.

Despite the few problems with candidates' eligibility, Threton said the elections are running smoothly.

The results from the general elections will be announced tonight on KSDB-FM 91.9 and KSTV Channel 8. Threton said he expects the results at about 6:15, and will then notify the TV station.

ROBBERY | Police search for 3 suspects in robbery, arson incident

Continued from Page 1

behind the business.

Howard flagged down a patrol officer and reported the incident. Howard was treated and released at Mercy Health Center on College Avenue.

Jerry Snyder, assistant chief of the Manhattan Fire Department said the building's structure suffered $30,000 in damages and an additional $35,000 of the building's contents were destroyed.

Grubbs said RCPD is doing everything possible to apprehend the suspects.

"We are pursuing the suspects for very serious charges, including attempted murder, aggravated kidnapping, aggravated robbery, and aggravated arson," he said.

All three suspects were black males, Grubbs said. The first is described as being in his early twenties with shoulder-length dreadlocks. He is about 6 feet tall, 160 to 180 pounds, and has a deep voice.

The second suspect is in his early twenties, 5-foot-9 and 180 pounds. No definite description for suspect the third suspect has been obtained.

The suspects' car was described as a two-tone brown 1980s vehicle, possibly an LTD or Oldsmobile, with dark vinyl seats.

$14 million in payroll every month.

Are you advertising on pay day? 532-6560

GTM SPORTSWEAR Team T-Shirts

Quick Turnaround!
No Set up Fee!
Sales Tax Included!

Quantity 12-23 $9.50 24+ $8.50

Back:
* Add a number up to 3 digits 52
* Add a name $4

GTM WILL SPONSOR YOUR TEAM!
Take 10% off your order for sponsorship.
GTM logo will be imprinted on the back neck!

520 McCall Road • Manhattan, KS • 537-8822 • corporatesales@igtm.com

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

Criminology and Social Service Career Fair

March 5th

EVERYONE WELCOME!

Over 20 Federal, State and Local Employers
Kansas State University Student Union Ballroom
10am to 2pm

For more information, Call 785-532-4963
or Email nofizig@ksu.edu

Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
Now carrying Rockies jeans

Lee's Western Wear

8424 E. Hwy 24
2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan
(785) 776-6715

Special Orders
If we don't have what you want, we'll gladly order it for you.

Mon.-Fri. 10-6,
Sat. 10-5

LIVE
SATURDAY NIGHT
LIVE

DARRELL HAMMOND

TICKETS ON SALE NOW!
at the McCain box office

8:00pm
April 14, 2003
McCain Auditorium
$10.50 Students
$15.50 Public

WEIGHT LOSS - FUN AND EASY?

Dr. Rick Tague would like to offer you absolutely free:

Body Composition Analysis & Introductory Visit

You will receive a computerized impedance plethysmography examination (which measures your muscle to fat ratio). From this exam we will generate a written report for you that includes your Body Mass Index, Weight Goal and other key health information. With this report, when you start, Dr. Tague will sit down with you and create a personalized weight management program based on your personal preferences and your individual physical, genetic and environmental characteristics. We will listen to you and tailor a program just for you.

Fun and Easy? YES!

Using an individualized high nutrient program (including shakes, bars, snacks and food from your own pantry) and FDA approved medications (if needed) your fat pounds will melt away making weight loss fun and easy.

If it feels as if you tried almost every diet there is...but still struggle with your weight...there likely is a medical reason causing your lack of success. Genetic, metabolic and environmental factors are typically to blame and it's not your fault! Quit feeling frustrated and depressed about your weight. Make the choice to let Dr. Tague help correct what is causing your weight problem so you can look better and have a more energetic, fun life.

Call Today. The first 15 people who call will receive a FREE individualized metabolic rate exam using state-of-the-art equipment that measures your resting metabolic rate. Information from this test is used to develop a program for you that will jump-start your sluggish metabolism which further increases your weight loss.

Call 776-4443 Now

Call 776-4443 today to get your FREE Body Composition Analysis and to find out how losing weight can be fun and easy.

Ksu Opera Theatre Presents The Merry Wives Of Windsor

McCain Auditorium, 8 p.m. March 6-8

$8.00 students

$12.00 general

Box office open noon-5 p.m.

call 532-6493

A comic opera by Otto Nicolai

Based on the William Shakespeare comedy

Paleontologist Paul Sereno has encountered some of the weirdest creatures that ever walked the earth. Yet some of the scariest things he's discovered aren't likely to become extinct anytime soon. Sad to say, mutual fund management fees will probably outlast us all. That's why Dr. Sereno was afraid of getting eaten alive. So he turned to a company famous for keeping the costs down. That meant more money for him and less for the monsters.

Log on for ideas, advice, and results. TIAA-CREF.org or call (800) 842-2776

Managing money for people with other things to think about.

RETIREMENT • INSURANCE • MUTUAL FUNDS • COLLEGE SAVINGS • TRUSTS • INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT

Paul Sereno became a participant in 1987 TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services, Inc. and Teachers Personal Investors Services, Inc. distribute securities products. © 2002 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF), New York, NY. For more complete information on TIAA-CREF Mutual Funds, please call (800) 232-1200 for a prospectus. Read it carefully before you invest. A charitable donation was made to Project Exploration (www.projectexploration.org) on behalf of Paul Sereno.

Golf team soaked

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State students spent the majority of Tuesday ice-skating to and from class trying not to break any vertebrae.

The women's golf team, on the other hand, spent the day slogging the marsh that once was the Blackhorse Golf Club in Houston, Texas.

Plagued by the rain that canceled the majority of Monday's action, the team battled on Tuesday to finish fifth in the Texas A&M Verizon "Mo" morial.

While weather was threatened on Tuesday, the rain-soaked course proved to be a never-ending bunker.

"The course played much longer today than it did Sunday in our practice rounds," Coach Kristi Knight said. "It was pretty saturated from yesterday."

Nevertheless, it was deemed playable by course officials, and the Cats teed off at 7:30 a.m. under a thick overcast.

The team finished only eight holes on Monday and had to play the last 10 of the first round on Tuesday. As soon as the women finished, they immediately started the second and final round.

They were led throughout by senior Miranda Smith. Finishing as the top Wildcat for the second-straight tournament, Smith birdied three times during the first round and added two more in the final round.

She finished the first round three over par and added another stroke in the second. Still, her performance was good enough to tie for third place in what Knight described as a tough field.

Knight said it could have been even better if Smith would have been able to sink some crucial putts.

"She played very well but didn't make a whole lot of putts," Knight said. "She hit the ball well and played a very solid round of golf. Third in this field — that's very good."

The rest of the Wildcats didn't have Smith's luck amidst the mud and muck. Knight said the elements plagued many of her players and that, in the end, they just couldn't put the ball in the hole.

Junior Christine Boucher finished 20th, Karen Quintelier and Sarah Heffel tied at 49th while Elise Carpentier was 92nd.

Knight said she was most impressed with how the Cats never gave up.

"They fought hard, kept playing and kept fighting," Knight said. "Even though four of them didn't bring their best games, they kept battling and kept fighting because they knew every hole counted. That's encouraging."

The weather proved to be the story of the tournament as it hamstrung the Cats on the course all day, but its effects would not end at the pro shop, Knight said.

The slow pace forced upon the players resulted in the competition ending three hours later than expected.

As a result, Knight and her team were busy packing the last set of clubs into the team van when their plane lifted off from the other side of Houston.

But it may have been all for the best, she said. An assistant called and informed her of icy conditions that awaited the team's arrival in Manhattan. Knight said, even if the team had been able to get out of Texas, they would have been bunkered down in Kansas City, Mo., for a day.

"We were already stuck in Houston when we heard the news," she said. "I don't know if we would have been able to land. It is probably a blessing we missed that flight."

Golf results

Texas A&M Verizon "Mo" morial
(Houston, Texas)

Final results
TS K-State 315-310-625
T3 Miranda Smith	75-73—148
T20 Christine Boucher	77-78—155
T49 Sarah Heffel	81-80—161
T49 Karen Quintelier	82-79—161
T92 Elise Carpentier	84-90—174

THE MADNESS BEGINS

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

K-State will be a spectator tonight while the rest of the Big 12 team's finish their regular seasons. If No. 7 Texas handles Oklahoma in Austin tonight, the Wildcats will play for the regular season conference title Thursday in Lubbock, Texas. If the Longhorns fail, K-State will win the title outright.

Postseason starts tonight for Big 12 teams

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's women already know there's a lot on the line when the Wildcats hit the road to end the regular season against 10th-ranked Texas Tech on Thursday.

The Cats (27-2, 14-1) will look for their first win in four tries against the Lady Raiders (23-4, 12-3) in Lubbock, Texas, and No. 5 K-State will have a nine-game win streak in tow when the team hits the floor for a 7:30 p.m. tip.

More importantly, though, the Big 12 regular season title and the No. 1 seed for next week's league tournament could also be at stake.

However, that depends on what happens before tomorrow's contest.

Five games dot the Big 12 schedule tonight, including Oklahoma (18-10, 9-6) at No. 7 Texas (21-5, 14-1). The Longhorns need a win to keep pace with the Wildcats for the top spot in the Big 12 Tournament.

"I wonder if our team will feel a little bit of pressure," Texas Coach Jody Conradt said during Tuesday's Big 12 conference call.

"It's our seniors' last home game and we're undefeated at home, so there are a lot of things that could indicate that we might be a little tight in that game."

If the Sooners upset the Longhorns in Austin, K-State would win the regular season title outright.

A Texas win, however, makes things interesting. That scenario would force the Cats to beat Tech on Thursday to lock up the regular season crown and secure the tournament's top seed.

"It's set up really well if we can take care of business on Wednesday," Conradt said.

Conradt won't say whether her team plans to watch K-State's tussle with Tech on Thursday, but with no other league games scheduled before the Big 12 Tournament kicks off next Tuesday, Conradt's options could be limited.

"We've got to take care of our business on Wednesday, and that's our focus right now," Conradt said with a chuckle. "We're not going to talk about anything past that."

But the Oklahoma-Texas affair isn't the only contest that garnered attention during the conference call.

While the Big 12 sent seven teams to the NCAA Tournament last season, coaches around the league are predicting as few as five this March if Baylor (18-9, 7-8) and Missouri (14-12, 8-7) stumble tonight.

Both will play two of the league's bottom dwellers.

The Lady Bears, in seventh place entering tonight's contest against Oklahoma State (7-19, 3-12) in Waco, are facing a must-win situation.

Iowa State Coach Bill Fennelly, who holds a vote in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches Poll, said Baylor would be in good shape with a win tonight.

"I think if Baylor can win their last game and go .500 in the league, they have a great shot at it," he said.

The sixth-place Tigers might be one win away from a tournament bid, too, Missouri Coach Cindy Stein said. Stein's club is host to Texas A&M (10-16, 3-12) tonight in Columbia, Mo.

"I feel good about the fact that we've got so many quality teams in our conference," Stein said. "The problem is sometimes when we get in conference play, we beat each other up and a lot of people talk about Texas and Kansas State and Texas Tech and leave some of the other teams out."

Fennelly said Missouri might need more than just one more win.

"Missouri may need a little

Big 12 standings

Team	Big 12	Overall
K-STATE	14-1	27-2
Texas	14-1	21-5
Texas Tech	12-3	23-4
Colorado	10-5	20-6
Oklahoma	9-6	18-10
Missouri	8-7	14-12
Baylor	7-8	18-9
Iowa State	6-9	11-15
Kansas	3-12	10-16
Texas A&M	3-12	10-16
Oklahoma State	3-12	7-19
Nebraska	1-14	8-18

Tonight

Oklahoma State at Baylor, 7 p.m.
Colorado at Nebraska, 7:05 p.m.
Iowa State at Kansas, 7 p.m.
Texas A&M at Missouri, 7 p.m.
Oklahoma at Texas, 7 p.m.

Thursday

K-State at Texas Tech, 7:30 p.m.

bit more of a run because their overall record, but they finished strong in our league," he said. "They're a team that maybe has to win a couple."

With each team down to its final league game, any other wins would have to come in next week's tournament. The madness, Fennelly said, seems to have already begun.

"That's what the tournament's all about," he said. "Everybody has another chance."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

Men's basketball | St. Bonaventure quits
One day after St. Bonaventure players voted to boycott the remainder of the season, the school backed them and said the final two games would not be played.

The school was forced Monday to forfeit six Atlantic 10 conference wins for using an ineligible player. The Bonnies then voted to skip the rest of the season.

St. Bonaventure was scheduled to play at Massachusetts on Wednesday and at home against Dayton on Saturday.

The A-10 also barred the Bonnies from the conference's postseason tournament for using center Jamil Terrell, who failed to meet NCAA junior college transfer guidelines.

• • •

Men's basketball | Harrick denies charges

As widening allegations threatened his coaching career, Georgia's Jim Harrick denied any wrongdoing and vowed "the truth will come out."

"We'll answer every question," Harrick said in an interview broadcast Tuesday by ESPN. "Don't worry about it."

Two Georgia players were pulled out of practice Monday and questioned by NCAA and school investigators about allegations made by former player Tony Cole, who was kicked off the team last year.

• • •

NFL | Lions say they looked at minorities

The Detroit Lions told the NFL's committee on diversity Tuesday that they tried to interview minority candidates before hiring new coach Steve Mariucci.

But when asked if he still felt the Lions failed to follow the guidelines of the league's initiative to create opportunities for minority head coaches, Dan Rooney, chairman of the diversity committee, responded, "Yes."

NFL spokesman Joe Browne said Rooney would speak for the league.

• • •

NFL | Chiefs sign former Ram McClellan

The Kansas City Chiefs and former St. Louis cornerback Dexter McClellan have reached an agreement on a multiyear contract, but no date for McClellan to sign was immediately announced.

McClellan's signing would be the Chiefs' second major move to shore up a defense that was among the league's worst in 2002. On Monday, they signed a seven-year deal with former Eagles linebacker Shawn Barber.

• • •

NFL | Rice inks 6-year deal with Raiders

Jerry Rice has signed a 6-year, $30 million contract extension to remain with the Oakland Raiders, a salary cap-friendly deal that theoretically could keep the star receiver playing until he's 46.

Tim Brown, the longest-tenured Raider with all 15 of his seasons in Oakland, also signed an extension — which means the NFL's oldest receiving tandem will stay together for now.

• • •

Staff and wire reports

Baseball | Wichita State series postponed

K-State postponed its two-game home-and-home series with Wichita State Tuesday due to inclement weather.

The Cats will return to the diamond Friday against undefeated Arkansas.

Texas downs Cat men to finish undefeated at home

By Jim Vertuno
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN, Texas — James Thomas had 22 points and 15 rebounds to lead No. 4 Texas to a 74-60 victory over K-State on Tuesday night as the Longhorns finished their home schedule undefeated for the first time since the inception of the Big 12.

Brandon Mouton scored 13 points and T.J. Ford added 11 points and eight assists for the Longhorns (21-5, 12-3), who went 14-0 this season at the Frank Erwin Center.

Texas lost five games at home last season and hadn't gone undefeated on its home court since 1994-95.

Matt Siebrandt scored 12 points for K-State (12-16, 3-12), which lost its 16th straight conference road game and sixth straight overall.

The win keeps Texas in the hunt for a bye in the Big 12 Tournament.

Sixth-ranked Kansas has already earned at least share of the league title and one of two first-round byes.

The other will be determined Saturday when Texas travels to border rival No. 5 Oklahoma, which beat Nebraska 76-51 Tuesday. Texas beat Oklahoma at home this season.

The game had the look of a rout early as the Longhorns shot 53 percent during the first half.

On a night when pregame ceremonies honored Texas' three seniors, freshman Brad Buckman scored seven of the Longhorns' first nine points.

Senior Terrell Ross banked in a 3-pointer and Ford and Sydmill Harris hit two more, as the Longhorns raced to a 24-7 lead by shooting 9-of-16 and outrebounding K-State 13-4 over the first nine minutes.

Texas led 35-19 with 5:23 left in the half when K-State, which lost its previous five games by less than 10 points, mounted a 9-2 run that cut it to 37-30 on Jarrett Hart's runner in the lane.

The Longhorns then closed the half on a putback by Thomas, and Mouton's buzzer-beating 3-pointer from the right corner for a 42-30 lead.

Texas' James Thomas gets a shot over K-State's Pervis Pasco during the Longhorns' 74-60 win over the Wildcats on Tuesday night in Austin, Texas.

Yen-Yi Liu
THE DAILY TEXAN

SPORTS ONLINE

Fantasy baseball | The next best thing

The start of Spring Training means Major League Baseball is right around the corner. Sean Purcell takes a look at the world of fantasy baseball.

BY THE NUMBERS

MEN'S BASKETBALL
No. 4 TEXAS 74, K-STATE 60

K-STATE (12-15, 3-12)
Siebrandt 6-7 0-0 12, Pasco 5-11 1-3 11, Richards 5-11 0-0 10, Hart 3-8 2-3 9, DeJesus 3-8 0-1 8, Hayden 3-5 0-0 6, Buchanan 2-3 0-1 4.

TEXAS (20-5, 12-3)
Thomas 8-13 6-10 22, Mouton 5-14 0-2 13, Ford 3-10 4-11, Buckman 3-5 3-4 9, Ross 2-2 0-0 5, Harris 2-5 0-0 5, Klotz 1-3 1-2 3, Ivey 1-7 0-0 2, Boddicker 1-5 0-0 2, Erskin 0-2 2-2 2.

K-STATE 30 30 — 60
TEXAS 42 32 — 74

3-point goals — K-State 3-13 (DeJesus 2-7, Hart 1-3, Ellis 0-1, Richards 0-2), Texas 6-17 (Mouton 3-7, Ross 1-1, Ford 1-2, Harris 1-3, Ivey 0-1, Boddicker 0-3). Fouled out — None.
Rebounds — K-State 30 (Hart 10), Texas 50 (Thomas 15). Assists — K-State 7 (Richards 3), Texas 13 (Ford 8). Total fouls — K-State 18, Texas 16. Technicals — None. Attendance — 10,846.

GERM WARFARE

Proper hand cleansing can guard against germs, viruses

By Wendy Gorman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Don't touch that — you don't know where it's been.

People are taught to be wary of objects that have not been sterilized, but they often worry about catching diseases from objects that pose very little threat, said Joe Kitterman, environmental health supervisor for the Riley County Health Department.

"People are fixating their fears on the wrong things," Kitterman said.

Kitterman said the belief that coins and paper money pick up scary germs from frequent changes of hands isn't true.

"Money is not a major cause of exchange of diseases, and you should not worry about it very much."

Viruses do not enter a person's body through the skin, Kitterman said. They must come in contact with the nose or mouth or through the membranes of the eyes. Therefore, the biggest culprit when it comes to transmitting sickness is a simple lack of hygiene.

"The most common problem is lack of hand washing," he said. "There are a lot of bacterial diseases that can be spread because people don't wash their hands after they go to the bathroom."

George Marchin, associate professor of biology, said hands generally must come into contact with the face to spread viral diseases.

"The virus gets on your hands, then later you touch your nose or rub your eyes. You really have to massage (the virus) into the membranes," Marchin said. "Washing your hands more often is something the Center for Disease Control recommends."

Factors such as the international nature of the student body and hundreds of students crowding into classrooms accelerates the spreading of viruses, Marchin said.

Certain groups of people are more likely to become ill from harmful bacteria or viruses than others, Marchin said.

"Parents with children in school are especially susceptible, because their kids bring viruses home," Marchin said.

Children may also be more likely to come into contact with parasites carried by animals.

Kathy Gaughan, assistant professor in the Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital, said it is important to ensure that young children wash their hands often.

"Parasites are present in animals' stool material. It's when the cat gets in the sandbox, then the kids go play in it and don't wash their hands before eating their sandwich that they can get the parasite," Gaughan said. "These eggs are microscopic, and you can't see them."

The best prevention method for animal-borne viruses or parasites is thorough hand washing.

"For most diseases, practicing good hygiene by washing your hands will take care of them," Gaughan said.

But a quick pass of the hands through running water doesn't get the job done, said Carol Kennedy, director of health education and promotion at Lafene Health Center.

"I would say significant lathering using soap and warm water," Kennedy said.

"Soap is critical. It has been determined that soap and warm water is the best way to prevent colds and that kind of thing."

Kennedy said telephones, which are held close to the mouth, are a spot for germs that are often overlooked.

"To prevent the spread of germs, it is a good idea to clean our phones every now and then," she said.

Photo illustrations by Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

'Merry Wives of Windsor' weaves comedy into opera

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

One fat drunkard, two married women and two identical love letters are the backbone of Otto Nicolai's opera, "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Director Reg Pittman said the show, which is based on Shakespeare's comedy, is unlike traditional opera.

"This show is a comic opera. It's more of an operetta than a grand opera. It has a sentimental plot, and there is broken dialogue," Pittman said.

"The music is more of a popular, playful style of music."

The plot revolves around Sir John Falstaff and the two merry wives of Windsor.

Falstaff has sent the same love letter to Mrs. Page and Mrs. Ford, both married women.

Neither is interested in Falstaff, but they decide to play along.

Mrs. Ford plays a trick on her husband, making him think she might be having an affair.

She does this to see his reaction and to teach him a lesson about being so jealous.

The merry wives lure Falstaff by allowing him to think he can court them.

Jake Brensing (Falstaff) said the character is a man with delusions of grandeur.

"Falstaff thinks he's a womanizer. Like in one of the songs he says he could have any woman in town. He's a drunk, he's fat, and he just thinks he's hot stuff," he said.

Show times

The show opens 8 p.m. Thursday in McCain Auditorium, with performances also on Friday and Saturday nights. Tickets are $8 for students and $12 for the public.

While Falstaff might be the comedian in the play, the merry wives, Mrs. Ford (Allison Keane) and Mrs. Page (Ginny Pape) are running the town of Windsor, Keane, junior in music theater, said.

"(Windsor) is very man-oriented — that's what's funny, because we're in control, whether they know so or not," Keane said.

In addition to the main storyline, there is a subplot involving Mrs. Page's daughter, Ann.

"Ann Page has three different suitors — one her mother wants her to marry, one her father wants her to marry and one she wants to marry.

While her mother and her mother's best friend are playing a trick on Falstaff, Ann is playing a trick on her parents and her two suitors that she doesn't want to marry," Leia Edwards (Ann), graduate student in music, said.

Given the fact that "The Merry Wives of Windsor" is an operetta should make it more enjoyable for students, Pittman said.

"For students who have never experienced an opera, this would be a very good first opera."

"This is mainly because the music is very enjoyable to listen to. Also, the storyline is simple, yet comic,"

Pittman said.

Pittman said that in addition to being light hearted, another reason to see the show is to enjoy the talents of other K-State students.

"Our students are singing all the roles. The orchestra is filled with K-State students. It's a good opportunity to see the musical and vocal talents that our university has," he said.

Edwards said the best reason for students to come to the show is to add culture to their lives.

"This is an excellent opportunity to get another perspective of culture, and it's funny and a relatively cheap date," she said.

"Also, it's in English, so they should not have any trouble understanding it. It's just a good time."

CALENDAR

■ Dank Nuggets will perform tonight at Dave's Hideaway.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Holy flashback! West, Ward reunite to play themselves in 'Batman' movie

Holy reunion! Thirty-seven years after Adam West and Burt Ward put on skin-tight suits to keep Gotham City safe from the villainous Penguin, Joker and Riddler, the Dynamic Duo is back together for a peek at what really happened behind the scenes.

West and Ward play off each other as well as they did during the swinging '60s in the CBS movie "Return to the Batcave: The Misadventures of Adam and Burt" airing at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Documentary on Rosa Parks, civil rights activist, nominated for Oscar

A documentary about Rosa Parks has been nominated for an Oscar, but the civil rights pioneer hasn't decided whether she'll attend the ceremony.

She's been invited to attend the ceremony at the Kodak Theatre in Hollywood on March 23 by civil rights attorney Morris Dees.

The 90-year-old Parks will make a decision later this month, said Elaine Steele, co-founder of the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute for Self Improvement.

Parks would like to attend, and "we'll see if we'll be able to go," said Steele on Friday.

PERSONALITY PROFILE

Prairie Slaven
Miss Rodeo K-State

1. What are you having for dinner tonight?
"I'd like to have a steak, but I'll probably end up having something out of a vending machine."

2. What is in your CD player right now or who is your favorite artist?

"I really like George Strait's CD, 'Amarillo By Morning' because it talks about rodeo and being on the road, and I can associate with that."

3. What kind of car do you drive?

"I drive a 1999 Mazda Protege. I don't really like it that much. It's just a little bitty thing that isn't very reliable."

4. What was the last movie you saw and why?

"I really liked, 'Catch Me If You Can.' It had a good story line that kept you thinking."

5. What is your must-see TV show and why?

"I don't really watch that much TV, but I would say 'American Idol.' It is usually pretty good."

6. What is your favorite place to eat out and why?

"Lately, it is Whiskey Creek. It is the best steak in town."

7. Who is your idol and why?

"Charmyne Jones. She is an 11-time world champion barrel racer. She is someone I really look up to."

8. What is your favorite alcoholic drink?

"I'm not 21."

9. What is the craziest thing you did in college?

"Last semester my friends and I went outside and ran around when it was pouring rain outside. Nothing too crazy. I've been pretty good lately."

10. Have you ever cheated on a test?

"No I haven't — not on a test."

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

CLASSIFIEDS

Page 8

KANSAS STATE COLLEGEIAN

Wednesday, March 5, 2003

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO next to campus. $330/month plus deposit, no pets. June and August leases. (785)456-2812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio one, two, three, and four-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)776-3722

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)536-2104

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 1230 Clafin, across street from Ford Hall 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Starting $550. Also, nice one-bedroom apartment. Heat, water, trash two-thirds paid. Landlord mat. $480. (785)539-2482

FOUR-BEDROOM LARGE luxury apartment across street from west campus with two bathrooms. Like new. No pets. No smokers. $1200. (785)776-6318

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255

ONE AND two-bedrooms apartment for rent 1215 Ponty. Water and trash paid. No pets. June lease. (785)313-4812

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Clafin.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus, $405/ month plus deposit, no pets. 1225 Clafin. (785)456-2812

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460

THREE-BEDROOM TWO bath house, 500 block of Bluemont, available August 1, no pets. $875 plus utilities, laundry included. (785)776-9573, leave message

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August lease. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296

TWO, THREE, four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496

120
For Rent-
Houses

2307 ANDERSON, six-bedroom house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/ dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

724 KEARNEY, four-bedroom, two bath, central air, washer/ dryer, June 1. No pets/ smoking $1200. (785)776-9719

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE two bath, two kitchens. Living room, Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets, June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. 12 month lease starting June 1. Carpeted, air-conditioning, close to campus, and no pets. $800/ month. Call (785)776-0301.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease, $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air, 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, hard wood floors, washer/ dryer hookups, no pets. June lease. 1310 N. 10th. $1150. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062

GREAT HOMES in great campus locations. Homes available June 1, 2003. 2709 College View- lots of living space! Four bed/ two bath. Phone and cable jacks in every room. $1200 monthly. 926 Clafin- brand new interior! Four bed/ two bath. Open floor plan. Really close to campus. $1300 monthly. 314 S. 17th St. Very unique! Four bed/ two bath. $1200 monthly. Call Spirit Properties today. (785)587-0183

HOMES AVAILABLE August 1, 2003 1510 Leavenworth- Absolutely charming four bed/ two bath home. Beautiful hardwood floors $300 monthly per bedroom. 1000 Thurston A-Light and airy! Three bed/ two bath. Great location! $300 monthly. Call Spirit Properties today. (785)587-0183

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom house. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord, no pets. August lease. (785)539-0549

REASONABLE RENT, neutral colors and tons of space for only $275 a bedroom. This five-bedroom duplex has dishwasher, washer/ dryer, central air with off street parking and 2400 square feet. 713 Moro. no pets. June lease. Call (785)313-4812 for appointment.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

THREE-BEDROOM BRICK house all new paint with neutral carpet. Central air, washer/ dryer hook-ups. No pets. June lease. $300 bedroom. 1517 Pipher. Call (785)313-4812 for appointment.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM NICE house with large rooms. West of campus. Garage and laundry room. No smoking. No pets. Available August. (785)776-6318

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air-conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment; could rent as five-bedroom house.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house, $350/ month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)648-7253

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

NOW LEASING FOR FALL
• Cambridge Sq.
• Sandstone Apts.
• 2000 College Heights
• 1114 Fremont
• LEASED
• Forest Creek Town Homes

537-9064
Weekday: 8:30am-5pm
Saturdays: 10am-3pm
www.chillinvestments.com

K-Rental Mgmt.
539-8401

Studio from $340
1 BR from $440
2 BR from $500
3 BR from $630
4 BR from $800

•References, lease
•Most utilities paid

HOUSES from $840

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS
1620 McCain
Starting at $925
Available for June and August
2 full baths
Laundry facilities
Off Street Parking
CLOSE TO CAMPUS

Model Showings
Apt. #15
Tues. & Thurs. 3:30-6
Sat. 2-5
776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

ROYAL TOWERS
4 Bedroom APARTMENTS
• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical
JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development
210 N. 4th Ste. C

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

THREE-BEDROOM. NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1, $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM. NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM. WASH-ER/ dryer hook-up, off-street parking. June lease. 1616 pierre. $620/ month. (785)539-2347.

Now Leasing
1 LEASED $90
2 BR From $590
L 1 Apt. left for June
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

Kimball & College Aves.
Across from KSU stadium
Personal tour appointment
537-7007

115
Rooms
Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered. $300-$325/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 Winnie. Newly remodeled brick ranch, spacious three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets. Quiet neighborhood, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day. (785)776-7706, evenings.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1. Five-bedroom, two baths, 1415 LeGore Lane, year lease. $280 per bedroom, washer/ dryer hook-up, central air. (785)776-7202.

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bathroom. Central air. Laundry hook-ups, no pets. August. lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)556-5668.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO bath, all appliances, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, three blocks to campus. Starting June 1. 926 Vattier. $1050/ month. Call (785)841-2503.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry. Available June 1. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, four blocks from campus, off-street parking. (785)776-3114.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-WEST of KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, central air, two bathrooms with showers. (785)776-3114.

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, no pets, $1100. Call (785)537-7597.

120
For Rent-
Houses

Discover Brittney Ridge
TOWNHOMES
*4 Bedrooms
w/ study
*2 1/2 Baths
*Washer/ Dryer in each unit
*Sand Volleyball Court
*1440 sq. ft.
www.mdi-manhattan.com

Starting at $940 776-3804
Model Showings
2521 Candlercrest M, W, Th 3-6
Sat 12-3
McCullough Development

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets, $500. Call (785)537-7597.

130
For Rent-
Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1993 16X 80 Schult three-bedroom, two bath. Fenced yard, dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator included. $16,500. #187 Colonial Gardens. (785) 313-2997.

AFFORDABLE TWO-BEDROOM, one bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES east of KSU, country setting, three-bedroom, two bath. 1997 mobile home on two city lots. Chain link fence $38,000. Kaw Valley Realty (785)456-2061.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed for August 1 lease. All appliances provided. $250/ month, one-fourth utilities. Call Mandy or Jenny (785)323-1480.

MALE/ FEMALE roommate needed. Four-bedroom, two bath, June lease. 724 Kearny. Call (785)776-3852.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Next to Aggieville, one block from campus. June or August lease. $235/ month plus one-third bills. Leave message. (785)770-9515.

ONE TO two-bedrooms immediately available. Britany Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463

SUBLEASER NEEDED available April 1. Rent $250/ month plus one-third utilities, two blocks from campus. (785)539-8955, ask for Lacey.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. 520 N. 11th. Two-bedroom, full kitchen, living room, extra storage, walking distance to campus and Aggieville. $280. (785)341-3449.

200 service directory

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

INSTRUCTORS: HIGH- LAND Community College is seeking part-time Adjunct Instructors in Wamego, Kansas. Specific needs are in Biology, Anatomy and Physiology. Instructors in other disciplines also encouraged to submit application. Minimum of 18 graduate hours in teaching field required for most disciplines. Request application packet from: Highland Community College Human Resources, 606 W. Main, Highland, KS, 66035; (785)442-6010; egronniger@highlandcc.edu; Equal Opportunity Employer.

KSU EXPERIENCED photography student wanted to photograph a wedding. Call (785)776-4643.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

MASTER LANDSCAPE. A growing local landscape firm has a greenhouse/ grower position open. This requires a detail-oriented, motivated, full-time individual. Other position also available. Competitive compensation. Call (785)539-2842.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day! 1(888)820-0164 extension 1016.

OFFICE ASSISTANT, Part-time/ full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. 3.0 GPA. Ability to self-direct and multi-task necessary. Outgoing personality and excellent people skills desired. Training will be provided with possible advancement opportunities. Team-oriented and fun atmosphere. Business or marketing/ sales experience preferred. Send resume to: Westchester Park, 2100 Westchester Drive, Manhattan, KS 66503. No phone calls please.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply on-line: www.campcdoar.com

TOP BOYS SPORTS CAMP IN MAINE! Play and coach sports- have fun- make $$$. Openings in: all team and individual sports, all water sports, sports/ camp hikes/ ropes/ rock climbing, ice/ roller hockey, office/ secretaries. Top salaries, excellent facilities, free room/ board/ laundry, travel allowance. On-line application: www.campcobboassee.com or call: (800)473-6104.

WANTED FEMALE dancers to dance Wednesday- Saturday, 8p.m.- 2a.m. Old West Chuckwagon Inn. Hayes, KS. (785)628-1113, (785)628-8844.

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls and couples to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Visit our website at www.sombrero.com or write to us at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301.

WELL ESTABLISHED local nursery and Garden center seeking qualified person to manage receivables, payables, payroll, and financial reporting. Communication skills necessary with proficiency in Microsoft Office applications. Salary commensurate with experience and ability. Major medical paid leave, 401(k). Work hours Monday through Friday 8:00- 5:00. Respond to (785)776-0397.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com

HELP WANTED: earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. INFO 1-985-646-1700 DEPT. KS-6438.

HORIZON CAMPS: Are you a dynamic, energetic, compassionate, motivated individual looking for THE EXPERIENCE OF A LIFETIME? If so then Horizon Camps is the place for you. Horizon Camps is made up of five OUTSTANDING co-ed summer camps, seeking AMAZING staff to work with INCREDIBLE kids ranging in age from 7 to 15. Located in NY, PA, ME, and WV, positions are available in the areas of group leading, athletics, theater - arts water sports, outdoor education, and so much more. For more information and to complete and application please contact us: www.horizoncamps.com 1-800-544-5448.

400
open market

465
Tickets to
Buy/Sell

WANTED THREE or four Big Twelve Tournament Tickets. All sessions, KSU alumni, will pay top dollars. Call toll free (888)239-2155.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five air-planes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kscf

A NEW YOU! At Pro Fitness in Aggieville your tax return buys you: one year health club membership, 12 personal training sessions, 10 tans- ALL for $499. Sales tax is included, there are no hidden restrictions. 1125 Laramie Street, lower level. Stop by or call, (785)539-7095.

ATTORNEY CHARLES W. (Chuck) Harper. 25 years experience, divorce and civil law. 400 Poyntz. (785)539-8100. chuckharper@man.com.

ONLINE FILING: Prepare and file your taxes yourself online at www.absolutetaxes.com for a minimal fee of $9.95 for 1040EZ, and $14.95 for 1040. Just click "Online Filing" and the program will walk you through your return preparation, step by step. FREE E-FILE!!

we kick ads.

CLASSIFIEDS • 02-04-03

MANHATTAN
KANSAS
Starting Salary: $7/hr. (part-time, non-benefit eligible)
Special Requirements: Must be able to start academy 05/19/03. Great opportunity for KSU or MCC students while pursuing their educational goals with year-round employment. Applicants must either have a letter of acceptance or be enrolled full-time (12 hours undergraduate or 6 hours graduate) at Kansas State University or Manhattan Community College.
Special Requirements: Must be willing to comply with the Fire Department residency requirement within 90 days to be eligible for appointment. Must be eligible to work in the U.S., hold a valid driver's license and pass all physical and selection examinations and drug test. Training provided. Closing Date: 03/07/03
To be considered for an available position, you must complete a City of Manhattan application and return it to Human Resources by 5 p.m. on the closing date. For applications or more information www.ci.manhattan.kansas.us/jobs.asp • Job Line 785-587-2446 • e-mail jobs@ci.manhattan.kansas.us

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: KEY CHAIN and key to Mercedes. Must be able to describe key chain. Call Bryan at (785)770-8549.

LOST RED leather coat with work ID and driver's license in pocket. Call (785)776-6929, ask for Stacie.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

LADIES ARE you ready for a true, mature, committed man in your life? Compassionate, sensitive, 58 years young widower. Financially secure, successful real estate business man. Non-smoker seeks female companionship for possible long term relationship. Please call (785)776-2102.

Reach more readers
Place your classified ad online. Get more bang for your buck.
Ads scheduled to be printed in the Collegian can be purchased online for an additional dollar.

LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.

Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.

THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

Clafin
Books and Copies
1814 Clafin Rd.
(785) 776-3771
Fax: (785) 776-1000
Mon-Fri 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm
Sun 1pm-5pm
The Best Quality Copying and Printing in Town!

"I got a better

computer for a lot less because they don't run silly ads on TV."

- Factory direct savings
- Every computer custom built
- Name brand components
- Full factory warranty
- Easy to order - see & SAVE!

MY WHITE BOX Custom Built Computers
www.mywhitebox.com

HUNAM

Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Lunch Buffet $4.95 All you can eat!

Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!

Friday Seafood Buffet $7.95
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.

$1.00 on Buffet
Please present coupon and student I.D.
Valid only with late order only.
FREE DELIVERY with $9 minimum order
• OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a large with 2 or more toppings.
For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call 776-5577

MARCH MADNESS AT SALON 1

3104 Anderson 539-3626

- $20 Pedicures
- $20 Manicures
- $15 Off Women's Foil Highlights
- $10 Men's Haircuts

Please mention ad when scheduling valid with Heather only Offer expires 3/31/03

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
REPAIRING
• PURSES • SHOES • BOOTS • LUGGAGE
• BACK PACKS • LEATHER COATS • BALL GLOVES
• SATIN SHOE DYEING • BIRKENSTOCKS
• LEATHER UPHOLSTERY HIDES $120"
216 South Fourth • 776-1193

KSU Bakery Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

PIT STOP AUTOMOTIVE
OIL CHANGE plus disposal (up to 5 qts.) $19.95
TRANSMISSION Flush complete fluid exchange $79.95
Coolant Exchange with New Antifreeze $59.95
4 WHEEL COMPUTER ROTATION AND BALANCE $29.95
Includes free brake inspection for cars and light trucks (By appointment)
MOST CARS Jess Ebert former technician of Wildcat Amoco Rachel Smith, technician Owner, Bud Valerius
1629 FAIRLANE • MANHATTAN • 785-539-6650

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!
NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM	2 BEDROOM
1119 Laramie #4 W 5p-8p Sat/Sun 1p-3p *Starting at $475	926 Bluemont #9 W & Th 3:30p-6:30p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $560	1524 McCain #2 M & Th 3p-6p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $565
411 N 17th #4 M 3p-6p Th 4p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $400	1856 Anderson Ave #18 M 4p-6p T & Th 5p-7p Sun 3p-5p *Starting at $540	700 Fremont By Appointment Only *Starting at $490
1722 Laramie By Appointment Only *Starting at $415	1026 Osage By Appointment Only *Starting at $520	2514 Stagg Hill Rd By Appointment Only *Starting at $570
1005 Bluemont By Appointment Only *Starting at $420	1113 Bertrand #9 M & W 3p-6p T & Th 12p-3p *Starting at $580	1611 Laramie #6 M 1p-4p Th 3p-6p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $765
1700 N Manhattan By Appointment Only *Starting at $430	1005 Bluemont #7 M, T, & Th 3p-5p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $525	2521 Candlecrest Cr M, W, & Th 3p-6p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $940
1941 College Heights #9 W & Th 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $375	1001 Bluemont #1 M & Th 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $700	1700 N Manhattan #305 M, W, & F 1p-4p Sat 1p-4p *Starting at $780
1803 College Heights #7 T & W 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $425	1115 N 12th St By Appointment Only *Starting at $625	1620 McCain #15 T & Th 3:30p-6p Sat 2p-5p *Starting at $925
1858 Clafin #15 M, W, & Th 5p-7p Sat 12p-3p *Starting at $410	1419 Leavenworth #1 T & Th 2p-5p Sun 2p-4p *Starting at $585
418 Poyntz Ave By Appointment Only *Prices vary
700 Fremont By Appointment Only *Starting at $400
210 N 4th St #306 Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p *Starting at $510

776-3804
Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

McCullough Development
210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

go...

RADISSON DALLAS.
$89 Slam dunk your way to the Radisson Hotel & Suites Dallas. With free transportation from DFW International Airport and Dallas Love Field Airport, what more can you ask for? Located just minutes away from the American Airlines Center and the Reunion Arena, you will be able to enjoy the Big XII Basketball Championship games and cheer on your favorite team. Come join the excitement where the only thing friendlier than the puns is the staff.

DALLAS - DFW AIRPORT
Radisson Hotel & Suites Dallas
2330 W Northwest Highway, Dallas, TX 75220
214-351-4477
www.radisson.com/dallas_tx_nwhwy
1-800-333-3333

CLASSIFIEDS

500 transportation

1991 HONDA Accord LX. Two-door, five-speed, 145K. Must Sell! $2800. (785)323-0005.
1998 CHEVROLET Z71 Pick-up. Extended cab. Good shape. (785)323-1414.
1994 FORD F 150 4x4 with topper. Great condition, no rust, no air-condition, 133,000 miles. $5000 or best offer. Call (785)564-872.

600 travel/trips

TEN DAY Florida vacation: Orlando, New Smyrna Beach, Key West, Bahama cruise; four people at $175 per person. Call Jennifer at (785)776-2159. Leave message.

630 Spring Break

#1 SPRING BREAK Vacation! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, and Florida. Best parties, best hotels, best prices! Group discounts, group organizers travel free! Space is limited! Hurry up and book now! 1(800)234-7007
www.endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK

• SOUTH PADRE ISLAND • • PANAMA CITY BEACH • • STAMBOAT •
• BRECKENRIDGE •
• DAYTONA BEACH • VAIL •
www.sunchase.com
BOOK NOW!

Reach more readers

Place your classified ad online. Get more bang for your buck.

www.kstatecollegian.com

Ads scheduled to be printed in the Collegian can be published online for an additional dollar.

"Since when have girls not been concerned how their butt looks in a pair of jeans?"

Tammy McCoy

BUCKLE IN APPAREL AND TEXTILE MARKETING

SPRING'S FALLING WAISTLINES

Daring fashions continue to test how low waistlines can go

By JJ Duncan
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Those super-low-cut pants that have invaded pop culture imagery have invaded the mall as well, and they aren't going away this year.

So whether people like it or not, the posterior is the new focal point of clothing for men and women alike. Jason Stoltz, employee at the Buckle, said the low-rise style takes a while for some to get used to, but they do look good.

"I like the low-rise stuff for guys," he said. "It was weird at first, but once you wear them for a while, you get used to them."

But that's something many women have already learned to deal with. Molly Luttrell, freshman in child psychology, said she has been wearing low-rise jeans for years, and she is glad they have become easier to find recently. Luttrell, who participated in the tight-fittin' jeans contest Thursday at Longhorn's, said she doesn't mind showing a little more with the low fits.

"If you feel confident, then you should wear whatever you want," she said.

But that attitude leaves the question: how low is too low, or in Levi's words, dangerously low? Brands as prominent as the Gap, Diesel and Levi's have all shortened inseams to show more skin below the waist. Fashion writer Janelle Brown said in a May story on Salon.com that "the butt crack is the new cleavage, reclaimed to peek seductively from the pants of supermodels and commoners alike."

Has showing butt cleavage or underwear become acceptable? Tammy McCoy, junior in apparel and textile marketing, doesn't think so.

"I still don't want my butt crack to hang out," she said. "It is sexy to have lower jeans, though. I don't want them up to my belly button."

McCoy, who works at the Buckle, said she has switched entirely to low rise in the past year and a half that they have become more popular, but they should still be worn tastefully.

In her opinion, that means covering up the backside and avoiding high thongs.

Patricia Yeager, owner of Patricia's Undercover, agrees.

"It looks tacky to wear your underwear high over those jeans," she said. "I think it all started from people emulating a few underwear ads that weren't meant to be emulated."

Luttrell, on the other hand, thinks the style can be pulled off in a way that isn't tacky.

"It only looks good on some people, but as long as they present themselves well, it's cute," she said.

So many girls disagree that the sale of low-rise underwear has gone way up, Yeager said. Since the style became more popular, Yeager said, many more women have come to her store looking for low-rise thong and bikini-cut underwear to avoid showing off what's under the jeans.

Fueling the trend has been a steady stream of curvaceous women in the media showing off their God-given, or sometimes surgeon-given backsides.

It is rumored that dance diva Kylie Minogue enhanced her behind under the knife, while everyone has become familiar with the queen of trunk funk, Jennifer Lopez. Add to that pop superstars like Britney Spears, and the influence of the media on what people are wearing is apparent.

But that doesn't mean the style is for everyone, McCoy said.

"In summer, everyone tries to stay in shape, but you still have to cater your clothes to your body," she said. "If they shouldn't wear them or don't want them, there is other stuff they can wear and can still be cute."

The explanation for the popularity of the jeans among women, according to Stoltz, is simple.

"Girls want sexy, and sexy is low," he said.

McCoy said the current focus on the butt isn't anything new, even if the media has made it out to be.

"Since when have girls not been concerned how their butt looks in a pair of jeans?" she said.

Thursday, March 6, 2003

SGA Elections 2003

O'Hara, Stryker win general

70 percent of votes support change in smoking policy

By James Murla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

John O'Hara and Travis Stryker won the general election for student body president and vice president Wednesday night with 1,937 votes, according to unofficial results. The pair defeated opponents Tammy Jo Osborn and Julie Quackenbush by 637 votes.

About 18 percent of students voted, Elections Chair Mark Threeton said. Last year's general election had a slightly higher voter turnout, at 19.4 percent.

"We were ecstatic - thrilled," O'Hara said. "Our supporters made our night. It's an unbelievable feeling."

O'Hara said the first priority will be to fill cabinet positions so the pair can begin working on their four initiatives.

The president- and vice president-elect contacted Osborn and Quackenbush upon hearing the results and commended them on their hard work.

"They truly had a good campaign," Osborn said. "They never gave up, but neither did we."

The election results also showed that 71.2 percent of voters support a change to the university's smoking policy.

In the plebiscite vote, 991 students, or 42.1 percent of those who supported a change to the policy, voted in support of a smoke-free campus policy.

Outgoing Student Body President Zac Cook said he was pleased with the conclusive results of the plebiscite vote.

"The results will speak for themselves," Cook said.

O'Hara and Stryker had said they would wait for results from the plebiscite vote before making any decisions about the smoking policy. Although smoking was not one of the four initiatives in their platform, the pair said they would take the students' response seriously and look into a possible policy change.

Being flexible and taking up new issues are important to having a successful presidency, O'Hara said.

The pair commended Cook and outgoing Student Body Vice President Todd Kohman for sticking to and accomplishing their goals during their term.

Stryker said Cook and Kohman set an example that he and O'Hara hope to follow: to persevere and always keep goals in mind.

"Start early and work until it's finished," O'Hara said. "That's what they did with their global education fund and SafeRide."

Student body vice-president Travis Stryker and president-elect John O'Hara react after the announcement that they had defeated Tammy Jo Osborn and Julie Quackenbush in the Student Governing Association general election. Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Newly elected pair begins planning

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Standing on the seat of an Aggie Station booth, John O'Hara shed his calm smile and got choked up as he thanked his family for supporting him and running mate Travis Stryker in their quest for the student body president and vice president positions.

O'Hara and Stryker won the election Wednesday night, taking 59.8 percent of the votes, unofficially.

"We just had a rush of emotions," Stryker said of hearing the election results. "We were nervous leading up to it - excited leading up to it, and then just overwhelmed when we saw our names go up on TV."

O'Hara said he thought he and Stryker won the election because more students could relate to their platform issues.

"I think one of the biggest things is that at least one of our four initiatives directly affects every student that goes to "The next step, and our priority, will be to make sure we get the key people in our cabinet positions."

John O'Hara
STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT-ELECT

school here," he said. "Whether it be the wait-list procedure reform that we're proposing, increasing the amount of diversity we have here on campus, increasing student wages or making Dead Week a true dead week in some fashion - that will affect every student here."

O'Hara and Stryker said students should expect several things from them as student body president and vice president.

"They should expect us to work as hard as we can to make sure that we can hold true to our promises," O'Hara said. "They should expect hard work, dedication, determination and a positive attitude over the course of the next year."

O'Hara said he and Stryker also will make sure they are being informed of issues or problems the different student organizations are facing.

The pair said they plan to get right to work with their new offices.

"The next step, and our highest priority, will be to make sure we get the key people in our cabinet positions," O'Hara said. "We want to make sure we have the best possible people around us so we can accomplish the four initiatives we set out to do over the course of this next year."

Stryker added that the pair might also set up special committees to make sure their platform issues are implemented.

Zac Cook, outgoing student body president, said O'Hara and Stryker would have a busy two months ahead of them with making cabinet appointments and

See O'HARA Page 10

Brothers elected for K-State-Salina

Sanders ticket wins election by close vote

R. Sanders C. Sanders

By Jessica Pitts
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It was close, but two brothers are celebrating a victory in the K-State-Salina presidential election.

Robbie Sanders, junior in airway science and professional pilot, and Chad Sanders, sophomore in airway science and professional pilot, won by 31 votes in Wednesday's election.

"Obviously, we are happy with the outcome," Chad, vice-president elect, said. "We want to thank all the students who came out and voted for us. We also want to wish our opponents the best of luck."

The Sanders ticket earned 135 votes, or 56.5 percent. The Paul Homan/Douglas Zerr ticket received 104 votes, or 43.5 percent.

"It is kind of unexpected," Zerr said Wednesday night. "I guess all we can do is congratulate the winners and hope they live up to what they promised in their campaign."

Zerr said he and Homan will offer their support and services to the new president/vice president elect.

"We are here if they need us," he said.

Robbie and Chad will take office March 25, and the pair says they already have plans for changes.

First on their agenda is a change to election rules.

"There are few regulations that need to be changed," Robbie said. "K-State-Salina does not have its own election packet."

While running their campaign, Robbie said several of the regulations frustrated them because they weren't adapted to the other campus.

"That is our first thing we want to accomplish," he said. "We want to make sure the candidates next year do not have the same problems."

The second plan of action is allocating the money from the SGA rollover account.

"We need to have a concrete plan for that money," Robbie said. "We are ready to listen to suggestions and work with Senate for a resolution."

INSIDE

Women's team travels to Texas to take on Tech, maintain winning ways

Sports, Page 6

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Three powers vow to step up U.N. backing for Iraq war

France, Germany and Russia said Wednesday they will block any attempt to get U.N. approval for war against Iraq. U.S. and British officials refused to concede defeat.

Page 10

Bus explosion kills at least 16 in Israel, government steps up strike on militants

A bomber blew himself up aboard a bus filled with students Wednesday in northern Israel, killing at least 16 people and injuring 55. The bomber was carrying a letter praising the Sept. 11 attacks.

U.S. repositioning bombers near North Korea, may send fighter escorts

The United States is basing more heavy bombers near North Korea and will formally protest the communist nation's "reckless actions" in using MIG fighters to intercept a U.S. surveillance plane, officials said.

Turkish army presses parliament to accept deployment of U.S. troops

Turkey's military said Wednesday it supported letting in U.S. troops for a war in neighboring Iraq, boosting pressure on legislators to reconsider their rejection of allowing the American deployment.

Students protest possible Iraq war with walkouts

High school and college students across the country walked out of class Wednesday to protest a war with Iraq. Tens of thousands of students pledged to join in the protests.

Weather

Today 53 | 33

Sunny

Friday 61 | 37

Partly cloudy

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom..... 532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising..... 532-6560
Classified advertising..... 532-6555
Delivery problems..... 532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Look online to learn about National Weigh-In Day, which was Wednesday.

Vol. 107, No. 113

Osborn, Quackenbush hope to make changes despite loss

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tammy Jo Osborn, Julie Quackenbush and more than 30 cheering supporters gathered in front of the 7-foot television screen at Buffalo Wild Wings on Wednesday night. Amid hot wing baskets and camera flashes, the steady hum of excitement filled the room.

Then there was silence.

John O'Hara and Travis Stryker flashed on the screen, and the 2003 presidential race was over.

O'Hara and Stryker received 1,937 votes, 59.8 percent of all votes cast, while Osborn and Quackenbush received 1,300 votes, or 40.2 percent.

"I just thought, 'OK. What's next?'" Quackenbush said.

Although disappointed, the pair said they will still work to make a difference at K-State. Osborn and Quackenbush both gained seats in Student Senate.

"There are still several ways that we can make a difference at K-State," Osborn said.

Quackenbush said she agreed.

"Neither one of us are going to fall off the face of K-State just because we lost

Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

Tammy Jo Osborn hugs running mate Julie Quackenbush after the pair found out they lost the presidential/vice-presidential election to John O'Hara and Travis Stryker.

See OSBORN Page 10

776-5577

DELIVERS

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 "Turan" tunes

5 Cornfield comment

8 Com-molion

12 Caution

13 Raw rock

14 — d'Orsay

15 St. Patrick's place

16 Pam Tillis' dad

17 Incline

18 Halvah ingredient

20 Pressure

22 Young fellow

23 Hallucino-gen

24 Scenery chews

27 Lateral branch

32 Literary collection

33 Prizefighting org.

34 Personal question?

35 Despotism

38 Have more than a hunch

39 Family

40 Ostrich's cousin

42 Made spitballs

45 Bundle of energy

49 "The Time Machine" tribe

50 See 8-Across

52 The Bee —

53 Sunrise

54 Explana-tion

55 Paddock babe

56 Spill the beans

57 Novelist

58 Loosen

DOWN

1 Leaves slack-jawed

2 Excep-tional

3 1998

4 "Goo Goo Dolls" song

4 Historic writeup

5 Blow to one's dignity

6 "You — There"

7 Fine

8 Acorn or spaghetti, a.g.

9 Velo

10 Othello's foe

11 Nothing, in Nantes

19 Barker or Bell

21 Golfer Ernie

24 Belle Abzug trademark

25 Whichever

26 Sale indication

28 "X-Files" org.

29 Prone

30 Gloater's cry

31 AAAA job

36 Landing a hand

37 Away from SSW

38 Martial art

41 "Heavens to Betsy!"

42 Becomes one

43 Jal —

44 "James and the Giant Peach" author

46 A billion years

47 Samoa anthropologist

48 Norway's capital

51 Female deer

Solution time: 28 mins.

HOPE AOE BIFE
GOIT MOE ONIT
VIGORICE AATA
PEACE ORATION
JALU HALL INK
TIE TITERS GUE
MIO AAO
TICAO AAO
OQIM THERAICE
NEGO OOT OPEN
AIEA PEA UAST

Yesterday's answer 3-4

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21

22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31

32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41

42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51

52 53 54 55 56 57 58 59 60 61

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-228-8961 free per minute, touch-tone/cellular phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

STUMPED? CRYPTOQUIP

UOAM HSCCXNR SHA XM
S OJFEHEJR FEEK. NOAW
GXLA NE UASH LXGNR
SMK VGSW OEV-RYENYO

Yesterday's Cryptquip: DURING THE CIRCUS SHOW, A LION JUST RAN OUT OF ITS CAGE AND WENT FOR THE JUGGLER.
Today's Cryptquip clue: N equals T

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Crypt Classics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.
The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications
There was an error in Tuesday's Collegian. The police reports were printed from last year's reports. There was an error in the Feb. 27 Collegian. The Web site www.universityphoto.com photographs non-greek events. The Collegian regrets the errors.

Kansas State Collegian
(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

SPOTLIGHT | Interior architecture project

"The Rig" is a state-of-the-art casino, comedy club, restaurant and hotel designed by seven K-State interior architecture students.

Courtesy Photo

7 interior architecture students create virtual off-shore casino, night club, hotel

By Kelli Pitman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Do you want a getaway weekend in a secluded place off the coast of California, to enjoy a state-of-the-art casino, comedy club, restaurant, hotel and more?

Seven of K-State's fifth-year interior architecture and product design students have done just that. They have designed "The Rig," an offshore hotel, entertainment club and casino.

Seniors Jason Heidbreder, Cynthia Herrington, Eric Howard, Tony Sapad, Daniel Schumer and Melinda Winslow and fall 2002 graduate Philip Betts spent six weeks last fall creating and designing this virtual project in Alan Hastings' interior architecture class.

"The Rig" includes oil rigs that form an integrated structure system for the hotel and casino. A boat with glass walls and floors, created by Howard, transports 20 passengers at a time to and from the casino, which is located 15 miles off the coast of California. The structure contains a hotel, restaurant, comedy club, nightclub, sports center and spa.

Schumer said that once the group decided on the details and schematics of the project, such as its size and how many people it would accommodate, each person chose a certain part and created their own innovations for that section of the project.

"I worked mainly on the restaurant, which took about 52 hours just to render on the computer," Schumer said. "It took everyone around 50 hours, meaning we put in a good 500 hours creating each separate piece."

A lot of the work was done on computer programs such as AutoCAD, Adobe Photoshop and 3D Studio Max, he said.

Hastings and the students are hoping they will see The Rig constructed in the future. They have been in contact with various contractors and are planning to pitch the project to investors, hoping to get money to continue to develop the project.

"This could definitely be created in the future," Schumer said. "We just need the right people to see what we have done."

BEST BETS | FOR THIS WEEKEND

1 | SENIOR DAY Seniors Pervis Pasco, Matt Siebrandt, Quentin Buchanan and Gilson Delesus play their final games in Bramlage Coliseum Saturday. The Iowa State Cyclones visit Manhattan for the final conference showdown before heading to Dallas for the Big 12 Tournament next week.

Wildcat Gilson Delesus

2 | THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR The comic opera will have three shows at 7 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The opera was written by Otto Nicolai and is based on a William Shakespeare play. Tickets are $6 for students and seniors and $10 for the general public.

Anthony Hopkins in 'Hannibal'

3 | RED DRAGON Anthony Hopkins returns to the role of Hannibal Lecter. See Lecter for the first time in the third installment of the Lecter series at the Forum Hall in the K-State Student Union this weekend. Tickets are $2 and showtimes are at 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and at 8 p.m. on Sunday.

4 | CATS VS. RAZORBACKS The baseball team will be host to Arkansas on Friday and Saturday. Friday's game will be played under the lights at the Frank, with the first pitch coming at 6 p.m. and the teams will match up at 12:30 p.m. Saturday before heading to Arkansas for games three and four.

5 | TEARS OF THE SUN Bruce Willis plays a Navy Seal in his newest action movie. Willis is sent to war torn Central Africa to save a U.S. citizen who is running a mission, but she won't leave the country without the people she went there to save. Check Friday's Collegian for showtimes.

The blotter
Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, March 4

- At 9:15 a.m., Phyllis Channel, Westmoreland, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear, possession of a controlled substance, possession of narcotics, sale of narcotics, unlawful possession of depressants, cultivation of marijuana and no drug stamp. Bond was set at $5,060.
- At 10 p.m., Dianna Marshall, 1430 Humboldt St., was arrested for aggravated battery. Bond was set at $2,000.
- At 10:13 p.m., Clark Brake, Blue Rapids, Kan., was arrested for contempt of court. Bond was set at $500.
- At 11 p.m., Joshua Wiles, Fort Riley, was arrested for making a criminal threat. Bond was set at $1,000.

Wednesday, March 5

- At 1:05 a.m., Gregory Talley, 1840 Elaine, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
- At 1:45 a.m., Phillip Sanchez, Nevada, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $500.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Keadie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- NSCS will meet at 7 tonight in Denison 124.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct an Experiential Learning Orientation at 2:30 p.m. today in Holtz Hall. Call 532-6506 for a reservation.
- The KSU Juggling Club will meet from 6:30 to 7:30 tonight in Union 204.
- Applications for Honor Council are due Friday in the Office of Student Activities and Services.
- Applications for 2003-04 College of Education Ambassadors are due by 5 p.m. Friday in Blumont 13.
- The men's lacrosse team will play Dordt College at 9 a.m. Saturday and the University of Nebraska at 3 p.m. Sunday in Memorial Stadium.
- Applications from the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are available at OSAS, the Alumni Center or at www.k-state.com/programs/currentstudent/homecoming.asp. Applications are due March 14.

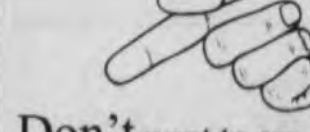

Up next
In Friday's Collegian

Opinion | Education cuts
Why is the state throwing tenure out the window when it comes to education? Read Andrew Lawson's column on the Kansas Board of Education's proposal regarding budget cuts.
Sports | Deciding the tournament
See if K-State can secure a No. 1 seed in the Big 12 Tournament tonight in Lubbock against Texas Tech. Also, find out if the weather will cooperate for the Cats when Arkansas comes to Manhattan for a four-game series at Frank Myers Field.

"I got a better computer for a lot less because they don't run silly ads on TV."

- Factory direct savings
- Every computer custom built
- Name brand components
- Full factory warranty
- Easy to order - see & SAVE!

My White Box
Custom Built Computers
www.mywhitebox.com

Don't want to see you on page 2.

BE RESPONSIBLE

Ramblers STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

Thursday Night Specials

12 oz. USDA Choice Top Sirloin
Choice of potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $7.99 + tax
or
"The Couples Special"
2 complete dinners for only $14.99 + tax
8711 E. Hwy. 24 539-4989

TONIGHT AND FRIDAY 1/2 PRICE BOTTLES $1

ABSOLUTELY no cover

Apple Station
RESTAURANT & PUB

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Say CHEESE Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 537-1909

Bobby T's

OPEN MIC NIGHT

Thursday

$2 Pints and $2 Wells
$3.99 Burgers and Quesadillas

Travel the World

with gear from the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

304 Poyntz, Downtown Manhattan 785-539-5639

tonight 2003

Kappa Sigma
Wildcat Women
calendar contest

Coors Light & Bacardi
Drink Specials

Interested participants sign up @ Silverados

Pet Health ALERT

Have you had your dog tested for heartworms this year?
The Pet Health Center recommends annual testing of all dogs over 6 months of age

The Pet Health Center Heartworm Clinic will be
March 10-14
Call 532-5690 to make an appointment
Dogs must be at least 5 1/2 months old to be tested

The Pet Health Center at Kansas State University
Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital
Quality, compassionate care...for life

Unofficial general election results

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Note: These are the unofficial results—official results will be available Thursday. An * denotes a winner as a write-in candidate.

For a complete official list of election results, go to www.sgaelections.ksu.edu.

President/Vice President
John O'Hara/Travis Stryker 1,937
Tammy Jo Osborn/Julie Quackenbush 1,300

Board of Directors, Student Publications (1 year term)
Nick Flentie 1,926
Emily Meissen* 29
Erin Slattery* 22

Board of Directors, Student Publications (2 year term)
Patrice Holderbach 1,953

Fine Arts Council (1 year term)
Melody McElwain 1,164

Fine Arts Council (2 year term)
Victoria Lowdon* 13

Union Governing Board (1 year term)
David McCandless 1,059
Dustin Krammerer 1,055
Matt Baki 872

Union Governing Board (2 year)
Jason Heaser 994
Melody McElwain 845

College of Agriculture
Student Senate:
Lori Alexander 150
Cody Echols 148
Michael Burns 140
Whitney Coen 126
Abby Crow 99
Jeremy Long 91
Jed Strnad 91
Jason Amy 75
Craig Doane 74
Kale Becker 69

Council:
President:
Troy Soukup 143
Alicia Dale 93

Secretary:
Caleb McNally 133
Amber Brazie 97

Treasurer:
Kent Nichols 125
Tim Pralle 100

Activities Director:
David Sewell 18

PR Director:
Joseph D. Blecha 186

College of Architecture, Planning and Design
Student Senate:
Lindsay Bathel 88
Brad Kingsley 70
Kyle Fitzgerald 59

College Council:
Katie Martin 104
Gretchen Johnson 95
Amy Mattingly 89
Sarah Puchosic 82
Luke Urie* 17
Zachary Borg* 15
Adam Arehart 5
Michael Rieger* 4

College of Arts and Sciences
Student Senate:
Tammy Jo Osborn 487
Ben Procter 371
Laura Wood 347
Layton Ehmke 336
Stephanie Biggs 328
Lindsay Porter 311
Vicki Conner 309
Paige Tibbets 300
David McCandless 295
Seth Bridge 288
Ashley Friesen 287
Emily Meissen 279
Abbie Rondeau 274
Katie Bartko 244
Christine Marie Baker 237
Sarah Laib 235
Naureen Kazi 223
Jared Kyner 218
Kristin Kay 214
Jason Hitchcock 204
Jason Heaser 199
Charity Lees 179
Nick Flentie 172
Adam Kretzer 169
Amber Campbell 160
Charlie Miller 158

College Council:
Seth Bridge 403
Christine Marie Baker 364
Glenda Blackman 359
Kristin Kay 358
Jason Heaser 353
Nick Flentie 341
Liesl Ott* 6
Ashley Friesen* 4
Matthew John 3
Eric Banner* 3
Julie Miller* 2

Rachel Drosselmeyer* 2

College of Business Administration
Student Senate:
John O'Hara 285
Maggie Trambly 223
Hayley Urkevich 213
Lisa Tirrell 179
Damian Lair 158
Zach Hauser 147
Anne Bianculli 140
Sheldon Bud 138
David Hart 133
Melody McElwain 128
Dustin Kammerer 128
Tommy Stein 112
Andrea Yadon 101
Jesse Daniel Newton 95
Tom Roth 89
Regina Busse 85

College Council:
Mike "Big Mike" Hart 257
Maggie Trambly 253
Suzanne Blakely 237
Matt Baki 222
David Hart 221
Melody McElwain 219
Jesse Daniel Newton 218
Andrea Yadon 194
Jonathan Anderson* 5
Lindsey Hines* 4
Evan Hammett* 4
Derek Hooker* 3
Justin Waggoner* 3
Jared Parker* 2
Jerrad Blake* 2

College of Education
Student Senate:
Alison Darby 164
Hannah Mueledner 156
Suzanne Steffens 155
Kristin Kiehnhoff 152
Quenten Troyer* 23

College Council:
Wes Pike 162
Kristin Kiehnhoff 158
Justin Rayburn* 5
Laura Fowler* 4
Jeremy Ezell* 3
Christopher Barker* 2
Lisa Lowman* 2
Jessica Tarman* 2
Piper Childs* 2
Benjamin South* 1
Rachael Herzog* 1
Alison Darby* 1
Jared May* 1
Brandi Eisen* 1
Matthew Beaven* 1

College of Engineering
Student Senate:

Julie Quackenbush 303
Kelli Simmelink 265
Lindsey Porter 242
Kristine Sheedy 213
Sam Meier 206
Ben Long 201
Katie Kennedy 176
Zach Stover 140
Brandon Sager 139
Tyson Moore 138
Matt Woerman 120
Bryce Hushka 118
Rusty Thompson 118
Ted Stroope 104
Jerard Gubbels 104

College Council:
President:
Kim Bartak 375

Vice President:
Jeffrey Meisel* 20

Internal VP:
Sam Meier 349

College of Human Ecology
Student Senate:
Amber Lafferty 153
Melinda Greene 135
Eleri Griffin* 16
Melissa Greene* 6
Jayne Sauber* 3

College Council:
Liza Dunn 142
Melinda Greene 141
Darla Orth 126
Erin Giles* 13
Melissa Greene* 13
Katie Horton* 12
Jenna Doty* 11
Cameron Bunton* 10
Amy Stokka* 10
Amy Bole* 10
Braeden Fetterman* 9
Jasmynd Anderson* 8
Eleri Griffin* 8
Cassandra McPherson* 6
Abigail Brookover* 6
Karen Reiboldt* 2

Graduate School
Suzanne Lueker 119
Altat Karim 98
Mark Threeton* 6
Diane Hess* 4
Srikanth Sankaran* 4
Girish Nehate* 3
Robert Kula* 3
Ayesha Rizvi* 2

Campus clergy discuss possible war with Iraq

By Tristan Hinderliter
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Campus religious leaders met Wednesday in a forum to discuss if war with Iraq is justified.

Five of the six panelists said they believe war is not justified at this time. The other was undecided.

The forum, sponsored by the KSU Campus Ministers Association, brought together six leaders of campus ministry groups to discuss how faith relates to the prospect of war.

Meanwhile, students at universities across the country participated in a national walk-out on classes to attend sessions with campus religious leaders to discuss the possibility of impending war, said the Rev. Matt Cobb, president of the association and leader of the Episcopal Student Ministry.

The association decided a walk-out was not called for now and decided to have the discussion instead, Cobb said.

The Rev. Keith Weber of St. Isidore's Catholic Student Ministry, said the Catholic Church believes very strongly in the need to protect the innocent and that those who cannot defend themselves deserve the right to have someone else defend their lives.

War, however, should be only a last resort, he said.

"We try to focus on what is a just answer to what is going on," Weber said. "As of today, we at the Catholic Church feel like there are still more things that need to be done to try to resolve the issue before going to war."

Matt Carter of Cats for Christ and the Rev. Jayne Thompson of Lutheran Campus Ministries said they are opposed to military action.

Thompson said she is not a pacifist, but she is adamantly opposed to going to war without just cause.

Carter said he sees no good reason to contemplate a war and that the American people are uninformed about what's going on.

"Everything that I've heard from those opposed to the war sounds extremely simplistic and uninformed," he said. "And everything I've heard from those supporting the war sounds extremely simplistic and uninformed."

"I don't think any of us really know the truth about what's going on," Carter said.

The Rev. Barbara Krehbiel Gehring, of Mennonite Student Ministry, said she does not support military action in Iraq and that the Mennonite Church believes in pacifism.

She pointed out that pacifism is derived from the word "peace" — not passive.

The Rev. David Jones of Ecumenical Campus Ministries said he agreed with the other panelists that war is not justified.

"I think that the biggest fear that I have is that this action is undermining the moral authority and good will the United States has enjoyed throughout history, and particularly since World War II," he said.

America appears imperialistic to the rest of the world, he said.

"This is an immoral war. A just war requires that you not take the life of innocents," Jones said. "I don't think that we have exhausted all possible resources yet."

After the panelists shared their views, Cobb opened up the forum to members of the audience to ask questions or share their opinions.

Some audience members said they disagreed with the panelists. One said he thought the United States would not be in the position of going to war if the country had not been attacked first, on Sept. 11, 2001.

Cobb attributed the low turnout of 20 people to not seeing the prospect of war as a faith issue. People fail to see that faith, politics and ethics are intertwined, he said.

Natalie Holdren, leader of Quest Campus Ministries, said she thinks it is a big faith issue.

"It boils down to our faith and where we stand in our Christianity — or whatever faith someone chooses."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION. CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

Wings

All You Can Eat

$6

Ksu Opera Theatre Presents

The Merry Wives Of Windsor

McCain Auditorium, 8 p.m. March 6-8
$8.00 students
$12.00 general
Box office open noon-5 p.m.
call 332-6428
A comic opera by Otto Nicolai
Based on the William Shakespeare comedy

Wildcat Creek Sports Center

Broke?
Not Going On Spring Break?

Show Your Student I.D. AND Receive 20% Off Any Activity

New Range Balls Are In!

Always make sure to practice with the BEST balls in town!

200

150

100

50

TO THE POINT New officials need to make good decisions

To our newly-elected officials:
The campaigning is over, and the results are in.

You are now representing K-State.

The student body's opinion has been heard, and now it's time for you to take action.

Remember those platforms and promises you made throughout the campaign?

So do we. Therefore, it's important to keep them in mind during your year-long term.

The student body has voted for you for these specific reasons, and it's your responsibility to stand by your words.

You're no longer selling yourself to the student body, but now you're representing the university with every political action you take.

Before making decisions, keep the the student body in mind, since we're the reason you were elected into office.

We have given you the opportunity to represent our student body, so don't let us down.

Make our votes count, and remember why you were elected into office.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

Illustration by Ben Dolezal | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF		Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane AGE EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Just for the record, Johnny Cash does not suck. Nickelback sucks, Eminem sucks and Creed sucks.

Speedy delivery to you, Mr. Restivo.

What are you giving up for Lent?

So, after we ban smoking on campus, should we also ban drinking alcohol, premarital sex and eating fatty foods?

My favorite thing about slick sidewalks is falling in front of guys.

The best thing in the Collegian is the Patricia's Undercover ad. Who is she? And will you be my girlfriend?

Did anybody else see the guy at the bars with the dead squirrel on his shoulder this weekend? Weird.

How do you know when it's really cold? Two words: frozen squirrel.

They should name an alphabet after me.

My girlfriend of three years just dumped me on Tuesday, and I'm going out tonight to drink until I go home in an ambulance.

Paul, obviously you didn't learn very much from Mr. Rogers because you still talk about things like penises and frat boys gone wild. Please.

President Wefald, oh please, oh please, oh please cancel school.

I was just watching a TV commercial, and it said that shaving cream comes in seven different flavors. Should shaving cream have flavors? Who is eating it?

My fiancé just put another guy's boxers on his head. Should I be concerned?

We love fish and shrimp.

Is a friend a friend if they rat you out?

To the girl who fell three times on campus yesterday: that sucks.

A little rebellion every now and then is a good thing.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

PRINCE OF THIEVES

Bush acting like reverse Robin Hood by stealing from poor, giving to rich

To be perfectly honest, I have never been a big fan of George W. Bush.

From the beginning of his term, I have feared for our country. I fear that a man who has been spoon-fed riches and success all his life cannot adequately address the problems of a nation where 32.9 million people live below the poverty line, according to the 2001 U.S. Census Bureau.

It seems to me that a country where the majority of citizens are middle-class workers will not be well led by someone who has never had the opportunity to understand what it is like to work hard and still have difficulty providing for his family.

My concerns have been justified in light of President Bush's plan to revive the economy by removing dividends from taxation. With this policy proposal, President Bush is trying to act as a backwards Robin Hood who takes from the poor to feed the rich.

Dividends are profits paid out to investors who possess holdings in corporations or businesses. This means that only people wealthy enough to have spare income for investment are able to receive dividends. With the President's plan, big investors will reap the rewards, while small investors will receive little to no benefits.

To illustrate who will benefit from President Bush's plan, I spoke to a local tax preparer. She told me that out of her 350 clients, less than five would benefit by even $10 if the President's plan is implemented. If the economy is to be given a boost, I think we need a policy that will benefit the average person more than a dollar or two.

Not only will this policy benefit only a minuscule number of people, but it also is inconsistent with current taxation policies. The current policy requires a person receiving unemployment benefits to claim them as income on both the state and federal tax returns.

I'm going to go out on a limb and assume that a person collecting unemployment is having a difficult time financially. Is it fair that we strictly tax the people who are trying to make ends meet, meanwhile giving Mr. Billionaire a break?

This brings us to the issue of equal sacrifice. As citizens of this country we all are expected to sacrifice our money in order to support government systems and programs. We should all be sacrificing equally, but this does not mean all levels of income should be taxed by equal percentages.

Let's use an example to show why this is the case. If you live in a two-person household and your yearly household income is less than $11,000, which places you just below the poverty line, and you are paying the government only two percent of your income, you are still sacrificing enormously.

On the other hand, if your yearly household income is in excess of $100,000, your sacrifice would be minuscule. The amount of sacrifice is about how difficult it is for you to survive on your income after taxes. The higher the income, the less sacrifice involved.

I encourage everyone to take some time to think about how removing dividends from the category of taxable income would affect our country. Go back and watch one of the movies about Robin Hood. I recommend the Kevin Costner version. Is the best policy one that nourishes our people or one that starves them?

Nasrina is a senior in philosophy. You can e-mail her at neb6793@k-state.edu.

TO THE EDITOR

Policy decisions should be left to those in charge

Editor,
This is in response to the Collegian's Friday editorial titled "Faculty Senate should reform Dead Week."

It is such an easy matter to decide someone else's responsibilities. Most faculty members and administrators devote their professional lives to providing "the best environment in which students can achieve academically."

What Senator Yagerline was suggesting is simply that students have the responsibility to make the best possible use of that environment.

Front page articles on students who start the weekend on Thursday, Aggieville bars that advertise "Skip Class" specials, students who work to support a lifestyle instead of afford an education - these don't send very clear messages to faculty members or administrators.

Students pay only a fraction of the cost of their education - 25 percent to 30 percent. The people of Kansas pick up the remaining costs.

Faculty members and administrators are stewards of those tax dollars.

Students might choose to throw away their own tuition money, but we can't afford to allow them to throw away the tax dollars contributed by the state.

The policy under consideration will endure only if students, as well as faculty members and administrators, are responsible.

Jacqueline D. Spears | CHAIRPERSON,
FACULTY SENATE ACADEMIC AFFAIRS

Student fees shouldn't be raised due to current economic situation

Editor,
My letter to you is about the article in Friday's paper about the funds to benefit foreign students.

In the current times that we live in today, with the bad economy and on the brink of war, I have had to start cutting back on spending and on other things that I could consider luxury items in my life.

With money tight like it is right now, there is no need to raise student fees for anything. The only thing Student Senate should be figuring out right now is what we are spending so much money on and how we could cut back.

Some people might think that these are just words coming from some ignorant bigot, but they are just words from a man who can't see the end in a spending trend that our own school, state and country has found itself in.

Think of this situation: a man who owns a construction company has fallen into hard times.

Do you think that he can just raise his prices to get back on his feet? Maybe. But for how long can he do this before nobody will hire him to work?

Schools, on the other hand, can keep pushing. More or less, they have a monopoly over us. If we choose not to pay, that's cool with them - one less person for them to handle and one more McDonald's manager. We have to be here to secure our future for our families and ourselves.

In the minds of our administration, we are nothing more than lemmings falling off the cliff.

No, I'm not a hippie, nor am I a communist, but now is the time to make a stand.

Write e-mails and letters to your college. Tell them this is not the time to raise prices on us. Do it for yourself and your future generations.

Christopher Gadd | JUNIOR IN PARK MANAGEMENT
AND CONSERVATION

Landon Lecture features historian

McCain to be host to expert on presidents

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A historian specializing in the U.S. presidency and American politics will present the 128th Landon Lecture at 10:30 a.m. today in McCain Auditorium.

Charles Reagan, chairman of K-State's Landon Lecture Series, said he is grateful Michael Beschloss will be speaking.

"We have been trying to get leading historians," he said. "Michael Beschloss is clearly at the top of the list of prominent historians."

Reagan said Beschloss has written seven books. The most recent is titled "The Conquerors: Roosevelt, Truman and the Destruction of Hitler's Germany."

"He has also written two volumes of his projected trilogy on the Lyndon Johnson presidency," Reagan said.

The first two volumes are "Reaching for Glory" and "Taking Charge: The Johnson White House Tapes." Beschloss's book "The Crisis Years: Kennedy and Khrushchev, 1960-1963" was a best seller and won the Ambassador Book Prize for American Studies.

"Many of his books have been bestsellers," Reagan said. "And he is always on TV. He's on PBS, CBS, MSNBC and CNN all the time."

Beschloss serves as a regular commentator on PBS' "The NewsHour with Jim Lehrer" and as a contributor to ABC news.

He is working on a history of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

Sue Zschoche, head of the Department of History, said she hopes Beschloss will talk about the country's president, although the topic as not been announced.

"I am kind of hoping to hear what he has to say about the Bush presidency and war. I'll be eager to hear what he wants to talk about."

"I am always eager to hear what historians have to say. One lecturer a year is usually a historian, so we're pleased about that," she said.

Reagan said about two to four of the country's leading personalities will present lectures each year.

The Landon Lectures are a good opportunity for students to keep up with important issues, he said.

"The lectures bring to campus the most prominent people. Where else are students going to get the chance to see these people face to face and ask them questions?" he said.

The lecture series was founded in 1966 by former K-State President James McCain as a tribute to the late Alfred Landon.

Presidents Reagan and Bush Sr. have been among past Landon Lecture speakers.

The lectures are open to the public and can be heard live at the Landon Lecture Series' Web site, www.dce.ksu.edu/landon/.

Michael Beschloss
PRESIDENTIAL HISTORIAN

Students operate, manage nuclear reactor

Campus job pays students well after extensive training, testing

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Katy Bors and Walter McNeil are in charge of millions of dollars worth of equipment every day.

Bors, graduate student in nuclear engineering, and McNeil, junior in mechanical engineering, work at K-State's nuclear research and education reactor.

The nuclear reactor is used mainly to irradiate materials to do neutron activation analysis, McNeil said. For example, if people wanted to find out if there were contaminants in soil they wanted to use for planting, they could bring it in and get it tested.

"When we make something radioactive, we measure the radiation that comes off of it," he said. "That radiation is specific to the type of material that it is, meaning we can tell you what's in an unknown material, down to the parts per billion."

McNeil said the reactor is safe to work on because it uses a special fuel that will shut off the reactor if the temperature gets too high. All the systems were built so that if something were to go wrong, the reactor would shut down, said Mike Whaley, facility director and reactor manager. Also, the reactor, which is 18 inches in diameter and 20 inches tall, has about nine feet of concrete all the way around it so the radiation doesn't get out, he said.

"We're extremely over-engineered for safety," Whaley said. "It has to be safe. It was designed to be extremely safe."

At the reactor facility, there are many projects going on right now — some waiting for a student to continue working on them.

McNeil said he is working on a monochromator.

"It's a neutron beam splitter," he said. "It will be a big cement cylinder. One beam of radiation will come in, and it will be split into three as it comes out the back, making the beam less concentrated. People will even be able to work with their hands in the beam." All maintenance is done by students, Whaley said. McNeil is in charge of all the mechanical, electrical and chemical maintenance. Students are paid more than minimum wage, and for good reason, Bors said.

"Part of the reason students are paid so much is because we take care of all the problems we have here," she said. "For instance, if we want to repaint, we will do it ourselves."

K-State's program is a little different from others, Bors said. Some places are very commercialized and have rigid schedules.

"In some places, if students are allowed to work, it is a graduate student who has committed to one specific project. Here, we're very flexible."

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Katy Bors, graduate student in nuclear engineering, takes samples from the reactor core so its data can be measured. Bors has worked at the reactor for three years.

We have all-student operators, including our manager, who is working on his Ph.D.," she said. "We know students are very busy, so when we are scheduling training, we have to schedule around things, which means that sometimes we are here in the evenings or on weekends."

The program is available for everyone, if people are willing to go through the training and testing, Bors said. "Students have to go through at least six months of training," she said. "Then someone from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission comes from Washington, D.C., to administer a two-day test consisting of three parts."

Despite many risks most people associate with nuclear technology, Whaley said reactor operators have very safe jobs.

"This job is less dangerous than a janitor's job," Whaley said.

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

$20 today
Get Paid to Study!

Donate your life-saving blood plasma and earn cash.

Fees apply to new donors

ZLB Plasma Services

1130 Gardenway
785-776-9177

call or stop by
No appointment needed
www.zbl.com

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call

776-5577

dependable, quality service
✓ digital & print design
Clafin Books and Copies

RC McGraws

Manhattan's Oldies, Country, Night Club

KARAOKE

Thursday, 9-1

50¢ TACOS
hard or soft

$1.99 Island Oasis Margaritas

776-9588 • 2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Blue Hills Shopping Center

GUMBY'S Pizza
Mon-Wed 10:30 am-2:30 am
Thurs-Sat 10:30 am-3:30 am
Sun 10:30 am-2:00 am
Fast, FREE Delivery
$1.50 PBR Pints Daily

SUNDAY
$4 - 60 oz. Domestic Pitchers
$2.25 Girlie Beer Bottles

MONDAY
Golden Tee Tournament - 9 pm
$1 PBR Pinte
$2.75 Jack Drinks
$2.50 Import/Micro Bottles

TUESDAY
Local Live Music - 9 pm
$2 Wells
$2 Boulevard Pinte
$2.50 Jager Shots

WEDNESDAY
Pool Tournament - 9 pm
$3 - 60 oz. PBR Pitchers
$2 Domestic Bottles
$3 Premiums

THURSDAY
Open Mic Night - 9 pm
$3 Domestic Pinte w/ $1.50 Refills & Keep the Glass!
$2.50 Caffe
$2.50 Import/Micro Bottles

FRIDAY Lucas & Joe
Local Live Music - 10 pm
$3 Domestic BIG ASS Beers
$2.50 Captain Drinks

SATURDAY
$1.50 Domestic Pinte
$4 - 60 oz. Domestic Pitchers
$4 Red Bull & Vodka

K-State VS. Iowa State
March 8
7 p.m.

A Century of Tradition
1902-2002

PACK IT WITH PURPLE!

k-state after hours:
FRIDAY, MARCH 7TH
AT THE K-STATE STUDENT UNION

"SPRING BREAK"
• Cruise Ship
• Colorado
• Texas
• Mexico
(Union Station) (Food Court) (Courtyard) (Courtyard)

CRAFTS
• Condom Roses
(Courtyard)

FREE FOOD
• Soft Tacos
(Food Court)

FREE MOVIE
(FORUM HALL)
ROAD TRIP

9 P.M.
*Casino Style Gambling, FREE Massage, TONS of Fun Prizes, Live Music, Games, Contests, CHANCE TO WIN A DVD PLAYER

9 P.M. - 11 P.M.

11 P.M.
MIDNIGHT

Co-Sponsored by Health, Communicable Diseases, and Safety Committee; Center for Basic Cancer Research; and Lafene Health Center
FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT: WWW.KSU.EDU/AFTERHOURS

Fundraiser for Alpha Tau Omega pledge class

where Pizza Hut in Aggieville (1121 Moro)
when Thursday, March 6, 2003
time 5:30 - 8:00 pm

The pledge class will receive twenty percent of the earnings this evening. The money will go towards our pledge sneak.

UPC LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.

SNL Comedian Darrell HAMMOND
Monday | April 14 | 8:00p.m.
McCain Auditorium | Admission $10.50
To get your tickets, call 532-6428 or go to McCain Auditorium Box Office
www.ksu.edu/mccain

UPC FEATURE FILMS PRESENTS... "RED DRAGON"
STARRING EDWARD NORTON ANTHONY HOPKINS
THIS FRI. AND SAT. AT 7 & 9:30P.M.
WILL SHOW AGAIN SUNDAY AT 8P.M.
SHOWN IN FORUM HALL
ADMISSION IS $2

HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

No. 4 K-State (27-2, 14-1) vs. No. 8/10 Texas Tech (23-4, 12-3)

7:30 p.m. | United Spirit Arena (15,050) — Lubbock, Texas | Televised live by Fox Sports Midwest

CHAMPIONSHIP CHALLENGE

Women vie for regular season crown tonight

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The adage "It's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game" isn't often thrown around by coaches prior to gunning for a regular-season conference title.

Yet when No. 4 K-State (27-2, 14-1) meets No. 8/10 Texas Tech (23-4, 12-3) at 7:30 tonight, Coach Deb Patterson will take that philosophy to heart.

"I think the test is not whether we win or lose this game. It's how we compete in this environment against these elements," she said.

That's not to say the Lady Raiders don't present plenty of challenges.

Tech is led by the inside-outside tandem of 6-foot-2 forward Plenette Pierson (17.5 ppg, 7.6 rpg) and junior guard Jia Perkins (16.0 ppg, 5.4 rpg).

Both players have been on fire at times this season. Pierson, a Naismith Award finalist, scored 31 points and pulled down 17 rebounds against Rutgers on Jan. 2, while Perkins torched Creighton on Dec. 4 for 41 points.

"Plenette's been in the league for a while and Jia definitely has the athleticism to take anyone to the hole and beat anybody up the floor," Kendra Wecker said. "We just need to stay true to ourselves, go out and play and be competitive for 40 minutes and have fun doing it."

That might be difficult as the Cats and Lady Raiders take center stage in Lubbock. Televised live by Fox Sports Midwest, a sellout crowd of 15,050 is expected at United Spirit Arena.

"They're going to come out ready to go," Laurie Koehn said.

"Their home crowd is really good, like ours. We need to come out ready to go."

That hostile crowd is what Patterson is referring to when she talks about her team responding to a tough environ-

Team	Big 12	Overall
Texas	15-1	22-5
K-STATE	14-1	27-2
Texas Tech	12-3	23-4
Colorado	11-5	21-6
Oklahoma	9-7	18-11
Missouri	9-7	15-12
Baylor	8-8	19-9
Iowa State	7-9	12-15
Kansas	3-13	10-17
Texas A&M	3-13	10-17
Oklahoma State	3-13	7-20
Nebraska	1-15	8-19

Wednesday

Baylor 89, Oklahoma State 46
Colorado 70, Nebraska 56
Iowa State 69, Kansas 44
Missouri 64, Texas A&M 51
Texas 78, Oklahoma 66

Today

K-State at Texas Tech, 7:30 p.m.

ment and new elements.

"We've never been in an arena as big and as hostile and as loud as that one," Patterson said.

"I think that's motivation." Especially considering the Wildcats haven't won in Lubbock in nearly 25 years.

The Wildcats have come a long way in their own right since finishing 12-16 and 2-14 in the Big 12 two years ago.

Now K-State has its eye on the program's first regular-season conference title since 1987.

However, Wecker said, that's not something to dwell on.

"I think it's just another game," Wecker said. "Tech's a great basketball team, and they're going to bring it at their place."

Texas Tech has struggled to bring it down the stretch, however.

After an 85-76 opening loss to then-No. 15 Louisiana Tech, the Lady Raiders rattled off 17 straight wins. That streak came to an end Jan. 22 against Texas, though, when the Horns handed Tech a 69-58 defeat in Austin.

An 86-72 overtime loss to Baylor on Feb. 15 dropped the Lady Raiders' stock

"We've never been in an arena as big and as hostile and as loud as that one. I think that's motivation."

Coach Deb Patterson

even further.

The most disheartening loss, however, might have been a 70-67 setback to rival Texas on Sunday at home. The loss ended Tech's chances at a Big 12 title.

Meanwhile, K-State has been on fire, winners of nine in a row and 22 of 23.

So as Texas Tech tries to regenerate momentum before next week's Big 12 Tournament in Dallas, K-State will try to capture a conference title, and a No. 1 seed tonight in Lubbock.

"I don't really need a sports psychologist. I just need a psychologist," Patterson said. "It's just that time of the year where you've got to get a little crazy, got to have fun. This thing has got to be about laying it all out there."

ABOVE: Brie Madden pulls down a rebound against Kansas in the last home game of the season, in which Madden scored 10 points off the bench. K-State will need to count on strong bench play in next week's Big 12 tournament.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

LEFT: K-State's Nicole Ohlde pushes through the double team of Kansas' Crystal Kemp and Nichelle Roberts during the Wildcats' 80-57 win over the Jayhawks on Feb. 26. With a win over Texas Tech tonight, K-State would win the Big 12 regular season title.

Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

Tennis travels for weekend matches

Cooper rejoins team, looks to assist in victory

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Heading south for a pair of Big 12 weekend matchups in Oklahoma, K-State tennis will look to build on its 1-0 conference start after a 5-2 victory at home over Texas Tech on Saturday.

The No. 60 Cats (5-1, 1-0) will head to Norman, Okla., on Saturday to face No. 44 Oklahoma (8-1) at noon at the OU Headington Family Tennis Center. They will finish the weekend at 2 p.m. Sunday against No. 55 Oklahoma State (6-2, 1-2) at the DuBois Tennis Center in Stillwater, Okla.

Coach Steve Bietau said he was happy with his squad's victory over the Lady Raiders last weekend despite the absence of injured sophomore Andrea Cooper, out with a right ankle sprain.

"I was definitely pleased to start the conference season with a win," Bietau said. "We were a weaker team without Andrea in the lineup, and that made it a little bit tougher. We didn't help ourselves much in the doubles but played strong in the singles."

Bietau said he wasn't sure if Cooper would be in the lineup for this weekend's play.

K-State women's tennis standout, Andrea Cooper, will look to help the Cats to a couple road wins this weekend when the women travel to Norman and Stillwater, Okla., to take on Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

Evan Semón
COLLEGIAN

"We're optimistic that she'll be in there this weekend," he said.

Cooper's injury forced Bietau to tweak his lineup. Junior Hayley McIver moved up to Cooper's No. 5 singles slot, giving freshman Aven Alkhatib, 0-2 in singles play, her first taste of collegiate tennis.

Alkhatib, who will pair with Maria Rosenberg as the Cats' No. 3 doubles tandem, will look for her first doubles win this weekend, too.

"I think it's important experience for her," Bietau said. "She's making some progress, and she's still got a way to go."

Oklahoma, coming off a 4-2 loss to No. 17 UNLV in the finals of the UNLV Women's Tennis Spring Invitational, features a ranked singles player and doubles team.

Junior Andu Perianu, ranked No. 74 in the nation, also teams with sophomore Heather Sulari to make up the nation's 50th-ranked doubles team.

The Cowboys, coming off a two-match losing streak in Big 12 competition, also feature a singles player and doubles team

Harrick's mistakes will overshadow Georgia

Coach's fraud may cost team championship

Championships are not always won on the court. Sometimes they can be lost off of it.

College sports often take place outside the arena, and unfortunately, many times outside the law.

A prime example of shady activity in college sports is the situation at Georgia.

Most schools are only concerned with whether they will get an invitation to the NCAA Tournament this year. Georgia, on the other hand, is worrying about being left off the invite list for a couple of years.

That fear isn't because of weak recruiting classes or graduating senior leaders. It's due to a quickly developing scandal with sweeping accusations involving two significant Division I basketball programs that could lead to probation.

At the center of the storm is Georgia Coach Jim Harrick and his son and former assistant coach, Jim Harrick, Jr.

A plethora of allegations are being hurled at the Harricks by one of their former players, Tony Cole. His past is about as checkered as Tennessee's end zones. The Baton Rouge, La., native was homeless by the time he reached high school.

Then, after his high school basketball team won two state championships during his freshman and sophomore years, he was kicked off the team. For the next three years, he bounced around, attending at least five different high schools and five junior colleges before meeting Harrick. In 1999, he signed with Rhode Island.

This is where the potential NCAA violations began. Cash was wired to Cole from a Rhode Island booster, and supposedly Harrick was the one who made it happen. A paper trail as long as the Santa Fe links Harrick to the "donation."

Recently at Rhode Island, a lawsuit dealing with players receiving money and grade-changing was settled against the athletics department out of court for $45,000. Harrick is involved in that mess, too.

But after taking Rhode Is-

CHRIS SHANK

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College basketball | Harrick Jr. fired
Georgia fired assistant basketball coach Jim Harrick Jr. on Wednesday after he was accused of academic fraud and paying a former player's bills.
Athletic director Vince Dooley announced that Harrick's contract would not be renewed when it expires June 30.

Courts | Jayson Williams re-indicted
Former basketball star Jayson Williams was charged in a new indictment Wednesday with the shooting death of a limousine driver.

The new indictment charges Williams with the same counts as in the original indictment, plus possession of a weapon for an unlawful purpose.

The Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office sought the new indictment in hopes of heading off a lengthy challenge to the first one.

NFL | Robbins received 30 days of treatment
Oakland Raiders center Barret Robbins spent 30 days in a treatment facility for a mental disorder and alcohol abuse.

The All-Pro lineman disappeared the night before the Raiders' 48-21 Super Bowl loss to Tampa Bay in San Diego on Jan. 26. A statement Wednesday by his agent, Drew Pittman, was the first official disclosure of Robbins' treatment.

Olympics | Universal drug tests announced
NBA players participating in the 2004 Athens Games will face the same drug testing procedures as other Olympic athletes under a global program endorsed by all Olympic sports federations and 73 governments Wednesday.

The code, the first to globally unify rules and sanctions for doping violations, establishes a single list of prohibited substances, ranging from steroids to stimulants to blood-boosting hormones. It also bans any form of genetic doping.

NFL | Chargers ink Boston to 7-year deal
Wide receiver David Boston agreed to a seven-year contract with San Diego on Wednesday, giving the Chargers one of the premier free agents on the market.
Boston, who spent his first four seasons with the Arizona Cardinals, replaces Curtis Conway as the Chargers' No. 1 receiver.

NFL | Plummer agrees to terms with Denver
Jake Plummer agreed to contract terms with Denver on Wednesday, giving the Broncos an experienced young quarterback to replace Brian Griese.

Plummer spent his first six seasons with Arizona after being drafted by the Cardinals in the second round of the 1997 draft.

College football | Elson back at W. Illinois
Just a month after he left town for another job, Dave Elson is back at Western Kentucky University as the new head football coach.

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
BIG 12 TOURNAMENT SEEDS

All but two Big 12 Tournament seeds were locked up during Wednesday's five league games. The tournament's top two seeds will be determined tonight when Texas Tech welcomes K-State to Lubbock, Texas.

Team	Seed	1st-round opponent
Texas Tech	3	Bye
Colorado	4	Bye
Oklahoma	5	Nebraska
Missouri	6	Texas A&M
Baylor	7	Kansas
Iowa State	8	Oklahoma State
Oklahoma State	9	Iowa State
Kansas	10	Baylor
Texas A&M	11	Missouri
Nebraska	12	Oklahoma

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
No. 4 K-STATE at No. 8/10 TEXAS TECH

The Cats will play tonight for K-State's first Big 12 regular-season title and the program's first conference crown since 1987 when Coach Deb Patterson's club meets the Lady Raiders in Lubbock, Texas.

Wildcats	PPG	RPG	AST/G	BR/G
K. Wecker - F	19.2	8.3	3.8	0.3
N. Ohlde - C	18.6	9.2	3.2	1.9
M. Mahoney - F	14.2	6.2	4.9	0.2
L. Koehn - G	13.1	3.3	1.8	0.1
C. Domenico - G	3.9	2.9	3.2	0.0

Lady Raiders	PPG	RPG	AST/G	BR/G
P. Pierson - F	17.5	7.6	1.0	1.4
J. Perkins - F	16.0	5.4	2.8	0.7
N. Ritchie - G	8.8	2.4	1.1	0.2
E. Grant - G	6.3	3.5	6.8	0.0
J. Ayers - F	3.8	4.7	0.7	0.9

See TENNIS Page 8

See HARRICK Page 8

READY TO ROCK

Ultimate Fakebook vocalist and guitarist Bill McShane, drummer Eric Melin and bassist Nick Colby work through a song at Auntie Mae's Parlor on Feb. 28. UFB's new album, "Before We Spark," will be released May 13 by Initial Records.

Zach Long
COLLEGIAN

Fan to band member: UFB's new guitarist plays on

By JJ Duncan
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Manhattan music fans often feel a close attachment to Ultimate Fakebook, so those who catch tonight's show might notice a change.

That change is new guitarist J.D. Warnock, formerly of the Creature Comforts, who he said are now on hiatus as he and lead singer Chris Tolle both pursue other projects.

After playing many shows with the Comforts alongside UFB and living with the band's drummer, Eric Melin, and bassist Nick Colby, the transplant has been a smooth transition, Warnock said.

Not only was he familiar with the material, but he got along with the band and even pursued a side project with Colby called Soccer Mom. So when UFB decided to fill out its sound and give frontman Bill McShane a chance to focus on vocals, Warnock got a call from the band.

Q: How has the UFB experience been different for you from the Creature Comforts?

A: Ultimate Fakebook has been such an active band for so long, and the Creature Comforts always tried to stay on tour, but it was hard.

Touring is a funny thing, because if you start doing it, then you can keep doing it, because the longer you stay on tour, the better money you make as you gain recognition and word of mouth goes around. The Creature Comforts were never able to do that. We never got signed, and we never really had any tour support, and it just didn't work out.

They asked me to join, and I've been a fan for as long as they've been around and always connected musically and personally with them so I said 'yes.' Then we had five or six rehearsals, and I had to learn, like, 17 songs in three days, but it worked itself out on the road. There's no better way to get someone into the band's act than touring.

Q: As a previous fan of the band, was there any material you were excited to be playing?

A: "Brooklyn Needle" is a blast to play. No matter where we are in the country, people just freak out for that one.

We had to come up with a set list and just go with it for about the first three months, but just this last month, we worked out "Of Course We Will" from "This Will Be Laughing Week," and I was excited to learn that.

Q: How has your presence affected the band?

A: Most dramatically, it's just being able to present live what the band sounds like on the record.

Nick used to play through two rigs. He had one rig playing a clean bass sound and a second with a distortion cabinet that he would use to fill in when Bill would solo to make it sound kind of like there was another guitar. He doesn't have to do that now because I can just fill in the gap.

We're able to do a more full presentation now, with extra guitar parts and back up harmonies. Now, a lot of times during tunes, Bill can focus on being the singer, especially with difficult guitar parts.

Sometimes, if you sing and play guitar, you have to let the guitar part loosen up a bit so you can sing your part, or else let the vocals slide a little if you've gotta play a hook or something.

I end up filling in lots of those parts, and it takes the pressure off Bill to be all things at once.

Q: What is your creative role in UFB?

A: Whenever you add one person it always makes a difference, and the next phase is discovering how my influence will fit into that. It's good to have a second opinion around and for a person to come in with a different perspective.

Our intention at this point is to just work on stuff, and there's a possibility that a couple of tunes I wrote might be on the next record. We have several tunes we're working on now where the beginning point was something I came up with, but right now we'll just play and see where it goes.

They have tremendous amount of material they've been kicking around already, and we'll just end up with what everyone is really into.

Q: Has it been creatively stifling to be the new guy in the band?

A: No, because they don't need just an extra guy. I have a tremendous amount of availability to contribute ideas. I'm not just a ringer on guitar. I can participate as much as I want.

Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

J.D. Warnock, the new guitarist for Ultimate FakeBook, plays a set at Silverado's Saloon last fall.

Grammy Award-winning string quartet to perform tonight

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Grammy Award-winning Takács String Quartet will perform at All Faiths Chapel tonight.

This will be the second time in four years the quartet has performed at K-State, said Thom Jackson, marketing and development officer for McCain Auditorium. He said the music the quartet will play will appeal to a broad range of music fans.

"It's wonderful to listen to," Jackson said. "It's not like bar music. There's a lot of culture behind it. The Takács String Quartet is one of the best string quartets around. Their performance will help to even out a well-rounded season that also includes operas and musicals."

Playing at universities is nothing new for violinist Edward Dusinberre.

"A lot of our concerts are on student campuses," Dusinberre said. "(K-State) has a nice string series and a nice hall that we like. We are a group that likes to communicate with the audience. We take risks on stage, and we like audiences, such as students, that can appreciate that."

Dusinberre said they like to play for students because they get to offer advice to them. He said that sometimes they throw in something extra to spice things up. However, music students won't be the only ones who will benefit from the performance, Dusinberre said.

"I think that it gives you a chance to forget about everything and become one with the music," Dusinberre said. "It's fun, and the audience enjoys it. There's a wide range of emotions that we like to bring out in our pieces."

Before the performance, there will be a pre-performance lecture that will include background on the pieces and the composers, Cora Cooper, professor of music, said.

"I'll go into what was going on around them at the time," Cooper said. "I'll talk about some of the specific pieces, like Beethoven's Opus 131 is a piece written in the 19th century, but he did things that composers did in the 20th century."

The performance will be exciting but challenging for the listener, Cooper said. More than 85 percent of the tickets have been sold.

"It's exciting because you don't hear Beethoven being performed too often," Cooper said. "It's very difficult and so demanding on the performers that people don't play it every day. But, the Takács Quartet is a world-class quartet, and they're able to take it on."

Classical music can be like fine wine: it is an acquired taste, Cooper said. However, she said even those who aren't classical music fans should view the performance.

"They're a lot of fun and they're all educators," Jackson said. "Some people don't like classical music because they think it's boring. But Takács has a performance that leaves the listener wanting more, which is neat."

Takács String Quartet

- When: 7:30 tonight
- Where: All Faiths Chapel
- Tickets: $11 for students and children, $20 for seniors and $22 for adults. Call McCain Box Office at (785) 532-6428
- Pre-performance lecture by Cora Cooper at 6:30 p.m. in McCain room 105.

CALENDAR

■ The last part of the Brown Bag Lunch Video Series "American Photography: A Century of Images" will be showing from 11:15 a.m. - 12:15 p.m. today in the UMB Theatre at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art.

■ The play "Prelude to a Crisis" is being performed at 11:30 a.m. in the Purple Masque Theatre. Admission is free.

■ Takács Quartet will be performing at 7:30 tonight at All Faiths Chapel.

■ "The Merry Wives of Windsor" is being performed at 8 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Norah Jones sells over 600,000 copies of her disc following recent Grammy

Norah Jones' debut album, "Come Away With Me," sold 621,000 copies after her Grammy sweep, almost 500,000 more than the week before — the biggest post-Grammy sales spike ever, according to her record company.

Jones' disc, which won eight Grammys, including album of the year, is the No. 1 album in the country, according to figures released Wednesday.

• • •

Toby Keith tops Academy of Country Music nominees with 8 bids

Toby Keith received eight Academy of Country Music nominations Tuesday, including song and single of the year for "Courtesy of the Red, White and Blue (The Angry American)." The Sept. 11-inspired song also got a nod for video of the year. Keith's other nominations included entertainer of the year, top male vocalist and album of the year for "Unleashed."

WEB REVIEWS

www.mtv.com/onair/sorority_life/season2/

MTV's Web page for the second season of Sorority Life

Positives

- Easy to use categories
- Meet the sisters has their answers to survey questions
- Meet the rushees has an option to guess if they'll get a bid survey with results meter
- Tour of pledge house

Negatives

- Pictures take a long time to download
- Survey results meter did not work for every rushee
- The Web page and show depict a local sorority and not a national sorority, and there are differences in how each type is run
- Cast commentators did not work

Grade: C-

baseball.fantasysports.yahoo.com/

Sign-up Web page for fantasy baseball on Yahoo.

Positives

- Create your own team or league
- Easy to sign up
- Fantasy baseball is free
- Ability to communicate with other managers

Negatives

- Extras, such as real time stat tracker, wireless access, expert analysis and kit cost money
- Fantasy Baseball Plus costs money to sign up

Grade: B

www.weatherchannel.com

Web site offers current weather conditions

Positives

- Easy-to-use search engines for local weather
- Local weather information categories for temperature, what it actually feels like outside, UV index, dew point, humidity and visibility
- Coverage on national weather
- Gives weather forecast for current day and the next nine days

Negatives

- Pages can take a long time to download

Grade: A+

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

Brain power to be main focus in annual Cultural Studies Symposium

By Tina Deines
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Brains.

That's what assistant professor of English and director of cultural studies Michele Janette said will be the focus of the 12th annual Cultural Studies Symposium today through Saturday.

"It will be a way of looking at various ways of thinking about what artificial intelligence means," Janette said.

The conference, "Brain Power: Intelligence, Emotion and Cultural Fantasy," will include keynote speakers Katherine Hayles and Nancy Kress and will focus on artificial intelligence.

Kress, science fiction novelist, will present the speech, "Coding the Signifier."

In addition to the guest speakers, a series of presentations will be made by 45 conference participants. Entry to these events requires a registration fee.

The keynote speakers would be of most interest to students and community members, while the conferences will mostly involve professors and graduate students from across the nation, Janette said.

One interesting thing about the conference, Janette said, will be the ability of people from different disciplines to come together and see how each views human thought.

"One of the fundamental points of cultural studies is to bring together different disciplines," Janette said. "I think it's interesting to see how intelligence looks from all of those different disciplines."

Megan Urbanek, graduate student in cultural studies and British literature, is one of the

"It's a multidisciplinary conference this year, so I'm excited to hear speakers on the panel that aren't from the English literature department."

Megan Urbanek,
GRADUATE STUDENT IN CULTURAL STUDIES AND BRITISH LITERATURE

participants in the panel. She said she is looking forward to seeing how people from different fields view the issue.

"It's a multidisciplinary conference this year, so I'm excited to hear speakers on the panel that aren't from the English literature department," Urbanek said.

Janette said that in a world that is moving toward more mechanism, the topics that will be discussed during the symposium are relevant to everyone.

"I think these are things that affect people's everyday lives in many ways," Janette said. "They are the kind of questions our thinkers are thinking about and seem pressing for everybody's lives."

Urbanek said she agreed. "We're becoming such a technologically based society, and I think there's a lot of theories as to whether that is good or bad," she said.

Schedule of events

Thursday, March 6

Presentation panels

1:30-2:45 p.m.

Session 1: Narrative, Union 207.

3:30-5 p.m.

Session 2A: Gender, Union 207.
Session 2B: Androids, Cyborgs and Artificial Intelligence, Union 209.

Keynote speaker

7:30 p.m. — Nancy Kress, "Science Fiction: The Brain Goes Wild." Union 212 (followed by reception).

Friday, March 7

Presentation panels

9-10:15 a.m.

Session 3A: Victorian Studies, Union 207.

Session 3B: Social Control/Mind Control, Union 209.

10:45 a.m.-noon

Session 4A: American Studies, Union 207.

Session 4B: Other Kinds of Consciousness, Union 209.

2:30-3:15 p.m.

Session 5A: Emotion and Twentieth-Century Thought, Union 207.

Session 5B: Computers, Trust and Understanding, Union 209.

3:45-5 p.m.

Session 6A: Discourse and Emotion, Union 207.

Session 6B: Race, Culture, Consciousness, Union 209.

Keynote speaker

8 p.m. — Katherine Hayles, "Coding the Signifier." Little Theatre, Union (followed by reception).

Saturday, March 8

Presentation panels

9-10:15 a.m.

Session 7: Thinking Machine Labor, Union 207.

10:45 a.m.-noon

Session 8: Scientific Intelligence, Union 207.

TENNIS | Teamwork outweighs current rankings

Continued from Page 6

in the national rankings.

Bietau said he isn't concerned about the rankings and is focusing on the match with the whole team in mind instead.

"Our concern is winning as a team," he said. "Both of these schools have good doubles teams on top, but we have a pretty good team, too. We just need four points to win this thing, and we'll take them where we can get them."

Weekend matchups

Projected weekend matchups (Sunday in parentheses)

Singles

1. Petra Sedlmajerova, K-State vs. Anda Perianu, OU (Linda Faltynkova, OSU)
2. Maria Rosenberg, K-State vs. Elena Jirnova, OU (Kate Vasylyeva, OSU)
3. Jessica Simosa, K-State vs. Annette Bryntesson, OU (Katya Kolodnynska, OSU)
4. Paulina Castillejos, K-State vs. Heather Saluri, OU (Ewa Radzikowska, OSU)

5. Hayley McIver, K-State vs. Bethany Griffin, OU (Zana Masnic, OSU)
6. Aileen Alkhatib, K-State vs. Melissa Mendieta, OU (Ines Furtmayr, OSU)

Doubles

1. Simosa/McIver, K-State vs. Perianu/Saluri, OU (Faltynkova/Kolodnynska, OSU)
2. Sedlmajerova/Castillejos, K-State vs. Bryntesson/Griffin, OU (Erin Pauchnik/Marsic, OSU)
3. Rosenberg/Alkhatib, K-State vs. Mendieta/Jessica Braver, OU (Seva Iwinski/Nicki Mechem, OSU)

HARRICK | Alleged fraud casts shadow over play

Continued from Page 6

land to the Elite Eight in 1998, Harrick bolted to Georgia with his son along with, you guessed it, Tony Cole. It's odd to think Harrick would do so much for a kid he describes as a vindictive young man.

While at Georgia, Cole played in 16 games in 2001-02 but then was dismissed after being charged with aggravated assault with intent to rape. Cole's charge was thrown out, but Harrick canned him from the team. From then until last week, Cole was out of the public eye.

Scandals always seem to follow a certain pattern.

A while after the event, one individual gets mad and becomes a whistle-blower, usually at an inconvenient time for the violator. This scandal is no different.

Last week, Cole claimed he used Harrick's credit card to buy a television. He also said he used Harrick's pull to coax an "A" in a class he never attended. This is where the plot thickens.

The class Cole claims was fraudulent was "Coaching Principles and Strategies of Basketball," taught by Harrick Jr. Cole said he was told he never needed to show up.

Other basketball players have been questioned as to Cole's attendance. A starter said he never saw him in class. Harrick Jr. resigned Wednesday, and it looks like there could be more.

I've taken most of the coaching classes here at K-State, and granted, they aren't as difficult as Applied Matrix Theory, but Harrick's blatant fraud is extremely troubling.

If Cole's stories aren't true, he has successfully slandered Harrick and son at a horrible time. But most likely these accusations are at least somewhat factual.

Amidst all the drama, Georgia is finishing out its regular season, and Tuesday night, the Bulldogs upset No. 3 Florida on national television. Georgia students rushed the court.

It's a shame they probably won't have much to celebrate the next couple of years.

Chris is a senior in secondary education. You can e-mail him at shank@k-state.edu.

www.kstatecollegian.com

Welcoming former and new customers
Call for an appointment today

Wildcat Barber Shop

Walk-ins welcome. 539-8920 1100 Laramie

For you business majors, it's all about ways and means, isn't it?

$$$

How's this for starters: a career-building job with an international financial services firm, superior benefits - and healthy compensation.

State Street, a world leader in the financial services industry, has both full- and part-time job openings at its Kansas City office, right now.

Join your future - today!

STATE STREET.
For Everything You Invest In™

Apply online.

statestreetkc.com

SWIMSUITS!

NOW $46-$76

VIX, CALIFORNIA, DIPPER, SUNSET SEPARATES, HOBIE, HOT KISS, SURFSIDE, PIECES

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie

1224 Moro Aggleville

Mon.-Thurs. 10-7 Fri.-Sat. 10-5

WEIGHT LOSS - FUN AND EASY?

Dr. Rick Tague would like to offer you absolutely free:

Body Composition Analysis & Introductory Visit

You will receive a computerized impedance plethysmography examination (which measures your muscle to fat ratio). From this exam we will generate a written report for you that includes your Body Mass Index, Weight Goal and other key health information. With this report, when you start, Dr. Tague will sit down with you and create a personalized weight management program based on your personal preferences and your individual physical, genetic and environmental characteristics. We will listen to you and tailor a program just for you.

Fun and Easy? YES!

Using an individualized high nutrient program (including shakes, bars, snacks and food from your own pantry) and FDA approved medications (if needed) your fat pounds will melt away making weight loss fun and easy.

If it feels as if you tried almost every diet there is...but still struggle with your weight...there likely is a medical reason causing your lack of success. Genetic, metabolic and environmental factors are typically to blame and it's not your fault! Quit feeling frustrated and depressed about your weight. Make the choice to let Dr. Tague help correct what is causing your weight problem so you can look better and have a more energetic, fun life.

Call Today. The first 15 people who call will receive a FREE individualized metabolic rate exam using state-of-the-art equipment that measures your resting metabolic rate. Information from this test is used to develop a program for you that will jump-start your sluggish metabolism which further increases your weight loss.

Call 776-4443 Now

Call 776-4443 today to get your FREE Body Composition Analysis and to find out how losing weight can be fun and easy.

Sign up with Cellular One today and get twice the Anytime Minutes, Unlimited Nights & Weekends and more Roaming Minutes than ever.

	REGULAR RETAIL PLAN	PROMOTIONAL PLAN
MONTHLY RATE	$35	$35
anytime minutes	350	700
night & weekend minutes	3,500	unlimited
roaming minutes	75	100

plus, get free nationwide long distance

OFFER ENDS SOON!

Already a Cellular One Customer?

Call now to get this great new plan.

Restrictions apply. 24-month agreement required.

FREE
nokia 5165
after instant rebate

get a phone delivered to your door

CALL
1-800-CELL-ONE

or VISIT
cellularonewest.com

CELLULARONE®

Call on someone you know.

SIMPLICITY CHOICE VALUE 30-DAY SATISFACTION GUARANTEE

Cellular One proudly supports The National Youth Anti-Drug Media Campaign www.TheAntiDrug.com

Cellular One

1115 Westloop Place
785-537-4646 • 800-467-7858

Manhattan Town Center Mall
785-776-1414

Offers good for a limited time on new activations on select rate plans only, and are subject to change without notice. Free phone offer not available to existing Cellular One customers. Credit approval required. Some customers may not qualify. Starter Program customers may be required to pay a non-refundable program fee and recurring activation fee. Not available in all areas. May not be combined with any other offers or discounts. Included minutes apply to calls from within local service area only. Unused minutes expire each month. "Night" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Monday through Thursday, and "weekend" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. Friday to 11:59 p.m. Sunday from within home calling area only. Roaming minutes apply to calls made within our 20 state regional roaming area. First nationwide long distance applies to calls made from the home area to anywhere in the United States only. Billing of some charges such as roaming charges may be delayed or applied against allocated minutes or services in a subsequent billing cycle, which may cause you to exceed your allocated minutes or services in that particular billing cycle. Except as indicated, additional fees apply for taxes, assessments, surcharges, roaming, long distance, operator-assisted, credit card or other toll charges. Incoming and outgoing calls are rounded up and billed in full-minute increments from the time the network begins to process the call (before the call ring or is answered) through its termination of the call; any fraction of a minute of usage is rounded up and charged or deducted from any included minutes at the full minute rate. Service is subject to the terms of our standard 24-month service agreement that includes a $200 fee for early cancellation and a mandatory arbitration provision for each phone. Activation fee and deposit may be required. Digital handset required. Outside the digital coverage area, service may be analog, and certain digital features may not function. Instant Rebate: Rebate has no cash value. Taxes apply to original purchase price. Only one rebate per phone purchased. Featured hardware available at Cellular One stores and participating dealers while supplies last. Service is not TTY compatible. See store for complete details. Other restrictions may apply. Western Wireless is a registered service mark of The Cellular One Group. © 2003 Western Wireless Corporation.

CLASSIFIEDS

Thursday, March 6, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGEIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO next to campus. $330/month plus deposit, no pets. June and August leases. (785)456-2812.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio, one, two, three, and four-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 1230 Claflin, across street from Ford Hall. 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Starting $550. Also, nice one-bedroom apartment. Heat, water, trash three-thirds paid. Landlord. $360/ month. Nice large two-bedroom apartment, heat, water, trash, three-fourths paid, landlord. $480. (785)539-2482.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One, two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Claflin.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT next to campus, $405/ month plus deposit, no pets. 1225 Claflin. (785)456-2812.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOM TWO bath house, 500 block of Blumont, available August 1, no pets. $875 plus utilities, laundry included. (785)776-9573, leave message.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

TWO, THREE, four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

120
For Rent-
Houses

724 KEARNEY, four-bedroom, two bath, central air, washer/ dryer, June 1. No pets/ smoking. $1200. (785)776-9719.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE. two bath, two kitchens. Living room, Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets, June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. 12 month lease starting June 1. Carpeted, air-conditioning, close to campus, and no pets. $800/ month. Call (785)776-0301.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease. $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air. 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom house. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord, no pets. August lease. (785)539-0549.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. $1050/ month. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer, 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air-conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment; could rent as five-bedroom house.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house, $350/ month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)648-7253.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4156.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4156.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4156.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

ROYAL TOWERS
4 Bedroom
APARTMENTS

* 1500 sq. ft.
* Starting at $780/mo.
* Close to Campus
* Large Bedrooms
* Hollywood Baths
* Resident Center with 5 full-sized washers & dryers.
* Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

Discover Brittney Ridge
TOWNHOMES

* 4 Bedrooms w/ study
* 2 1/2 Baths
* Washer/ Dryer in each unit
* Sand Volleyball Court
* 1440 sq. ft.

Starting at $940
776-3804
Model Showings
2521 Candacecrest
M, W, Th 3-6
Sat 12-3
McCullough Development

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-WEST of KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June/ August leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, central air, two bathrooms with showers. (785)776-3114.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1. $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, no pets, $1100. Call (785)537-7597.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rentapm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June Leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE- BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Warnego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets. $500. Call (785)537-7597.

130
For Rent-
Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1993 16X 80 Schult three-bedroom, two bath. Fenced yard, dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator included. $16,500. #187 Colonial Gardens. (785) 313-2997.

AFFORDABLE TWO-BED-ROOM, one bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

FIVE-BEDROOM MANU-FACTURED home $70,000. (785)537-1749.

FOR SALE Mobile Home, 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES east of KSU, country setting, three-bedroom, two bath. 1997 mobile home on two city lots. Chain link fence $38,000. Kaw Valley Realty (785)456-2061.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed for August 1 lease. All appliances provided. $250/ month, one-fourth utilities. Call Mandy or Jenny (785)323-1480.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

ONE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Next to Aggieville, one block from campus. June or August lease. $235/ month plus one-third bills. Leave message. (785)770-9515.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUBLEASER NEEDED available April 1. Rent $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Two blocks from campus. (785)539-8955, ask for Lacey.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. 520 N. 11th. Two-bedroom, full kitchen, living room, extra storage, walking distance to campus and Aggieville. $280. (785)341-3449.

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, no pets, $1100. Call (785)537-7597.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rentapm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June Leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE- BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Warnego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets. $500. Call (785)537-7597.

130
For Rent-
Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1993 16X 80 Schult three-bedroom, two bath. Fenced yard, dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator included. $16,500. #187 Colonial Gardens. (785) 313-2997.

AFFORDABLE TWO-BED-ROOM, one bath, central heat, new central air, existing dishwasher, washer/ dryer. Small pets allowed. Ten minutes from Manhattan. (785)341-3562, leave message.

FIVE-BEDROOM MANU-FACTURED home $70,000. (785)537-1749.

FOR SALE Mobile Home, 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES east of KSU, country setting, three-bedroom, two bath. 1997 mobile home on two city lots. Chain link fence $38,000. Kaw Valley Realty (785)456-2061.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed for August 1 lease. All appliances provided. $250/ month, one-fourth utilities. Call Mandy or Jenny (785)323-1480.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE/ FEMALE roommate needed. Four-bedroom, two bath. June lease. 724 Kearny. Call (785)776-3852.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male, Walk to class. Washer/ dryer with-out meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Next to Aggieville, one block from campus. June or August lease. $235/ month plus one-third bills. Leave message. (785)770-9515.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUBLEASER NEEDED available April 1. Rent $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Two blocks from campus. (785)539-8955, ask for Lacey.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. 520 N. 11th. Two-bedroom, full kitchen, living room, extra storage, walking distance to campus and Aggieville. $280. (785)341-3449.

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, no pets, $1100. Call (785)537-7597.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rentapm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June Leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE- BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Warnego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets. $500. Call (785)537-7597.

OSBORN | Pair hopes to make difference through alternative means of involvement

Continued from Page 1

the student body president and vice president race," Quackenbush said. "We ran to make a positive change at K-State, and we still believe our platform issues can make K-State a stronger community."

"We'll have to go through different channels, but our issues are not dead," Osborn said.

The pair said they would continue to work toward their issues.

"The hours we put in doing background research, visiting organizations and developing issues aren't for nothing, because we're still going to pursue our platform issues, and that background work is essential," Quackenbush said.

"These are not issues we will just let die and be forgotten."

Quackenbush said the pair will work with the new president and vice president to benefit the campus.

"Before Tammy and I started campaigning, we talked to John and said we ran under the understanding that we're both working toward benefiting the university," she said. "It's like the old saying, 'Two heads are better than one,' only this time it's four."

Quackenbush said she congratulated O'Hara by phone.

"Tammy and I have been friends with John and Travis for a long time," she said. "We'll work with them and support their presidency."

Osborn said that although the pair lost the race, the hard work and campaigning was worth the effort.

"We've gotten to know so many people through this whole process. We've grown so much through all the presentations, debates and networking," she said.

Osborn said that although O'Hara and Stryker spent more than two times her ticket, they reached many people.

"I think we connected with a lot of people, as the results show," she said.

"I don't know if money made a difference or not. I hope students voted on the issues. I don't think the amount of money you spend is equal to the amount of votes."

Osborn said she was just happy more people came out to vote and was pleased with election results.

Quackenbush said the pair will help build K-State's future.

"We aren't in the figure-head position, but that doesn't mean that Tammy and I can't make a difference," she said.

MASKING THE COLD

Nicki Kinzie, sophomore in electrical engineering, didn't let the ice storm get her Mardi Gras spirit down as she walked home after class Tuesday afternoon. "The masks actually shields my face from the cold," Kinzie said.

O'HARA | Cook confident in O'Hara, Stryker

Continued from Page 1

dealing with tuition increases.

"Tuition is big right away — right out of the blocks. I'll try to help them if I can," Cook said.

Stryker said he and O'Hara were pleased with the election process this year compared to last year's elections.

"A lot of people have been talking about voter apathy, and I think last year turned off some people — there were a lot of problems with it," he said. "Now, with this new system, I don't think we had a single complaint in terms of how the process was or how the online elections went."

"I think this will help with voter apathy now that we have a system in place that works and works efficiently."

Cook said he had no worries about O'Hara and Stryker taking over the presidential positions.

"They'll do an excellent job," he said.

Three powers vow to stop any U.N. backing for Iraq

By John Leiceste
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — In a blunt warning to the United States and Britain, the foreign ministers of France, Germany and Russia said Wednesday they will block any attempt to get U.N. approval for war against Iraq.

Diplomats say the Europeans have concluded they cannot stop the United States from launching a war but are determined to resist to the last moment rather than see the Americans dominate world affairs. As the diplomatic end game entered what could be its final stage, U.S. and British chances of gaining U.N. backing for military action appeared to be slipping.

"We will not allow a resolution to pass that authorizes resorting to force," French Foreign Minister Dominique de Villepin said at a news conference with Russia's Igor Ivanov and Germany's Joschka Fischer.

U.S. and British officials refused to concede defeat, insisting they remained confident of getting a majority on the U.N. Security Council and portraying the European opposition as last-minute posturing.

"Don't leap to conclusions about the final vote. You will continue to hear various statements from people around the world," said White House spokesman Ari Fleischer.

France, Russia and China, as permanent council members, all would veto the resolution if it gets nine votes, claimed one diplomat, who spoke on condition of anonymity. French officials think the resolution has just four backers: the United States, Britain, Spain and Bulgaria.

Tao Massage Therapy

For your wellbeing

- Deep Tissue
- Swedish Massage
- Sports Massage
- On-site Chair Massage

RATES

	Regular	Seniors & KSL Students
15 Min	$15	$10
30 Min	$25	$20
1 Hr	$45	$40
1 1/2 Hrs	$67	$60

$10 off first appointment!

NATIONALLY CERTIFIED IN THERAPEUTIC MASSAGE AND BODYWORK

Call for your appointment — 785-341-9928 —

Live Tonight

Man Down

Picked Midwest's best up & coming band

Count down to 21st Party

10 Days

$1.75 COORS LIGHT PINTS

$2 COORS LIGHT BOTTLES

MAKE COLLEGE SOMETHING MORE

BE A MAN OF CLASS.

COME FIND OUT HOW

INFORMATIONAL MEETING

7:00 PM SUNDAY MARCH 9TH, 2003

207 KSL STUDENT UNION

PI KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 1p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M, W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 3p-6p
T & Th 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont #1
M & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th St
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $925

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

HOW 'BOUT A BURRITO?

GOURMET BURRITOS & TACOS.
IN AGGIEVILLE

Fire ravages attic

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

An electrical fire Thursday afternoon at 1208 Yuma resulted in $8,500 of damage to an apartment attic.

The fire started after an exhaust fan in the bathroom shorted out and caught the bathroom ceiling on fire, battalion chief Mike Heptig said.

Structural damage was estimated at $7,000. Contents, mostly smoke damage cleaning, were estimated at $1,500.

Apartment tenant Ernest Johnson said his 6-year-old son, Terrance, was the one who noticed the fire.

"My son said, 'Dad, it's on fire. Dad come up here,'" Johnson said.

Firefighters had to take the ceiling out and remove insulation to make sure the fire was completely out, Heptig said.

Heptig said the family has made arrangements to live with a friend in the same apartment complex.

Asbestos found in Ahearn

2nd floor, gym expected to be open again today

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The practice gymnasium and the second floor of Ahearn Field House were closed Thursday to investigate and clean up an asbestos problem.

Steve Galitzer, associate director of public safety, said he was notified at 7 a.m. that a section of pipe insulation in the gym fell and broke.

The gym has a ventilation system that opens up to the second floor, Galitzer said, so it was closed as a safety precaution.

He said an outside contractor, Associated Insulation, was called to clean up the asbestos and repair the broken pipe.

Originally, he didn't think the closed parts of the building would be reopened for a couple days, but Galitzer said he expects both to be open this morning.

Classes scheduled for Thursday in the closed areas were canceled.

Galitzer said he is awaiting results from air monitoring that was done this morning, which will give him a better idea of if there was any contamination.

Galitzer said the chance that anyone was exposed to the asbestos before it was cleaned up is minimal.

Asbestos, he said, is all over campus.

It was outlawed for use as insulation and for surfaces in the late 1970s.

The Kansas Department of Health and Education reports that exposure to asbestos might increase the risk of serious illness, including lung cancer, asbestosis and mesothelioma.

The fiber is dangerous because it can break into small fibers that can float in the air, and once inhaled can lodge in tissue for long periods of time.

"It is a problem, and at this point, we do what we can to replace what needs to be replaced and maintain everything else," Galitzer said.

Bush to protect U.S.

President vows to drive Saddam out of power

By Ron Fournier
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Bush, preparing the nation for the possibility of war, said Thursday night the United States will drive Saddam Hussein from power if it comes to war in Iraq — with or without support from France, Germany and other skeptical allies.

"I will not leave the American people at the mercy of the Iraqi dictator and his weapons," Bush said at a prime-time news conference.

George W. Bush
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Bush said he had not decided whether to invade Iraq but that it was only a matter of days before a U.N. Security Council vote on a U.S.-backed resolution authorizing force. He said the United States wants the Security Council to vote even if the resolution appears likely to fail.

"It's time for people to show their cards and let people know where they stand in relation to Saddam," France, Germany, Russia and China say they oppose such a resolution.

"Our mission is clear in Iraq," the president said.

"Should we have to go in, our mission is very clear: disarmament. In order to disarm, it will mean regime change. I'm confident that we'll be able to achieve that objective in a way that minimizes the loss of life."

Bush said it was up to Saddam to avert war. "It's his choice to make whether or not we go to war. He's the person that can make the choice of war or peace. Thus far he's made the wrong choice."

The president's news conference came on the eve of a crucial Security Council meeting. On Friday, chief weapons inspector Hans Blix and his counterpart, Mohamed ElBaradei, will report on Iraq's measure of cooperation in eliminating its banned weapons. Their assessment could weigh heavily in determining the outcome of the Security Council's vote on a resolution to authorize force.

Intensifying his case against Saddam, Bush is considering a major address next week to explain the justification and risks of military conflict, aides said. The speech could include a final warning to Saddam while urging journalists and humanitarian workers to leave Iraq, they said.

But officials said the

See BUSH Page 12

INSIDE

Landon lecturer Michael Beschloss discusses the role of history in evaluating society.

Page 5

HELPING HANDS

Justin Feleckenstein gets some help from Paige Fowler, senior in early childhood education, while trying to walk on a balance beam.

Photos by Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Child-care center offers student benefits

By Wendy Lynn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Playing make believe, making play-dough animals and building with blocks is all in a day's work for some on campus.

Kevin Gao, 4, is a member of the preschool class at the Hoeftin Stone House Child-Care Center. Each morning, he arrives at the center ready for a day filled with learning, recess, nap time and story hour.

"I like to play and eat," Gao said. "We run and exercise. We learn sign language."

Kevin's parents chose Stone House because of the quality of teaching and student interaction, they said.

"Stone House is the best child care in town," Kelly Liu, Kevin's mother, said. "I recommend it to all of my friends. I really like it."

Liu said Kevin has gained a lot from Stone House. His discipline has improved, and he has learned to express himself at show and tell each week, she said.

Stone House also employs early childhood education majors who work with

See STONE HOUSE Page 12

Kevin Gao, 4, is a member of the preschool class at the Hoeftin Stone House Child Care Center. Gao's parents, both professors in geology, chose Stone House because of the quality of teaching, and because Stone House is associated with K-State.

Health experts warn of renewed effects of West Nile virus

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It had Kansas shoppers scrambling last year for bug spray and citronella candles and was responsible for infection in 22 people, about 800 horses and countless birds.

It's West Nile virus — it's back — and now, experts warn, the virus may pack a bigger punch than last year.

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment's Sharon Watson, public information director, said history may repeat itself.

"We definitely expect it to reappear in Kansas this year," she said. "We've seen in other states that it is generally worse the second year it appears."

Watson said there is a good chance more humans will be infected in the upcoming warm season.

"We do tend to see an increase in the number of human cases the second year West Nile virus is in an area," she said.

Sanjay Kapil, associate professor of clinical virology, said his lab routinely diagnoses West Nile virus cases throughout Kansas. He said that when an RNA viral disease like West Nile is established in an area, it will return year to year.

"We'll have to now live with it," he said.

Kapil said the virus will also enjoy a longer season this year, which may add to the number of cases in the state.

"Since West Nile didn't come here until Aug. 8 last year, it's very likely that it will come here much earlier," he said. "Now that it's here to stay, West Nile will be an epidemic in the United States and in Kansas."

The virus, which is known to kill about one-third of infected horses and an even higher number of birds, is transmitted through mosquitoes. Kapil said people with a weakened immune system and a particular genetic makeup are more susceptible to the virus.

See WEST NILE Page 12

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Powell's uphill pitch for U.N. backing puts him on the spot in administration
Secretary of State Colin Powell's insistence on traditional diplomacy to disarm Iraq has run into a stone wall in the United Nations. He told Congress the Iraqi threat must be dealt with now, not after another mass murder of innocent people.

Britain open to amendment to U.S.-backed draft resolution on Iraq

Britain is prepared to negotiate the wording of a U.S.-backed draft resolution authorizing force against Iraq, and is open to possible amendments, British Foreign Secretary Jack Straw said Thursday.

U.S., Pakistani forces step up search for bin Laden, continue raids Pakistani and American forces intensified the search for Osama bin Laden and carried out raids this week based on information from a newly captured al-Qaeda deputy. Pakistani intelligence and military officials said Thursday.

Senate ratifies U.S.-Russia treaty to sharply cut nuclear warheads

The Senate unanimously ratified a treaty Thursday that would cut active U.S. and Russian long-range nuclear warheads by two-thirds. The Moscow Treaty would take missile levels to the lowest point in 50 years.

Hackers steal names, Social Security numbers from university database

Hackers broke into a University of Texas database and stole the names, Social Security numbers and e-mail addresses of more than 55,000 students and employees, officials said.

Weather

Today 60 | 37

Sunny

Saturday 63 | 27

Sunny

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 114

776-5577
DELIVERS

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Hangs in there

6 "How come?"

9 Chart

12 Computer fodder

13 Favorable vote

14 "But — on forever"

16 Sequin

18 Canoeist out

20 Attention getter

21 Skater

23 Mother flocker

24 Diamond wear

25 From square one

27 Actor

29 Open, in a way

31 Family-biz phrase

35 Acts the robot

37 Nimble

38 Hospital sections

41 Greek vowel

43 Jennings' employer

44 Sheltered

46 Non-expert

47 Fore-and-aft sail

48 Liama territory

52 Third degree?

53 Actor McKellen

54 Surf-and-turf component

55 Express

56 "— Doubtful"

57 Three-score

DOWN

1 Cover

2 Violinist

3 Springer, for one

4 Melody

5 Put on a show

6 Doesn't recycle

7 Over-publicize

8 Verily

9 Strength

10 Shoelace tip

11 Verse

17 Water nymphs

19 Heard the alarm

21 Greek cross

22 Abby's sis

24 Guys

26 Unemotional

28 Rash

30 Rival of 32 Stretchy material

33 Scooper topper

34 Big Apple

36 Longs

38 Nasty stingers

39 Top of the hierarchy

40 Set

42 Accumulate

45 Archie Bunker's creator

46 Oppositionalist

48 Kipling boy

50 Cause corrosion

51 "Guys and Dolls" role

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer: 3-7

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22

23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33

34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44

45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55

56 57

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-228-5888. $10 per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (16+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

3-7 CRYPTOQUIP

OG X V J B O Q L . O P S O G R

D S O J Z U V G H S Y V W U G

L V U O P X W Z B V K W U V R G Y H G

W K X U Q K K V J K K D Y Q P K

Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHEN RABBITS ARE IN A HUMOROUS MOOD, THEY LIKE TO WEAR KILTS AND PLAY HOP-SCOTCH.

Today's Cryptquip clue: X equals B

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK #1 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

There was an error in Thursday's Collegian. The illustration on Page 4 was by Adam Hayes. The Collegian regrets the error.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

CAMPUS CONNECTION

Caffeine acts as stimulant, popular drink

By Kari Kennedy
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Whether it is in coffee, tea or soft drinks, caffeine is almost always available. Ninety percent of Americans consume caffeine in some form every day.

Caffeine is a popular drug, surpassing nicotine and alcohol, according to www.sleepfoundation.com. Jennifer Louk, senior in interior architecture, gets her dose of caffeine from coffee. "I like coffee, and I'm an architecture student so I need it," she said.

Louk said that when she has late nights, caffeine helps her stay awake. "I don't necessarily drink it while I study," she said. "I guess since I don't drink pop, I drink coffee instead."

Drinking caffeine equivalent to two cups of coffee improves alertness and enhances concentration, according to the Coffee Science Information Centre Web site, www.coscic.org.

Shirley Wilson, Union Coffee and Sweet Shop employee, said the most ordered drink she sees is mocha, a combination of strong coffee and chocolate that triples the caffeine amount, she said.

"Some students have a hard time getting up in the morning," Wilson said. "It keeps them awake."

The normal amount of caffeine intake is between 250mg and 600mg daily.

The Web site also said this level of intake presents no adverse effects.

Developing a habit of drinking caffeine is not really an addiction, but just a part of everyday life, according to www.coscic.org.

A dependency on caffeine could, however, lead to symptoms of withdrawal including headaches, anxiety, sleep problems and muscle twitching.

"You can have shakes in the morning if you don't

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

William Wake, sophomore in political science, studies for his English class at Radina's Coffeehouse and Bakery in Aggieville. Wake spends about one day a week at Radina's or Java Espresso and Bakery.

have your caffeine," she said.

The World Health Organization stated there is no evidence that caffeine use has comparable consequences associated with serious drug abuse.

But according to www.sleepfoundation.org, the best way to be alert is to sleep more.

Caffeine shouldn't be alternative to sleep

By Adrienne Smith
ARKANSAS TRAVELER-UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS

FAYETTEVILLE Ark. — Caffeine is everywhere. Eighty percent of the world's population and 90 percent of Americans consume caffeine daily, according to Johns Hopkins Medical Center. It is the No. 1 drug of choice.

Students are notorious for consuming caffeine to stay awake for all-night study sessions or early morning classes. University of Arkansas students consume this drug daily, said Susan Rausch, a UA Health educator.

It is very important for students to get adequate sleep when they are under pressure, anywhere from six to eight hours a night, Rausch said.

Caffeine from one six-ounce cup of coffee can stay in the body anywhere from six to 12 hours, making it difficult to fall asleep, according to Howstuffworks.com. Even caffeine taken early in the morning can cause a sleepless night.

Once caffeine drinkers do fall asleep, sleep is often shorter and lighter, causing them to take caffeine the next day to replace the sleep they missed.

Replacing sleep with caffeine for long periods of time could lead to serious sleep disorders such as insomnia, according to the Web site.

"If people are going to consume caffeine, they should consume it moderately," Rausch said.

Caffeine is an addictive drug that stimulates the nervous system similar to cocaine, amphetamines and heroine, according to Howstuffworks.com.

Women especially should reduce their intake of caffeine to fewer than 200 or 300 milligrams a day, or two to three cups of coffee to help guard against osteoporosis, according to Johns Hopkins Medical Center.

A typical six-ounce cup of coffee has 100 milligrams, six-ounce cup of tea contains 70 milligrams, a 12-ounce soft drink can have anywhere between 50 to 70 milligrams, according to the Web site.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration limits the amount of caffeine in soft drinks to six milligrams per ounce, according to the National Soft Drink Association.

Half of Americans consume 300 milligrams a day, the equivalent of two mugs of coffee or a couple of cokes, according to Howstuffworks.com.

In 2001, Americans consumed 53 gallons of soft drinks per person, according to the NSDA. In 1993, Americans consumed 26 gallons of coffee per person, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Those who use caffeine for a prolonged period of time find they build a tolerance to the drug requiring more and more caffeine to obtain the same effects.

People who cannot function without it and consume an average of 357 milligrams everyday are considered to have a physiological dependence on the drug, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, March 5

- At 10:15 a.m., Donald Robinson, 726 Thurston, was arrested for worthless check and failure to appear. Bond was set at $711.20.
- At 10:30 a.m., Vincent Rubio, 618 N. 11th, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- At 11:52 a.m., Donald Robinson, 726 Thurston, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,055.
- At 1:13 p.m., Michael Luftman, 3434 Stonehenge, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 10:20 p.m., Ronald Young, 2221 Green, was arrested for driving on a suspended license, forgery, theft and failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,750.
- At 2:45 p.m., Jarman Morgan, 2110 Mike, was arrested for probation violation, driving on a suspended license, DUI and theft. Bond was set at $4,500.

Thursday, March 6

- At 3:09 a.m., Connie Bleuel, 310 Laramie, was arrested for criminal trespass and violation of a protective order. Bond amount was unavailable.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Keadie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Division of Biology will have a seminar, "Phylogenetics of Crassulaceae," at 4 p.m. today in Ackert 221.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- The Canterbury Episcopal Club will meet for worship and praise at 5 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.
- Christian Explorers will meet for food and fellowship at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Campus Center.
- The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.
- SGA committee meetings on Sunday night in OSAS conference room: student affairs and social services at 6 p.m., allocations at 7 and academic affairs and university relations at 9.
- Pi Kappa Phi will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday in Union 207.
- The men's lacrosse team will play Dordt College at 9 p.m. Saturday and the University of Nebraska at 3 p.m. Sunday in Memorial Stadium.

Up next

In Monday's Collegian

News | Big Brother/Sister bowling
Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Manhattan took a hit with budget cuts this year. Find out how much it raised at the bowling fund-raiser this weekend.

BIRTHRIGHT
of Manhattan

An International Pregnancy Service

Hotline : 1-800-550-4900

539-2555

206 South 5th Street

"I got a better"
computer for a lot less because they don't run silly ads on TV.

- Factory direct savings
- Every computer custom built
- Name brand components
- Full factory warranty
- Easy to order - see & SAVE!

MY WHITE BOX

Custom Built Computers

www.mywhitebox.com

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call

Now in the Gallery at

URBAN DESIGNS

Go Figure

Ceramics by

Brian McCallum

Exhibit will be open

March 3-29

Reception: March 8, 4-6 pm

1204 MOFO

539-2563

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing

Total confidential service

Same day results

Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Finding A Parking Spot On Campus A Problem?

Cobra Gas Scooter

Base Model Only

$599.95+ tax

Called for action! 41.5 cc engine makes the fastest scooter for your commute.

25 mph. Built tough

Stores easily. Up to 150 mph.

J & L Auto Sales

2017 Ft. Riley Blvd. 785-539-1122

Manhattan Arts Center

announces Auditions for...

Run For Your Wife!

Monday March 10 and Tuesday March 11 7-9 p.m. at MAC 1520 Poyntz

Parts available for:
2 men, 30-40
2 women, 25-40
2 men, over 40

Performance Dates:
April 25-27
May 1-4
Directed by Maggie Jackson

Rehearsals begin after Spring Break

For more information drop by the Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave. or call, 785-537-4420

www.manhattanarts.org

2 burgers and beer open @ 6

LONGHORNS

BAR & GRILL

UNLIMITED

Night & Weekend Minutes

FREE Nationwide Long Distance

FREE Voice Mail

FREE Caller ID

25% Off All Face Plates

PHONE ONLY

$29.99

Stop In & Register For A FREE Year's Supply of Coca-Cola

Kansas Wireless

305 Ft. Riley Blvd/Manhattan

785-565-9219 / M-F 10-6, Sat. 10-2

For one month. Limited time offer. Some conditions apply. See store for details.

Senate increases fees for SafeRide

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SafeRide services could be available to students as soon as next year.

Student senators took final action on a bill to increase the Office of Student Activities and Services privilege fee for the SafeRide program. The motion passed unanimously.

Total cost of the SafeRide program is projected at $70,966 for next year, Todd Kohman, vice president, said in a presentation at last week's meeting.

The cost includes five operating cabs along with the salary of a SafeRide coordinator, who will oversee the entire project, and promotional costs. "All of this is estimated cost.

It fluctuates to change," Kohman said.

The mission of the SafeRide program is to save lives by offering students an alternative to drunken driving and dangerous situations.

Although the plans are not finalized, Kohman said the SafeRide committee was looking to have cabs available in Aggieville locations as well as being available to pick up students and their guests at various locations in Manhattan.

Kohman said both K-State students and their guests will be allowed to use SafeRide services by showing the driver a valid student ID.

There will be no cost, which he said will hopefully attract students to the program.

"We felt it was going to be too bad asking students for money," he said. "We didn't want to deter anyone. The whole point is to have students use it."

Privilege Fee Chair Travis Stryker said that with Senate's recent decision, the program could be operating soon.

"I don't see why it can't be up and running next year," he said. "We should see students able to use it."

In addition to SafeRide, student senators passed a bill to increase the Student Publications Inc. privilege fee with a 42-3-0 vote.

With the bill, the privilege fee for Student Publications will increase to $1.50 per student per semester.

Student Publications Inc.

Student Senate meeting

The following items were discussed at Thursday night's Student Senate meeting:

- A resolution to mandate faculty use of K-State Online passed unanimously.
- A bill to increase the Student Publications Inc. privilege fee passed 42-3-0.
- A bill to increase the privilege fee for the Office of Student Activities and Services passed unanimously.

oversee the publications of the Royal Purple, Collegian, Electronic Collegian and the Campus Phone Book.

"They're going to need an increase in order to stay alive," Stryker said. "I don't feel it's our place to stay we can't offer the Collegian to students just because our economy is down."

Election results yield no changes

Minor errors fixed; officials hope to make improvements

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Election results were made official Thursday, and the new Senate will take office March 27, officials said.

President-elect John O'Hara will wait until April 13 to take office in order to fulfill his duties as Student Senate chair.

No changes were made to Wednesday's results except for a few minor corrections because of human error.

Bill Harlan, interim assistant coordinator of Student Activities and Services, said he made a few mistakes on separating the offices on the unofficial results issued to news media outlets.

"The nice thing about this year's elections," Harlan said, "was that we got to focus on the elections process, whereas last year we had to look at the whole elections system. We were able to get down to the details this year."

Elections Chair Mark Threton said officials' ability to focus on details will help future elections. He said there are some obsolete regulations that need to be addressed.

"The system was great," Threton said. "It didn't let the students down this year. That's the most important thing."

Positions that had write-in candidates available to fill them will be approved by the respective college councils, Harlan said.

Next year, though, Harlan said he hopes Student Senate will not be forced to rely on write-in candidates to fill positions.

"Overall, students should be confident in the new system," Harlan said.

"We hope to see an increased voter turnout next year and increased interest in running - that's our next focus."

As for the presidency, O'Hara said he and running mate Travis Stryker's experience working on Senate will be beneficial to their administration.

"It's essential to have the legislative and executive branches work together," O'Hara said. "We bring a new dimension to the presidency because of our broad understanding of Student Senate."

The pair's four campaign initiatives will be the top priority after their cabinet is selected, O'Hara said, but they understand they will have to work on whatever issues arise during their term.

"We're definitely not limiting ourselves," O'Hara said. "We understand that there will be a broad array of issues that will require our attention in the coming year."

Election results

Official results from the 2003-04 student body elections are available at www.k-state.edu/elections.

School board introduces plan to reduce funding

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Members of the Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 School Board presented information to residents about the future funding of special education programs Wednesday night.

The item was brought to the board to inform the public on Gov. Kathleen Sebelius' proposal of reducing special education funding for the public schools.

"The proposal is part of a yearly report on individual education plans," Dee McKee, director of special education, said.

The proposal included cuts in special education transportation funding by 80 percent, or about $240,000 for the school district.

In addition, the reductions would eliminate catastrophic aid given to the district when a student exceeds $25,000 of individual aid, McKee said.

The proposal would also redesign the district's funding using a census-based or per-capita system.

McKee said it is especially difficult for USD 383 to face these proposals because of an increase in the number of special education students.

"We're on an interesting trip with this funding process," she said.

As far as optional funding cuts information, the state department suggested a reduction of teacher reimbursement of $1,800 per teacher with paraprofessionals receiving 40 percent of that amount.

However, with new No Child Left Behind requirements, paraprofessionals are now required to have at least 60 college credit hours, the equivalent of an emergency substitute teacher.

Paraprofessionals do not receive insurance benefits and get paid a starting hourly wage of $6.80, McKee said.

School board meeting

The Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 Board of Education will discuss Gov. Kathleen Sebelius' proposal for special education funding at 6 p.m. Wednesday at the Robinson Education Center.

Board member Larry Weaver said he was frustrated with the requirements because paras are now required to have more experience while earning less money.

"We cannot require this level of competency without an increase in payment," she said. "Our paras are really underpaid as it is - I can't stress that enough."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

K-State vs. Iowa State
March 8 7 p.m.

A Century of Tradition
1902-2002

PACK IT WITH PURPLE!

Religion Directory

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30, 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child
♦ Sunday ♦
Morning Worship 8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
776-0424

Faith Evangelical Free Church
• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15
• College Class at 9:15
Dave Ratliff, Senior Pastor
Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor
1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball
776-2086

Come Worship With Us
In Church of the Nazarene
3031 Kimball Ave.
Wash. Sunday School
11:40 Sunday Worship
7:00 Wed. Bible Study, Teens
Youth & College ministry opportunities
Senior Pastor: Del Wayne, Jr.
539-4376

Calvary Chapel
Come Grow With Us!
Solid Bible Message
Contemporary Worship
Casual Atmosphere
Sunday Service: 11AM
1961 Strong Ave.
539-3667
cofmanhattan@cox.net

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)
9:00 a.m. Sunday School
10:15 a.m. Worship Service
11:30 a.m. Radio Broadcast 95.3 FM

Neil Engle, Pastor, 776-8790
5th and Humboldt-Courthouse Square
David A. Jones, Campus Minister
ECM 1021 Denison, 539-4281

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
9:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM
College and Young Married Couples
Sunday School @ 9:30 & 11:00AM
Youth Ministry Opportunities
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

First Presbyterian Church
♦ Worship at ♦
9:15 & 10:30 a.m.
Sunday School for all at 9:15 a.m.
Students Welcome!
www.firstpresmanhattan.com
801 Leavenworth St. • 537-0518

First Assembly of God
Weekly Services
Wednesday
Prayer Meeting 7:00 p.m.
Youth Group (grades 7-12)
Royal Rangers (Boys Clubs)
Missionettes (Girls Clubs)
Pastor Bryan Elliott
Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship for College Students 8:00 p.m. - (KSU Little Theatre)
Sunday
Sunday School 9:00 a.m.
Morning Worship & Kids Church 10:00 a.m.
Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.
Nursery Provided for all Services.
Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS
(785) 537-7631 www.manhattanag.org

Blue Valley Memorial United Methodist Church
835 Church Ave. 539-8790
Pastor: the Rev. Dr. E. Carolyn Wills
Worship hours: Saturday at 5:30 P.M. and Sunday at 10:30 A.M.

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH
Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45
1000 Fremont • Manhattan
(785) 539-4079

Episcopal Church at K-State
5:30 p.m. Sunday
Danforth Chapel
Worship and Praise
Fr. Matthew Cobb 532-9099

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufellow

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
330 Sunset Avenue
Saturday-Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
Sunday-Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Campus Pastor - Eric Wood
Email: campusmn@flintheills.com
(785) 539-2604

Lutheran Campus Ministry
Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship 7 p.m., Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
Open to All

2003 Spring Preview Fashion Show

Saturday, & Sunday, March 8 & 9, 2pm, at Manhattan Town Center

Featuring the Kansas State University College of Business Ambassadors

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

In Downtown Manhattan • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

TO THE POINT Fans should send off seniors with support

K-State men's basketball team will say goodbye to four seniors Saturday afternoon when the Wildcats welcome the Iowa State Cyclones to Bramlage Coliseum.

Quentin Buchanan, Gilson DeJesus, Pervis Pasco and Matt Siebrandt deserve an honorable sendoff during the Cats' final home game.

While K-State might have fallen short of their preseason goals this season, Coach Jim Wooldridge's senior class succeeded in establishing a foundation for the Wildcats to take the next step in years to come.

Their win-loss record aside, the Wildcats excited fans all season. Siebrandt's sweet touch close to the basket, Pasco's athleticism in the post, DeJesus' long-range ability and Buchanan's clutch play off the bench provided plenty of excitement for K-State fans in 2002-03.

The Wildcat faithful have one last opportunity to chant the seniors' names Saturday night at Bramlage. Wooldridge's senior class can only benefit from a large, boisterous crowd against Iowa State.

They have one more chance to leave K-State as winners.

Let's make sure this year's seniors knows they were appreciated.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Den Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Report from the National Weather Service: all travel should stop immediately. If you travel, your life will be in jeopardy.

Paul Restivo is Italian, too? This just gets better and better.

This year, I decided that I'm going to give up going to class for Lent.

I said no to drugs, but they just won't listen.

I know, I know. It's a bad scene to behold. It's a bad dream, I hope.

Where is it written that life is fair? On my left butt cheek. Really.

I'm like, yeah, but she's all no.

To flash or not to flash. That is the question.

Why are people with the name of Reginald always getting arrested?

My girlfriend wants to give up intercourse for Lent. I still love her, though. Happy four months.

Hi, I'm watching the election coverage, and I'm just curious if last year's president knows how to talk, or if his vice president runs the whole thing.

Yeah, I'm bi, and I live in a dorm full of girls. So, why is it so hard to find another bi just like me?

You want to get rid of voter apathy, give us the election results.

That girl on the K-State television show sucks. She cannot pronounce someone's name the same two times in a row.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

BAD BILLS

Proposals don't help protect Kansas teachers

Several bills that indicate unclear priorities have recently been introduced in the Kansas Senate and House of Representatives.

They would, if passed, tempt school boards to tap local money and reduce protection for teachers against wrongful termination.

Some of the bills were proposed by the Kansas Association of School Boards, but most came from the minds of our legislators.

The Kansas National Education Association, which represents many Kansas teachers, strongly opposes these bills.

It's time to re-emphasize to the Legislature what its priority needs to be: Find a way to raise education funding despite the budget crisis.

This is the only way to maintain the quality of education Gov. Kathleen Sebelius promised.

Local option budgets

The idea behind a local option budget is that a school district can raise funds outside the money it gets from the state government. This is mainly accomplished by raising local property taxes.

According to KASB, local option budgets have quadrupled in recent times. In Kansas, state aid has been outpaced by inflation and rising costs, so local options are the only ways for schools to compensate.

This year, state aid will likely remain exactly the same. Legislators are congratulating themselves on "protecting" education from cuts. What they need to do is devise ways to increase funding to schools so school boards can reduce their dependence on local options.

Another problem with local option budgets is that they benefit wealthier districts. Schools in poverty-level communities are not going to be able to raise as much money, so they fall further behind.

House Bill 2105, currently in the Education Committee, would try to address that by requiring more well-to-do districts to send 25 percent of the money to the state. It would then be redistributed to poorer districts.

Not only is this still not enough money to allow those districts to catch up, but the wealthier taxpayers could be justifiably angry at having to support schools other than the ones their children attend.

Meanwhile, House Bill 2178, also in committee, would raise the local option limit from 25 percent to 35 percent. This is exactly the wrong thing to do if we wish to wean districts of local money.

Job protection

Two outrageous bills were, at last notice, tabled in the House Education Committee, both relating to teacher contracts and terms of employment.

House Bill 2059 is supposedly an emergency measure that lets school boards terminate teachers if unforeseen budget cuts make it impossible to retain them.

Currently, teachers are protected by a variety of measures from sudden, unjustified termination. The continuing contract law is an agreement that contracts should be final and binding, for instance. Also, teachers can resort to due process and challenge the decision.

The danger of the bill is it will be abused.

School boards should not have the power to fire teachers for trumped-up reasons with no prior notice, and teachers should be able to contest it.

House Bill 2060 is similar in that it would reduce teachers' due process with the school board. They would be forced to go to court and wage a lengthy legal battle on unemployment benefits. KASB, apparently, believes that teachers would rather walk away than go through such a hassle.

Both bills are ridiculously unfair to teachers. Teachers should only be fired if they are incompetent and their contracts should only be terminated if they know in advance the budget will not allow them to be retained.

In proposing and supporting these bills, KASB is hypocritical, since it claims it wishes to solve the "teacher shortage."

Furthermore, teachers can be held to a double standard, as House Bill 2061, which is floating around in the Ethics and Elections Committee, would protect school board members from recall for "misconduct in office" or "incompetence."

So, in KASB's world, school board members could terminate teachers for no reason, teachers could not appeal this effectively, and the school board members could not be recalled for doing this even if it were illegal?

Instead of even seriously considering these proposals, our senators and representatives should get back to the crucial issue.

Increase school funding — local option budgets can be reduced and teachers won't have to be let go.

Andrew is a sophomore in print journalism. You can e-mail him at lawson@k-state.edu.

Illustration by Melesa Loretta | COLLEGIAN

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

TV, computer software may help children develop improved intellectual capacity

Dear Editor,

I am an apathetic American, plagued by the "everybody knows" syndrome: Everybody knows the government doesn't care about us working-class voters, so why even bother exercising my privileges?

President Bush lately verified these suspicions. "I'm the commander," he said, and "I do not need to explain why I say things. That's the interesting thing about being the president. Maybe somebody needs to explain to me why they say something, but I don't feel like I owe anybody an explanation. ..."

Maybe someone should explain to Bush that in a democracy, every elected official is a national employee who represents the collective will of American citizens. Every elected official owes every American citizen "explanations."

I've been suspicious of Bush's rhetoric from the beginning of the Iraq issue, with his insistence that Saddam is hiding weapons. He very well may be sitting on a stockpile, but in this country, the burden of proof is always on the accuser, not the accused. Iraq is crawling with weapons inspectors, and Saddam claims there is nothing to find. What's next? Fingernail pliers?

I'm not defending Saddam, but we did sell him the very weapons we now demand he destroy. The self-righteous posturing I see in Bush does not reflect a country that accepts its part in further arming the "Butcher of Baghdad."

Bush insists there is a link between Saddam and the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attacks, but that link cannot be proven. Should we base a strike on something "everybody knows" but can't prove?

In this strike — against a country that has not attacked us — the United States plans to "shock and awe" Baghdad, a city of 5 million people just like you and me. According to the New York Times, the effect would be "rather like the nuclear weapons at Hiroshima."

In the words of Robert Lewis, co-pilot of the Enola Gay, "My God ... what have we done?" What will we do?

Bush has said, "We expect nations to oppose all terrorists, not just some of them. No political cause can justify the deliberate murder of civilians."

Mr. President, by your own definition, the United States stands on the verge of becoming a terrorist state. Whose responsibility will it be to ensure we are disarmed so that we are not a threat to our neighbors?

I am angry. Our foreign and domestic policy turns my stomach and makes me ashamed.

Let us give up our apathy and find a new voice. Write. Fight. Take back America.

Stacy L. Smith
K-State Alumna and Staff

Bosco, task force strive to improve K-State's name with academic honor

Dear Editor,

As a K-State alumnus who reads the Collegian online, I thought Lindsey Praechter's column on Tuesday made a lot of sense. However, there are a few things that surprised me.

If she is shocked to be called a "city girl," does that mean she hasn't ventured into the truly rural parts of Kansas? Lindsey is correct to write that Overland Park is nowhere near the size of a city like Chicago. However, to those of us who grew up in rural Kansas, cities like Overland Park are considered to be the same as Kansas City, a large metropolitan area.

I have had the luxury to see cities like Chicago. I have also seen towns with populations of less than 50. Like Lindsey, I love to travel and feel it is important. However, I still consider Overland Park part of a city that seems large. From her perspective that may seem silly.

On the flip side, I am often considered a "hick" because I grew up somewhere west of Manhattan. There were 35 people in my graduating class, and my parents are both educated people who do not wear white tank tops and overalls every day.

Still, when I mention to people from the Kansas City area that I grew up two hours west of Manhattan, I might as well say I grew up in a desert. From the expressions on most of their faces, it seems they think western Kansas is what they see on Interstate 70 when they drive to Colorado. It seems we both deal with different stereotypes.

Finally, Lindsey is correct to say, "you are cheating yourself if Wichita or Manhattan is your idea of urban life."

However, people are also cheating themselves if they believe that a farm located an hour outside of Overland Park is rural. Those people should take the opportunity to head west out of Manhattan on Highway 24. If they think cruising through Kansas on I-70 means they have experienced rural culture, then they are as mistaken as those rural Kansans who believe Wichita qualifies as city culture.

Even with the herds of cattle grazing alongside the road, towns like Manhattan are not the epitome of rural life that many city people think they are.

I hope, my letter might allow her to see things through the eyes of someone who grew up in north central Kansas. While neither of us is wrong, we are both just victims of different stereotypes and generalizations.

Rachel Roach
Class of 2000

New tax deductions available

Education credits may benefit students' parents

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Parents of K-State students might be able to save a little money on taxes this year.

Mike Vinson, certified public accountant for Sink, Gillmore and Gordon LLC, said there are two education credits that parents might not be aware of, as well as an education deduction new to the tax system this year.

The Hope Credit is available only to freshmen and sophomores who are enrolled half-time or more. Students may be eligible for 100 percent of the first $1,000 and 50 percent of each additional $1,000 of required educational expenses, above and beyond grants and scholarships received, to be credited on income tax returns, Vinson said.

The credit may only be used on two tax returns per student, but it can be used for multiple students on one tax return.

The Lifetime Education Credit is available for 20 percent of required educational expenses, above and beyond grants and scholarships received, for up to a total of $5,000, he said.

Students don't have to be enrolled in any minimum number of hours, so this is available for upperclassmen and graduate students.

There also is no limit on how many times a student can qualify for the credit.

The tax bracket for both credits ranges from $41,000 to $51,000 adjusted gross income for single head of household, and from $82,000 to $102,000 adjusted gross income for joint filing, Vinson said.

A new education deduction is available this year for students as well, he said.

Up to $3,000 can count as a deduction on income tax returns. For single head of household, adjusted gross income cannot exceed $65,000, and for joint filing, adjusted gross income cannot exceed $130,000.

This deduction has no limit on the amount of times it can be used, Vinson said.

Credits and deductions are two different things, said Gary Edwards of Gary T. Edwards CPA Inc.

"Credit is a dollar for dollar reduction of tax liability," Edwards said.

"A deduction is a subtraction from income to arrive at total taxable income."

Edwards said he makes it a point to ask parents with college-age children about their scholastic status.

"We ask if students are going to college," he said.

"It's important because if their child is 19 but not attending college, they should not be claiming them on the income taxes."

To see if a student qualifies for any credits or deductions, they need to go to their KATS account, said Alice Donaldson, senior administrative assistant for the Controller's Office.

"The student should go to their student account, and click the IRS Education Tax Credits button, and it will show a transaction history," she said. Students can print it out and take it to their parents' tax preparer, she said.

The new education deduction is a nice alternative for some parents, Edwards said.

"It provides the opportunity to optimize, which works best for the parents," he said.

"They may have made too much to claim the credit, but they may still be able to claim the deduction."

Historian delivers Landon Lecture

Speaker says news events of today will relate differently in future

By Jessica Pitts
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

History brings a different perspective to events, a historian said at the 128th Landon Lecture on Thursday.

Michael Beschloss, a historian specializing in the U.S. presidency and American politics, said history brings ideas to the table that the public cannot know in real time.

"Here we are in what seems to be a very historic moment," Beschloss said. "We have cable television channels, superb newspapers and we have coverage from the press we have never had before with this intensity in American history."

"Yet at the same time, as we are watching all this, we always have to keep in mind that no matter what judgments we form about George W. Bush and the war with Iraq during the next 90 days or so, they are likely to be very different from the kinds of judgments that historians might have 20 or 30 years from now."

The difference is because of two reasons, Beschloss said. The first is because the information available now is dramatically different from the information the public and historians will have access to 20 years later.

"We will get private memos, letters and diaries," he said. "The kind of stuff that shows what goes on in the president's mind and what is going on behind the scenes."

The second deals with hindsight.

Michael Beschloss, historian, speaks during the Landon Lecture on Thursday in McCain Auditorium. Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

Beschloss, who has written seven books, his most recent titled "The Conquerors: Roosevelt, Truman and the Destruction of Hitler's Germany, 1941-1945," said hindsight gives society an idea long after the event has already taken place.

"Harry Truman is perhaps the best example," he said. "In 1953, he was unpopular and seen as an architect of an unpopular war in Korea. Truman, by most Americans and many historians of 1953, was not seen as a great president."

"Yet, here we are exactly 50 years later, and most historians, and I think most Americans, would see Truman as a very great man."

This is because of the information available through private transcripts and diaries.

"We know America won the Cold War because us and about a dozen world presidents adhered to the strategy that Harry Truman designed in the late '40s and early '50s," he said.

Beschloss said people now can apply this knowledge to the current situation in the United States.

"My point is this - as we are looking at George W. Bush and the very likely war with Iraq, we must make judgments and react to it like citizens," he said. "But we must always hold back a little bit and remember there are things that we don't know that are going on behind the scenes and a lot of things we can't know because we are not prophets."

"We don't know what is going to go on in the next 20 years or even in the next 90 days. We have to keep that in mind."

Having a Garage Sale?

If you're trying to sell your old stuff, let the Collegian help you. Come see us or give us a call.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

we kick ads.

CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

Check Out Pat's Blue Ribbon BarBeQue Primetime Heroes & Salt the Earth Friday night

aggieville Sun Cured Red saturday night

Weekly Specials

Monday	$5.95 All You Can Eat Wings 5-9 $1.50 Domestic Draws
Tuesday	2 for 1 Smokey Joes $2 Domestic Pitchers $3 Michelob Family Pitchers
Wednesday	Chef's Creation $2.50 Any Beer Drafts, Bottles, Imports, Micros
Thursday	$4.95 Half Chickens $2.00 Wells
Friday	Chef's Creation $1 PBR Cans While they last

STOP @ Pat's

Ksu Opera Theatre Presents
The Merry Wives Of Windsor

McCain Auditorium, 8 p.m. March 6-8
$8.00 students
$12.00 general
Box office open noon-5 p.m.
call 532-6428
A comic opera by Otto Nicolai
Based on the William Shakespeare comedy

Chase Manhattan Apartments

is Now Leasing for the 2003-2004 School Year!

Apartments start at $495.00 per month

All Apartments Include:

- Microwave, Dishwasher, Garbage Disposal, Refrigerator and Stove
- 24-Hour Fitness Facility and Laundry Care Center
- On-Site Management
- 1, 2, 3 and 4 Bedroom Units

Call Chase Manhattan Apartments
1/2 mile from KSU at the corner of College and Claflin
(785) 776-3663 (24 hours)
1409 Chase Place • Manhattan, KS

KANSAS STATE BASEBALL
MAKE THE CONNECTION

K-State vs. Arkansas
Friday, March 7 6 p.m.
Saturday, March 8 12:20 p.m.

*Subject to change due to weather. Check www.k-statesports.com for updates.

k-state after hours:
FRIDAY, MARCH 7TH
AT THE K-STATE STUDENT UNION

"SPRING BREAK"

- Cruise Ship (Union Station)
- Colorado (Food Court)
- Texas (Courtyard)
- Mexico (Courtyard)

9 P.M.
*Casino Style Gambling, FREE Massages, TONS of Fun Prizes, Live Music, Games, Contests, CHANCE TO WIN A DVD PLAYER

CRAFTS (Courtyard) 9 P.M. - 11 P.M.

FREE FOOD (Food Court) 11 P.M.

- Soft Tacos

FREE MOVIE (FORUM HALL)

ROAD TRIP

MIDNIGHT

Co-Sponsored by Health, Communicable Diseases, and Safety Committee; Center for Basic Cancer Research; and Lafene Health Center
FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT: WWW.KSU.EDU/AFTERHOURS

No. 8 Texas Tech 73, No. 4 K-State 64

RAIDED OPPORTUNITY

K-State's Kendra Wecker takes a charge from Texas Tech's Jia Perkins in the second half of the Wildcats' 73-64 loss Thursday night to the Red Raiders at the United Spirit Arena in Lubbock, Texas.

Cats still have option to end season well

"We're not going to look past Tech."

A number of Wildcats said it. And early in Thursday's contest, Texas Tech showed why.

Fresh off a three-point loss to Texas in Lubbock on Sunday, Tech's Jia Perkins got her jumper established early.

Somebody must have forgotten to tell the Lady Raiders they could do no better than a No. 3 seed in the Big 12 Tournament. Or that a K-State loss meant an outright Big 12 title for in-state rival Texas.

Whatever the case, somebody certainly remembered to tell Plenette Pierson that Thursday was the last time she'd play in Lubbock.

Pierson turned in a gem with 23 points to complement Perkins' 26.

K-State's scoring tandem of Kendra Wecker and Nicole Ohlde turned in 22 apiece, but turnovers cost the Cats.

And Laurie Koehn went 0-5 from long range.

In all fairness, though, Thursday marked just the second time Koehn had seen the floor in 10 games.

Five threes mean 18 points, and 18 points goes a long way toward erasing a nine-point loss.

Now they're left wondering.

If the Cats could have managed a win on Thursday, the bittersweet title of Big 12 co-champions would have been theirs.

Instead, the Cats left with heartbreak.

As the Cats looked out the windows of the plane that sped them away from the throes of West Texas, it must have been comforting to know it's not over yet.

The Cats have two options.

They can talk about what a good run it was and bow out of the Big 12 Tournament early. K-State can end things as a team broken by a defeat that cost them a conference title and an untold amount of pride.

Or the Wildcats can wait for the fat lip to heal and head to Dallas looking for a fight.

A team doesn't win 21 straight at home by letting losses make cuts so deep they never heal.

And a team doesn't win a Big 12 Tournament by looking past teams they should beat.

Ben is a senior in social sciences. You can e-mail him at fehr7@k-state.edu.

Women lose chance at Big 12 Conference title in 73-64 loss to Texas Tech

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LUBBOCK, Texas — Jia Perkins' big game cost K-State a share of the Big 12 Conference title.

Perkins connected on all eight of her first-half shots and scored 26 points as No. 8 Texas Tech defeated No. 4 K-State 73-64 Thursday night.

"I hit my first two shots, and that got some momentum and confidence going for me," Perkins said. "When you hit your first couple, you start thinking you're going to make the next one."

Plenette Pierson added 23 points for Tech (24-4, 13-3).

Tech's victory allowed No. 5 Texas to capture the league title. The Longhorns will enter next week's conference tournament as the top seed.

"It's probably been a long time since they've yelled that much for us," Tech coach Marsha Sharp said of Texas. "I guess you might say they owe us one."

Coach Deb Patterson said she was disappointed in her team's first-half performance.

"I'm not sure over the 40 minutes of the game that we competed at the level we're capable of," Patterson said. "But credit Texas Tech for that. They played tremendously inspired, they made big plays, and they made them at very timely points in the game."

K-State (27-3, 14-2), which had won 22 of its past 23 games, had its nine-game winning streak snapped.

"Jia was pretty much unstoppable tonight," sophomore forward Kendra Wecker said. "She had a couple of very, very nice moves and was hitting that pull-up jumper. She was unbelievable tonight."

Football loses opponent for 2003 season

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

K-State is looking to fill a second hole in its 2003 football schedule after Miami of Ohio canceled a visit to Manhattan.

The RedHawks had been scheduled to visit KSU Stadium on Sept. 20, but the slate announced this week has the team going to Colorado State on that date.

K-State senior associate athletics director Jim Epps said he was "shocked" at the news, which came last week.

Epps said there was a modest buy-out clause of less than $100,000. He said the matter had been turned over to the attorneys of both schools.

Buy-outs are not unusual, but Epps said they usually are done by mutual agreement and rarely occur so close to the season.

The contract with Miami included a game at KSU Stadium in 2005 and a K-State road trip to Oxford, Ohio, in 2008.

Miami assistant athletic director Mike Harris said the RedHawks simply have postponed the series with K-State.

The only nonconference games on K-State's current schedule are home dates against Troy State on Aug. 30 and Division I-AA Massachusetts on Sept. 13.

K-State has openings on Sept. 6, Sept. 20 and Sept. 27, but would like to keep the 27th as an open date before the start of Big 12 play at Texas on Oct. 4.

No. 28 Arkansas (10-0) vs. K-State (5-2)

6 p.m. Friday, Saturday | Tointon Family Stadium (2,331)

Baseball team set for home-and-home series

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State has seen plenty of Arkansas coach Dave Van Horn.

In five seasons with Nebraska, Van Horn's teams took nine of 14 contests from the Wildcats.

Also under Van Horn, the Huskers claimed three Big 12 Tournament titles, four straight NCAA appearances and a regular-season conference title in 2001.

But on June 21, 2002, Van Horn said goodbye to Nebraska and returned to his alma mater to take the reigns of a Razorback program that went to an NCAA Super-Regional and came within two runs of the College World Series last season.

To say Arkansas' new skipper has guided the Razorbacks to a good start this season would be an understatement. On Wednesday, UA beat Western Michigan with two runs in the bottom of the ninth to move to 10-0.

At 6 p.m. Friday, Van Horn and Arkansas visit Manhattan to begin a four-game home-and-home series with the Wildcats.

The second contest is set for 12:30 p.m. Saturday to be followed by Saturday and Sunday games at 1 and 3 p.m. in Fayetteville, Ark.

Wildcat first baseman Tim

Scheduled starters

Friday
K-State Jon Gutierrez (0-0, 0.00 ERA) vs. UA Jarrett Gardner (2-0, 4.86 ERA)

Saturday
K-State Kevin Melcher (0-0, 4.00 ERA) vs. UA Charley Boyce (2-0, 0.60 ERA)

Sunday
K-State Jim Ripley (1-0, 2.45 ERA) vs. UA Clint Brannon (0-0, 1.35 ERA)

Monday
K-State Jared Bunn (1-0, 4.41 ERA) vs. UA TBA

Doty said Van Horn's Razorbacks should look a lot like the Nebraska teams K-State has dealt with in the past.

"They have Coach Van Horn from Nebraska," Doty said. "And they're going to play hard the same way Nebraska does, all nine innings, all 27 outs. They will give you all they've got."

Like his Nebraska teams, Van Horn's Razorbacks are likely to produce runs, too.

"They like to run a little bit and they'll play small ball when they need to. But, like his teams from Nebraska, they also have a couple of power guys who drive in a lot of runs," Doty said.

UA does have some power, particularly in the bats of outfielders Ryan Fox and Andrew Wishy. The duo has combined for five of the Razorbacks' nine home runs.

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State pitcher Kevin Melcher fires a pitch against Western Illinois on Feb. 16 at Tointon Family Stadium. The Wildcats host perennial SEC power Arkansas at 6 tonight. K-State will send senior left-hander Jonathan Gutierrez to the hill in the today with Melcher scheduled to start Saturday's contest.

Arkansas has driven in 77 runs and carries a .327 team batting average.

But K-State has power of its own. In three fewer games than Arkansas, the Cats have six home runs and, despite having had three games canceled and two rescheduled because of inclement weather, have run out to a 5-2 start.

The Wildcats carry a .322 team batting average and have driven in 59.

K-State's Gabe Luttrell said the Wildcats are well aware that Arkansas is a good baseball team.

It seems one thing K-State will be able to count on against the Razorbacks is the production of senior catcher Ryan Baldwin.

The Wildcat catcher has been relentless at the plate, driving in 16 runs on 13 hits in 36 plate appearances for a .361 batting average.

Baldwin said Arkansas' record means little.

"They're just another team," he said. "They have a lot of tradition under their belt, they have a new coach, and they're going to come ready to play. But their record doesn't matter. We'll be ready."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

MLB | Pedro starts

Enough with the talk of leaving. Pedro Martinez was back on the mound pitching for the Red Sox on Thursday.

The Boston ace threw 31 pitches in two innings, striking out four after a slow start in a 3-0 loss to the Minnesota Twins.

• • •

MLB | Royals trade for minor leaguers

The Cincinnati Reds obtained right-handed pitcher Jeff Austin and left-handed pitcher Brian Shackelford from the Kansas City Royals on Thursday in exchange for infielder Damaso Espino and outfielder Alan Moyer.

Espino spent most of last season with the Rookie Gulf Coast League Reds, batting .332 with 32 RBI in 58 games. Moyer hit .261 with five home runs and 22 RBI in 43 games at Billings, another rookie league team.

• • •

College football | OSU receives big gift

Texas oil tycoon and billionaire T. Boone Pickens gave Oklahoma State $20 million to renovate aging, rusty Lewis Field, part of a record $70 million donation also funding scholarships and other athletic programs, the university announced Thursday.

• • •

NFL | Chiefs hope to sign defensive end

Free agent defensive end Hugh Douglas ate Kansas City barbecue and met Kansas City people and pronounced both to his liking.

After visiting Seattle earlier this week and Kansas City on Wednesday and Thursday, the three-time Pro Bowler for the Philadelphia Eagles left for New York to be wined and dined by the Giants. Then, after a possible detour to Jacksonville, he planned to go home to Atlanta and make a decision.

• • •

NFL | Plummer signs with Broncos

In the closing seconds of Denver's final game last season, Broncos fans began a chant of "We want Jake!"

Jake Plummer was still in an Arizona Cardinals uniform at the time, but he couldn't hide from his thoughts.

They got their wish on Thursday, when Plummer signed a seven-year, $40 million contract to take over as Denver's starting quarterback.

• • •

Golf | Augusta protest requested

The lead critic of Augusta National Golf Club's all-male membership asked permission Thursday for more than 200 people to stage a one-day protest during the Masters tournament, with a small number posted at the gate to Magnolia Lane.

Martha Burk, chair of the National Council of Women's Organizations, wants a permit for 24 protesters to stand at either side of the club's main gate, where a public sidewalk runs along Washington Road.

• • •

Horse racing | Legendary jockey in hospital

Laffit Pincay Jr. broke bones and punctured lungs on his way to becoming thoroughbred racing's winningest jockey.

His latest injury, though, might be the one that ends his remarkable 39-year career.

Pincay broke a bone in his neck when he was thrown from his horse during a race at Santa Anita last weekend.

SPORTS ONLINE

Weekend coverage | Rowing, equestrian

K-State's equestrian team has had unprecedented success early in its history. Check out the latest update on Coach Briendenthal's team.

With Tuttle Creek Reservoir iced over, the Wildcat rowers have been forced inside. Find out what they've been up to.

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

No. 4 K-STATE 73,
No. 8/10 TEXAS TECH 64

K-STATE (27-3, 14-2)
Ohlde 9-18 4-13 22, Wecker 8-17 4-4 22, Madden 2-4 5-8 9, Mahoney 3-8 1-2 8, Duttmer 1-10 0-3.

TEXAS TECH (24-4, 13-3)
Perkins 12-17 2-26, Pierson 9-20 5-7 23, Davis 3-5 1-2 7, Ritchie 2-7 1-2 6, Clark 2-3 1-2 5, Grant 2-4 0-0 4, Ayers 1-2 0-2.

K-STATE 29 35 — 64
TEXAS TECH 44 29 — 73

3-point goals — K-State 4-12 (Wecker 2-2, Duttmer 1-1, Mahoney 1-3, Domenico 0-1, Koehn 0-5), Texas Tech 1-5 (Ritchie 1-4, Tennill 0-1). Fouled out — None. Rebounds — K-State 35 (Wecker 9), Texas Tech 37 (Davis 10). Assists — K-State 11 (Koehn 4), Texas Tech 18 (Grant 10). Total fouls — K-State 15, Texas Tech 21. Technicals — none. Attendance — 12,144.

Bailey-Lynn

Keeley Bailey, senior in life sciences, and Bryce Lynn, junior in psychology, announce their engagement.
Keeley is the daughter of Glenn and Cindy Bailey, Mulvane, Kan., and Bryce is the son of Don and Mary Lynn, Shawnee, Kan.
They plan a July 5 wedding in Overland Park, Kan.

Hemphill-Brewster

Kenda Hemphill, senior in music education, and James Brewster, senior in music education, announce their engagement.
Kenda is the daughter of Jeff Humiston and Vicki Humiston, Hutchinson, Kan., and James is the son of Ray and Esther Brewster, Clearwater, Kan.
They plan a May 17 wedding in Manhattan.

Hanzlick-Timmons

Sarah Hanzlick, senior in psychology, and Aaron Timmons, senior in industrial and manufacturing systems engineering, announce their engagement.
Sarah is the daughter of Robert and Deanna Hanzlick, Colby, Kan., and Aaron is the son of Nancy Timmons and the late Doug Timmons, Fredonia, Kan.
They plan a May 18 wedding in Manhattan.

Hooker-Kyle

Serita Hooker and Brandon Kyle, senior in architectural engineering, announce their engagement.
Serita is the daughter of Walter and Melba Hooker, Bellevue, Neb., and Brandon is the son of William and Carla Kyle, Bellevue, Neb.
They plan an August 30 wedding in Bellevue, Neb.

Kimball-Thompson

Amy Kimball, graduate student in accountancy, and Isaac Thompson, senior in secondary education, announce their engagement.
Amy is the daughter of Steve and Christy Kimball, Manhattan, and Isaac is the son of David and Zandra Thompson, Manhattan.
They plan a July 12 wedding in Manhattan.

Kramer-Sumners

Crystal Kramer, senior in interior architecture, and John Sumners, K-State graduate, announce their engagement.
Crystal is the daughter of Jeff and Debbie Kramer, Omaha, Neb., and John is the son of Robert and Frankie Sumners, Westmoreland, Kan.
They plan a May 31 wedding in Omaha, Neb.

McDaniel-Forsythe

Renee McDaniel, K-State graduate, and Steve Forsythe, K-State graduate, announce their engagement.
Renee is the daughter of Larry and Kathy McDaniel, Sharon Springs, Kan., and Steve is the son of Steve and Donna Forsythe, Wichita.
They plan a September 13 wedding in Sharon Springs, Kan.

Smith-Howell

Jennifer Smith, senior in elementary education, and Ben Howell, senior in architecture, announce their engagement.
Jennifer is the daughter of Mike and Joyce Smith and Gregg and Renee Crossman, Topeka, and Ben is the son of Bill and Maxie Howell, The Woodlands, Texas.
They plan a July 25 wedding in Topeka.

Troyer-Hale

Darcy Troyer, K-State graduate, and Jesse Hale, senior in mechanical engineering, announce their engagement.
Darcy is the daughter of Deryl and Joyce Troyer, Manhattan, and Jesse is the son of David and Lanora Hale, McPherson, Kan.
They plan an August 9 wedding in Manhattan.

Walther-Jacobs

Janell Walther, senior in English, and Nathan Jacobs, senior in finance, announce their engagement.
Janell is the daughter of Vic and Ruth Walther, Hiawatha, Kan., and Nathan is the son of Brent and Starr Jacobs, Smith Center, Kan.
They plan a July 26 wedding in Hiawatha, Kan.

Williams-Rensink

Amanda Williams and Cade Rensink, senior in animal sciences and industry, announce their engagement.
Amanda is the daughter of Tom and Nancy Williams, Bennington, Kan., and Cade is the son of Brian and Susan Rensink, Minneapolis, Kan.
They plan a June 7 wedding in Minneapolis, Kan.

Wright-Snyder

Ginny Wright, K-State graduate, and Kevin Snyder, senior in construction science and management, announce their engagement.
Ginny is the daughter of Gary and Theresa Wright, Wichita, and Kevin is the son of Kenneth and Kathy Snyder, Manhattan.
They plan a June 7 wedding in Schulte, Kan.

TUXEDO SALE

- TUX RENTAL STARTING AT $69.95
- ANY SHIRT STYLE OR COLOR
- ANY STYLE OF VEST AND TIE
- ONE TUX FREE FOR EVERY 6 TUX RENTALS

Marie's Bridal, Formal Wear & Tuxedos
2011 Ft. Riley Blvd. • Manhattan, KS

CLAUSSEN'S CUSTOM DESIGN & REPAIR

One of a kind engagement rings or wedding sets.
Show your spirit with our K-State Powercat jewelry.
Shop for the most competitive prices in town.
Good luck to the K-State Lady Cats.

CLAUSSEN'S
Custom Design & Repair
537-6884 • 410 Poyntz Avenue
Mon-Fri 9-6, Saturday by Appointment

425 Poyntz Avenue, Downtown Manhattan. 776-7821

Danenberg JEWELERS

Distinctive Jewelry
Quality Diamonds

Across from the Courthouse
Downtown, Manhattan

IDEAL CLEANERS

Wedding Attire Specialists in Leather Cleaning and Repair

1206 1/2 Moro
BILL ANDERSON • Manhattan, Kansas 66502

March Shamrock Special

Belleek
The Enchanted Porcelain of Ireland

20% Off
During March

Campbell's
DOWNTOWN
Use our Bridal Registry

785-776-9067
5th & Poyntz

10 AM-5:30 PM
Mon-Sat.
10 AM-7 PM
Thurs.

Once in a Lifetime

Mark Rose PHOTOGRAPHY

ENGAGEMENTS FAMILIES
WEDDINGS
EVENTS

Please Call for an Appointment • (785) 341-5738

BOCKERS II CATERING

-Providing special care and attention to special people on a very special day.
-Specializing in catering to the Warehouse Opera House and the Houston Street Ballroom.

-Wedding specialists since 1971
-Church centers & outdoor facilities
-Offering a vast array of buffet, social, reception and decorating packages.
-Linen & Rental packages available
-Decorating packages available

1108 Laramie — (785) 539-9431

NEED A TUX?

Tuxedos starting at $49.95!
Stop into Randall's today and save on every tuxedo in your wedding party! Choose from tuxedos and accessories from Chaps, Ralph Lauren, Claiborne 2.0, Perry Ellis, Oscar de la Renta, Andrew Fezza, and more!
Groom's tux FREE after 5 paid rentals.
COME TO THE TUXEDO EXPERTS.

Randall's FORMAL WEAR
Manhattan Town Center • (785) 770-9011
www.randallsformalwear.com

Weisner's Bridal Boutique & Sew Unique

- Over 100 Bridal Gowns (in stock) On Sale Now
- Bridesmaid Gowns
- Bridal Shoes
- Bridal Accessories
- Bridal Fabric
- Tuxedos

Special Orders Welcome

314 Poyntz • Downtown
(785) 776-6100

www.WeisnersBridalBoutique.com WeisnersSewUnique.BridalBoutique

we kick ads.

CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

Announce your engagement or wedding

www.kstatecollegian.com
• stop by Keozie 103

DON'T let your guests leave saying "The DJ SUCKED!"

Hire Light It Up mobile disc jockeys.

LIGHT IT UP
mobile disc jockeys
665-8054 • www.lightitup.org

Lace or smooth
Backless 32-46 (A-DD)
Detachable Garters

Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie

BRIDAL REGISTRY

AGGIEVILLE
1224 Moro
M-W 10-6
Thur 10-7
Fri-Sat 10-5

Celebrations of the Heart

401 Poyntz Avenue
Manhattan, KS 66502
785.587.1830

For the special occasions in life

Congratulations from Celebrations of the Heart on the following marriages:

February 19th
Vicky Hodges and Steven Fischer

February 21st
Denise Keller and Jason Fuoco

February 22nd
Angela Jurgensmeier and Rob Wagoner
Kim Pigg and Lee Welsh

February 28th
Samantha Dalinke and Ryan Hofstra
Bobby Jo Bishop and Edward Catlett

Freshman to finish training soon

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In one week, it will all come to an end.

In one week, Cara Shufelberger will know if the diet records, weight lifting, running, water aerobics, judo classes, racquetball and intramurals have paid off.

"It seems like it has gone so fast," Shufelberger said. "It feels like I'm doing every leg exercise and arm exercise I could possibly ever do in the Rec."

Shufelberger said she does 10 different weight machines every day and four different abdominal workouts.

Fitness Consultant Stephanie Caouette, senior in kinesiology, said Shufelberger maintains the most variety in her workout compared to other participants in the Wellness Resource Center's Spring Break Training Program.

"Some people don't put as much effort into it as she has," Caouette said. "She is huge in cross-training, which is good because it allows your body to burn more calories efficiently."

Shufelberger also exceeds the required cardiovascular workout time.

"Her cardio minimum is 30 minutes, and she's going 35 to 60 minutes. She's doing great," Caouette said.

Although most people stop working out after spring break, Caouette said she doesn't see that in Shufelberger's future.

"She now has a better background in weights," she said.

Getting fit

Follow freshman Cara Shufelberger for six weeks during her Spring Break Training Program at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

exercise, said she predicts Shufelberger will continue to eat right after the program ends.

"It's really a way of life," she said. "It's not that hard to eat healthy, and you feel better about yourself just knowing you're eating healthier. It's not a burden - it's just a different way of eating."

Bullard said Shufelberger sets a good example for others.

"She's sticking to her goals,"

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN
Cara Shufelberger has added racquetball to her workout as part of her Spring Break Training Program. Her program concludes next week.

she said. "I think she'll continue to see progress, even after the spring break program is over."

"I'm worried about the weighing part," she said. "I don't lose weight when I work out - I just improve muscle tone. I can be a size smaller and still weigh the same because it's more compact."

Shufelberger said that as long as she feels good, the numbers don't matter.

"I've noticed my clothes are fitting looser," she said. "I feel like my body fat has gone down."

Bullard said that if Shufelberger has followed the consultants' recommendations, she should see an improvement in body-fat percentage.

"If people in the program have given their best effort, which I think she has, they will see an improvement," she said.

Caouette said she looks forward to seeing Shufelberger's progress. She'll know the results in one week.

"I'm excited to find out her body fat," she said. "I think it probably went down."

Alumna seeks stardom from reality TV show

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A K-State graduate is taking her shot to become a star.

Kristen Kissling, August 2002 graduate in general human ecology, will appear Saturday night on USA Network's "Nashville Star."

The show chronicles the events of 12 contestants living together and competing in a country music showdown. Kissling described the show as "American Idol" meets "Real World."

"I was just ecstatic when I found out," Kissling said. "I asked him (the show's producer) to hold, and I set down the phone. I started jumping around and screaming. Then I got my composure back and finished talking to him."

Kissling moved to Austin, Texas, after graduation to focus on her music career. She saw an Internet advertisement for contestants and went to a try-out in Dallas.

She didn't make the cut.

Undeterred, she went to another audition in Austin.

Again, she didn't make the cut.

But within a week, she received a call from the show's producer asking her to attend another audition in Houston. She accepted and made it to the show.

Kissling said she has been singing since she was in first grade. During the past four years, she became more serious about music and took up guitar and began writing music.

Susan Rogers, graduate student in family studies and human services, went to high school with Kissling in Topeka and was her roommate at K-State. She wasn't surprised Kissling decided to participate in the show.

"She's always done lots of shows and get-your-foot-in-the-door types of things," Rogers said.

By appearing on the show, Kissling hopes to get her foot in a big door - into the national spotlight.

"Nashville Star"

"Nashville Star" will air at 8 p.m. Saturday on the USA Network. Interactive voting is available online at www.usanetworks.com/nashvillestar. Fan mail for Kristen Kissling may be sent to kristen_fans@hotmail.com.

"I'll have to wait and see what happens," she said. "But there are only possible benefits from this."

The show consists of 12 contestants, three judges and the national audience. Viewers can vote for contestants online or on the phone. The field of contestants will be narrowed down each week until one winner emerges.

Nancy O'Dell of "Access Hollywood" will be the host of the show. The winner receives an opportunity to have his or her first album produced by country music star Clint Black.

Also, the cameras will join the contestants in their shared apartment in Nashville, Tenn.

"It will capture what it's like to live together with people you're competing against," Kissling said. "They will do it in a respectful manner."

Kissling said having the spotlight on her will not be anything new. She said she enjoys being the center of attention.

"My thought is, even if they were annoyed, they were entertained," Kissling said. "I guess I need to thank everyone for the good and the bad."

Negative feedback and positive encouragement have helped shape what type of entertainer Kissling is. But through it all, she said she has stayed true to herself.

"Lots of people tell me to grow up," she said. "I just never will."

Kristen Kissling

Annual Cattlemen's Day celebrates 90 years of hard work

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Planning and hard work have paid off for members of animal sciences and industry for the 90th time.

The Annual Cattlemen's Day celebrates 90 years of beef industry acknowledgement and bull sales today.

Cattlemen's Day is a chance for K-State to share its programs with the dominant beef industry in Kansas, said Dale Blasi, professor of animal science and industry.

"We have research results for the livestock producers that will be in attendance," he said.

"We want to inform people about everything affiliated with the production and sale of wholesome beef, involving all aspects of the industry."

The research results are put into exhibits by graduate students and professors, said Jim Drouillard, professor of animal science and industry.

"The exhibitors try to put them into meaningful results that will appeal to a livestock producer so they can take that knowledge with them and put it to good use," he said.

The students are judged on their ability to translate and present research, and three winners are chosen for a scholarship. The top prize is $1,000, Drouillard said.

The show kicks off at 10 a.m. in Weber Hall with two keynote speakers. Randy Valclavik of H.E. Butt Grocery Co.

Sharing the wealth

Registration — 8 a.m., Weber Hall
Morning Program — 10 a.m., Weber Arena
Beef Luncheon — noon, Weber Arena
Beef Skill-A-Thon — 1:30 p.m., Weber Arena Focus Sessions — 2-4 p.m., Weber Hall will be one of them.

Afternoon activities will include seven focus sessions.

"There will be a Beef Skill-A-Thon, where people can walk through and quiz themselves," Blasi said. "The quizzes will be for three different levels - livestock producers, high school 4-H and FFA students, and college-age students, with prizes awarded to the winner of each category."

The Special "K" Bull &

K-State Beef Cattle Research Center

Demonstrations — 2-4 p.m., 3315 College Ave.

Awards Presentation for Beef Skill-A-Thon winners — 5:20 p.m., Weber Arena

Special "K" Bull & Heifer Sale — 5:30 p.m., Weber Arena

Heifer Sale will conclude the day, Drouillard said.

"The bull sale is in conjunction with many undergraduates who have taken a livestock marketing course," he said.

Blasi said the objective of the day is to let Kansas' industry know what people have been up to at K-State, as well as to help the industry by improving profitability.

"For beef production people, this is our Super Bowl," he said.

tonight
priced food
sunday
FREE Steaks
Aggie Station
RESTAURANT & PUB

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westtop 539-8888
Lunch Buffet $4.95 All you can eat!
Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!
Friday Seafood Buffet $7.95
$1.00 off Buffet
FREE DELIVERY with $9 minimum order
OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

Vista DRIVE IN
Fish Special $1.00 OFF
Fish Sandwich $1.19
Fish Basket $2.89
Fish Combo $2.74
537-0100 1911 Tuttle Creek
537-0222 Manhattan Town Center

Say HEESE Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909
MAKE COLLEGE SOMETHING MORE
BE A MAN OF CLASS.
INFORMATIONAL MEETING
7:00 PM SUNDAY MARCH 9th, 2003
207 KSU STUDENT UNION
PI KAPPA PHI FRATERNITY

Study Spanish in Mexico Summer 2003
• Earn 9 credits
• Study in Zacatecas
• Live with families
Final Information Meetings
Tues., Mar. 11 at 3:30 p.m. in EH 123 and
Fri., Mar. 14 at 3:30 p.m. in EH 126.
Complete information and applications will be distributed at that time.
Questions? Please contact the Office of Study Abroad (304 Fairchild, 532-5990), the Department of Modern Languages (104 EH, 532-6760), Prof. Lucia Garavito (EH 007-532-1927; e-mail: lugarav@ksu.edu), or Prof. Bradley Shaw (215 EH, 532-1988; e-mail: bradshaw@ksu.edu)
Sponsored by Dept. of Modern Languages and Office of Study Abroad

Little Caesars
FREE CRAZY BREAD
LARGE PIZZA $8.99
539-3333

SATURDAY live music
Dave Oakleaf
DAVE'S HIDEAWAY

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus
ONE BEDROOMS
1022-1026 Sunset $345-385
1212 Thurston $440-460
1950-1960 Hunting $440-460
1837 College Heights $385
DIAMOND
1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502
537-7701

Ride the Trails with a bike from
The PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 Poyntz, Downtown Manhattan 785-539-5639

Greek Odyssey Cafe
Celebrating Our GRAND OPENING!
New Serving Great Greek Cuisine in the K-State Student Union
K-STATE STUDENT UNION

Singer not clowning around

Mraz writes songs that mix wit, craft for poignant results

"WAITING FOR MY ROCKET TO COME"

★★★★☆

Music review by Matthew Webber

On singer/songwriter Jason Mraz's official Web site (www.jasonmraz.com), he says, "I'll be anyone's clown." Part joke, part musical mission statement, the quote both encapsulates and belittles Mraz's burgeoning talent.

Although Mraz can write the occasional funny tune, most of the songs on his major label debut "Waiting for My Rocket to Come" are more heartfelt than hilarious, more poignant than pointed.

To think of Mraz as the coffeehouse Weird Al or the comedy club James Taylor is to think of him as some kind of anomaly. Mraz is more analogous to fellow singer/songwriters like Dave Matthews or John Mayer who take their craft more seriously than they take themselves, artists who remind us that "well-written" and "fun" are not mutually exclusive.

Although most singer/songwriters who play original songs and the occasional cover tune at open mics emulate Matthews, most of these players are waiting for a rocket that will never come.

Mraz, however, got lucky (or else he's got mad skills), as John Alagia, who has produced songs for both Matthews and Mayer, produced Mraz's album.

His rocket may soon arrive: He has appeared on Conan O'Brien and been profiled on VH1.com.

Mraz's songbook is a wonderland. Like Mayer, he understands the importance of being earnest. He's young enough to be idealistic and old enough not to be naive.

He's clever enough to namedrop Jane Jetson and Kool & the Gang in one song, "I'll Do Anything," in which he boasts as if he's Jay-Z or somebody: "So step on up to the plate get a date with Mraz/See you better act fast because supplies they never last."

True to his hip-hop identity, he's already squashed a beef with Mayer, and he lists Sir-Mix-A-Lot as an influence.

He's a "Curbside Prophet" who sings about girls, his obvious love of wordplay and, um, girls.

His voice sounds more like David Gray's than Matthews'/Mayer's, but with a Virginia-native-transplanted-in-California accent. I can hear a tone of hope, like he's playing on his curbside for tips.

He sounds like me, like a guy in the background at O'-Malley's or Radina's, singing songs that sound like his dreams.

To some, he'll just sound like any other dude. To others, this is why they'll revere him.

If his rocket never comes, at least he got the chance to chase it.

Courtesy art

GRAVELY DISAPPOINTING

Latest Jet Li, DMX action flick fails to capture audience

By Wendy Gorman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Frankly, I hoped for more out of this one.

"Cradle 2 the Grave" has the star appeal vital to an entertaining, engaging action film. Unfortunately, it never manages to pull audience members to the edge of their seats in anticipation before releasing them with feelings of, "Wow. That was cool."

DMX (Romeo Must Die, Exit Wounds) and Jet Li (Romeo Must Die) star in the movie, which follows a professional robber as he fights to save his daughter in the scuffle for a batch of mysterious black stones.

Tony Falt (DMX) and his band of thieves get things started with a bang when they execute a high-tech heist on a diamond exchange, narrowly escaping capture with a bag of black diamonds. As soon as the crew has the stones, people start hunting them down.

Su (Jet Li), a Taiwanese government agent, shows up right after the stones are stolen, asserting the stones belong to Taiwan. However, Tony entrusted them to his friend Archie (Tom Arnold, TV's "The Best Damn Sports Show Period") in hopes of learning more about them, and a couple of thugs whisked them away from Archie.

Su and Tony pair up in a desperate search for the stones and Tony's daughter. Tony's gang tags along for the ride as he and Su fight their way through bad guys.

"CRADLE 2 THE GRAVE"

★★★★☆

Movie review by Wendy Gorman

Eventually, it is revealed the stones are actually a form of synthetic plutonium that can be converted into deadly weapons of mass destruction.

Yeah. Something like that. Whatever.

"Cradle 2 the Grave" just doesn't have much going for it. There are no plot twists, no really likable characters, no spectacular action sequences. At least the soundtrack is bound to be pretty hot.

Jet Li is good-looking and obviously a spectacular martial artist. It's tough to evaluate his acting skills since he is cast into the silent fighter role and given almost no personality. And though DMX's acting talent is sketchy, he's so cool it's easy to forgive him. Admittedly, sometimes his lines are delivered in exactly the way he barks out his rap lyrics.

The plot is starkly underdeveloped. Tony and Su arrive at every scene after the bad guy has been there first. No brain work is involved in their hunt for Ling and his gang.

Toward the end of the movie, Anthony Anderson and Arnold fight as a pair for a few minutes. The two are good comedians and might have made the movie memorable if given a little more interaction. Too bad this duo wasn't introduced before the final five minutes.

Jet Li, DMX and Anderson have collaborated on an action movie before in "Romeo Must Die." While good for a few kicks, that film was far from spectacular.

"Cradle 2 the Grave" doesn't even reach that level.

Big 12 Tournament just part of Dallas scene

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If everything really is bigger in Texas, then one can wager that visiting its version of Aggieville is worth the trip to Dallas — not to mention the opportunity to cheer on the Wildcats as they vie for the Big 12 Championship next week.

The Dallas Host Committee is in charge of the tournament. It has reserved the blocks of downtown Dallas known as the West End for its Big 12 Victory Fest.

The Victory Fest will begin March 11 and continue through March 15. Festivities include pep rallies before games followed by outdoor game-viewing parties in the midst of several restaurants and bars. The food selections range from Tex-Mex, ribs, barbecue, seafood and steaks.

Dallas native Jay Huska, freshman in business, said he recommends the restaurant Dick's Last Resort.

"They're mean to you on purpose," Huska said. "You'll ask for water with lemon, and they'll be real nice to you about it but then bring you a cup with a whole lemon in it. It's just a fun place."

Tara Green, director of sports marketing with the Dallas Convention and Visitor's Bureau, said K-State students are sure to have a good time in Dallas.

"It's a great spring break experience," Green said. "The weather is supposed to be nice, and you'll be in the heart of the basketball action."

Green encouraged students to visit www.dal-lashostsports.org, to find discounted hotel prices for the Big 12 Tournament. The Web site also provides information about the Victory Fest, directions and other advice for visitors.

To travel between the Victory Fest, the tournaments and hotel rooms, the new Dallas Area Rapid Transit system (DART) is available to avoid the hassle of parking and meters.

For $2.50 a day, there is unlimited service with a DART day pass. Station locations and route information are available at www.dart.org.

After taking either of the two routes that go through West End, K-Staters are within walking distance to the Reunion Arena.

Green said Dallas has plenty of restaurants and shopping centers for every taste.

"We have more restaurrants per capita than New York," Green said. "And we consider shopping our sixth professional sport."

Among the more popular shopping sites are North Park, Neiman Marcus and the Dallas Galleria, 200 stores stacked together with an indoor ice skating rink on the ground floor.

For shopping somewhere other than a mall, the Deep Ellum district near Main and Elm Street is known for its collection of shops, galleries, theaters, clubs and restaurants set in the old warehouse district.

The Deep Ellum district is also known for its club-hopping potential, said Texas native Daniel Siebert, freshman in business.

"It's Aggieville times 10," Siebert said. "It's full of clubs and bars. Everyone goes there on the weekends."

CALENDAR

■ "The Merry Wives of Windsor" is being performed at 8 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

■ The Pembertons will perform at 8 tonight at Harry Basement (1419 Harry Road).

■ Priapus and Wasted will perform at 7 tonight at The Pavilion in City Park.

■ Dave Oakleaf will perform tonight at Dave's Hideaway.

MOVIES

"Bringing Down the House"

1:20, 4:15, 7:20, 9:55

Peter Sanderson (Steve Martin) is a divorced, straight-laced, uptight attorney who is smitten with a brainy, bombshell barrister he's been chatting with online. However, when she comes to his house, Charlene (Queen Latifah) turns out to be a prison escapee who's proclaiming her innocence and wants Peter to help clear her name. movies.yahoo.com/house

"Chicago"

1, 4, 7, 9:45

Velma Kelly, a vaudevillian, tells the story of chorus girl Roxie Hart's murder of a night-club regular.

www.chicagothemusical.com

"Cradle 2 The Grave"

1:30, 4:15, 7:30, 10

Leader of a crew of highly skilled urban thieves forges unlikely alliance with a Taiwanese intelligence officer.

cradle2thegrave.warnerbros.com

"Daredevil"

2, 4:30, 7:10, 9:40

Matt Murdock (Ben Affleck) is a masked vigilante stalking the dark streets for justice.

www.daredevilmovie.com

"Dark Blue"

9:50

A Los Angeles Police Department officer is known for his tough street tactics, fiery temper and a willingness to do whatever is necessary to bring someone to justice.

www.mgm.com/ua/darkblue

"Gods and Generals"

2:15, 7:15

An epic portrayal of a nation divided at the start of the Civil War.

www.godsandgenerals.com

"How To Lose A Guy In 10 Days"

1:10, 4:10, 7, 9:50

A Composure Magazine columnist has to write a firsthand account of the things women do to drive men away.

www.howtoloseaguyymovie.com

"Jungle Book 2"

12:30, 2:35, 5:15, 9:30

The sequel explores the adventures of Mowgli, who finds himself caught between two worlds.

disney.com.disneypictures/junglebook2

"Life of David Gale"

1, 4, 7

David Gale has tried to live by his principles, but in a weird twist of fate, the respected death penalty opponent finds himself on Death Row.

www.thelifeofdavidgale.com

"Old School"

1:15, 3:15, 5:15, 7:45, 9:45

Three men are disenchanted with life and try to recapture their college days.

www.oldschool-themovie.com

"The Recruit"

1:05, 4:30, 7:20, 10

An inside look on how CIA trainees are recruited and prepared for the spy game.

touchstonepictures.com/recruit/

"Shanghai Knights"

1:15, 4:05, 7:10, 9:55

After taming the wild west in "Shanghai Noon," Jackie Chan and Owen Wilson travel to London to settle a score.

bventertainment.com/movies/shanghai-knights

"Tears of the Sun"

1, 4, 7, 9:55

Lt. Waters travels to war-torn central Africa to rescue Dr. Lena Kendricks (Monica Bellucci), a U.S. citizen who runs a mission in the countryside.

www.sonypictures.com/movies/tearsoft-hesun

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

you guessed it!
it's time for another
"Useless Thought of the Day!"

tomorrow is Saturday.

damn, that's useless!

A COMFORTING REMAINDER IN MANY A HOME THAT A PERFECT
SEMI-BIONIC RELATIONSHIP CAN EXIST
IN THIS COMPLICATED WORLD

Seniors to play final game

4 players discuss careers as Cats before last game

By Sean Purcell
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

One has been at K-State for four years.

Another, three years.

Then there are two that have been Wildcats for just two years, but all will end their college careers on Saturday at Bramlage Coliseum when K-State welcomes Iowa State.

For Matt Siebrandt, Quentin Buchanan, Pervis Pasco and Gilson Defesus, it has been a difficult road to say the least. There will be no winning seasons to speak of, no finishes higher than seventh in the Big 12 and little respect.

But with the low points have come many fond memories, the four said. Those are the things they will remember when the basketball days are over.

The four seniors took a moment to sit down with the Collegian to discuss the past, present and future of K-State's program. They also discussed their careers as Wildcats and what they feel they have accomplished in their time here in Manhattan.

Collegian: Matt, we're going to start with you. What do you remember most about all of this?

Siebrandt: What do you mean? Basketball or anything?

Collegian: Anything, but just one.

Siebrandt: I don't know if I can. Every day is comedy around here.

Collegian: What about a game?

Buchanan: For me, it would be Iowa — being against a ranked team.

Siebrandt: Yeah. Any of those wins against ranked teams.

Collegian: Pervis, what do you think you've improved on the most in your time here? You started playing basketball late in your life. What is the biggest improvement you've seen in yourself while you've been here?

Pasco: What I've improved on most is my post play.

Collegian: Specifically what?

Pasco: Offense and defense, but mostly on the defensive end. I'm proud of that.

Collegian: You're climbing the charts on the all-time block list, is that your proudest accomplishment here at K-State?

Pasco: To get into the top five on the blocks list is a great accomplishment for me. It's definitely something I am proud of.

(For a moment, the conversation is interrupted by guard Jarrett Hart. Buchanan slams the door shut on the junior, allowing the interview to continue.)

Collegian: Quentin, you being a guy that was around for the transition between (Tom) Asbury and Coach (Jim) Wooldridge, do you believe this program has improved, and can it continue to improve in the next couple of years?

Buchanan: Absolutely. Coach is bringing in the right people to turn this thing around. I'm convinced he's going to get it turned around.

Collegian: What's the biggest difference you see from when Coach Asbury was here until now?

Buchanan: Players that are here and that are coming in want to play basketball. We all have a good time and just go out and play. Everyone wants to be here.

Collegian: (to Defesus) People recognize you as a guy that can shoot, but I know you want to be remembered for your defense. What's more important for fans to remember?

Defesus: It doesn't matter to me. I want to be remembered for doing what the team needs.

Collegian: Well, I want to talk personal achievements. What is yours?

Defesus: I've been able to understand the game more by being here.

Collegian: What do you mean by understand the game more?

Defesus: I'm not sure. Studying the game more I guess.

Buchanan: I think he's talking about defense and hustling and learning what goes on out there — you know, stuff that doesn't show up on the stat sheet.

Collegian: Is that maybe something he (Gilson) does well that people don't notice?

Buchanan: If you don't know basketball, if you don't really watch the game, you don't see the little things that go on. It's those things he does well.

Collegian: Matt, are you playing the best ball of your career right now? You've been consistent throughout the conference season — scoring in double figures — is this you at your best right now?

Siebrandt: I hope so. Your last games — it's the best time to play your best. I feel like I am.

Buchanan: (to Siebrandt) What about junior high?

(all laugh)

Siebrandt: I don't know. Senior year of high school was pretty good. No, I really think I am playing well.

Collegian: Why is that?

Siebrandt: Confidence. Experience. I feel like I can score every time I get it in the post. It's probably a combination of a lot of things.

Collegian: How important is a win on Saturday? A win is important every time, I know, but how much more important is it so that there's a better light cast on the season?

Siebrandt: I know I don't want my last game at Bramlage to be a loss. Obviously we want a win with all the hard work we've put on this court.

It's something this team needs, and I know all four of us want to win really bad. Hopefully, it will be an exciting atmosphere.

Collegian: (to Pervis) You look like you want to say something.

Pasco: Nah, I'm good. (all laugh)

Saturday's contest against Iowa State marks the final home game for Wildcat seniors (clockwise from top left) Pervis Pasco, Matt Siebrandt, Gilson Defesus and Quentin Buchanan.

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M, W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 3p-6p
T & Th 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 2p-5p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $925

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The first greek letter organization at K-State observes its 90th anniversary this weekend

Air Force General Richard B. Myers speaks to the annual ΣΑΕ Leadership School in Evanston, IL.

General Myers is a 1965 graduate of K-State. He was initiated into the Kansas Beta chapter of ΣΑΕ in 1961.

CLASSIFIEDS

Friday, March 7, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

Page 11

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent
Apt.
Unfurnished

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio one, two, three, and four-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722

AVAILABLE AUGUST= Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 1230 Clafin, across street from Ford Hall. 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Starting $550. Also, nice one-bedroom apartment. Heat, water, trash two-thirds paid. Laundry. $360/ month. Nice large two-bedroom apartment, heat, water, trash, three-fourths paid, laundry. $480. (785)539-2482.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Clafin.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

TWO, THREE, four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

120
For Rent
Houses

724 KEARNEY, four-bedroom, two bath, central air, washer/ dryer. June 1. No pets/ smoking $1200. (785)776-9719.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Four-bedroom house at 824 Laramie. Central air, washer/ dryer, two baths, yard. $265 per person. Utilities, year's lease and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE. Two bath, two kitchens. Living room, Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets. June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE 12 month lease starting June 1. Carpeted, air-conditioning, close to campus, and no pets. $800/ month. Call (785)776-0301.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease. $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air. 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord, no pets. August lease. (785)539-0549.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. $1050/ month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment, could rent as five-bedroom house.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house. $350/ month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)48-7253.

110
For Rent
Apt.
Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, four blocks from campus, off-street parking. (785)776-3114.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-WEST OF KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June/ August leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, central air, two bathrooms with showers. (785)776-3114.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-MENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition. http://www.rentstate.com (785)776-4166 or rentstate@lycos.com

TWO-BEDROOM APART-MENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1. $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

Now Leasing
1. LEASED
2. BR From $590
3. BR From $753
4. BR From $904

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house. $350/ month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)48-7253.

Kimball & College Aves.
Across from KSU stadium
Please call for an appointment
537-7007

115
Rooms
Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered. $300-$325/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948

120
For Rent
Houses

2505 Winnie. Newly remodeled brick ranch, spacious three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets. Quiet neighborhood, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day. (785)776-7706, evenings.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1. Five-bedroom, two baths, 1415 LeGore Lane, year lease. $280 per bedroom, washer/ dryer hook-up, central air. (785)776-7202

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bathroom. Central air. Laundry hook-ups, no pets. August lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)556-5668.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, three blocks to campus. Starting June 1. 926 Vattier. $1050/ month. Call (785)841-2503.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1018 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry. Available June 1. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE OR Two-bedroom apartments. One-half block to KSU. Some with washer/ dryer. No pets. June occupancy. $380 to $500. (785)556-6899.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

120
For Rent
Houses

ONE-BEDROOM APART-MENT, four blocks from campus, off-street parking. (785)776-3114.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH-WEST OF KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June/ August leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, central air, two bathrooms with showers. (785)776-3114.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-MENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition. http://www.rentstate.com (785)776-4166 or rentstate@lycos.com

TWO-BEDROOM APART-MENTS. Washer/ dryer provided. Close to campus. Available June 1. $510-$530. (785)539-0939.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

Now Leasing
1. LEASED
2. BR From $590
3. BR From $753
4. BR From $904

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASES wanted. Nice four-bedroom house. $350/ month. Bills included. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No smoking/ pets. Block from campus. Flexible start date. Call Laura (913)244-6051, Casey (316)48-7253.

Kimball & College Aves.
Across from KSU stadium
Please call for an appointment
537-7007

115
Rooms
Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered. $300-$325/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948

120
For Rent
Houses

2505 Winnie. Newly remodeled brick ranch, spacious three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets. Quiet neighborhood, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day. (785)776-7706, evenings.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1. Five-bedroom, two baths, 1415 LeGore Lane, year lease. $280 per bedroom, washer/ dryer hook-up, central air. (785)776-7202

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bathroom. Central air. Laundry hook-ups, no pets. August lease. $250 per bedroom. (785)556-5668.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, three blocks to campus. Starting June 1. 926 Vattier. $1050/ month. Call (785)841-2503.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1018 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air, dishwasher, laundry. Available June 1. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE OR Two-bedroom apartments. One-half block to KSU. Some with washer/ dryer. No pets. June occupancy. $380 to $500. (785)556-6899.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463

SUMMER SUBLEASE. 520 N. 11th. Two-bedroom, full kitchen, living room, extra storage, walking distance to campus and Aggieville. $280. (785)341-3449.

200 service directory

300 employment/
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

LOCAL LANDSCAPE company hiring full-time and part-time positions for landscape maintenance/ installer, irrigation installer. Experience preferred. (785)776-1930.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

MASTER LANDSCAPE. A growing local landscape firm has a greenhouse/ grower position open. This requires a detail-oriented, motivated, full-time individual. Other position also available. Competitive compensation. Call (785)539-2842.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day! (888)820-0164 extension 1016.

NEED HARD working, outgoing clerk stockers. Twenty- thirty hours per week. Evenings and weekends now through Christmas. Retail and/ or horticultural experience preferred. Pick up application at Eastside or Westside Market.

NEED PART-TIME babysitter for before and after school in my home until the end of school year. Call Almee (785)784-2526.

OFFICE ASSISTANT. Part-time full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. 3.0 GPA. Ability to self-direct and multi-task necessary. Outgoing personality and excellent people skills desired. Training will be provided with possible advancement opportunities. Team-oriented and fun at atmosphere. Business or marketing/ sales experience preferred. Send resume to: Westchester Park, 2100 Westchester Drive, Manhattan, KS 66503. No phone calls please.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply online: www.campcedar.com

RISE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the western riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp southwest of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, meals, travel allowance, and end of season bonus. Late May- mid-August. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or e-mail rhondam@gsmhc.org

SWIMMING POOL MAN-AGER. The City of Wamego is seeking applicants to manage the Wamego Municipal Pool from late May through Labor Day, approximately 40 hours/ week. Apply at the Wamego City Office, 430 Lincoln. Deadline for submitting applications is March 31st. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CAMP TAKAJI for Boys, Naples, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajicamp.com

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000-$5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opin-ion! Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com

310
Help Wanted

HELP WANTED: earn up to $500 per week assembling products at home. No experience. INFO 1-985-646-1700 DEPT. KS-6438.

KSU EXPERIENCED photography student wanted to photograph a wedding. Call (785)776-4643.

LAWN TECHNICIAN: part-time/ full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. Responsibilities include moving, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello Suite 101, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

LIVE AND WORK IN CO-LORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains southwest of Denver. General counselors and program specialists (hiking, outdoor skills, crafts, nature, sports, challenge course, dance and drama). Early June- mid-August. MAKE A DIFFERENCE. Competitive salary, room, meals, health insurance, travel allowance and end of season bonus. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or e-mail rhondam@gsmhc.org

LOCAL LANDSCAPE company hiring full-time and part-time positions for landscape maintenance/ installer, irrigation installer. Experience preferred. (785)776-1930.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

MASTER LANDSCAPE. A growing local landscape firm has a greenhouse/ grower position open. This requires a detail-oriented, motivated, full-time individual. Other position also available. Competitive compensation. Call (785)539-2842.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day! (888)820-0164 extension 1016.

NEED HARD working, outgoing clerk stockers. Twenty- thirty hours per week. Evenings and weekends now through Christmas. Retail and/ or horticultural experience preferred. Pick up application at Eastside or Westside Market.

NEED PART-TIME babysitter for before and after school in my home until the end of school year. Call Almee (785)784-2526.

OFFICE ASSISTANT. Part-time full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. 3.0 GPA. Ability to self-direct and multi-task necessary. Outgoing personality and excellent people skills desired. Training will be provided with possible advancement opportunities. Team-oriented and fun at atmosphere. Business or marketing/ sales experience preferred. Send resume to: Westchester Park, 2100 Westchester Drive, Manhattan, KS 66503. No phone calls please.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply online: www.campcedar.com

RISE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the western riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp southwest of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, meals, travel allowance, and end of season bonus. Late May- mid-August. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or e-mail rhondam@gsmhc.org

SWIMMING POOL MAN-AGER. The City of Wamego is seeking applicants to manage the Wamego Municipal Pool from late May through Labor Day, approximately 40 hours/ week. Apply at the Wamego City Office, 430 Lincoln. Deadline for submitting applications is March 31st. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CAMP TAKAJI for Boys, Naples, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajicamp.com

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000-$5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.</

BUSH | President hopes Iraq will disarm peacefully

Continued from Page 1

president is not inclined to set an eleventh-hour deadline for Iraq's disarmament, fearing Saddam would use the grace period to further divide U.S. allies. They did not rule out the United States backing a British proposal that would give the Iraqi leader a few more days to disarm. But aides acknowledged that the British proposal was unlikely to be a galvanizing force.

Bush has privately expressed frustration with Saddam's ability to turn France and other allies against the resolution just a few months after a similar measure passed 15-0 in the Security Council, aides said.

Bush answered questions for about 40 minutes after making his case against Saddam in a 10-minute opening statement in the East Room.

Asked how his faith was guiding him through these deliberations, Bush said: "I pray daily. I pray for guidance and wisdom and strength." He added that if he decides to send troops into war, "I would pray for their safety and I would pray for the safety of innocent Iraqi lives as well."

Bush, growing teary-eyed, said it was a "humbling experience" to know that people he's never met "have lifted me and my family up in prayer. It's been a comforting feeling to know that."

Turning to another foreign policy hot spot, Bush said the best way to deal with rising tensions with North Korea is to involve other nations in the region, such as China, South Korea, Japan and Russia.

"I think the best way to deal with this is in multilateral fashion by convincing those nations that they must stand up to their responsibilities, along with the United States to convince Kim Jong Il that development of a nuclear arsenal is not in his nation's interests," Bush said.

Bush's news conference was part of an intensifying campaign to prepare Americans for the possibility of a war that could be just days away. Military leaders say U.S. forces are now ready to strike Iraq.

More than 230,000 troops are now arrayed around Iraq and more are on the way, awaiting a final go-ahead from the president.

"If we have to use force, I think a lot of nations will be with us," Bush said. Speaking particularly about France and Germany, Bush said, "We have a disagreement over how best to deal with Saddam Hussein. I understand that. Having said that, they're still our friends."

The president said the United States will call for a Security Council vote even if it appears certain that the U.S.-backed resolution will be defeated.

Bush left no doubt that the United States would remove Saddam from power if it comes to war. "We will disarm Iraq. And if we go to war, there will be a regime change and replacing this cancer inside of Iraq will be a government that represents the rights of all the people."

The president said he still hopes that Saddam disarms or that he leaves Iraq on his own.

STONE HOUSE | Students educate children

Continued from Page 1

children every day as part of their curricula at Stone House. They coordinate, schedule and participate in activities with the children.

"We learn how to plan experiences in play that will help the kids learn. Really, they are not just playing — they are learning a lot," said Heidi Goff, senior in early childhood education.

Each week the class has a theme, and the children learn more about a specific subject such as sign language. The students incorporate this theme in activities throughout the week.

"Student teaching is our main focus. We have to turn in lesson plans and are graded and evaluated every day based on our interaction with the kids and our planning and organization," Goff said.

Stone House also gives students an early chance to experience child care and make sure they want to pursue it as a profession, Lou West, program director, said.

"We pride ourselves on giving hands-on experience with the children," West said. "Many colleges don't provide students with as much training. We are rather unique at K-State."

Along with student education, Stone House also is involved in research projects. There are several studies underway that deal with language, social, cognitive and motor development, said Mary DeLuccie, associate professor of early childhood education and director of the early childhood program.

Examples of such studies include speech pathology and literacy, the impact of costumes on development and diversity's role in affecting development.

The diversity of children at Stone House gives researchers a good sample of children, DeLuccie said. The children's parents give permission them to be part of these studies.

"We see about 90 to 100 percent participation," she said. "Parents enjoy the research because they can get feedback on their children."

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

There are almost 100 children and families directly affected by Hoeflin Stone House's services. Eight classrooms make up the center that cares for infants through 5-year-old children.

Stone House also is working to infuse the facility with technology, DeLuccie said. Plans are underway for a secure Webcast of activities at the center. When complete, parents will be able to watch their children throughout the day via the Internet.

There are nearly 100 children and families directly affected by Stone House, she said.

Eight classrooms make up the center that cares for infants through five-year-olds. Families who are eligible for Head Start may apply for the infant-toddler class and all other class enrollments are based on age and sex of the child and the date of the application.

Children remain the main focus at Stone House despite other activities, DeLuccie said.

The center hopes to give children a strong foundation from which to continue, West said. She said children learn what is right and wrong.

Kevin said he learns how to be a good person.

"We have to clean up after ourselves where we were playing at," he said. "They teach us to be good."

WEST NILE | Officials take precautions for virus

Continued from Page 1

"Two people can get exposed at the same time by the same virus and one person can get very sick, while the other may not even feel it," he said.

Therefore, Kapil said, it is important to take precautions. He said the only way to avoid the virus is to avoid mosquitoes by using insect repellent, eliminating standing water and vaccinating susceptible animals.

Sunset Zoological Park Director Scott Shoemaker said an emu at the zoo died from West Nile virus last year.

"It was the only bird that we had show any symptoms and test positive," he said. "Our collection has been exposed to it, now it will hopefully move on."

Shoemaker said that as the virus passes through a region, birds either build up resistance or get the disease and die. He said when the virus hit New York, the zoos in the region lost some birds in the first year, but have not lost a bird since.

"Hopefully, we've lost all the birds we're going to lose to it and the collection will survive in future instances," he said. "We may see a flare up in the spring, though."

Although no vaccinations are available for birds, Shoemaker said other zoos, pharmacies and companies like Disney are teaming up with the Centers for Disease Control to develop a vaccine. Until then, however, the zoo will take a preventive stance.

"We're trying to keep mosquitoes out of the area," he said. "We're making sure we don't have stagnant water, and we're draining and cleaning our water and ponds on a regular basis to reduce mosquito larvae."

Manhattan is also taking precautions against mosquito populations.

J. David Mattox, forestry supervisor for the city, said they will use larvicide to protect against West Nile mosquitoes.

"We will be treating areas of standing water on city property with mosquito larvicide," he said. "It's one of the most efficient things you can do to control mosquitoes."

Mattox said the city will put larvicide pellets and briquettes in still water areas throughout the city instead of spraying. He said the pellets will specifically target mosquito larvae without hurting other beneficial insects.

"It gets the mosquitoes in the water where they are breeding," he said. "We'll start as soon as it gets reliably warm, probably somewhere around mid-May, and keep it going from there."

a new Lease on LiFe...

UNIVERSITY COMMONS
APARTMENTS

Looking for an excuse to get into a new place? Ready for your new lease on life? We've got the perfect place for you, it's UNIVERSITY COMMONS. And what a place it is — ideally located, totally affordable, awesome apartments decked out with...

- 2 & 4 Bedroom Apartment Homes • Individual Leases
- Decked-out Kitchens • Fully Furnished
- Near KSU Stadium • Computer Lab with Copier & Fax
- Washers and Dryers in unit
- Tennis, Basketball & Volleyball Courts • Recreation Room
- Swimming Pool • Permit Parking • Exercise Room
- Monitored Alarm Systems • Roommate matching
- Balconies
- Utility Package (one check can cover it all) the place for people like you...

2215 COLLEGE AVENUE / 785-539-0500
www.universitycommons.com

hastings
Your Entertainment Superstore

MOST WANTED
WE'LL PAY TOP $$$
for your used Video Games, DVDs, & CDs

$10 CASH Reward for these Used DVDs:
My Big Fat Greek Wedding, The Ring, Sweet Home Alabama & More!

Buy these great previously owned Movies & CDs at great prices!

Video

$9.99 Austin Powers in Goldmember (VHS)
Lilo & Stitch (VHS)
Men in Black 2 (VHS)
Kissing Jessica Stein (DVD)
Hannibal (DVD)
Lord of the Rings Fellowship (DVD)

$7.99 We Were Soldiers (VHS)
Kate & Leopold (VHS)
Original Sin (DVD)
Moulin Rouge (DVD)

$5.99 Ali (VHS)
Black Hawk Down (VHS)
Black Knight (VHS)
Thirteen Ghosts (DVD)

Music

$5.99 Backstreet Boys - Millennium
Nsync - Nsync
Matchbox Twenty - Yourself or Someone Like You

$3.99 Britney Spears - Baby One More Time
Shaggy - Hot Shot

$1.99 Celine Dion - Let's Talk About Love
Shania Twain - Come On Over
Space Jam - Soundtrack
Wallflowers - Bringing Down the Horse

$1.99 Backstreet Boys - Backstreet Boys
Nsync - Nsync
Men in Black - Soundtrack
Chubbies - Chubbies

Buyback prices good through 3/24/03.

All future buyback prices on these titles will be dependent on market conditions. Availability varies by store.

We'll pay $20 CASH for these used games:

Xenosaga
&
Yu-Gi-Oh Duelists of the Roses

In Manhattan: 419 East Poyntz

Monday, March 10, 2003

Court date set for former liquor store owner

Dean faces arraignment on cocaine distribution, aggravated battery

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A former Manhattan liquor store owner will face a formal arraignment next month on one count of distribution of cocaine and one count of aggravated battery.

Kent Dean, 38, appeared in the Pottawatomie County Courthouse Friday for a preliminary hearing on the charges.

District Magistrate Steven Roth ruled that the state presented sufficient circumstantial evidence in the case for it to move forward.

The charges stem from an April 24, 2002 event at the Little Grill, 6625 Dyer Road, during which time the prosecution alleges Dean contaminated a woman's drink with cocaine.

The prosecution first called the alleged victim, Jessica Sims, to testify. She testified that she was working at the Little Grill on the mentioned date. She said Dean came into the establishment that afternoon and after some small talk, he asked if he could buy her a beer and play a game of pool with her, Sims testified.

"I noticed that he was under the influence. He was kind of agitated, and he was whiffing and dropping the cue," Sims testified.

She testified that part way through the game she left the gameroom to talk to her boss. Sims said she left her can of Miller Light in the room with Dean. She said Dean was making her uncomfortable, so she asked her boss to come in and get her in five minutes.

"I came back and lifted my beer to my lips to take a drink," she said. "Immediately my head, lips and mouth were numb, my head was racing, and my stomach was hurting."

She said she went to the main dining and bar area immediately because she was afraid she had been drugged.

Sims testified that no one else entered the gameroom while she was gone, and Dean was the only person who could have put anything in her drink.

She handed the can to several of the other employees to smell or taste. She testified that she couldn't recall whether they tasted it or commented on an abnormal smell.

She called her boyfriend from the bar and then left, with the can of beer. Sims testified that she called the Riley County Police who directed her to contact the Pottawatomie County Sheriff, because they have jurisdiction of the area in which the incident occurred.

Sims testified that she and her boyfriend drove and met Deputy Marvin Force near the Little Grill.

After filing a report, Sims went to Mercy County Health Center. She testified that the doctor told her she had cocaine in her system.

During cross examination

See DEAN Page 10

Police arrest suspect in robbery, arson crime

Alleged victim arrested, charged as conspirator of Mister Money break-in

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Riley County Police Department is no longer looking for suspects in a alleged kidnapping and robbery last week. The alleged victim has been arrested in connection with the crimes.

At 11:30 p.m. on March 3, Shiloh Howard, reported he was abducted from his apartment at 207 N. 14th Street.

He then reported he was taken to Mister Money Pawn Shop, 501 Fort Riley Boulevard, where he is an employee. Howard said when he couldn't open a safe, the three black suspects shot him in the arm and set the business on fire.

The victim then made contact with a Riley County Police officer on routine patrol in the area, according to a previous press release.

Manhattan Fire Department responded to the scene and extinguished the fire. The victim was treated for the gunshot wound at Mercy Hospital on College and was released.

The Riley County Police Department concluded that there are no additional suspects as alleged, a press release said.

At 4 p.m. Friday, Howard was arrested and charged with arson, burglary and falsely reporting a crime. Bond was set at $50,000.

No BULL

Cattlemen's Day features bull, heifer auction; department to use funds

By JJ Duncan
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wranglers and cowboy hats filled Weber Arena on Friday for the annual Cattlemen's Day and Special "K" Edition performance bull and elite heifer sale.

Craig Kennedy, freshman in animal sciences and industry, helped move the cattle between pens and into the sales arena. Kennedy said he enjoys working with the animals, but he still has to be careful with the bulls.

"When you work with bulls, they can turn on you or kick you, so you have to be careful," he said.

The sale resulted in 79 sold lots and $N3,300 that will be used in the animal sciences

See CATTLEMEN Page 10

Photos by Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN
 Above: Tom Patterson, senior in animal sciences, jumps over the gate after gathering the bulls for the auction. Patterson released them one at a time to organize them in the arena.

Top: Craig Kennedy, freshman in animal sciences, helps bring in bulls for the annual Cattlemen's Day and Special "K" Edition performance bull and elite heifer sale in Weber Arena Friday afternoon.

Demonstrations increase as military action nears

By Adam Lee
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Dozens of activists opposing the proposed military action against Iraq gathered again Saturday at the corner of 3rd Street and Bluemont Avenue.

The protest was the latest of a series of demonstrations organized by the Coalition for Peace in the Middle East, Manhattan Alliance for Peace and Justice and the KSU Campus Greens.

Protests have been held at 3rd and Bluemont every Saturday from noon to 1:45 p.m. since January 18. Demonstrations are also held on Tuesdays from 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at 17th and Anderson.

If a war does occur, the groups have planned a gathering in City Park at 4:30 p.m. on the day that strikes begin.

Lyman Baker, a member of the Manhattan Alliance for

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN
 Zach Mills, left, senior in wildlife biology, and Nicholas Small, senior in landscape design, cheer on a car as it honks for their "American Pride Party" in support of war. The students were showing their support for Bush at Fifth Street and Bluemont Avenue on Saturday.

Peace and Justice, said the only aspect of the protests that will be changed by military action is the wording on the signs.

Talat Rahman, organizer for the Coalition for Peace in the Middle East, said the heightened possibility of war has increased the level of protest involvement and has attracted new people. If and when the United States does go to war, Rahman said she expects the protests to intensify even more.

"We've been talking about different ways to increase public awareness of the lack of reasons for war," Rahman said. "We're hoping to organize some teach-ins and discussion groups. We've considered acts of civil disobedience, but we're not sure how prudent that would be."

Baker said the protests have been successful at getting people to consider the options. He said reactions have been mixed, but were mostly supportive.

"We've had a lot of people honking for peace. Some people shout stuff or flip you the finger, but we just flip them back two," said Baker, making the peace sign with his fingers.

Down the street at 500

Bluemont, a group of students gathered not to protest, but to throw what they called an "American Pride Party."

The demonstrators held signs saying "Take out Saddam" and "France spelled backwards is Iraq." The residents said protests of the war, prompted them to display their approval of the Bush administration and disarming Iraq through military action.

"We know that there's other people like us, but nobody's done something like this," Ty Fairchild, senior in geology, said.

Based on the positive responses, Fairchild said that they would continue to show their support of military action against Iraq each Saturday.

He said Spring Break might interfere with their schedule, but after that they will try to make sure that both sides of thought are being represented on Bluemont Avenue.

INSIDE

The Cat in the Hat came to life during KSU Reads Day in the K-State Student Union Friday.

Page 5

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Reservists from Washington County mobilized to aid in war on terrorism. Another 1,600 Army Reserve and National Guard soldiers are mobilizing at Fort Riley, officials announced Friday. The troops will be deployed domestically or overseas to aid in the war on terrorism.

Page 8

Al-Qaeda said to be planning attacks on U.S. forces taking part in war in Iraq. Al-Qaeda operatives are planning to strike at U.S. and allied forces taking part in a war in Iraq, counterterrorism officials said Saturday. Officials believe the terrorists are looking to capitalize on the chaos created by any military conflict.

Rallies for and against war with Iraq draw thousands of people around the nation. District of Columbia police and organizers estimated the crowd in front of the White House at between 4,000 and 10,000 people. In Los Angeles, authorities estimated more than 600 anti-war demonstrators converged on the federal building.

Charismatic Turkish leader Erdogan looks set to become premier. Recep Tayyip Erdogan won a seat in parliament Sunday, a crucial victory that paves the way for him to become prime minister and strengthens his hand toward uniting the government on allowing in U.S. troops for an Iraq war.

North Korea accuses Washington of planning "nuclear attack." North Korea on Sunday accused the United States of plotting an atomic attack against it. North Korea claims the Bush administration is planning pre-emptive strikes on its military bases and nuclear facilities.

Weather

Today 44 | 30

Partly cloudy

Tuesday 58 | 30

Partly cloudy

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
 Manhattan, KS 66502
 Newsroom..... 532-6556
 news@pub.ksu.edu
 Display advertising..... 532-6560
 Classified advertising..... 532-6555
 Delivery problems..... 532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 115

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Alfred E.'s mag
4 Head
of st.
7 'The Thin
Man' pet
11 Settled
down
13 Eggs
14 Fairy-tale preposition
15 Long cut 16 Up to, poetically
17 Castle
material
18 Alfred a signature
20 Problem with 22 Outdo
24 Of three parts 26 Dumb-founded by 32 Bother
33 African republic
34 Trail
36 Evergreen
37 Greek island
39 Photocopies

41 Arien or Rams
43 Congress output
44 Lean and sleazy
46 Family
subdivision
50 Carving alone
53 Lumina
55 Nevada city 56 Eastern potentate
57 Night
flier 58 Take to the lake
59 June honoree
60 Thickens
61 Inc., a overseas

DOWN

1 Amah's night visitors
2 Aida or
Ladd
3 Friebee system
4 Received post
6 Gentleman's gentleman
7 Dr. Evil's foe
8 Hot tub
9 Heavy weight
10 Moreover 12 Second
"Lord of the Rings" movie 19 "... a deer ..."
21 Lingerie
purchase
23 Spacecraft compartment
25 Bell Labs
computer 26 What "the poor dog had"
27 Scrutinized
28 Desire
297-Across'
mistress
30 Antiquing apparatus 31 Cunning
one 36 Solidify
38 Yalie
40 Scott
Joplin's
music
42 Bag
46 Sailing vessel 47 "Hud" actress
Patricia
48 Monad
49 Auctioneer's call 50 Clumpett patron 51 "— Rock"
52 Accomplished
54 Soar

Solution time: 23 mins.

Friday's answer

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-328-9868/99¢ per minute, toll-free/rotary phones. (18+ only) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

VQ W B G Z R I X W H W G O T W C D
T W S T P U F S V H H S V G G
X F P E O D C Z T H V S E Z U W B I
Q Z F O H T B Z P C H ?
Saturday's Cryptquip: BEING AN EARTHQUAKE RESEARCHER, I KNOW QUITE A LOT ABOUT TOPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: H equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11

Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to
CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475
The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

There was an error in Friday's Collegian. The Student Publications privilege fee is an increase of $1.50 a year. The Collegian regrets the error.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 101, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 101, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

NAMES IN THE NEWS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Illustration by Adam Hayes | COLLEGIAN

Springsteen adds 2 dates to stadium show, sets record for Ticketmaster sales

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — It's another record for The Boss.

Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band have added two more dates at Giants Stadium after tickets for the original seven shows in July sold out Saturday.

That marked the first time in Ticketmaster history that a performer sold tickets for seven stadium dates in a single day. The nine-show run at a single stadium is a first for any performer worldwide.

Tickets for the new shows, Aug. 28 and 30, go on sale at 9 a.m. EST Saturday through Ticketmaster. Giants Stadium holds about 60,000.

Former 1st daughter lands job

NEW YORK — Chelsea Clinton will start a six-figure consulting job after she receives a master's degree from Oxford University later this year, Newsweek magazine reports on its Web site.

The daughter of former President Clinton will work in the New York office of London-based McKinsey & Company, newsweek.com reported Friday.

Clinton, 23, accepted the position Friday after she reportedly turned down McKinsey's offer of $100,000 a year to work at its London headquarters, according to the Web site.

Sniper investigator to release book

NORFOLK, Va. — Charles Moose, the public face of the Washington-area sniper investigation, said Saturday he will not delay the release of his book despite lawyers' concerns that it will taint jury pools for the suspects' trials.

Moose, police chief for Montgomery County in Maryland, has a deal with Dutton Books to write about his experience last October leading the three-week search for suspects Lee Boyd Malvo, 18, and John Allen Muhammad, 42.

The book, tentatively titled "Three Weeks in October: The Search for the D.C. Sniper," is set to be published this fall, about the same time Malvo and Muhammad are set to go to trial.

The pair have been linked to 19 shootings, including 13 deaths, in Virginia, Maryland, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and the District of Columbia. Both face the death penalty.

Master P stalker pleads guilty

LOS ANGELES — A Chicago man pleaded guilty to stalking rapper Master P and was sentenced to one year in jail.

In a court appearance Friday, Antwan Kevin Baker, 32, was also ordered to stay at least 100 yards from the rap star for the next decade and placed on three years probation.

Baker did not explain why he stalked the rap singer.

Prosecutors said Baker followed Master P for two years and was arrested in April 2002 after allegedly making threatening telephone calls to the rapper's security guards.

Krauss, Tyler performance to be rescheduled

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Doctors have recommended vocal rest for bluegrass artist Alison Krauss, causing her to postpone next week's taping with Aerosmith singer Steven Tyler for the TV show "Crossroads."

Krauss had been ill with coldlike symptoms and is having a difficult time singing, her manager, Denise Stiff, said Thursday.

Krauss' March 13 taping with Tyler will be rescheduled as soon as possible, Stiff said.

"Crossroads," which airs monthly on the Country Music Television station, pairs country artists with those from other genres. Past shows have featured the Dixie Chicks with James Taylor, Hank Williams Jr. with Kid Rock and Travis Tritt with Ray Charles.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, March 6

- At 4:26 p.m., Sidney Brown, 902 Gardenway, No. 2, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $250.
- At 6:55 p.m., Steven Hurt, 240 Westwood, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $7,000.

Friday, March 7

- At 1:01 a.m., Lonny Dredla, Manhattan, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 1:18 a.m., Brian Piland, 2031 College View, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 2 a.m., Eric Ortmann, 515 Bluemont, was arrested for probation violation and driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $2,250.
- At 2:04 a.m., Matthew Schmidt, 1530 Jarvis, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- There will be an International Agricultural Seminar at 3:30 p.m. today in Waters 137. Chuck Rice will present, "Addressing Global Climate Through Carbon Management of Agricultural Soils."
- Management Information Systems will meet at 7 tonight in Calvin 211.
- The privilege fee SGA committee meeting will be at 7 tonight in the OSAS conference room.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- The Apostolic Campus Ministry will meet at 7 tonight in Union 203.
- InterVarsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 8:30 tonight in the north end of the Union food court.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a Resume Building Workshop at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Holtz Hall.
- There will be an internship panel at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in Union 213.
- Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Contact Lindsey at 770-8103 or lc3339@ksu.edu by Friday to register.
- Intramural entries will be accepted in the Recreational Services office today through Thursday for softball, 3-Wall Handball Doubles, 3-Wall Racquetball Doubles, Horseshoe Doubles, Tennis Doubles, Badminton Doubles, 3-on-3 Basketball, Triples Volleyball and Around the World.

Up next

In Tuesday's Collegian

Opinion | Lenten sacrifices

Lent has arrived, and columnist Paul Restivo gives suggestions to public figures on what he thinks they should give up. Also, Lindsey Praechter addresses body image.

$20 today
Get Paid to Study!

Donate your life-saving
blood plasma and earn cash.

Fees apply to new donors

ZLB Plasma Services

1130 Gardenway
785-776-9177

call or stop by
No appointment needed
www.zbl.com

PIZZA
SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping
pizza with the purchase
of a Large with 2 or
more toppings.

For the fastest delivery,
lunch or late night call 776-5577

Laundro-mutt

Affordable self-service
baths for your dog.
Elevated bath, shampoo,
towel and dryer provided.

Call for details
Bark Avenue Canine Designs
607 N. 11th • 565-0612

HUNAM

Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Lunch Buffet
$4.95 All you can eat!

Dinner Buffet
$6.95 All you
can eat!

Friday Seafood
Buffet
$7.95
Crabs, fish, scallops, ribs, shrimp, etc.

$1.00 on Buffet
Please present coupon
and student I.D.
Valid with any other offer

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

MARCH MADNESS
AT
SALON 1

3104 Anderson
539-3626

Heather

HEATHER

• $20 Pedicures
• $20 Manicures
• $15 Off Women's Foil Highlights
• $10 Men's Haircuts

Please mention ad when scheduling
valid with Heather only
Offer expires 3/31/03

CRIMPERS

March Specials
Aggieville

*$55 Foil Highlight
(*10 for each additional color)
*20 Full Set
*18 Fills
*25 Manicure/Pedicure Combo
*50 Brazilian & Brow Wax
*32 Men's Highlight & Haircut

"Best Deal in the Ville"
717 N. 11th St. • 535-7621
Be Sure to Visit Crimpers Too in the K-131 Union Lower Level

Pet Health ALERT

Have you had your dog tested for heartworms this year?

The Pet Health Center recommends annual testing of all dogs over 6 months of age

The Pet Health Center Heartworm Clinic will be
March 10-14
Call 532-5690 to make an appointment
Dogs must be at least 5 1/2 months old to be tested

The Pet Health Center at Kansas State University
Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital
Quality, compassionate care...for life

NOVARTIS
Novartis Animal Health US, Inc.

Delivers the latest!

OPEN THE LATEST!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

770-3333

Monday
mania

LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY
CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA

stick it to me
Tuesday

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
GOOD IN ANNY CARRY OUT DELIVERY TUESDAY

ROCK N ROLL
wednesday

$6.99 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls / minimum 6
MINIMUM DELIVERY pizza sauce/ranch extra + tax.

DELIVERY
DINE-IN
CARRY OUT

International Grains Program breaks ground for center

By Tristan Hinderliter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's International Grains Program has begun work on its $4 million Executive Conference Center, scheduled to be completed one year after the groundbreaking ceremony last Friday.

The purpose of the conference center will be to offer short courses for foreign business and governmental leaders to learn about buying and processing U.S. grains, said Brendan Donnelly, head of the K-State Grain Science and Industry Department and director of IGP.

The project has been in the works for five years, he said.

Construction of the building will be on the north side of Kimball Avenue, across from KSU Stadium.

The conference center will be paid for with private funds, over half of which will come from the Kansas Wheat Commission and the Kansas Corn Commission, Donnelly said. Donations from individuals and companies in the grains industry will pay for the rest, he said.

"This is a facility that will allow those of us who grow wheat to get to know those who process our wheat," said Ken Palmgren, chairman of the Kansas Wheat Commission. "People have been writing about the use of wheat since hieroglyphics were first etched in stone, and yet there is so much still to learn, so much to share, and this is going to be a great place to learn about our grain and get to know our customers."

Mark Johnson, dean of the College of Agriculture, said an excellent feature of IGP is that buyers from around the world will get to meet Kansas farmers.

"These individuals can meet and greet and get to know people and develop a sense of trust in the customers for our producers here in this state," Johnson said. "This is a wonderful opportunity to help our grain producers promote the international sale of grains."

Construction of the 20,000 square foot facility began Feb. 17.

"Customers for U.S. wheat are from all nationalities, all religions, all ethnic groups, all time zones, climatic zones and hemispheres of the world," Palmgren said. "Wheat is the most consumed food grain in the world. It will be a great privilege and honor to host this diverse group of folks who make breakfasts, lunch and dinner possible for countless millions of people, from wheat we grow and sell."

The Executive Conference Center will be the second of five buildings that will make up the Grain Science and Industry Department Complex. The first is the Bioprocessing and Industrial Value-Added Program building.

After the conference center, there will be a flour mill and a feed mill built, both paid for by private funding.

A picture displaying the development of the Executive Conference Center by K-State's International Grains Program stands along with the shovels used in the groundbreaking ceremony held Friday at Bramlage Coliseum.

Photo by Nicole Donnett [COLLEGIAN]

The fifth and final building will be the main teaching and research facility, Donnelly said.

It will have faculty and staff offices, classrooms, and will also house the baking science program. The entire complex should be completed in eight years, he said.

Statewide tornado drill tests readiness as part of Severe Weather Week

By Adam Lee
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Weather in Kansas can be erratic, but state agencies want people to be aware that it also can be destructive and dangerous.

Gov. Kathleen Sebelius has declared March 10-14 as Severe Weather Awareness Week in Kansas. This week is aimed at increasing awareness about the dangers of severe weather and informing citizens about what to do in the event of severe weather watches and warnings.

Activities for Severe Weather Awareness Week include statewide tornado safety drills on Tuesday.

Outdoor warning sirens, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration weather radio alarms and the Emergency Alert System will be activated Riding the storm out

During severe weather warnings, the National Weather Service recommends individuals to do the following:

- Move to an interior room of a basement or the lowest floor. Closets, bathrooms and small rooms with strong walls are the most secure.
- Protect yourself by wrapping up in coats and heavy blankets.
- If you are in a vehicle or mobile home during a tornado, abandon it immediately and seek shelter in a structure or ditch while covering your head.

at 1:30 p.m. and again at 6:25 p.m. to signal the start of the drills.

Mike Akulow, warning coordination meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Topeka, said the emergency management agencies of every Kansas county will participate in the drills.

When storm systems have the possibility of becoming dangerous, a network of weather and emergency management organizations work together to keep the public informed, he said.

The Storm Prediction Center in Norman, Okla., is responsible for issuing severe weather watches for the entire country.

Watches usually cover a large area, 20-30 counties and last for several hours. During watches, local emergency management agencies send out volunteer weather observers to designated posts, he said.

In Riley County, there are 23 posts where weather observers take position and radio information to the Riley County Emergency Operations Center.

Akulow said warnings are more specific, covering a single county or a portion of county and the decision to upgrade is up to local agencies. They are only issued for a duration of 30 minutes to an hour and indicate that severe weather is imminent.

"It's a time for people to prepare for the severe weather season and think about where safety would be during a storm or tornado," Akulow said.

Akulow said that if an individual is in a vehicle or mobile home — the most dangerous locations in a storm — he or she should abandon it immediately.

In addition, it is important to seek shelter in a substantial structure or lie in a ditch or depression and cover your head, he said.

To be fully prepared, the National Weather Service recommends having a NOAA weather radio with an alarm set to go off when a watch or warning is issued in your county. Akulow said that sirens are meant to serve as outdoor warnings and are often inaudible indoors.

Jason Lantze, assistant director of the Flint Hills chapter of the American Red Cross, said he encourages people to take the time this week to assemble disaster kits with water, non-perishable foods, flashlights and candles.

"We hope when disaster does strike, people will be prepared to sustain themselves until things return to normalcy," Lantze said.

To ensure its ability to respond to severe weather, the Riley County Emergency Management Agency will have a storm spotter training program at 7 p.m. on March 31 at the Denison Street Fire Station.

John Skare, junior in psychology, has been a weather observer for more than 25 years and is active with the Weather Amateur Radio Network in Riley County. He said that weather observation is a great way for people who are interested in storms to learn more about weather and provide an important service to their community.

Skare and other storm spotters will have an informational booth in the K-State Student Union from noon to 3 p.m. every day this week. Skare will show footage of storms that he has chased, explain how tornadoes are formed and the role of weather observers in the storm warning system.

"I've tried to learn everything I can about storm structure, how storms move and how tornadoes act," he said. "Storm chasing is a fascination that I haven't been able to give up. Instead I've incorporated into my regular life."

Wildcat Creek Sports Center

Monday
&
Tuesday

2 Cats + 1 Cart = $22
(9 holes)

* Subject to cart supply.

"GOTTA 'NOTHER BIRDIE!"

A FREQUENT PLAY BONUS

Play 5 Rounds → 1 Small Range Bucket
Play 10 Rounds → 1 9hole Round
or
1 9hole Cart Rental

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M, W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 3p-6p
T & Th 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont
M & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $900

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdj-manhattan.com email: rentals@mdjproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

TO THE POINT Knowledge of weather safety essential for all

Gov. Kathleen Sebelius has declared this week as Severe Weather Awareness Week in Kansas.

State-wide tornado drills will take place Tuesday, but K-State students need more than a drill to practice safety in severe weather.

Students who live in residence halls and apartment complexes need to know where to go in case of a severe weather emergency. Many locations have plans posted, and it is the residents' responsibility to review these safety procedures.

Those students living in homes also need to take safety precautions into consideration during severe weather. Students living in mobile homes should have a plan of evacuation, and homeowners should take time to research and decide a safe place, such as a basement or a room with sturdy walls.

Weather precautions also apply to those traveling. Before taking off for Spring Break, students need to check weather forecasts to make sure there are no hazardous driving conditions.

This week serves as a reminder to students and other local residents. It's important to take the time to learn about dealing with severe weather conditions before they hit.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

ANGEL WILSON

In all of the world and all of history, there has never been a creation like the woman.

She has endured everything and anything imaginable. She has withstood unbearable conditions, gender stereotypes and every form of "ism" there is. She has received poor pay for above-average work, harassment for her wardrobe, and grief for staying at home to raise OUR children.

She has been objectified in media images, unsupported in athletic endeavors and patronized for voicing her opinion. But, despite overuse and the normal wear-and-tear, this model was built to last.

Women have the amazing ability to transform quicker than Optimus Prime, scare away more lame cats than Mum-Ra, and has more super friends than Superman. Oh yeah, she can also make it look effortlessly simple — a lot like fudge cake in an easy-bake oven.

Yes, the woman is a dynamic creature. Sometimes sleek and sophisticated like a giraffe. Other times, as protective and fear-inducing as the largest grizzly bear.

But there are also the occasions where she is as loyal, friendly and (heaven-forbid) obedient as a cocker spaniel, yet can transition at the drop of a dime into the obstinate and ornery nature of a donkey.

And she manages to maintain a zesty flavor like lemon pepper and garlic sprinkled over a grilled chicken breast or cinnamon and nutmeg intertwined with cloves in any sweet potato dish. Hot as jalapenos, invigorating as peppermint, tangy as mustard seed and soothing as chamomile, lavender and vanilla. The woman has flavor to suit all tastes.

Her attitude can be as deep and rich as crimson, peaceful and serene as cerulean, bright and bubbly as sunflower, drab as tan and lively and flashy as fuchsia. She can channel energy to tone these colors down like honeydew, salmon, plum and goldenrod or use colors like chocolate, magenta, indigo, tomato and ebony to kick her 'tude into overdrive.

She's never as flaky or overbearing as an Almond Joy, yet acts smooth on the outside though things are crunchy on the inside like Snickers.

She would love to hear from anyone about how much she is valued. How she is worth more than 100 Grand. That you'd be willing to miss one Payday to keep her satisfied.

Contrary to popular belief, she is not looking for a Sugar Daddy or a man who is going to take her on a Rocky Road. She is interested in a love that will give her Good 'N' Plenty, not drop a Whopper on her when describing the Three Musketeers he has with other women. A love that will prove to be a Lifesaver, not a relationship with one man and his two friends Mike 'N' Ike.

Ultimately, women desire recognition. No, not Norah-Jones-at-the-Grammy-Awards recognition, but some form of acknowledgement.

So here's to all the women of the world. Beautiful, special, caring, nurturing, exquisite, complex, resilient, adventurous, selfless, confident, dynamic, awesome, energetic, charismatic, majestic, fearless, harmonious, talented, worthy and valuable are not nearly enough words to describe what you mean to all of us.

Thank you for all that you are and all that you strive to be. Because of you, this nation can be what it is supposed to be.

Angel is a graduate student in college student personnel. You can e-mail her at angelw@ksu.edu.

Illustration by Ben Dolezal | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF		Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Since when did faculty members and administrators become the only stewards of tax dollars?

Wondering if the Collegian is the K-State newspaper or just the Baghdad Daily.

This year, I gave up Catholicism for Lent.

Should I be disturbed that the terrorist they recently captured has a striking resemblance to porn star Ron Jeremy?

It's always nice to see guys you've made out with in the engagements section of the Collegian.

Bramlage is a tomb. Play in Ahearn.

I didn't see Ross Perot on the ballot.

Oh my god. A $1.50 per semester for SafeRide? What a ripoff. I totally don't want to pay for that 'cause it's so much money, and it totally won't save lives.

Memo to Coach Patterson: Have your team spend more time practicing free throws and less time playing.

One of my girlfriends told me she lost her sex drive. I think I found it.

Cowboys all over the parking lot and dooooo all across the parking lot? What Kansas university am I at?

Screw this. After my lease on my house is up, my roommate and I are headed to KU.

Does anyone else notice how the library stacks computers are used for porn? I think that's really pathetic.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Proposed smoking ban emphasizes nonexistent problem

SGA elections are finally over. Only 82 percent of you missed out on your chance to put in place people who keep money rolling in for "The Pride of Wildcat Land" marching band. We want to keep getting those quality half-time shows like this year's ode to Huey Lewis and the News. Maybe next year we can get a tribute to Hall and Oates. Or at least Bryan Adams. I know I have my fingers crossed.

But there was another reason to vote. We needed to face an important issue to the whole student body: a ban on those evil, fascist smokers to end their tyranny of destruction on our campus.

In a vote to see if K-Staters feel the current policy of prohibiting smoking within 30 feet of all building entrances should be changed, 71.2 percent felt there should be a change in policy. Of those, 42.6 percent voted on this said there should be a campuswide ban. This was interpreted as "conclusive results" in Thursday's Collegian. Student Body President Zac Cook said, "The results speak for themselves."

Well, I don't know about that — 42.6 percent meant that 991 people voted for it. But 589 people voted for just an academic-area ban that would allow smoking in parking lots or outside residence halls. And 516 people said there should be designated smoking areas that were set up for out campus.

That means that of the 2,326 people that voted to change the policy, 1,105 of them only wanted a partial ban. That is 47.5 percent. They disagreed on where the boundaries of the ban should be, but they didn't want a campuswide ban. Math was never my strong suit but, carrying the one, dividing by pi — yeah, that is more than wanted a full campuswide ban.

But you didn't think that smoking was an important issue in these days of budget cuts? Well, you must have missed Cook's stirring letter in Wednesday's eCollegian. He called smoking "an evil man" and said "the burden of proof" for keeping smoking on campus fell on smokers and not the general public. I just wondered when U.N. resolutions started.

The basic argument for kicking smoking off campus is that it is unhealthy to smokers and passersby, hurts our appearance to future students and increases litter.

Now, I don't smoke. I hate the "sitting in ashtray all-night" feeling I get after a night in Aggieville. But evidently, I've been out of it. In my uhm... multiple years at K-State, I've never seen smoking as a problem. I've never seen the "clouds of smoke" that are such a hazard to my health and K-State's appearance.

I don't even notice the smokers on our campus. If I do see a smoker in front of me, I might just walk faster. But I can't remember the last time that happened.

I could see the arguments about trouble for possible future students and parents visiting our campus. But I wasn't aware, though, that smokers picked out any large group with high school letter-jacket-wearing members to go blow smoke on.

Or the fact that moms, when confronted with people smoking on campus, would worry about sending their children off to our hedonistic lifestyle. Because we all know that after kids have seen cigarettes, it's a slippery slope. Instead parents may feel the need to send students somewhere safe, like Manhattan Christian College or KU.

I agree that cigarette butts on the ground disgust me. But a ban on smoking would only worsen that. We'd have to lose the ashtrays because otherwise we'd be encouraging smokers. But when smokers still smoke (which they will), they'd simply use the ground for their butts.

It has been impossible to enforce the 30-foot rule as smokers still hang out by doorways on my way to class. But I've never felt that I'm trapped in a haze of smoke that won't allow me to breathe. So how would we ever enforce a campus-wide policy without giving SGA members full reign with water guns?

Smokers will smoke somewhere. So let's give them somewhere to smoke on campus, like 47.5 percent of those voting wanted. Put in a few designated areas for smokers across campus. Enforcement won't be easy, but it has a greater chance of success than simply kicking them off campus. I think the President and SGA have done a good job in pushing SafeRide lately. They should keep focusing on important issues that are a real problem, instead of a campuswide smoking ban.

And please don't forget about the marching band.

Fletcher is a senior in geography and natural resources & environmental sciences. You can e-mail him at fjacobs@k-state.edu.

David Bonine, senior in history, dressed as the Cat in the Hat, holds a Dr. Seuss book while members of Kansas National Education Association Student Program read to local kids who gathered at the K-State Student Union on Friday morning to celebrate KSU Reads as a part of Read Across America Week.

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

KSU Reads Day encourages children to read

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Keelin Counihan stood before a sea of children, armed only with Dr. Seuss' "Bartholomew and the Oobleck."

Counihan, senior in elementary education, was one of several student volunteers faced with the task of making reading cool for grade-school children.

She was part of KSU Reads Day, a Kansas National Education Association Student Program. Twenty-five student volunteers read to more than 200 children.

"Reading opens the door to everything that children can do in their lives. We hoped that we could spark an interest for children to read," Counihan said.

"It's wonderful for kids to learn to read at an early age and carry it on through school, because they will become better students and well-rounded individuals."

The student program was organized to give local students an opportunity that they may not always get, Counihan said. She said she wished there were a program similar for her when she was growing up.

"I don't remember any programs like this," Counihan said. "We had book fairs and a few readings, but nothing quite like this."

It was a very busy day, but well worth it, Gena Strathman, senior in elementary education, said.

"It's a program to show kids that it's cool to read," Strathman said. "We have different activities such as making 'Cat in the Hat' hats and making Oobleck. We also have gift bags that include a free book."

"This is the first year that we've done it, and it has gone well. We were pretty short-handed and it didn't go as smoothly as we would like, but we need a lot of improvements."

Students from Ogden and Junction City were invited to the program, Strathman said. She said that even though the program tries to teach children reading is fun, parents should be involved with encouraging their kids to read.

"My parents read to me when I was little," Strathman said. "I kept it up through school and it helped. It's important to reach children at a young age."

The Children's Book Shop was on hand to help keep the children interested in reading, employee Angel Hyde said.

She said reading gives people a chance to get away and see individuals they might not normally see.

"Reading always gives you another perspective," Hyde said.

"Dr. Seuss was great because he was a genius. His books are where people start to have fun with reading because of the rhyming and the fun words. Plus, most all of the characters do outlandish things, which most kids like."

The Cat in the Hat, played by David Bonine, senior in history, was on hand to help inspire children to read, but most of all, it was fun to be the Cat in the Hat.

"I had to use a lot of bodily expressions, like using hands and running around on my tippytoes," Bonine said. "Dr. Seuss was really cool. I wish I could go back and find some of the older books my mom read to me and read them."

All of the activities hopefully helped to influence children to read, Counihan said. She said that if the children continue to read, the sky's the limit.

"This program is a great idea," Counihan said.

"If the kids keep reading, they will be able to do better in their lives, and they can find reading fun. They'll be able to enjoy the arts and become better when they grow up."

Students, community bowl in fundraiser

By Amy Link
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Manhattan residents and K-State students came together this weekend to take part in the annual Bowl for Kids' Sake at Zucky Bowl, a fundraiser sponsored by Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Manhattan Inc.

Angie Duling, senior in family life and community service, has been involved with Big Brothers-Big Sisters for one year. Her team was able to raise $1,200 for the event.

Duling said she became involved in the program for a chance to make a real commitment.

"I wanted to do something memorable," she said. "Something that would really need me to devote time too."

Ken Scroggs, executive director, said that because of the way the economy is right now, generating funds has been very difficult.

"Since the economy is down, people are being a lot more careful about where they spend their money," he said.

In addition, Scroggs said Big Brothers-Big Sisters only found 60 teams to participate in their annual fund-raiser this year, down from 76 teams in 2002.

Scroggs said although there were less people participating in this year's event, he was optimistic that the teams

K-State fraternities and sororities will be hosting a second Bowl for Kids Sake April 3 at Zucky Bowl. Those interested in participating can contact the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Manhattan for more information.

would bring in more money.

Liz Kinzel, senior in elementary education, said she sought the help of her roommates in order to form a five member team to help fund-raise for the non-profit organization.

Sarah Dansro, senior in elementary education, helped her friend out by sending pictures of Kinzel's little sister to family members.

"I had family from Florida and Georgia who all wanted to give money," Dansro said. "The pictures really helped put a face on what the organization does."

Kinzel said she has found the program to be memorable and knows that the program needs more money in order to give participants a chance to do more.

As a result of low funds, Kinzel said she and her little sister have taken part in less expensive activities.

"My little sister really likes to cook, so we do that. And sometimes we would build forts," she said. "Many times though she just really wants someone to hang out with her and give her attention."

CONGRATULATIONS!

Joshua Blanks
Joseph Blecha
Taylor Hartley
Lindsey Kreamer
Adam Kretzer
Curtis Mick
Jesse Moore
Adriane Moss
Jesse Newton
Trish O'Donnell
Shea Olsen

Dan Patrick
Matthew Peterson
Natalie Poholsky
Victoria Resnik
Ryan Schulz
Jessica Settle
Suzanne Steffens
Justine Sterling
Jerod Topliff
Joel Whitworth
Matthew Woerman

the newly selected members of Student Foundation!

WELLS FARGO HOME MORTGAGE

& Century 21
Knight Real Estate, Inc.

Proudly Presents

Home Buying Seminars

Two Evenings of FREE Education

Tax Savvy Financing

March 13, 7:00PM to 8:00PM

K-State Alumni Center (Anderson Ave. & 17th, Manhattan)

Discover the bottom line benefits of 100% financing.

- No Private Mortgage Insurance!
- Lower payments and more tax deductions!
- Purchase a home for your college student!

National Home Buyers Program

March 20, 7:00PM to 8:00PM

Century 21 Knight Real Estate, Inc. (2605 Allison Ave., Manhattan)

Want to buy a home with little or no down payment? First time home buyer? Less than perfect credit? Find out your options at this seminar.

RSVP by Tuesday, March 11, 2003, at (785) 537-2111
(Limited walk-in seats available)

FREE Refreshments & Door Prizes
NO Obligation!

SWIMSUITS!

NOW $46-$76

VIX, CALIFORNIA, DIPPER, SUNSET SEPARATES, HOBIE, HOT KISS, SURFSIDE, PIECES

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie

1224 Moro Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs. 10-7 Fri.-Sat. 10-5

©2003 State Street Corporation EOE/AAE

For you business majors, it's all about ways and means, isn't it?

$ $ $

How's this for starters: a career-building job with an international financial services firm, superior benefits – and healthy compensation.

State Street, a world leader in the financial services industry, has both full- and part-time job openings at its Kansas City office, right now.

Join your future – today!

STATE STREET.
For Everything You Invest In™

Apply online.

statestreetkc.com

Little Caesars
MONDAY MADNESS!
1 LARGE PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING
$4.99
NO LIMIT!
539-3333

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Criminology and Social Service Career Fair

March 12th

EVERYONE WELCOME!

Over 30 Federal, State and Local Employers
Kansas State University Student Union Ballroom
10am to 2pm

For more information, Call 785-532-4963
or Email nofzig@ksu.edu

Interview Suits

24 Years of Launching Careers with Professional Clothing

The confidence you need in an employment interview comes from the clothes you wear.

- Choose from our large selection of suits (starting at $295)
- Short, regular, long, big & tall sizes
- Featuring Hart Schaffner & Marx and Borck Brothers Collection
- Save $50 with your K-State Student ID
- Professional Tailoring and Guidance

Borck Brothers
Manhattan's Leading Menswear Store

Westloop Shopping Center
Mon-Sat 9:30 - 5:30 Thursday until 8:00
785-537-8636 • www.borck-bros.com

Golfers hope to avoid bad weather

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Bad weather has followed the men's golf team everywhere.

But as K-State heads to Lafayette, La., for the Louisiana Classics today and Tuesday, the Cats are counting on the bad weather staying in Manhattan.

K-State has had trouble finding time to practice outdoors, along with having poor weather cut the Roadrunner Invitational short in San Antonio, Texas, on Feb. 24-25.

Coach Tim Norris said the time off hasn't been as bad as some may think.

"It was kind of a nice break. We've been going at it pretty hard since Jan. 25, so I think everybody is fresh and ready to go," he said.

"I think the one positive with the foul weather is you get a chance to take a break, and you don't feel guilty if you're not out at the course."

Junior Aaron Watkins is coming off a tie for second place in San Antonio and will lead K-State into Louisiana. Also headed to Lafayette are juniors A.J. Elgert and Greg Douglas, sophomore Matt Van Cleave and freshman Josh Persons.

K-State and 14 other teams will compete on the 7,002-yard, par-72 Oakbourne Country Club.

The 15-team field includes four teams in the top 50 of the most current Golfweek-Sagarin rankings, including the Cats at No. 48. Norris said the competition is tough, but it includes several key opponents.

"This is a big tournament for us..." he said. "From that standpoint, the field — top to bottom — is a pretty darn good one."

K-State has only competed in four rounds this spring, but Norris said the time off and lack of action shouldn't hurt his team.

"If we play well, we play well," he said. "I don't think we've been practicing long enough this spring that a couple of days is going to add any rust. I'd just like to get some decent weather down there and get all 54 holes in and see how we do."

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN
A.J. Elgert chips his way onto the green during the Intercollegiate Golf Tournament last fall at Colbert Hills Golf Course.

ENDING LOSSES

Arkansas' Scott Hode dives back into first base as K-State's Tim Doty awaits the pick off throw during the Wildcats' 9-8 win over the Razorbacks on Friday at Frank Meyers Field.

K-State wins 1, loses 2 against Arkansas

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In the first inning of the first contest between K-State and Arkansas in Manhattan on Friday, the Razorbacks jumped out to an early lead, plating four runs.

The Wildcats were able to overcome the early lead and hand UA its first loss of the season 9-8.

In the second game, which got underway at 1 p.m. Sunday in Fayetteville, Ark., the Razorbacks again jumped on the board with a run in the bottom of the first.

K-State answered with a run in the second, but Arkansas' starter Charley Boyce held the Cats scoreless while UA plated one run in the second and third and two in the fourth and sixth. The Wildcats found themselves down 7-1 heading into the seventh inning.

"We didn't play very well today," Coach Mike Clark said. "Offensively, their pitcher did a real good job, and we had a real tough time putting things together with him."

The Wildcats did put something together in the seventh as Brandon "Boogie" Taylor singled to plate Ryan Baldwin, who had doubled.

Taylor's single moved Zack Saunders, who had reached on an error, to second and leadoff man Brad Anzman was then hit by a pitch to load the bases.

Arkansas then pulled Boyce in favor of Caton Hall. Terry Blunt worked Hall to a three-two count before striking out looking to end K-State's half of the inning.

"It was a situation where we had a lot of trouble getting things going," he said. "We were able to build an inning really for just the first or second time during the ballgame there.

K-State catcher Ryan Baldwin tags Arkansas' Kirk McConnell out at the plate during the Wildcats' 9-8 win over the Razorbacks on Friday at Frank Meyers Field.

"Their guy threw a three-two change up, and Terry thought the ball was down,

See BASEBALL Page 10

March Madness best time of year

As we head into the final week before spring break, we also enter what is the greatest four weeks of the year.

March Madness is upon us.

There is no other time that provides as much excitement. For the next four weeks, soap operas will be preempted on Thursdays and Fridays for college basketball.

I know that upsets a lot of our mothers, but who cares?

We get to watch great games from the time we roll out of bed until the time we pass out. Late into the night this week, conference tournaments will showcase the college basketball's best talent. Next week the "Big Dance" starts, and as always, we will witness upset after upset.

But I have to mention the current black eye men's basketball is sporting right now with NCAA infractions mentioned at schools across the nation.

Everyone has heard of the corruption Jim Har- rick and his son have brought to Athens, Ga. A former player accused the Georgia coaches of multiple infractions, and now Har- rick's former schools UCLA and Rhode Island are nailing him with more accusations.

Then there's the St. Bonaventure Bonnies in Olean, N.Y. This is the team that, when faced with adversity, just decided to quit. They were busted for playing an ineligible player and weren't going to be allowed to play in the Atlantic-10 tournament, so they decided to pack it in.

What kind of team just quits?

The same thing happened to Fresno State last week, but did they fold like little girls and quit? No.

The Bulldogs went out and had a gutsy performance against Tulsa, even though they were playing for nothing. They lost on a buzzer-beater to the Golden Eagles, but they didn't tuck their tails and head off into the sunset. No one can call them cowards like the Bonnies.

Saturday was supposed to be senior day for the Bonnies, but the University of Dayton squeezed out a 2-0 win because no one showed up.

Around 300 fans showed up for no reason, maybe in hopes the school would throw someone out there with some dignity, but no game was played. Who gets credit for those two points?

On Saturday, Villanova suspended 12 players for making unauthorized phone calls. The Wildcats have to stagger the suspensions so they can put a team on the floor.

We all know college basketball can be corrupt, but three situations in a week gives negative attention to a sport that has so many great stories going into tournament

See MARCH Page 10

Tennis team splits weekend matches in Sooner state

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After suffering a 5-2 loss to No. 44 Oklahoma on Saturday, Coach Steve Bietau gathered his team together for a talk.

He must have said the right things, because the Cats came out firing on all cylinders Sunday against No. 55 Oklahoma State, leaving with a 5-2 victory.

"We talked after the OU match, and the response today was probably the most positive thing of the whole weekend," Bietau said.

Juniors Hayley McIver and Paulina Castillejos were the lone winners against the Sooners, each winning their respective singles match. Freshman Jessica Simosa suffered her first loss of the year — a 6-5, 6-2 defeat from OU's Annette Bryntesson.

Coming off a loss can be tough, Bietau said, but he was pleased with the way his squad bounced back from Saturday's match.

"Our team rebounded awfully well today," he said.

Another bright spot for the Cats was the return of sophomore Andrea Cooper, who had been out the past two weeks with a right ankle sprain.

"Considering she was out for two weeks and her movement isn't 100 percent, she's doing well," Bietau said. "Once she gets to practicing and moving more, I think she'll get better."

Overall, Bietau left Oklahoma pleased with the victory over the Cowboys.

"I was happy to get a win and happy with the play," Bietau said.

"I thought our team played the best match of the year thus far."

The Cats (6-2, 2-1) will hit the road again this weekend, traveling to Waco, Texas, to play No. 42 Baylor (4-6, 3-0) at noon Saturday.

In preparation, Bietau said his team will continue to do what it's done in practice all season.

"We basically do the same things week in and week out," he said.

"It's another Big 12 match, another important match and a chance for us to get a little bit better," he said.

Tennis results

OU results — Saturday

■ Singles

1. Anda Perianu, OU def. Petra Sedmajerova, K-State 6-1, 6-1
2. Elena Jimova, OU def. Maria Rosenberg, K-State 6-4, 6-3
3. Annette Bryntesson, OU def. Jessica Simosa, K-State 6-5, 6-2
4. Paulina Castillejos, K-State def. Heather Saluri, OU 6-0, 6-3
5. Hayley McIver, K-State def. Bethany Griffin, OU 7-6 (5), 6-4
6. Melissa Mendieta, OU def. Andrea Cooper, K-State 6-2, 6-1

■ Doubles

1. Perianu/Saluri, OU def. Cooper/Simosa, K-State 8-2
2. Bryntesson/Griffin, OU def. Sedmajerova/Castillejos, K-State 8-3
3. McIver/Rosenberg, K-State def. Mendieta/Jimova, OU 8-6

OSU results — Sunday

■ Singles

1. Linda Faltynkova, OSU def. Petra Sedmajerova, K-State 5-7, 6-3, 7-5
2. Maria Rosenberg, K-State def. Kate Vasylyeva, OSU 6-1, 6-0
3. Jessica Simosa, K-State def. Katya Kolodynska, OSU 5-7, 7-5, 6-3
4. Ewa Radzikowska, OSU def. Paulina Castillejos, K-State 6-2, 6-2
5. Hayley McIver, K-State def. Zana Masnic, OSU 6-3, 6-4
6. Andrea Cooper, K-State def. Ines Furtmayr, OSU 6-0, 7-6

■ Doubles

1. Faltynkova/Kolodynska, OSU def. Simosa/Cooper, K-State 9-7
2. Sedmajerova/Castillejos, K-State def. Erin Pauchnik/Marsic, OSU 8-4
3. Rosenberg/McIver, K-State def. Radzikowska/Vasylyeva, OSU 8-3

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College basketball | Bonnies' plot thickens
St. Bonaventure President Robert Wickenheiser resigned Sunday in the wake of the school's troubled men's basketball program.

The university's board of trustees, which unanimously sought Wickenheiser's resignation, also placed athletics director Gothard Lane and head coach Jan van Breda Kolff on administrative leave.

The board, which met in Buffalo, released a joint statement, citing Wickenheiser's failed leadership.

• • •

NBA | Pacers uphold Artest's suspension

The NBA upheld a flagrant foul call against Ron Artest and suspended the Indiana Pacers' forward for one game Sunday for tallying six flagrant foul points.

It is Artest's fourth suspension of the season — three issued by the NBA and one by the Pacers.

Artest was banned from Arco Arena as of 90 minutes prior to tipoff of the Pacers' game against the Sacramento Kings on Sunday night.

Staff and wire reports

Track and field | Freshman improves time

Freshman Christian Smith finished third in the men's 800-meter run and improved his NCAA provisional-qualifying time to 1:48.66 Saturday at the Cyclone National Track and Field Qualifier at Iowa State.

BY THE NUMBERS

BASEBALL

K-STATE 9, NO. 28 ARKANSAS 8

ARKANSAS 400 002 110 — 8 13 0
K-STATE 000 411 30X — 9 13 1
W — Ehling (1-0), L — Sawatski (2-1), S — Rollins (1) Attendance — 754.

• • •

K-STATE 9, NO. 28 ARKANSAS 8

K-STATE 010 000 111 — 4 12 2
ARKANSAS 111 202 05X — 12 17 1
W — Boyce (3-0), L — Meicher (0-1). Attendance — 2,247.

• • •

MEN'S BASKETBALL

K-STATE 74, IOWA STATE 63

K-STATE (13-16, 4-12)
DeJesus 6-13 2-3 16, Pasco 5-10 3-5 13, Richards 4-7 3-6 11, Siebrandt 4-8 2-2 10, Hayden 2-5 5-7 9, Hart 2-6 3-4 8, Thomas 2-4 0-0 5, Ellis 1-4 0-0 2.

IOWA STATE (15-12, 5-11)
Vroman 6-10 2-7 14, Jefferson 4-6 4-4 12, Sullivan 3-8 2-1 10, Barnes 4-9 0-1 9, Bynum 2-5 3-3 7, Haluska 2-8 2-4 6, Homan 2-6 1-1 5.

K-STATE 36 38 — 74
IOWA STATE 23 40 — 63

3-point goals — K-State 4-15 (DeJesus 2-9, Thomas 1-2, Hart 1-2, Ellis 0-2), Iowa State 3-14 (Sullivan 2-6, Barnes 1-3, Bynum 0-1, Haluska 0-4). Fouled out — K-State (Siebrandt), Iowa State (Vroman). Rebounds — K-State 37 (DeJesus 9), Iowa State 35 (Homan 8). Assists — K-State 19 (DeJesus 5), Iowa State 10 (Sullivan 4). Total fouls — K-State 22, Iowa State 24. Technicals — none. Attendance — 7,354.

• • •

WOMEN'S TENNIS

No. 44 OKLAHOMA 5, No. 60 K-STATE 2

SINGLES

1. Perianu, OU def. Sedmajerova, KSU 6-3, 6-1
2. Jimova, OU def. Rosenberg, KSU 6-4, 6-3
3. Bryntesson, OU def. Simosa, KSU 6-5, 6-2
4. Castillejos, KSU def. Saluri, OU 6-0, 6-3
5. McIver, KSU def. Griffin, OU 7-6 (5), 6-4
6. Mendieta, OU def. Cooper, KSU 6-2, 6-1

DOUBLES

1. Perianu/Saluri, OU def. Cooper/Simosa, KSU 8-2
2. Bryntesson/Griffin, OU def. Sedmajerova/Castillejos, KSU 8-3
3. McIver/Rosenberg, KSU def. Mendieta/Jimova, OU 8-6

• • •

No. 60 K-STATE 5, No. 55 OKLAHOMA STATE 2

SINGLES

1. Faltynkova, OSU def. Sedmajerova, KSU 5-7, 6-3, 7-5
2. Rosenberg, KSU def. Vasylyeva, OSU 6-1, 6-0
3. Simosa, KSU def. Kolodynska, OSU 5-7, 7-5, 6-3
4. Radzikowska, OSU def. Castillejos, KSU 6-2, 6-2
5. McIver, KSU def. Masnic, OSU 6-3, 6-4
6. Cooper, KSU def. Furtmayr, OSU 6-0, 7-6

DOUBLES

1. Faltynkova/Kolodynska, OSU def. Simosa/Cooper, KSU 9-7
2. Sedmajerova/Castillejos, KSU def. Erin Pauchnik/Marsic, OSU 8-4
3. Rosenberg/McIver, KSU def. Radzikowska/Vasylyeva, OSU 8-3

'Victoria' brings new perspective to Alzheimer's

By Courtney Duffield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The McCain Performance Series will offer a new perspective on Alzheimer's disease through the play "Victoria."

"I saw 20 minutes of the play in New York," Richard Martin, McCain Auditorium director, said. "It was one of the most interesting plays I've seen. Alzheimer's is a frightening disease, but Dulcinea [Langfelder] handles it with dignity and fun."

Thom Jackson, marketing and development officer at McCain, said he has not seen the play, but has heard it is hysterical and touching.

"It really takes a special person to do this kind of work," Jackson said.

Langfelder founded her theater company in 1985 because she said she wanted the ability to create roles in which she wanted to perform.

"For many years, it was me, myself and I forging a multidisciplinary style for which I had no real models," Langfelder said. "I had to invent for myself the kind of roles I wanted to play — rich, comical, female characters that dance and sing and touch people deep down in their daily lives."

Personal experiences, like watching her father pass away, inspire Langfelder's writing and acting, she said. When she first began working on the piece, she said she felt a strong need to get into his skin and understand what he was feeling at the end of his life.

"The last thing he told me was that I must not get discouraged with my work because it is so important," Langfelder said. "He said, 'You allow people to laugh at the most difficult dilemmas we humans face. What could be more important than that?' When I play Victoria, I feel my father in me and me in my father."

Langfelder said audiences of all ages usually enjoy her performances.

"My works are surprising to audiences because of how I juxtapose theater with dance, tragedy with comedy, abstract with straightforward. All of my works have that in common," Langfelder said. "It's hard to imagine, but Victoria is really very entertaining."

"At times, she and her orderly resemble Laurel and Hardy, or Burns and Allen. At the same time, the piece is not a superficial farce. The sadness of the situation is respected, but without sentimentality."

The company has been touring and performing "Victoria" for three years, but this is the first time for the company to perform in Manhattan. Langfelder said the actors have performed the play in English, Spanish and French and on several continents.

"We'll soon be going to Japan where I will try to learn a good deal of Japanese. I like to adapt the piece for the audience, so that everyone can truly identify with Victoria," Langfelder said. "I love the fact that human beings are the same all over the world, in spite of their cultural differences."

The character of Victoria has some traits that Langfelder desires, she said.

"Victoria has lost her memory, and the more I play her, the more I seem to be losing mine, but she also has some very positive effects on me," Langfelder said. "Victoria is wise and loving, and I often turn to her for advice and encouragement. I suppose she is the person I would like to be eventually. A lot of my audience members walk away with that feeling, too. Victoria is encouraging to everybody."

Both her own needs and the needs of her audiences inspire the creativity of her work, Langfelder said.

"I was surprised to see what a great need there is out there for an uplifting piece about aging and dying," Langfelder said. "Although people are often scared off by the subject matter, once they see the piece, they never regret the courage it took for them to come."

Langfelder said her career has been rewarding. "It is inspiring to see that an artist can follow her fancy, break all the rules and still succeed in doing her job," Langfelder said. "My job is that of a doctor for the soul. I have to help people get through life's difficulties, refresh them and give them courage."

Jackson said the topic of Alzheimer's affects every family in some way and that Langfelder is making people realize that even though someone may have this disease, he or she is still a person.

"She had done numerous shows," Jackson said. "She really pushes the envelope on many issues."

Jackson said the Kansas Area Agency on Aging will be around after the show to answer questions.

"Victoria"

■ When: 7:30 p.m., Tuesday
■ Where: McCain Auditorium
■ Cost: General Public $20, Seniors $18, Children and students $10

SHEDDING THE IMAGE

Obesity can be combatted by healthy lifestyle

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matt Pauley asked a girl on a date — but she turned him down.

This disappointment can happen to anyone, but Pauley was determined to do something to boost his chances.

Pauley worked out six to eight times each week, often for as long as two hours. He also took supplements to help him burn extra fat.

During his freshman year at K-State, Pauley shed 100 pounds.

Pauley still didn't get the girl, but he said losing the weight has affected how people interact with him.

"If you have a ton of extra weight, people aren't as willing to talk to you," he said.

Pauley attributed his rapid weight loss to monitoring his diet closely and working out with a focus on cardiovascular workouts.

At least 30 minutes of exercise a day is needed to maintain one's weight, Tiffany Bullard, fitness consultant at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex's Wellness Center, said.

The exercise can be broken down throughout the day, Bullard said, but intensity does matter. Walking to class may not be enough, she said, if the pace isn't quick enough to raise the heart rate.

Bullard also said multiple small meals throughout the day are better for maintaining or losing weight than having one or two big meals. She said this suggestion can give some students problems because they say their schedules don't allow for multiple breaks during the day.

But Bullard said the meals can actually be on-the-go snacks consumed between classes.

Student attitudes concerning the lack of time to stay healthy is common in society, Mary Meck Higgins, assistant professor of human nutrition, said.

"If you get into studying," Higgins said, "it lures you in. You feel active, but your body doesn't move."

But having a busy schedule doesn't account for the growing trend toward Americans being overweight, Higgins said. According to the Centers for Disease Control and prevention, 64.5 percent of Americans were overweight in 1999-2000, compared to only 46 percent in 1976-80.

"There are multiple causes," Higgins said. "It's too simplistic to blame any one aspect of society."

Factors include increased reliance on labor-saving devices and schools cutting physical education requirements. Another factor, Higgins said, is Americans' disconnection from their own food preparation.

Restaurants use a lot of butter and fat in preparing food, Higgins said, which can add up over time. If a person consumes 50 calories more than he normally consumes each day, Higgins said it would add up to five additional pounds each year.

How can you identify a few calories when you consume 2,000 every day?" Higgins said. "It's very subtle, and Americans don't like subtle."

Although packing on a few pounds a year is a possibility, Higgins said the real problem has nothing to do with a person's weight.

"The real difference is fitness versus fatness," she said. "You can be fit, but still have a heavier body size."

Society's image of an ideal body size has been getting smaller, Higgins said. She said more importance should be placed on being physically healthy rather than trying to fit the image of a skinny model.

"People who are overweight and not fit are the ones who have health problems," she said. "Fit people don't have as many health problems."

Trying too hard to fit a given image can be harmful to one's well-being, Bullard said.

"The main focus should be on being healthy and feeling good," she said. "You shouldn't exercise too much or eat too little."

While Pauley said he increased his exercise and decreased his meal size, he was pleased with his results.

"Life is just pretty much easier now," he said.

Photo Illustration by Nicole Donnet | COLLEGIAN

CALENDAR

Music

■ Flutist Mary Lee Cochran will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Theater strike: What caused Broadway musicals to go dark?

Contract negotiations between theater producers and striking musicians collapsed, silencing virtually every musical.

No negotiations were planned Saturday, and each side met privately with its own members to assess the situation. But both sides couldn't even agree on what they were talking about.

The union insists the fight to keep minimums — the number of musicians required for each show — is part of a larger battle to preserve live music on Broadway. The League of American Theatres and Producers see it in terms of artistic freedom, hiring only the musicians they say they need.

And as musicians became convinced the so-called virtual orchestras, computer-generated music brought in to replace them, wouldn't work well, they hardened their position on minimums and walked out Friday.

• • •

'Bowling for Columbine,' 'The Hours' win WGA awards

Filmmaker Michael Moore, whose "Bowling for Columbine" examined gun violence in America, won best original screenplay Saturday night at the 55th Annual Writers Guild Awards.

Best adapted screenplay went to David Hare for "The Hours," from Michael Cunningham's novel about author Virginia Woolf and two women in other time periods with connections to Woolf's "Mrs. Dalloway."

• • •

'Barbershop' controversy resurrected at NAACP Image Awards

The story of Rosa Parks won two NAACP Image Awards on Saturday, although the civil rights pioneer shunned the event over its nominations for the film.

"Barbershop," which features a character making unflattering jokes about her and other black leaders. CBS' "The Rosa Parks Story" won both its nominations: best TV movie and best TV movie actress for Angela Bassett, who starred as Parks.

Rosa Parks

THE CHARTS

Billboard Hot 100

Top 10

1. "In Da Club," 50 Cent
2. "All I Have," Jennifer Lopez Featuring LL Cool J
3. "Mesmerize," Ja Rule Featuring Ashanti
4. "Miss You," Aaliyah
5. "Cry Me A River," Justin Timberlake
6. "Ignition," R. Kelly
7. "Landslide," Dixie Chicks
8. "Gossip Folks," Missy "Misdemeanor" Elliott Featuring Ludacris
9. "I'm With You," Avril Lavigne
10. "Picture," Kid Rock Featuring Sheryl Crow Or Allison Moorer

Billboard 200 Top Albums

Top 10

1. "Come Away With Me," Norah Jones
2. "Get Rich Or Die Tryin'," 50 Cent
3. "Chocolate Factory," R. Kelly
4. "Home," Dixie Chicks
5. "Philadelphia Freeway," Freeway Artists
6. "Grammy Nominees 2003," Various Artists
7. "Cocky," Kid Rock
8. "Room For Squares," John Mayer

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

Race for Humanity fights cold, wind; T-shirt sales raise money for Habitat

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It was supposed to be 60 degrees Saturday, so it was no wonder the cooler temperatures took Drew Sebelius by surprise at the Habitat for Humanity's Race for Humanity.

"The weather was gorgeous in the morning, but shortly thereafter the wind picked up and Kansas weather hit, and it was freezing and windy in no time," Sebelius, sophomore in architectural engineering, said.

Emily Meissen said she went to the event expecting a warm day, but experienced dropping temperatures and a cold wind.

"The wind was at our backs when we started downhill, but when we turned there was a long uphill stretch and the cold wind hit right against you — it was pretty brutal," said Meissen, sophomore in print journalism and public relations.

Meissen and Sebelius were both winners in the women's and men's division races at the Race for Humanity at Cico Park on Saturday.

Sebelius is from a small town and said the Race for Humanity was bigger than what he was used to.

"The competition was unbelievable — nothing like the fun runs on a cold March morning that you'd expect," he said.

Julia Harbers, director of the race, said there were close to 100 people competing.

"It was the first time we tried it, and it went beyond our expectations," she said.

Harbers said the 5K races raised about $1,500 for Habitat for Humanity through the purchase of T-shirts for the runners.

Rachael Herzog, sophomore in elementary education, grabs a cup of water at the one mile point of the 3.1 mile road race to benefit Habitat for Humanity Saturday morning at Cico Park. Prizes for the top finishers were birdhouses built by volunteers for Habitat for Humanity and painted by children at the Wonder Workshop.

Harriers Running Club and Habitat for Humanity co-sponsored the event. Chipotle Mexican Grill, along with area grocery stores and the Baking Institute brought food to the event.

"It was a wonderful blend of organizations coming together for a good cause and just a great time," Harbers said.

Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit organization that builds houses for families in need. In addition, the organization allows families to repay the cost of the home with a no-interest mortgage.

Sebelius said he had always wanted to participate in an event like this.

"I've always been interested in doing the fun runs and this one had a cause and was the same price as normal runs, and I got a free T-shirt out of the whole deal," Sebelius said.

Results from Saturday's Race for Humanity in Cico Park:

Men's Division

1st place - Drew Sebelius from Manhattan

2nd - Jonathan Conrad from Alma

Women's Division

1st - Emily Meissen from Manhattan

2nd - Merrily Behrens from Luisburg

Harbers said a Habitat volunteer built birdhouses for the first and second place winners of the men's and women's division. She said the birdhouse was a "habitat for birds," to go with Habitat's theme of building houses for people. Children at Wonder Workshop decorated the birdhouses.

"It was a nice way for two wonderful non-profit organizations to come together and create some funds for Habitat," Harbers said.

"Everybody worked tremendously hard."

FASHION FORWARD

Rachel West, junior in marketing and human resources, stands at the end of the runway during the Ready, Set, Spring Fashion Show at the Manhattan Town Center on Saturday afternoon. The event showcased different spring fashions that are available at the mall's stores.

U.S. forces warned of possible strike

By John L. Lumpkin
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Al-Qaeda operatives are planning to strike at U.S. and allied forces taking part in a war in Iraq, according to information acquired by American intelligence agencies, counterterrorism officials said Saturday.

The operatives are subordinates of Abu Musab Zarqawi, whom CIA officials describe as a senior associate of Osama bin Laden. Some are in Baghdad. Others are elsewhere in Iraq, the counterterrorism officials said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The intelligence does not suggest any kind of cooperation between the government of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and the al-Qaeda operatives. Instead officials believe the terrorists are looking to capitalize on the chaos created by any military conflict to strike at American and allied troops.

A CIA report, passed to senior government officials last week, warned of the potential strikes.

A CIA spokesman declined to comment.

The New York Times first reported the information Saturday on its Web site.

The counterterrorism officials said operatives may be planning to use explosives or toxins to conduct the attack.

The new information comes against a murky backdrop regarding whether Iraq supports al Qaeda, or to what extent there are ties.

However, intelligence officials have generally agreed they have nothing to document that Saddam Hussein had a hand in the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks or that Saddam and Osama bin Laden are coordinating terrorist operations.

At the center of U.S. allegations that there are links between Iraq and the terrorist group is Zarqawi, a Jordanian terrorist operative, and some of his followers.

CIA Director George Tenet and others have described Zarqawi as a senior associate of al-Qaida leader Osama bin Laden, but officials acknowledge some difference of opinion within U.S. intelligence whether it is correct to describe him as a member of the organization.

Zarqawi has been linked to the failed millennium bombing of a tourist hotel in Jordan and the killing of an American diplomat in Amman in October.

According to U.S. officials, Zarqawi was in Baghdad last summer, presumably with the knowledge of Iraqi officials. Some of his people are still there. Zarqawi is also linked to an Islamic extremist group in northern Iraq, Ansar al-Islam, that operates in a region outside of Saddam's control.

ROYAL PURPLE

yearbook
we've got the stories you've got to read.

Get your 2003 Royal Purple yearbook for $34.95 in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

MARCH MADNESS

COPY SALE

Call for prices 776-3771

Claflin Books and Copies

Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 537-1909

K-State at Fort Riley

Class Schedule Term 3-2003

Programs for Military and Civilians

March 24 - May 17, 2003

Courses Offered

Course Title	Course Number	Credit Hours	Bldg./Room
Monday/Wednesday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Intern./Microeconomics (P)	ECON 520	3	7656/16
Family Rel./Gender Roles (P)	FSHS 350	3	7656/12
Human Dev. & Aging (P)	FSHS 510	3	7656/4
Envir. Geology: Water & Air	GEOL 115	3	7604/13
Human Geography	GEOG 200	3	7604/14
College Algebra (P)	MATH 100	3	7656/8
Social Psychology (P)	PSYCH 535	3	7656/11
Bus./Professional Speaking (P)	SPCH 311	3	7604/10
Monday/Wednesday 1900-2200 (7:00-10:00 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stat. II (P)	STAT 351	3	CAMPUS-206 Dickens
Monday/Wednesday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Principles of Macroecon. (P)	ECON 110	3	7656/11
Public Speaking II (P)	SPCH 321	3	7604/10
Intro. to Women's Studies	WOMST 105	3	7604/13
Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Expository Writing II (P)	ENGL 200	3	7604/13
Plane Trigonometry (P)	MATH 150	3	7656/16
Intro. to Music	MUSIC 250	3	7656/4
Intro./Philosophical Problems	PHILO 100	3	7656/8
US Politics	POLSC 325	3	7604/14
Race & Ethnic Relations (P)	SOCIO 570	3	7656/11
Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2030 (5:30-8:30 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stat. I (P)	STAT 350	3	CAMPUS-106 Dickens
Tuesday/Thursday 1800-2100 (6:00-9:00 PM)
Elem. Stat./Social Science (P)	STAT 330	3	CAMPUS-206 Dickens
Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Acctg. for Invest./Finance (P)	ACCTG 241	3	7656/12
(ACCTG $15 Extra Fee)
The Short Story	ENGL 320	3	7604/13
Families in Diversity	FSHS 552	3	7656/8
Kansas Politics	POLSC 321	3	7604/14
Psych./Mass Communic.	PSYCH 530	3	7656/11
Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM) and Saturday 0830-1030 (8:30-10:30 AM)
(All CIS classes have $5 extra fee)
Intro. to Info. Technology	CIS 101	1	217/201
March 24 - April 5, 2003
Spreadsheet Applications (P)	CIS 102	1	217/201
April 7 - 19, 2003
Database Applications (P)	CIS 103	1	217/201
April 21 - May 3, 2003
Word Processing Apps. (P)	CIS 104	1	217/201
May 5 - 17, 2003
Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM) and Saturday 0900-1200 (9:00-12:00 Noon)
Environmental Geogr. II (P)	GEOG 221	4	7656/4

Enrollment Information

Registration

Military enrollment

- Began February 10, 2003.
- Military enrollment includes active duty military, retired military, reserve components, family members, DOD/DAC, ROTC Cadets, and veterans.
- Military using Tuition Assistance must be enrolled before the second class meeting.

Civilian enrollment

- Begins March 14, 2003.
- NOTE: This is a CHANGE from the printed brochure!
- Online, telephone, or fax enrollment available beginning the second day of civilian enrollment.
- A Privacy Act Statement with an original signature must be received for the enrollment to be official.
- To ensure access to post, you must include driver's license number and state on enrollment form.
- Enrollment after the first week of classes requires instructor/departments approval.

Cost

$127.00 per undergraduate credit hour

Drop Dates

- 100% refund if you drop in writing before the second class meeting
- 50% refund if you drop in writing on or before April 11, 2003
- Withdrawals after April 11, 2003 will be recorded on your transcript.
- If you stop attending class and do not process a drop form you will receive a grade of "F."
- No drops after May 2, 2003.

Active duty military have to see their military education counselor before dropping a class.

(P) = Course has prerequisite(s).

Special Assistance
Kansas State University is dedicated to making academic courses accessible to all persons. Contact the Registration Office at (785)532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 at least two weeks prior to the beginning of the course if you have a physical or learning disability which would require special accommodations.

Please check with our office just prior to classes starting for possible changes in the schedule!!!

Program and Registration Information available at www.dce.ksu.edu/fortriley

Kansas State University

WEIGHT LOSS - FUN AND EASY?

Dr. Rick Tague would like to offer you absolutely free:

Body Composition Analysis & Introductory Visit

You will receive a computerized impedance plethysmography examination (which measures your muscle to fat ratio). From this exam we will generate a written report for you that includes your Body Mass Index, Weight Goal and other key health information. With this report, when you start, Dr. Tague will sit down with you and create a personalized weight management program based on your personal preferences and your individual physical, genetic and environmental characteristics. We will listen to you and tailor a program just for you.

Fun and Easy? YES!

Using an individualized high nutrient program (including shakes, bars, snacks and food from your own pantry) and FDA approved medications (if needed) your fat pounds will melt away making weight loss fun and easy.

If it feels as if you tried almost every diet there is...but still struggle with your weight...there likely is a medical reason causing your lack of success. Genetic, metabolic and environmental factors are typically to blame and it's not your fault! Quit feeling frustrated and depressed about your weight. Make the choice to let Dr. Tague help correct what is causing your weight problem so you can look better and have a more energetic, fun life.

Call Today. The first 15 people who call will receive a FREE individualized metabolic rate exam using state-of-the-art equipment that measures your resting metabolic rate. Information from this test is used to develop a program for you that will jump-start your sluggish metabolism which further increases your weight loss.

Call 776-4443 Now

Call 776-4443 today to get your FREE Body Composition Analysis and to find out how losing weight can be fun and easy.

CLASSIFIEDS

Monday, March 10, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS. best deals around! Studio one, two, three-bedroom available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

DUPLEX 900 square feet. Two-bedroom, two bath. All appliances. Close to campus. June leases. Call (785)456-8835.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 1230 Clafin, across street from Ford Hall. 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Clafin.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0865.

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August lease. No pets. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO, THREE, four-bed-room. one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1st 2039 and 2071 College View, three-bedroom, no pets. $750 per month plus deposit. Call (785)456-7255.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1 Four-bedroom house at 824 Laramie. Central air, washer/ dryer, two baths, yard. $265 per person. Utilities, year's lease and deposit. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 2nd: six-bedroom, two bath, two kitchens, three floors, central air, washer/ dryer. Located at 1011 Laramie. $275 per person plus utilities and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE two bath, two kitchens. Living room. Family room. Central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets. June lease. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease, $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air. 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

FOUR-BEDROOM WALKING distance to KSU/ Aggieville. $1000/ month. June 1 lease. Call John at (785)313-7473.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom house. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord, no pets. August lease. (785)539-0549.

NOW LEASING FOR JUNE, house on 1010 Leavenworth. Kitchen appliances included and washer/ dryer. Daytime: (785)292-4727. Evenings: (785)292-4342.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer, $1050/ month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM, VERY nice condition. One block west of campus. Available June 1. No pets. $300/ bedroom. (785)537-4766.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air-conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment, could rent as five-bedroom house.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949.

PREFERRED UPPER-CLASS student male or female roommate wanted. Two-bedroom apt. available April 1st. $285.50 plus utilities across from city park downtown Aggieville. Call Merrick (785)371-1371.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for this summer or fall. Contact Jake at 539-4904. Rent $220/ month plus share of utilities. Located at 911 North 11th Street.

ONE-BEDROOM, NORTH- WEST of KSU. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM OFF campus water and trash paid. Available June 1 and August 1. No smokers, no pets. (785)776-3184.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH- ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June/ August leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $600 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4166.

TWO-BEDROOM APART- MENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition. http://www.rentkstate.com (785)776-4166 or rentkstate@lycos.com

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

Now Leasing
1 LEASED
2 BR From $590
1 Apt. left for June
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

125
For Sale-
Houses

COLORADO HANCH for $ 1 0 0
www.winterhanch.com

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1993 16X 80 Schult three-bedroom, two bath. Fenced yard, dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator included. $16,500. #187 Colonial Gardens. (785) 313-2997.

FIVE-BEDROOM MANU- FACTURED home $70,000. (785)537-1749.

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. One block to campus. $250, utilities paid. Available immediately. (785)537-4947.

FEMALE roommate wanted for house close to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details. Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

MALE/ FEMALE roommate needed. Four-bedroom, two bath. June lease. 724 Kearny. Call (785)776-3852.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer with out meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE 520 N. 11th. Two-bedroom, full kitchen, living room, extra storage, walking distance to campus and Aggieville. $280. (785)341-3449.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No. pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent-
Houses

Discover Brittnay Ridge
TOWNHOMES
*4 Bedrooms w/ study
*2 1/2 Baths
*Washer/ Dryer in each unit
*Sand Volleyball Court
*1440 sq. ft.
www.mdi-manhattan.com

Starting at $940
776-3804

Model Showings
2521 Candlecrest
M.W.Th 3-6
Sat 12-3
McCullough Development

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, no pets, $1100. Call (785)537-7597.

THREE- FOUR plus bedrooms. All amenities. June leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets, $500. Call (785)537-7597.

125
For Sale-
Houses

AD SALES, PR. Distribution. Part-time internship. Well-paid, flexible hours. E-mail resume/ GPA to ucal@bendnet.com with "Intern" in subject line.

BABYSITTER NEEDED for two year old in my house on weekends during the day. Must have references. Pay discussed upon interview. Please call (785)313-2147.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-085 ext.1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Napsles, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajo.com

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000- $5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

DIRECTOR OF youth ministry, full-time. Must have love for Christ and young people; preferably trained or experienced in youth and family ministry; strong leadership, administrative, and teaching skills. Able to work cooperatively. To apply, contact First Lutheran Church, 930 Poyntz, Manhattan, KS (785)537-8532.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LAWN TECHNICIAN: part-time/ full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. Responsibilities include mowing, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello Suite 101, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

LOCAL LANDSCAPE company hiring full-time and part-time positions for landscape maintenance/ installer, irrigation installation. Experience preferred. (785)776-1930.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

200 service directory

300 employment/
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

AD SALES, PR. Distribution. Part-time internship. Well-paid, flexible hours. E-mail resume/ GPA to ucal@bendnet.com with "Intern" in subject line.

BABYSITTER NEEDED for two year old in my house on weekends during the day. Must have references. Pay discussed upon interview. Please call (785)313-2147.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-085 ext.1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Napsles, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajo.com

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000- $5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

DIRECTOR OF youth ministry, full-time. Must have love for Christ and young people; preferably trained or experienced in youth and family ministry; strong leadership, administrative, and teaching skills. Able to work cooperatively. To apply, contact First Lutheran Church, 930 Poyntz, Manhattan, KS (785)537-8532.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LAWN TECHNICIAN: part-time/ full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. Responsibilities include mowing, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello Suite 101, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

LOCAL LANDSCAPE company hiring full-time and part-time positions for landscape maintenance/ installer, irrigation installation. Experience preferred. (785)776-1930.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

200 service directory

310
Help Wanted

MASTER LANDSCAPE. A growing local landscape firm has a greenhouse/ grower position open. This requires a detail-oriented, motivated, full-time individual. Other position also available. Competitive compensation. Call (785)539-2842.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day! (1888)820-0164 extension 1016.

NEED HARD working, outgoing clerk stockers. Twenty- thirty hours per week. Evenings and weekends now through Christmas. Retail and/or horticultural experience preferred. Pick up application at Eastside or Westside Market.

NEED PART-TIME babysitter for before and after school in my home until the end of school year. Call Aimee (785)784-2526.

OFFICE ASSISTANT, Part-time/ full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. 3.0 GPA. Ability to self-direct and multi-task necessary. Outgoing personality and excellent people skills desired. Training will be provided with possible advancement opportunities. Team-oriented and fun atmosphere. Business or marketing/ sales experience preferred. Send resume to: Westchester Park, 2100 Westchester Drive, Manhattan, KS 66503. No phone calls please.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply online: www.campcedar.com

TOP BOYS SPORTS CAMP IN MAINE! Play and coach sports- have fun- make $$. Openings in: all team and individual sports, all water sports, plus: camp/ hike/ roller/ rock climbing, ice/ roller hockey, office/ secretaries. Top salaries, excellent facilities, free room/ board/ laundry, travel allowance. On-line application: www.campcobbossee.com or call: (800)473-6104.

WANTED FEMALE dancers to dance Wednesday- Saturday, 8p.m.- 2a.m. Old West Chuckwagon in Hayes, KS. (785)628-1113, (785)628-8844.

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED COWBOYS, Cowgirls and couples to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Visit our website at www.sombrero.com or write to us at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301.

WANTED FEMALE dancers to dance Wednesday- Saturday, 8p.m.- 2a.m. Old West Chuckwagon in Hayes, KS. (785)628-1113, (785)628-8844.

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED COWBOYS, Cowgirls and couples to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Visit our website at www.sombrero.com or write to us at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

MUSIC FANS: need music fans to assist in concert promotion. Internship Position. Involves touring for concerts. If interested in getting your foot in the door with promotions and music call Velocity Marketing. (866)716-9693.

400 open market

415 Furniture to
Buy/Sell

QUEEN-SIZE WATERBED frame $150, older couch $50, much older bed $25. Details and pictures at http://www.ozonline.net/~phymyx/furniture.

465
Tickets to
Buy/Sell

WANTED THREE or four Big Twelve Tournament Tickets. All sessions, KSU alumni, will pay top dollars. Call toll free (888)239-2155.

we kick ads.
CLASSIFIEDS • 302/303

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1991 HONDA Accord LX. Two-door, five-speed, 145K. Must Sell $2800. (785)323-0005.

530
Motorcycles

1996 HONDA CBR 600 F3 11200K Runs great! 4200 (785)493-4501

2002 HONDA CBR954RR, black/ silver and 1987 Honda XL600R 4400 miles (785)587-8225.

WANTED
DEAD OR ALIVE

MOTORCYCLES
1964-2000
ALL CONSIDERED

785-564-2423
ANY TIME

600 travel/trips

610
Tour Package

DEAN | Preliminary trial paves way for arraignment

Continued from Page 1

Dean's attorney, Pedro Irigonegaray, asked Sims about how many different people were in contact with the can of beer.

Sims testified that several people did have the can in their possession, but it was always in her line of sight, and she didn't see anyone put anything in it.

The prosecution then called the owner of the bar to testify. She testified that no one else entered the gameroom while Sims and Dean were in there and that she didn't see anyone put anything into the beer can at any time.

The prosecution called Deputy Force to testify. He said that he talked to the alleged victim, who filed a report. He also took possession of the can of beer and emptied the content into vials to be tested by the Kansas Bureau of Investigation. Force then went to the Little Grill to question other people at the establishment.

During cross examination, Irigonegaray asked why Force didn't either confiscate the table the can of beer was reported to have been sitting on or test it for unknown substances.

Force said he didn't think it would have been worthwhile since several hours had passed and other patrons had been in the area.

The defense called no witnesses.

Both prosecution and defense attorneys gave closing remarks.

"The circumstantial evidence presented to this court today establishes that on April 26, Jessica Sims had a substance put into her beer. When tested by the KBI, that beer tested positive for cocaine. At Mercy, she received treatment for cocaine in her blood stream," Barry Wilkerson, Pottawatomie County attorney, said.

"The question is how did it get there and who put in her beer? What we've presented is that no one else was present but the defendant and Jessica."

Robert Eye, who gave closing remarks for the defense, said that the case was based on circumstantial evidence, and no one saw Dean touch the beer or put anything in it.

"Being in the same room at the same time at the scene of a crime doesn't make you a criminal, it doesn't even make you a suspect," Eye said. "It appears that there is a way to connect the dots in this case, but on the other hand there are gaps that are very troubling."

Dean's arraignment is scheduled for 9 a.m. April 10 at the Pottawatomie County Courthouse in Westmoreland.

CATTLEMEN | Sale provides valuable experience

Continued from Page 1

and industry department. Those figures are similar to previous years, said Miles McKee, professor in animal sciences and industry.

McKee said people come to the sale because the university breeds high-quality cattle. He said buyers look for specific qualities that will have a desired genetic effect on their herds.

"People are looking for something that will work for their programs," he said. "Some bulls have the genetics for ease of calving, or for rapid growth, or for a specific shape or pattern. The industry has ways of predicting what different genetic material will do in breeding."

"Those methods have come a long way, and now people can look for genetic material that will work for them."

Students organize the sale each year and form committees that take on separate tasks such as cattle handling, money handling and clerking. Committees form from the Livestock Sales Management class, where students learn what goes into holding a large auction, said David Nichols, professor in animal sciences and industry.

Nichols said he was proud of the work students put into Friday's successful sale.

"When we start out, we have a variety of speakers come in who have put on their own sales," he said. "They bring that perspective, and the students benefit from it."

"This is also a project where students learn to work in groups and committees. People talk about wanting students to work more in groups - well, this is the ultimate group project."

Though Internet and video sales have come to provide an alternative to bull auctions, Nichols said he still thinks the sales are vital to the industry.

"The advantage to video and the Internet is that you reach a bigger audience, but real auctions create excitement, and they're fast-paced," he said. "I'm not sure you generate that excitement with an online auction."

Auctioneer Stanley Stout,

Linwood, Kan., resident, is on the road nine months out of the year, working auctions all over the country, his wife, Brenda Stout, said.

Brenda said that despite the important role the Internet plays, people still enjoy going to the auctions.

"When the Internet came out, people in urban areas picked up on it right away, but rural people were slower to come on board," she said. "Now people who sell equipment and livestock have found ways of using it. But people in rural areas still prefer to deal with the general public one-on-one."

"They want to see the face and get the handshake, and deal with people in real life."

McKee said he enjoys seeing friends and former students who come to town for Cattlemen's Day and auction, with which he has been involved since it began in 1977.

"They do more than watch," he said. "They work all the jobs except for auctioneer. Students get firsthand experience, and learn how sales are conducted, and what they can expect."

MARCH | Month of madness makes fans optimistic

Continued from Page 6

time.

This is a time for the little guys to shine. The time when David conquers Goliath again and again. That's what makes college basketball great - the upset factor.

You can bet the bank that a five seed in the tournament will fall to a 12 seed in the first round. It will happen. It always happens.

And we're going to need a little of that upset magic this week, as the K-State men head to Dallas for the Big 12 Tournament. As the No. 11 seed, the Cats may have received a good draw in the tournament.

A first round matchup with Colorado is a winnable game. If Coach Jim Wooldridge can guide his team past the Buffs, Oklahoma is next.

I'm going to be optimistic and say K-State can win that game, too. The Sooners are only allowing 60 points, but on Feb. 1 versus Kelvin Sampson's crew, K-State scored 89.

This team can play when it wants to. It might be one of the most inconsistent teams I've ever seen, but when they decide to show up, teams better be ready.

After that, it gets tough with a red-hot (or shall I say burnt orange) Texas team and maybe KU, but who knows? If we cross our fingers and wish really hard, K-State might make a run.

There is always a Cinderella story. All odds are against that story taking place in Manhattan, at least on the men's side, but you never know.

Anything can happen in the craziness called March.

Tom is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at tbf5473@ksu.edu.

BASEBALL | Loss causes team disappointment

Continued from Page 6

but they got the call and we were out of it."

K-State held Arkansas off in the bottom of the seventh and scored again in the eighth to make it 7-3. But the Razorbacks moved out of striking distance with five runs in the bottom of the eighth.

K-State added one more in the ninth when Gabe Luttrell's pinch-hit double scored Marc Chabot who had singled, but the Cats' would get no closer as Pat Maloney flew out to left to end the game 12-4.

Kevin Melcher (0-1) took the loss for K-State, while Boyce picked up the win for UA. Baldwin led K-State offensively with a 4-for-4 performance that included two doubles and a run scored.

Baldwin now has 19 RBIs and 10 doubles in nine games this season.

K-State will play UA in a doubleheader beginning at 1 p.m. today in Fayetteville to close out the series.

Clark said Sunday's loss should have the Wildcats ready to go and added the Wildcats must improve defensively.

"We have a bad taste in our mouth. Talking to the guys after the ballgame, we're not happy with the way we came in. And it's two games in a row where we've let them jump on top of us, and then we have to catch up," Clark said.

"We have to do a better job of making our adjustments earlier in the ballgame and getting some offense created."

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories you've got to read.

Get your 2003 Royal Purple yearbook for $34.95 in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

YOUR FREE EXCLUSIVE GIFT FROM CLINIQUE!

Receive this FREE Exclusive gift with any $19.50 or more Clinique purchase.

Includes:

GREAT GIFT NEWS

• SHEER SHIMMERS GLOSSWEAR FOR LIPS IN MYSTIC

GREAT GIFT FAVOURITES

- RINSE-OFF FOAMING CLEANSER
- TOTAL TURNAROUND VISIBLE SKIN RENEWER
- DIFFERENT LIPSTICK IN TENDERHEART
- SOFT-PRESSED POWDER BLUSHER IN MOCHA
- CLINIQUE HAPPY PERFUME SPRAY

GREAT GIFT EXCLUSIVE

COSMETIC BAG
Zipped cosmetic bag carries your makeup must-haves and more. Zippy, denim-look design.

May we suggest:

NEW!
Happy Heart
1.7 oz. Spray,
$36.50.

NEW!
Happy Heart
3.4 oz. Spray,
$48.50.

Happy 1.7 oz.
Spray, $36.50.
Happy 3.4 oz.
Spray, $48.50.

FINAL WEEK!

Dillard's

For Your Convenience We Accept Your Dillard's Charge, Visa, MasterCard, American Express, Discover, Carte Blanche, Or Diner's Club Card.
SHOP MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY 10 A.M. - 9 P.M.; SUNDAY 12 NOON - 6 P.M.

Wednesday, March 11, 2003

Roberts discusses Iraq

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sen. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., is the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee. This committee receives intelligence reports and advises the Senate on issues of national security.

The Collegian recently interviewed Roberts regarding national security and the possibility of war with Iraq.

Pat Roberts
SENATE INTELLIGENCE COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

the war against terror — the difference is if the terrorist groups do have weapons of mass destruction and have intent to do us great harm. If you look at Iraq and the history of Saddam Hussein, this is a very de-stable factor.

He continues to violate U.N. passed resolutions, he is in violation and nothing is done. He continues to be a threat in regard to weapons of mass destruction.

It all adds up to this test to see if the U.N. is relevant, if NATO is relevant and if the free world faces up to it. If you keep drawing the line in the sand, you embolden the terrorists. If you allow him to stay in office, they are becoming more emboldened.

There is a poison center in Iraq where we are dealing with anthrax and rison. That gives us great pause. That's a signal of things to come. You just have to draw the line. We are trying to preempt terror. That is a whole different concept than we are used to. Now, we have detected through intelligence the preemptive part. I think it is necessary given the threats we face today.

Q: Would the U.S. act without the support of the U.N.?

See ROBERTS Page 7

Bush, Powell vie for U.N. support

By Scott Lindlaw
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Struggling for U.N. support to forcibly disarm Saddam Hussein, Secretary of State Colin Powell voiced alarm Monday over the discovery that Iraq has unmanned drone aircraft capable of dispensing chemical weapons.

President Bush worked the phones to world leaders to try to stave off a U.N. Security Council defeat while a spokesman said a showdown vote would not come until later in the week.

White House press secretary Ari Fleischer said a vote on the resolution would

See SHOWDOWN Page 7

INSIDE

Read about why pornography is popular in society today and its potential harms.

The Edge, Page 10

Greek Affairs adviser resigns

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Greek Affairs Adviser Barb Robel has resigned to pursue other career options, but will continue working through the end of the school year.

"She is retiring at the end of the year to pursue other career professional development," Greek Affairs Assistant Adviser Angie Goodson said.

Goodson said a replacement has not been announced. Pat Bosco, dean of student life who oversees Robel, was unavailable for comment.

Robel was under scrutiny in February 2000 for a report in which some viewed as a threat to fraternities existence. Robel said in the report that fraternities that did not promote what was good about fraternity life would not be continued on campus.

Alumni expressed concerns over Robel's job performance, but the concerns were later dismissed as a lack of communication. These concerns are not being considered a factor in Robel's resignation.

Robel also serves as the director of the Mid-American Greek Conference Association.

Bush rejects Iran's claim regarding nuclear programs

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The White House rejected Iran's contention that its nuclear program is strictly for energy production and repeated the Bush administration charge that Tehran's effort to develop atomic weapons is causing great concern in Washington.

The administration has long expressed the view that Iran was working on nuclear weapons technology, but new reports suggest the country is moving closer to the goal than international authorities had believed.

"Iran now openly says that it is pursuing the complete nuclear fuel cycle," White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said, referring to the process of exploring for and mining uranium, the raw material needed for nuclear reactors; enriching the uranium; and waste management. Iran denies it trying to build nuclear bombs.

"We completely reject Iran's claim that it is doing so for peaceful purposes," Fleischer said, partly because the country sits on one of the world's largest oil and gas reserves. State Department spokesman Richard Boucher called Iran's nuclear weapons program robust.

Fleischer said Iran tried secretly to build a uranium enrichment plant and heavy water plant, the latter to support a reactor for producing weapons-grade plutonium.

The Washington Post and Time magazine reported that a nuclear power facility at Natanz in Iran is closer to enriching uranium than previously thought. The plant has hundreds of gas centrifuges ready to produce enriched uranium that could be used in advanced nuclear weapons, they reported.

When the project is completed in 2005, Iran will be able to produce enough enriched uranium for several nuclear bombs, the Post reported.

An Iranian opposition group reportedly exposed the pilot uranium enrichment plant, an account Fleischer bolstered.

"Iran admitted the existence of these facilities only after it had no choice, only because they have been made public by an Iranian opposition group," he said. "There is no economic justification for this, and it does remain a matter of great concern."

TAXING EFFORT

Photos by Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Manhattan residents wait for assistance with their tax returns at the Manhattan Public library.

Volunteers aid city, campus in tax preparation

By Katie Copeland
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Spending countless hours from January through April shuffling through mounds of paperwork is a way of life for tax preparation professionals.

Some K-State accounting students are doing the same, but they aren't padding their college tuition accounts — they are giving back to their community while gaining the experience they need.

As the April 15 tax deadline creeps closer, people are lining up to have their forms filled out through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program.

In partnership with the Internal Revenue Service, VITA

Kristin Swafford, junior in accounting, helps Rizana Mahroof, doctoral student in entomology from Sri Lanka, with her taxes at the Manhattan Public Library.

is a national program sponsored by K-State's Beta Alpha Psi chapter that provides assistance in filing federal

See TAXES Page 7

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

North Korea says interception of U.S. plane was defensive maneuver

North Korea test-fired a short-range missile Monday in an attempt to raise tension over its nuclear programs. North Korea wants economic aid from the United States, but Washington says the U.N. Security Council should handle the problem.

Page 3

Soaring gasoline costs crimping American lifestyles

The average price for gas, including all grades and taxes, reached about $1.75 a gallon Friday, the Lundberg Survey of 8,000 stations nationwide reported. The survey's record is $1.77, recorded in May 2001.

Page 5

Palestinian parliament approves creating position of prime minister

The Palestinian parliament approved the appointment of a prime minister Monday but vested the new position with only limited powers, making the reform fall short of U.S. and Israeli hopes of sidelining Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat.

Page 5

Winter wheat conditions mixed across state; conditions cause loss of crops

Winter wheat fields are starting to green across Kansas, but as much as 26 percent of the crop is in poor to very poor condition, the victim of unrelenting drought, a report said Monday. Early indications estimate 4 percent of the crop has been lost.

Page 8

Weather

Today 56 | 35

Wednesday 63 | 40

Partly cloudy

Scattered storms

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 116

Clafin Books and Copies

1814 Clafin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.clafinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Nest
5 Aerobics center
8 The folks
12 Conception
13 Skillet
14 Hitchcock classic
15 Customs
17 Mel
18 Peninsula
19 Owned by a man
20 Cranking device
21 Bart, to Homer
22 Come together
23 Smacks
28 Under-ground transportation
30 Bullets
31 It often precedes "com"
32 Askew
33 Models' paths
35 Zoo
36 Brewery product
37 Petrol

DOWN

1 Lovers' quarrel
2 "American"
3 Oscar —
4 Tie up the phone
5 Most of Iberia
6 Picks up the check
7 Response (abbr.)
8 U.S. bus company
9 Rhinoceros
10 Grand-scale
11 "Why not?"
12 Lateral check
13 Sate
14 Eccentric (abbr.)
15 Microwave
16 "— on first?"
17 Charlotte's creation
18 The Marx Bros., in "Monkey Business"
19 Somersault
20 Teeny bit
21 Verdi opera
22 Wash
23 They look OK
24 "— It Roman-ly?"
25 Cry
26 "Holy mackerel!"

Solution time: 21 mins.

Yesterday's answer 3-11

CRYPTOQUIP

DZ XLCGBTE XBMMKTC
OA GK B UXQATJU NIBQ
BMMBQKTONZ XK CLIIKQC
IQAD OQLOX EKUBZ

Yesterday's Cryptquip: IF A CLOCK HAS ALREADY EATEN BUT IS STILL HUNGRY, DOES IT GO BACK FOUR SECONDS?

Today's Cryptquip Clue: M equals P

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 21 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

STUMPED?

3-11 CRYPTOQUIP

DZ XLCGBTE XBMMKTC
OA GK B UXQATJU NIBQ
BMMBQKTONZ XK CLIIKQC
IQAD OQLOX EKUBZ

Yesterday's Cryptquip: IF A CLOCK HAS ALREADY EATEN BUT IS STILL HUNGRY, DOES IT GO BACK FOUR SECONDS?

Today's Cryptquip Clue: M equals P

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 21 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

There was an error in Monday's Collegian. An incorrect outline appeared with the photo from the Cattlemen's Day event. The Collegian regrets the error.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

Heavy cellular-phone usage racking up bills in Maryland

By Chuck Shepherd
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE

A Maryland state auditing office found, based on examining cell-phone usage of 74 state employees, that the state could have saved $130,000 last year if the 74 had switched to a higher-minutes call plan.

Keeping the faith

University of California, Santa Barbara, researcher J. Gordon Melton's new edition of the Encyclopedia of American Religion lists 2,630 denominations in two dozen informal "families" (e.g., 116 Catholic flocks, "hundreds" of Pentecostal flocks), according to a January Associated Press report.

Among the least mainstream: the (John F.) Kennedy Worshipers, the Nudist Christian Church of the Blessed Virgin Jesus, the Church of God Anonymous, the Church of the New Song (once offered porterhouse steaks for communion), and 22 that believe in UFOs (including the clone-happy Raelians).

Stall affairs

The British government proposed privacy-rights legislation in January that would permit people to have sex in public restrooms as long as they could not be seen by others using the restroom.

The week after that, the California Patriot (a publication of students at the University of California, Berkeley) reported that a university-funded gay students' Web site was openly discussing which restrooms on campus were the most hospitable for public sex (acts which are still illegal in California).

America's real gun problem

Some recent accidental self-shootings: Jason Gins, 19, Baton Rouge, La., January, in the genitals (gun stuffed in waistband during getaway from robbery); Michael Bent, 30, New York City, September, hit an artery near the groin (fatal) (fooling with gun in car while talking to his girlfriend); Randal Lewis, 40, near St. Louis, September, in the head (fatal) (while demonstrating to 12-year-old son how to unload gun); Robert E. Slay Jr., 55, Gonzalez, La., October, leg (trying on pants at an outlet store); Dr. Steve Kyplesky, 57, Raceland, La., hand (fumbling with gun in his truck's glove compartment); Dale B. Grimmett, 41, Ione, Wash., shoulder (pointed rifle at himself while cleaning it); 15-year-old high school student, Detroit, December, leg (bent over to pick up pencil in class).

Something else to worry about

In December, Robert John Cusack, 45, was sentenced to 57 days in jail for a June smuggling caper on a flight to Los Angeles. He had four endangered songbirds and 50 illegal orchids in his luggage, and when one bird flew off down an airport corridor during an inspection, the agent asked if Cusack had anything else. "Yes," he said. "I've got monkeys in my pants" (actually, two endangered pygmy monkeys from Thailand, which Cusack dug down for and handed over).

People worse off than Michael Jackson

Police in Lowell, Mass., said in January that dozens of young Asian women had purchased sloppy breast augmentations, nose jobs and eyelid surgeries from a Cambodian couple posing as doctors in a bloody "Frankenstein's workshop."

A Venezuelan couple were sentenced to from two to seven years in prison by a New York City court in December for injecting a rooster-comb derivative into the faces of 20 women as cut-rate wrinkle-smoothers but which scarred them for life.

Authorities in Guadalajara, Mexico, arrested fake "Dr." Myriam Yukie Gaona (a former stripper) in July for performing cut-rate plastic surgery on "hundreds" of women, augmenting the breasts and lips of some with industrial silicone and motor oil.

Yeah? What's the problem?

In February, the lawyer for former Ku Klux Klan leader David Duke (who is to be sentenced in March for defrauding financial contributors in order to feed his gambling habit) appealed to the judge to send Duke to an upscale prison, otherwise black inmates would tear him up.

Kenneth Hawthorn, a Jehovah's Witness proselytizer, filed a lawsuit in Adelaide, Australia, against a couple whose ram attacked him, battering him to the ground, as he approached the couple's door. (The parties settled the lawsuit in January.)

World's greatest lawyer

In Holmes County, Miss., in October, Mr. Chocwe Lumumba, Esq., earned an acquittal for his client, former policeman Eddie Myers, having convinced the jury that it was self-defense when he killed his sister-in-law (who was the assistant police chief).

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Friday, March 7

■ At 9:27 a.m., Adam Marston, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $2,500.
■ At 12:12 p.m., Jason Latham, 612 S. Delaware, was arrested for criminal threat and probation violation. Bond was set at $2,500.
■ At 12:25 p.m., William Flesher, 613 Riley, No. 4, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $100.
■ At 1 p.m., Nathaniel Duncan, Topeka, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 3 p.m., Travis Jones, 1514 College, No. D-11, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 3:14 p.m., Shiloh Howard, was arrested for burglary, arson and falsely reporting a crime. Bond was set at $50,000.
■ At 5:10 p.m., Shameke Strong, 2509 Church, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $2,500.
■ At 5:30 p.m., Ronald Young, 2221 Green, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 7:20 p.m., Seth Case, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $151.50.
■ At 8:05 p.m., Kristian Wright, 413 N. 17th, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. No bond was set.

Saturday, March 8

■ At 1:24 a.m., Nicklaus Weaver, Fort Riley, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.

■ At 2:15 a.m., James Rider, 1220 N. 11th, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:30 a.m., Nicole Thompson, 1720 Ransier, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

■ At 12:13 p.m., Shawn Brittingham, Fort Scott, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 7:19 p.m., Sherri O'Conner, Missouri, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 11:10 p.m., Tara Reece, 2205 Terry, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.

Sunday, March 9

■ At 1:50 a.m., Robert Whitman, Fort Riley, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 3:45 a.m., Andre Quinton, 1020 Yuma, was arrested for driving on a suspended license and DUI. Bond was set at $3,750.
■ At 3:14 p.m., Shiloh Howard, was arrested for burglary, arson and falsely reporting a crime. Bond was set at $50,000.
■ At 5:10 p.m., Shameke Strong, 2509 Church, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $2,500.
■ At 5:30 p.m., Ronald Young, 2221 Green, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 7:20 p.m., Seth Case, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $151.50.
■ At 8:05 p.m., Kristian Wright, 413 N. 17th, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. No bond was set.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ There will be a criminology and social service career fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the Union Ballroom.
■ Career and Employment Services will conduct an Experiential Learning Orientation at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in Holtz Hall. Call 532-6506 for a reservation.
■ Career and Employment Services will conduct a Resume Building Workshop at 3:30 p.m. today in Holtz Hall.
■ There will be an internship panel at 3:30 p.m. today in Union 213.
■ The BAPP Club will meet at 5 p.m. today in Calvin 212.
■ "The Gospel According to Harry Potter" study group will meet at 5 p.m. today in the ECM Campus Center.
■ Powercat Master Toastmasters Club will meet at 5:30 tonight in Durland 1029.
■ The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for supper and Bible study today at 6 p.m. at 1745 Anderson Ave.
■ SGA committee meetings today in OSAS conference room: Senate operations at 6 p.m. and governmental relations at 9 p.m.
■ The stop smoking program, KISS

(K-Stat's Inspired to Stop Smoking) will have an informational meeting at 6 p.m. today in Lafene 21.
■ The Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 6:30 p.m. today in Hale Library Tower Room 3.
■ The Pre-Law club will meet at 7 tonight in the Sunflower Room. There will be a question and answer session with Patent Attorney Patrick Woolley and the Honorable David Stutzman, Division III District Judge.
■ The Pre-Nursing will have their monthly meeting at 7 tonight in Union 209.
■ There will be a seminar in religious studies at 7:30 tonight in the ECM Campus Center.
■ Christian Explorers will meet for praise and worship at 9 tonight in the ECM Campus Center.
■ Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Contact Lindsey at 770-8103 or lc3339@ksu.edu by Friday to register.
■ Intramural entries will be accepted in the Recreational Services office today through Thursday for softball, 3-Wall Handball Doubles, 3-Wall Racquetball Doubles, Horseshoe Doubles, Tennis Doubles, Badminton Doubles, 3-on-3 Basketball, Triples Volleyball and Around the World.
■ Applications from the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are now available at OSAS, the K-State Alumni Center or at www.k-state.com/programs/currentstudent/homecoming.asp. Applications are due March 14.

Up next | In Wednesday's Collegian

News | Evaluating drunk driving
Driving on suspended licenses is on the rise, and police officers will learn how to evaluate drunkenness. Find out more about drunk driving.

Say HEESE DELICATERIES

Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 337-1909

A LOT CAN BE SAID ABOUT A LITTLE BIT OF SPACE....

IT WORKS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie
532-6560

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call 776-5577

Finding A Parking Spot On Campus A Problem?

Cobra Gas Scooter

Base Model Only
$599.95+ tax

MAJOR CREDIT CARDS ACCEPTED

Coiled for action! 41.5 cc engine makes the fastest scoot for your commute.

Stores easily in your trunk. Up to 25 mpg on gas.

J & L Auto Sales
2017 Ft. Riley Blvd. 785-539-1122

Don't want to see you on page 2.

BE RESPONSIBLE

Little Caesars

TUESDAY SPECIAL!

18" GIANT PIZZA

WITH 1 TOPPING PLUS AN 8 PIECE ORDER OF CRAZY BREAD

$8.99

539-3333

PLUS TAX DELIVERY CHARGE MAY APPLY

UNLIMITED

Night & Weekend Minutes

FREE Nationwide Long Distance

FREE Voice Mail

FREE Caller ID

25% Off All Face Plates

Kansas Wireless

305 Ft. Riley Blvd/Manhattan
785-565-9219 / M-F 10-6, Sat. 10-2

For one month. Some conditions apply. See store for details.

Stop In & Register For A FREE Year's Supply of Coca-Cola

Berta Rojas

"...guitarist extraordinaire."

March 13, 7pm

McCain Auditorium

Free Admission

classical guitarist

The Paraguayan Student Association

PRESENTED BY

Cook, Kohman offer advice for next year

Current SGA officers stress teamwork for newly elected presidential pair

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Zac Cook leaves his office after spring break, he knows his successor will do well.

Student Body President-elect John O'Hara will take office sometime after spring break, although the exact date is unknown because he also has to fulfill his duties as Student Senate chair.

"They're both well groomed for student government," Cook said of O'Hara and Vice President-elect Travis Stryker. "They know the ropes."

Cook and Student Body Vice President Todd Kohman said they learned a lot during their term, and they want to pass on some of their wisdom to the next administration.

"The year goes by at a whirlwind's pace," Kohman said. "Keep sight of your main goals."

Perseverance is a necessity, Kohman said, but it is not sufficient for success. Working with Senate, administrators and students is also important, he said.

Kohman said that keeping Senate's views in mind is important in making policy decisions. Without Senate's support, he said, the president's policies cannot get passed.

O'Hara's experience should prove beneficial, Cook said. As Senate chair, O'Hara attended Kansas Board of Regents meetings and many of the same events as Cook. The only real difference for next year, Cook said, will be that O'Hara will have to take on more public speaking duties.

After hearing O'Hara speak during his campaign, Cook said he doesn't foresee any problems with his speaking ability.

While public appearances are a big part of the president's responsibilities, Kohman said many behind-the-scenes relationships are important factors for a positive experience.

Kohman said he commended O'Hara and Stryker's plan to actively seek student input.

"I wish more people would have come in," Kohman said. "There are a lot of people who aren't student leaders that have great ideas."

Working closely with each other can greatly affect a presidential pair's time in office, Cook said.

Cook and Kohman disagreed recently on the campus smoking policy, but both agreed teamwork is key to maintaining a good working relationship.

"When looking at running mates, that's one thing I did and I know John did, was not pick someone for political reasons, but someone you know you can work with," Cook said. "It's definitely more efficient that way."

Kohman said issues, such as the recent plebiscite vote on smoking, should not divide the presidential pair.

"It's just a difference of opinions," Kohman said. "Don't let that get in the way of being a team."

Despite all the relationships necessary for a successful term, Cook and Kohman said time management can present one of the toughest challenges.

"Just schedule enough time at the beginning of the week, and you won't have any problems the rest of the week," Cook said.

Kohman, though, said he had trouble getting his schedule straightened out.

"I probably let my school side slack a little," he said.

Although O'Hara's duties will be similar to those Cook faced, there is one big difference, Cook said.

"He's stunningly single," Cook said. "He'd better not list his cell-phone number, otherwise he'll be getting all sorts of calls from the ladies."

North Korea fires test missile

By Christopher Torchia
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea test-fired a short-range missile into the sea Monday in what was seen as an attempt to raise tension further in the standoff over its nuclear programs and pressure the United States into negotiations.

The widely anticipated launch from a base on North Korea's east coast fit a pattern of unusual military maneuvers in recent weeks, including the North's interception a week ago of a U.S. reconnaissance plane.

"This is another show of North Korean brinkmanship," said Yoon Dong-min, an expert at the state-funded Institute of Foreign Affairs and National Security in Seoul.

"They are trying to raise the stakes in the nuclear standoff and trying to get the upper hand ahead of possible talks with the United States," Yoon said.

North Korea wants a nonaggression treaty and economic aid from the United States, but Washington says the U.N. Security Council should handle the nuclear problem.

In Washington, top Bush administration officials said Sunday the time still isn't ripe for one-on-one talks with North Korea and any lasting solution to the nuclear dispute will need the support of Russia, China and other nations.

"I think eventually we will be talking to North Korea, but we're not going to simply fall into what I believe is bad practice of saying the only way you can talk to us is directly, when it affects other nations in the region," Secretary of State Colin Powell said on CNN's "Late Edition."

Powell, on Fox News Sunday, said that during his visit to the United Nations last week, he worked with diplomats to develop a multinational approach to North Korea.

Democrats are pressing the Bush administration to begin direct talks immediately.

National security adviser Condoleezza Rice said on ABC's "This Week" that the United States isn't afraid to talk, "but we need to do so in a way that will bring maximum pressure on North Korea to actually this time not just freeze its weapons of mass destruction, but begin to dismantle them."

There had been indications that North Korea was planning to fire a missile. The Pentagon earlier cited a North Korean warning to ships to stay out of a sector off the east coast from Saturday to Tuesday.

Maj. Kim Ki-Beom, a spokesman at the South Korean Defense Ministry, said the missile was believed to be an anti-ship missile similar to one that North Korea test-fired on Feb. 24, the eve of the inauguration of South Korean President Roh Moo-hyun.

South Korean officials said the second missile was launched from a pad at Sin-sang-ri and flew 68 miles. It had a range of 99 miles.

South Korea was trying to determine whether the new test was successful. It had said the earlier one was a failure since it appeared to have exploded in midair due to defects.

The U.S. had sought to minimize the significance of the earlier missile test, saying it involved a small weapon and not one of North Korea's long-range ballistic missiles.

U.S. and South Korean officials are more concerned about a possible North Korean test of a Taepodong-2 missile, which analysts believe is capable of reaching parts of the United States, though there are widespread doubts about its reach and accuracy. In 1998, North Korea test-fired a Taepodong-1 missile over Japan and into the Pacific.

That test led Japan to develop two spy satellites it will launch later this month, the head of Japan's space agency, Shuichiro Yamanouchi, said. On Monday, Yamanouchi said the satellites pose no threat to North Korea, though he acknowledged that the situation is sensitive and security is being increased ahead of the March 28 launch.

In its first public comment on the March 2 plane interception, a North Korean newspaper criticized the South Korean military for objecting to the maneuver off the North's east coast, South Korea's Yonhap news agency said.

Smoking policy changes to be studied

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last week's plebiscite vote gave students the chance to voice their opinions on the future of the smoking policy at K-State.

Official election results showed that 2,121 voters, or 71.2 percent, said K-State needs to enact changes to its current smoking policy.

However, enacting a specific change may take a while, John O'Hara, student body president-elect, said.

O'Hara said one reason a specific policy will take time to enact is general response to the specific choices on the ballot.

According to the official election results, 991 voters, or 42.6 percent, said K-State should enact a campuswide ban, while 589 voters, or 25.3 percent, said they wanted an academic area ban, and 516 voters, or 22.2 percent wanted to have designated smoking areas.

Nine percent, or 230 voters, said they wanted to completely abolish the current policy.

"This becomes a little more difficult because it wasn't an overwhelming majority," O'Hara said.

Student Body President Zac Cook said the voter turnout was lower than last year's plebiscite vote.

"I was surprised it was down from last year," he said. "I really don't know why."

Cook said, though, that the message of the plebiscite vote was clear.

"The point of the vote was to raise awareness," he said. "The plebiscite vote is the official student opinion."

O'Hara said he has a plan for the future of the smoking policy. The first step is selecting his Cabinet members and other Student Senate leaders.

"I think the immediate plan is to get our key people in our Cabinet positions, meet with them and establish our plan and what we want to see happen with it on campus," he said.

The next step, O'Hara said, is to meet with the administration and discuss their vision for the future.

"Ultimately, they'll have to be the ones who step forward and enforce the current policy and help student government leaders establish a new policy that works," O'Hara said. "We can't mandate anything in regards to a smoking policy."

We can make a strong recommendation, and I definitely think the administration is going to be open to how the students voice their opinion."

Cook said in the future, he would like to see a movement toward designated smoking areas.

"I think there will be a movement on campus of providing education on smoking's health effects."

Although O'Hara said he did not have a definite time table of enacting the policy, he said Senate members will take precaution while implementing a plan.

"I think a complete ban on smoking right now is a drastic change," he said. "We won't make an irrational decision. We're looking for a compromise for the current policy and complete ban on students."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

suck it up.
A-1 vacuum

SALES & SERVICE ON ALL MAJOR BRANDS • vacuums starting @ $20 with warranties • service on all vacuums: $14⁹⁵

Blue Hills Shopping Center • 2311 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd. Manhattan, KS 66502 • (785) 776-6976

Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
Now carrying Rockies jeans

Lee's Western Wear

8424 E. Hwy 24
2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan

(785) 776-6715

Special Orders
If we don't have what you want, we'll gladly order it for you.

Mon.-Fri. 10-6.
Sat. 10-5

WELLS FARGO HOME MORTGAGE & Century 21
Knight Real Estate, Inc.

Proudly Presents
Home Buying Seminars
Two Evenings of FREE Education

Tax Savvy Financing March 13, 7:00PM to 8:00PM
K-State Alumni Center (Anderson Ave. & 17th, Manhattan)
Discover the bottom line benefits of 100% financing.

- No Private Mortgage Insurance!
- Lower payments and more tax deductions!
- Purchase a home for your college student!

National Home Buyers Program March 20, 7:00PM to 8:00PM
Century 21 Knight Real Estate, Inc. (2605 Allison Ave., Manhattan)
Want to buy a home with little or no down payment? First time home buyer? Less than perfect credit? Find out your options at this seminar.

RSVP by Tuesday, March 11, 2003, at (785) 537-2111
(Limited walk-in seats available)

FREE Refreshments & Door Prizes
NO Obligation!

STUDENT TRAVEL
start packing!

LONDON For $462
EURAIL PASSES From $249
HIP HOTELS From $18
(domestic and international)  explore north america

USA ■ CANADA ■ HAWAII
backpacking, cruises, tours and more

Fare is round trip from Kansas City. Subject to change and availability. Tax not included. Restrictions and blackouts apply.

don't miss your big BREAK

(800) 554.7547

pick up your complimentary, premiere issue of BREAK magazine at your local sta travel branch.

www.statravel.com STA TRAVEL

ONLINE •• ON THE PHONE •• ON CAMPUS •• ON THE STREET

THAI HOUSE

Good Food-Good Price
$2.50
Sweet & Sour Chicken
w/ steamed rice

Bring in this ad & a KSU student ID.
•Expires April 4.

Available Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday
from 5-9 p.m.

THAI HOUSE
587-8999
Manhattan Town Center
Picnic Place

UPCC LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.

SNL Comedian
Darrell HAMMOND
Monday | April 14 | 8:00p.m.
McCain Auditorium | Admission $10.50
To get your tickets, call 532-6428 or go to McCain Auditorium Box Office www.ksu.edu/mccain

HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

TO THE POINT Torture should not be used in interrogations

The capture of high-ranking al-Qaeda official Khalid Shaikh Mohammed presents an ethical question in the methods of his interrogation.

But despite any sensitive information he may possess, acts that violate the U.N. ban on physical or mental torture, which the U.S. ratified in 1994, should not be employed.

The New York Times reported on the deaths of two enemy combatants under circumstances that are now under investigation after a military pathologist said the deaths were the result of homicide. Those homicides were likely committed while the detainees were undergoing interrogation by U.S. officials.

U.S. administration has openly admitted to using disorientation and sleep or light deprivation, regularly considered to be acceptable methods.

Torture, although, is not an acceptable interrogation method regardless of peace or war time.

The use of torture by U.S. officials is blatant hypocrisy. If the United States is going to intervene abroad in the name of rights protections, our military and intelligence officers should leave no question as to our adherence to international law.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ARTS EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
	CO-COPY CHIEF

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Not only can I miss my 9:30 class on Thursday to see a Landon Lecture, I can also miss my 11:05. Great schedule for Landon lectures.

Yes, to the big girl in the Classy Cats: Spandex is a privilege, not a right.

What does Bush have against Irish people? Why is he picking St. Patrick's Day to go to war?

First you all tell us we can't smoke inside. Then you tell us we can't smoke outside. Where the hell are we supposed to smoke?

If Barbie is so popular, why do you have to buy her boyfriends and friends?

Wow, Lent is four months long? Last time I checked, it only lasted six weeks. Next time you want to make fun of Catholics, try checking your facts.

Global warming: an imaginary threat to the liberals. A joke to the rest of us.

You want cleaner air on campus? Then quit allowing driving.

Anyone else watching this Batman movie? Talk about cheesy.

Let he who has no weapons of mass destruction cast the first stone.

If I have to deal with sorority girls reeking of cheap perfume, then they can deal with me reeking of cigarette smoke.

I can't believe it. I used the word "porn" in my comment and got in the Campus Fourum. This confirms my idea that everything that gets in the Fourum is either inflammatory or has to do with sex.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

REC IDENTITY COMPLEX

Fashion comes before function for many users of the Rec Complex

America's body image obsession is displayed regularly in our very own Recreation Complex.

On any chosen day, a student may enter and find themselves in a world of fashion icons and popular culture despite the facade of fitness.

There are spurts of popularity throughout the year, and right before spring break is one of them. There are many girls coming in with very tan skin, despite the bitterly cold and snowy weather, jogging or stair-stepping in hopes of the perfect bikini body for the perfect tropical spring break location.

College guys can only follow along in the trend and jog on the upper level track, glancing into the aerobics area full of step aerobic aficionados. This very open and reflective aerobics area could be most embarrassing for the self-conscious stretching individual, but proves worthwhile.

Below, in the weight and machine area, fashion is king. The Nike shoes, Adidas pants, matching tank tops—all of these are staple items for a workout. One must have the best clothes to achieve the most efficient workout, right? Maybe not, but the average student cannot be seen without them.

One may walk around the Rec Complex trying to find just one machine that she can squeeze into before a girl with her hair stylishly tied up and her makeup perfect, down to the shimmer gloss, butts in and sits, eyeing the crowd.

The workout for them goes in shifts, or as they might say "reps," six thigh squeezes and then a 15-minute break. They must appear to be working out and manage to stay in shape because of the duration of the time spent there after dinner.

They come in packs of at least two and at most four and wander around in hopes of the alpha male approaching them. These girls are not the only ones there to check out the latest workout gear. The boys, with overgrown pecks and calves, pace in the weight area like wild cats in a zoo.

The guy's typical attire is the strategically aged new T-shirt with the sleeves torn off and a No. 1 on the back. He also wears the knee-length, double-layered mesh basketball shorts. He will grimace each time the weight is lifted to his chest and drops it from waist level to the padded floor below.

The perfect machine to go with their protein shake is being sat upon by another boy staring into the wall-length mirror at his flexing deltoids. He looks from himself, to the machines with the girls on them, and then back to himself before realizing that it is his friend's turn. The friend stands there with the rest of the males anxiously waiting for another weight to be put on the bar and the chance to prove his superiority.

This cycle continues through the evening, every evening, going late into the night. The female and male dynamic in the Rec Complex works harmoniously even with the small pack of those just there to workout, getting in the way at times.

My advice to those who leave with sweat spots and pink faces, those who go to workout, keep up the good work. The Rec Complex needs you. You are what makes it real. To those who go to pick up the perfect date party partner, it's obvious.

Lindsey is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at lrp6666@ksu.edu.

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

Illustrations by Anna Wetzel | COLLEGIAN

Lent not just time to improve self, time to criticize the faults of others

Lent is the best time of year to recognize what you need to improve about yourself. For me, it also gives me an excuse to recognize what everyone else in the world needs to improve on. I've compiled a list of some celebrities and campus officals I think have a few more "Hail Mary's" to say than the rest of us.

Bruce Willis

Willie is moonlighting his way into the music business again with his latest CD "The Return of Bruno." I listened to a few tunes from this disc, and it shows that he had fun making it. Too bad I did not have fun listening to it. His vocal range is pathetic, and he is the epitome of why not every white man can or should sing the blues. If there were a law against this impersonation of a blues artist, Willis would get life in prison.

Sylvester Stallone

Nothing like a 50-something, flabby, Rocky has-been splashing across the silver screen in "Rambo 4." That's right. The demolition man has expressed interest in this project in order to make a political statement. Would somebody please ring the bell on this guy?

President Jon Wefald

K-State's lizard-like leader has a lot to give up. Aside from bad toupees, Jonny has greed issues (e.g. no leeway on out-of-state tuition even though a certain columnist lives 10 minutes from the Kansas border). My recommendation? Step down and let an Italian take over. Enter Pat Bosco. No doubt about it, the budget crisis will disappear.

President-elect John O'Hara

Can we say wardrobe variety? The wing-eared wonder donned the same button-up blue shirt with the same black pants and the same black shoes throughout his campaign. Don't worry. Our tuition will help pad his new salary. John-boy: check out Banana Republic.

Student Governing Association

To our governing body: Quit dealing with stupid issues like smoking and SafeRide, and start dealing with more important issues, like the oh-so-popular stone wall that my own survey of four students showed that 100 percent of the campus supports. I wouldn't be against installing a few more squirrel crosswalks, either.

Vice President-not-elect Layton Ehmke

Somebody is suffering from an identity crisis. I get rid of the fella back in February to let him pursue this SGA thing.

But apparently, SGA and an overwhelming majority of students didn't want him anywhere near campus legislation. I'm a sellout and hired him back as a columnist. Not only that, the hippie is back on page 2's Banter and Bellow with my boss.

Wildcat 91.9

For Lent, the Wildcat needs to give up its disc jockeys. Not only are they inept in broadcast skills, they have no clue what the average human would find interesting. (Actually, I don't really listen to the station. I'm just keeping my fingers crossed that they read this and put my name on the radio.) By the way, it's pronounced Reh-STEE-voe.

Department of English

Away with the extreme feminists. Is it a requirement of the English department to hire female teachers who feel more oppressed as women than Angel Wilson? I'm speaking specifically to a certain few, some of whose names rhyme with "Nonnie Belson" and "Jelizabeth Godd."

Lent is oh so tiresome. It's hard making sure everyone upholds the same standards as me. Oh well. At least I can rest assured that for the next five weeks, the aforementioned can work to improve — via Reh-STEE-voe's column.

Paul is a junior in secondary education. You can e-mail him at restivo@k-state.edu.

Greeks win top award in division

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Fraternities have an award to add to their list.

The Interfraternity Council, the governing body for most K-State's fraternities, has won the Jellison Award for the fourth consecutive year.

Angie Goodson, assistant adviser of Greek Affairs said the award is given by the Mid-American Greek Conference Association. K-State's council won the top award in the large division.

To be eligible, the council must submit applications in eight categories, including academic achievement, philanthropy and community service and public relations, said Barb Robel, Greek Affairs adviser and executive director of MG-CA.

Jeff Rundle, president of the Interfraternity Council, said eight officers are assigned one of the criteria, for which the other seven fill out an award application and submit it to Rundle.

"I go over them and make sure everything is in order," he said. "Then we submit them to the judges."

The applications are judged on whether the the council is fulfilling the criteria that the judges feel would be the practices of a greek council, Rundle said.

"The council does a great job with programming and managing council business, as well as submitting applications," Robel said. "They pay attention to detail and make sure that their documenting is very thorough."

Rundle said the reason the Interfraternity Council has done so well is because of its participants.

"K-State has an outstanding greek system," he said. "We have a strong tradition of leadership, and we understand and fulfill the needs of the greek community."

FOR KICKS AND GIGGLES

Dustin Schultz, freshman in Biblical studies at Manhattan Christian College, practices soccer Monday morning at Memorial Stadium.

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN

Palestinian parliament approves a prime minister appointment

By Ibrahim Hazboun
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RAMALLAH, West Bank — The Palestinian parliament approved the appointment of a prime minister Monday but vested the new position with only limited powers, making the reform fall short of U.S. and Israeli hopes of sidelining Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat.

Still, the move did amount to the first formal curbing of Arafat's sweeping powers, and the planned appointment of Mahmoud Abbas — a moderate who has spoken out against armed conflict with Israel — seemed to offer hope of at least easing the deadly violence of the past 29 months.

"Enough of putting our destiny in the hands ... of one person," said Jibril Rajoub, who was fired by Arafat as West Bank security chief last year. Abbas' expected appointment, said Rajoub, meant "it's time to end the patriarchal regime which we were suffering from."

Many Palestinians were skeptical that the longtime leader would truly cede significant powers. Reaction from U.S. and Israeli quarters was cautious.

In the nation's capital, the Bush administration pledged Monday to stick with its plan for a Palestinian state by 2005, despite fears of Americans and nations worldwide of war with Iraq.

But a senior U.S. official speaking on condition of anonymity, said that before moving ahead the administration wanted to be sure a newly appointed Palestinian prime minister would have the final authority over all security and peacemaking.

Soaring gasoline prices crimping American lifestyles

By Daisy Nguyen
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — With gasoline prices climbing to near-record levels, some Americans are cutting back sharply back on nonessential driving or trading in their gas guzzlers.

Michael Giles said he stopped volunteering at the Salvation Army to avoid driving his 1990 Chrysler Imperial, which gets 22 miles per gallon.

"I'm retired and live on a pension, so I'm always pinching pennies," said Giles, 61, as he filled his tank in Los Angeles. "I can't volunteer anymore, and so somebody is suffering from that. I suffer because that used to give me something to do."

The average price for gas, including all grades and taxes, reached about $1.75 a gallon Friday, the Lundberg Survey of 8,000 stations nationwide reported. The survey's record is $1.77, recorded in May 2001.

Giles and other Californians are paying the nation's highest prices, with the average reaching nearly $2.06 a gallon on Friday, according to the Automobile

"It probably means fewer trips to the mall, fewer trips out for the family to eat. So this is going to ripple out through the economy"

Jack Kyser

CHIEF ECONOMICS AT THE LOS ANGELES ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CORP.

Club of Southern California.

The nation's highest price for self-serve regular was in San Francisco, at $2.10, the Lundberg survey found.

Charles Robinson, 59, of Kansas City, Mo., began cutting back his driving two weeks ago and now uses his car only for essential trips to the grocery store or the doctor or to pay bills.

Unleaded gas averaged $1.63 a gallon Thursday in Kansas and $1.59 in Missouri, according to the AAA.

"Everything came to a halt," Robinson said. "It's too much money for too little gas."

The effects of the high prices extend beyond the car owners, said Jack Kyser, chief economist at the Los Angeles Economic Development Corp.

For poorer people, "it probably means fewer trips to the mall, fewer trips out for the family to eat," Kyser said. "So this is going to ripple out through the economy."

Diesel fuel also is more expensive.

Fresno trucker Ricky Dunn, 46, said he is struggling to make ends meet at home because he is spending around $700 more each month for diesel for his truck, and that eats into his profits.

"I stay home more now," he said. "Last time, I filled just enough to get home from the barber shop. I was watching the (gas gauge) hand all the way home."

Roger Monay estimated he spent up to $300 in the past month to fuel his van for the 70-mile commute from his Lancaster home to work in Los Angeles.

"I couldn't take it anymore, so just yesterday I bought a used, four-cylinder car — a Ford Mustang," he said.

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M,W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #3
M & W 3p-6p
T & Th 4p-7p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont #1
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 2p-5p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $900

Wildcat Creek Sports Center

Broke?
Not Going On Spring Break?

Show Your Student
I.D. AND Receive 20% Off
Any Activity

New Range Balls Are In!

Always make sure to practice with the BEST balls in town!

200

250

150

100

50

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdl-manhattan.com email: rentals@mdlproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

BATTLING THE COLD

From left to right, Emily Miller, Trina Zarnowski, Carrie Higley, Angela Hasemann, Sam Marshall, Lindsey Duenow, Amanda May, and Emily Nuemann compete in the Sunflower Showdown in Lawrence last fall. The Wildcats swept the Jayhawks by winning all five races.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

Crew team heading south for warm weather, practice, competition

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

They say if you don't like the weather in Kansas, wait five minutes.

So the K-State rowing team has been patiently awaiting a break during the Flint Hills' frigid spring. With Tuttle Creek Reservoir iced over, creative practice regimens have been implemented.

"There's not a thing I can do about it," Coach Jenny Hale said. "I have no control over the weather, so I only stay focused on the things I can control."

"Some of that are the practices. We're taking the rowing machines and started lining them up in boats just like we would be on the water."

According to Hale, the team isn't falling too far behind schedule with the spring season about to kick off.

"I'm hoping we can get on the water at least to do some skill and drill work," she said. "The water is more timing. It's the legwork that you really need that time on the water for."

As cozy as it is rowing in the warm indoors, that doesn't mean the team isn't anxious to get out in the elements.

"It's pretty disappointing not to get on the water," said junior Lori Holcomb. "But hopefully staying on the ergs this long is making us much more mentally tough and ready to compete."

The team's first competition will come March 14-23 in Austin, Texas, where a week of practices will conclude with three days of competition at the Longhorn Invitational.

"We'll be doing a lot of training," Hale said. "I think the first thing we're going to do is put the boats together. I have some combinations in my head based on winter workouts and last fall."

Holcomb said spring break isn't much of a break at all.

"Texas is just a lot of hard work, getting on the water and feeling the boat again, finding the fastest possible line-up so at the end of the week we're ready to race," she said.

Senior Alyssa Adams said time in Texas is as important off the water as on it.

"Being down there and not having distractions of school and things like that, being able to row twice a day and get the boats to really gel together on and off the water, that's really important," Adams said.

"We're just hoping to put together a really fast boat and mesh well."

At the Longhorn Invitational, K-State will battle Texas, Duke, Southern Methodist, Iowa and Tulsa.

"It's always stiff," Hale said. "Texas is hosting, and they're always strong. Duke had a great year last year. Iowa is there. Tulsa will be somebody we have to take account of, but certainly not the kind of competition we'll see in other schools."

Holcomb said going against teams that have trained on water gives those schools an advantage. However, that may be negated by the quality of this year's squad.

"I think the team is probably at one of the strongest points it's been in a long time," she said. "We've got a great novice squad that's making the team a whole lot stronger."

In any athletic competition, winning is important. However, it's not always the most important goal.

"I think we go down there saying, 'Let's see where we can, in each individual race, perform the best,'" Hale said. "Where we stand as a team is not our priority."

When the Cats return from Austin, their season hits full stride. In addition to what Hale calls one of the toughest schedules in program history, the team will be looking forward to a new home.

A $500,000 donation by Jerry Hill in memory of his wife, Joanie, was made public last week.

In addition to the first endowed boat at K-State, Hill's donation will push funding for its new boathouse closer to the team's $1.1 million goal. The project is set to break ground April 19.

"It's a huge boost, and it's a badly needed facility," Hale said. "I'm just very excited and very thankful for all of the people who have helped to make it happen."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NCAA | Marshall, K-State agree to 3-game deal

Marshall added K-State to its 2003 football schedule on Monday.

The game will be played in Manhattan, on Sept. 20. It is the first of a three-game series between the two schools.

The Wildcats will play in Huntington on Sept. 10, 2005. Marshall will make a second trip to Manhattan on Sept. 9, 2006.

K-State was 11-2 last season and finished seventh in the AP top 25 poll.

NCAA | Georgia withdraws from SEC, NCAA tournaments

Georgia suspended coach Jim Harrick with pay and withdrew from the SEC and NCAA tournaments Monday after an internal investigation showed three players took a phony class taught by an assistant.

Harrick's future is unclear while the school and NCAA look into allegations brought two weeks ago by a former player.

Georgia, ranked 21st in Monday's AP Top 25, was a lock to receive a third straight invitation to the NCAA tourney, which would have been the longest such streak in school history.

The Bulldogs (19-8, 11-5 Southeastern Conference) were to play Arkansas on Thursday in the league tournament in New Orleans.

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL
ASSOCIATED PRESS TOP 25

Number of first-place votes are in parentheses. Total points and previous rankings are also listed. Big 12 teams are bolded. Team records are through Monday, when the poll was released.

TEAM	RECORD	PTS	PVS
1. Connecticut (44)	30-0	1,100	1
2. Duke	30-1	1,052	2
3. LSU	27-3	1,001	6
4. Tennessee	28-4	934	3
5. Texas	22-5	928	5
6. Louisiana Tech	26-2	843	6
7. K-State	27-3	832	4
8. Texas Tech	24-4	824	8
9. Stanford	25-4	728	9
10. Purdue	25-5	679	12
11. North Carolina	27-4	668	11
12. Mississippi St.	23-7	665	10
13. Vanderbilt	21-9	483	15
14. Penn St.	24-8	424	14
15. Minnesota	23-5	422	13
16. South Carolina	22-7	407	16
17. UC Santa Barbara	23-4	386	19
18. Villanova	23-5	369	20
19. Georgia	19-9	284	17
20. Wis.-Green Bay	27-3	260	21
21. Arizona	22-7	252	22
22. Ohio St.	21-8	181	—
23. Rutgers	20-7	139	18
24. Arkansas	21-10	126	23
25. Boston College	20-8	63	24

Others receiving votes: George Washington 55, Utah 38, Colorado 32, Washington 24, TCU 21, DePaul 18, Virginia Tech 16, Austin Peay 13, Cincinnati 12, Liberty 9, Chattanooga 5, New Mexico 3, Maine 1, Manhattan 1, Oklahoma 1, St. Francis, Pa. 1.

MEN'S BASKETBALL
ASSOCIATED PRESS TOP 25

Number of first-place votes are in parentheses. Total points and previous rankings are also listed. Big 12 teams are bolded. Team records are through Monday, when the poll was released.

TEAM	RECORD	PTS	PVS
1. Arizona (51)	25-2	1,779	1
2. Kentucky (21)	26-3	1,749	2
3. Texas	22-5	1,630	4
4. Kansas	24-6	1,546	6
5. Pittsburgh	23-4	1,425	7
6. Oklahoma	21-6	1,363	5
7. Florida	24-6	1,359	3
8. Marquette	23-4	1,356	8
9. Wake Forest	23-4	1,273	9
10. Xavier	24-4	1,179	11
11. Syracuse	23-4	1,131	12
12. Duke	21-6	894	10
13. Illinois	21-6	771	14
14. Maryland	19-8	747	13
15. Stanford	23-7	735	17
16. Memphis	22-5	653	18
17. Notre Dame	22-8	546	16
18. Wisconsin	22-6	545	24
19. Creighton	28-4	533	19
20. Louisville	21-6	527	15
21. Georgia	19-8	377	25
22. Dayton	21-5	349	21
23. Oklahoma St.	21-8	233	20
24. California	20-7	131	22
25. Saint Joseph's	22-5	109	—

Others receiving votes: Mississippi St. 106, S. Illinois 88, Utah 71, Butler 55, Connecticut 53, Missouri 18, Weber St. 16, Gonzaga 13, BYU 8, Kent St. 7, Penn St. 6, Troy St. 5, Holy Cross 3, Michigan St. 3, Colorado 2, LSU 2, Arizona St. 1, Boston College 1, Cent. Michigan 1, N.C.-Wilmington 1.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Gilson DeJesus forces a jump ball with Iowa State's Clint Varley during the second half of the Wildcat's 74-63 victory over the Cyclones Saturday night. K-State has won its final home game and first game of the Big 12 Tournament for two straight years.

DeJesus chosen to be part of All-Big 12 team

Forward selected for honorable mention

By Sean Purcell
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Hundreds of hours of hard work during the summer paid off for K-State forward Gilson DeJesus yesterday when the Associated Press named the senior to the All-Big 12 team.

DeJesus received honorable mention honors after he finished second in the conference in three-point shooting.

"I don't know what to say," DeJesus said.

"I don't know what I did to deserve that, but I just have to thank my teammates for helping me play the way I played."

DeJesus

DeJesus currently leads K-State in scoring, averaging 11.3 points per game, and is second in rebounds with 5.6 per contest.

"It just shows that if you put forth effort, you'll receive good things," DeJesus said. "I worked hard this summer, and I guess this is the reward."

The Wildcats play Colorado at 8:20 p.m. on Thursday in the opening round of the Big 12 Tournament. K-State split the regular-season series with the Buffaloes.

Wildcats swept in series

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State left Manhattan early in its series with No. 28 Arkansas by way of bad weather.

The Wildcats, fresh off of a win over the then-undefeated Razorbacks on Friday, had the second game of a scheduled four-game home-and-home series canceled due to freezing temperatures on Saturday.

After arriving in Fayetteville, Ark., for what turned out to be a three-game home stand for the Razorbacks, K-State was sent packing for Kansas by way of good baseball.

Arkansas won game two of the series in dominating fashion, downing K-State 12-4 on Sunday.

The third game of the series, the first of a doubleheader, got underway at 1 p.m. on Monday on George Cole Field at Baum Stadium.

The Wildcats competed like a team that wanted to regain the series lead in Monday's first contest and used RBIs from Pat Maloney, Ty Soto and Ryan Baldwin to take Arkansas to 10 innings.

But Arkansas' catcher Brady Toops' walk-off solo home run off Cats' closer Eric Rollins moved Arkansas to 12-1 on the season and gave the Razorbacks a 2-1 lead in the series.

"It was a first-pitch fastball," K-State coach Mike Clark said. "He got the barrel there, and he hit it quite a ways. It's just one of those deals where if you're going to get beat, they're going to beat

See SWEPT Page 8

Cats in 12th at Louisiana Classics

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State entered its third tournament of the spring Monday with hopes of making a run in the Louisiana Classics in Lafayette, La.

But those hopes vanished quickly as the Cats found themselves in 12th place after the opening two rounds on Monday.

Southern Methodist sits in first place heading into today's final 18 holes with a score of 568, 34-strokes better than K-State's 592.

The Wildcats are led by sophomore Matt Van Cleave, who is tied for sixth place with a 2-under-par performance at the 7,002-yard Oakbourne Country Club. Coach Tim Norris said he was pleased by Van Cleave's opening rounds, but the lack of another teammate close to him in the standings was disappointing.

"We've got Matt in sixth place, and then after that our next guy is in 35th place," he said. "We just don't have enough guys stacked up there in the top 20 to really compete. But as I say that, we're only four shots out of sixth place. It's very tightly bunched. We're 10 shots from being in fourth place. Those can add up pretty fast."

Junior co-captains Aaron Watkins and A.J. Elgert struggled Monday, both finishing at 8-over-par.

Golf results

12. K-State	296	296	592
16. Matt Van Cleave	71	71	142
135. Josh Persons	75	74	149
142. Greg Douglas	75	75	150
160. Aaron Watkins	76	76	152
160. A.J. Elgert	75	77	152

Norris said while those scores weren't pleasing, he was happy with what Van Cleave did to make up for his struggling teammates.

"The good part of it is that we'll have our two — on paper — best players bring up the rear," he said. "Matt was in the fifth spot today and played very well for us. We need everybody to get going

See 12TH Page 8

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN
Jeremy Bielski, senior in accounting and finance, works during a VITA session at the Manhattan Public Library.

TAXES | Program helps prepare returns for students, local residents

Continued from Page 1

income tax returns and provides answers to tax questions for the campus and community.

"Basically, we prepare income taxes for low-income families, international students and other K-State students who come into our site," Kristin Swafford, junior in accounting, said. "If students prepare their own taxes, they can bring it in to us to look at it to see if they've missed anything."

Since the program started Feb. 17, volunteers have helped file more than 60 returns thus far, said Tiffany Shinn, VITA chairwoman and senior in accounting. Last year, almost 500 sought help in getting their taxes done, she said.

The service, which is free and confidential, is offered to anyone seeking help in filing their taxes. Through April 10, volunteers will be at Manhattan Public Library from 4 to 6 p.m. on Mondays and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays. VITA is open from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays at the International Student Center and from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Thursdays at Calvin Hall, Room 208.

Taxpayers who visit the VITA site should bring their wage and earnings statement (W-2) from all employers, interest statements from banks (1099) and other relevant information about income and expenses.

While VITA is a free service open to anyone, the majority of clients are international students, said Kim Charland, Beta Alpha Psi sponsor and accounting instructor.

Learning how to prepare returns for non-residents can be difficult primarily, because they

Tax help

To get help on your taxes, try these sites until April 10:

- 4-6 p.m. on Mondays and 5:30-7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays at Manhattan Public Library.
- 3-5 p.m. Wednesdays at the International Student Center.
- 5:30-7:30 p.m. Thursdays at Calvin Hall, Room 208.

are subject to different laws and are not taxed on the same things, Shinn said.

Swafford said some see the returns as intimidating.

"Most people are scared of the foreign income tax returns because they are so different," Swafford said.

"But it's kind of a challenge, and it's fun to talk to the people."

To keep the program afloat, VITA relies on about 30 core volunteers who have been trained to handle federal and foreign tax returns.

"We have a waiting list," Swafford said. "We went in the first day, and there were maybe 20 to 25 people there with only three of us to prepare returns, and we had to turn half of them away."

Charland said the response was overwhelming.

"We've had more clients than our volunteers can handle," Charland said.

With the success of the VITA program, students are able to gain accounting and tax experience before going into the profession, Swafford said.

"It makes you feel good when you're done that you helped people, and they appreciate it so much because they can't do it or they don't know how," she said.

ROBERTS | Senate committee chairman discusses nation's security

Continued from Page 1

A: We won't act alone. We have 18 nations plus the Brits that are members of NATO. The Kuwaitis want us to take action in any way possible because they feel threatened. We don't have the cooperation of the unwilling. Both France and Germany will not support us if we use military action. But, when we are going through a Marshall plan to assist that part of the world, they will be there.

If you are the U.N. and somebody that is threatening world peace, I think with the intelligence we have that anyone who trusts Saddam Hussein not to be a threat — I don't think that's reality. We are the only country in the world with allies that can back up the U.N. resolution. We have the Security Council saying they are. It is a debating society with no force.

Q: Does North Korea and its nuclear program pose a greater threat than Iraq?

A: I think it's a mistake to say either of the three, War on Terrorism, Iraq and the North Korea threat. I hope we don't spend time arguing who constitutes the greatest threat to us right this second. They are all major threats, all challenges to U.S. security and will get worse with time. They all represent unique threats. They are all different and it isn't that simple.

North Korea is very dangerous and very unstable. They do have warhead capability. They have not invaded our neighbor since 1983. The military solution is not viable. You will start an Armageddon that is not the case with Iraq.

U.S. intelligence has said that North Korea has weapons that can reach the U.S. West Coast, yet Iraq supposedly poses no missiles with long-range capability. Why, then, are we focused on Iraq?

Could he develop missile capability in regard to hitting the U.S.? I think North Korea will put the assembly line to work with warheads, he could obtain one of those. He threatens not the U.S. but Israel and the countries in Europe. Five years ago, we were warning that the agreement reached with North Korea could not be checked with verification. There was no verification, and now they are going ahead.

Q: Do you think the terror alert system and safety plans create more fear than necessary in Americans?

A: The criticism is that the Homeland Security agency should basically educate and empower families, the problem is that intelligence is not specific. It is putting the pieces of the jigsaw puzzle together.

If you are Tom Ridge, it seems to be you are darned if you do and darned if you don't. The problem is that in quickly got over to duct tape and plastic which made it a topic to ridicule. We are asking people to do nothing different than any Kansan knows what to do in a blizzard or tornado.

In Washington, it is a different story. Each of my staff has access to a gas mask. I have one in my drawer. That's what we live with. Sometimes it gets to be very anxious, but Washington is a target.

You don't want an alert system to create fear and alarm. The average family member said 'What do I do,' and that answer wasn't clear. If you go to orange, there was fear and alarm in cities like Washington. People in Manhattan scratch their heads and say 'What is this all about?'

Just do what common sense tells you to do. If you don't have food supplies and you don't have a plan in case something would happen, it is a good idea to do that. You would do that anyway if you were faced with a storm, blizzard or tornado.

Q: Will America ever return to a state of less anxiety?

A: I am very much afraid that is not the case. I actually said in a 1999 statement that the terrorists would attack the World Trade Center again. I never dreamed they would use airplanes as missiles. We didn't think that. But, it wasn't a matter of it, it was when. Not many people paid attention. It would always be at the end of the speech.

SHOWDOWN | Powell expresses concerns regarding inspections

Continued from Page 1

not come on Tuesday.

Disclosure last week by U.N. weapons inspectors that Iraq had developed drone aircraft capable of dispensing chemical weapons "should be of concern to everybody," Powell said after a meeting with Foreign Minister Francois Fall of Guinea.

"This and other information shows Iraq has not changed," Powell said in an exchange with reporters at the State Department.

Iraq also has developed a version of a South African cluster bomb that could disperse chemical weapons over a target, department spokesman Richard Boucher said.

Iraq has said that it has destroyed all chemical warheads. Bush, meanwhile, made an urgent round of phone calls to world leaders, trying to salvage a U.N. Security Council ultimatum giving Saddam Hussein until March 17 to prove Iraq has disarmed.

Bush spoke to Japanese Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi, Chinese President Jiang Zemin, President Thabo Mbeki of South Africa and Sultan Qaboos of Oman, spokesman Ari Fleischer said.

Fleischer opened the door to the possibility of further changes in the wording of the resolution, or the March 17 deadline.

He said that a vote on the resolution would not come on Tuesday. But, he added, "It could be any day later than tomorrow."

On Monday, Russia said more explicitly than ever that it would oppose the new resolution.

Powell's meeting with the foreign minister of Guinea was part of the effort to gather a minimum of nine votes on the U.N. council to use force as a final option to disarm Iraq.

Fall declined to tip his hand publicly. "We are trying to resolve this peacefully," he told reporters.

French Foreign Minister Dominique de Villepin is on a parallel lobbying campaign to line up Guinea, Cameroon and Angola, the three African nations on the council, to oppose the resolution, due for a vote this week.

Powell rejected any notion of a bitter competition with the head of the anti-war bloc.

"We are both working for causes we believe in," he said. "I am not in competition."

China is a permanent member of the council and has veto power. Japan backed the new resolution Saturday, urging the council to pass it.

While Japan is not on the council, it is a major source of foreign aid — an important consideration for the poor nations on the body.

Rules of the 15-member Security Council require nine votes to adopt a resolution. If one of the five permanent members — the United States, Britain, France, Russia, or China — votes "no" on a resolution, even one supported by the other 14 nations, that single vote kills the proposal.

Powell said he would not be surprised by a French veto. Such a step by France, he warned, would "have a serious effect on bilateral relations, at least in the short term." Powell said he could not be sure where another veto-bearing nation, China, stood on a vote that could take place as early as Tuesday.

In television interviews Sunday, Powell and Bush's national security adviser, Condoleezza Rice, said they believed public opinion had been slow to follow the Bush administration. But they predicted the public and U.S. allies would come to support an American-led war with Iraq.

On "Fox News Sunday," Powell said "I think we're in striking distance of (nine or 10 votes). We'll be in intense negotiations over the next couple of days, a lot of diplomacy will be taking place."

Criticism rose from several quarters, meanwhile.

Canadian Prime Minister Jean Chretien contended that a U.S.-led war would give license to other nations who felt they needed to attack.

"It might be considered as a precedent for others to try to do the same thing," Chretien said on ABC's "This Week." "Where do you stop? You know, if you can do that there, why not elsewhere?"

House Democratic leader Nancy Pelosi of California drew a standing ovation from members of the Communications Workers of America when she stated her opposition to an Iraq war now. Bush has alienated allies in the war on terror, she said.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS

1022-1026 Sunset $345-385	1950-1960 Hunting $440-460
1212 Thurston $440-460	1837 College Heights $385

537-7701

1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502

MARCH MADNESS AT SALON 1

3104 Anderson
539-3626

HEATHER

- ✿ $20 Pedicures
- ✿ $20 Manicures
- ✿ $15 Off Women's Foil Highlights
- ✿ $10 Men's Haircuts

Please mention ad when scheduling
valid with Heather only
Offer expires 3/31/03

Study Spanish in Mexico Summer 2003

- Earn 9 credits
- Study in Zacatecas
- Live with families

Final Information Meetings

Tues., Mar. 11 at 3:30 p.m. in EH 123 and
Fri., Mar. 14 at 3:30 p.m. in EH 126.

Complete information and applications will be distributed at that time.
Questions? Please contact the Office of Study Abroad (304 Fairchild, 532-5990), the Department of Modern Languages (104 EH, 532-6760), Prof. Lucia Garavito (EH 007-532-1927; e-mail: lgaravito@ksu.edu), or Prof. Bradley Shaw (215 EH, 532-1988; e-mail: bradshaw@ksu.edu)

Sponsored by Dept. of Modern Languages and Office of Study Abroad

Pet Health ALERT

Have you had your dog tested for heartworms this year?
The Pet Health Center recommends annual testing of all dogs over 6 months of age

The Pet Health Center Heartworm Clinic will be
March 10-14

Call 532-5690 to make an appointment
Dogs must be at least 5 1/2 months old to be tested

The Pet Health Center at Kansas State University
Veterinary Medical Teaching Hospital
Quality, compassionate care...for life

NOVARTIS

Novartis Animal Health US, Inc.

MANHATTAN
SHOE REPAIR

REPAIRING

- PURSES
- SHOES
- BOOTS
- LUGGAGE
- BACK PACKS
- LEATHER COATS
- BALL GLOVES
- SATIN SHOE DYEING
- BIRKENSTOCKS
- LEATHER UPHOLSTERY HIDES $120

216 South Fourth • 776-1193

Bobby T's

#1 Sports Bar & Grill

$1.50
Margaritas
50¢ Tacos
$1.50 Draws
$2 Coronas

Taco Tuesday

Wednesday Night Karaoke 9pm

Spring Break
Specials

Bed Head Liter Sale

$80 Foil Highlight & Haircut
$60 Cap Highlight & Haircut
$35 Men's Highlight & Haircut
$15 Bikini Wax

AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS
Trendy styles with the experience you deserve!

1220 Moro • Aggieville
776-3600

Expires March 29, 2003

Tight Ass
Tuesday

$7.50 wells
$7.75 pitchers

JOE'S BAR ROOM
Home of the Tight Ass

Reservations call (620) 621-5142 or on the party

SWEPT | Problems at the mound determine Cats' fate in failed attempt

Continued from Page 6

you with the bat." Rollins (2-1) took the loss for the Wildcats. Razorbacks' closer Scott Roehl (2-0) picked up the win for Arkansas. K-State hurlers Jim Ripley and Sean Clancy combined for almost nine innings for the Wildcats and surrendered a combined three runs. In the final game of the series, K-State came out as a group with something to prove. A three-run homer by Soto gave K-State a 3-0 lead in the first. Arkansas failed to score in the first and the Cats added another run in the second. But the Wildcats struggled mightily from the mound from that point and gave up at least three runs in the ensuing five innings, including four in the fifth. The Razorbacks would add two more in the seventh while the Cats managed just one last run in the sixth and Arkansas took the final game of the series in convincing fashion, 18-5. Clark said finding consistent starting pitching was a problem for K-State in the final game and in the series. "In the four-game series, Ripley was the only starting pitcher that even got us past the fourth inning, so our bullpen was kind of used up," he said. "We just needed somebody to step in there and do a good job. "We just couldn't find anybody that would stop the bleeding. It got ugly in a hurry, and there really wasn't anything we could do." Freshman Jared Bunn (1-1) picked up the loss for K-State while freshman Jimmy Mobbs picked up the win for Arkansas. Wildcats' senior catcher James Baldwin led K-State offensively in the series, going 10-for-18 with five doubles and four RBIs. Still, Clark said offense wasn't the problem as the Cats dropped to 6-5 on the year. "We were playing good defense and we had real good at-bats," he said. "Even though we didn't score runs, we hit the ball hard all night tonight. But we didn't execute from the mound at all, and that really made it ugly."

Wheat conditions mixed across state; poor conditions prevalent

By Roxana Hegeman
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WICHITA, Kan. — Winter wheat fields are starting to green across Kansas, but as much as 26 percent of the crop is in poor to very poor condition, the victim of unrelenting drought, the Kansas Agricultural Statistics Service reported Monday. In its first weekly crop condition report of the season, issued Monday, the service rated 43 of the state's wheat crop as fair. Another 28 percent was in good and 3 percent in excellent condition. Early indications are that an estimated 4 percent of the Kansas wheat crop has been lost to winter kill, the statistics service said. More precise figures are expected after the crop comes out of dormancy. West-central Kansas especially has missed out on the winter storms, and crop insurance adjusters have already visited wheat fields that are still bare coming out of winter, said Brett Myers, executive vice president of the Kansas Association of Wheat Growers. "Much of the 2003 crop survived the mild winter, with 78 percent of the wheat showing no freeze damage and 82 percent showing no wind damage, the statistics service reported. Greeley County farmer Alan Peter said the drought is headed into its fourth year in his area. Most of the recent snowfall fell to the south, missing the thirsty winter wheat crop, he said. "It is still a little green, but don't ask me why," Peter said of the crop. "In my area, it still looks like we have some wheat — if we can get some moisture here pretty soon. If we don't get something pretty quick, it is going to be like last year." But Myers said the moisture the state received in the past 10 days has boosted optimism among some. "It is my no means excellent, but there are some average wheat stands in the state," Myers said. Precipitation across the state this winter has fallen short of what was needed to replenish soil moisture after last summer's drought. Subsoil moisture is extremely low in western and north-central Kansas, the statistics service said. Only 21 percent of the state has adequate subsoil moisture, the statistics service said. Topsoil moisture statewide was only a bit better: 38 percent adequate and 3 percent surplus.

But in drought-stricken northwest Kansas, the entire region was rated as having zero adequate topsoil moisture. The numbers were nearly as bad for its subsoil moisture, with only 3 percent reported as having adequate subsoil moisture. The lingering effects drought also show up in the agency's pasture and range update. The statistics service said just 12 percent of Kansas pastures statewide are in good to excellent shape. But 58 percent of the pastures remain in poor to very poor condition, while another 30 percent rated fair. Meanwhile, the first signs of spring are now making it into the government farm statistics: the statistics service said 15 percent of oats have been planted in Kansas.

12TH | Early season efforts leave room for improvement, higher scores

Continued from Page 6

and shoot a good round tomorrow, I know we're going to make up some ground." K-State finally found some decent weather to play in after struggling with the winter in Manhattan, but the scores didn't reflect any change. Norris said he was a little disappointed, but hopes his team will bounce back. "The conditions were really good all day, and we really didn't capitalize and really drop that second round score as low as it should have been," Norris said. "The tournament's not over. The guys are patient enough and experienced enough to realize that we've still got 18 holes left, and we still have a chance to have a good showing." The 15-team field will wrap up today, teeing off at 8 a.m. Norris said K-State's experience Monday, on a course no Wildcat had played before, should provide them with notes for today's round. "This is our first year here," he said. "This is kind of a local knowledge type course. I think the guys will come out and give it their best tomorrow. They need to use today and what they learned about the course today to help them get through the day tomorrow. "It's still very early in our season, so I think tomorrow will kind of show us where we are at this point in time."

Officials confirm terrorism suspect met bin Laden

By Kathy Gannon
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Pakistani intelligence officials confirmed Monday that a top al-Qaeda suspect captured earlier this month met Osama bin Laden in December and has produced information that has helped authorities close in on the terrorist mastermind. The March 1 arrest of Khalid Shaikh Mohammed, thought to be the No. 3 figure in the terror network, as well as information from other suspected terrorists has brought authorities "significantly closer to Osama," an intelligence official said at a rare briefing. "We find we appear to be just hours behind him (bin Laden). One suspect met with Osama in September, and Khalid Shaikh said he met with him in December," the official said on customary condition of anonymity. "We were months behind, then weeks and now hours behind him." U.S. forces searching for bin Laden are operating in Afghanistan's southern Helmand province, Mullah Khan, a director at the provincial Governor's House, told The Associated Press. Other operations reportedly were being carried out in Afghanistan's southern Nimroz and along the rugged mountainous border regions between Pakistan and Afghanistan. Murky reports have surfaced about more arrests since Mohammed's capture, including possibly of one of bin Laden's sons. The press conference at the InterServices Intelligence, or ISI, headquarters in Islamabad was the first-ever by the spy agency. ISI offered a short video of poor quality purportedly of the arrest in nearby Rawalpindi of Mohammed, suspected of being the key planner of the Sept. 11 attacks on the United States. Newsweek reported in its current issue that an Egyptian radical arrested in an earlier raid on an al-Qaeda hideout decided to cash in on the $25 million reward that was offered by the United States for information leading to Mohammed's arrest. The Egyptian also demanded an additional $2 million to relocate to Britain with his family, the magazine said, citing an unidentified Middle Eastern intelligence source. A law-enforcement official said the United States agreed to pay the reward to an unidentified informant, but wouldn't discuss details, according to Newsweek. The report could not immediately be confirmed. Mohammed told officials that he met bin Laden in December, but he refused to say where. He also had letters in his possession that he said were written by bin Laden. Pakistani intelligence said that U.S. agents were present at the interrogation. They said Mohammed was in Pakistan for three days but refused to give anything but his name in the first two days. This information was contrary to earlier reports that Mohammed was taken out of Pakistan within hours of his capture and that he was initially belligerent, telling his captors that he would never give up his boss, bin Laden. Also nabbed in the arrest was Mustafa al-Hisawi, the alleged financier of the Sept. 11 attacks, and Pakistani Ahmed Abdul Qadus, whose family is closely affiliated to the hard-line religious organization Jamaat-e-Islami. Mohammed's face was not shown in the short videotape although he was seen being handcuffed and having a black hood placed over his head. Only Pakistani police and ISI agents were seen involved in the actual arrest.

2003 Royal Purple yearbook Buy your copy for $34.95 in Kedzie 103 we've got the stories you've got to read. or call 532-6555

Will says:
"Let us print from your Zip, Floppy, or CD-Rom."

Clafin Books and Copies

Got Sandals?

Arizona

Orlando

Olson's Birkenstock

AGGIEVILLE
1214-B Moro
539-8571

BIRKENSTOCK

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Advertisers

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
ADVERTISING

532-6560

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!

Delivers the latest!

770-3333

stick it to me

Tuesday

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY-TUESDAY

DORM

12" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 12" POKEY STICKS $5.99
14" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 14" POKEY STICKS $6.99
M - TH. ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA • CAMPUS ADDRESS ONLY

Rock N Roll

wednesday

50¢ Pepperoni Wednesday / minimum 6
pizza sauce / ranch extra + tax.
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY MINIMUM DELIVERY $6.99

WEIGHT LOSS - FUN AND EASY?

Dr. Rick Tague would like to offer you absolutely free:

Body Composition Analysis & Introductory Visit

You will receive a computerized impedance plethysmography examination (which measures your muscle to fat ratio). From this exam we will generate a written report for you that includes your Body Mass Index, Weight Goal and other key health information. With this report, when you start, Dr. Tague will sit down with you and create a personalized weight management program based on your personal preferences and your individual physical, genetic and environmental characteristics. We will listen to you and tailor a program just for you.

Fun and Easy? YES!

Using an individualized high nutrient program (including shakes, bars, snacks and food from your own pantry) and FDA approved medications (if needed) your fat pounds will melt away making weight loss fun and easy.

If it feels as if you tried almost every diet there is...but still struggle with your weight...there likely is a medical reason causing your lack of success. Genetic, metabolic and environmental factors are typically to blame and it's not your fault! Quit feeling frustrated and depressed about your weight. Make the choice to let Dr. Tague help correct what is causing your weight problem so you can look better and have a more energetic, fun life.

Call Today. The first 15 people who call will receive a FREE individualized metabolic rate exam using state-of-the-art equipment that measures your resting metabolic rate. Information from this test is used to develop a program for you that will jump-start your sluggish metabolism which further increases your weight loss.

Call 776-4443 Now

Call 776-4443 today to get your FREE Body Composition Analysis and to find out how losing weight can be fun and easy.

STOP here for auto SAVINGS

HIT THE ROAD

Let Motorcycle Supply take you there

Minor Service
Parts
Accessories
Tires
Batteries
Helmets
Apparel

Motorcycle Supply

776-6177 431 S. 5th

Auto Tech, Inc.

Quality Automotive Repair

Brian Lippert • Kevin Luthi

2301 Tuttle Creek Blvd
Manhattan, KS 66502
785-587-9695

GOODSON AUTO TRIM

Complete Upholstering & Fabric • Custom Made Auto & Truck Seat Covers • Convertible Tops • Headliners • Boat Upholstery & Covers • Vinyl Tops

776-7679

201 SARBER LN • BETWEEN K-MART & WALMART

Planning a Spring Break Road Trip?

Is your car ready?

Westgate

Wheel Aligning & Balancing

776-4239

610 Hayes Dr. • Behind Wal-Mart

CLASSIFIEDS

Tuesday, March 11, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio one, two, three-bedroom available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

DUPLEX 900 square feet. Two-bedroom, two bath. All appliances. Close to campus. June leases. Call (785)456-8835.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

NEAR CAMPUS, one-bed-room apartments. 1832 Claflin. One-bedroom unique studio house, 909 Kearney (alley). August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549 or (785)539-5508.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

TWO AND THREE-BED-rooms. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0806.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Claflin.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets. Central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

TWO, THREE, four, five-bedroom apartments and houses. June OR August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

TWO, THREE, four-bed-room, one and one-half bath. Central air heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

120

For Rent-
Houses

2307 ANDERSON, six-bed-room house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/ dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1st 2039 and 2071 College View, three-bedroom, no pets, $750 per month plus deposit. Call (785)456-7255.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Four-bedroom house at 824 Laramie. Central air, washer/ dryer, two baths, yard. $265 per person. Utilities, year's lease and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE. Two bath, two kitchens. Living room, family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets. June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES-close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bath two and one-half blocks from campus. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Call Mike (785)632-5611 or (785)632-2148.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease, $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air. 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

FOUR-BEDROOM, WALK-ing distance to KSU/ Aggieville. $1000/ month. June 1 lease. Call John at (785)313-7473.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7113 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord. No pets. August lease. (785)539-0549.

NEW LEASING FOR JUNE, house on 1010 Leavenworth. Kitchen appliances included and washer/ dryer. Daytime: (785)292-4727, Evenings: (785)292-4342.

ONE, TWO, three, four-bed-room houses and apartments. June leases, central air, no pets. Call (785)313-4812.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BED-room house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer, $1050/ month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment; could rent as five-bedroom house.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/ month. 709 Bluemont. Washer/ dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, VERY nice condition. One block west of campus. Available June 1. No pets. $300/ bedroom. (785)537-4766.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145

Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE ROOMMATE need-ed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

PREFERRED UPPER-CLASS student male or female roommate wanted. Two-bedroom apt. available April 1st. $285.50 plus utilities across from city park downtown Aggieville. Call Merrick (785)371-1371.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for this summer or fall. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Rent $230/ month plus share of utilities. Located at 911 North 11th Street.

150

Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month (785)539-5907.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

ROYAL TOWERS

4 Bedroom
APARTMENTS

* 1500 sq. ft.
* Starting at $780/mo.
* Close to Campus
* Large Bedrooms
* Hollywood Baths
* Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
* Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough
Development
210 N. 4th St. C

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 Winnie. Newly remodeled brick ranch, spacious three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets. Quiet neighborhood, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706, evenings.

FIVE AND four-bedroom. Washer/ dryer included. Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

FOUR PLUS bedrooms. All amenities. June Leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)587-0183.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

LEASING FOR June, two and three-bedrooms within walking distance to KSU. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

ONE OR Two-bedroom apartments. One-half block to KSU. Some with washer/ dryer. No pets. June occupancy. $380 to $500. (785)556-6899.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM OFF campus water and trash paid. Available June 1 and August 1. No smokers, no pets. (785)776-3184.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4166.

THREE-BEDROOMS. All amenities. August leases. Close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-MENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition. http://www.rentkstate.com/ (785)776-4166 or rentkstate@lycos.com

TWO-BEDROOM TOWN-HOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apr.com (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)339-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

125

For Sale-
Houses

COLORADO RANCH for $100,000. www.winterhatch.com.

135

For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FIVE-BEDROOM MANU-FACTURED home $70,000. (785)537-1749.

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed one-third bills, $255 rent. Please call Chelsea (785)341-2263.

FEMALE roommate wanted for house close to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details, Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

MALE, 1219 Thurston. Washer/ dryer, central air. $185 plus utilities. Call (785)539-3609.

MALE/ FEMALE roommate needed. Four-bedroom, two bath, June lease. 724 Kearny. Call (785)776-3852.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

150

Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. 520 N. 11th. Two-bedroom, full kitchen, living room, extra storage, walking distance to campus and Aggieville. $280. (785)341-3449.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LAWN TECHNICIAN: part-time/ full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. Responsibilities include mowing, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello Suite 101, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

MANHATTAN CITY ORDINANCE 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

AD SALES, PR, Distribution. Part-time internship. Well-paid, flexible hours. E-mail resume/ GPA to ucal@bendnet.com with "intern" in subject line.

BABYSITTER NEEDED for two year old in my house on weekends during the day. Must have references. Pay discussed upon interview. Please call (785)313-2147.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext.1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)-293-3985 ext. 548.

DIRECTOR OF youth ministry, full-time. Must have love for Christ and young people; preferably trained or experienced in youth and family ministry; strong leadership, administrative, and teaching skills. Able to work cooperatively. To apply, contact Fraternity Church, 930 Poyntz, Manhattan, KS (785)537-8532.

WANTED FEMALE dancers to dance Wednesday-Saturday, 8p.m.- 2a.m. Old West Chuckwagon in Hayes, KS. (785)628-1113, (785)628-8844.

310
Help Wanted

CAMP TAKAJO for Boys, Naples, Maine. Picturesque lakefront locations, exceptional facilities. Mid-June through mid-August. Over 100 counselor positions in tennis, swimming, land sports, water sports, tripping, outdoor skills, theatre arts, fine arts, music, nature study, secretarial, and more! Call 800-250-8252. Or apply on-line at www.takajo.com.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000-$5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool managers for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opin-ions! Earn $15-$25 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com.

HORIZON CAMPS: Are you a dynamic, energetic, compassionate, motivated individual looking for the EXPERIENCE OF A LIFETIME? If so then Horizon Camps is the place for you. Horizon Camps is made up of five OUTSTANDING co-ed summer camps, seeking AMAZING staff to work with INCREDIBLE kids ranging in age from 7 to 15. Located in NY, PA, ME, and WV, positions are available in the areas of group leading, athletics, theater - arts water sports, outdoor education, and so much more. For more information and to complete and application please contact us - www.horizoncamps.com 1-800-544-5448.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LOCAL LANDSCAPE company hiring full-time and part-time positions for landscape maintenance/ installer, irrigation installer. Experience preferred. (785)776-1930.

LOCAL NURSERY looking for full or part-time workers for mechanized plant harvesting and container operations, above average salaries and benefits. To inquire call (785)776-0397.

MOVIE EXTRAS/ MODELS NEEDED. No experience necessary. Earn up to $150-$450/ Day!! (1888)820-0164 extension 1016.

NEED HARD working, outgoing clerk stockers. Twenty-three hours per week. Evenings and weekends now through Christmas. Retail and/or horticultural experience preferred. Pick up application at Eastside or Westside Market.

NEED PART-TIME babysitter for before and after school in my home until the end of school year. Call Aimee (785)784-2526.

OFFICE ASSISTANT, Part-time/ full-time. Upscale apartment community seeking individual to assist with activities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. 3.0 GPA. Ability to self-direct and multi-task necessary. Outgoing personality and excellent people skills desired. Training will be provided with possible advancement opportunities. Team-oriented and fun atmosphere. Business or marketing/ sales experience preferred. Send resume to: Westchester Park, 2100 Westchester Drive, Manhattan, KS 66503. No phone calls please.

WANTED FEMALE dancers to dance Wednesday-Saturday, 8p.m.- 2a.m. Old West Chuckwagon in Hayes, KS. (785)628-1113, (785)628-8844.

310
Help Wanted

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply on-line: www.campcedar.com.

TOP BOYS SPORTS CAMP IN MAINE! Play and coach sports- have fun- make $$$. Openings in: all team and individual sports, all water sports, plus: camp/ hike/ ropes/ rock climbing, ice/ roller hockey, office/ secretaries. Top salaries, excellent facilities, free room/ board/ laundry/ travel allowance. On-line application: www.campcobbossee.com or call: (800)473-6104.

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls and couples to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Visit our website at www.sombrero.com or write to us at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

MUSIC FANS: need music fans to assist in concert promotion. Internship Position. Involves touring for concerts. If interested in getting your foot in the door with promotions and music call Velocity Marketing. (866)716-9693.

400 open market

415

Furniture to
Buy/Sell

QUEEN-SIZE WATERBED frame $150, older couch $50, much older bed $25. Details and pictures at http://www.ozonline.net/~phynx/furniture.

500 transportation

510

Automobiles

1991 HONDA Accord LX. Two-door, five-speed,

THE EDGE

Tuesday, March 11, 2003

Page 10

FOR PLEASURE OR PAIN?

Questioning validity, possible harm of pornography

Story by Rachel Krier
Photo illustration by Jeanel Drake

Slinky music to the tune of bown-chi-ca-bown-w'ia, bad acting complete with long, lustful looks and poor lighting make the elements for the introduction to the average triple X adult flick, otherwise known as a porno.

For satisfaction, entertainment or just curiosity's sake, college students are viewing their share of pornography. Betsy Rowden, freshman in anthropology, said,

"Guys glorify watching porn, and for girls it's like a dirty little secret," Rowden said.

Emily Marvine, a resident assistant at Goodnow Hall and senior in music education, said pornography is not uncommon in the residence halls. From porn magazines being delivered to the residents' mailboxes to the posters of half-naked women or fully exposed men hanging on the walls, Marvine is not shocked by the presence of porn in the halls.

"A lot of people argue that watching porn doesn't hurt anyone, but it does," Marvine said. "It puts your heart on things that aren't healthy. There's no fulfillment in porn — that magazine won't listen to you or love you back or satisfy you."

Jay Dillon, freshman in secondary education, said satisfaction from a relationship with a real person is always preferred over a centerfold or images on a screen, but that porn does have its helpful times.

"When guys watch porn, we do wish we were there, but we don't want to substitute it for what we have in a girlfriend," Dillon said.

However, Dillon also said that after watching porn a few times he "starts to really feel bad because it makes it seem like my girlfriend isn't enough."

Many women object to their male partners looking at porn because they fear being compared to the models in the images, said Bronwyn Bridge, freshman in biology and pre-medicine.

Bridge also said porn is harmful in the way it "dehumanizes women and makes them objects rather than human beings."

On the other hand, Jon Kasper, sophomore in history, said that not all erotic material objectifies females.

"Some stuff on the Internet is pretty raunchy. It depicts women and sex in such a negative way. I don't know how it could be entertaining," Kasper said. "But when I look at Playboy, I don't see women as objects or just a piece of flesh. I see the model as a person, and that person has to be comfortable with herself before she should even pose for the pictures."

According to the Web site for the Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality, 15 to 33 percent (depending on the study) of explicit material shows men in power over women, portrays women in a demeaning manner and suggests rape myth, the idea that women enjoy rape and sexual abuse.

"I actually haven't seen anything horribly violent, just some stuff like pulling hair," Dillon said. "But sometimes it does seem like the girl doesn't want to be there anymore."

Whether the violence is subtly implied or blatant torture, any material that disregards the pain or discomfort of one person for the pleasure of another is harmful to society, said Angela Hubler, associate professor of women's studies.

"Anything that depicts sexual experience that's less than reciprocated, mutually enjoyable or wanted indicates contempt for women and reflects the attitude that they are less than human," Hubler said. "Representation in porn of unwilling sexual behavior of women helps create this callous attitude toward rape."

In experiments where people are heavily exposed to sexually violent material for one day, the change in attitude lasts about two weeks, said Tom Grimes, associate professor of journalism and mass communications.

"There does seem to be evidence that when you mix violence and sexual material it causes normal people to underestimate the dangers of rape and change their attitude toward women," Grimes said. "But what practical effect that has, no one knows. There just isn't enough research in that area."

Hubler said evidence is not necessary to consider violent pornography problematic.

"We don't need research that says pornography affects people's behavior to say this material is disturbing," Hubler said. "The fact that people are interested in seeing this material is disturbing. Why do people want to see coerced, unwilling sex?"

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN TIPOFF

A six-page guide to the 2003
Big 12 Women's Basketball Tournament

Tuesday, March 11, 2003

LOOKING FOR A FIGHT

8 Iowa State

Tuesday, noon

9 Kansas

Wednesday, noon

1 Texas

5 Oklahoma

Tuesday, 2:30 p.m.

12 Nebraska

Wednesday, 2:30 p.m.

4 Colorado

Thursday, 6 p.m.

Championship
Saturday, 6 p.m.
(Metro Sports)

7 Baylor

Tuesday, 6 p.m.

10 Texas A&M

Wednesday, 6 p.m.

2 K-State

Thursday, 8:30 p.m.

6 Missouri

Tuesday, 8:30 p.m.

11 Oklahoma State

Wednesday, 8:30 p.m.

3 Texas Tech

No. 1 Texas Longhorns (22-5, 15-1)

Starting lineup

F Kala Bowers (9.0 ppg, 5.3 rpg), F Heather Schreiber (13.5 ppg, 8.1 rpg),
C Stacy Stephens (14.1 ppg, 8.6 rpg), G Jamie Carey (11.1 ppg, 1.6 rpg),
G Tai Dillard (7.6 ppg, 4.6 rpg)

Off the bench

G Nina Norman (6.4 ppg, 2.3 rpg), G Coco Reed (4.6 ppg, 2.1 rpg),
F Annissa Hastings (2.7 ppg, 3.7 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Iowa State: 65-55 win (Feb. 15 in Ames)
Kansas: 89-47 win (Feb. 8 in Austin)

No. 4 Colorado Buffaloes (21-6, 11-5)

Starting lineup

F Linda Lappe (8.2 ppg, 4.1 rpg), F Sabrina Scott (10.4 ppg, 7.0 rpg),
C Tera Bjorklund (17.0 ppg, 6.5 rpg), G Kate Fagan (10.6 ppg, 2.9 rpg),
G Maria Billingsley (3.7 ppg, 1.3 rpg)

Off the bench

F Amber Metoyer (4.3 ppg, 3.6 rpg), F Randie Wirt (4.8 ppg, 4.4 rpg),
G Veronica Johns-Richardson (4.0 ppg, 1.5 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Oklahoma: 61-57 win (Jan. 16 in Boulder)
Nebraska: 74-54 win (Jan. 14 in Boulder), 70-56 win (March 5 in Lincoln)

No. 5 Oklahoma Sooners (18-11, 9-7)

Starting lineup

C Beky Preston (4.2 ppg, 4.1 rpg), C Theresa Schuknecht (11.2 ppg, 6.6 rpg),
G Chelsi Welch (12.1 ppg, 3.6 rpg), G Maria Villarreal (14.8 ppg, 5.1 rpg),
G Dionnah Jackson (11.7 ppg, 6.5 rpg)

Off the bench

F Lauren Shoush (3.5 ppg, 2.7 rpg), F Stephanie Luce (2.0 ppg, 1.6 rpg),
G Laura Andrews (4.0 ppg, 3.9 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Nebraska: 57-43 win (Jan. 11 in Lincoln)

No. 8 Iowa State Cyclones (12-15, 7-9)

Starting lineup

F Tamara Ransburg (10.9 ppg, 7.9 rpg), F Crystal Kemp (10.7 ppg, 5.6 rpg),
F Blair Waltz (7.2 ppg, 2.2 rpg), G Leila Menguc (2.8 ppg, 2.2 rpg),
G Aquanita Burras (10.5 ppg, 4.9 rpg)

Off the bench

G Nichelle Roberts (3.6 ppg, 4.2 rpg), G Stacey Becker (3.9 ppg, 0.7 rpg),
F Erica Hallman (8.2 ppg, 1.7 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Iowa State: 72-70 loss (Jan. 11 in Ames), 69-44 loss (March 5 in Lawrence)

No. 9 Kansas Jayhawks (10-17, 3-13)

Starting lineup

C Beky Preston (4.2 ppg, 4.1 rpg), C Theresa Schuknecht (11.2 ppg, 6.6 rpg),
G Chelsi Welch (12.1 ppg, 3.6 rpg), G Maria Villarreal (14.8 ppg, 5.1 rpg),
G Dionnah Jackson (11.7 ppg, 6.5 rpg)

Off the bench

F Lauren Shoush (3.5 ppg, 2.7 rpg), F Stephanie Luce (2.0 ppg, 1.6 rpg),
G Laura Andrews (4.0 ppg, 3.9 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Nebraska: 57-43 win (Jan. 11 in Lincoln)

No. 12 Nebraska Cornhuskers (8-19, 1-15)

Starting lineup

F Alexa Johnson (15.0 ppg, 6.7 rpg), F Amanda Cleveland (8.0 ppg, 6.6 rpg),
G Jina Johansen (5.7 ppg, 3.2 rpg), G Margaret Richards (11.4 ppg, 5.9 rpg),
G Shahidrah Roberts (6.8 ppg, 3.5 rpg)

Off the bench

G Greichaly Cepero (5.5 ppg, 5.1 rpg), F Laura Pilakowski (5.1 ppg, 5.4 rpg),
G Jessie Runty (1.6 ppg, 0.7 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Oklahoma: 57-43 loss (Jan. 11 in Lincoln)

K-State forward Megan Mahoney is one of three Wildcats selected to the 2002-03 All-Big 12 Team.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

No. 2 K-State Wildcats (27-3, 14-2)

Starting lineup

F Kendra Wecker (19.3 ppg, 8.4 rpg), F Megan Mahoney (14.0 ppg, 6.2 rpg),
C Nicole Ohlde (18.7 ppg, 9.1 rpg), G Laurie Koehn (12.5 ppg, 3.3 rpg),
G Chelsea Domenico (3.8 ppg, 2.9 rpg)

Off the bench

G Amy Dutmer (4.1 ppg, 2.6 rpg), F Brie Madden (5.1 ppg, 4.4 rpg),
F Jessica McFarland (2.8 ppg, 1.6 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Baylor: 65-55 win (Feb. 15 in Ames)
Texas A&M: 89-47 win (Feb. 8 in Austin)

No. 3 Texas Tech Lady Raiders (24-4, 13-3)

Starting lineup

F Plenette Pierson (17.7 ppg, 7.5 rpg), C Jolee Ayers (3.7 ppg, 4.7 rpg),
G Erin Grant (6.2 ppg, 3.5 rpg), G Jia Perkins (16.4 ppg, 5.4 rpg),
G Natalie Ritchie (8.7 ppg, 2.4 rpg)

Off the bench

G Casey Jackson (3.1 ppg, 3.6 rpg), F Cisti Greenwalt (8.3 ppg, 5.6 rpg),
F Miklannet Tennal (3.6 ppg, 1.0 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Missouri: 84-50 win (Jan. 28 in Lubbock)
Oklahoma State: 95-45 win (Jan. 18 in Lubbock), 83-48 win (Feb. 22 in Stillwater)

No. 6 Missouri Tigers (15-12, 9-7)

Starting lineup

F Evan Unrau (15.3 ppg, 7.4 rpg), F Stretch James (9.5 ppg, 5.3 rpg),
C Melanie Fisher (5.6 ppg, 5.6 rpg), G Tracy Lozier (9.5 ppg, 2.4 rpg),
G Kerensa Barr (11.6 ppg, 4.1 rpg)

Off the bench

F Myesha Perkins (4.3 ppg, 1.3 rpg), F Megan Roney (2.5 ppg, 2.5 rpg),
G Lauren Podratz (1.0 ppg, 1.2 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Oklahoma State: 87-65 win (Jan. 25 in Columbia)

No. 7 Baylor Lady Bears (19-9, 8-8)

Starting lineup

F Sophia Young (13.4 ppg, 9.5 rpg), F Stasha Richards (6.2 ppg, 3.7 rpg),
C Steffanie Blackmon (17.2 ppg, 7.9 rpg), G Jessica Stratton (9.5 ppg, 3.7 rpg),
G Ebony Jackson (5.1 ppg, 1.3 rpg)

Off the bench

F Chelsea Whitaker (5.5 ppg, 2.3 rpg), F Melanie Hamerly (7.0 ppg, 3.2 rpg),
G Jordan Davis (6.8 ppg, 2.5 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Texas A&M: 66-49 win (Jan. 22 in Waco), 97-54 win (March 2 in College Station)

No. 10 Texas A&M Aggies (10-17, 3-13)

Starting lineup

F Janae Derrick (7.6 ppg, 6.0 rpg), F Sabrina Mitchell (5.6 ppg, 4.2 rpg),
C Lynn Classen (8.8 ppg, 3.5 rpg), G Tocarra Williams (12.3 ppg, 5.1 rpg),
G Rhianna Reed (2.3 ppg, 1.4 rpg)

Off the bench

G Natasha Summerville (8.4 ppg, 3.0 rpg), F Lara Classen (2.9 ppg, 2.1 rpg),
G Mindy Garrison (5.8 ppg, 1.8 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Baylor: 66-49 loss (Jan. 22 in Waco), 97-54 loss (March 2 in College Station)

No. 11 Oklahoma State Cowgirls (7-20, 3-13)

Starting lineup

C Trisha Skibbe (17.1 ppg, 7.6 rpg), G Shelby Hutchens (6.0 ppg, 3.4 rpg),
G Meghan Craig (8.1 ppg, 3.1 rpg), G Thia Willis (8.1 ppg, 2.8 rpg),
G Chantoya Hawkins (7.0 ppg, 3.4 rpg)

Off the bench

F Cara Painter (1.9 ppg, 2.0 rpg), F Lori Allen (4.7 ppg, 3.3 rpg),
G Deidra Johnson (1.5 ppg, 1.7 rpg)

Head-to-head against 1st round opponent

Missouri: 87-65 loss (Jan. 25 in Columbia)

Wildcats change focus after losing chance at top seed

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State let the Big 12 regular season championship slip away on March 6.

And with the 73-64 loss to Texas Tech, K-State's third of the season, the top seed in this week's Big 12 Tournament was lost too.

The next day, Megan Mahoney said practice was a little different.

"It wasn't quite as intense as usual," she said. "I think it was more about focusing on the details and trying to correct the things we didn't do well."

K-State had trouble doing the right thing against Tech. The Cats committed 19 turnovers. Mahoney had seven of those to go along with Kendra Wecker's six.

K-State also was bad from the charity stripe, hitting just 14 of 27 opportunities.

Wecker said the Cats took a poor fundamental approach into the Tech game.

"It was the fundamental mistakes that cost us that game," she said.

So instead of heading into the Big 12 Tournament with a share of the conference title and the No. 1 seed, the Cats are refocusing on what put them in contention for those honors.

Part of K-State's success has to do with staying within offensive system — a system that suffered as the Wildcats tried to keep up with Tech's feverish scoring pace.

Mahoney said the system suffered on Thursday and led to turnovers.

"It was just rushing and trying to get things too easy," she said. "We need to settle down and just execute through our plays."

K-State lost to Tech for a number of reasons. But there are a number of reasons K-State is one of the top teams in the country as well.

One of those reasons might be K-State's ability to learn from losses.

Coach Deb Patterson said a loss like the one K-State suffered against Tech can go a long ways towards strengthening a teams' resolve.

"Certainly, when you lose a game where you feel like so much is on the line you're really hungry to respond," Patterson said. "And to find a way to get good enough to be better."

"You want to aspire to get there. And anytime you fall short of that, especially when you're close, you get more inspired to dig even a little deeper and learn even a little more and to grow even a little bit further."

One thing K-State might have gained coming out of the loss to the Lady Raiders is a chip on its collective shoulder.

Ohlde said K-State will be ready when March 11 rolls around.

"We are definitely hungry going into the tournament," Ohlde said.

March likely to bring tournament upsets

K-State could easily win the Big 12 Tournament.

All the Cats have to do is win two games to get into a championship where they will face a team they've already beaten.

The problem is one of only two conference opponents K-State didn't beat, Texas Tech, waits for the Wildcats in the semis unless the Lady Raiders are upset by Mizzou.

Or, God forbid, if K-State is upset by Baylor. And of course Baylor could lose to Texas A&M in the first round, and Oklahoma State could topple Missouri.

Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to March Madness.

There are always going to be favorites when it comes to tournament time because records are in place, the "experts" have figured out who the best teams and players are, and everybody thinks they have a pretty good handle on what's going to play out.

Then the games get played and things don't always shake out the way everybody expects.

No. 12s beat No. 5s, 2 seeds go down in the second round, and presto — chaos.

This year's Big 12 Tournament is a classic example of a situation you feel you can get your mind around pretty easily.

No. 1: Texas. And rightfully so. Jody Conradt's Longhorns will enter Reunion Arena fresh off of a regular season conference championship. Colorado, the 4 seed in the tourney, will likely be victimized by the Horns in the semis.

On the other side of the bracket, there's 2 seed K-State, a team that should have a rematch with 3 seed Tech in the semis if nothing really surprising happens.

But surprises are what March is all about.

The problem with predicting a conference tournament is teams are seeing each other for the second and third times in a season.

So the element of surprise, as far as team versus team goes, is lost. Teams often lapse into half-court basketball and trade punches rather than give up transition buckets.

And because the lower-seeded teams likely won't make the big dance, you're going to have groups of seniors, or groups of stubborn young women of a range of ages, with nothing to lose.

And teams with nothing to lose have a real knack for derauling teams who do in the month where people are constantly making a mental inventory of the green-hued wardrobe possibilities in their closets.

Adding to the possibility for parity in an already ultra-competitive conference is the Big 12 Tourney's new venue, the aforementioned Reunion Arena.

With a Texas venue and four Texas universities in the

BEN FEHR

Team reflects on season as one to remember

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While K-State has rewritten the record books this season, the Wildcats' focus has always been on the future. After all, the rugged Big 12 schedule and a stiff non-conference slate afford little time for reflection. Yet looking back, one can't help remembering the peaks and valleys of an eventful year.

"I think this season is just filled with what I would consider high points," Coach Deb Patterson said.

"I think first of all of the win in the WNIT Championship. I think that was a pivotal win for our program, because we had faced some adversity, and our team still had to rise to the challenge."

An early trip west and a possible tangle with then-No. 7 Stanford in the Stanford Invitational, however, tested the Cats' resolve early. Ranked a season-high No. 2 at the time, K-State skated by Temple before falling 63-57 to the Cardinal.

Some would say the Wildcats' ride dipped downhill. Patterson wouldn't be one of them.

"Going up to Stanford and competing very well there but falling short was also a pivotal point for us," she said. "We came back from the loss a smarter team and applied the lessons we learned there extremely well."

"It propelled us in a positive direction and taught us a great deal."

That direction included 13 consecutive wins and a climb in the polls back to No. 3.

"That was new, being ranked that high," sophomore Kendra Wecker said. "I'm not going to say it got to us. It's just a different feeling the way you approach and look at yourselves."

But inevitably, what goes up must come down.

A trip north on I-35 to Ames, Iowa, was in store for the Wildcats Jan. 29. The Cyclones tripped K-State with a 74-69 loss before the Cats left.

That low was made even deeper with an ankle injury to guard Laurie Koehn. She played only five minutes at Iowa State and would miss the next seven games.

"Those were low points at the time, but were something our basketball team was able to learn from," Wecker said.

Learn they did. In a rebound game three days later, K-State headed to Norman to duel with then-No. 18 Oklahoma.

It wasn't much of a duel after the first shots were fired, though. K-State rolled to a 74-45 win.

"That was important as a bounce-back," Patterson said. "I think it was significant because of the great challenge of winning on the road. It would have been easy for our team to become discouraged and doubtful."

K-State's confidence began to build once again as the Wildcats chugged to the top of the next peak. In winning seven-straight, the Cats knocked off Baylor for the first time in Waco, Texas.

"In going up to Nebraska,

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Laurie Koehn passes the ball to a teammate over Kansas' Tamara Ransburg during the second half of the Wildcats' 80-57 win over the Hawks at Bramlage Coliseum.

See HIGHS AND LOWS Page 5

See COLUMN Page 5

Steve's Floral
www.STEVESFLORAL.net
Voted BEST FLORIST In Manhattan
"Established 1983"
Serving You In Manhattan & Surrounding Areas
785-539-6227
Outside Manhattan 1-800-752-9105
302 Poyntz • Downtown (9, D6)

- Cut Flowers
- Silk Flowers
- Funeral Arrangements
- Wedding Arrangements
- Balloons
- Gifts
- Fruit Baskets

The BARN
At Kimble Cliff
"We sell memories"
ANTIQUES & Collectibles
Open Fri. Sat. 1-5:30 PM
Sun. 2-5:30 PM
Weekdays By Appointment
Betty & Neil Anderson
(785) 539-3816
6782 Anderson Ave.
Manhattan, KS 66503

Delivers the latest! Pizza & Pub
WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!
OPEN THE LATEST!
702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 11am - 2am
Mon. - Wed. 11am - 2:30am
Thurs. - Sat. 11am - 3:30am
Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out 770-3333

stick it to me
Tuesday
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
DINE-IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY
DORM special
12" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 12" POKEY STICKS $5.99
14" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 14" POKEY STICKS $6.99
M - TH. ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA • CAMPUS ADDRESS ONLY
Rock N Roll
wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Wednesday / minimum 6
pizza sauce / ranch extra + tax.
DINE-IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY MINIMUM DELIVERY $6.99

You Know You Want To...
Be Kissed...
Have Energy...
Get Some Cash...
Come Inside!
NEXT CLASS STARTS:
Tuesday, March 11th @ 6:00 PM in Lafene, rm 21
Reasons to stop smoking:
better breath, have more energy, save money,
not have to go outside to smoke - in the cold!
Call Lafene Health Center @ 532-6595
for more information or email kiss@k-state.edu
K-Staters Inspired to Stop Smoking

PAT'S PAWN & GUN SHOP, INC.
WE BUY, SELL AND TRADE
MON-FRI 9am-6am
SAT 9am-5am
GUNS
SMITH & WESSON
HANDGUNS • RIFLES
COLT • RUGER
SHOTGUNS
VISA 506 Riley St. • Ogden 539-0151 MasterCard

Affordable Health Insurance For College Students
JOSH SALMANS
Agent
Town East Shopping Center
463 East Poyntz (By K-Mart)
Manhattan, KS 66502-5045
Off. (785) 776-8754
Fax: (785) 776-8841
STATE FARM INSURANCE COMPANIES
HOME OFFICES: BLOOMINGTON, ILLINOIS
"Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there"

SUPER TIRE SALE
Save 50% on Tire Installation
Package Now thru March 17th!
Package Includes Mounting, Wheel Balance, Tire Valve and Road Hazard Coverage
Welcome to ExpertTire
Open Sunday 10AM-4PM
Winter Tire Sale!

SPECIAL PURCHASE
Our Everyday Lowest Priced
Radial for Domestic and Import Cars.
40,000 Mile Limited Warranty*
$24.75 Each
P155/80R13 P175/80R13 P165/80R13
$26.75 Each
P175/80R13 P185/80R13 P185/70R13
$28.75 Each
P185/70R13 P185/75R14 P185/70R14
$32.75 Each
P205/70R14 P215/70R15 P215/75R14 P225/75R15 P215/70R14 P235/75R15 P205/70R15

LEMANS CHAMPION SE
All-Season, Affordable Radial
50,000 Mile Limited Warranty*
$29.99 Each
P155/80R13 P165/80R13
$34.99 Each
P175/80R13 P185/70R13 P175/70R13 P175/70R14 P185/80R13 P185/75R14
$39.99 Each
P175/65R14 P205/75R14 P185/70R14 P205/70R14 P185/65R14 P205/75R15 P195/75R14 P205/65R15 P195/70R14
$44.99 Each
P215/70R14 P215/70R15 P205/70R15 P225/75R15 P215/75R15 P235/75R15

LEMANS TOURING
60,000 Mile Limited Warranty*
$39.99 Each
P175/65R14 P195/75R14 P185/75R14
$44.99 Each
P185/70R14 P205/70R14 P185/65R14 P195/65R15 P195/70R14 P205/75R15 P205/75R14
$49.99 Each
P195/65R15 P215/70R15 P205/65R15 P225/75R15 P215/75R15 P225/70R15
$54.99 Each
P235/75R15

Oil Change and Filter
• Filter • 5 quarts premium oil (5W20 Add $5)
• Lube (when applicable)
• Free Courtesy Check
$9.99 (offer ends MAR 17 03)
Synthetic Blend Oil
Protects your engine parts better than conventional motor oil
Only $19.99

Maintenance Tune-Up
• Install new spark plugs
• Visually inspect ignition wires, distributor cap / rotor, filters & more
• Set timing / adjust idle (if applicable)
Most 4 cylinder electronic ignition engines, 8 & 6 cylinder vehicles, 1995 & newer. Transverse V-6 & V-8 engines, A/C, battery and oil change extra. Additional charge for shop supplies and disposal fees.
$39.99 for 4 cylinder vehicles
$44.99 for 6 cylinder vehicles
$34.99 for 4 cylinder vehicles (offer ends MAR 17 03)

Disc Brake Service & Brake System Flush
• Flush all old brake fluid
• Refill with new brake fluid
• Install brake pads and shoes
• Resurface drums and rotors
• Adjust drum brakes (on serviced axle)
• Test drive vehicle
Price is per axle for most vehicles with front disc and rear drum brakes. A refund disc systems require higher. Minimum monthly payment required. For shop supplies and disposal fees.
$129.99 (offer ends MAR 17 03)

Wiper Blades, Headlamps, Air Filters, & Fuel Filters
• Save on installed purchase price
Additional charge for shop supplies and disposal fees.
25% OFF (offer ends MAR 17 03)

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE!
Minimum monthly payment required.
MANHATTAN
307 N. 3rd Street 776-8311
Monday-Friday 7:00am-7:00pm
Saturday 7:00am-5:00pm
Sunday 10am-5:00pm
Visit Our Website At: www.ExpertTire.com
For Career Opportunities, call 1 877PITCREWS or visit us on the web: bfmastercare.com
24 Hour KEY DROP
We Also Have: 45 MINUTE SERVICE
Shop fees in the amount of 2% of labor charges will be added to all services, up to a maximum charge of $20; not applicable in California or New York. Financing product offerings and brand designs may vary. Prices, warranties, MasterCard Car Service, credit plans and other offers available at Firestone Tire & Service Centers and Tire Station. All offers are subject to change without notice. Actual tire price may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on originally installed vehicle. See retailer for details. Restrictions and copy on each limited warranty. *Credit terms made available by Credit First, N.A. No payment for 90 days on qualifying purchases. No interest for 90 days on qualifying purchases. Minimum monthly payment required. Accrued interest assessed from original purchase date if not paid in full within 90 days. Subject to credit approval. Interest at a variable rate of 21.94% APR as of 10/1/02 (APR may vary). Minimum finance charge $0.50. See store for details. P1788

2 K-State forward Kendra Wecker

How?

Wecker earned the Big 12 regular season scoring title with a 19.3 points-per-game average. The first-team All Big 12 selection also was fourth in the conference in rebounding (8.4), second in free-throw percentage (.859) and 10th in steals (1.77).

10 who can change the tournament

1 K-State center Nicole Ohlde

How?

The Big 12 Player of the Year was third in the league in scoring (18.7), second in rebounding (9.1), second in field-goal percentage (.570) and third in blocks (1.9).

3 Texas forward Stacy Stephens

How?

A Naismith National Player of the Year finalist, Stephens was one of only four players to finish in the top 12 in Big 12 scoring, rebounding and field goal percentage with league averages of 15.0 ppg (9th), 8.8 rpg (3rd) and 49-percent field goal shooting (9th).

4 Texas guard Jamie Carey

How?

Carey (11.1 ppg, 41 3-pointers made) was third in the Big 12 in field goal percentage (.862), fourth in three-point percentage (.453) and second in assist/turnover ratio (1.9). In league games, she averaged 10.9 points, 3.94 assists, and 1.81 3-pointers.

5 Colorado guard Kate Fagan

How?

Fagan, Colorado's best outside threat, hit 54 3-pointers in 27 games for the Buffaloes this season. Fagan also was nearly perfect from the charity stripe. The CU guard missed only one free throw all season (58-of-59).

6 Tech forward Plenette Pierson

How?

Pierson, the Lady Raiders' primary threat inside, played under 27 minutes per contest this season, but she made the most of her time. She finished fourth in the conference in scoring, ninth in rebounding, sixth in field-goal percentage and tenth in blocked shots.

7 Missouri guard Kerensa Barr

How?

Barr is second in Missouri history in both assists and steals, and is just nine assists from breaking the all-time school record of 470. In addition, Barr is on pace to finish as the Tigers' most accurate free-throw shooter in program history, and is currently second on the squad with her 11.8 points per game average.

8 Colorado forward Sabrina Scott

How?

Scott will team with first-team All Big 12 frontcourt teammate Tera Bjorklund to provide a potent Colorado post attack. Scott ranks first in the Big 12 in 3-point field-goal percentage (.523), 12th in the conference in rebounding (6.9) and 29th in scoring (9.7).

9 Baylor guard Jessika Stratton

How?

Stratton leads the Lady Bears with 114 assists, ranks second in free-throw shooting (.841). She also ranks second in the Big 12 in 3-point percentage (.470) and third in free-throw percentage. Stratton is No. 9 on Baylor's career assists list with 254.

10 Baylor center Sophia Young

How?

Young, the Big 12's Freshman of the Year, scored in double figures in 20 of the Lady Bears' games and pulled down double digit rebounds in 14 contests. She leads the Big 12 in rebounding at 9.5 boards per contest, and has posted 13 double-doubles, the second-most in the Big 12 this season.

2002-03 Big 12 women's basketball statistics

Individual leaders

Scoring

Player-Team	Points	Pts/G
1. Kendra Wecker-KSU	580	19.3
2. Lindsey Wilson-ISU	514	19.0
3. Nicole Ohlde-KSU	561	18.7
4. Plenette Pierson-TTU	496	17.7
5. Steffanie Blackmon-BU	465	17.2
6. Trisha Skibbe-OSU	461	17.1
7. Tera Bjorklund-CU	460	17.0
8. Jia Perkins-TTU	459	16.4
9. Evan Unrau-MU	412	15.3
10. Alexa Johnson-NU	404	15.0

Rebounding

Player-Team	Rebs	Reb/G
1. Sophia Young-BU	266	9.5
2. Nicole Ohlde-KSU	273	9.1
3. Stacy Stephens-UT	232	8.6
4. Kendra Wecker-KSU	251	8.4
5. Heather Schreiber-UT	219	8.1
6. Tamara Ransburg-KU	214	7.9
7. Steffanie Blackmon-BU	213	7.9
8. Trisha Skibbe-OSU	206	7.6
9. Plenette Pierson-TTU	210	7.5
10. Evan Unrau-MU	201	7.4

Field-goal percentage

Player-Team	FG	FGA	Pct
1. Maria Villarmel-OU	155	269	.576
2. Nicole Ohlde-KSU	219	384	.570
3. Sophia Young-BU	163	291	.560
4. Melanie Hamerly-BU	87	156	.558
5. Tera Bjorklund-CU	180	338	.533
6. Plenette Pierson-TTU	189	369	.512
7. Cisti Greenwalt-TTU	89	174	.511
8. Megan Mahoney-KSU	152	301	.505
9. Tamara Ransburg-KU	115	230	.500
10. Stacy Stephens-UT	151	307	.492

Assists

Player-Team	Assists	Avg/G
1. Erin Grant-TTU	194	6.93
2. Toccara Williams-TAMU	144	5.54
3. Jina Johansen-NU	149	5.52
4. Dionnah Jackson-OU	147	5.07
5. Kerensa Barr-MU	136	5.04
6. Lindsey Wilson-ISU	131	4.85
7. Megan Mahoney-KSU	144	4.80
8. Jessika Stratton-BU	114	4.07
9. Chelsea Whitaker-BU	112	4.00
10. Chantoya Hawkins-OSU	104	3.83

Free-throw percentage

Player-Team	FTM	FTA	Pct
1. Kate Fagan-CU	58	59	.983
2. Kendra Wecker-KSU	67	78	.859
3. Jessika Stratton-BU	90	107	.841
4. Kerensa Barr-MU	58	69	.841
5. Theresa Schuchnecht-OU	98	117	.838
6. Linda Lappe-CU	71	85	.835
7. Steffanie Blackmon-BU	105	126	.833
8. Chelsi Welch-OU	85	105	.810
9. Jamie Carey-UT	63	78	.808
10. Chantoya Hawkins-OSU	58	73	.795

Steals

Player-Team	Steals	Avg/G
1. Toccara Williams-TAMU	116	4.46
2. Aquanita Burras-KU	70	2.59
3. Sophia Young-BU	71	2.54
4. Jia Perkins-TTU	70	2.50
5. Kerensa Barr-MU	67	2.48
6. Heather Schreiber-UT	58	2.07
7. Jessika Stratton-BU	55	2.04
8. Chantoya Hawkins-OSU	57	1.97
9. Dionnah Jackson-OU	51	1.89
10. Kendra Wecker-KSU	53	1.77

3-point percentage

Player-Team	3FG	FGA	Pct
1. Sabrina Scott-CU	31	62	.500
2. Jessika Stratton-BU	31	66	.470
3. Mary Coffield-ISU	45	98	.459
4. Megan Mahoney-KSU	53	116	.457
5. Heather Schreiber-UT	36	80	.450
6. Jamie Carey-UT	41	94	.436
7. Tracy Lottier-MU	53	122	.434
8. Kendra Wecker-KSU	51	130	.392
9. Kerensa Barr-MU	38	102	.373
10. Jordan Davis-BU	42	113	.372

Blocks

Player-Team	Blocks	Avg/G
1. Cisti Greenwalt-TTU	74	2.64
2. Tamara Ransburg-KU	64	2.37
3. Nicole Ohlde-KSU	57	1.90
4. Steffanie Blackmon-BU	44	1.63
5. Amanda Cleveland-NU	40	1.48
6. Melanie Hamerly-BU	41	1.46
7. Stretch James-MU	38	1.41
8. Briie Madden-KSU	42	1.40
9. Trisha Skibbe-OSU	37	1.37
10. Plenette Pierson-TTU	38	1.36

Team leaders

Scoring offense

Team	Points	Pts/G
1. Baylor	2148	76.7
2. Texas Tech	2141	76.5
3. K-State	2265	75.5
4. Texas	2016	74.7
5. Colorado	1825	67.6
6. Missouri	1817	67.3
7. Oklahoma	1939	66.9
8. Iowa State	1760	65.2
9. Texas A&M	1624	60.1
10. Kansas	1607	59.5

Scoring defense

Team	Pts	Avg/G
1. Texas	1506	55.8
2. K-State	1696	56.5
3. Texas Tech	1621	57.9
4. Colorado	1571	58.2
5. Baylor	1657	59.2
6. Oklahoma	1803	62.2
7. Nebraska	1718	63.6
8. Missouri	1722	63.8
9. Iowa State	1729	64.0
10. Kansas	1819	67.4

Scoring margin

Team	OFF	DEF	Margin
1. K-State	75.5	56.5	+19.0
2. Texas	74.7	55.8	+18.9
3. Texas Tech	76.5	57.9	+18.6
4. Baylor	76.7	59.2	+17.5
5. Colorado	67.6	58.2	+9.4
6. Oklahoma	66.9	62.2	+4.7
7. Missouri	67.3	63.8	+3.5
8. Iowa State	65.2	64.0	+1.1
9. Nebraska	57.5	63.6	-6.1
10. Texas A&M	60.1	67.6	-7.4

Free-throw percentage

Team	FTM	FTA	Pct
1. Colorado	374	499	.749
2. Missouri	313	420	.745
3. K-State	340	474	.717
4. Oklahoma	468	662	.707
5. Oklahoma State	330	467	.707
6. Baylor	416	589	.706
7. Texas	386	549	.703
8. Kansas	324	466	.695
9. Nebraska	348	504	.690
10. Iowa State	305	446	.684

Field-goal percentage

Team	FG	FGA	Pct
1. K-State	856	1763	.486
2. Texas Tech	839	1794	.468
3. Baylor	811	1757	.462
4. Colorado	661	1496	.442
5. Texas	756	1729	.437
6. Missouri	679	1620	.419
7. Iowa State	630	1508	.418
8. Oklahoma	676	1630	.415
9. Kansas	600	1480	.405
10. Texas A&M	630	1675	.376

Field-goal percentage defense

Team	FG	FGA	Pct
1. Texas Tech	579	1692	.342
2. Baylor	583	1682	.347
3. K-State	633	1777	.356
4. Texas	543	1466	.370
5. Oklahoma	661	1723	.384
6. Iowa State	647	1659	.390
7. Colorado	600	1512	.397
8. Nebraska	632	1591	.397
9. Missouri	636	1525	.417
10. Texas A&M	686	1615	.425

3-point field-goal percentage

Team	FG	FGA	Pct
1. Texas	118	293	.403
2. K-State	213	551	.387
3. Baylor	110	301	.365
4. Colorado	129	354	.364
5. Missouri	146	410	.356
6. Iowa State	195	588	.332
7. Texas Tech	73	221	.330
8. Kansas	83	270	.307
9. Oklahoma	119	409	.291
10. Nebraska	90	310	.290

3-point field-goal percentage defense

Team	FG	FGA	Pct
1. Texas Tech	72	270	.267
2. Texas	85	312	.272
3. Oklahoma	119	410	.290
4. K-State	144	496	.290
5. Missouri	97	316	.307
6. Colorado	121	387	.313
7. Nebraska	123	385	.319
8. Iowa State	162	506	.320
9. Baylor	158	487	.324
10. Oklahoma State	135	397	.340

Team leaders

Rebounding margin

Team	TEAM	Avg	OPP	Avg	Margin
1. K-State	1207	40.2	966	32.2	+8.0
2. Texas Tech	1225	43.8	1001	35.8	+8.0
3. Texas	1132	41.9	939	34.8	+7.1
4. Baylor	1190	42.5	1012	36.1	+6.4
5. Oklahoma	1163	40.1	1064	36.7	+3.4
6. Colorado	960	35.6	926	34.3	+1.3
7. Nebraska	1035	38.3	1033	38.3	+0.1
8. Kansas	947	35.1	950	35.2	-0.1
9. Missouri	977	36.2	997	36.9	-0.7
10. Iowa State	978	36.2	1022	37.9	-1.6

Blocks

Team	Blocks	Avg/G
1. Texas Tech	194	6.93
2. Baylor	166	5.93
3. Kansas	124	4.59
4. K-State	135	4.50
5. Oklahoma State	114	4.22
6. Missouri	104	3.85
7. Texas A&M	99	3.67
8. Texas	99	3.67
9. Nebraska	92	3.41
10. Colorado	82	3.04

Assists

Team	Assists	Avg/G
1. Baylor	544	19.43
2. K-State	550	18.33
3. Texas Tech	471	16.82
4. Colorado	431	15.96
5. Missouri	411	15.22
6. Texas	396	14.67
7. Oklahoma	416	14.34
8. Texas A&M	378	14.00
9. Iowa State	347	12.85
10. Oklahoma State	347	12.85

Steals

Team	Steals	Avg/G
1. Baylor	361	12.89
2. Texas A&M	345	12.78
3. Missouri	296	10.96
4. Texas	287	10.63
5. Oklahoma State	284	10.52
6. Kansas	257	9.52
7. Texas Tech	259	9.25
8. Oklahoma	261	9.00
9. Colorado	226	8.37
10. K-State	235	7.89

Cats look to overcome south dominance in Dallas

By David Skretta
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Texas beat Texas Tech twice. Baylor beat them as well. Tech meanwhile, knocked of K-State. Incidentally, K-State beat both Baylor and Texas.

Confused? Welcome to the Big 12.

"It's a total statement that there's incredible parity at the top of this league," Coach Deb Patterson said. "There's so little separation."

That has been the norm in the Big 12. Last season, Oklahoma made a run to the national title game after winning regular season and Big 12 tournament crowns.

This season, Oklahoma managed to finish just fifth in the league.

"So much of the success in this game, when you play in a high-powered league like ours, is that there is a cycle," Patterson said. "The ones that have won national championships and the ones that have had support for 15 or 20 years, they never truly leave."

Texas Tech is one of those teams. In seven seasons in the Big 12, only once has Tech finished in the bottom half of the league. They rebounded to finish third this year.

Meanwhile, Texas surpassed Tech to claim the Big 12 South and their first conference title in 2002-03.

"When you talk about Texas and Texas Tech, they've always been there and they always will be," Patterson said. "This is the cycle where they've emerged.

It's their time right now to be at the forefront."

That goes for the Big 12 South as a whole. After seeing the tournament crown go to North champion Iowa State two straight years, Oklahoma staked its claim last March. This year, two of the top three seeds are from the South.

"The South, this year, established a real high, top-tier sort of dominance," Patterson said. "You look at the fact that Texas Tech and Texas had to play each other twice, they had to play us once and Colorado once, I really respect the ability of Texas to come through that schedule with only one loss."

That doesn't mean the North can't hold its own, however.

"I like to think K-State and Colorado really held fast in representing the North well," Patterson said.

Forward Kendra Wecker said the North matches up well with the South.

"You look at them and they of course have Texas, Texas Tech, Oklahoma — but you look at the North division, and Colorado and us and you know Iowa State can turn it on," she said. "It'll be fun to see how the tournament plays out."

With two teams from each division getting first-round byes, cross-division clashes are imminent.

"Every team, top to bottom, is good in the Big 12," Megan Mahoney said. "Colorado is a great team, Missouri is a good team. They can battle anybody in the South."

As can K-State.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN
 Megan Mahoney had nine points in 37 minutes of play against Texas in K-State's 71-69 win over the Longhorns on Jan. 25.

The Wildcats went 9-1 against North opponents while finishing 5-1 against the South. That record includes the only blow to conference champion Texas.

"It doesn't matter who you play, because it's tough," Wecker said. "Your top four or five teams are very good basketball teams. I'm excited about it for sure."

Tournament shifts south, affects Kansas City economy

By Sean Purcell
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Since 1997, Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium has been a mainstay for the Big 12 women's basketball tournament.

But change is inevitable. Dallas, Texas, will host this year's tournament.

"It was a blow to the city of Kansas City to see this great tournament leave," said Jeff Eastman, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for the Convention and Visitor's Bureau of Greater Kansas City.

Eastman said the economic impact for the men's and women's tournaments is approximately $20 million.

This year that money will go to the city of Dallas.

"This is a great opportunity to do college basketball right," Tara Green, director of sports marketing in Dallas, said. "The Big 12 has entrusted us with this tournament, and we intend to do it right."

Green said the Big 12 committee looked at changing the site in 1999 when many people thought Kansas City shouldn't be the only city with rights to the event.

Dallas seemed like the logical choice, Green said. Now the focus is on entertainment.

"Our big job is organizing Victory Fest, which includes pep rallies and other events for fans to enjoy when games aren't going on," Green said.

To compensate for the loss, Eastman said Kansas City has booked other events.

The Mid-Continent Conference basketball tournament is this week at Kemper Arena, and an NCAA wrestling tournament later will be scheduled for later this year.

Eastman said the wrestling tournament will easily cover for the loss of the Big 12 tournament, but after this year, Kansas City will have to scramble to find other events — including possibly trying to bring the Big 12 Tournament back to Kansas City.

The tournament will be in Dallas next year as well, then will return to Kansas City in 2005. After that, it's up in the air, Eastman said.

"This summer the conference will be holding bids to get the tournament," he said. "That might mean starting from scratch and selling the city all over again."

Green said the conference might be looking to establish both a north and south site to give teams in the respective regions a better chance to support their teams.

Eastman said the idea is a good one, even if that means Kansas City won't be hosting the tournament every year.

"Obviously, I think it should be in KC every year," he said, "but having the event in the north one year and down south another makes sense."

Southern Sun
$30 unlimited tanning
 expires March 31st
 3232 Kimball
 776-8060
 next to Bobby T's in Candlewood

Game Day starts at...

Varney's
 623 N. Manhattan Ave. • Manhattan, KS 66502
 Mon - Sat. 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Sun. 11 a.m. - 7 p.m.
shopvarneys.com
 Toll Free: 800.362.1574 • Local: 785.539.0511
 Web: varneys.com • Email: varneys@varneys.com

This SPOT is reserved just for you.
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING
 110 Redline 532-6566

GEAR UP
 As you move through life, rely on American Family Insurance. We'll help you gear up by providing reliable insurance protection.
 Call me today.

Clay Taylor
 315 Houston-G
 Manhattan
 539-6949
 claytaylor@amfam.com

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
 All your protection under one roof
 www.amfam.com
 © 2003 American Family Mutual Insurance Company and its subsidiaries. Home Office - Madison, WI.

Perfect Stitches Tailoring
 Alterations and Dry Cleaning
 219 S. 4th
 Manhattan, KS
 (785) 776-6912
 Susan Pickett

It's time to get your hands on Bernina's newest machines.

artista 200E, 185E and 165E
 Visit Bernina and get a hands-on demonstration of the newest artista sewing and embroidery systems, including the revolutionary artista 200E. Then, imagine all the creative projects your hands can make. Give us a call today.

Bernina Shoppe
 330 N. 4th St.
 Manhattan, KS
 537-8919

Nothing Sewn Like a Bernina Machine
BERNINA

©2003 Bernina of America • www.berninausa.com

READY FOR MORE?

NCAA BASKETBALL AND KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

March 23 & 25
NCAA First and Second Rounds
Bramlage Coliseum
Call 1-800-221-CATS for tickets!

OTHER TEAMS

Baylor | The Lady Bears have three players that combine for 112 blocks. Steffanie Blackmon leads the way with 44, Melanie Hamerly has 41 and Sophia Young has 36.

Colorado | The Buffaloes finished their 12th 20-win season and fourth 10-win Big 12 mark in seven seasons of the conference.

Iowa State | The Cyclones travel to Dallas as the No. 8 seed, their lowest finish since the inception of the Big 12 Conference and Iowa State's lowest seeding since 1995.

Kansas | In conference play, Kansas is the top free throw shooting team in the league at 74.4 percent as a team.

Missouri | The Tigers' 9-7 mark in conference play marks just the second time in 13 seasons that MU has finished above .500 in the league.

Nebraska | Huskers Jina Johansen, Greichaly Cepero and Laura Pilakowski all claimed first-team academic All-Big 12 accolades, while Alexa Johnson earned a spot on the second team.

Oklahoma | The defending Big 12 Tournament Champions enter this year's tournament as the fifth seed and will be playing on the opening day of tournament action for the first time in four years.

Oklahoma State | The Cowgirls enter the tournament with their lowest seeding since ending the 1998-99 conference season with a 4-12 record.

Texas | The Longhorns clinched their first Big 12 regular season title, going 15-1 in league action and is the No. 1 seed for the first time in Big 12 history.

Texas A&M | The Aggies finished in the lower half of the conference for the seventh-straight season.

Texas Tech | The Lady Raiders set the Big 12 record for blocks in a season with 194, including three against K-State in both teams' season finale last Thursday in Lubbock, Texas.

COLUMN | March Madness full of various potential outcomes

Continued from Page 2

conference, with Texas and Texas Tech both having a shot at the finals, I can easily see a sizeable atmosphere advantage materializing for Texas schools.

In my mind, as long as there is still a Texas team to cheer for, there will be a sizeable contingent of Texans to cheer it on.

And in the spirit of Texas, I think it's fitting to begin talking about possible sleepers by talking about the Baylor Bears.

Baylor has two players, Sophia Young and Steffanie Blackmon, who can flat play.

Blackmon was named second team all-conference, and Young received honorable mention. Both players average more than 10 points a game, with Young at about 13 per contest and Blackmon right at 17.

But what makes both these players scary is rebounding ability.

Blackmon and Young both pulled down 200+ boards this season.

The Bears also feature talented guards Jessika Stratton and Jordan Davis.

If you don't shoot and rebound well against Baylor, it's over.

Just ask Texas Tech, a team the Bears upset in Waco on Feb. 15.

All this and more makes the Bears a clear favorite over A&M in the first round and a real threat to K-State in the second.

Missouri is another team that could surprise.

The Tigers boast first team All-Big 12 forward Evan Unrau and All-Big 12 honorable mention guard Kerensa Barr.

Both Tigers average 15 points per contest and are capable of giving Texas Tech fits in the second round if they manage to get past 11th-seeded Oklahoma State.

The other side of the bracket is less open for upsets.

Colorado's strong post presence should effectively stymie a much weaker Oklahoma post attack, and Texas shouldn't have problems in coming up with a way to stop Iowa State's Lindsey Wilson.

There is a chance for upsets on both sides of the bracket, but I'm still going with Colorado, Texas, K-State, and Tech in the semis, with a K-State, Texas rematch for the tournament crown.

Who wins that one?

It could easily be K-State. The Cats already beat Texas. But Texas beat Texas Tech (which beat K-State) twice.

But then K-State beat Baylor at the same venue in which the Bears toppled Tech.

And then there's the possibility of...

Welcome back March. It's always a pleasure to see you.

Ben is a senior in social sciences. You can e-mail him at fehr7@k-state.edu.

COMING TOGETHER

Coach Deb Patterson rounds her squad up for a group huddle after defeating Kansas 80-57 in the last home game of the season.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

HIGHS AND LOWS | Cats try to stay positive

Continued from Page 2

down to Waco, those are all firsts for our program in quite a few years," Wecker said.

However, one big win in one big place still eluded the Cats.

K-State went to Lubbock last Thursday to meet then-No. 8 Texas Tech. K-State had a shot at its first regular season conference title since 1987. The bullet missed, however, and the Cats fell, 73-64, to the Lady Raiders.

"We squandered an opportunity to win the Big 12, but it's not something we're crushed about," Wecker said. "We can't be on a down feeling going into the Big 12 tournament."

So immediately following a difficult loss, K-State began working toward the next peak. It didn't take long to get there.

A day after the loss to Tech, junior Nicole Ohlde was named Big 12 Player of the Year. Wecker and sophomore Megan Mahoney were also first-team All-Big 12 selections.

As the regular season draws to a close, many other high points dot the 2002-03 campaign. K-State finished second in the Big 12, the best finish in school history. They swept their home slate along the way and have won 21 straight in Bramlage Coliseum.

With the Big 12 Tournament this week, Patterson said the tallest peaks are to come.

"We're excited about that chance to go down to Dallas and start this part of the season," she said. "Hopefully we can go down there and make it a long stay."

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1324 Westloop 639-8888

Lunch Buffet All you can eat!
$4.95

Dinner Buffet All you can eat!
$6.95

Friday Seafood Buffet
$7.95
Crabs, fish, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.

$1.00 off Buffet
Please present coupon and student I.D.
(not valid with any other offer)

FREE DELIVERY
with $9 minimum order

• OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •

American Legion
BINGO!

Sunday 2 p.m.
Tuesday 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday 7:30 p.m.

"Progressive Bingo"
Sundays & Wednesdays
Win Big Bucks -
114 McCall Rd.

Thermal Comfort Air, Inc.
705 Pecan Circle • Manhattan

Commercial & Residential Specialist
Heating - Air Conditioning - Boiler
Refrigeration - Energy Management
(24 Hour Emergency Service)

537-2436 • Manhattan 761-2220 • Junction City
Toll Free Dial 1-800-340-2436

Go Cats! Good Luck in the Big 12 Tournament

FRANZ-WHITE
Liquor - Wholesale & Retail
539-5052

Case Lot Discounts

Import Tues.
10% OFF

Wine Wed.
SAVE UP TO 20%

Like a GOOD neighbor
STATE farm is there.

Check out our Student Health Plans

1115 Westport Drive
"Next to Sunflower Bank"
Manhattan, KS 66502
Off: 537-1809 Home: 537-4366

Need Extra Cash for Spring Break?

Mister Money will turn your electronics, jewelry, sporting goods, music, cameras, guns, DVD's, etc., into cash. We loan or buy any of these at the highest prices in town

• 565-0046 • • 537-1803 •
• 705-N. 11th • 501-A Fort Riley Blvd. •

MISTER MONEY
pawn loans INC.

ON THE WILD SIDE

GOOD LUCK, LADY WILDCATS!

- Subway Posters
- Incense
- Door Bells
- T-Shirts
- Hockey Socks
- Jewelry
- Hoops & Rings
- Beads
- Tapestries
- Disc Golf
- Clothing
- Much More...

Come check us out in Aggieville
MON.-FRI. 11-6:30 SAT. 11-6
1128 Moro, Aggieville • 776-2252

KNEAD MASSAGE?
Body First
2308 Anderson
(785) 587-8300
www.bodyfirst.com

KSU STUDENT DISCOUNT
One Hour Massage
$35
With K-state student ID
Not valid with any other discount or special offer.
Call for an appt.
(785) 587-8300
www.bodyfirst.com

BowWinkle's
Sports Bar & Grill

TUESDAY SPECIALS
$2 CORONA & CORONA LIGHT
$1⁵⁰ TEQUILA SHOTS
$4⁹⁵ MARGARITA PITCHERS
$2 TEQUILA SUNRISE
$.50 TACOS
$.75 TACO BURGERS
* BRING YOUR K-STATE ID AND GET A FREE ORDER OF CHIPS AND SALSA WITH THE PURCHASE OF A MEAL. (VALID MARCH 11TH ONLY.)

WEDNESDAY SPECIALS
$1 DOMESTIC DRAWS
$2 COLORADO BULL DOGS
$2⁰⁰ BOULEVARD DRAWS
$7.95 10 OZ. SIRLOIN DINNER
$8.95 KC. STRIP DINNER

3043 Anderson Ave. • 776-1022

Dara's Fast Lane

VALUES ABOUND TACO CASA

CHECK OUT TACO TUESDAY (59¢ TACOS) AND START YOUR WEEKEND WITH FIESTA FRIDAY (2.59 FIESTA SALADS)

TACO CASA
17TH & FT RILEY BLVD.

Power
to choose...

great pay paid holiday vacation pay
life/health insurance
referral bonuses
free office tech. training
free service quality training

...your own path.
MANPOWER
776-1094
www.manpower.com
555 Poynter, Suite 245 Manhattan

COUGHING, SNIFFING, SNEEZING??

DO YOU SUFFER FROM

- HEADACHES
- RUNNY NOSE
- WATERY EYES
- COUGHING
- SORE THROAT
- SHORTNESS OF BREATH

WE CAN HELP
USING A NATURAL APPROACH
WITHOUT PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

CHIROPRACTIC NATURAL HEALTH CARE
THE WAVE OF THE FUTURE
1130 WESTPORT DR. STE #5 MANHATTAN, KS
(785) 539-9113
CALL ME TODAY

PROVIDER FOR
PREFERRED HEALTH SYSTEMS
BLUE CROSS AND BLUE SHIELD

Dr. Thad Dull

RadioShack.
You've got questions. We've got answers.
Manhattan

Networking Headquarters

Network Routers
Interface Adapters
Wired Or Wireless

All your CAT 5
Cables and Hookups in Stock!

Now Located on Ft. Riley Blvd.
Between 4th & 5th streets
537-1476

XVII
 BIG 12 CONFERENCE
Women's Tournament

2002-03 Roster

03 Nicole Ohlde	21 Kari Hanson	45 Amy Dutmer
04 Kimmery Newsom	22 Chelsea Domenico	50 Jessica McFarland
10 Laurie Koehn	34 Megan Mahoney	53 Kendra Wecker
	42 Brie Madden

GAS 4 LESS

CHECK OUT OUR GAS PRICES
 539-2827

REID'S Residential & Commercial
 Sales Service Installation
537-2869
 8964 Green Valley Dr.
 Manhattan

ExpertTire
Go Lady Wildcats!
776-8311

Chase Manhattan
 APARTMENTS
 (785) 776-3663 (24 hours)
 1409 Chase Place • Manhattan, KS
Go, Cats!

Best of Luck, Ladies!

Go, Lady Cats!
 The Women of Kappa Delta

Ramblers
 STEAK HOUSE
 & SALOON
Go, Lady Cats!

new ribbon yarns!
 Wildflower Yarns & Knitwear supports the Lady Wildcats!
 103 N. 3rd

Congratulations on a great season!
 1127 Westloop Mon.-Fri. 10-8 Sat. 10-6 Sun. 12-5
 Manhattan Town Center Mon.-Fri. 10-9 Sat. 10-9 Sun. 12-6 537-8191
GNC Live Well!

Go, Lady WILD cats!
 From On the WILD Side

The Ceramic Canvas
 1430 Westport Dr. #2
 Manhattan, KS 66522
 ph. 785.770.8851
 fax 785.770.8852
 creative fun for all ages and abilities
GO, LADY CATS!

Bring KSU Student ID and this ad and receive 15% off t-shirts
 Design your own, we customize anything.
 Mugs, License Plates, Mouse Pads, and much more.
 Put your idea here!
 Pub Crawls • Student Events • Organizations
 770-8444
 Manhattan Town Center Visit our website: www.shirts4cats.com

GO CATS!
 The Women of Alpha Xi Delta

3015 Anderson Ave.
 537-9235
 Great Service • Great Selection • Low Prices
GOLF USA

CELESTOR

Wednesday, March 12, 2003

Repeat DUI offenders on the rise

AAA encourages tougher license use restrictions

By Crystal Welborn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Head spinning, lights flashing in the rear-view mirror, smell of alcohol in the car, fear tightening in the chest.

One night, Austin Taber made the choice to drive drunk and received a citation for driving under the influence.

Unfortunately, the senior in political science made the same decision months later.

Taber has received two DUIs while at K-State and said the experience is scary.

"My heart jumped in my throat. It was frightening to have a police officer shine a light in your eyes and ask you a thousand questions all the time knowing you're under the influence," Taber said.

Although no one was injured in Taber's drunken driving incidents, recent AAA Kansas statistics show Taber is one of the lucky ones.

Amanda Millard, public affairs coordinator for AAA Kansas, said 16 percent of fatal crashes in Kansas are alcohol related, and 12 percent of those drivers involved are driving on a suspended license.

The emphasis on unlicensed drivers and car accidents comes from a recent AAA study done in Florida where it was found that two-thirds of all drivers with suspended licenses continue to drive, she said.

Troy Hensley, sergeant of the patrol division at the Riley County Police Department, said that if a driver is caught driving while intoxicated, the driver will lose his or her license.

"If you refuse testing, you lose your license for a year. If you submit to a test, you will lose it for 30 days," he said. "Each DUI you get, you lose your license for longer, and the third offense is a felony."

Taber said that even though his license was suspended for a year after his first DUI, he continued to drive without it.

"The first time, I didn't feel like the rules applied to me. I still felt invincible," he said.

When Taber was pulled over for his second DUI, he was still driving on a suspended license, something he said he would not do again.

"After all the stuff I had to go through and monetary disadvantages, I have no desire to repeat that," he said. "The fine was doubled. Community service was doubled. I had to do jail time,

See DUI Page 8

INTOXICATING EXPERIMENT

Michael Smith, senior in military science, follows Officer Greg Steere's finger during a mock sobriety test at Edwards Hall. The tests are part of the Drug and Alcohol Evaluation Unit administered by the Kansas Highway Patrol.

Photos by Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

Police train to detect drivers under influence

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Few students ever think they will receive free beer and become intoxicated under the supervision of police officers.

But Tuesday afternoon, five student volunteers drank Bud Light until they were impaired. Police officers then evaluated them as part of a standardized field sobriety training program at K-State Police headquarters in Edwards Hall.

Charlie Kohler of the Kansas Highway Patrol Drug and Alcohol Evaluation Unit said the training was part of a national program that takes place in every state.

"The K-State Police are hosting the 28-hour class for themselves and surrounding agencies," he said.

Twenty hours of the training is alcohol related, and eight hours is drug training, he said. The course is divided into three parts.

"The purpose of the course is to enhance the officers' abilities to detect and arrest persons driving under the influence," Kohler said.

The first section, vehicle in motion, deals with recognizing the signs that a driver is intoxicated, such as weaving, driving with brights or no lights, he said.

The second portion is personal contact. It teaches the officers what to look for when talking to a driver, he said.

The last segment is pre-arrest screening, Kohler said. This teaches the officer how to decide whether to continue with the impairment investigation.

"If they decide to do so, they get the driver out of the car and give a field sobriety test," Kohler said.

Sgt. Don Stubbings of K-State Police

Dan Sirridge, Michael Haag and Michael Smith begin drinking for their mock sobriety tests later in the afternoon. "I think that to do anything effectively, you need to do something as realistic as possible. It's the best way to learn," Smith said.

said the officers are not only trained to determine if people are, in fact, intoxicated, but also their levels of intoxication.

Three multiple concentration tests are administered, he said. The tests are the one-leg stand, the nine-step walk and turn, and the horizontal gaze nystagmus — an eye test in which the driver's eyes follow a ballpoint pen.

After the officers practiced on each other, they practiced on the intoxicated volunteers.

The volunteers drank until they blew at least a .08 on a Breathalyzer test, which is legally impaired in Kansas, Kohler said. The officers evaluated the volunteers and decided whether to let each one go or to arrest them, based on their performance in the three field sobriety tests.

Quick facts

- The intoxication rate for 16- to 20-year-old drivers involved in fatal crashes in 2000 was 15 percent.
- The highest intoxication rates in fatal crashes in 2000 were recorded for drivers 21-24 years old (27 percent) followed by ages 25-34 (24 percent) and 35-44 (22 percent).
- Thirty percent of 15- to 20-year-old drivers killed in motor-vehicle crashes during 2000 had been drinking. Twenty-one percent were intoxicated.
- The intoxication rate for 16- to 20-year-old drivers involved in fatal crashes in 2000 was 15 percent.

Source: National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, www.nhtsa.dot.gov.

Lisa Hiesterman, K-State Police officer, said that training in a controlled

See DRUNK Page 10

U.S. and Britain agree to delay vote on proposal for disarmament deadline

By Edith M. Lederer
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — Facing almost certain defeat, the United States and Britain signaled Tuesday they would agree to a short extension of a deadline for Saddam Hussein to disarm or face war.

A 45-day delay proposed by six swing council nations appeared out of the question, however.

The Bush administration had talked of a vote as early as Tuesday, but with France and Russia threatening to veto the current draft resolution, and without the minimum nine "yes" votes, it held up action in the council.

The U.S. campaign for votes suffered another blow when a spokesman for Pakistan's ruling party said the country would abstain on the resolution.

Azeem Chaudhry made the announcement as Pakistani Prime Minister Zafarullah Khan Jamali appealed for Baghdad to be given more time to disarm, saying: "We do not want to see the destruction of the Iraqi people, the destruction of the country."

White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said the U.S.-backed resolution would be put to a vote this week and indicated a readiness to compromise. He said a proposal being floated to push back the March 17 deadline by a month was "a non-starter."

"There is room for diplomacy here," Fleischer said. "Not much room and not much time."

He spoke as Cameroon's Ambassador Martin Beling-Eboutou was announcing that he and five other ambassadors from key council nations — Mexico, Chile, Angola, Guinea and Pakistan — would suggest an even longer deadline of 45 days and the addition of benchmarks that Saddam Hussein would have to meet to avoid war.

But a U.S. official discounted the proposal.

"It's not going anywhere, there's only one resolution on the table," one U.S. official said.

Both the United States and Britain, which is under intense pressure at home to get U.N. backing for any military action, said they were willing to negotiate both the deadline and other changes to the resolution.

"We are busting a gut to see if we can get greater consensus in the council," Britain's U.N.

See DELAY Page 8

Radio station, bar sponsor cash drawing

Registration, drawing to take place today

By Crystal Welborn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Spring break will seem a little brighter for one Manhattan resident after tonight.

KJCK-FM 97.5 and Rusty's Last Chance have teamed up to bring Manhattan residents the chance to win $1,000.

"Anybody and everybody can use $1,000 this time of year, especially with spring break," Mick Wunder, sales representative for KJCK, said. "If you have a trip planned, the extra cash can help."

"If you don't have plans yet, you can still go."

Give-away sign up

Registration for the spring break give-away is from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. today in the Union Bookstore and from 7 to 9 p.m. at Rusty's Last Chance. The drawing will take place between 9 and 11 p.m. at Rusty's Last Chance. Those registered must be present to win.

Rusty Wilson, owner of Rusty's Last Chance, came up with the idea to have the spring break giveaway, Wunder said.

Wilson said he offered to donate $1,000 because he wanted to give back a little to the students who help make his business successful.

"I thought it would be a

See CONTEST Page 8

INSIDE

It's getting warm outside, but do you know what clothes to wear? Check out the latest fashion.

The Edge, Page 7

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Air Force tests behemoth bomb; U.S. troop strength surpasses 225,000
The Air Force on Tuesday dropped a 21,000-pound non-nuclear bomb onto a test range in Florida. The bomb, which was dropped out the back of a C-130 transport plane, was as much a psychological tool as any weapon.
Page 5

Top airlines say war will widen losses, suspend $9 billion in taxes
U.S. airlines will ask Congress to suspend $9 billion in annual taxes to alleviate the effects of a war in Iraq, a report released Tuesday said. If passenger traffic dropped, airlines could lose $10.7 billion.

Talks with Libya on Pan Am case yield progress in flight bombing
U.S., British and Libyan officials made progress Tuesday in talks on Libya accepting responsibility for the bombing of Pan Am flight 103, the State Department said. The flight was bombed on Dec. 21, 1988, killing all 270 aboard.

OPEC sticks with current oil output target, pledges to pump more if needed
Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries members agreed Tuesday to stick with their current quotas for crude oil production. OPEC members blamed Middle East tensions for causing fears of a possible shortage.

Plan to increase trooper salaries raises eyebrows, opposition
Gov. Kathleen Sebelius' proposal to increase salaries for Kansas Highway Patrol troopers by 25 percent during the next three years has drawn criticism.

Weather

Today 69 | 45

Mostly cloudy

Thursday 69 | 37

Mostly sunny

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 117

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Run in neutral

5 Pile of chips

8 Uncertain

12 Thrash

13 Wish undone

14 Writer Ephron

15 Wiggler in an Andersen tale

17 Yule refrain

18 Handles the helm

19 Missouri feeder

21 Pitcher part

22 Belgrade resident

23 Funny Leno

26 Darjeeling, e.g.

28 Spud source

31 Mountain range of Kirghiz

33 Capek play

35 Falling behind

DOWN

1 Wading bird

2 Body-shop concern

3 Chantilly, e.g.

4 One of the Barry-mores

5 Arctic bird

6 "—"

7 Office help

8 Viscera

9 Vikings' activity

10 Worry

11 New Haven campus

16 Legal document

20 Floral wear

23 Uppercut target

24 In the manner of

25 Army recruit

27 Arctic bird

28 Weeding tool

30 Possess

32 In a perfect world

34 Filled with holes

37 Part of UCSD

38 Wear down

42 Defective car

44 Syrup flavor

45 Driving force

46 Incursion

48 Druide

49 "Into — of dew"

50 Dazzle

53 Page

Solution time: 21 mins.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22

23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33

34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44

45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55

56 57 58 59 60 61 62 63 64 65 66

Yesterday's answer 3-12

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-228-8981 (9¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only) A King Features service, NYC.

3-12 CRYPTOQUIP

NZLVQ Z LGDWW QVPQ
MXYD BMG'UD WDDX MXD
KPTLD WVMEEZXL YDXQDT.
BMG'UD WDDX P NPKK?
Yesterday's Cryptquip: MY HUSBAND HAPPENS TO BE A CHRONIC LIAR. APPARENTLY HE SUFFERS FROM TRUTH DECAY.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: K equals L.

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11

Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegn@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

BANTER AND BELLOW

Some dreams replicate conscious life; other images too frightening, strange

DANA:

Yes, Layton's back. Those other men I wrote around with just weren't my style. Don't expect to meet Temp Banterer applicants any time soon. Sometimes you just can't beat the original.

The same goes with my dreams — well, the original part anyway.

Let's just say the word "dreamy" doesn't elicit images of attractive, well-groomed men in my mind.

The stuff made of dreams, for me, is odd and often rather frightening.

My dreams have a lot to do with my actions and thoughts when my eyes are open and my head is not on the pillow.

The worst ones are work-related. Collegian nightmares include unwritten headlines, missing "the scoop" and the identical tones of the phone line.

The most awful work dream I ever had happened a few years ago when I worked at an ice cream shop.

I woke to find myself sitting up, moving as if I were scooping Belfonte ice cream onto a cone.

The worst part was that I had thought I really was at work, wearing this little nightie, and the customers were leering at me. I felt dirty.

When I look back at it, the Nyquil/Tylenol PM combination I pulled that night might have had something to do with it.

Even without the use of sleep-inducing medications, weird guys still seem to sneak into my unconscious.

Like the time I painted an empty house with a kid from my high school physics class. Hot.

The more I think about it, the more I hope dreams have nothing to do with my real life.

Especially those times when I have machinations that people are sitting on my bed, watching me sleep. I try to talk to them, but they never answer.

Sleep tight.

LAYTON:

Recently, I had a nightmare that I ran for SGA vice president and lost to somebody with 'Quack' in her name, and to a guy who flies his own plane home on the weekends, so sayeth legend.

Dreams have everything to do with waking life if and only if Punky Brewster strips down to her tube socks then tosses me over the edge of a cliff with no parachute, and I land safely in the co-pilot seat of a submarine driven by a goat with tusks who tells me (in Latin) that he's Jimi Hendrix.

He has the secret to the meaning of life, which he will tell me just as soon as I choose to grow a pair of horns above my ears and start a strict diet of ground scorpions brewed like coffee.

Sincerely, I know the content of my dreams is a direct correlation of what goes on when I'm not snoozing.

I'm convinced the stress in life is the reason for so many of my weirdest dreams.

For example, when I heard that Kelly Osbourne was going to be playing an upcoming show in Kansas City, I had the most wicked dream starring the octopus-legged Ursula, the sea witch from "The Little Mermaid."

I dreamed she tried to bite my head off. Does that mean anything?

I think it means that Kelly Osbourne is a freaky-deaky octopussy.

What I find really weird is how I talk in my sleep but have no recollection about what I said.

Several years ago, one of my brothers and I were on a road trip — he was driving and I was asleep.

We drove over some speed bumps, at which point I sat straight up while still asleep, imitated the sound of the car hitting the bumps and claimed that I was horrified of teddy bears.

So yes, I'd say that my dream state definitely influenced my behavior, even though I'm cool with bears — especially teddies.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, March 10

- At 8:25 a.m., Keith Sconiers, 709 N. Juliette, No. 2, was arrested for cruelty to animals. Bond was set at $300.
- At 8:25 a.m., Geraldine Purkeypille, 318 Fordham, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $100.

Tuesday, March 11

- At 1:24 a.m., Lanzael Dillon, 300 N. 5th, No. 10-H, was arrested for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- The Chess Club meets from 6 to 10 tonight in Union 206.
- Intramural Softball and individual sport entries are being accepted at the Rec Complex in the Administrative Office. Entry deadline is Thursday.
- Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Contact Lindsey at 770-8103 or lc3339@k-state.edu by Friday to register. Donations are welcome. Contact Bryanne at bna388@k-state.edu.
- Applications from the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are now available at OSAS, the K-State Alumni Center or at www.k-state.com/programs/currentstudent/homecoming.asp. Applications are due March 14.

Up next

In Friday's Collegian

News | Wedding cakes

Sick of waiting for a trip down the aisle to eat wedding cake? Find out how Manhattan residents are baking their own wedding cakes by taking cake classes.

Edge | Irish holiday events

Don't forget to wear your green and don't miss all of the St. Patrick's Day activities happening this weekend. Find out what Aggieville is doing for the holiday.

Opinion | Rustyville

Aggieville? Try Rustyville, says Layton Ehmke. Read what he visions as the future of the 'Ville. Also, Zach Hauser writes about America's obsession with voyeurism.

Sports | Tournament play

The men's basketball team plays its first round Big 12 Tournament game tomorrow against Colorado. The men have split the season series with the Buffaloes. Can they pull an upset and advance to the second round? Read about the Wildcat's chances against Colorado.

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Marie's Costumes

Costumes • Accessories
Shoes • Props • Masks
Wigs • Hats
Theatrical Makeup

539-5200
2011 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Manhattan

Dan has book recommendations!

Claflin Books and Copies

get AHEAD of the COMPETITION
by ADVERTISING
with us.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
ADVERTISING
103 Kedzie 532-6560

Little Caesars
WEDNESDAY
HOT & READY
1 LARGE
14" PIZZA
WITH PEPPERONI
4:00 PM - 8:00 PM
$5.00
DELIVERED HOT
PER PIZZA ONLY

No Coupons Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2001 L.E.E., Inc.
539-3333

PREGNANCY
TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy,
parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

3

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Say HEESE
Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909

Think Spring!
Present this coupon and SAVE 20%
on anything green in the store!
Only March 14, 15 and 17

785-776-9067
5th & Poyuz
Campbell's
China & Gifts
10 AM-5:30 PM
Mon.-Sat.
10 AM-6 PM
Thurs.

Bake Sale Today!

KSU Bakery
Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

NEW brands.
Better prices.
Great spring break looks.
mon-sat 11-8pm sun 1-6pm

ZOTCIS ATTIRE
1203 MORO - AGGIEVILLE

tonight
don't you wish you'd seen Adam Sandler live before he got big?
Michael "Chicken" Roof
You have seen him as Private Maddox in Black Hawk Down & Weapons Expert Agent Shavers in Triple X
with Steve Kramer future Saturday Night Live cast member & the star of the WB sitcom Hype
all ages show
9pm
call 539-4671
for reservations
Apple Station

Apple Station

GAMMA encourages safe spring break for students

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Greeks Advocating Mature Management of Alcohol is sponsoring Alcohol Awareness Week/Safer Spring Break to encourage students to practice safety during the break.

"Usually we sponsor Safer Spring Break Week, and this year we decided to make it more toward general alcohol awareness," said Megan Menagh, senior in sociology and former GAMMA president.

Menagh said there will be a booth from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday in the K-State Student Union. The booth has been set up all week. Volunteers will hand out flyers providing information about different travel locations.

Brooke Davison, junior in business and GAMMA president, said the flyers will provide information about popular spring break destinations and facts about alcohol.

"The flyers will offer information such as temperature and population about different places. They'll also give the drinking ages for various locations and types of drinks."

"There will also be tips about drinking, like taking no more than three shots in one night," she said.

Davison said another activity of Alcohol Awareness Week is the All-Greek Designated Driver Program on Thursday night.

"We are setting up a DD system for the first time," she said. "So far, we have had about 30 greeks who have volunteered to be designated drivers."

Menagh said this will be an opportunity for the greek houses to work together.

"A lot of greek houses already have their own designated driver systems. This will be a type of unity among the houses," she said.

Designated drivers from different houses will gather in one place to wait for people to call who need rides.

"We're not trying to encourage drinking," she said. "We just want people to drink responsibly if they're going to drink."

Menagh said students often leave town for spring break and do not realize the effects of their behavior.

"What they do on spring break can affect what happens in the community. The consequences of someone's behavior can carry back to the campus," she said.

Davison said she also wants people to act wisely while on break.

"We want people to be mature and responsible if they decide to go out and drink," she said. "We don't condone drinking, but we want people to have a safe spring break."

More Hispanics completing degrees at K-State

By Corbin H. Crable
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Going to college was never just an option for Isabel Amaya.

Her parents made it clear that they wanted a good education for their daughter, and K-State was it.

Amaya, senior in microbiology and president of the Hispanic American Leadership Organization, is part of a slowly growing number of Hispanics who are pursuing a college education and succeeding in the college setting.

According to a Feb. 10 article in The New York Times, only 16 percent of Hispanic high school graduates earn a four-year college degree by age 29. When compared to 37 percent of whites and 21 percent of blacks, the number is shockingly low.

Doug Benson, associate professor of modern languages and adviser for HALO, said he sees the numbers on the rise at K-State.

"More Hispanic students are graduating and being very successful," he said.

Benson said he sees a more diverse range of majors within the community of Hispanic students at K-State.

"Ten years ago, most students were in Spanish or education," Benson said. "Now, there are more in engineering and the sciences, for instance. I see a whole range of majors now."

While he said he sees more Hispanic students graduating from K-State, Benson said many factors still exist that contribute to the low number of Hispanic students earning their degrees at a four-year university.

"Language can be a barrier, but more often it's culture differences," Benson said. "Some faculty don't understand the student's obligations to their family, such as needing to go home to attend a funeral or wedding."

However, Benson said, the student's family can be a barrier as well.

"Other times, the Latino family doesn't understand their child's academic obligations. Parents don't understand their student's need for a quiet place to study, separate from them."

Benson also said financial problems can plague the Hispanic student and his or her family.

"If you're from a Cuban-American family of lawyers in Miami, it's obviously not an issue," he said.

"But if you're the first person in your family to attend college and you don't have the money or a good role model, it's hard."

Amaya, however, said she has always been fortunate to have a role model in her older sister, a college graduate.

"I had a lot of mentorship in my sister," Amaya said.

Amaya, whose family moved to Kansas City, Kan., from El Paso, Texas, said she agrees with Benson's belief that the families of Hispanic and Latino students can be a barrier in Isabel Amaya, senior in microbiology, is president of the Hispanic American Leadership Organization. "I think that the increase of Hispanics in college allows them to further their careers, which may have not been possible in the past," Amaya said.

Matt Elliott
COLLEGIAN

gaining higher education.

"Some parents aren't educated as far as educational opportunities for their children," she said. "But my parents encouraged me."

Much of the time, Amaya said, students are anchored to their families because of situations beyond their control.

"A student's family might not be well off, and (he or she) might have to go home and help out if a family member becomes sick. The student will then have to drop out of school."

HALO serves as a way to bring Hispanic and Latino students together in a support group environment, Amaya said, and its members encourage one another to achieve their goals.

"We're like a family away from home," Amaya said, "and in Hispanic culture, family is a big thing."

AGGIE LOUNGE 712 N. 12TH

Come celebrate St. Pat's day and kick off your spring break by joining us at The Lou!

EVERY WEDNESDAY
75¢ draws
$1.25 all domestic bottles

EVERY THURSDAY
$1.50 miller bottles
$1 miller lite cans
$1 bud & bud light bottles
TONIGHT ONLY

EVERY FRIDAY
$1.75 miller bottles
$1 miller lite cans
$1 bud & bud light bottles
TONIGHT ONLY

open this Saturday at 6:00 a.m.
Now Open on Sundays

Budweiser
KING OF BEERS

Manhattan Arts Center & Rusty's Last Chance invite you to BLARNEY BREAKFAST SATURDAY MARCH 15 8-11 AM

Don't miss your chance to get Rusty's green eggs & ham

Rusty's Next Door in Aggieville 1213 Moro

Advance tickets available Manhattan Arts Center or from any MAC Board Member 532-4420 • www.manhattanarts.org

CHILD 15/ADVANCE 15/DOOR ADULT 17/ADVANCE 17/DOOR

Study Spanish in Mexico Summer 2003

- Earn 9 credits
- Study in Zacatecas
- Live with families

Final Information Meetings
Tues., Mar. 11 at 3:30 p.m. in EH 123 and
Fri., Mar. 14 at 3:30 p.m. in EH 126.

Complete information and applications will be distributed at that time.
Questions? Please contact the Office of Study Abroad (304 Fairchild; 532-5990), the Department of Modern Languages (104 EH; 532-6760), Prof. Lucia Garavito (EH 007; 532-1927; e-mail: lgaravito@ksu.edu), or Prof. Bradley Shaw (215 EH; 532-1988; e-mail: bradshaw@ksu.edu)

Sponsored by Dept. of Modern Languages and Office of Study Abroad

Berta Rojas
"guitarist extraordinaire"
The New York Times

March 13, 7pm
McCain Auditorium
Free Admission

classical guitarist

The Paraguayan Student Association
PRESENTED BY

OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY

Earn Your OSU MBA

The OSU MBA program offers superior academic challenges, innovative research projects and the opportunity to develop strong interpersonal skills. Dedicated faculty members, known in their respective fields, provide a pragmatic yet dynamic academic setting, which is enhanced by state-of-the-art labs, real-world learning experiences and study-abroad opportunities.

- Full-Time Traditional (Stillwater) or Part-Time Professional (Tulsa)
- Excellent starting careers and worldwide job placement (Visit mba.okstate.edu for recent placements)
- Specializations available in accounting, finance, management, MIS, marketing, telecommunications
- Financial aid and assistantships available
- Out of state tuition waivers available
- No previous business classes required
- Accredited by AACSB International

MELISSA MILTON
MBA student

Take the first step, contact us today:
(405) 744-2951 • mba-osu@okstate.edu
mba.okstate.edu

Fall application deadline is July 1.

MBA • 102 Gundersen • Oklahoma State University • Stillwater, OK 74078

For other College of Business Administration graduate programs contact us:
www.bus.okstate.edu • (405) 744-5064 • cba-info@okstate.edu

Oklahoma State University is an equal opportunity institution.

Congratulations 2003-2004 Blue Key Members

Aaron Handke
Amy Buller
Casey Hale
Darcie Brownback
David McCandless
Kari Baldonado
Kathryn Van Keuren
Kelli Simmelink
Kyrstin Allen
Laurie Quaife
Mandy Achilles
Michelle Maynes
Travis Stryker
Wes Pike

SNL Comedian Darrell HAMMOND
Monday | April 14 | 8:00p.m.
McCain Auditorium | Admission $10.50
To get your tickets, call 532-6428 or go to McCain Auditorium Box Office
www.ksu.edu/mccain

lunchtime LOUNGE
Union Courtyard | noon - 1p.m.
91.9 Presents...
"Scratching Session"
featuring the 91.9 DJ's

upc
LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.

HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

TO THE POINT Professors must make material meaningful

When it comes to the classroom, it is up to teachers to make the material meaningful to students.

Professor Jana Fallin's recent project concerning this should be applauded.

Students often have skewed perceptions of teachers, but this does not go unwarranted. When a professor's tests consistently show below-average results, that professor should evaluate what he or she is doing wrong.

Professors also should engage in multiple teaching strategies that would best suit the different learning styles of students.

As a supplement, technology should be utilized to further engage students in the content – for instance, K-State Online, message boards and e-mail discussion groups.

Textbooks should be considered supplements and guides to courses. A professor who reads straight from the textbook is not doing students a service.

It is, however, the students' responsibilities to participate and be proactive in telling professors any concerns.

But making sure the content is meaningful, and the classroom remains student-centered relies solely on the professor.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnett
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnett PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane AGE EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

I think Angel is hungry.

What's worse? Going to class without deodorant or skipping class because you can't find deodorant? That is the question.

Of course France is going to veto. They're nothing but cheese-eating surrender monkeys.

Drinking with gerbils is no big deal. But sticking them between your buns? That's a different story.

This weekend, a girl touched me where I peed.

Tonight, I drink for the IRA.

OK, I can't tell if Angel Wilson is a lesbian or just likes candy.

I'm so broke I can't even pay attention.

My love for you is like diarrhea. I just can't hold it up.

IMPACT was the most amazing experience of my life. I can't wait to see the changes.

A peanut is neither a pea nor a nut. Discuss amongst yourselves.

As future president of KSU, I am going to put shuttles from the library to your car and underground tunnels across campus.

My daddy always told me that the best women are like truck stops — they don't mean much to you, you don't get attached to them, but they're always there when you need them, and they never turn you away.

Life was a lot more fun when there were girls around that would let you throw grapes at them.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

ILLOGICAL LANGUAGE

Critics should ease up on those who speak English badly

"That's improper English!"

How many times since elementary school have you heard that phrase? If you're anything like me, the answer is way too many times.

In fact, I've heard it so many times that my immediate response is to laugh at whoever is saying it. It's an almost Pavlovian reaction.

(Mmmm ... delicious bells ...)

Why do I instinctively laugh when I hear people talking about "improper English"? Because English is quite simply a mongrel of a language.

English sort of started in England a long time ago. It might have originally been either a Germanic or a Celtic language, depending on who you ask and what you would define as English.

The important thing to understand is that by about the seventh century, English was mostly based on German — with some traditional Celtic influence. But then the Norse invaded and messed everything up.

After a while, Norse words and grammar got integrated into the language by the conquerors. That was OK — just a few changes from one other language, right? Wrong.

What I forgot to mention was the Christian church's influence in England starting in about the sixth century.

This was about 500 years after the time of the Roman conquest of England (the Romans left just after they started getting tarlicked by the Germans, whom they haven't beaten since).

So by the time Latin, the church's official language, got thrown into the already confusing mix of English, things were starting to get really screwy. Then, just when you'd figure it couldn't possibly get more complicated, the French entered the picture.

In 1066, William the Conqueror (a.k.a. "William the Lucky Bastard" — no, seriously) came over from Normandy with his fancy-Dan French and threw another monkey into the machinery.

Needless to say, this caused the monkey a great deal of pain. More importantly, it meant that the English language, which by now was pretty mixed up and silly, got even sillier.

After 1066, French was the language of choice in the English court, since all the conquering nobles were from France (this seems to have been before France became a nation of inbred cowards, but after they became cunning and greedy).

The court switched back to English eventually, but not before Anglo-Saxon words were branded as "vulgar." You know all of those four-letter words your parents made you wash your mouth out with soap for using?

Almost all of those have either Germanic or Celtic origins. Try looking them up in the Oxford English Dictionary sometime.

English is a spit-and-baling-wire amalgamation of not three or four, but at least five different languages. No wonder we have so many illogical conjugations like "good, better, best" and "correct, more correct, most correct."

So next time someone tells you that you aren't speaking proper English, just think back to this column and laugh heartily at him or her (stupid lack of a neuter third-person pronoun).

Alternatively, you could demonstrate to the person how much you know about English by using some good, old-fashioned Anglo-Saxon invective.

Micah is a senior in English and history. You can e-mail him at micah@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

Comparing Bush to Hitler unjust form of criticism

George W. Bush was born with a silver spoon in his mouth and cut his teeth on opened political doors. His rhetoric supporting war is highly debated, and the world is demanding more substantial evidence of a threat from Iraq.

As thousands of soldiers are being deployed and the country is inevitably facing war, public opinion of the Bush administration and our president has reached a frantic fervor.

People who believe that Bush is a war monger who is carelessly watching our economy falter while preparing for an unneeded war have the right to share their opinions through any venue they choose.

But comparing Texas George to Adolf Hitler is crossing the line.

When politicians, celebrities, commentators and the average American attack the president for being a greedy, oil-seeking tyrant, there is a slight window for debate.

However, to hold up signs in our nation's capital labeling Republicans as Nazis and comparing someone we elected into office with a demon who attempted to take over the world is a deplorable circuit to change public opinion concerning the president.

Hitler sent millions of peaceful Jewish people to the gas chambers. He tortured them, starved them, performed scientific experiments on them and tried to take over the world. The horrors faced by the Jewish people were unimaginable, and the Holocaust will forever remain a black spot on the world's history.

To compare Bush to Hitler is a disservice to Jewish people worldwide and an ignorant and malevolent channel to show disdain for Bush's foreign policy.

When the president claims we should rid the world of all Muslims because they are an inferior race, you can compare him with the likes of Hitler.

When he begins killing millions of people because they are Muslim and ethnically cleanses, the U.S. advocates of the anti-Bush campaign will have the right to compare him to sick, tyrannical, mentally ill dictators. But in the meantime, the American public should use a little tact when they are disagreeing with our country's president.

Bush is a human being. He did bring this country tremendous comfort after the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks.

Our president did rise to the occasion in this time of turmoil and comfort the America people. Even if people believe that he is making a formidable mistake right now, they cannot forget the immeasurable comfort he afforded to the United States during our darkest hour.

Many believe the war is about oil and power. Bush claims it is a war on terrorism. With the widespread use and confusion regarding the word terrorism, Bush may need to work on his public relations skills in convincing the public and the world that America has the right to invade Iraq.

Debating Bush's awareness of domestic complications and asking for substantial proof before our country enters war is commendable. However, Bush has not earned the reputation of evil.

Disagreeing with his policy and leadership is your right, and it will show when re-election rolls around what the majority of America thinks about our country's leader.

But until that day comes, let us continue to give Bush credit for something he truly deserves — being a human being.

Kathryn is a junior in public relations. You can e-mail her at krh5588@k-state.edu.

Professor examines teaching methods

Presentation to encourage increased efficiency in instructing techniques

By Mako Shores
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If you're fortunate, there is that one teacher during your college career that you won't forget.

A K-State professor has been working on a project to find those memorable teachers on campus and display their connective teaching abilities with students.

Jana Fallin, professor of music, is K-State's eighth recipient of the University Distinguished Teaching Scholar award, and new head chair of the program.

Each year, the chair is responsible for making at least one public presentation to the K-State academic community. Fallin has chosen to videotape classes as a part of the project.

Fallin began her research last semester and has taped 34 classes, looking at ways professors connect with students.

"You know how you can go to a class, and you feel like you're not a part of the learning?" Fallin said. "You're just sitting there taking notes, and you're not engaged. I'm looking at styles that are more effective for students."

Though Fallin has been teaching for more than three decades, she said there's always room for improvement.

"I've been teaching for 30-something years, and I can get better," she said. "I think some teachers are hesitant to say things like I just said because they feel it's an indicator that they're not good."

"We can all get better."

Fallin said she aimed at gathering an assortment of different professors in order to get an overall view of good teaching methods.

"I tried to go to every college in the university, even Salina," Fallin said. "Young and old, brand new teachers to the most distinguished, male and female - all levels."

Throughout her project, Fallin has discovered little techniques that help students, and she has tried to capture those on the DVD presentation.

"I think teaching is like a bridge the teacher provides for the student to walk over to get to the learning," Fallin said. "With some teachers, it's like you have to swim across. And if you're not a good swimmer, you don't get across to the knowledge."

Fallin said there are good teachers all over campus, but some do not have the teaching experience.

"We have excellent, knowledgeable people that just don't know how to teach," she said. "This DVD will help all teachers get better at what they do."

Phyllis Epps, graphic design coordinator for the Information Technology Assistance Center in Hale Library, helped Fallin film the 34 different classes and is now assisting her in editing the software to make the DVD.

Epps said she witnessed great styles of teaching while filming.

"I saw exciting teaching techniques," she said. "One class in particular did a mock trial, and I thought it was fascinating."

The DVD will be presented April 24 during the Provost Lecture Series.

Fallin said she's excited about sharing it because of the quality of teachers here.

"It's such an interesting project, and I love it," she said. "I've learned a lot watching these teachers, and I'm hoping that people on this campus from graduate students up to the most distinguished professor will take the DVD and play around with it and find new things that they can try."

"If you only try one new thing, it will help you. It will make you a better teacher."

GAME OF HOOPS

Adam Matousek, freshman in human resource management, responds to a missed shot while Peter Anderson, freshman in engineering, grabs a rebound during a game of 21 between Mariatt and Goodnow halls Tuesday afternoon. Matousek, Anderson and Brian Swenson, freshman in business administration, were taking advantage of the warmer weather.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

U.S. test fires largest non-nuclear bomb in arsenal

By Robert Burns
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON - In a flashy debut for its biggest non-nuclear bomb, the Air Force on Tuesday dropped a 21,000-pound behemoth onto a test range in Florida, hoping the test would rattle nerves in Iraq as well.

The bomb test was declared a success, but movement on other fronts in the U.S.-led push toward war was murkier.

At the United Nations, the United States and Britain faced the prospect of defeat for their resolution giving Iraq until Monday to disarm or be invaded, and it appeared they might agree to a short extension of the deadline.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld suggested that even the participation of America's closest ally, Britain, in the combat phase of disarming Iraq was in doubt.

"Until we know what the resolution is (going to say), we won't know the answer as to what their role will be," Rumsfeld said of the British military, which is deploying 45,000 troops to the Gulf.

"And to the extent they are able to participate - in the event that the president decides to use force - that would obviously be welcomed," he added. "To the extent they're not, there are work-arounds and they would not be involved, at least in that phase of it."

Whether that meant the United States was considering going to war without Britain, he said, "That is an issue that the president will be addressing in the days ahead, one would assume."

British Prime Minister Tony Blair faces enormous public opposition to his stance in support of Bush.

In London, government officials were reportedly surprised at Rumsfeld's comments. Blair's office told The Associated Press: "This does not change anything. We are still working for a second resolution. We are not at a state of military combat but there has been complete cooperation between the United Kingdom and the United States throughout on the military planning side."

At a joint news conference with Rumsfeld, Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the number of American forces now arrayed against Iraq exceeded 225,000.

Neither Myers nor Rumsfeld would say whether the 21,000-pound Air Force bomb would be used in a war against Iraq. It is officially designated the Massive Ordnance Air Blast, or MOAB, although it has come to be called unofficially the Mother of All Bombs, a rough allusion to Saddam Hussein's claim before the 1991 Gulf War that that conflict would be the "mother of all battles."

"Anything we have in the arsenal, anything that's in almost any stage of development, could be used," Myers said.

Cheryl Irwin, a Pentagon spokeswoman, said the test was considered a success.

"It did what they expected it to do. Nothing malfunctioned," she said.

Rumsfeld indicated that the big bomb, which was dropped out the back of a C-130 transport plane over a test range at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., was as much a psychological tool as any weapon.

"The goal is to not have a war," he said. "The goal is to have the pressure be so great that Saddam Hussein cooperates. Short of that ... the goal is to have the capabilities of the coalition so clear and so obvious that there is an enormous disincentive for the Iraqi military to fight against the coalition and there's an enormous incentive for Saddam Hussein to leave and spare the world a conflict."

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS! NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M, W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 5p-7p
T, Th, & Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont #1
M & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th St
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $900

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

WILL BUILD TO SUIT.

Chipotle

SPACIOUS BURRITOS. CUSTOM FINISH.
IN AGGIEVILLE

Tourney sets stage for NCAA matchups

SEAN PURCELL

To echo what a colleague said earlier in the week, I love March Madness.

For me, it's the greatest time of the year.

It's been a long wait. I can't remember a time when the opening games fell on the Thursday of spring break. I can remember, however, plenty of times where the NCAA Tournament took priority over class.

Now I can have my cake, and not be worried about the consequences of eating too much — or something like that.

But with great things come great mysteries. Like an awesome suspense movie. If the writer of the script does a good job, you don't really know everything until the very end.

The same applies to the NCAA Tournament field.

But in four days, we will know those all important No. 1 seeds.

This week's Big 12 Tournament should clear up things nicely, too.

On the men's side, the toughest conference in the nation could have two top seeds. Texas and Kansas occupy the third and fourth rankings in this week's Associated Press top 25 poll, and I don't see why they won't have No. 1 seeds in the field of 65 on Sunday.

If you look at who else could fill those voids, should the Big 12 get just one top seed, it's easy why our conference is likely to land them both.

Pittsburgh is ranked fifth in the top 25 poll, but the Big East is nothing like it was last year. Personally, if anyone should get the highest seed from that conference, it should be Syracuse. Carmelo Anthony — whoa.

So if Pitt gets beat, who then?

Oklahoma is ranked after the Panthers, but won't get a No. 1 seed as Cinderella. I hope K-State will upset the Sooners in the second round of the Big 12 Tournament.

Had to add a little humor to the column. Hope you enjoyed it.

After the Sooners are pretty much the rest of the field, who will all just watch as Arizona and Kentucky rip up this year's bracket.

So one sex down, and one to go. This time, I won't be so nice to the Big 12.

The women's bracket, like the men's, can likely have two teams from the same conference get No. 1 seeds. After Connecticut and Duke, the next two logical choices for top seeds are Tennessee and LSU.

The Tigers just defeated Pat Summit's Lady Vols in the Southeastern Conference Tournament finals, handing Tennessee its fourth loss of the season.

But check this out: Losses on the year are to the No. 1 (UConn) and No. 2 (Duke) teams in the country, the No. 3 team in women's hoops (LSU) and the recent No. 5 team (Texas).

To me, there's no valid argument against Tennessee for the final No. 1 seed.

But there are other scenarios.

The Big 12 has three teams in the top eight in the country. All will be vying for the conference crown this week in Dallas, and the winner could sneak its way into the final No. 1 slot.

Don't, however, get your hopes up too high, Big 12 fans. But anything is possible, I guess.

That's why tournament time is so great.

Sean is a senior in electronic journalism. You can e-mail him at spu5598@ksu.edu.

YOUTHFUL CONTRIBUTIONS

Rookie netter looks to continue fast start Saturday against Baylor

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Freshman Jessica Simosa will look to build on her 7-1 record at No. 3 singles when K-State (6-2, 2-1) travels to Waco, Texas, to face No. 42 Baylor (4-6, 3-0) at noon Saturday.

The Valencia, Venezuela, native started off the spring season 6-0 before suffering her first loss against Oklahoma on Saturday. Simosa also sports a 3-3 record in doubles competition along with her regular partner, sophomore Andrea Cooper.

"She's a good athlete, and she's someone who contributes in a lot of intangible ways. She's a very pleasant person to be around, and when things get tough, everyone appreciates her sense of humor."

Steve Bietau
COACH

Despite being only a freshman, Simosa's quick start in singles play came as no surprise to Coach Steve Bietau.

"I wasn't surprised," Bietau said. "I got a fairly good look at Jessica during the recruiting process and felt she had the ability to do some really great things in college tennis."

For any athlete, the transition into collegiate athletics can be a tough step to take. Having to move to a new country, learn a new language and adapt to a new culture can add to the difficulty of that process.

Simosa, who grew up speaking Spanish, said having another native Venezuelan around has been helpful.

"English (has been difficult)," Simosa said. "I speak Spanish, so that's been difficult. Assistant coach Andres Gonzalez is from Venezuela, too, so that's been helpful."

Also helpful is the support Simosa has been receiving from teammates.

"I think she's adapting very well," Bietau said. "Jessica's a very likable person, and what you give out, you tend to get back."

As far as tennis goes, Simosa said the amount of training collegiate tennis players endure has been surprising to her.

"I used to train less," she said. "When I came here, the system was different, and the way they train here was different."

In order to adapt to the differences, Simosa has had to put in some extra time practicing.

"Over Christmas break, I stayed here and trained every single day after Dec. 24," Simosa said.

Along with her undefeated start this

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Petra Sedlmajerova hits the ball in a match against Utah State at Cottonwood Raquet Club on Feb. 15. Sedlmajerova will play Baylor's Vida Mulec this weekend in Waco, Texas. She enters the tournament as K-State's No. 1 singles player, as well as the team's No. 2 doubles player with Paulina Castillejos.

spring, Simosa said playing in the No. 3 singles spot has also been a highlight of her freshman campaign.

"Last semester, I thought I was going to play No. 6, but I have improved, and now I'm playing at No. 3 and I'm 7-1," Simosa said.

Simosa said she has one personal goal on her mind this year.

"I would like to win conference freshman of the year," she said.

The freshman also said she hopes to help her team move up in the Big 12 standings.

"We're No. 6 in the conference," Simosa said. "We would like to improve on that."

Bietau said Simosa has the ability to help her teammates both on and off the court.

"Jessica is a talented young woman," Bietau said.

"She's a good athlete, and she's some-

Projected matchups

Singles

1. Petra Sedlmajerova, KSU vs. Vida Mulec, BU
2. Maria Rosenberg, KSU vs. Stephanie Balzert, BU
3. Jessica Simosa, KSU vs. Anna Moncolova, BU
4. Paulina Castillejos, KSU vs. Daria Potapova, BU
5. Hayley McIver, KSU vs. Izabela Mijic, BU
6. Andrea Cooper, KSU vs. Alison Bradley, BU

Doubles

1. Simosa/Cooper, KSU vs. Bradley/Potapova, BU
2. Sedlmajerova/Castillejos, KSU vs. Moncolova/Mulec, BU
3. Rosenberg/McIver, KSU vs. Balzert/Mijic, BU

one who contributes in a lot of intangible ways. She's a very pleasant person to be around, and when things get tough, everyone appreciates her sense of humor."

Deadline for season's intramural softball teams set for Thursday

Games begin March 26, will include different team types

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If the beginning of spring training and another season of K-State baseball have given students an urge to take the field, their wait is over.

Entry forms for intramural softball are available at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. The entry deadline is at 5 p.m. Thursday, with games set to begin March 26.

Intramural softball drew 308 teams last season, 135 of which were in the co-rec division. John Wondra, assistant director of intramurals, said softball is one of the Rec Complex's most popular intramurals.

"It seems more people can play softball," Wondra said. "Our co-rec leagues are very popular with softball."

Each team is limited to 20 people. Ten defensive players are allowed on the field at one time, but 11 players come to the plate, as each team will have a designated hitter. All games will consist of seven innings, unless the one-hour time limit expires.

Teams will be guaranteed five regular-season games. Those squads with records of .500 or better will advance to a single elimination play-off.

Division make-up follows suit with other sports, and includes men's fraternity, independent and residence hall teams divisions. There are also co-rec and a women's leagues.

All games will be at the intramural fields located outside of the Rec Complex. Wondra also said that all team members should remember to bring their student IDs to each game.

"They need to have their student IDs before each game to check in," Wondra said. "Sometimes they forget that."

Another opportunity for students to get involved in the intramural is to become an official. Wondra said umpire positions were still available for the upcoming season.

"If anyone is interested in being an umpire, we have two meetings on March 24 and 25," Wondra said.

The only equipment students are required to furnish are gloves, but Wondra said the Rec Complex even has a few of those to check out if players can't supply their own.

"We supply the softballs, bat and chest protector and face mask if needed," Wondra said.

Softball offers more of a social atmosphere than other sports offered, Wondra said, as seen by the popularity of the co-rec division.

"It's a chance for students to mix with their friends and form a team," Wondra said. "They can form teams and go out and have a little bit of social activity."

Poor scores leave KSU in 12th place

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Consistency is something that every golfer and golf team strive for — but not the consistency the K-State men's golf team turned in at the Louisiana Classics this week.

The Cats opened the tournament Monday shooting 296 in both the first and second rounds. Coach Tim Norris said he hoped his team, after learning the course, would improve on the 16-over-par score it finished with on the first day.

It didn't happen. K-State played worse in the final round Tuesday, firing a 297 and finishing the tournament in 12th place, 31 shots behind tournament winner Southern Methodist.

"We just didn't have that one or two hot rounds that

TOURNAMENT UPDATE

By Dan Smith

The Big 12 Women's Tournament began yesterday with four first-round games. Here is a recap of all the games played at Reunion Arena in Dallas, Texas.

Kansas 63, Iowa State 60

Freshmen Crystal Kemp and Tamara Ransburg executed ninth-seeded Kansas' gameplan perfectly as the Jayhawks (11-17, 3-13) outscored eighth seed Iowa State 36-14 in the paint to nab the first upset of the Big 12 Tournament.

"We felt like we could go inside all game," KU Coach Marian Washington said, "and I thought having them touch the basketball really helped us overall."

Kemp had 21 points and 11 rebounds, and Tamara Ransburg pitched in 12 points and pulled down 8 boards, as the Jayhawks averaged two earlier losses this season to the Cyclones (12-16, 7-9) and beat Iowa State for the first time in five tries.

With the win, Kansas advances to play top-seeded Texas at noon today.

● ● ●

Oklahoma 71, Nebraska 51

Neither team started well, but once fifth-seeded Oklahoma got it together, 12th-seeded Nebraska had no answer for the Sooners.

OU's Dionniah Jackson had 14 points to lead all scorers, and Theresa Schuknecht pitched in a double-double with 12 points and 10 rebounds, as Oklahoma (19-11, 9-7) began its defense of the Big 12 Tournament crown in a dogfight with the Huskers (8-20, 1-15).

Nebraska took leads of 2-0, 5-3 and 6-5, but by halftime, the Sooners had built an eight-point lead.

"As we expected, Nebraska played very, very hard," OU Coach Sherri Coale said. "I'm really proud of our team. We continue to get better. We had moments of brilliance, which is better than no moments of brilliance."

A 53-percent shooting effort in the second half helped the Sooners build a 22-point lead, as Oklahoma improved its argument for an NCAA Tournament bid.

The Sooners will meet the four seed, Colorado (21-6, 11-5), today in quarterfinal action at 2:30 p.m.

● ● ●

Baylor 80, Texas A&M 61

Texas A&M led by 12 three times in the first half and the Aggies took a nine-point lead to halftime, but an inspired Baylor team emerged from the locker room to put down what would have been the day's second upset.

Big 12 Freshman of the Year Sophia Young had 25 points to lead all scorers, and the Lady Bears (21-9, 8-8) got double figure point totals out of Stefanie Blackmon and Jessica Stratton to beat the Aggies (10-19, 3-13) for the sixth straight time.

"We had a come-to-Jesus meeting," Baylor Coach Kim Mulkey-Robertson said of her team's approach at halftime.

"Sometimes you have to do that at Baylor."

Baylor couldn't have needed it more after the first 20 minutes.

But a 12-2 run to start the second half gave Baylor the spark it needed, and the Lady Bears wouldn't trail again after the 15-44 mark.

Seventh-seeded Baylor will play its second game today against second-seeded K-State. The Wildcats took the teams' regular season meeting, 65-55.

● ● ●

Oklahoma State 56, Missouri 54

Evan Unrau's 18 points and 14 rebounds kept Missouri competitive through 40 minutes, but it was the two points she didn't get that might have ended the Tigers' season earlier than they would have liked.

Tracy Lozier's 3-point attempt with less than 10 seconds left would have sealed an MU (15-13, 9-7) win, but it rolled off the rim, and Unrau's putback was just left of the mark as the Cowgirls (8-20, 3-13) celebrated the second upset of the Big 12 Tournament.

The Cowgirls' win marked only the third time an 11 seed has upset a six seed in the history of the league.

"I'm just real proud of our kids, their effort and their intensity," OSU Coach Julie Goodenough said.

Trisha Skibbe iced the outcome with two free throws with 18.1 seconds left.

The loss puts the Tigers' NCAA Tournament chances at risk. A WNIT bid is more likely for Missouri now, while the 11th-seeded Cowgirls prepare to meet third-seeded Texas Tech at 8:30 tonight.

The Cowgirls dropped a pair of games to the Lady Raiders this season — 95-45 in Lubbock and 83-48 in Stillwater.

SPORTS ONLINE

The K-State women's basketball team will play Baylor tomorrow in the second round of the Big 12 Tournament. Earlier this season, the Wildcats snuck by the Bears 65-55 in Waco, Texas. Read about K-State's chances of reaching the semi-finals of the Big 12 Tournament at www.kstatecollegian.com.

THE EDGE

Wednesday, March 12, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

SPRING INTO STYLE

Season's fashions to include low-rise jeans, tighter shirts

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feel the warm sunshine, smell the sweet flowers blooming – well, maybe not just yet. Although the freezing temperatures are still screaming winter weather, an escape to a land of swimsuits and shorts is not far away.

Jason Stoltz, assistant manager at the Buckle, said it's helpful to start trying on swimsuits to make sure the right size is in stock or to put special purchases on layaway.

"We try to get into the futuristic needs of our customers," Stoltz said. "We try to give our customers more time and convenience."

Swimsuits can also bump winter coats to the clearance racks in the middle of February because people need time to ease into new fashions, said Lyndsay Nelson, junior in human ecology and sales associate at Maurices.

"In retail, we get the fashion months before it's in style," Nelson said. "People look around at what the 'in' style is and then decide what they want to get."

The "in" style this season ranges from Bohemian and vintage to Mod and Retro, with a color palette of pastels like pink, cream and sky blue, and neutrals like olive green, camel, tan and khaki, she said.

Fashion for women

Spring fashion in the women's section varies from the understated to the extreme, depending on the store and personal tastes, Nelson said.

"It's in style now to show off more skin, like low-rise pants and handkerchief tops," Nelson said. "Some girls like to show what they've got, and others are more timid. It differs from individual to individual, but for the most part, people like to stay in style."

Nelson said more girls are accepting the idea of exposing more skin because it's so widespread and available in the latest fashions.

For girls even more daring in their fashions, Zotcis in Aggieville prides itself on introducing the latest styles from the coasts to the Midwest.

"We go trendier than any other store in Manhattan – really trendy for Kansas," employee Ester Wiechen said. "Sometimes people aren't ready for it, but we have some more fashion-forward customers."

However, not all of the clothing at Zotcis is on the extreme end of trendiness. Wiechen said they usually order more down-played styles to ease people into new looks.

"People here want to see the latest fashion in the mainstream before they will follow the latest trend," Wiechen said. "Not just on TV or on runway models, but being worn by people around them."

Zotcis will soon be introducing a few items to Manhattan, such as the army capris pants. Wiechen said she also saw several 1940s-style dresses and light denim jeans reminiscent of the 1980s while at market, but that Zotcis ordered less of these styles.

"Several designers have the lighter denim with a slight flare or tapered slim fit," Wiechen said. "And there were a lot of Lucille Ball dresses with sweetheart necklines and fuller skirts that hide wider hips."

Although these styles might be big along the coasts now, Wiechen said it might take a while to filter into Kansas fashion.

Fashion for men

While women's fashion might be taking a time-travel back to the World War II era, the most extreme fashions for men only go so far as the retro, mod days of the 1960s and 1970s.

Crinkle button-up shirts are the latest trend in men's wear both at Zotcis and the Buckle. Wiechen said the slightly sheer fabric and crinkle texture is a sexier look for guys.

Vintage polos, tight-fitting shirts and bowling-style shoes are also among the more popular items for men, Stoltz said.

However, for the most part, men's fashion remains marginally altered. Board shorts and T-shirts are altered in color and theme rather than cut or style. This spring, the theme is vintage Hawaiian, Stoltz said.

"The vintage Hawaiian look has more browns, khakis, blues and greens, not bright colors," Stoltz said. "A lot of palm trees with an antique look."

Dereck Hooker, sophomore in finance and accounting, said he saw a lot of the retro style as well as the relaxed look in men's fashion while modeling in the Spring Fashion Show at the Manhattan Town Center last weekend. Hooker said he predicts the retro look to be short lived with men.

"Most guys want to look decent and fill in with fashion trends," Hooker said. "But they don't care nearly as much as women."

Not only are guys less interested in clothing fashion, they are also more reserved in changing their look, Stoltz said.

"Guys usually need to see something three times before they're even willing to try it on or buy it," Stoltz said.

One trend that guys are warming up to this season is flip-flops.

Tennis shoes and Docs aren't as popular as they were. Thong sandals seem to be the thing now," Hooker said.

Photo Illustrations by Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

CALENDAR

■ Gang of Hours will perform tonight at Dave's Hideaway.
■ The Konza Prairie Chamber Players, a woodwind quartet, will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel Auditorium.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Strike up the band — Broadway musicians end strike in New York City
After a four-day walkout that cost New York City $10 million, Broadway musicians settled the first strike on the Great White Way in more than a quarter-century Tuesday by agreeing to cut the number of orchestra players a show must hire.

The breakthrough came during an all-night negotiating session set up by Mayor Michael Bloomberg as the walkout by about 325 musicians began costing theaters, restaurants and hotels vital tourism dollars in a city already ailing financially.

"Broadway is no longer dark," Bloomberg said in announcing the agreement that allowed 18 musicals, including "The Producers," "The Lion King," "Mamma Mia!" and "Hairspray," to resume Tuesday night.

MTV honoring 20 years of Metallica, name the band its 3rd 'mtvICON'

MTV is celebrating the two-decade career of Metallica by naming the heavy metal group as its third "mtvICON."

The Grammy-winning band will be the subject of a tribute by other artists and celebrities on May 3 in Los Angeles. The event will premiere on MTV three days later.

Foundation for slain rapper Notorious B.I.G. honors moms of late performers

Six years after rapper Notorious B.I.G. was slain, the grief is still fresh for his mother, Voletta Wallace.

Her pain was eased in the weeks after her son's death by the outpouring of support she received from fans and friends, Wallace said.

So she decided to follow that example by honoring the mothers of other musicians who died untimely deaths at "B.I.G. Night Out," a benefit for the Christopher Wallace Memorial Foundation.

At the benefit Tuesday in Manhattan, Wallace said she had no advice for them, but wanted to celebrate their courage.

NEW RELEASES

DVD (*also on video)

"Descendants Dark"
"Cardcaptor Sakura 14"
"TTO 7"
"I Am Curious"
"Inspector Gadget 2"
"Moonlight Mile"
"Nightmare Campus"
"Swimfan"
"White Oleander"
"Zone of Enders 3"

Music

Ben Harper "Diamonds on the Inside"
Ani DiFranco "Evolve"
Willie Nelson "Essential Willie Nelson"
Run-D.M.C. "Maximum Run-D.M.C."
Louise Taylor "Velvet Town"
Everclear "Slow Motion Daydream" (enhanced)

Artists to convert melted metal into masterpieces at iron pour

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Several people will gather around a stove, south of West Stadium, this morning and melt 2,000 pounds of iron.

They aren't pyromaniacs in love with melting.

They are artists whose passion is to turn an unformed piece of iron into their masterpiece.

The sand and oil-based resin molds that the artists have worked on for the past three weeks will finally be filled with melted iron, Daniel Hunt, assistant professor in art, said.

"The iron will reach temperatures of 2,600 degrees Fahrenheit," Hunt said. "Once we get it hot enough to melt, and we have a steady stream of iron, we go with it and won't stop until we're done. We will try to get the metal flowing around 10:30 a.m., and the actual pour will last for about two hours."

He said they like to have an iron pour at least once every semester.

This pour is unique because the group is inviting people from all around to participate and watch the pour, Hunt said. However, the people handling the iron depend strongly on teamwork, Hilary Wahlen, senior in sculpture, said.

"People who have been around this tend to get an adrenaline rush," Wahlen said. "People who haven't been around it find it intimidating."

"You have to be on your toes because the danger level is so high. You can't inadvertently bump someone because a fire could break out or you could burn yourself badly."

Danger is only one aspect of the attraction to the iron pour, Wahlen said.

She said all of the hard work and time put into creating something like this pays off when you see the final product.

"This is my favorite way to work," Wahlen said. "I love the process and the time and effort that it takes. It isn't something that can be done quickly. It's phenomenal at the end when you have the final piece."

"It's as gritty and hardcore that you can get, to transform this tough metal. I get to break down radiators to make art."

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

DUI | Study shows more than half of DUI arrests are repeat offenders

Continued from Page 1

which wasn't too exciting, and I can't drive for another year."

Hensley said the study was an accurate assessment of drunken drivers and Kansans on the road pass, people every day who are driving illegally.

"It's a very common offense we deal with," he said. "There are a lot of people without licenses out there who are driving illegally."

The AAA study also found that more than half of all drivers arrested for driving while intoxicated were repeat offenders.

Hensley said this statistic has a lot to do with alcohol addiction.

"Some people are simply addicted to alcohol," he said. "They are too proud to admit it's a problem, and they think they are tough enough to drink and drive and won't hurt anyone."

"People tend to repeat behavior that gets them in trouble in the first place."

Despite AAA's emphasis of finding drunken drivers and keeping them off the roads, the study showed there is less than 1-in-50 chance a drunken driver will be arrested on any given trip.

"There are traditionally drunk drivers who do not get caught every time that are driving drunk," Hensley said. "We do tend to arrest a lot of drunk drivers who are habitual, but there are still drunk drivers every day who drive and do not get caught."

Millard said the AAA is pushing for stricter punishments for drivers who are caught driving on a suspended license.

"We want tougher laws so that if you get pulled over while on a suspended license the laws won't be so lenient," she said.

Taber said he would warn anyone who gets a DUI to think about the consequences of driving without a license.

"There is a choice, but you should realize that you are on thin ice and there are ramifications," he said.

"I'll get my license back on Oct. 16 of this year. It will be two years without a license."

DELAY | Proposal allows Iraq 10 days to disarm

Continued from Page 1

Ambassador Jeremy Greenstock said late Monday.

"We are examining whether a list of tests of Iraqi compliance would be a useful thing for the council. It doesn't mean there are any conclusions."

Greenstock said the March 17 deadline could be extended but not by that much.

Britain is "prepared to look at timelines and tests together, but I'm pretty sure we're talking about action in March. Don't look beyond March," he told CNN.

Under the British proposal, Saddam would have 10 days to prove Iraq has taken a "strategic decision" to disarm, which could be done with a series of tests or "benchmarks," council diplomats said.

If Iraq makes that decision, a second phase would begin with more time to verify Iraq's full disarmament, the diplomats said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Reacting to the possible British compromise, French diplomats said the resolution would still mean authorizing war, which France is unwilling to do. However, the French Foreign Ministry in Paris indicated it was open to new ideas.

Nonetheless, Foreign Ministry spokesman Francois Rivasseau stressed that the "red line" set out by France cannot be crossed: "We want no ultimatum. We want no element of automaticity. And we've said we want what the inspectors say taken into account."

Russia's U.N. Ambassador Sergey Lavrov agreed.

"We see no reason whatsoever to interrupt the inspections and any resolution which contains ultimatums and which contains automaticity for the use of force is not acceptable to us," he said.

While Washington and London work on a possible compromise, council members agreed to hold another open meeting on the Iraq crisis at the request of the Non-Aligned Movement, which represents about 115 mainly developing countries.

Diplomats said it would likely delay a vote until Thursday at the earliest.

The open meeting will give nations from all parts of the world a chance to voice their views on an issue that has polarized the Security Council. It will also give supporters and opponents of the U.S.-backed resolution more time to lobby.

President Bush was conducting an urgent phone campaign, seeking support from world leaders.

Chinese President Jiang Zemin told Bush that inspections in Iraq should continue and the standoff should be settled without military action, the Foreign Ministry said Tuesday. Jiang told Bush there was "no need for any new resolution," said spokesman Kong Quan.

Japan has begun lobbying the undecided council members to urge support for the U.S.-backed resolution, the Japanese Foreign Ministry said Tuesday. In one call, Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi told Mexican President Vicente Fox that international divisions were putting the United Nations' authority at stake, the ministry said.

"Mexico is taking an independent position and is not leaning to either side," Fox said.

CONTEST

Bar owner to give $1,000 tonight

Continued from Page 1

good opportunity to give someone a decent spring break," he said.

"Last Chance is busy, and the students support it. I want to give a little of that back if I can."

This is the first time for this particular event, but Wunder said he hopes it won't be the last time for this promotion.

"We hope that all promotions are good, but this one is really working well," he said.

Wunder said that in the first two registration days, more than 200 people registered for the drawing and is expecting that number to increase dramatically.

Wilson said he recommends people to arrive early tonight because anyone is welcome to come out and participate.

"Someone will walk out with $1,000 in their hand - a check from me - there are no gimmicks here. It's straightforward a thousand dollars cash," he said.

Cinnamon Street
B A K E R Y

Celebrating Our
GRAND OPENING!

LOCATED IN THE COFFEE/SWEET SHOP
1ST FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION

WEIGHT LOSS - FUN AND EASY?

Dr. Rick Tague would like to offer you absolutely free:

Body Composition Analysis & Introductory Visit

You will receive a computerized impedance plethysmography examination (which measures your muscle to fat ratio). From this exam we will generate a written report for you that includes your Body Mass Index, Weight Goal and other key health information. With this report, when you start, Dr. Tague will sit down with you and create a personalized weight management program based on your personal preferences and your individual physical, genetic and environmental characteristics. We will listen to you and tailor a program just for you.

Fun and Easy? YES!

Using an individualized high nutrient program (including shakes, bars, snacks and food from your own pantry) and FDA approved medications (if needed) your fat pounds will melt away making weight loss fun and easy.

If it feels as if you tried almost every diet there is...but still struggle with your weight...there likely is a medical reason causing your lack of success. Genetic, metabolic and environmental factors are typically to blame and it's not your fault! Quit feeling frustrated and depressed about your weight. Make the choice to let Dr. Tague help correct what is causing your weight problem so you can look better and have a more energetic, fun life.

Call Today. The first 15 people who call will receive a FREE individualized metabolic rate exam using state-of-the-art equipment that measures your resting metabolic rate. Information from this test is used to develop a program for you that will jump-start your sluggish metabolism which further increases your weight loss.

Call 776-4443 Now

Call 776-4443 today to get your FREE Body Composition Analysis and to find out how losing weight can be fun and easy.

St. Patrick's Day
Buffet
per person tax included

Bluemont Room
March 13, 11:00am-1:30pm
2nd Floor • K-State Student Union

County cork Irish stew
Porter beef
Chicken and leek pie

Potato and smoked salmon gratin
Potato pie

Tossed salad with toppings
Red potato salad
Sauerkraut salad

Baby carrots and onions in cream
Parsnip cakes
Cabbage and bacon

Irish farmhouse loaf
Irish tea bread

Apple fritters
Curach (Irish honey and oatmeal cream)
Irish curd cake
Chocolate-orange Guinness cake

www.union.ksu.edu/food/bluemont For reservations call: 531-6068

Criminology and Social Service Career Fair

March 12th

EVERYONE WELCOME!

Over 30 Federal, State and Local Employers
Kansas State University Student Union Ballroom
10am to 2pm

For more information, Call 785-532-4963
or Email nofzig@ksu.edu

K-State at Fort Riley Class Schedule Term 3-2003

Programs for Military and Civilians

March 24 - May 17, 2003

Courses Offered

Course Title	Course Number	Credit Hours	Blde/Rm
Monday/Wednesday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Intern./Microeconomics (P)	ECON 520	3	7656/16
Family Rel./Gender Roles (P)	FSHS 350	3	7656/12
Human Dev. & Aging (P)	FSHS 510	3	7656/4
Environ. Geology: Water & Air	GEOL 115	3	7604/13
Human Geography	GEOG 200	3	7604/14
College Algebra (P)	MATH 100	3	7656/8
Social Psychology (P)	PSYCH 535	3	7656/11
Bus./Professional Speaking (P)	SPCH 311	3	7604/10

Monday/Wednesday 1900-2200 (7:00-10:00 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stat. II (P)	STAT 351	3	CAMPUS-206 Dickens

Monday/Wednesday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Principles of Macroecon. (P)	ECON 110	3	7656/11
Public Speaking II (P)	SPCH 321	3	7604/10
Intro. to Women's Studies	WOMST 105	3	7604/13

Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Expository Writing II (P)	ENGL 200	3	7604/13
Plane Trigonometry (P)	MATH 150	3	7656/16
Intro. to Music	MUSIC 250	3	7656/4
Intro./Philosophical Problems	PHIL 100	3	7656/8
US Politics	POLSC 325	3	7604/14
Race & Ethnic Relations (P)	SOCIO 570	3	7656/11

Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2030 (5:30-8:30 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stat. I (P)	STAT 350	3	CAMPUS-106 Dickens

Tuesday/Thursday 1800-2100 (6:00-9:00 PM)
Elem. Stat./Social Science (P)	STAT 330	3	CAMPUS-206 Dickens

Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Acctg. for Invest./Finance (P)	ACCTG 241	3	7656/12
(ACCTG $15 Extra Fee)
The Short Story	ENGL 320	3	7604/13
Families in Diversity	FSHS 552	3	7656/8
Kansas Politics	POLSC 321	3	7604/14
Psych./Mass Communic.	PSYCH 530	3	7656/11

Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM) and Saturday 0830-1030 (8:30-10:30 AM)
(All CIS classes have $5 extra fee)

Intro. to Info. Technology	CIS 101	1	217/201
March 24 - April 5, 2003
Spreadsheet Applications (P)	CIS 102	1	217/201
April 7 - 19, 2003
Database Applications (P)	CIS 103	1	217/201
April 21 - May 3, 2003
Word Processing Apps. (P)	CIS 104	1	217/201
May 5 - 17, 2003

Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM) and Saturday 0900-1200 (9:00-12:00 Noon)
Environmental Geogr. II (P)	GEOG 221	4	7656/4

Please check with our office just prior to classes starting for possible changes in the schedule!!

Program and Registration Information available at www.dce.ksu.edu/fortriley

Kansas State University

Active duty military have to see their military education counselor before dropping a class.

(P) = Course has prerequisite(s).

Special Assistance
Kansas State University is dedicated to making academic courses accessible to all persons. Contact the Registration Office at (785)532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 at least two weeks prior to the beginning of the course if you have a physical or learning disability which would require special accommodations.

Drop Dates
■ 100% refund if you drop in writing before the second class meeting
■ 50% refund if you drop in writing on or before April 11, 2003
■ Withdrawals after April 11, 2003 will be recorded on your transcript.
■ If you stop attending class and do not process a drop form you will receive a grade of "F."
■ No drops after May 2, 2003.

CLASSIFIEDS

Wednesday, March 12, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE, two, or three-bedroom. Close to campus. August 1. (785)317-7713.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS. Best deals around! Studio one, two, three-bedroom available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

AVAILABLE AUGUST= Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

DUPLEX 900 square feet. Two-bedroom, two bath. All appliances. Close to campus. June lease. Call (785)458-8835.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOUR AND FIVE-BEDROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

NEAR CAMPUS, one-bedroom apartments. 1832 Claflin. One-bedroom unique studio house, 909 Kearney (alley). August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549 or (785)539-5508.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE, TWO, Three, and four-bedrooms available for next school year. One bed/ one bath from $495 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663 (24 hours) one-half mile from KSU at the corner of College and Claflin.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom, June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE, four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2307 ANDERSON, six-bedroom house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/ dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

A FOUR-BEDROOM house, nice, near campus. June or August. Call (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1st. 2039 and 2071 College View, three-bedroom, no pets, $750 per month plus deposit. Call (785)456-7255.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar, June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath two and one-half blocks from campus. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Call Mike (785)632-5611 or (785)632-2148.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease. $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air. 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. $1100. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21, Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord, no pets. August lease. (785)539-0549.

ONE, TWO, three, four-bedroom houses and apartments. June lease, central air, no pets. Call (785)313-4812.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. $1050/ month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air-conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment, could rent as five-bedroom house.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/ month. 709 Bluemont. Washer/ dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, VERY nice condition. One block west of campus. Available June 1. No pets. $300/ bedroom. (785)537-4766.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)537-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE OR female roommate wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. Available April 1st. $285.50 plus utilities across from City Park downtown Aggieville. Call Merrick (785)371-1371.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for this summer or fall. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Rent $230/ month plus share of utilities. Located at 911 North 11th Street.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month (785)539-5907.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

K-Rental Mgmt.
539-8401

Studio from $340
1 BR from $440
2 BR from $500
3 BR from $630
4 BR from $800

•References, lease
•Most utilities paid

HOUSES from $840

NOW LEASING FOR FALL

•Cambridge Sq.
•Sandstone Apts.
•2000 College Heights
•1114 Fremont
•LEASED
•Forrest Creek Town Homes

537-9064
Wednesday 12:30pm-5pm
Saturday 10am-3pm
www.krental.com

ROYAL TOWERS

4 Bedroom APARTMENTS

•1500 sq. ft.
•Starting at $780/mo.
•Close to Campus
•Large Bedrooms
•Hollywood Baths
•Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
•Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

ONE OR Two-bedroom apartments. One-half block to KSU. Some with washer/ dryer. No pets. June occupancy. $380 to $500. (785)556-6899.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM OFF campus water and trash paid. Available June 1 and August 1. No smokers, no pets. (785)776-3184.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, no pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $285 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $315 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOMS. All amenities. August leases. Close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWN-HOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, available June 1, washer/ dryer provided. $520. Water, trash paid. 405 North 10th. (785)539-0939.

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, no pets, $1100. Call (785)537-7597.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ Dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

539-0500
2215 College Avenue
Office Hours: Mon-Fri 10-4
Sat 10-4

Back pain? Neck pain? Headaches?
WE CAN HELP!!
Call 537-8305 today!
Chiropractic Family Health Center
Dr. Mark J. Hatesohl
conveniently located next to Blockbuster Video 110

For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

Now Leasing
1 LEASED $90
2 BR From $590
1 Apt. left for June
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real Estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets, $500. Call (785)537-7597.

125
For Sale-
Houses

COLORADO RANCH for $ 1 0 0 0
www.winterhomeranch.com

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FIVE-BEDROOM MANU-FACTURED home $70,000. (785)537-1749.

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

FIVE AND four-bedroom. Washer/ dryer included. Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/ dryer. Available August 1st. (785)539-0939.

FOUR PLUS bedrooms. All amenities. June Leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)587-0183.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Nice two-bedroom apartment Chase Manhattan. $295 each person. Dishwasher, water and trash paid. Call (785)565-9185 or (620)260-7719.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

200 service directory

300 employment
opportunities

120
For Rent-
Houses

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real Estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, no pets, $500. Call (785)537-7597.

125
For Sale-
Houses

COLORADO RANCH for $ 1 0 0 0
www.winterhomeranch.com

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FIVE-BEDROOM MANU-FACTURED home $70,000. (785)537-1749.

FOR SALE Mobile Home. 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

FIVE AND four-bedroom. Washer/ dryer included. Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/ dryer. Available August 1st. (785)539-0939.

FOUR PLUS bedrooms. All amenities. June Leases. Close to campus. (785)539-4641.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)587-0183.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

SUBLEASER FEMALE huge bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $250 plus half utilities. Call Meg (785)587-5067 or Jamie (785)623-0086.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE. March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Nice two-bedroom apartment Chase Manhattan. $295 each person. Dishwasher, water and trash paid. Call (785)565-9185 or (620)260-7719.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

200 service directory

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall. (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

AD SALES, PR, Distribution. Part-time internship. Well-paid, flexible hours. E-mail resume/ GPA to ucal@bendnet.com with "Intern" in subject line.

BABYSITTER NEEDED for two year old in my house on weekends during the day. Must have references. Pay discussed upon interview. Please call (785)313-2147.

BARTENDER POSITION Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext.1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)-293-3985 ext. 548.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000-$5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

DIRECTOR OF Youth ministry, full-time. Must have love for Christ and young people, preferably trained or experienced in youth and family ministry, strong leadership, administrative, and teaching skills. Able to work cooperatively. To apply, contact First Lutheran Church, 930 Poyntz, Manhattan, KS (785)537-8532.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week. May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, Friday, April 4.

GOLF | Team fails to improve, finishes in 12th place behind SMU

Continued from Page 6

could have carried us," Norris said. "It wasn't any particular thing. I think this course has a lot of course knowledge to it. Stuff that you can't explain, you just have to play through it."

Sophomore Matt Van Cleave paced the Wildcats in Lafayette, La., finishing in a tie for 13th place. Van Cleave shot a 73 on Tuesday and finished the tournament at 1-under-par.

"I was very pleased with the way Matt played," Norris said. "He had a good finish. It was nice to see Matt kind of solidify his position in our lineup."

Fighting a hand injury, junior co-captain A.J. Elgert struggled for the second consecutive day, shooting an 8-over 80 in the final round.

"I think - for A.J. - he's still trying to get back in the groove and get through this injury," Norris said. "His hand isn't bothering him at all, but again it's just a lack of competitive golf."

"The golf course didn't really set up well for A.J. as

Golf results

12. K-State	296	296	297	889
113 Matt Van Cleave	71	71	73	215
144 Aaron Watkins	76	76	72	224
144 Greg Douglas	75	75	74	224
156 Josh Persons	75	74	78	227
173 A.J. Elgert	75	77	80	232

far as the shots that it required. He's used to something a little bit longer. When you compound everything and all the bad breaks and all the bad bounces, it still wasn't that bad of an outing."

Junior co-captain Aaron Watkins also struggled Monday, firing a 76 in both rounds, but rebounded Tuesday to shoot an even-par 72.

"I'm proud of Aaron," Norris said. "He really had a good round going but clipped a little branch on a tree, and the ball bounces into the lake in front of the green. He was going pretty well at that time and then makes a double-bogey."

"That's the kind of week it was. Top to bottom, with the exception of Matt, everybody was off just a little bit. The mistakes they did make kind of compounded themselves."

DRUNK | Police officers improve skills in sobriety testing techniques

Continued from Page 1

environment allows officers to relax and concentrate on learning to detect signs of intoxication.

"When you're out in the field, you are worried about getting hit by a car or what the person might do to you," she said.

"It's really hard to learn with distractions."

Sgt. Ralph Duffey of the Kansas Highway Patrol Drug and Alcohol Evaluation Unit, said statistics are higher than might be expected.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 10 percent of drivers on a weekend night are driving under the influence, while one out of seven people leaving a bar are, Duffey said.

The drug training teaches the officers about different drug categories and what to look for and expect from drivers who may be under the influence of drugs, he said. The officers learn common indicators and what actions are related to certain drugs.

"We contacted local agencies and had officers sign up," Stubbings said. "Then, we contacted the Highway Patrol, who provides the training, and we arranged for volunteer drinkers."

The law-enforcement agencies do not take drunken driving lightly, he said. They know how to detect it even slight intoxication and won't ignore it.

James Younk of the K-State Police Department (center) and Sgt. Ralph Duffey of the Kansas Highway Patrol discuss the Standardized Field Sobriety Test.

A majority of police officers are nationally certified in standard field sobriety training, he said.

Student volunteer Mike Smith, senior in military science, said it is important to help the community by doing this type of training.

"What we're doing is helping them to be better officers," he said. "I don't want drunk people driving around."

One man's junk is another man's treasure.

Kansas State Collegian classifieds • 532-6555

SELL YOUR STUFF TO STUDENTS

Yes, the students are back in town. They're spending money to furnish their living spaces, and they're shopping in the Kansas State Collegian classifieds.

Sell your stuff.

Call Collegian classifieds at 532-6555.

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories you've got to read.

Get your 2003 Royal Purple yearbook for $34.95 in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call

776-5577

Stock up for Spring Break at The Wildside

- New Spring Attire
- Fun Fashions for Spring Break
- Gurki Sandals & Lava Flip Flops
- Fun Bags

20% off Winter Merchandise

1128 Moro in Aggieville • 776-2252 • Mon-Fri 11-6:30 Sat 11-6

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

Students' Attorney:

SARAH HENSON

785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours:

Monday - Friday:
9:00 - 11:30 am & 1:30-3:30 pm

Tuesday Evening appointments available upon request.

for more information visit the website at:
<http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

COLLEGE IS TOUGH. COMMERCE IS EASY.

When you're in college, the last thing you want to worry about is banking. Lucky for you, Commerce Bank has made the decision easy. Open a checking account today and turn your ID card into an ATM/debit card that can be used all over campus and all over town.

Use your card at any of these convenient locations:

OFF CAMPUS

Applesseed Art & Frame

Ballard's Sporting Goods

Candlewood Aesthetics

Center Medical Skin Care

Candlewood Veterinary Clinic

Cary Company Inc.

Cat's Closet

Children's Book Shop

Cortner Chiropractic

Domino's Pizza

Dr. Paul Bullock, Optometrist

Eric Wisdom, D.D.S., PA

G. Thomas Jewelers

Guiding Light Greetings Gifts & Nutrition

Hibachi Hut

Homestead Rental/Furniture Warehouse

It's Greek To Me

Kansas Veterinary Education Supply

K Hill Engine Service

Kisner's Flowers & Greenhouse

Olson's Shoe Service

Orthopaedic Sports Medicine

Pet Stop Automotive

Randall's Formal Wear

Reed & Elliott Jewelers

Rod's Hallmark

Ruby's Last Chance

Ruby's Next Door

Ruby's Other Side

Stonewall Family Physicians

Taylor's Shoes

Texas Star Cafe

The K-State Place

The Palace

The People's Grocery

Varney's Bookstore

ON CAMPUS

Animal Science & Industry Athletics

Blumhert Buffet

Career & Employment

Continuing Education

Diagnostic Medicine

Hale Library

Housing/Dining Services Office

Kansas Extension Forestry

K-State ID Center

K-State Union Bookstore

K-State Union Cat's Den

K-State Union Computer Store

K-State Union Copy Center

K-State Union Food Court

K-State Union Recreation Center

LaFene Health Center

McCain Auditorium

Moore Hall Food Store

Parking Services

Quik Cuts - Van Zile

Recreational Services

Registrar's Office

Student Publications

Telecommunications

Union Business Office

Union Program Council

University Cashier's Office

Yet Med Cafe

Veterinary Medicine Hospital

Veterinary Medicine Instructional Technology Center

Call, click, or come by • 532-3500 • www.commercebank.com

Commerce Bank

2003 Principal/Counselor/Student Conference

Kansas State University

LIST OF HIGH SCHOOL LOCATIONS

(All assignments in Ahearn are table numbers not room numbers)

Tuesday, March 25 10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m.

Atchison County Community - Ahearn 1

Atchison - Ahearn 2

B & B Baileyville - Union Courtyard 11

Baldwin - Ahearn 3

Beloit - Ahearn 4

Bennington/Tescott - Ahearn 46

Blue Valley (Randolph) - Ahearn 5

Blue Valley (Stilwell) - Ahearn 6

Blue Valley North - Union Big 12 A

Blue Valley Northwest - Union 205

Bluestem - Ahearn 7

Buhler - Ahearn 8

Chaparral - Ahearn 9

Chapman - Union Big 12 B

Chase Co. - Union Big 12 C

Cimarron - Ahearn 10 - CANCELLED

Clay Center - Union Council Chamber

DeSoto - Ahearn 11 - CANCELLED

Dighton - Ahearn 51

Downs - Courtyard 10

Ellis - Ahearn 12

Emporia - Union Little Theater A

Eureka - Ahearn 13

Fredonia High School - Ahearn 53

Goddard - Ahearn 14

Greensburg - Ahearn 15

Hartford - Ahearn 16

Haven - Ahearn 17

Haviland - Ahearn 18

Hays - Union Little Theater B

Herington - Courtyard 2

Hesston - Courtyard 3

Hoisington - Courtyard 4

Hillcrest - Ahearn 19

Holton - Union 203

Hoxie - Ahearn 20

Hutchinson - Union 204

Jackson Heights - Courtyard 5

Jayhawk Linn - Ahearn 21

Jefferson Co. North - Ahearn 47

Jefferson West - Union 206 A

Lansing - Ahearn 49

Maize - Ahearn 23

Manhattan - Courtyard 1

Marion - Ahearn 24

Mill Valley - Courtyard

Minneapolis - Ahearn 25

Mission Valley - Ahearn 22

Nemaha Valley - Union 206 B

North Central - Ahearn 26

Northern Valley - Ahearn 27

Olathe East - Union 207 A

Olathe North - Union 207 B

Olpe - Ahearn 28

Osage City - Union 208

Osborne - Courtyard 7

Osawatomie #5 - Ahearn 52

Otis Bison - Ahearn 45

Oxford - Ahearn 29

Paola - Ahearn 30

Pawnee Heights - Ahearn 31

Piper - Ahearn 50

Plainville - Ahearn 32

Riley Co. - Ahearn 33

Rock Creek - Ahearn 34

Royal Valley - Courtyard 8

Sacred Heart - Ahearn 35

Salina South - Union 209

Scott Comm. - Ahearn 48

Seaman - Union 212 A

Shawnee Heights and Tecumseh-Union 212 B

St. Thomas Aquinas - Ahearn 36

Smith Center - Ahearn 37

Southeast of Saline - Union 213

Stockton - Ahearn 38

Sedan - Ahearn 39

Tipton Catholic - Courtyard 10

Tonganoxie - Ahearn 40

Troy - Ahearn 41

Wacanda East - Courtyard 10

Wallace - Ahearn 42

Washington - Ahearn 43

Washington (KC) - Courtyard 9

Wichita East - Forum Hall C

Wichita North - Forum Hall A

Wichita South - Forum Hall B

Wichita West - Forum Hall D

Wilson - Ahearn 44

Thursday, March 13, 2003

Budget deficit may delay June paychecks

Local school district prepares for cuts, low tax revenues to blame

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kansas school districts could have $203 million in June payments from the state delayed until next fiscal year, which could cause teachers to receive their paychecks late.

State officials have said the best option might be to withhold these payments until after July 1, the beginning of fiscal year 2004, according to the Associated Press.

Bruce Stiles, director of business services for Manhattan-Ogden USD 383, said the school district could not make any decisions until a formal announcement is made.

But House Appropriations Committee Chairman Melvin Neufeld, R-Ingalls, said the money is almost sure to be delayed.

"The truth is that schools shouldn't look for a June payment," Neufeld said.

If the payments, scheduled for June 15, are delayed, it could mean teachers will receive their paychecks later than expected, Stiles said.

Last year, state aid payments were late, he said, although only for a short time. Stiles said the amount of teachers' pay was not adversely

See DELAY Page 3

Riley County formulates response to bioterrorism

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Donna Hart has seen the pictures of smallpox victims. She knows how anthrax, ebola, nuclear fallout and various chemicals can cause massive chaos and cripple rescue efforts in the face of terrorist attacks.

Her job is to prevent it. As Riley County's bioterrorism response coordinator, Hart has spent the last year developing a terrorism response plan for the area. She said that although county officials have always talked about disaster response, it became a priority after the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks

See RESPONSE Page 10

KSU upgrades security

Officials updates computer system to guard against hackers

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State is working to combat computer security breaches similar to those at the University of Texas last week.

Officials began updating the university's information systems Friday, said Elizabeth Unger, vice provost for academic services and technology.

"I can say without reservation that it is unequivocally more secure," she said, "but there is still room for improvement." The systems will never be completely hacker-resistant, Unger said, but work will continue until officials are satisfied with the level of security.

An e-mail was sent to all faculty, staff and students Wednesday to inform them of the steps the university is taking to improve security.

Hackers stole 59,000 names and social security numbers of current and former students, staff and faculty from the University of Texas' information systems last week.

Unger said social security numbers are used at K-State as identification numbers. Identity theft is a primary concern if hackers were to steal this data, she said.

Using alternative identification numbers is a viable possibility, Unger said,

"I can say without reservation that it is unequivocally more secure, but there is still room for improvement."

Elizabeth Unger
VICE PROVOST FOR ACADEMIC SERVICES AND TECHNOLOGY

and could be put into practice in the near future. Such a decision would have to be made campuswide, she said, but the transition would have to be made quickly and carefully.

Access to K-State's information systems also could provide access to other

See SECURITY Page 10

PIECE OF CAKE

Shannon Hartenstein (left), senior in agricultural communications and journalism; Erin Bruce, freshman in geology; and Becky Warfield, junior in hotel and restaurant management, practice making frosting designs. The trio are taking wedding cake lessons at Vern's Cake Shop.

Photos by Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Award-winning cake decorator offers tips, techniques

By Amy Link
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tucked away on 6th Street is a little cake shop that, unless one sees the sign, could be confused as just another home. The sweet smell of cake filters through the warm shop, and on display are sprinkles, icing and cakes yet to be delivered.

It's a sweet tooth's dream, but to the owner Janice Hill, it's much more.

For Hill, it is a thousand memories. Memories of the donuts and rolls that once had people lining up for two blocks to see. It is the memory of family and friends. It is the memory of student's faces. And most of all, the shop symbolizes all the new adventures the bakery business has brought Hill.

Hill's latest adventure is giving cake decorating lessons.

"I started giving lessons because people kept calling and asking for my advice, and so I decided to make it a class," she said.

Hill teaches three classes, including a beginning, advanced and masters class. The classes cost $120 and last for six weeks. In exchange, the students receive lessons on baking cakes and decorating them.

Usually, the participants are Manhattan residents, Hill said, but this year she has mostly had K-State students in her beginning class.

Erin Bruce, freshman in geology, took the class because of her job. She was working at Baskin Robbins and had the opportunity to decorate cakes but didn't have the courage, she said.

Howard Schuster, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, works on his cake-frosting skills at Vern's Cake Shop. He is taking the class to prepare for culinary school.

But now, she said, cake decorating is becoming easier. "I am a cake-decorating geologist," she said.

Howard Schuster, sophomore in pre-veterinary

See CAKE Page 10

INSIDE

St. Patrick's Day is just around the corner. Read about the holiday events in Manhattan.

The Edge Page 7

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Teenager Elizabeth Smart found alive nine months after vanishing Elizabeth Smart, the 15-year-old girl who vanished from her bedroom nine months ago, was found alive Wednesday in a Salt Lake City suburb. Authorities have Brian Mitchell, a former handyman at the Smart home, in custody.

Page 3

Serbian prime minister assassinated outside Belgrade government building

Serbia's prime minister was assassinated Wednesday by gunmen outside government headquarters. Zoran Djindjic, 50, died of his wounds in a Belgrade hospital after being shot in the abdomen and back.

Page 5

Britain draws up list of conditions for Saddam as it struggles for U.N. support Britain listed conditions for Iraq's disarmament Wednesday. The resolution would extend the deadline and demands Saddam Hussein make a televised broadcast stating that Iraq will not retain weapons of mass destruction.

Page 5

Army base mourns 11 soldiers killed in helicopter crash during training

Soldiers remembered 11 fallen comrades Wednesday as investigators tried to determine what caused the crash of a Black Hawk helicopter. The UH-60 went down Tuesday afternoon in northern New York.

U.S. files charges against Enron execs over broadband venture

Federal prosecutors charged two Enron Corp. executives on Wednesday with a scheme to generate false earnings through an Internet movie-on-demand service.

Weather

Today 69 | 43

Sunny

Friday 73 | 50

Mostly sunny

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 118

Students monitor, maintain cereal-making machines as part of campus job

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN
Clinton Bosse, freshman in milling science, washes the floor and equipment at the K-State Extrusion Lab in Shellenberger Hall.

University lab provides hands-on experience

By Lindsey Tipling
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

You might not stop to consider where your bowl of Fruit Loops came from and what was involved in the process of making them.

But Caleb McNally and Travis Hawkinson know exactly what is involved in that process - extrusion.

McNally, sophomore in agriculture technical science, and Hawkinson, junior in milling science, work in a extrusion lab at K-State.

Eric Maichel, lab operations manager, said the extrusion process is not well known by most people.

"There are a lot of products people have no idea that they are extruded," he said.

To simplify the process, Maichel said, it is easiest to compare it to a sausage stuffer. Ingredients and materials go into the machines and are forced out through different kinds of dyes to achieve the desired shape and thickness. Then, a knife cuts the product off at the appropriate length.

McNally said his responsibilities at the lab include monitoring the machines and taking care of maintenance and cleanup.

Maichel said the job involves a number of activities.

"They take care of things like setting up equipment, process monitoring and sample collection," he said. "And then, of course, there is the infamous cleanup."

Most of the students make

See EXTRUSION Page 8

CAMPUS JOBS

The Collegian takes a closer look at students who earn their college cash on campus.

Clafflin Books and Copies

1814 Clafflin Rd. (785) 776-3771 www.clafflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Boo-boo's buddy
5 Shake in the grass?
9 To and —
12 Valthia VIP
13 Saudi, for one
14 Negligent
15 Yellow bird
17 Dogfight victor
18 More osten-tious
19 Fre-quently
21 Simple, to an ad writer
22 Calligra-phy stroke
24 Highland girl
27 "Yoo-hoo!"
28 Victim of razzing
31 Cretan mountain
32 Leading lady
33 Eventual even
34 Peace symbol

36 Flushed
37 Dance lesson
38 Bygone
40 "That hurts!"
41 "A Study in Scarlet" author
43 Dimin-ished
47 — carle
48 Likeness
51 Knightly address
52 Reed
53 Blue-print
54 Scuttle
55 Infatuated
56 Mailed

2 Blood-hound's clue
3 Coat aurically
4 Small-studio films
5 Tresses
6 Ornate vase
7 Fond du —, WI
8 Delect
9 Cop on the beat
10 Marathon
11 The yoke's on them
16 Tasseled hat
20 Newton ingredient
22 Early in the evening
23 Kept watch on 24 Topper
25 Fuss and feathers
26 Gilbert & Sullivan fan
27 Present
29 "I'll, Caesar!"
30 Alehouse fixture
35 Flight angle
37 Over-whelms
39 Clear the air?
40 Kyoto summer-bund
41 Morse "T"
42 Medley
43 "...against — of troubles"
44 Mah-jongg piece
45 Vivacity
46 Fender bender
49 Lawyers' org
50 Gear projection

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer: 3-13

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-226-5955! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

STUMPED?

3-13 CRYPTOQUIP

KXIZ RLV TUQIJIWWJR
UZWKIQ EXI CLLQ CQIWWIC
YZ RLVQ ZYPXEVI. YW
EXUE ZIPJYPIZTIY

Yesterday's Cryptquip: MIGHT I GUESS THAT ONCE YOU'VE SEEN ONE LARGE SHOPPING CENTER, YOU'VE SEEN A MALL?

Today's Cryptquip Clue: I equals E

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to: CryptClass Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegi@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie 101, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodicals postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

SPOTLIGHT | Canine Club

Veterinary student starts club for dogs; owners socialize pets during meetings

By Kelli Pitman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Calvin, Decker and Mud are just three members of the new Canine Club, which offers events for dogs and their owners.

Club president Kristin Browne started the Canine Club in September. Browne, third-year veterinary medicine student, said she started the club because there were many other clubs on campus for animals but none just for dogs.

"It is mainly a time for dogs to socialize with other dogs while being outside, either on a leash or not."

Kristin Browne
CANINE CLUB PRESIDENT

nary Medicine.

The Canine Club sponsors activities such as dogs hikes, barbecues and various fund-raisers for dogs and their owners.

"It is mainly a time for dogs to socialize with other dogs while being outside, either on the leash or not," Browne said.

The club is working to establish a one-acre enclosed dog park in City Park. It would be a place that owners could take their dogs to socialize with other dogs without leashes. The park also will be an educational tool to make sure the dogs have up-to-date vaccinations, shots and city licenses.

Melody Kaliff, vice president of the club, said the park would be for the whole community to enjoy — a place where people could take their dogs to have some fun off or on the leash.

The club is working with the city to find a feasible location and with businesses to fund the construction, she said.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN
Kristin Miller, organizer of the Canine Club, gets dogs and owners acquainted with each other in front of Mosier Hall.

The club has 80 to 100 members and is different from others because it includes faculty and staff as well as students, Browne said.

"There has been quite a bit of interest in the club and the projects that we are working towards," Kaliff said.

Other events the club is planning include a behavior seminar that will be this weekend at Trotter Hall.

Additionally, club members are planning a Dog and Jog for the spring as well as having a booth at All-University Open House where there will be agility demonstrations and educational information about dogs for their owners.

Pat Payne, faculty adviser for the club, said the club has been a success.

"The main purpose of the club is to get dogs out and socialized," Payne said.

"The club has done very well on their own because they are very organized. I only help when they ask me to."

The club meets once a month in Trotter Hall and has random weekend "canine hikes." Membership is $5.

"The Canine Club is really about people who love dogs," Kaliff said.

BEST BETS | FOR THIS WEEKEND

1 | IRISH FEVER

Aggieville will be seeing green Saturday when the 25th annual St. Patrick's Day Parade and road races hit town. The parade and festivities begin at 11 a.m.

2 | WRESTLE MANIA

Grab some wheels and some friends during break and risk a road trip to MU territory for the Road to Wrestlemania at 5 p.m. Sunday at the Hearnes Center in Columbia. Tickets range from $15 to $40.

3 | LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION

Have an interest in movie-making? Take advantage of the break and create your own movie for Union Program Council's Student Film Contest. Deadline is April 21.

4 | FUN IN THE SUN

Take advantage of all Manhattan has to offer with the outdoors. After weeks of cold, winter blues, have a picnic, play Frisbee, or walk your dog at many of the city parks, Tuttle Creek or Pillsbury Crossing.

5 | 5 MINUTES OF FAME

Feel the need to let your inner star shine? UPC will be host to "Open Mic Night" at 8 p.m. Thursday in Union Station at the K-State Student Union.

Illustrations by
Alison Browne | COLLEGIAN

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, March 11

- At 11:20 a.m., Brian Linder, Olathe, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $300.
- At 11:50 p.m., Garrett Coffey, 410 N. 17th St., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $750.

Wednesday, March 12

- At 12:22 a.m., Kasey Surs, 821 Humboldt St., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 1:50 a.m., Matthew Roggenkamp, Onaga, Kan., was arrested for driving on a suspended license and habitual violator. Bond was set at $500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kettzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Jiantao Wei at 8:30 a.m. today in Seaton 133.
- Girl Scout cookies are on sale from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Union.
- The Society for Human Resource Management will meet at 6 tonight in Calvin 217.
- The Multicultural Student Honor Society will meet at 6 tonight in the Union Council Chambers.
- The Pre-Vet Club will meet at 7 tonight in Trotter 201.
- Intramural Softball and individual sport entries are being accepted at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex's administrative office. Entry deadline is 5 p.m. today.
- Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Contact Lindsey at 770-8103 or lc33339@k-state.edu or Bryanne at bn8388@k-state.edu by Friday to register. Donations are welcome.
- Applications from the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are now available at the Office of Student Activities and Services, the Alumni Center or at www.k-state.com/programs/currentstudent/homecomin.g.asp. Applications are due March 14.

Up next

In Friday's Collegian

News | Commission debate
Manhattan city commission candidates take the stage as the Political Science Club has a debate session Thursday in the K-State Student Union.

Edge | Odd couple
Meet the ultimate odd couple in Corbin H. Crable's movie review of "Bringing Down the House," starring Steve Martin and Queen Latifah.

Sports | Basketball followup
Both the men's and women's basketball teams will be in action tonight at 8:20. Read about how they did on tomorrow's sports page.

THE PURPLE PIG

EST. 1996

Tonight

$1.50 Bottles

Saturday

Open @ 9 am. First 40 People get free green pig T-shirts!

$4.50 Basket of Bacon and Beer

$2.25 Stadium cups

Watch the parade from the Pig

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption.

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

AGGIE LOUNGE

712 N. 12TH

Come celebrate St. Pat's day and kick off your spring break by joining us at The Lou!

EVERY WEDNESDAY
75¢ draws
$1.25 all domestic bottles

EVERY THURSDAY
$1.50 miller bottles
$1 miller lite cans
$1 bud & bud light bottles
TONIGHT ONLY

EVERY FRIDAY
$1.75 miller bottles
$1 miller lite cans
$1 bud & bud light bottles
TONIGHT ONLY

Now Open on Sundays

Budweiser KING OF BEERS

open this Saturday at 6:00 a.m.

GUMBY'S Pizza

Mon-Wed 10:30 am-2:30 am
Thurs-Sat 10:30 am-3:30 am
Sun 10:30 am-2:00 am

Fast, FREE Delivery

$1.50 PBR Pints Daily

SUNDAY
$4 - 60 oz. Domestic Pitchers
$2.25 Girle Beer Bottles

MONDAY
Golden Tee Tournament - 9 pm
$1 PBR Pints
$2.75 Jack Drinks
$2.50 Import/Micro Bottles

TUESDAY
Local Live Music - 9 pm
$2 Wells
$2 Boulevard Pinte
$2.50 Jager Shots

WEDNESDAY
Pool Tournament - 9 pm
$3 - 60 oz. PBR Pitchers
$2 Domestic Bottles
$3 Premiums

THURSDAY
Open Mic Night - 9 pm
$3 Domestic Pinte w/ $1.50 Refill & Keep the Glass!
$2.50 Calle
$2.50 Import/Micro Bottles

FRIDAY Lucky Joan
Local Live Music - 10 pm
$3 Domestic BIG ASS Beers
$2.50 Captain Drinks

SATURDAY
$1.50 Domestic Pinte
$4 - 60 oz. Domestic Pitchers
$4 Red Bull & Vodka

Berta Rojas

"...guitarist extraordinaire."

The Washington Post

March 13, 7pm

McEain Auditorium

Free Admission

classical guitarist

The Paraguayan Student Association

PRESENTED BY

K-State graduate wins cash giveaway

Business owners sponsor contest

By Crystal Welborn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The crowd of about 300 people was silent as KJCK-FM 97.5 deejay Bradley J stood on the bar at Rusty's Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon and read the name of the winner of the $1,000 prize.

"Oh my God, I gotta catch my breath," said Sara Strothman, a K-State graduate and winner of the giveaway.

When her name was called, Strothman screamed from where she was standing. She said she had registered just minutes before at Last Chance.

"I think I'm gonna pass out," Strothman said as Rusty Wilson handed her 10 $100 bills.

Not only did Strothman leave Last Chance with the $1,000, but also received about $100 in Budweiser prizes.

Mick Wunder, sales representative for KJCK-FM 97.5, said he was glad to be a part of Sara Strothman, 2001 K-State graduate, tells Rusty Wilson, owner of Rusty's Last Chance, how excited she is to win the $1,000 cash giveaway sponsored by Varney's Book Store, Rusty's Last Chance and The Big Kat 97.5. "I am so shocked and about to pass out. I've never had this much money in my hands," Strothman said.

Matt Elliott
COLLEGIAN

the drawing because he enjoys seeing Aggieville merchants giving back to their customers.

"It's good Aggieville businesses give something back to the students," he said. "It's local businesses taking care of those who take care of them, and that's a great thing."

Steve Levin, manager of the K-State Student Union Bookstore, donated about $1,000 to help pay for the promotional expenses of the drawing.

He said he wants to show students that Varney's Book Store and the Union Bookstore are not only about school work.

"We want to show the students that we aren't all about textbooks but also about having fun," he said.

Wunder said there were between 700 and 750 entries.

He said he wants to build on this year's success and increase the event's popularity.

"Our goal for next year is to sit down with Aggieville businesses and make it bigger," he said.

Salt Lake City girl found alive after 9-month disappearance

By Patty Henetz
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SALT LAKE CITY — Elizabeth Smart, the 15-year-old girl who vanished from her bedroom nine months ago, was found alive Wednesday in a Salt Lake City suburb with a drifter known as Emmanuel who had once done work at the family's home, police said.

"Miracles do exist," Tom Smart, the girl's uncle, said.

He said Elizabeth was in good condition and having a joyful reunion with jubilant relatives at the Salt Lake City Police Department. She was expected to be released to her family late Wednesday.

Authorities said Elizabeth, the drifter whose real name is Brain Mitchell and an unidentified woman were all wearing wigs when they were stopped along a street in suburban Sandy.

Relatives of Mitchell have described him as a self-appointed prophet for the homeless who lived in a teepee in the mountains outside the city. He was hired by the Smarts in November 2001 to work on the roof of their home.

Mitchell was in custody at the Sandy police station. No charges were immediately filed, but Salt Lake City Police Chief Rick Dinse said. "We are convinced she was kidnapped."

Asked whether he believed Elizabeth was held against her will, he said: "At this point, yes, I do." He did not offer a potential motive.

Witness John Ferguson said the arrest involved a man who looked like a transient and two women wearing unusual clothing.

He said the women had "longer clothing on, blue, almost like a pillow case ... over the face almost like a veil. They were all just kind of calmly talking to the police," Ferguson told KSL television.

A celebration erupted in front of the Smarts' home, with neighbors and members of the family's Mormon ward holding blue and yellow balloons.

"I'm just overwhelmed. I just couldn't be more happy," neighbor Charlotte Hamblin, 62, said.

Elizabeth was found at an intersection about 20 miles south of her home. She disappeared last June, part of a frightening string of incidents involving children that included the slayings of 7-year-old Danielle van Dam of San Diego and 5-year-old Samantha Runyon of Orange County, Calif.

A month ago, the Smarts had a news conference, where they released a sketch of Mitchell. As recently as Tuesday, the family openly criticized police for not devoting enough attention to the former handyman.

Mitchell's sister called authorities with his identity after the family's Feb. 3 news conference.

The man's stepson, Mark Thompson, gave investigators photos of Mitchell and said his stepfather was "capable" of kidnapping a child.

He also said Mitchell believes he is a prophet who needs to preach to the homeless and has no source of income other than handouts.

Mitchell was often seen panhandling and preaching to the homeless in downtown Salt Lake City before Elizabeth's disappearance.

Elizabeth's mother, Lois Smart, said she met Emmanuel downtown when he asked for money. She gave him $5 and hired him to help her husband work on the roof. He worked for about five hours, and the family didn't see him again.

Elizabeth was 14 when she vanished early on the morning of June 5. Her 9-year-old sister, Mary Katherine, said Elizabeth was taken by a man who might have gotten into the house by cutting a window screen near the back door. The sister pretended to be asleep, and she said the gunman threatened to hurt Elizabeth if she didn't keep quiet.

The top potential suspect, Richard Ricci, a handyman who once worked in the Smart household, died Aug. 30 after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage while in prison on a parole violation.

He said he had nothing to do with the kidnapping.

Investigators have said they believe Ricci was involved but might not have acted alone.

Last month, Elizabeth's parents said Mary Katherine had come to them recently to say Emmanuel bore some resemblance to the kidnapper. This week, they chastised police for not going after Mitchell.

"They should have caught this guy by now," Tom Smart said. "The police are too vested in Ricci."

Elizabeth's father, Ed, was less harsh but expressed his frustration at public statements made by police dismissing Mitchell as a potential suspect.

Commission candidates to debate in Union Courtyard today

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Voters can attend two debates today to meet City Commission candidates and learn about their campaign issues.

The first debate, sponsored by the Political Science Club and the Union Program Council, will be from noon to 1 p.m. in the Union Courtyard. Three of the six candidates are scheduled to appear at the debate, which is open to the general public.

Christine Baker, president of the Political Science Club and UPC forums committee chair, said students should attend the debate so they can make an educated vote.

"A lot of students are concerned with budget cuts,"

Baker, junior in political science, said. "This is a way to give ourselves a voice to city and local politicians to help us with problems we're facing with the budget."

Baker said students should vote for commissioners who care about students.

"Whether we're registered here or not, we're all affected by City Commission and its legislation," she said. "We should have an input. They should respect our opinions — we are a big part of the Manhattan community."

Senior in pre-health, Danny Callahan, was in the commission race until he was eliminated in the primary elections. Callahan said it's important for students to know each candidate's position before voting.

"Everything that affects students' daily lives comes from the city government," he said. "It decides everything in the short run — from affordable housing to street repair."

Callahan said students should register to vote in Manhattan's upcoming elections.

"If you live somewhere nine months out of the year, those decisions by the city government would affect you more than your hometown government," he said. "It's important for people to realize what direction the city wants to take."

Gary Olds, founder of the Citizen Voters Initiative group, said he agreed.

"We're a well-educated community, but we can do better on our participation in elections," he said. "People need to know who they are voting for."

The Citizen Voters Initiative will sponsor the second debate, beginning at 6:30 p.m., at the Manhattan Fire Department's assembly room. Olds said all commissioner candidates are scheduled to attend the forum.

"The purpose of the initiative is to encourage voter education and voter participation in elections," he said. "This debate will give the voters an opportunity to hear the candidates speak on issues that are important to our community."

Olds said he encourages K-State faculty, staff and students to attend the event.

"We have a responsibility as citizens to vote," he said, "and we want to base our vote on the knowledge of candidate positions."

DELAY | State may postpone June paychecks after low tax revenues

Continued from Page 1

affected by the delay.

Chuck Hendricks, third-grade teacher at Marlatt Elementary School, said the school district does a good job of paying teachers in a timely manner.

He said he couldn't recall for sure whether he received his paycheck last summer, so the effects weren't too disastrous for him.

"Anytime you're counting on a paycheck, getting paid late will cause stress," Hendricks said.

dricks said.

Personal financial crises can be avoided, Hendricks said, by planning ahead and budgeting.

But in order to plan properly, Associate Superintendent Robert Seymour said the district first has to know what the situation is.

"It's hard to predict until there are more details," Seymour said.

"If there's no June check until the second or third of July, we'll probably be OK," he said. "But if there's no June check at all, that could cause serious problems."

Seymour and Stiles both said they were unsure of where the district would make cuts, when and if it is forced to.

"We just don't know right now," Stiles said. "We can't say what type of impact this will have."

Some doctors, hospitals and clinics that serve needy Kansans already are scheduled for delayed payments, the AP said.

Low tax revenue are blamed for making the cuts necessary to avoid a deficit.

—The Associated Press
contributed to this story.

Ramblers
STEAK HOUSE & SALOON
Thursday Night Specials
12 oz. USDA Choice Top Sirloin
Choice of potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $7.99 + tax
or
"The Couples Special"
2 complete dinners for only $14.99 + tax
8711 E. Hwy. 24 539-4989

$20 today
Get Paid to Study!
Donate your life-saving blood plasma and earn cash.
Fees apply to new donors
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
785-776-9177
call or stop by
No appointment needed
www.zbl.com

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub
Delivers the latest!
OPEN THE LATEST!
Welcome Back Students!
202 N. 11th Street
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon - Wed 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs - Sat 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
Fast Delivery, Dine-In, Carry-Out
770-3333

ROCK N ROLL
wednesday
$6.99 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls / minimum 6
pizza sauce/ranch extra + tax.
DELIVERY DINE-IN CARRY OUT

BIG ASS
20" One Topping $11.99 or
Two for $21.99
Original toppings $1.18 per oz.

THURSDAY Mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
Must mention coupon when ordering
Not valid w/ any other special
DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY
EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH

ALCO
Values to $140⁰⁰
First Quality Name Brand Sandals, Boots, Joggers, Cross Trainers, and Athletic Shoes $24⁹⁹ to $49⁹⁹
Men's and Ladies' sizes
Cool Brands + Hot Prices =
Alco Shoes
3007 Anderson at Seth Child Open Daily 9-9 Sunday 11-6

RC McGraws
Manhattan's Oldies, Country, Night Club
KARAOKE
Thursday, 9-1
50¢ TACOS
hard or soft
$1.99 Island Oasis Margaritas
776-9588 • 2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Blue Hills Shopping Center

tonight
9 bottles
1/2 priced food
absolutely NO COVER
Live Comedy Friday @ 8:30pm
Call 539-4671 for Reservations
Aggie Station
PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS
Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or more toppings.
For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call 776-5577

Bobby T's
OPEN MIC NIGHT
Thursday
$2 Pints and $2 Wells
$3.99 Burgers and Quesadillas

TO THE POINT

Riley County well-prepared for bioterrorism

Riley County residents can rest assured that the county is well-prepared if bioterrorism becomes a threat.

With funds from the Department of Homeland Security, Riley County has hired an expert and prepared a plan to keep its residents safe.

The plan includes information of what to do in case of a bioterrorism attack, including instructions for medicine, vaccinations and quarantining. Experts are still working on a proper evacuation location as well.

Residents might be scared by the vague precautions and colored terror alerts from U.S. officials, but the terrorism response provides an in-depth and detailed look at any possibility of bioterrorism attacks in Riley County.

The county's bioterrorism experts are making ongoing changes and finding new cases to include in their plan.

In addition, K-State Police and city officials have combined efforts and will work together in the case of a possible threat on the community.

Riley County residents should feel safe and protected in the event of a bioterrorism attack.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF			Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane AGE EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Jon Wefald is even hotter than Paul Restivo.

I'd be glad to give up porn if the girls around here would be a little less stuck up.

Paul Restivo is a disgrace to secondary ed majors, Catholics, Italians, men in general — he covers them all.

I'm so disappointed that the comment about the Classy Cat was allowed to be printed. I think that speaks largely for the editorial staff at the Collegian.

After reading the Fourum for four years, I've decided that the vast majority of students at K-State are complete idiots.

Bush: great president, better beer.

Wow. My roommate just got pulled over for drunk driving. Good thing she was completely sober.

Maybe next week I should do my chem pre-lab before drinking on a Tuesday night.

Sounds like Barbie is a lot like those sorority girls, huh?

If this semester was a movie, my parents would have turned it off by now.

President Wefald, we know you've got an extra room or two in your house, so if you'd like to make an extra buck to rent it out, give me a call.

To the guy masturbating in class while we watched a video: pretty sick, dude, pretty sick.

Think about this: When a girl is sexually inexperienced, it's cute. But when a guy is sexually inexperienced, he's a loser.

Not enough Fourum? For the full version, visit www.kstatecollegian.com.

AGGIEVILLE EMPIRE

Illustration by Adam Hayes | COLLEGIAN

Popular bar continues to grow in Aggieville

As the giant thunderstorm of the empire known as Rusty's Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon sweeps across the Aggieville plain, it is difficult to imagine the business district without it.

I'll be the first to say change is usually good, and we should at all times try to be open-minded about change. However, I cannot help but find parallels between Rusty and the Emperor's most trusted servant: Lord Vader.

Soon, the boundaries of Chance's empire will stretch far beyond the block where it stinks today. Like The Blob, it will ooze all across the city, devour it, and leave behind a stench of stale beer, fryer grease and cheap perfume. Here's a peek at what could happen within the next couple of years.

Spreading north across Moro Street, O'Malley's and the Alley will become O'Rusty's Across the Street, Rusty's attempt to identify with Irish patrons. The first renovation will be to reformat the juke box. They'll toss out all the Bob Marley, Pearl Jam, 311 and Sublime and replace it with no-talent sphincter clowns like Ja Rule and Jay-Z. Instead of eating O'Malley's pizza, people will go bobbing for french fries in the stock tank full of grease 'round back. Enjoy.

Auntie Mae's Parlor will become Last Mae's, where all the innovative musical talent who play there will be replaced with Def Leppard, Jackyl and Saigon Kick reunion shows. The cover charge will be three bucks and proof that you've put on at least half a can of hair-spray and/or carry enough roofies to tranquilize a medium-sized mule. This should prove to be loads of fun. I just hope they don't allow too many pyrotechnic surprises.

In the not-so-distant future, the Varney's Book Store kingdom masterminds will realize they could combine evil forces with Rusty to ensure limitless galactic power. This conglomerate will make it possible to trade your $135 art history textbook in for two pitchers of the cheapest light beer. You also get a free temporary Powercat tattoo and a swift kick in the junk on your way out the door, since that's pretty much how it is anyway.

The Dusty Book Shelf will obviously become Rusty's Book Shelf, where their top-sellers are: "How to Make Sluts Think You're Smart" and "Men are From Mars, Women are From ... Who Gives a Hoot, as Long as They Put Out."

Oh, the humanity. Hunam Express isn't even immune to the business-swallowing blob. As soon as it's taken over the name will change to Rusty's Far East, specializing in the cheapest beers and worst tacos from all parts of Asia.

But it would really be a shame if Rusty took an already creepy bar and turned it into a Subway look-a-like with the brightest and most annoying hue of Big Bird yellowness lighting the front. That would only exemplify the true trashiness of nastiness. Oh, wait ...

Here are some other changes you'll need to jot down for future reference: The bar known as Fat's will become Fat Chance, So Long Saloon will change to Sell Out Saloon, On the Wild Side will change to On the Wild Side of Chance Down the Street and will only sell T-shirts, and Subway will be called Kite's II, all of which will suck big time.

Yet, along with every hostile business takeover there are some men with the heart to stand up to the oppressor. For example, Dave's Hide-Away will retain its current owner, but the name will be altered to: Dave's hiding-away-from-Rusty-but-he's-breathing-down-Dave's-neck. If we're lucky, The Texas Star won't become Rusty's Big Damn Texas and won't sit next to Chancy Hibachi Sluts.

And, if we all stick together, Java won't become the next victim. I never want to have to get hassled by a tough-guy bouncer just so I can get a cup of coffee.

I'm sure there is something to be thankful for, maybe some goodness glistening from Rusty's tattered roof. Let us take pity on those unlucky souls who need Rusty. Where would people go if they made a conscious effort to contract crotch crickets on a particular evening? Where would they go if they had hoes to pawn? Where would they go to bump 'n' grind with middle-aged chicks? What if you wanted your butt kicked? What is a poor fella to do? Well, I guess there's always Silverdildo's.

I have one last hope for the 100 shops Aggieville's next 100 years: that they all don't sell out to any sort of empire. It truly might be their last chance for survival.

Layton is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at layton@k-state.edu.

LAYTON EHMKE

ZACH HAUSER

Voyeuristic lifestyle encompassing society, adolescent population

What do you think when you hear the word "voyeurism?" Moving past the obvious sexual connotation, why did man invent the telescope, television and tele-girl mud wrestling?

Voyeurism is the new cocaine readily available to every 6-year-old who finishes all their vegetables. The market for watching things, people and places outperforms the demand for conventional drugs a million-to-one. You never hear about spring breakers canceling their trip and their chance to be on MTV in Cancun so they can chill in Manhattan, Kan., and get coked out of their minds.

People spend much more time, attention and money on recreation than on recreational drugs. But often it is the watching of the recreation that people crave, not the participation. The thrill of being a spectator has become not just a drug, but also a lifestyle. Who pays for Jay Leno's 60 cars and Anna Nicole Smith's shopping sprees?

You do. But is there some hidden advantage to being a pile of passive driftwood in life? After watching some "ER" and "General Hospital," I feel much more confident about saving a guy who chokes on his fork and has a ruptured spleen. And you will, too, after a couple episodes. People are increasingly basing their life's experiences more on Hollywood fabrications rather than their own aspirations. This especially remains true for those scandalous or absurd things that you could never do with any semblance of dignity or worth. Don't worry — Can't find the guts to light all your body hair on fire and jump into a vat of Jell-O naked? Well then, quick, turn to channel 7.

Voyeurism has not only ushered in the vogue of "live your own façade," but also contributes to the laziness and obesity in society. Who wants to venture outside, sweat and get grass stains on your pants when you can bust out the childhood memories and give the thumbs a little Mario Bros. time?

And you know that once you turn on the "boob tube" to watch one show, there always seems to be something interesting on right after. Crazy how that happens. Like someone once said, "You are what you eat." Or in this case, "You are what you watch."

So when are people going to stop living vicariously through glass and plastic made by Sony? The answer: Whenever it becomes unacceptable to visit Blockbuster more than three times a week. When you become socially disabled by your lack of participation. When you start to think that the voices in your head are other people. But when did it become acceptable?

It didn't.

Just like serial murderers, liver piercings and people who drink strawberry milk, voyeurism is an overused and misguided force of habit that should be stopped for the betterment of everyone.

But if you believe everything is good in moderation, minus the examples above, then you know it's fine to sit back and just watch for a while. However, it seems like nothing ever happens in moderation. No one is content with just some. We need more, want more and ultimately watch more so that in times of boredom and strife when all we can do is stare, we still feel like we are living out our lives.

Equating life to "being about the experiences," but not necessarily about being the one acting out those experiences is our easy way out of actually living. We simply leech onto the triumphs and travesties of others to fill voids where others went skydiving, vacationing or got up and made a difference.

Voyeurism: the contemporary drug addiction that doesn't kill brain cells, your liver or even your lungs, but makes you slowly waste away, still breathing, but lifeless.

Zach is a freshman in business. You can e-mail him at zach_hauser@yahoo.com.

Students preparing for spring break

Threat of war, expenses not deterring travel AAA Kansas reports

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The countdown ends Friday, and spring break begins as long-awaited vacation plans can finally be fulfilled.

Nick Wulfkuhle, junior in music education, and Jeff Hewitt, senior in music education, are going to visit Wulfkuhle's parents in Virginia Beach.

"We're going to visit my family and the beach," Wulfkuhle said. "We're actually going to also visit a friend in Annapolis, which is about a three or four hour drive from where we're staying."

He said he's not doing any extra preparation for the trip, other than figuring out when and where to meet up with people.

The airplane tickets were easy to find and for a decent price, he said.

"I actually went through Orbitz and found tickets for around $300 per person for the roundtrip," Wulfkuhle said.

Wulfkuhle said he will spend a total of about $600 on the trip.

Amanda Millard, public affairs coordinator for AAA Kansas, said that on average, people spend more than that on their spring break trips.

"People spend about $1,000 per person," she said.

The top four spring break destinations are Cancun, Florida beaches, Padre Island and Disneyland or Disney World, she said.

"Although New Orleans has become popular this year because it is one of the more economical places — a lot of people will just drive down there," she said.

"One of the travel agents told me the only hotel still available in South Padre is a Super 8. The rooms are starting at $250 per night," she said. "And it's not even on the beach."

Hewitt said he is thankful he and Wulfkuhle do not have to spend money on a hotel.

"People aren't changing their habits of traveling. They're changing how they're traveling. People have to be aware of following airline guidelines."

Amanda Millard
PUBLIC AFFAIRS COORDINATOR FOR AAA KANSAS

"We're just going to stay at Nick's parents' house, so that will save us a lot of money," Hewitt said. "We will pretty much have to only pay for our entertainment — what we go out and do at night."

Hewitt said he would like to see a concert while on break.

"I don't really know what to expect. I guess I'm just expecting to relax a lot," he said. "And hopefully it will be warm there."

Both men said they are not worried about the threat of war affecting their trip.

"There's always that little worry in the back of your head whenever you fly," Wulfkuhle said. "But I'm not that worried about it."

Despite the threat of war, travel agencies haven't noticed a decline in the number of trips being made, Millard said.

"People aren't changing their habits of traveling. They're changing how they're traveling."

"People are having to be more conscious of following airline guidelines — like what you can and can't pack and having to be at the airport early," she said.

Millard said spring break is a busy time for travel agencies.

"Basically anywhere between November and summertime, we're busy. In November, there's a lot of holiday travel," she said.

"And in January, people start planning for spring break and summer trips."

Serbian prime minister shot, killed in Belgrade

By Dusan Stojanovic
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BELGRADE, Serbia-Montenegro — Serbia's prime minister — who spearheaded the revolt that toppled former President Slobodan Milosevic in October 2000 — was assassinated Wednesday by gunmen who ambushed him outside government headquarters.

Zoran Djindjic, 50, died of his wounds in a Belgrade hospital after being shot in the abdomen and back, said Nebojsa Covic, a deputy prime minister. Police sources told The Associated Press that snipers firing from a building across from the government headquarters shot Djindjic as he left his car. A high-power bullet left a dent on Djindjic's armored car.

Two suspects were arrested, witnesses said. But police, unsure whether they had the gunmen, cast a wide net for the assassins, setting up roadblocks in Belgrade and halting bus, rail and plane traffic from the capital.

Acting Serbian President Nataša Micić, citing a danger for constitutional order, imposed a nationwide state of emergency, giving the military the same powers as police to detain suspects and investigate.

Djindjic had many enemies because of his pro-reformist and Western stands.

He was blasted by Serbian nationalists for leading the popular revolt that toppled Milosevic then handing him over for trial before the U.N. war crimes tribunal at The Hague, Netherlands. Djindjic recently promised to try to arrest Ratko Mladic, a former Bosnian Serb military commander and the number 2 fugitive sought by the tribunal, thought to be hiding in Serbia.

The tribunal is handling alleged war crimes committed during the wars that erupted during the disintegration of the former Yugoslavia.

Djindjic also was engaged in a bitter political feud with his former ally Vojislav Kostunica, who stepped down as Yugoslav president earlier this month after the formation of a new state, Serbia and Montenegro.

Djindjic also was squaring off with the nation's powerful organized crime figures, declaring open war on rampant smuggling of contraband goods and women.

The assassination heralds turbulent days for Serbia. A bitter power struggle for Djindjic's successor could effect cooperation with West, particularly over arresting and handing over indicted war crimes suspects.

Djindjic appeared to have been targeted last month, when a truck suddenly cut into the lane in which his motorcade was heading to Belgrade's airport. The motorcade narrowly avoided a collision, and Djindjic later dismissed the Feb. 21 alleged assassination attempt as a futile effort that could not stop democratic reforms.

After Wednesday's shooting, the Cabinet had an emergency session, declaring three days of mourning.

"This criminal act is a clear attempt by those who in the past have tried to stop Serbia's progress and democratization by assassinations to change the course of history and once again isolate Serbia and turn it into a criminals' haven," Covic said.

Otpor, or Resistance, an independent pro-democracy group, said the shooting means criminals have won the battle in Serbia.

President Bush expressed his condolences. Djindjic "will be remembered for his role in bringing democracy to Serbia and for his role in bringing Slobodan Milosevic to justice," White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said.

Police stopped traffic in downtown Belgrade, searching cars and checking passengers. Police also took up positions at key government buildings and the post office.

Britain presents conditions list to Iraq, may extend war deadline

By Dafna Linzer
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — Britain set out a list of conditions for Iraq's disarmament Wednesday, hoping to break an impasse at the United Nations that has left Prime Minister Tony Blair vulnerable at home because of his support for a tough U.S. line.

Winning a U.N. resolution that authorizes war with Iraq is politically vital for Blair, who faces a revolt from his own Labor party if he joins the United States in military action without international backing. Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld suggested Tuesday that Washington was considering war without Britain.

Washington and London were working out the language of a new draft which Security Council ambassadors said they expected to receive later Wednesday.

The revised resolution would extend the deadline beyond the previously envisioned date of March 17, diplomats said. Britain plans to lay out the Iraqi conditions in specific detail, including demanding that Saddam Hussein make a televised broadcast stating that Iraq will not produce or retain weapons of mass destruction, according to a draft of the conditions, obtained by The Associated Press.

In a sign that Washington and London were making quick progress on the new offer, U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan scheduled separate meetings

Wednesday afternoon British Ambassador Jeremy Greenstock and chief U.N. weapons inspector Hans Blix.

Mexican Ambassador Adolfo Zinser said he expected to get a copy of the new proposal later Wednesday. "We will send it back to our capital and analyze it," he said.

White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said the United States still expects a vote this week on the resolution.

"The president has given diplomacy a certain amount of time. He will not give it forever," Fleischer did not rule out the possibility of President Bush issuing a deadline for military action after the diplomatic work comes to an end.

But Spain, which is sponsoring the resolution along with the United States and Britain, said the resolution might be withdrawn because of a threatened French veto.

"We are considering it, above all in view of the already absolute and emphatic affirmation by France of a veto," Spanish Foreign Minister Ana Palacio said.

The United States and Britain have been trying to win U.N. approval for an ultimatum giving Saddam several days to disarm or face war. But it has become clear that a March 17 deadline suggested last week still does not have enough support on the Security Council.

France, Russia and China oppose the U.S.-backed resolution, with Paris threatening to veto any measure that contains an ultimatum or use of force.

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M, W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 5p-7p
T & Th 4p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont
M & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $900

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at
www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

Congratulations to the Members of the 2003-2004 K-State Mortar Board Chapter!

Andy Allison-Gallimore Erin Green

Jonathan Anderson Victoria Lowdon

Sarah Ashley Victoria Luhrs

Adam Baker Abbi Mengarelli

Jennifer Bakumenko John O'Hara

Kimberly Bartak Lori Pollman

Amber Brazle Julie Quackenbush

Rebecca Briggeman Michelle Molander

Larisa Budnovitch Kenneth Norton

Seth Bridge Beth Shanholtzer

Peter Carter Kristine Sheedy

Victoria Conner Kevin Steckley

Peter Elsasser Jean D'Ann Wadsworth

Morgan Fisher Andrea Zimmer

Scholars Chosen for Leadership, United to Serve

2003 Men's and Women's Big 12 Championships

FAMILIAR FOE

K-State to face Colorado in first round

Disappointing season could prove successful

By Sean Purcell
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's the last hurrah for K-State. A season in which there were many disappointments all can be vindicated starting at 8:30 tonight when the Wildcats battle Colorado in the first round of the Big 12 Tournament.

K-State has been victorious in each of its first-round games under Coach Jim Wooldridge, and with the success the Wildcats had against the Buffaloes this season, it makes a win that much more of a possibility, Wooldridge said.

"You're more familiar with the players and schemes and all of that, but I don't think in any way that will make this game easy for us," Wooldridge said on Monday's Big 12 teleconference.

"There won't be many secrets out there."

The Wildcats split the season series with Colorado, with each team winning on its home court.

Much has been made about how well the Buffaloes played at home this season — beating the likes of Kansas and Texas — but K-State was just seven points shy of knocking off Colorado in Boulder.

Buffalo assistant coach Jason Shelton said on the teleconference that because of the tight battles the teams have had against each other this season, it should make this first-round game one of the best in the bracket.

"They're a veteran team," Shelton said. "They play a lot of seniors and juniors — a lot of guys from the junior college ranks who have been through a lot of battles and lot of wars in their time. It should be a great game."

Wildcat forward Gilson DeJesus said tonight's game could come down to perimeter defense.

In K-State's 62-54 win over Colorado on Feb. 11, the Wildcats kept the normally hot-shooting Buffs to 25 percent from behind the three-point arc. This effort will have to be repeated, DeJesus said, if the Cats hope to advance.

"Blair Wilson is one of the better three-point shooters in the Big 12, so we focused on doing a good job on him," DeJesus said.

"He's very dangerous and can take over a game just shooting threes. So we'll have to continue to do a good job on him."

The battle of big men also could play a big role in tonight's outcome, forward

Freshman forward Marques Hayden pulls down a rebound against Iowa State in the final home game of the season for the Wildcats. K-State begins Big 12 Tournament play at 8:30 tonight against Colorado at American Airlines Center in Dallas.

Matt Siebrandt said.

The Buffaloes feature 7-foot center David Harrison, who averages 13.8 points per game, but who has scored just 17 total points in the two games against K-State this season.

Siebrandt said the key to stopping the Colorado giant will be physicalness.

"You want to be aggressive and physical but it's more of a matter of getting around him and not letting him catch it," he said.

"If he doesn't catch it, then he's not going to do too much."

Siebrandt, though, has been doing everything he can since conference play began Jan. 11.

The senior forward has scored in double figures in 13 of 16 Big 12 games, enters tonight's game as K-State's second leading scorer at 11 points per game.

Should the Wildcats win against Colorado, the No. 3 seed Oklahoma is waiting for them.

K-State took the Sooners to overtime Feb. 1 but eventually lost 91-89.

Siebrandt said the bracket is favorable for K-State, but they need to take care of business tonight against Colorado to have a chance against the Sooners.

"It's teams we've played well against," he said.

"We split with Colorado, we played well against Oklahoma, so it's a favorable bracket for us, and we're just going to have to do our end."

Cats' hopes hinge on consistent bench play

Subs to play increased role in Big 12 Tourney

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

There are six players on the men's basketball team who don't get to hear their names called with the starting five every week.

Senior Quentin Buchanan, juniors Tim Ellis and Josh Eilert, sophomore Travis Canby and freshmen Schyler Thomas and Marques Hayden contribute 63.7 minutes a game off the bench for Coach Jim Wooldridge's team. When the Big 12 Tournament rolls around, those six players could play a vital role if K-State is to succeed.

Six players might become five as Buchanan may be out with a knee injury he suffered in the win over Iowa State on Saturday. Buchanan is averaging 2.1 points in eight minutes a game, but he has played well in the past few weeks, including scoring six points and grabbing nine rebounds against Nebraska on Feb. 25.

Guard Jarrett Hart, who came off the bench for most of the conference season, said Buchanan's loss will hurt the team, but the other five men coming off the bench must contribute even more.

"We've just got to look for the next guy down the line to step up," he said. "Whoever takes Quentin's spot is going to have to come in and step up — rebound and do the little things that Quentin does when he comes in. Just play hard."

Hayden, who has come off the bench in all but one of K-State's 28 games, said K-State will have to fight through adversity if it wants to

A strong bench?

K-State will need solid production out of its bench tonight if it hopes to get past Colorado.

■ Tim Ellis 24.8 minutes per game, 9.4 ppg

■ Marques Hayden 17.9 minutes per game, 7.0 ppg, 4.6 rpg

■ Quentin Buchanan 8 minutes per game, 2 ppg

K-State's junior guard Jarrett Hart takes a shot over Baylor's R.T. Guinn, Feb. 14 at Bramlage Coliseum. K-State will take on Colorado at 8:30 tonight in the first round of the Big 12 Tournament.

Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

See BENCH Page 8

Cats cruise past Baylor into Big 12 semis

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

DALLAS — Baylor came into Wednesday night's contest with K-State prepared to fight back from any deficit. The Lady Bears' come-from-behind win against Texas A&M in Tuesday's first round matchup was evidence they could do it.

But the hole Baylor (20-10) dug itself against the Cats (28-3) was far too deep for the No. 7 seed to climb out of, as second-seeded K-State crushed the Lady Bears 77-60 at Reunion Arena to cruise into Thursday's semi-final round of the Big 12 Tournament.

Sophomore guard Laurie Koehn had 22 points, 18 of which came from the 3-point line, and three other Wildcat starters finished with double-digit point totals. Chelsea Domenico and Megan Mahoney had seven rebounds apiece.

But the offense came later. The Cats first dominated on defense.

Facing a post combination of Stephanie Blackmon and Sophia Young that averaged over 30 points combined coming into the contest, Coach Deb Patterson's approach was simple enough.

"Our concept was, 'Let's work as hard as we can to defend their first shot extremely well and try to take away some of the touches early in the game for their post players,'" Patterson said.

That strategy worked like a charm. Baylor made just eight of 40 first-half shots, while K-State worked to re-establish its offense after the Cats struggled to score in a 73-64 loss to Texas Tech on March 6 that ended K-State's Big 12 regular season on a sour note.

"Offensively, obviously, it was important for us to get back to the inside-out attack,"

See CATS Page 10

K-State center Nicole Ohlde fights for a rebound in K-State's 77-60 victory over Baylor Wednesday evening at the Women's Big 12 tournament at Reunion Arena in Dallas. Ohlde had 14 points and six rebounds in the contest.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Schedule change from Miami of Ohio will give Wildcats stronger opposition

We are in the midst of a season that has more twists, turns and drama than a Latin soap opera. Ah, scheduling season.

The last column written by yours truly dealt with how this subject had many plot changes in the past few weeks. Now we can talk about which teams will make the trip here to the Little Apple this fall.

At this time last week, K-State's non-conference schedule had Troy State, Massachusetts, and Miami of Ohio all traveling to Manhattan. This meant the Cats were only looking for one more game to fill their fourth slot. The main

Division I school in negotiations with K-State was South Florida. Along with South Florida, the list included

Colorado State, LSU and Arkansas.

So it was looking like K-State would only have one I-AA opponent on the schedule for the fall.

Then, Miami of Ohio got scared and backed out of their signed contract with the Cats. I guess a signed contract doesn't mean anything in the state of Ohio these days.

Many of Miami of Ohio's fellow Mid-American Conference schools have played

K-State in the past. Powerhouse programs from that fine conference such as Akron and Bowling Green have come to Wagner Field and paid the piper. And who can forget Northern Illinois, who by the way, was the state champions of Illinois this year since they finished with a better record than the Chicago Bears, Northwestern and Illinois.

Even Ball State, the alma mater of my least favorite person on earth, Kansas City Star columnist Jason Whitlock, has come to face the Cats, only to get stomped.

Let's just say the track record for a MAC school coming into Manhattan and leaving with any dignity just isn't very good.

So after the Red "chicken" Hawks from Miami of Ohio flew the coop, the K-State athletic department was in dire straits to try to find two

TOURNAMENT UPDATE

By Dan Smith

All top seeds at the Big 12 Women's Tournament were in action Wednesday, with all advancing to the semifinal round to be played today. Here is a look at all the games.

(1) Texas 87, (9) Kansas 56

Upset-minded Kansas raced to a 13-9 lead Wednesday afternoon in the Jayhawks' quarterfinal matchup with top-seeded Texas.

Then the Longhorns (23-5) reminded KU (11-18) it was the No. 9 seed by building a 16-point first-half lead on a 21-2 run before dismissing Kansas 87-56.

During that stretch, KU made just one of seven shots and committed 10 turnovers, while Texas continued to pound the ball into inside players Stacy Stephens and Heather Schreiber.

"You have to have a presence inside if you want to be successful," UT Coach Jody Conradt said.

With the win, Texas advances to today's 6 p.m. semifinal against Colorado.

• • •

(4) Colorado 73, (5) Oklahoma 68

No. 5 seed Oklahoma gave fourth-seeded Colorado everything it could handle in the Buffs' first Big 12 Tournament game Wednesday afternoon.

Tera Bjorklund tied the tournament record and set a career high with 32 points. Colorado (22-6) needed every one of them as the Sooners (19-12) took the Buffs to the wire after spotting CU a double-digit lead for most of the second half.

Oklahoma ran out of magic late, though, as Colorado hung on for a 73-68 win to advance to today's 6 p.m. semifinal against Texas.

"They're a great team and they hustle," CU forward Linda Lappe said.

"When you have good teams, they're always going to make a run. We knew they were going to come back at us, so we just needed to maintain."

• • •

(3) Texas Tech 75, (11) Oklahoma St. 52

The Big 12 Tournament's top four seeds will battle for two spots in the event's championship game for only the second time in conference history tonight.

Third-seeded Texas Tech (25-4) was the last to make it to the semifinal round Wednesday when the Lady Raiders outscored Oklahoma State (8-21) 43-20 in the second half to win by the same margin.

The Cowgirls kept it close throughout the first half and led 27-26 with less than six minutes left in the period, but OSU couldn't shake Tech's Jia Perkins, who led the Lady Raiders with 21 points.

Texas Tech's win sets up a rematch with second-seeded K-State at 8:30 tonight.

Tech handed the Cats a 73-64 loss on March 6 in Lubbock to end the Big 12 regular season.

Tonight's winner will play Saturday at 6 p.m. for the tournament title and an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament.

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL K-STATE 75, BAYLOR 53

K-STATE (28-3, 14-2)
Koehn 8-15 0-0 22, Mahoney 5-11 4-4 15,
Wecker 7-13 0-0 15, Ohlde 5-10 4-6 14,
Dutmer 2-4 1-2 7, Madden 0-1 2-2 2,
McFarland 1-1 0-0 2

BAYLOR (20-10, 8-8)
Blackmon 8-21 5-7 21, Young 6-16 1-1 13, Jackson
3-12 0-3 9, Davis 2-11 0-0 6, Brown 1-8 1-2 3,
Stratton 1-10 0-0 2, Whitaker 1-7 0-0 2, Scott 1-3
0-0 2, Hamerly 0-1 0-0 2

K-STATE 34 43 — 77
BAYLOR 18 42 — 60

3-point goals — K-State 10-22 (Koehn 6-12, Dutmer 2-3, Wecker 1-2, Mahoney 1-4, Domenico 0-1), Baylor 5-22 (Jackson 3-7, Davis 2-10, Richards 0-2, Stratton 0-3). Fouled out — K-State (none), Baylor (Young). Rebounds — K-State 45 (Domenico, Mahoney 7), Baylor 55 (Blackmon 15). Assists — K-State 23 (Domenico 8), Baylor 9 (Jackson 3). Total fouls — K-State 16, Baylor 15. Technicals — None. Attendance — n/a.

• • •

MEN'S BASKETBALL K-STATE vs COLORADO

K-State is looking to make it three-for-three in the first round of the Big 12 Tournament under Coach Jim Wooldridge. Tonight, the Wildcats will face Colorado, who they split the season series with.

Wildcats PPG RPG AST/G BK/G
G. DeJesus - G 11.3 5.6 1.1 0.1
M. Siebrandt - F 11.0 4.9 1.8 0.3
P. Pasco - C 10.6 7.5 1.8 1.5
F. Richards - G 9.7 2.7 5.0 0.2
T. Ellis - G 9.2 2.9 1.5 0.5

Longhorns PPG RPG AST/G BK/G
M. Morandais - G 17.4 5.4 3.3 0.6
D. Harrison - C 13.8 8.5 0.5 3.1
B. Wilson - G 13.2 3.4 1.9 0.2
S. Pelle - F 12.4 9.4 0.9 1.1
L. Harris - F 4.6 5.4 0.5 0.7

See SHANK Page 8

GOING FOR THE GREEN

Parade, carnival activities Saturday to kick off St. Patrick's Day, spring season

By Jessica Pitts
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Spring will begin in Aggieville on Saturday. Well, unofficially, that is.

The 25th-annual St. Patrick's Day celebration will feature a parade, road race and carnival-like events, said Cheryl Sieben, Aggieville Business Association director.

"Everyone is so ready for the spring weather by this time of the year," she said. "This event has become a way for community members to get outside and have fun for a day."

And with a partly cloudy, high of 72 degrees forecasted for Saturday, Sieben said fun should be easy to come by.

"The weather looks like it is going to cooperate," she said. "It is going to be a great day."

The day begins at 8 a.m. at Rusty's Next Door with a Blarney Breakfast, a benefit for the arts center.

Irish music and St. Patrick's Day decorations will fill the background as green eggs and ham are served until 11 a.m.

"The event has become so popular that we had to extend the hours," said Penny Senften, executive director of the Manhattan Arts Center. "It is good food and a fun time. We really enjoy having the event."

After the breakfast, the annual St. Patrick's Day parade will begin at 11 a.m.

The parade will start at City Park and travel north on 12th Street before turning east on Laramie Street and north on 11th Street. It will end by turning west on Moro Street and re-entering City Park from South Manhattan Avenue.

Sieben said she suggests patrons come early to ensure an optimum spot for viewing the parade.

"It is a popular event among community members," she said. "Every year it seems like we have more participants and more viewers."

The parade will feature the Marching Cobras, a Kansas City-area drill and dance team.

"They are a high energy group that should be a lot of fun to watch," Sieben said. "We had them here in the mid-'90s, and we invited them back to help us celebrate the 25th anniversary."

The group also will perform in front of Varney's Book Store at 12:30 p.m.

After the parade, the St. Patrick's Road Race, coined Manhattan's largest running event, will begin.

The Shamrock two-mile Fun Run will start at 12:30 p.m., and the St. Pat's 10K Road Race will begin at 1:15 p.m.

The Leprechaun Three-Mile Walk follows the 10K runners.

All running events begin at the corner of 12th and Moro streets in Aggieville. The finish line is located just south of the 12th and Moro intersection.

About 800 people usually participate in the event, but Sieben said they are expecting runners because of the large purse.

"The prize money will be a major draw to the race this year," she said. "It is larger than it has been in the past."

Those running in the 10K Road Race will be competing for prize money in both the men's and women's divisions.

First prize pays $1,000, second pays $500, third pays $250, fourth place receives $100 and fifth place takes home $50.

"It is definitely an incentive to come out," Sieben said.

All race participants are invited to a post-race barbecue in Aggieville's Triangle Park.

Individual businesses will be having St. Patrick's Day events throughout the day, Sieben said. There will be live radio remotes at Buffalo Wild Wings and Gumby's Pizza and Pub. A moonwalk, giant slide and a soccer scoring contest will be featured near Varney's.

Sunset Zoological Park will have face painting and Rusty's Last Chance and Gumby's will have live bands in the afternoon.

In addition, several food and merchandise specials will be featured throughout Aggieville, Sieben said.

"We are all doing something a little special for St. Patrick's Day," she said. "We want people to come down early and spend the entire day with us enjoying the spring weather."

St. Patrick's Day Events

■ 8-11 a.m. Blarney Breakfast at Rusty's Next Door. All proceeds will benefit the Manhattan Arts Center. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the center for $7 for adults and $5 for children. At the door, tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for children.

■ 11 a.m. St. Patrick's Day Parade, featuring the Marching Cobras, begins at City Park and follows a route through Aggieville.

■ 12:30 p.m. The Marching Cobras, a Kansas City-area drill and dance team, will perform in front of Varney's Book Store. The group features 5-17 year-olds in a high-energy dance routine.

■ 12:30 p.m. Shamrock Two-Mile Fun Run begins at intersection of 12th and Moro streets. The race is designed for noncompetitive runners.

■ 1:15 p.m. St. Pat's 10K Road Race and the Leprechaun 3 Mile Walk begins at the intersection of 12th and Moro streets. The walk is designed for all, and ribbons will be awarded to everyone who finishes. The 6.2-mile road race features $3,800 in prize money and is mapped on a certified course through the streets of Manhattan and K-State.

■ Entry forms for all races are available at Kansas State Bank and Ballards Sporting Goods in Aggieville. The entry fee is $20 for runners and $15 for walkers. The races benefit Special Olympics.

■ Parking: Parking in Aggieville will not be allowed from 3 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. Cheryl Sieben, Aggieville Business Association director, said she suggests parking in the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art parking lot and walking to the events in Aggieville.

Illustration by Alison Brown | COLLEGIAN

CALENDAR

■ Three Rivers Kennedy will perform at 10 tonight at Auntie Mae's Parlor.
■ The play "Scooter Thomas Makes It to the Top of the World" is being performed at 11:30 a.m. in the Purple Masque Theatre. Admission is free.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Nominees announced for Flameworthy 2003 Video Music Awards

Videos by Shania Twain, Toby Keith and Faith Hill had five nominations each for Country Music Television's Flameworthy 2003 Video Music Awards.

The nominees, announced Tuesday, were selected by fans. Winners will be announced April 7 at the Gaylord Entertainment Center. Keith and actress Pamela Anderson will be the host of the show, which will air live on CMT.

HBO files counterclaim against 'The Sopranos' Gandolfini

HBO fired back Tuesday at "The Sopranos" star James Gandolfini in court, saying the actor must settle his contract dispute or risk being liable for more than $100 million in damages.

In a counterclaim, HBO is "seeking the damages that will result from his failure and refusal to perform his contract," Bert Fields, HBO attorney, said.

Daytime Emmy nominations announced

"The View" was nominated for a Daytime Emmy — which was only fitting, since this ABC chat show aired the announcements live Wednesday.

"The View" snagged nominations in the categories of talk show and talk show host (for Barbara Walters, Meredith Vieira, Star Jones, Joy Behar and the now-departed Lisa Ling). It has never captured an Emmy.

Last year's winner for best drama, "One Life to Live," was shut out.

WEB REVIEWS

www.finalfour.net
Official NCAA Web site for the Final Four.

Positives
- Sections for both women's and men's tournaments
- Information of divisions I, II, III tournaments
- Tournament locations for 2003-06
- Directory of schools
- Broadcast schedule
- Brackets to follow tournament

Negatives
- Less information of divisions II and III
- Takes a long time to download brackets
Grade: A

www.crayola.com
Official Crayola Web site

Positives
- Great site for education majors, ideas for creative projects for students
- Printable pictures to color
- Craft ideas
- Create cards
- Great search engines for projects
- A lot of color

Negatives
- Have to register to view some content
Grade: A

idolontax.com
Official Web site for "American Idol"

Positives
- Good quality pictures
- Contestant biographies and question and answer
- Message boards
- Program recaps

Negatives
- Web pages took a long time to download
Grade: A

— Reviews by Courtney Duffield

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

Team to focus on pitching during break

K-State baseball to play 8 games in 7-day trip to South Florida

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State will be catching a little bit of sun – and a lot of baseball – during spring break.

The Wildcats (6-5) left for south Florida on Wednesday and will play eight games in seven days, beginning with today's contest with the Seton Hall (3-4).

The Cats will play six games in conjunction with the Homestead Challenge in Homestead, Fla., and then will travel to Miami and Boca Raton to face Florida International (16-6) and Florida Atlantic (16-5), respectively.

K-State will face Seton Hall again Friday and Stony Brook (1-2) on Saturday in Homestead.

The Wildcats will take on Florida International on Sunday and will return to Homestead that evening to match up with Saint Peter's (0-0).

Then the Wildcats will play Rider (0-2) on Monday in Homestead, then travel to Florida Atlantic on Tuesday before concluding the trip against Rider at Nova Southeastern University in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., on Wednesday.

Coach Mike Clark said one area of his team will be under particular scrutiny on the trip.

"Our focus is all about us," Clark said, "but with our pitching staff in particular. We need to establish everybody's roles."

K-State's staff is carrying a 6.07 earned run average and has allowed 79 runs on 128 hits in 11 contests.

Four pitchers – Brett Bagley, Jim Ripley, Kevin Melcher and Jared Bunn – have combined for 62.3 of the innings in those games.

Clark said he needs more help. "We need a couple of guys who haven't stepped up yet to step up," he said.

"We have a corps of guys we feel somewhat comfortable with, and we have to find a couple of other guys to get into that mix."

This break affords K-State the opportunity to find out who will be on the mound this season because the conference season, and No. 12 Nebraska, will be waiting for the Wildcats when they return.

Clark said the strength of the teams

K-State will see in Florida will afford his pitching staff the types of innings they need to see to become better.

"All the games will be tough," he said. "We are really going to be testing our staff. But it needs tested. We have some guys who need to show us that they can help us. So – even the lesser known teams – I'm looking forward to playing them because I want to see how our pitchers are going to handle those situations."

But none of K-State's players, pitchers or otherwise, probably will be complaining about taking some time away from Kansas.

The Wildcats have had four games cancelled this year, three at home and one at Wichita State, because of freezing temperatures.

Clark said the warm weather will be a welcome change for a number of reasons.

"Baseball is not a game to be played in cold weather," he said. "And it's really tough to do that. This is will be good for our arms, it's going to be good for our muscles, and it's going to be good just to be able to play and have a different feel for the ball."

"It's the way baseball is supposed to be played."

SHANK | Cats in bad position, still have chance for quality season

Continued from Page 6

opponents for 2003.

Thankfully, Associate Athletic Director Jim Epps found a MAC school with some guts.

The welcome addition made to K-State's gridiron slate earlier this week was Marshall. Not only will this move definitely help beef up the 2003 schedule, but it will give the season ticket holders a marquee match-up with a team that has a good chance of being ranked when they come to town.

For those of you who don't know what, or where, Marshall is, here's the background.

Marshall was a 1-AA powerhouse for many years and eventually became D-I in 1997. Current National Football League stars who played for the Thundering Herd include Jets quarterback Chad Pennington and Minnesota Vikings wide receiver Randy Moss.

Marshall has been the dominant team in Mid-America Conference winning their fifth consecutive championship last year after going an impressive 11-2.

So the trade off between

Miami of Ohio and Marshall is a positive one for K-State.

But, unfortunately since Miami of Ohio backed out of the contract they signed years in advance, the Cats are still short a game for 2003.

The late unscrupulous move by Miami of Ohio has put K-State in a true bind. The athletic department has been in continuing negotiations with South Florida, but according to different sources, as of Wednesday, these discussions have come to a standstill. This means the Cats will probably open the 2003 campaign with a 1-AA school.

But before you start believing that playing two 1-AA schools will dampen the national championship hopes, remember that if a Big 12 school goes undefeated, they will be in New Orleans playing in the Sugar Bowl.

Just getting to play a quality team like Marshall rather than Miami of Ohio will help cancel out the effects of two 1-AA's on the schedule.

Chris is a senior in secondary education. You can e-mail him at shank@ksu.edu.

BENCH | Players vital during conference for chance at tournament play compete this week in Dallas.

Continued from Page 6

"Any time you lose a player, it's always tough," he said. "Quentin is a versatile player who can just about play anywhere on the court."

"He's one of those guys that can guard out on the perimeter and make it really tough for those guards to shoot. I think that's going to hurt us a little bit."

Bench play is increasingly more important during the conference tournament if a team hopes to make it to the semifinals. Teams without a bye in the first round, like K-State, have a tougher path to travel, having to play four games in four days if the Cats make it to the final on Sunday.

"It's going to be really tough because of fatigue," Thomas said. "It's toward the end of the season, and a lot of guys' bodies aren't in the same shape they were at the beginning. I think we can do it if we just focus on it."

Hayden said the bench always plays an important role in the Big 12 but becomes even more vital when tournament time comes.

"The Big 12 Tournament is physical," he said. "I think the bench is really important because you need that extra energy. You can't drop a step when you go to the bench because every team is about five or eight deep in this league."

Concerning fatigue, Hayden said he doesn't think it will be that big of an issue once K-State enters the American Airlines Center at 8:20 tonight.

"As soon as you step on the court, you forget about the fatigue," he said. "All you try to do is get that W. How bad do we want to get the win? You can't teach heart."

Yes, the students are back in town. They're also spending money to furnish their living spaces. They're shopping in the Kansas State Collegian classifieds. Call to place an ad today: 532-6555.

SELYOURSTUFF

We've got the stories you've got to read.

The 2003 Royal Purple yearbook is available for $34.95 in Kedzie 103. Stop by or call 532-6555.

GET A JOB AND SOME GREAT EXPERIENCE!

WANT A JOB WHEN YOU GRADUATE?

Most employers are looking for people who have experience. Get ahead of the competition and gain some valuable experience at the same time at the Kansas State Collegian.

We're looking for people who are reliable, show initiative, possess writing skills, and are creative and enthusiastic.

If this description fits you, please apply. Pick up an application and job description in Kedzie 103. The following positions are available.

EXECUTIVE POSITIONS

2004 Royal Purple editor in chief

Summer 2003 Collegian editor in chief

Summer 2003 Collegian advertising manager

Fall 2003 Collegian editor in chief

Fall 2003 Collegian advertising manager

Applications due 5 p.m. April 4

If we receive only single applications for these positions, the deadline extends automatically to April 11 to encourage applications.

GET THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kansas State University Campus Phone Book

2004 royal purple

get a lot more.

Sign up with Cellular One today and get twice the Anytime Minutes, Unlimited Nights & Weekends and more Roaming Minutes than ever.

	REGULAR RETAIL PLAN	PROMOTIONAL PLAN
MONTHLY RATE	$35	$35
anytime minutes	350	700
night & weekend minutes	3,500	unlimited
roaming minutes	75	100

plus, get free nationwide long distance

OFFER ENDS SOON!

Already a Cellular One Customer? Call now to get this great new plan. Restrictions apply. 30-month agreement required.

FREE
nokia 5165
after instant rebate

get a phone delivered to your door

CALL
1-800-CELL-ONE

or VISIT
cellularonewest.com

CELLULARONE®

Call on someone you know.

SIMPLICITY CHOICE VALUE 30-DAY SATISFACTION GUARANTEE

Cellular One proudly supports The National Youth Anti-Drug Media Campaign www.TheAntiDrug.com

Cellular One

1115 Westloop Place
785-537-4646 • 800-467-7858

Manhattan Town Center Mall
785-776-1414

Offers good for a limited time on new activations on select rate plans only and are subject to change without notice. Free phone offer not available to existing Cellular One customers. Credit approval required. Some customers may not qualify. Starter Program customers may be required to pay a non-refundable program fee and activation fee. Unlimited minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Monday through Thursday. "Night" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Friday through Sunday. "Weekend" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 p.m. Sunday from within home calling area only. Roaming minutes apply to calls made within our 20 state regional roaming area. Free nationwide long distance applies to calls made from the home area to anywhere in the United States only. Billing of some charges such as roaming charges may be delayed or applied against allocated minutes or services in a subsequent billing cycle, which may cause you to exceed your allocated minutes or services in that particular billing cycle. Except as indicated, additional fees apply for taxes, assessments, surcharges, roaming, long distance, operator-assisted, credit card or other toll charges. Incoming and outgoing calls are rounded up and billed in full-minute increments from the time the network begins to process the call (before the call rings or is answered) through its termination of the call. Any fraction of a minute of usage is rounded up and charged or deducted from any included minutes at the full minute rate. Service is subject to the terms of our standard 24-month service agreement that includes a $20 fee for early cancellation and a mandatory activation provision for each phone. Activation fee and deposit may be required. Digital handset purchase price. Only one rebate per phone purchased. Featured hardware available at Cellular One stores and participating dealers while supplies last. Service is not TTY compatible. See store for complete details. Other restrictions may apply. Western Wireless is a registered service mark of The Cellular One Group. © 2003 Western Wireless Corporation.

UNSOLD ORDERS

Heavy Duty School Model
Sew & Serge Sewing Machines

Our Education Department placed orders in anticipation of large school sales. Some machines remain unsold.

They must be sold!!

All machines offered are the most modern machines in the Singer line. All machines are brand new. Singer's nationwide guarantee is included.

WHAT IS A SEW & SERGE SEWING MACHINE????

FIRST – IT IS A SOPHISTICATED SEWING MACHINE that does Buttonholes (any size), Stretch Stitching, Invisible Blind Hems, Monograms, Ribbing, Double Seams, Zippers, Sew on Buttons, Hems, Darning, Appliqué, Zig Zag, Basting, Blanket Stitch, Quilting, and much more. JUST SET THE CONTROL TO SEW MAGIC!

SECOND – IT HAS A SERGING STITCH. This allows you to sew the seam and serge the edge of the material in one operation. With an optional cutter you can trim the excess material.

THIRD – THEY ARE DESIGNED TO SEW ALL FABRICS, such as Denim, Canvas, Upholstery, Nylon, Stretch Materials, Silk, Percale, Organdy, AND...

THEY EVEN SEW LEATHER!

Now you have it all in one machine.

Direct from Singer
Specialty
Sales

YOUR PRICE WITH THIS AD ONLY

$199

Without Ad $429.99

CASH, CHECKS, MASTERCARD, VISA, DISCOVER, LAYAWAYS ACCEPTED

Saturday, March 15
10:00 a.m. – 2:30 p.m.

Holiday Inn Holidome
530 Richards
Manhattan

Pay in Full and Take Delivery of Your Machine
at the Sale!

Now Featuring the Teacher Model

– No Phone Calls, Please –
OTHER MODELS AVAILABLE AT SIMILAR SAVINGS.

CLASSIFIEDS

Thursday, March 13, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE, two, or three-bedroom. Close to campus.
August 1. (785)317-7713.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS,
best deals around! Studio one, two, three-bedroom available for June or August.
Various locations. (785)770-3722.

AVAILABLE AUGUST= Pre-
leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-
9740 or (785)556-2104.

DUPLEX 900 square feet.
Two-bedrooms, two bath. All appliances. Close to campus. June leases. Call (785)456-8835.

FOR AUGUST: next to
KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near
Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550.
(785)539-2482.

FOUR AND FIVE-BED-ROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975.
(785)770-3722.

NEAR CAMPUS, one-bedroom apartments, 1832
Clafin. One-bedroom unique studio house, 909
Kearney (alley). August
lease. No pets. (785)539-
0549 or (785)539-5508.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two
and three-bedrooms. $750-
$900. Manhattan Rentals.
(785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One
two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments.
Central air. Free washer/dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms
one block from campus.
Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August
1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

TWO AND three-bedroom
units available for August 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-
3663, one-half mile from K-
State, at the corner of College and Clafin.

TWO AND THREE-BED-
ROOM. Close to campus,
central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM
one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus.
(785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month.
(785)341-4496.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2307 ANDERSON, six-bedroom house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/ dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

A FOUR-BEDROOM
house, nice, near campus.
June or August. Call
(785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE AUGUST 1st.
2039 and 2071 College
View, three-bedroom, no pets, $750 per month plus deposit. Call (785)456-7255.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE
two bath, two kitchens. Living room. Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove,
refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets, June lease.
(785)539-1975, (785)313-
8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedroom, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space.
Call Doug 537-1978.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus. Off-street parking. washer/ dryer.
(785)449-2181

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1.
(785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE,
walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar, June lease. (785)539-1975 or
(785)313-8296 or (785)313-
8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE,
walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar, June lease. (785)539-1975 or
(785)313-8296 or (785)313-
8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bath two and one-half blocks from campus. All appliances including washer/dryer. Call Mike (785)632-
5611 or (785)632-2148.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE
bath house, June lease, $900 per month washer/dryer/ central air, 900 Vatti-er. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease.
$1100. (785)336-6286 or
(785)770-0062.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses.
Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments.
Attentive landlord, no pets.
June and August lease.
(785)539-0549.

ONE, TWO three, four-bedroom houses and apartments. June leases, central air, no pets. Call (785)313-4812.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BED-
ROOM house, 1328 Pierre
June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. $1050
month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSES.
June or August lease.
1022 Humboldt. 1322
Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE
bath, main floor apartment.
June lease, $780 per month.
Washer/ dryer/ window airconditioner. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment, could rent as five-bedroom house.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO
bath main floor apartment.
June 1. $750 month. 709
Blumont. Washer/ dryer
window air conditioning.
(785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, VERY nice condition. One block west of campus. Available
June 1. No pets. $300/ bedroom. (785)537-4766.

TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Four-bedroom, recently remodeled, central heat/ air with washer/ dryer, two bath. Available June 1.
No pets. $1200/ month.
(785)565-1748

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE
bath basement apartment.
June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931
Vattier. (785)539-4949,
leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE
wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/month
plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st.
Call Kimberly (785)456-
4204.

MALE OR female roommate wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. Available April 1st. $285.50 plus utilities across from City Park downtown Aggieville. Call Merrick
(785)371-1371.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May.
Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for this summer or fall. Contact
Jake at (785)539-4904.
Rent $230/ month plus share of utilities. Located at 911 North 11th Street.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking.
Washer/ dryer. Trash paid.
Near campus. $300/ month
(785)537-1219

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE
now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month
(785)539 5907.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

4 BEDROOM
APARTMENTS
1620 McCain
Starting at $900
Available for June and August
2 full baths
Laundry facilities
Off Street Parking
CLOSE TO CAMPUS

Model Showings
Apt. #15
Tues. & Thurs. 3:30-6
Sat. 2-5

776-3804

www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development

ROYAL TOWERS

4 Bedroom
APARTMENTS
• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center
with 6 full-sized
washers & dryers.
• Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough
Development
210 N. 4th St. C

ONE AND two-bedroom units available June 1. No pets. (785)587-0399.

ONE OR Two-bedroom apartments. One-half block to KSU. Some with washer/dryer. No pets. June occupancy. $380 to $500.
(785)556-6899.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM OFF campus water and trash paid.
Available June 1 and August
1. No smokers, no pets.
(785)776-3184.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

THREE-BEDROOM, NO
pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday.
(785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOMS. All
amenities. August leases.
Close to campus/ Aggieville.
(785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-
MENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition.
http://www.rentstate.com
(785)776-4166 or rentstate.com@lycos.com

TWO-BEDROOM TOWN-
HOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfurnished basement. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets
or smokers. 624 Blumont.
$500 plus utilities. August
lease. Monday- Friday.
(785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE
bath, available June 1,
washer/ dryer provided.
$520. Water, trash paid. 405
North 10th. (785)539-0939.

NEW FOUR-BEDROOM,
two bath, washer/ dryer,
dishwasher, no pets, $1100.
Call (785)537-7597.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM
house. Close to campus.
Washer/ Dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford.
(785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five,
six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available.
June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

Now Leasing
1 LEASED 90
2 LEASED 90
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

THREE, FOUR, and five-
bedroom houses available.
No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes
Real estate (785)539-6096

THREE-BEDROOM
HOUSE, 530 Bertrand.
Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call
Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, washer, dryer, no pets
or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900
plus utilities. August lease.
Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, washer,
dryer, no pets or smokers.
1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease.
Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE
with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego
neighborhood. No pets.
$575. (785)556-6899.

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus.
Available June 1st.
(785)539-9582 leave message.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 Winne. Beautifully
remodeled brick ranch,
three-bedroom home. $900,
immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets, new central air-conditioning,
close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706,
evenings.

FIVE AND four-bedroom.
Washer/ dryer included.
Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM
house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/dryer. Available August 1st.
(785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, across from campus,
off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/
dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)587-0183.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, central air, washer/
dryer. Close to campus.
June 1 leases. Several Locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, washer, dryer hook-
up, no pets or smokers.
1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new
home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher,
washer, dryer and garage.
No pets. August occupancy
$300 per person. (785)556-
6899.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ONE, TWO, three, four, five,
six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June,
July, August. www.rent-
apm.com. (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-
bedroom houses available.
No pets. Call Stacey Hoff-
man with Hallmark Homes
Real estate (785)539-6096

THREE-BEDROOM
HOUSE, 530 Bertrand.
Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call
Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, washer, dryer, no pets
or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900
plus utilities. August lease.
Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, washer,
dryer, no pets or smokers.
1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease.
Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE
with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego
neighborhood. No pets.
$575. (785)556-6899.

VERY NICE one and two-
bedroom close to campus.
Available June 1st.
(785)539-9582 leave message.

125
For Sale-
Houses

COLORADO RANCH for $ 1 0 0
www.winneranch.com.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FOR SALE Mobile Home
1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS.
Call (785)539-3430 for information.

CRUISE LINE entry level,
on board positions available,
great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DANCING POSITIONS
AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring.
Make $2000- $5000 a month. Eighteen years plus.
Stop by in person to apply.
1330 Grant Ave. Junction
City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey!
www.surveymonkey.com

JOHNSON COUNTY: Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State
Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at
35125 N. 135th Street,
Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week. May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton
Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LAWN TECHNICIAN: part-time/ full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer.
Responsibilities include mowing, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello
Suite 101, Manhattan, KS
66502. No phone calls
please.

CAKE | International award-winning decorator offers tips, challenges students in wedding cake decorating classes offered by local bakery

Continued from Page 1

medicine, took another road to the cake decorating lessons.

Schuster was accepted at a culinary school in New Hampshire; however, obligations to the Army Reserves have kept him in Manhattan for a while. The chance to get a taste of his future career led him to the class, he said.

"If I can perfect this, I can perfect everything," he said.

Although a number of students have an interest in culinary tactics, Hill said she knows not all of them will use cake decorating in their careers.

In fact, she fell into the cake business 26 years ago, when she took over her father's donut and roll shop.

When her husband was stricken with diabetes, however, the doughnut-making had to stop. The need for baked goods, however, continued to be there.

Hill said K-State students would contact her about making them a cake, and after a while, she became more and more handy with the decorating tools.

The cake teacher is now an international cake decorator and has won awards all over the country. Hill has even trained in foreign decorating techniques as well.

While she knows the cake lessons don't make her a lot of money, she said the real joy is seeing her students' faces

Erin Bruce, freshman in geology, watches as Janice Hill, owner of Vern's Cake Shop, shows her how to make a rose with frosting. Hill has won numerous awards all over the country for her decorating skills and is now an international cake decorator.

light up when they succeed.

She said she likes a challenge and encourages her students to go beyond their expectations.

"Nobody is born with what they're going to do branded on them. Something or someone leads them to it," she said. "Just go for it."

Lindsay Bauman | COLLEGE

EXTRUSION | K-State lab provides student jobs, variety of products

Continued from Page 1

$6.50 or more an hour.

"I pay my students pretty well," Maichel said. "I ask a lot of them, and it can be pretty labor intensive."

Most of the students who work in the lab have a major in another closely related field, Maichel said.

McNally said he is glad for the opportunity to work at the lab.

"The experience I am getting will add up and help me with future job offers," he said.

Hawkinson said he also values the experience he is gaining.

"It is related to my major," he said. "It's good to be learning stuff that will help me in the future."

Maichel said most students who have worked for him in the past have gained employment opportunities due to their work in the lab.

"A few have found a possible new career," he said. "Several companies come to campus looking for students who have a background in extrusion."

K-State's Extrusion Lab produces everything from pet food to corn puffs, Maichel said. The lab also produces a rodent bar, he said.

The bars are fed to NASA's lab rodents, which are sent into space to study the effects of space travel, Maichel said.

Working with a variety of different products is another positive aspect of the job, McNally said.

"The best thing about the job is the variance of the products we produce," he said. "It's always something different."

RESPONSE | Riley County officials prepare for possible bioterrorism attack with detailed response strategy

Continued from Page 1

and subsequent anthrax scares.

"A lot of people think of public health as immunizations and family planning," she said. "It may not be in the forefront of a lot of people's minds as being prepared for emergencies, but we're not just about restaurant inspections and environmental concerns. Our role has evolved since 9/11."

Hart said the Department of Homeland Security gave the state funds to develop a terrorism response plan. She said that although she has developed a general plan, revisions are ongoing, and each case will be different.

"We'll have attachments for each individual disease in addition to the general plan," she said. "It depends on what it is — what one disease or one bioterrorism agent."

Different diseases are contagious in different ways and require individualized responses, Hart said.

"One of the biggest problems is that it may happen subtly," she said. "Victims can be exposed and not even know it for two weeks. By then, others may have been exposed and the disease will have spread."

Hart said the 50-page plan describes everything except where victims would go.

"Right now, the plan says things like who'd be responsible for getting medicine and vaccines from here to there, who's responsible for quarantining, and who's talking to the media," she said. "Plans are still in the works, though, for where victims would go for help."

Hart said the location would depend on the number of people affected.

"We're trying to use Bramlage, but it depends if a large group of people are affected. We don't have anything set in stone yet," she said.

Lt. Richard Herrman, K-State Police patrol commander, said that if there existed a localized area of bioterrorism on campus, K-State Police officers would work with other emergency personnel to quarantine the area.

"We would seal off the area and screen people before letting them in the area," he said. "From there, it would be just like any other crime. We would try to determine who brought in the contaminate and how it was dispersed."

Hart said the city could cope if a bioterrorism disaster were to occur in Manhattan.

SECURITY | Systems to update

Continued from Page 1

systems, such as military computer systems. Unger said K-State did not want its lack of security to unwittingly help hackers gain access to other systems.

The goal of the security upgrade will be to maintain a balance of availability and security, Unger said.

She would not disclose what steps have been taken or will be taken because, she said, it is in everyone's best interest not to disclose such details.

"Certainly, you can rest more comfortably today than you could yesterday," she said. "And by Friday or Saturday, it should be even more secure."

In the e-mail, Unger suggested shutting down computers during evenings and weekends. Also, she asked that network administrators upgrade software and implement password-changing policies similar to the university's policy.

A registration system will be instituted for all people who want to connect to the university's network, Unger said.

Registration will enable the university to enforce its heightened security standards on everyone connected to the university's computer systems, she said.

"It's not just a problem for the technicians," Unger said. "It's something every single person should consider."

CATS | After slow shooting start, K-State surges back to win 77-60

Continued from Page 6

Patterson said.

K-State found its offensive groove only after the Lady Bears jumped out to an 8-2 lead, though. Nevertheless, Patterson said she wasn't preoccupied with the Cats' slow shooting start.

"I have a heart attack every time we miss a shot, so it really wasn't that different," she said. "I really had a great deal of confidence in our entire team."

The Wildcats shot only 37 percent in the first half, but Baylor's 20-percent showing was worse, as K-State clawed back to lead by 16 at halftime.

But Patterson's confidence paid off, as the Cats shook off their poor shooting effort after the intermission and led by as many as 25 in the closing minutes.

Part of that surge came from Koehn, who scored 14 in the second half to spark the K-State offense.

"We were just really trying to focus this week on getting to our spots on the floor and executing the offense better than we have been," Koehn said. "We came out tonight and did a lot better."

Koehn's performance from long range moved the sophomore into second place in the Big 12 Tournament single-game history books for 3-pointers made (6) and attempted (12).

The Wildcats now turn their attention to a rematch with the only conference team they did not beat this season. K-State will take on Texas Tech in the second of two semi-final contests at 8:30 tonight.

"We're just happy to have the opportunity to play tomorrow," center Nicole Ohlde said. "They are very tough, and they proved that when we were down in Lubbock. It's going to be an exciting game."

Book Sense has nothing to do with luck.
Clafin Books and Copies

Say
HEESE
DELICATESSEN

Lamb For Sale

1214-C. MOJO • 317-1909

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

THE FOUR BIGGEST DIETING MISTAKES

By Rick Tague, M.D., M.P.H.
Board Certified in Medical Weight Management

If you made a New Year's resolution to lose weight but have struggled...or have already failed...you are not alone.

Numerous studies show that over 96% of all self-imposed diets fail to bring about a significant long-term weight loss. Regardless of how much willpower you have, the odds are against you when dieting on your own. And with less than a 4% chance of long-term success, you may ask, "why even try?"

Fortunately, a medical specialty called bariatric medicine has discovered simple, easy-to-follow solutions to the four biggest dieting mistakes. The biggest dieting mistakes are:

1. Using a "cookie cutter" approach to choosing your diet. I call this the "one size fits all" diet. No one gains weight...or loses weight...the same way. In order to be successful around your program must be individualized around your personal needs, your likes and dislikes, your medical needs, your family history, your environment, your level of stress and more. Unfortunately, fad diets call for everyone to follow the same diet forever which accounts for such a dismal success rate.

2. No medical monitoring of your weight loss. This may lead to losing muscle and even bone versus losing body fat. Losing muscle causes your metabolism to slow down and contributes greatly to eventual weight regain and makes losing weight "the next time" even more difficult. Weight loss must be medically monitored to insure that what you are eating - how often and at what times during the day - causes you to melt away fat...not muscle.

3. Attempting to fight the "cravings battle" alone. Let's face it, cravings can be an almost impossible "enemy" to fight. The reason is that cravings are hardwired into your body's natural self-protection system.

Brain chemicals causing cravings is one of the ways your body preserves itself from starvation. Of course changing your eating habits by dieting doesn't mean you are starving, but your body doesn't know that. Fortunately, using an individualized high nutrient program, adjusting meal frequency, and other medical techniques including appetite suppressants (when appropriate and only if needed), can eliminate cravings which then makes losing unwanted fat pounds easy.

4. Not recognizing there may be underlying medical reasons causing your weight gain. Obviously fad diets do not address your individual medical history nor do they evaluate and monitor blood and lab findings that can provide quick answers to your past difficulty with losing weight. A physician specializing in medical weight management is able to identify and correct hormonal imbalances and other medical problems that can be the key to a slimmer you.

Losing weight doesn't have to be an uphill battle, and more than likely past failures haven't been your fault. An individual's genetics, metabolism, medical problems, life stresses and food cravings can make weight loss on your own a very difficult undertaking. Make sure any program you undertake avoids these four common mistakes.

Also, seek a medical doctor who specializes in nutrition and medical weight management. Not all physicians have this specialized training. And if you'd like more information about how you can finally achieve weight loss success, please call my office today at 776-4443 to set up a complimentary office visit.

Dr. Tague is board certified in bariatric medicine. Dr. Tague is the medical director of the Center for Nutrition and Preventive Medicine at 1443 Anderson Avenue in Anderson Village.

Tonight 2003 Kappa Sigma Wildcat Women Calendar contest come have a shot with the Bacardi Girls

T-shirts and Prizes

Coors Light & Bacardi drink specials

Interested participants sign up at Silverados

Thursday

LIVE MUSIC

BAREFOOT MANNER

St. Pat's Day Specials

$3 GUINNESS $3 MURPHY'S IRISH STOUT

Weekly Specials

Monday

$5.95 All You Can Eat Wings 5-9

$1.50 Domestic Drafts

Tuesday

2 for 1 Smokey Joe's

$2 Domestic Pitchers

$3 Michelob Family Pack

Wednesday

Chef's Creation $2.50 Any Beer

Drafts, Pitches, Imports, Micros

Thursday

$4.95 Half Chickens

$2.00 Wells

Friday

Chef's Creation

$1 PBR Cans while they last

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, March 14, 2003

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Bush signals leniency

White House open to briefly delaying vote

By Barry Schweid
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — In a reversal, the White House said Thursday that President Bush is open to briefly delaying a vote on his U.N. war resolution until next week if the postponement would help gain support for the measure. Secretary of State Colin Powell said one option was to drop plans for a Security Council vote.

George W. Bush
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

"We are still talking to members of the Council to see what is possible," Powell told a House Appropriations subcommittee. He said the options under consideration include "to go for a vote and not to go for a vote."

The administration had been pushing for a vote by Friday, but signaled a change early Thursday when White House spokesman Ari Fleischer said, "It may continue into next week."

Powell was asked how the United States stood on the proposal Britain has offered the Security Council as a compromise. "Not all of us bought all the elements," Powell said. He called the proposal "a way to see if more nations can find a way forward."

Twice during his comments Powell noted that "a permanent member of the council" quickly objected to the British plan and then Iraq did the same. Powell didn't name the country but an aide said it was a reference to France.

Bush called world leaders Thursday morning and met with Irish Prime Minister Bertie Ahern. Ireland has provided landing facilities for American military aircraft for 40 years, but Ahern is confronting strong anti-war sentiment, and Irish citizens have vandalized U.S. military planes.

Ahern told Bush that "if there is not a resolution, Ireland cannot engage in support of military action, because we work under the U.N. resolution."

DOWN IN BIG D

K-State's Nicole Ohlde watches the final moments of the Wildcats' loss to Texas Tech during the semifinals of the women's Big 12 Tournament on Thursday at Reunion Arena in Dallas.

Cats can't put Tech away, come up short against Lady Raiders

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

DALLAS — Texas Tech Coach Marsha Sharp said Thursday's semifinal matchup between her third-seeded Lady Raiders and No. 2 seed K-State would likely come down to a few key plays.

She couldn't have been more right. The Cats (28-4) hit just one of eight 3-pointers and turned the ball over 16 times, while Tech (26-4) surged in the contest's final 7:30 to steal a 71-65 win and advance to the Big 12 Tournament final for the third time in the league's seven-year history.

The Cats' Megan Mahoney had 24 points to lead all scorers, but it was K-State's inability to finish the Lady Raiders off early that made for a somber Wildcat locker room after the game.

"You knew one team was going to rise above and make big plays," Coach Deb Patterson said. "You just have to credit (Texas Tech) for the character and the execution they brought over the course of the 40 minutes. That was really significant in what separated our two basketball teams tonight."

The game lived up to its billing with six ties and four lead changes in the first half alone.

See BASKETBALL Page 10

K-State's Megan Mahoney loses the ball to Texas Tech's Casey Jackson during the semifinals of the women's Big 12 Tournament on Thursday at Reunion Arena in Dallas.

Fans accept tournament's new location

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

DALLAS — Chuck and Janet Heinsohn had a choice to make Thursday night.

The Wichita residents were decked out in K-State colors for the day's early session at the Big 12 men's basketball tournament in American Airlines Center.

Pockets of purple stuck out like sore thumbs in the 20,000-seat arena during the first two games, where fans from Texas A&M, Iowa State, Nebraska and Missouri comprised the crowd's majority.

Later, though, the Heinsohns cheered on K-State with a larger contingent of Wildcat fans during K-State's 77-76 loss to Colorado.

But watching the Wildcat men meant ignoring K-State's women in their semifinal matchup with Texas Tech just down the street at Reunion Arena.

"I wish I had a little TV set so I could watch them, though," Chuck said.

Both games began at 8:30 p.m., but even before the Wildcats suited up at their respective venues, the Heinsohns were part of an even larger group of tourists gathered downtown.

With the Dallas Convention and Visitors Bureau expecting 75,000 fans to attend one or both of the events, a projected $20 million in visitor spending is up for grabs in the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex this week.

Those numbers are courtesy of Dallas' West End District, a committee planning to make the most of the tournament's revenue potential with Victory Fest, billed as

See FANS Page 10

Candidates discuss issues in Union

Commission hopefuls debate Thursday

By Jamie Barrett
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Manhattan is home to K-State students for at least nine months out of the year, and casting a vote in local elections is a right and a responsibility, four candidates for Manhattan City Commission agreed Thursday afternoon.

Candidates for Commission debated issues involving K-State students in front of a sparse audience in the Union Courtyard.

Candidates Marolyn Caldwell, John Collinson, Pam Wilkie and incumbent candidate Ed Klimek addressed issues regarding importance of student voting, student housing and student activity in city government. Incumbent candidate Bruce Snead was represented through prepared statements and candidate Mark Hatesohl was unable to attend due to business obligations.

Jared May, junior in secondary education, asks a question of the four City Commission candidates who participated in Thursday's debate, sponsored by the Union Program Council and the Political Science club.

David McCandless, senior in political science, mediated the debate by asking specific questions that each candidate was given a chance to answer.

McCandless began the debate by asking candidates how students would benefit by

See DEBATE Page 10

Candidates discuss campus parking, residential density

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Citizen Voter's Initiative forum was Thursday evening at the Manhattan Fire Station.

Candidates running for three City Commission positions debated issues including neighborhood density, lack of parking on campus and how to make Manhattan a more friendly community.

In the discussion about local service providers, John Collinson said the city should always reward the lowest bidder for city projects.

Pamela Wilkie agreed with Collinson.

"We need to always go with the lowest bidder to avoid a monopoly," she said.

Mark Hatesohl said that

Forum

The following candidates running for City Commission participated in the forum Thursday night: Ed Klimek, Marolyn Caldwell, John Collinson, Pamela Wilkie, Mark Hatesohl and Bruce Snead. The forum will be a replaying of the candidates' comments aired at 7 a.m. Saturday on KMAN-AM 1350. The election will be April 1.

if Manhattan would use city contractors, then the money would stay in Manhattan and help the community instead of helping Kansas City's community, as in Wal-Mart's case. He said he did not like that Manhattan hired a Kansas City contractor even though local contractors gave lower bids.

Bruce Snead said the city

See FORUM Page 10

INSIDE

Going away for break? Read a columnist's advice before venturing to a desired getaway.

Opinion, Page 4

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Elizabeth Smart's father asks House to pass national Amber Alert bill

Elizabeth Smart's father said Thursday that Congress should pass a national Amber Alert bill, and he accused a Republican leader of hurting children by trying to use the measure to pass other legislation.

Page 3

Israeli soldiers kill 2 Israeli civilians in instance of mistaken identity

Two Israelis were killed in Israeli army fire in the West Bank on Thursday. Several hours later, Israeli troops raided a West Bank village killing four Palestinian fugitives.

Kansas House advances bill regulating state abortion clinics

Legislation setting minimum health and safety standards for abortion clinics cleared the Kansas House on Thursday. Supporters say the standards would protect women. Critics say it would make operating a clinic too expensive.

Senate passes bipartisan vote favoring 'partial-birth' abortion ban

The Senate voted overwhelmingly Thursday to ban a procedure that critics call partial birth abortion, and conservatives confidently predicted the bill would soon be signed into law after an eight-year struggle. The bipartisan 64-33 vote to limit the range of procedures available to women under the 1973 landmark Supreme Court abortion rights ruling.

Judge orders Robert Blake to stand trial in slaying of wife

A judge ruled Thursday that Robert Blake must stand trial on charges of murdering his wife. Superior Court Judge Lloyd Nash said Blake could be released on $1.5 million bail.

Weather

Today 74 | 48

Sunny/Windy

Saturday 77 | 52

Partly Cloudy

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 119

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

- 1 Emulate
- 2 Johnny Appleseed character
- 3 Bat a gnat
- 4 Agile
- 5 Doctors' org.
- 6 Bryn —
- 7 Quaker's address
- 8 Tanacious clinger
- 9 Verd
- 10 Empty suitcase
- 11 Mai de —
- 12 The air up there
- 13 Big name in the big top
- 14 Talka
- 15 Winter affliction
- 16 Singer DiFranco
- 17 Hinge (on)
- 18 "I'llume" writer
- 19 Give as an example
- 20 401(k) alternative
- 21 Renu-eration

DOWN

- 1 Punctuation mark
- 2 Kids' character
- 3 Lid for a lad
- 4 Historic period
- 5 Fleet
- 6 Wise men
- 7 Companion of Paul
- 8 Enthusiastic, plus
- 9 Ling or Bonel
- 10 Wool
- 11 334-Across eponym
- 12 Concert pianist
- 13 Gilels
- 14 Modern-day evidence
- 15 Filmdom's "Elephant Boy"
- 16 Arabian sultanate
- 17 Distortion
- 18 Hits
- 19 Wild and crazy
- 20 Eddie of vaudeville
- 21 Due
- 22 It gives one pause
- 23 Apple
- 24 Worldly
- 25 Kappa
- 26 Stable sound
- 27 Ankle bones
- 28 Sleeping
- 29 When the cook crows
- 30 On the OE2, maybe
- 31 Scorch
- 32 Past
- 33 Comprehensive
- 34 Intention

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 3-14

CRYPTOQUIP

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-226-8968! $9.95 per minute, touch-tone only. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-226-8968! $9.95 per minute, touch-tone only. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

P E X D X Z G V E C C T X E I
C W P M Q V Z X X Z P W V D X
P E X I P C P E A . P C ' M V D X Z R
Z X G T Z I P E A V O C P D P C R .

Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHEN YOU CARELESSLY ANSWER THE DOOR DRESSED IN YOUR NIGHTIE, IS THAT NEGLIGENCE?

Today's Cryptquip Clue: C equals T

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK #1 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Cryptoclassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals Q, it will equal Q throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(ISSN 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Redzie 101, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Redzie 101, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

CAMPUS CONNECTION

University officials consider risk factor involved with Social Security number use

By Jessica Packard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State students' ID numbers are usually the same as their Social Security number.

But use of Social Security numbers as ID numbers have some wondering about safety. Although identity fraud can be easier with students' information easily linked to their ID numbers, or Social Security number, some students say they are not concerned.

Melissa Long, freshman in bakery science, said she does not worry about fraud and thinks it is convenient having one number to memorize rather than two.

"I don't worry about it at all," Long said. "It's convenient when you just have to remember one number."

Long said she understands why some might worry about the possibility of identity fraud with the students' Social Security on their IDs but doesn't consider it a problem for herself.

"It could be a problem but I don't think it's worth changing," Long said.

Long said that if it started to be a problem then creating a unique ID number should be considered.

Although identity fraud has not been a problem for K-State students yet, Gunile DeVault, associate registrar, said K-State is considering a new system.

DeVault said K-State has used students' social security numbers as their ID numbers since 1982.

In 1982, it was more common for higher education systems to use Social Security numbers to connect students to their records, but times have changed.

"The Social Security number wasn't a big issue as it is now," DeVault said. "It's not considered the best way to track people as it used to be."

DeVault said K-State is in the process of preparing a project to get a new student information system so

Photo Illustration by Nicole Donnet | COLLEGIAN
Students are identified on campus by their Social Security, or ID, number. Because of risk concerns, some officials are looking into alternative methods of student identification.

social security numbers will not be used.

Erin Duryea, employee for the Student ID Center, said students now could have a random number issued as their ID number if they do not use financial aid or work on campus.

She also said that if the system does change, re-issuing numbers would not be a problem.

While some professors post test scores with Social Security numbers in the hallways outside of classrooms, Stacey Nofziger, professor in sociology, said she prefers not to use student ID numbers.

"I don't use them at all. I think it's a bad idea," Nofziger said. "I think it could open up the possibility of fraud for the university and the professors that use them."

Curtis Lambert, junior in modern languages, said that even though it is easier using Social Security numbers for IDs, changing the system could prevent identity fraud problems.

"It's definitely easier using Social Security numbers, but at the same time, if the wrong person gets your information, it could be a problem," Lambert said.

DeVault said although they are not ready yet to change the system it is a concern they plan to take care of.

"We're not there yet, but it is what we are working towards," DeVault said.

Students express concerns regarding Social Security numbers as form of ID

By Marissa Widdison
THE DAILY UNIVERSE (BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY)

PROVO, Utah — Although Brigham Young University ID cards have been changed to decrease the threat of identity theft among students, some places on campus still use the Social Security number to track students in day-to-day activities.

Bart Stoddard, on-campus housing representative, said that although the university still requires using the Social Security number in some situations, the housing department now uses the new BYU ID numbers for its paperwork.

"It used to be printed on the top of every housing payment coupon," Stoddard said. "Now we print the BYU ID numbers."

Junior Laura Winder is studying audiology and is a student in the David O. McKay School of Education, which frequently uses Social Security numbers.

"We use the Social Security numbers because we're dealing with the state and getting teachers certified," said McKay School representative Megan Fife. "For our departmental purposes we try to use the new ID numbers. But the state requires some students to be fingerprinted and cleared with the FBI."

Other places, like the Counseling and Career Center, use Social Security numbers simply because that is how the database is set up.

"The reason we still ask students for Social Security numbers is because that's what our database uses," said Rena Thayer, receptionist at the Counseling and Career Center.

Winder said she is worried about what might happen in the meantime.

"My dad is a lawyer, and so he seems to be more aware of instances of fraud," Winder said. "And he has been a victim of credit card fraud himself. So yeah, I'm paranoid."

Fife said that not all students are as worried.

"No students have really complained," Fife said. "In fact, some of them are glad we use the Social Security numbers still, because they don't have their new ID memorized yet."

According to the Federal Trade Commission Web site, there were 94,100 registered complaints from victims of identity theft between 1999 and 2001.

Winder said she does not want to be a victim.

"A person's Social Security number was never meant to be a universal identification number," Winder said.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, March 12

- At 1:15 p.m., Toni Keener, Leonardville, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 3:05 p.m., John Donahue II, Fort Riley, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $2,500.
- At 3:40 p.m., Daron Babcock, Oregon, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $750.
- At 7:23 p.m., Kristian Wright, 413 N. 17th, was arrested for forgery. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 8 p.m., Anthony Jackson, 2512 Stag Hill, was arrested for criminal damage to property and criminal trespass. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 11:30 p.m., Patrick Curties, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for theft and criminal use of a financial card. Bond was set at $1,500.

Thursday, March 13

- At 12:05 a.m., Carrie Lund, 3000 Tuttle Creek, No. 581, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $424.27.
- At 12:30 a.m., Ryan Moody, Manhattan, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.
- At 12:55 a.m., Solomon Stanford, 3225 Claflin, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and possession of narcotics. Bond was set at $3,000.
- At 1:10 a.m., Jonas Stoffers, Fort Riley, was arrested for obstruction of the legal process and disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 2:33 a.m., Jenny Hildebrand, 3000 Tuttle Creek, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 3 a.m., Gregory Riley, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for habitual violator. Bond was set at $1,000.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Girl Scout Cookies will be on sale from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the K-State Student Union.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Sumana Cherukuri at 1:30 p.m. today in Waters 329.
- There will be a coffee hour, "Iraq, Another Face," at 4 p.m. today in the International Student Center.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- Civilian enrollment for Fort Riley term 3-2003 classes will begin today. This is a change from the printed brochure.
- Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Contact Lindsey at 770-8103 or lc3339@k-state.edu by Friday to register.
- The KSU/Fort Riley rugby team will play Topeka at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Stadium.
- Arts and Sciences ambassador applications are now available in Eisenhower 116.
- Applications from the 2003 Student Homecoming Committee are now available at OSAS, the K-State Alumni Center or at www.kstate.com/programs/currentstudent/homecoming.asp. Applications are due March 14.

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call

776-5577

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

BIRTHRIGHT of Manhattan

An International Pregnancy Service

Hotline: 1-800-550-4900

539-2555
206 South 5th Street

Little Caesars
CHEDDAR Stuffed Crust Deep Dish Pizza
Large Pizza with one topping $9.99
539-3333

UNLIMITED
Night & Weekend Minutes
FREE Nationwide Long Distance
FREE Voice Mail
FREE Caller ID
25% Off All Face Plates
$29.99
Stop In & Register For A FREE Year's Supply of Coca-Cola
Kansas Wireless
305 Ft. Riley Blvd/Manhattan
785-565-9219 / M-F 10-6, Sat. 10-2
*Limited time offer. Some conditions apply. See store for details.

Chase Manhattan Apartments

is Now Leasing for the 2003-2004 School Year!

Apartments start at $495.00 per month

All Apartments Include:

- Microwave, Dishwasher, Garbage Disposal, Refrigerator and Stove
- 24-Hour Fitness Facility and Laundry
- Care Center
- On-Site Management
- 1, 2, 3 and 4 Bedroom Units

Call Chase Manhattan Apartments

1/2 mile from KSU at the corner of College and Claflin
(785) 776-3663 (24 hours)

1409 Chase Place • Manhattan, KS

Vista DRIVE IN

Fish Special
$1.00 OFF
Fish Sandwich $1.19
Fish Basket $2.89
Fish Combo $2.74
537 - 0100
1911 Tuttle Creek
537 - 0222
Manhattan Town Center

Student Senate passes resolution outlining tuition proposal talks

Legislation focuses on using increased tuition similar to KU's current plan

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Administrators could be looking to implement a five-year tuition revenue plan after a resolution was introduced to legislation at Thursday night's Student Senate meeting.

A resolution to encourage university administration to designate a large portion of the fiscal year 2004 increased tuition revenue was introduced and passed unanimously.

According to legislation, the increase in tuition at K-State for fiscal year 2004 will generate about $10 million in additional revenue.

Under the resolution, members of the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee will meet with administration to discuss and create a five-year tuition increase investment plan, with the first year already started.

"Under the five-year plan, we can voice our opinion so we have say to where additional dollars are going," John O'Hara, Senate chair, said.

O'Hara said the plan will be similar to the University of Kansas' proposal stated in its tuition handbook.

"It's important for us to realize we need to remain competitive, and we need to show administration that KU is doing this," he said.

Student Senate

The following items were discussed at Thursday night's Student Senate meeting:

- A resolution for higher education passed unanimously.
- A resolution to encourage administration to designate a large portion of the fiscal year 2004 increased tuition revenue for university enhancements passed unanimously.
- Approval of 2003 election results passed unanimously.
- A by-laws amendment to Academic Affairs standing committee's duties was held for referral.

O'Hara said that although K-State has a plan, it is too broad and not broken down into more detail.

Governmental Relations Director David McCandless, however, said he thought Senate members should slow down and take a look at the objectives for the process.

"Maybe this legislation is a good thing, but we need to remember that we're not KU and don't have the same external resources and throw money around," he said.

If a plan were implemented, O'Hara said, Senate members would not try to model a plan exactly after KU.

"Our plan is unique to K-State because we are different than KU," he said.

Academic Affairs Chair Seth Bridge said the particular piece of legislation is to develop a plan, and that future action will be taken as the weeks progress.

"We're going to push toward a lot more money going to improve," he said.

"There are going to be visible student-centered enhancements."

Freshman finishes spring training

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Cara Shufelberger can put down the dumbbells and whole-grain cereal bars.

The last fitness consultation is here, and she has something to smile about.

Shufelberger, freshman in secondary education, has spent the past six weeks in the Wellness Resource Center's Spring Break Training Program to gain a healthier lifestyle.

And she has done just that. "I feel like I'm at my ideal condition - now it's just a matter of maintaining it," she said.

The 5-foot-9 freshman has decreased her body-fat percentage - from 17.2 percent to 16.5 percent - and lowered her blood pressure and resting heart rate since beginning the program.

"It's a good feeling," she said. "It's definitely been worth it. I feel like I've reached my goal, and I'm in good shape again."

Fitness consultant Stephanie Caouette, senior in kinesiology, said Shufelberger has done well.

"I've had people that haven't done much and other people who have worked really hard," she said. "She has been one that has put a lot of work into it."

Fitness consultant Tiffany Bullard, junior in nutrition and exercise, agreed.

"She's one of the best clients I have as far as seeing a change in her eating habit," she said. "I've seen a big change in her diet overall, even though she wasn't that bad off to begin with."

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Cara Shufelberger talks with Tiffany Bullard, a fitness consultant at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex, on Thursday during her final week of the Spring Break Training Program.

For Shufelberger, that was the most difficult part.

"The hardest part was eating the right foods," she said. "Hopefully I can keep it up now that I'm used to the food groups and trying to get all those in."

Shufelberger said she won't have a problem continuing her exercise routine - Caouette gave her a three-week workout routine for guidance.

"I'll probably just stick with that plan since I want to stay in good shape," she said. "I can go back whenever I want, just to check in every once in awhile."

"It's not like it's just over today, and I don't have to work out for the rest of the year."

Bullard said she thinks Shufelberger will continue her success.

"She will definitely keep it up," she said. "Over the last six weeks, she's really gotten herself into shape and is exercising more consistently and eating healthier. She's realized how much better she feels and how much better her health is, and that is one of the biggest motivators you can have."

Besides gaining a healthier lifestyle, Shufelberger said she has learned a lot.

"I stayed exactly the same weight, but I'm in a lot better condition now," she said. "I learned it shouldn't be just a diet to cut back on calories. They say, 'It's a lifestyle, not a diet,' and it's true."

Shufelberger said too many people focus on the numbers.

"People need to be in it more for the health benefit than to just lose 50 pounds. They should do it the right way and get in shape," she said. "People need to work on lean body percentage and heart rates and eating healthier rather than only looking at the numbers."

"That's what I thought it was all supposed to be about, but they showed me that it wasn't."

Christians gather to discuss religious views of war

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Campus ministry leaders met with students and faculty Thursday to discuss Christian perspectives on the impending war with Iraq.

The purpose of the discussion was to provide an open forum to discuss the ramifications of the war and how it relates to Christianity, Jayne Thompson, Lutheran Campus ministry leader, said.

Of the dozen participants, some said they came to the forum to explain their thoughts on the war to others, while some said they came to listen and help sort out their own thoughts.

Matt Cobb, Episcopal chaplain, said he is a pacifist and believes any war would go against Christian morals. He said many Americans want to keep their faith and politics separate, but are unable to because the two are interwoven.

"Campus is a microcosm of what's going on in the nation," Cobb said. "Their faith is telling them something, but they can't relate it to politics."

But Troy Walker, freshman in engineering and Army ROTC cadet, said the war is feasible because President Bush has information to warrant an attack.

"It's naive to think the government will tell us everything," Walker said. "Bush is not picking a fight - no one wants to play a game with 250,000 Americans' lives. He's got a serious reason."

Walker said he could go to war and kill enemy soldiers without detaching himself from his faith because he believes there is just cause for the war.

David Jones, Ecumenical campus minister, said the three main Christian viewpoints on war are pacifism, just war and crusades. Most Christians, he said, fall among the pacifists and supporters of the just war theory, which states war is acceptable only under certain conditions. But these two labels are very broad. There are 23 types of pacifists and innumerable ways to decide what dictates just cause, he said.

Jones said coercion is often a necessity in protecting a nation's borders and its citizens, so Christian morals are not always applicable to political situations.

Cobb, however, said the world could advance to a point at which war would not be necessary.

"We're at an impasse where something new can spring forth," he said. "That something new is no war."

Smart returns to family

By Patty Henetz
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SALT LAKE CITY - Elizabeth Smart spent her first night at home since her abduction nine months earlier watching a favorite movie, "The Trouble With Angels," with her family and playing the harp.

No one pressed her to talk about the ordeal, her father said Thursday.

"It's real!" Ed Smart told a crowd outside the family's church Thursday, thrusting his arms high.

"I can't begin to tell you how happy I am, what an absolute miracle and answer to prayers this has been."

Asked to describe the change in his daughter, Smart said, "She's really a young woman."

Ed Smart recounted the hours after Elizabeth was taken from her bedroom in the middle of the night last June, and how hundreds of searchers combed the canyons behind her home, calling her name and looking for any sign she had passed that way.

"She absolutely heard people calling for her," Ed Smart said. "She said that she has spent months right up here in the mountains, through August. I can't believe it. She had no idea. Absolutely no idea."

Religion Directory

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center

MASS SCHEDULE

Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30, 6 p.m.

Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH (DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)

9:00 a.m. Sunday School
10:15 a.m. Worship Service
11:30 a.m. Radio Broadcast 95.3 FM

Neil Engle, Pastor, 776-8790
5th and Humboldt-Courthouse Square

David A. Jones, Campus Minister
ECM 1021 Denison, 539-4281

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan

481 Zeandale Road, (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm.
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufline

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

330 Sunset Avenue

Saturday-Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.

Sunday-Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.

College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.

Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.

Campus Pastor - Eric Wood

Email: campusmn@flinthills.com

(785) 539-2604

Grace Baptist Church

2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child

♦ Sunday ♦

Morning Worship

8:15 & 10:45 a.m.

Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.

Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.

776-0424

Christian Science Society

Sunday 10:30 a.m.

Danforth Chapel

KSU Campus

Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room

Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1

105 N. 4th St.

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

8:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM

College and Young Married Couples

Sunday School 9:30 & 11:00AM

Youth Ministry Opportunities

Senior Pastor: David Thompson

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.

537-7173

www.westviewcommunity.com

Faith Evangelical Free Church

• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00

• Sunday School at 9:15

• College Class at 9:15

Steve Kattli, Senior Pastor

Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor

1921 Barnes Rd

1.6 Miles North of Kimball

776-2086

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH

Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45

1000 Fremont • Manhattan

(785) 539-4079

Calvary Chapel

Come Grow With Us!

Solid Bible Message

Contemporary Worship

Casual Atmosphere

Sunday Service: 11AM

1961 Strong Ave.

539-3667

cofmanhattan@cox.net

Faith Tabernacle United Pentecostal Church

1010 Burke Drive at Eisenhower

Junction City, KS

Sunday: Morning Service 10:00am

Worship Service 11:15am

Sunday: Night Service 6:00pm

Tuesday: Youth Service 7:30pm

Thursday: Bible Study 7:30pm

Senior Pastor D.M. Westberg

Pastor Edwin Young

(785)238-2988

St. Mary Magdalene Orthodox Christian Mission

ECM Bldg., 1021 Denison, 5 South

539-3440

Divine Liturgy:

9:30 AM First Saturdays and

8:00 AM Third Sundays monthly

Typical:

8:00 AM First, Second, Fourth

and Fifth Sundays monthly

Visit the K-State OCF website at www.ksu.edu/orthodox

You are welcome at...

First Assembly of God

Weekly Services

Wednesday Prayer Meeting 7:00 p.m.

Youth Group (grades 7-12)

Royal Rangers (Boys Clubs)

Missionettes (Girls Clubs)

Pastor Bryan Elliott

Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship for College Students 8:00 p.m. - (KSU Little Theatre)

FIRST LUTHERAN

10th Poyntz 537-8532

Worship

Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.

Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

Lutheran Campus Ministry

Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.

at Luther House 1745 Anderson

Sunday Evening Worship

7 p.m., Danforth Chapel

www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca

Pastor Jayne Thompson

(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451

Open to All

Attention Active and Retired University Professors: Building wealth begins with a relationship.

And our Financial Advisors know it.

At our free seminar, we'll discuss how asset allocation may help you:

- Set realistic expectations for your investment plan based on historical market returns.
- Understand various types of investment risk and how they affect performance.
- Although past performance cannot guarantee future results, explore asset allocation strategies and how past performance could affect your portfolio.

Join us at our free seminar "Beyond Asset Allocation."

Monday, March 31

6:00 PM

Harry's

418 Poyntz Avenue

Manhattan

Speaker:

David F. Widner

Account Vice President

UBS PaineWebber

For reservations call

David F. Widner, Account Vice President

at 816-751-5234 or 800-877-8200.

david.widner@ubspw.com

700 West 47th Street, Suite 500, Kansas City, MO 64112

www.ubspainewebber.com

UBS PaineWebber.

UBS PaineWebber is a service mark of UBS AG.
©2003 UBS PaineWebber Inc. All Rights Reserved. Member SIPC.

TO THE POINT Commission elections worth students' time

Candidates for Manhattan's City Commission care about student issues, and it's time for the student body to respond.

A number of students believe that the City Commission does not relate to college life, and issues covered in meetings pertain to an older generation of Manhattan residents.

Commissioners, however, disagree.

This year's candidates have gone out of their way by including student issues in their platforms, such as housing concerns and the future of economic development. Candidates have also stressed the importance of receiving the students' votes.

College students, in turn, should register to vote in the upcoming April 1 elections for city commissioners.

Students spend close to nine months out of the year in Manhattan, contributing to an increase in the city's population when the academic year begins. It is, therefore, important for the student body's voice to be heard.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnet
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnet PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

That 7-UP guy sure does get into some wacky situations.

The only way Layton and Dana's article could say any less is if the words were written backwards.

Blind chicks are easy.

Paul Restivo's parents better check their shed because I think their biggest tool has gone missing.

I think the Classy Cats should now be called the Trashy Cats.

What if your face blew up?

The best part of waking up is whiskey in your cup.

Yes, drinking Natty Light at the Rec will get you kicked out.

Only a nation as desperate to be loved as the United States would fret about, rather than chuckle over, the irony of being lectured about arrogance by the French and about militarism by the Germans.

My roommate's sister is pregnant, but that's a secret. Don't tell anybody.

If you take a hotel phone and put it in a microwave, all the lights light up. But don't leave it in there too long because it will start smoking and stink up the room.

Layton, cut your hair. We want Justin Timberlake back.

Masturbation is self improvement.

Angel Wilson, you ma'am are a racist. Can I finish, can I finish? OK, I'm finished.

That whole Classy Cat thing, that was funny.

Give Paul a break. He's only trying to entertain us with his personal thoughts.

It's funny how conveniently he forgot who I was now that we don't share a class together. Jerk.

If they're changing french fries to freedom fries, what do you think they'll do to french kissing?

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.ksstatecollegian.com for the full version.

SAFE TRAVELS

Avoid mistakes during break

This week, I thought I'd try my hand at being a nagging mother.

Guess what? It's Friday. What's more, it's the Friday before spring break.

I'm sure you all have fun plans, many involving travel, beaches and beer.

But before you jet out of here, read on and make sure you're following these rules for staying safe and healthy in addition to having fun.

Most of these tips should be obvious. That hasn't stopped people, though, from ignoring them in the past.

The bottom line is this - use simple common sense and you should be fine.

Before you leave

Leave contact information for friends and family. Make sure they know where you will be and when.

Prepare a list of emergency contacts for yourself. Numbers that you might not think of include your family doctor and your credit card company.

Also, be aware that most countries do not have a 911 system. Learn the local emergency numbers.

Make sure you are adequately covered by insurance.

Beach safety

Sunburn will ruin any trip. Use plenty of sunscreen, and reapply it often. Try to stay inside during the hottest hours.

Swim in designated areas, preferably with friends and in sight of a lifeguard.

Most beaches have a flag warning system that tells you how strong the currents are. Understand and heed it.

Drinking

Since I'm fairly sure being under age isn't going to stop most of you from tossing a few back, at least keep these thoughts in mind.

Don't get so drunk you can't remember where you are. This isn't Manhattan, and you can't stumble home in the dark like you normally do. Try it in Acapulco - you'll probably get mugged or end up in the drunk tank.

Party in groups. Security comes in numbers and your buddies will help you if you're too tossed to stand, right?

Make sure you can always account for your drink. If you stop watching it for a while, toss it and get a new one. Date-rape drugs are a growing problem everywhere.

Brush up on local laws.

Other states crack down on drinking especially during spring break, and other countries definitely may have unfamiliar customs regarding it.

Also, know that what passes for harmless rowdiness here is a jail offense in some nations. Don't let your fun get too out of hand, and be sure to respect local property.

Hotels

Always lock your doors. Believe it or not, there are unscrupulous spring break predators who make a living off marks like you.

Along the same lines, don't leave anything valuable in your room. I wouldn't even trust hotel safes - just don't bring anything you would have to worry about.

Basically, be suspicious of everyone you don't know. Most strangers don't care about you, and some will want to take advantage of overly-trusting college students.

Many con artists pose as hotel staff or even security to rip off people.

Stay off balconies and railings. Amazingly, falling from these is one of the chief killers of students, sober or intoxicated.

International travel

I shouldn't have to tell you that this is an unsettled time for Americans to be abroad. If you are leaving the country (and, yes, that includes Mexico), stay in touch with the news and be aware of what is happening. Be prepared to leave quickly if necessary.

For more information, go to the State

Department's Web site at <http://travel.state.gov/studentinfo.html>.

Follow these simple and sensible guidelines, and you should have a great, problem-free spring break.

Andrew is a sophomore in print journalism. You can e-mail him at lawson@k-state.edu.

Commemorative products cheapen tragedies

I don't care if the words "commemorative," "memorial," or "tribute" are added to the title of some product being sold, making money off of death is wrong.

I was surfing the Internet today and saw a pop-up add selling commemorative one-dollar coins in "honor" of the astronauts aboard the space shuttle Columbia, and the set could be yours for the low, low price of just $20.

No, the profits weren't going to the families of the astronauts, nor did it speak of donating to the space program. But if you give them $20, you can get $1 in return along with a few bits of paper to mask the fact that it's all a scheme to make money and not to "honor the astronauts" as their ads claim.

Have we lost all sense of dignity and respect? Seven people on their way home to see family and friends died in a fiery explosion - their remains strewn about Texas, and now people are cheapening their deaths by making money off of it.

Think this is the only recent case of this particular dark facet of humanity?

Think again. Wondering just how many people were trying to profit off of national tragedy, I did a search for "commemorative" products on the Web. Guess what I found?

You can buy a post card set of the former World Trade Center for $20 plus shipping and handling. Each, of course, is poignantly marked with the stars and stripes, and one even has a computer-altered image of the Statue of Liberty shedding a tear.

The profits don't go to any cause save the creators bank account. It's disgusting. The worst part of it is that people actually encourage such behavior by buying these travesties. That makes them almost worse than the maker of the offending post cards.

Another wonderful trinket I found was a medallion made of steel from the actual towers. It is, of course, the two towers standing in front of an engraved flag, all majestic and wonderful to collect dust on any good American's shelves. Again, the profits are all pocketed as some of the families of those lost in the tragedy still suffer.

The list just goes on and on. World Trade Center posters for upwards of $20, a laser-cut crystal paper weight marked down from $39.99 to $29.99, an embroidered flag with the two towers stitched across the field of blue, and many, many more. Oh, and don't forget the World Trade Center commemorative coin for only $29.99 (I guess if more people die you can charge more).

It's absolutely wrong to make money off of the misfortunes of others. I won't buy anything patriotic post-national tragedy due to the fact that no matter what fluffy word people add to it - memorial, commemorative, tribute, honor, etc. - it's only a few greedy out to make a dollar off of people's grief and the deaths of others.

Aimee is a sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine you can e-mail her at aln5444@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Melesa Lorette | COLLEGIAN

TO THE EDITOR

Americans have lost the will to fight; nation forgets the attacks of Sept. 11

It has been less than a year and a half since terrorist attacks killed nearly 3,000 U.S. citizens. Have we lost heart so soon? Have we forgotten how it felt to wake up to the sight of the twin towers aflame?

Some liken an attack on Iraq to Pearl Harbor. I find it interesting that someone can make that connection and blatantly forget Sept. 11, 2001. Pearl Harbor caused the United States to enter World War II. Still, no one lost heart and betrayed this great nation.

Looking at America today, we should be ashamed. People already have lost the will to fight, but have found the will to protest our fight. Sadly, most of the people protesting have not been adversely affected by Sept. 11, the war in Afghanistan or a possible war in Iraq. So why would so many abandon their country? Does our generation not understand that freedom requires sacrifice?

Our generation is not really even being asked to sacrifice. There is no rationing and there is no draft.

Those who protest are in danger only from the innocent terrorists they wish to protect.

Also, what argument can be brought forth to say that the United States couldn't get Saddam in 1991 when it took less than 100 hours for our ground forces to control the entirety of Iraq.

The coalition built to remove Iraqi forces from Kuwait was made up of numerous Arab states that would not have stood for Saddam Hussein's removal. Saddam was left in power to better relations with an already tense region.

Our news media is filled with editorials about the injustice of a war with Iraq. Daily, our very own Collegian prints articles in opposition to war. We have our very own military expert, Aimee Noel, who writes "Saddam would never be so foolish as to (attack the U.S.) himself. He would most likely give money or weapons to some other country, political leader or militant group to attack the United States for him. He wouldn't try to hide (weapons). It's just not an intelligent military choice."

That sounds like logic straight from Baghdad propaganda.

Our military is doing its job on the front lines, but our citizens are failing here at home. People have allowed the rhetoric of a mad man and whining of terrorists to sway their opinion. Either they have not searched for the truth or they lack the strength to stand up for what is right.

Jonathan Bjorgaard | SOPHOMORE IN CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE

Speaker to relate experience in Iraq

Coffee-hour event to address misconceptions of nation's culture

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Iraqi food and culture will be part of today's coffee hour at the International Student Center.

Mary Meyer, who traveled to Iraq in 1999 to distribute medical and school supplies, will relate her experiences during the presentation at 4 p.m. today.

During her trip to Iraq, Meyer spent time with civilian families and desert farmers, a side of Iraq most Americans don't get to see, she said.

Americans' views of Iraq are shaped by the mainstream news media, Meyer said, and Saddam Hussein is usually the only image Americans correlate with Iraq. Meyer, though, said the average Iraqi citizen is quite different from this popular image.

"I want to put a face to the Iraqi people," Meyer said.

Meyer's interest in Iraq and its people began before the first Gulf War, she said. Since the war, she has been strongly opposed to the economic sanctions on Iraq, which played a big role in her decision to help deliver supplies.

Meyer also took a second trip to Iraq in June 2002 to participate in a peace walk.

Both trips helped open her eyes to the culture, she said, and taught her that the average Iraqi citizen is respectful, even to Americans.

"They have an extremely hospitable nature," Meyer said. "I asked them about it, about how they could be so nice to us even though we were Americans. They told me that even if we would have come in 1991, at the end of the Gulf War, they would have treated us the same way."

"It's just in their nature."

There are five coffee hour discussions each semester at the International Student Center, said Maria Beebe, program coordinator of the center. Each discussion features a different culture. A native or someone with direct contact with each culture is invited to give a speech, and there is usually time for questions following the presentation.

Refreshments from the respective cultures also are served at each event.

The next coffee hour will feature Indonesian culture. It will be at 4 p.m. March 28 in the International Student Center. Graduate student Lia Boediman will be the guest presenter.

Crops, poultry judging teams win championships

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The crops and poultry judging teams were recognized Thursday afternoon with a dinner as national champions.

Crops judging coach Gerry Posler said this year's crops judging team was the best he's ever coached.

"This team is really special and unique," he said.

Kyle Cott, junior in agronomy; Mark Dilts, junior in milling science; and Jon Kerschen, senior in agronomy, comprised the crops judging team.

Unlike previous teams, all of the members knew each other previously because they were in the same pledge class in FarmHouse fraternity.

"A lot of the teams had high school experience, so the pressure was on us because we had never done this before," Dilts said.

Kerschen said he was relieved when he and his teammates learned they were the national champions because there was pressure to win since K-State's team has won the past three years.

In the competitions, which the team competed in every Saturday, there are three timed-event sections. The first division of the competitions involves identifying crops and seeds. There are 200 samples of 400 laid out for identification and spelling counts, Kerschen said.

The second section involves grading the grain based on the same scale grain elevators use before sending the grain to a miller, Dilts said.

The last part is analyzing the seed where each competitor is given a pile of corn seeds with contaminants, or other seeds. The competitor picks out and identifies the contaminants.

"The margin of error is very slim," Kerschen said.

Dilts said one mistake drops individuals' scores several points, which makes it very competitive.

"And nothing is ever the same when dealing with a biological product," he said. "You have to look for similar characteristics because every seed is different."

Each division of the competition has a maximum of 600

National Champions

Crops judging team

Kyle Cott
Mark Dilts
Jon Kerschen
Coach, Gerry Posler

Poultry judging team

Allen Baldridge
Jacob Burden
Emily Diener
Zac Edgerton
Jeremy Lies
Assistant coach, Carrie Edmonds
Head coach, Scott Beyer excited the team won, especially since it was the second time in a row for K-State to have a national championship team.

He said the competition lasted two days — the first day the team judges the live birds, and the second day it judges products.

"The live bird competition is the thing every team wants to win, and we've won it for the last four years," Beyer said.

Allen Baldridge, senior in animal science and pre-veterinary medicine, said the first day competitors judge live birds on their breeding characteristics.

He said the second day they judge the products such as broiler chickens and eggs. The egg judging divisions involve such activities as holding an egg up to a light, which is called candling, and viewing broken eggs and the exterior of the eggs.

Baldridge was named national champion.

"I was very excited because it's been my goal for a long time to be the national champion, and now I'm done," he said.

points, totaling 1,800 for the entire competition. In a competition this year, Cott received the highest score ever obtained by a K-State crop judging team member with 1,777. Cott also was declared the national champion overall.

"We expected (Kyle to win)," Kerschen said. "Me and Mark were just fighting over who got second place."

Poultry judging coach Scott Beyer said the competition was tremendous on the team because participants were competing against universities with entire departments in poultry science, but he was

Whether you're buying or selling this fall, you can reach more than 20,000 students and 5,000 faculty with the Collegian classifieds each day.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

LONELY?

Go Ahead.
Get a Roommate.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

Congratulations 2003-04 UPC Exec.

President | Matt Pruett
Vice President | Natalie Gervais

Arts

Christine Baker*

Matt Hunt

Entertainment

Leslie Bolz*

Shawn Harding

Films

Lynn Brickley*

Ryan Cloyd

Forums

Samantha Bevan*

Zachary Hauser

Multicultural

Morgan Fisher*

Natalie Rolfe

Special Events

Ashley Holmes*

Lauren Cox

Traditions

Kelly Ernst*

Desiree Andrews

HOTLINE: 532 6572

WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th #4
M 3p-6p
Th 4p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights #7
T & W 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
M,W, & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St #306
Th 10a-12p, F 1p-4p
*Starting at $510

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont #9
W & Th 3:30p-6:30p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 5p-7p
T & Th 12p-3p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont #3
M & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
T & Th 2p-5p
Sun 2p-4p
*Starting at $585

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain #2
M & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 2p-5p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan #305
M, W, & F 1p-4p
Sat 1p-4p
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain #15
T & Th 3:30p-6p
Sat 2p-5p
*Starting at $900

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at
www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

BORDERS. Waldenbooks
BOOKS MUSIC MOVIES CAFE BRENTANO'S

STUDENT SAVINGS DAYS!

Tuesday and Wednesday
March 18-19 Only

SAVE 20%

on almost everything* with your valid high-school or college ID

To find a Borders near you:
1.888.81BOOKS • www.borders.com

To find a Waldenbooks near you:
1.800.322.2000 • www.waldenbooks.com

Online prices may vary.
Offer not valid in Puerto Rico.

* Borders discount on electronics and video games is 10%. Waldenbooks discount on DVDs and electronics is 10%. Offer excludes previous purchases, purchase of gift certificates, gift cards, shipping, non-stock special orders, used or out-of-print titles, newspapers, magazines, comics, and membership fees. Cannot be combined with other coupons or institutional discounts at Borders. Cannot be combined with any other offer or discount, including the Preferred Reader® discount, at Waldenbooks. Offer not valid at Borders.com, Waldenbooks.com, or through Walden-by-Mail®.

Players to box it out

BEN FEHR

In his autobiography released last year, longtime Cleveland shortstop and perennial gold-glover Omar Vizquel blamed a World Series game seven loss to Florida on then-teammate Jose Mesa.

Mesa, now closer with Philadelphia, was a tad miffed by Omar's contentions.

"I will not forgive him," Mesa said. "Even my little boy told me to get him. If I face him 10 more times, I'll hit him 10 more times. I want to kill him."

And hit Vizquel, Mesa did — with a 90 mph fastball in the back last June. Needless to say, the 175 pound Vizquel didn't charge the 300-pound closer.

But the melee that could have ensued after that pitch, likely ending in the death of one of the American League's greatest shortstops, would have been amusing to say the least. It got me thinking.

If we the fans could set up bare-knuckle boxing matches between the sports figures of our choosing, who would we pick?

Here are my top seven.

7. Anna Kournikova vs. Sue Bird — Sure, sure, I know what the guys are thinking. This one would be better as a mud-wrestling match. And I agree.

But the clawing, screaming, and hair pulling, well, that'd just be neat. Winner? Anna. She'd probably pull a tennis racket.

6. Dick Vitale vs. John Madden — I'm pretty sure it's just a matter of time before, in a rant, Vitale will swallow his tongue, have an aneurysm, or both. But until then, it'll be fun to picture Madden yelling out "Boom!" as he jabs his thumb into the hoop junkie's eye socket. Winner? Madden. He won a super bowl. Waxing history's most annoying basketball analyst shouldn't be a problem.

5. Lawrence Taylor vs. Justin Timberlake — I know, I know, I said the sports world. But I'm pretty sure Timberlake competed in one of those MTV softball events, so he qualifies.

I'd give anything to see one of history's most feared pass rushers take apart one of history's most girly men. Winner? LT by pile driver. Cry me a river.

4. Tiger Woods vs. K.J. Choi — One is the best golfer who ever walked against a great golfer who knows Kung Fu. Winner? Choi. Because you know whose head Choi envisions on the receiving end of his practice tornado kicks.

3. Jim Rome vs. Mike Stoops — Tired of Rome's cracks about an alcohol problem, Stoops storms the Fox Sports Net studio and tears the analyst's set to pieces. Winner? Stoops.

Fueled by Tequila shots and recent jeers about coaching for your brother being like kissing your sister, Stoops makes quick work of the one-time player turned full-time mouth.

2. Bill Snyder vs. Tom Osborne — True, the punches thrown in this one probably wouldn't be bone crunching, but there's nothing better than a couple of wily veterans going for that knockout blow. Winner? Snyder. Dr. Tom knows when to bow out of a situation that's about to get ugly.

1. Yao Ming vs. War Emblem — The Far East meets the east side of the stable. Winner? The horse. Interviewers wonder about Emblem's long face after the victory.

Ben is a senior in social sciences. You can e-mail him at fehr7@hotmail.com.

TRAVELING TO A LOSS

Brian Bahr | GETTY IMAGES

Guard Gilson DeJesus challenges Buffalo Blair Wilson during the Big 12 Tournament at the American Airlines Center on Thursday in Dallas.

Wildcats lose to Colorado in final seconds

By Jaime Aron
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — All Pervis Pasco had to do was stand still. Or dribble. Anything but walk.

Pasco intercepted an inbound pass in the final three seconds against Colorado, which should have given K-State an upset victory in the first round of the Big 12 Tournament on Thursday night. Instead, he raised an arm in celebration and started to leave the court when he was whistled for traveling.

Given yet another chance with 1.8 seconds left, the Buffaloes made the Wildcats pay when James Wright banked in a 3-pointer at the buzzer for a remarkable 77-76 victory.

After Frank Richards put K-State up 76-74 with a driving layup through traffic with 3.3 seconds left, all the Wildcats had to do was defend the inbound pass and they would have become the first No. 11 seed to win a game in the seven-year history of the tournament.

K-State (13-17) swatted away the first throw-in, and Colorado (20-10) got the ball back with 2.6 seconds left — although the scoreboard initially showed 1.8.

Pasco caught the second inbound pass and assumed the game was over. But his victory stroll gave the Buffaloes a final chance.

In the confusion, officials watched a replay and bumped the clock from 0.9 seconds to 1.8, although K-State fans were teased when they saw it briefly set at 0.2. That also gave the Buffs, who were out of timeouts, a chance to draw up their third inbound play.

Wright came off a screen, caught the pass with no one near him and fired up his fifth 3-point try of the game. The red light surrounding the backboard flashed while the ball was in the air, indicating time had expired. The ball hit the white box behind the rim and went in, prompting a wild celebration on that end of the court — and stunned silence on the other side.

K-State's Gilson DeJesus pulled his jersey over his head as he walked off slowly. One disgruntled fan heaved a cup of beer onto the court.

Tim Ellis, who had scored a total of 27 points in his previous six games, scored 17 to lead the Wildcats. Richards had 15 and DeJesus had 10 points and eight rebounds.

Close losses were the hallmark of their season, with this one certainly making for a fitting but bittersweet end to their season. K-State finishes with losses in 11 of its last 13. K-State had won four of its last five opening-round games in the conference tournament.

Brian Bahr | GETTY IMAGES

Guard Jarrett Hart drives against Buffalo David Harrison during the Big 12 Tournament on Thursday at the American Airlines Center in Dallas.

8 individuals, team hoping to advance to zones

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The top-ranked K-State Western team advanced four riders to zone competition last weekend in addition to sending its first team to the IHSA National Championship.

This weekend, the second-ranked English gets its turn.

K-State holds its final regular season show at noon Saturday at Fox Creek Stables. The postseason kicks off Sunday with the Region 2 championships at 9 a.m.

The Western team swept two shows in Manhattan on Feb. 8-9, proving the importance of equestrian's home-field advantage.

"It's always an advantage because our girls are familiar with our horses," assistant coach Meghan Cunningham said. "They know how to ride every one of them. To host a home show is a huge advantage."

That advantage is even more important when it comes to the postseason.

"It's less nerve racking," sophomore Allison Woodworth said. "It's a big deal because you know the horses and you know what they're like."

Those are advantages that won't be enjoyed by visiting schools Truman State, Southwest Missouri State, Southern Illinois at Carbondale, Iowa State, Northwestern and Northern Illinois.

The top two teams advance from region to zone competition April 12-13, in Terre Haute, Ind. From zones, the top two teams advance to nationals.

Cunningham said K-State's substantial lead in the region means it is essentially assured a spot at zones. This allows the riders will take to the ring Sunday with attention turned to advancing as individuals.

Eight riders have already qualified for the postseason, with two more expected to do so Saturday. As with the team competition, the top two riders in each division will advance.

"I think most of them will have a really good chance of going on because we've worked really hard this year," senior Maureen Reynolds said. "We'll have quite a few riders going on compared to other schools. Again, being on our own horses will definitely help us out."

Woodworth and sophomore Dehli Burdan are expected to lead the English team. They currently sit as the top two contenders for the region's bid to the Caccione Cup, considered the Heisman Trophy of English equestrian.

"Even if we don't make it as a team, individually we'll have plenty of people there," Woodworth said. "You have to have individual success to have team success."

That has been the norm this year with K-State claiming the High-Point Rider in every show thus far. That has led to team victories in four of the last five shows.

"They're all very strong riders and the majority of riders within the region are K-Staters," Cunningham said. "We're very confident they can continue on."

As their third season as a varsity sport comes to a close, riders can't help but marvel at how far the team has come.

"It is only our third year, but the difference between last year and this year is tremendous," Woodworth said. "It takes a few years for traditions to happen and get things nailed down, but we've already started to do that."

In four years, Reynolds has seen the program rise from infancy to dominance.

"I've seen a lot of change," Reynolds said. "I think definitely with all of the girls working harder, we've done a good job maintaining our team and showing having the team at this school was a good decision to make."

As the English team gets set to compete this weekend in its own backyard, Woodworth said she encourages those sticking around for spring break to cheer on the Wildcats.

"People have a different idea of what we really do and I'd encourage them to come out," she said. "There are a lot of misconceptions. It's a sport that takes time. A lot of people enjoy the jumping. It's exciting to watch whether you like horses or not."

TOURNAMENT UPDATE

The Associated Press

The Big 12 Men's Tournament opened Thursday in Dallas with all seeds in action except the top four. The winners of these games will play in today's quarterfinals.

(9) Iowa State 97, (8) Texas A&M 70

Jake Sullivan scored 12 of his 17 points in Iowa State's opening flurry and the Cyclones led throughout in a 97-70 win over Texas A&M in the Big 12 Tournament Thursday.

Sullivan's third 3-pointer gave Iowa State (16-12) a 29-11 lead midway through the first half. ISU will play Kansas today.

• • •

(5) Missouri 70, (12) Nebraska 61

Missouri center Arthur Johnson had 18 points, 12 rebounds and five blocks as Missouri rallied for a 70-61 victory Thursday in the first round of the Big 12 Tournament.

Rickey Paulding added 19 points as the Tigers (19-9) improved their chances of making the NCAA Tournament for the fourth straight year. Missouri could really impress the selection committee by beating No. 23 Oklahoma State today.

• • •

(7) Texas Tech 68, (10) Baylor 65

Bob Knight already gave back his salary. But Texas Tech still hasn't given up on making the NCAA Tournament.

Andre Emmett rebounded his own miss and made the go-ahead basket with 12.4 seconds left and the Red Raiders beat Baylor 68-65 in the Big 12 Tournament Thursday night.

The Red Raiders will play Texas tonight.

• • •

Women's semifinal game

(1) Texas 62, (4) Colorado 47

Stacy Stephens had 20 points and 15 rebounds, leading No. 5 Texas to a 62-47 win over Colorado on Thursday night in the semifinals of the Big 12 Tournament.

Texas advanced to the conference finals for the first time since 2000, but it has never won the Big 12 Tournament.

The top-seeded Longhorns (24-5) won their 12th straight game and will face Texas Tech, who they swept the season series with.

SPORTS ONLINE

The baseball team played Seton Hall Thursday night at the Homestead Challenge in Florida. Also, the track team will compete in Manhattan this weekend. Read about both teams at www.kstatecollegian.com

BY THE NUMBERS

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL TEXAS TECH 71, K-STATE 65

No. 7/5 K-STATE (28-4, 14-2)
Mahoney 9-14 5-6 24, Wecker 7-17 6-20, Ohlde 5-11 5-7 15, Koehn 3-8 0-6, Domencio 0-0 0-0, Madden 0-0 0-0, Dutmer 0-2 0-0 0.

No. 8/9 TEXAS TECH (26-4, 13-3)
Pierson 8-15 6-9 22, Ritchie 5-10 0-0 14, Perkins 3-13 5-6 11, Grant 5-9 0-0 10, Ayers 2-4 4-8 8, Clark 3-6 0-0 6, Tennant 0-2 0-0 0, Greenwalt 0-0 0-0 0.

K-STATE 34 31 — 65
TEXAS TECH 33 38 — 71

3-point goals — K-State 1-8 (Mahoney 1-2, Dutmer 0-1, Wecker 0-2, Koehn 0-3), Texas Tech 4-11 (Ritchie 4-9, Tennant 0-2).

Fouled out — K-State (Ohlde), Texas Tech (none).

Rebounds — K-State 38 (Mahoney 10), Texas Tech 26 (Pierson 11). Assists —

K-State 10 (Mahoney 5), Texas Tech 16 (Grant 6). Total fouls — K-State 14, Texas Tech 19. Technicals — None. Attendance — 6,656.

• • •

MEN'S BASKETBALL COLORADO 77, K-STATE 76

K-STATE (13-17, 4-12)
Ellis 6-12 2-2 17, Richards 7-13 1-3 15, Siebrandt 4-10 3-4 11, Hart 2-8 3-4 9, Hayden 3-3 2-8 8, Eddy 1-3 1-2 4, Canby 0-0 0-0 0.

COLORADO (20-10, 9-7)
Harrison 8-16 5-9 21, Morandis 3-10 8-9 14, Wright 3-11 2-2 11, Harris 5-5 0-0 10, Wilson 2-9 3-4 9, Pelle 4-7 0-8, Eddy 1-3 1-2 4, McGee 0-1 0-0 0.

K-STATE 40 36 — 76
COLORADO 37 40 — 77

3-point goals — K-State 7-16 (Ellis 3-4, Hart 2-3, DeJesus 2-8, Richards 0-1), Colorado 6-13 (Wright 3-5, Wilson 2-6, Eddy 1-1, Morandis 0-1). Fouled out — K-State (none), Colorado (Harrison). Rebounds — K-State 36 (DeJesus 8), Colorado 44 (Pelle, Harris 11). Assists — K-State 8 (Hart 5), Colorado 10 (Morandis 5). Total fouls — K-State 21, Colorado 21. Technicals — None. Attendance — 12,220.

THE OTHER 'ODD COUPLE'

Courtesy art

Martin, Queen Latifah make diverse comedy only mediocre, unoriginal

Comedian Steve Martin and rapper/actress Queen Latifah make the ultimate odd couple for the 21st century in the new romantic comedy "Bringing Down the House."

"Saturday Night Live" alumnus Martin ("The Jerk," "The Out-of-Towners") and Latifah ("Set It Off," "Chicago") make up for a more-than-average storyline in a tale about a lonely, middle-aged tax attorney who meets an ex-con via the Internet. The lives of the two intertwine in too-often mediocre attempts at humor.

Martin is hilarious, at least most of the time (save a scene near the end of the film when he attempts to fit in at an all-black club). Latifah is beautiful and engaging.

The entire interracial comedy pairing, done in so many buddy cop movies, only works because the chemistry between Martin and Latifah is strong. Other than that, these two accomplished performers are given bad jokes and toilet humor to deal with (when in doubt, break out the laxative gags).

But there are bright spots in this near-train wreck of a movie. Eugene Levy, as always, evokes several hearty laughs as Martin's best friend and business partner. Some of the movie's best moments come when Levy's character tries to seduce Latifah, and he is given a few great one-liners that, sadly, you've probably heard more than a dozen times when watching the trailers. A scene that involves Latifah pummeling Martin's sister-in-law, while contrived, still leave you cheering for her character.

It isn't as if the clichés and overused humor in the movie couldn't be avoided, however. Surely Latifah, as the movie's executive producer, had the power to save it from too many bad jokes.

Still, "Bringing Down the House," like its counterparts, has that magical ability to attract both white and black audiences alike with its players. As long as audiences can laugh at the differences between one another, there will be movies like this one. If only new ways to present such differences could surface, the genre would be even more successful.

"BRINGING DOWN THE HOUSE"

★ ★ ★ ☆ ☆

Movie review by Corbin H. Crable

Omaha band still beautifully miserable after new release

Tim Kasher, a messiah to many post-hardcore emo singers, is fed up with the scene he helped flesh out, and he's screaming about it as loud as ever.

Kasher started Cursive back in 1995, influencing a whole wave of melancholy music to come, including friend and label-mate Conor O'Berst of Bright Eyes. Not only will fans be pleased with the quality of the material Cursive is still releasing, but this album will prove the band is still progressing, and not resting on any formulas.

"The Ugly Organ" is good and just as exhausting to listen to as "Domestica." The down side is that it can be difficult to grasp for those not familiar with the band's work and the explosion of emo-influenced music from the likes of Dashboard Confessional and Saves the Day.

That's because Kasher gets in the face of anyone cashing in on the emo scene, including himself, from the beginning of the album.

He challenges the sincerity of musicians in vocal and guitar screams backed up by a wailing cello in songs like "Art is Hard." Kasher accuses musicians of creating "self-inflicted songs" through "self-inflicted pain," as he sings "Fall in love to fail / to boost your CD sales."

Is that condescension? You better believe it. At the end of the song he rubs salt into the wounds as he spits in the face of his own fans and music: "You gotta fake the pain / you better make it sting / you're gonna break a leg / when you get on stage / and they scream your name / 'Oh, Cursive is so cool!'"

But it's hard not to respect Kasher's position high on that horse. Cursive's fans know he lived through the ordeal he recorded in "Domestica" which was reputedly written about his failed marriage.

Combine that with the respect Kasher's peers give him, and it's tough to criticize him for feeling cheated, especially since he heaps enough criticism on himself in the music.

Of course, in the back half of the album, what do you think Kasher does? He hurls Cursive right back to its bread and butter — miserable songs about relationships.

Most noticeably, "A Gentleman Caller" is about as quintessentially emo as music gets. Kasher details the dirty things lovers do to each other to inflict emotional damage and ends the song with a verse that redeems the value of true love, despite the pain. And how does the song end? With Kasher screaming, "Doo do, doo do, do do do doo, the worst is over!"

You can practically see the tears rolling down his face.

Kasher is a man who loves his pain and anger, and even if he hates himself for loving it, he doesn't mind turning it into a great album. This is about as bleak as indie gets.

In fact, if Kasher ever makes a full album with O'Berst I don't think I'd be pleased unless it ends with both of them slashing their wrists in the studio while crying about the loss and pain of life and love as they drink themselves stupid.

"The Ugly Organ" has an underlying sense of hope if you listen to it front to back, but you do have to wade through an exhausting amount of pain, frustration and anger. Kasher wouldn't have it any other way.

"THE UGLY ORGAN"

★ ★ ★ ★ ☆

Music review by JJ Duncan

'Gods and Generals' disappointing, unable to keep audience entertained

A four-hour mistake. That's how I describe Ronald F. Maxwell's "Gods and Generals."

The film's biggest flaw is that it can't decide what it wants to be. At various times, it tries to be a historical documentary, an action flick and a serious drama.

Despite its colossal length, "Gods and Generals" doesn't have enough time to be three very different types of movies. And that is why it fails to be any of the three.

Maxwell ("Gettysburg," "Tombstone"), who sometimes manages to be touching in his portrayal of Gen. Thomas "Stonewall" Jackson — when he isn't busy acting cold-blooded.

"GODS AND GENERALS"

★ ★ ☆ ☆ ☆

Movie review by Micah Hawkinson

If the film's shortcomings ended with poor acting, then its lush, sweeping, visual effects and compelling soundtrack likely would make up for its dramatic problems.

Unfortunately for moviegoers, however, the bad news doesn't stop with poor acting. Maxwell's script which you can tell he wrote all by himself, and the film's lack of impressive acting are emphasized by an almost eerily bad sense of pacing.

Not only does the first half-hour of the film lack a compelling hook for the viewer (unless, of course, the viewer is enthralled by stale, stilted conversations between bad actors portraying dead, boring, white men), but it actually slows the action down.

I understand the need for exposition, but does it have to be so heavy-handed and obvious? Are all Robert E. Lee look-alikes appallingly incapable of reading their lines convincingly, or is that just a peculiarity of Robert Duval? ("The Godfather," "Apocalypse Now")?

"Gods and Generals" is not all bad. Its historical accuracy (including subtitles identifying military units and their generals) is superb. Its soundtrack and cinematography are equally impressive. Dramatically, however, it falls on its face.

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

CALENDAR

■ Lucky Joan will perform at 9 tonight at Gumby's Pizza and Pub.
■ The opening reception for Aaron Morgan Brown's "Sweet Dilemmas" will be from 5 to 8 tonight at Strecker-Nelson Gallery.

MOVIES

Seth Childs Cinema

All times are p.m.

"Agent Cody Banks"

1:30, 4:30, 7:30, 10
Cody Banks (Frankie Muniz) is a typical teen, except he's a secret agent.
www.agentcodybanksmovie.com

"Bringing Down the House"

1:20, 4:15, 7:20, 9:55
A divorced attorney is smitten with Charlene (Queen Latifah), who turns out to be a prison escapee.
movies.yahoo.com/house

"Chicago"

1, 4, 7, 9:45
Velma Kelly, a vaudevillian, tells the story of chorus girl Roxie Hart's murder of a night-club regular.
www.chicagothemusical.com

"Cradle 2 The Grave"

1:30, 4:15, 7:30
The leader of a crew of highly skilled urban thieves forges an unlikely alliance with a Taiwanese intelligence officer.
cradle2thegrave.warnerbros.com

"Daredevil"

2, 4:30, 7:10, 9:40
Matt Murdock (Ben Affleck) is a masked vigilante stalking the dark streets for justice.
www.daredevilmovie.com

"Frida"

9:50 (Friday, Saturday, Sunday only)
The life of Frida Kahlo (Salma Hayek) is chronicled with Diego Rivera (Alfred Molina) as this couple took the art world by storm.
www.miramax.com/frida

"Gods and Generals"

7:15
An epic portrayal of a nation divided at the start of the Civil War.
www.godsandgenerals.com

"How To Lose A Guy In 10 Days"

1:10, 4:10, 7, 9:50
A Cosmopolitan Magazine columnist has to write a firsthand account of the things women do to drive men away.
www.howtoloseaguyymovie.com

"The Hunted"

1:20, 4:20, 7:20, 9:45
The bond between two men is revealed during the fighting in Kosovo.
www.huntedmovie.com

"Jungle Book 2"

12:30, 2:35, 5
Mowgli's adventures are explored when he finds himself caught between two worlds.
disney.go.com/disneypictures/junglebook2

"Old School"

1:15, 3:15, 5:15, 7:45, 9:45
Three men are disenfranchised with life and try to recapture their college days.
www.oldschool-themovie.com

"The Recruit"

4:30, 10
An inside look on how CIA trainees are recruited and prepared for the spy game.
touchstonepictures.go.com/recruit/

"Shanghai Knights"

1:15, 7:10
After taming the wild west Jackie Chan and Owen Wilson travel to London.
bventertainment.go.com/movies/shanghaiknights

"Tears of the Sun"

1, 4, 7, 9:55
Lt. Waters travels to war-torn Africa to rescue Dr. Lena Kendricks (Monica Bellucci), a U.S. citizen.
www.sonypictures.com/movies/tearsofthesun

"Willard"

1:10, 4:15, 7:05, 9:35
Socially burdened, Willard makes an eerie discovery: he shares a powerful bond between the rats in his basement.
www.willardmovie.com

Officials offer road trip tips

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After watching Tom Green's college buddies pack up and leave without much preparation, everyone knows how a spontaneous road trip can end.

For those road tripping during spring break, there are many things to do to prepare, said 2nd Lt. John Eichkorn, spokesman for the Kansas Highway Patrol.

"Probably the most important thing to do before heading out on a long car trip is to have the vehicle looked over," he said. "Many times this can be done by the drivers themselves, or you can have it done by a mechanic."

Eichkorn said to make sure the tires, lights, wiper blades, belts and pumps are all in good working order.

The washer fluid and gas tank need to be filled, too, he said.

Mike Hudson, freshman in business, said keeping his car's gas tank full could be difficult.

"I'm a little worried about the rise in gas prices because I don't have a lot of money," he said.

Hudson is driving to South Dakota with a friend from Lawrence.

"We're going to visit another friend who moved there over the summer. We just thought about it a few days ago," he said. "It's kind of spontaneous."

Because the trip isn't thoroughly planned, Hudson said he has not thought much about preparing the car or where he will stay.

"I'll check the oil and some other basic stuff," he said.

"We're hopefully going to stay with my friend, but I'm not sure yet."

Eichkorn said an important preparation for a road trip is to make sure the driver is rested.

"Many times students will go to class all day and then head out on a 24-hour trip to Florida," he said.

"If a driver is not well-rested,

Preparing for your road trip:

- Make sure tires are inflated and have good tread.
 - Make sure all lights work.
 - Fill washer fluid and make sure pump works.
 - Make sure wiper blades work.
 - Fill gas tank.
 - Get plenty of rest.
 - Wear seat belt.
 - Don't speed.
 - Don't drink and drive.
- Source: 2nd Lt. John Eichkorn, Kansas Highway Patrol that can be just as dangerous as any other type of impaired driver."

Eichkorn also said not to drink and drive or ride with someone who has been drinking.

"If you've been drinking, wait until a period when you haven't drank before you drive," he said.

Above all, Eichkorn said everyone should wear seat belts because it is a passenger's first line of defense in the event of a crash.

"It doesn't have to be you. It could be the other driver," he said. "You may be doing everything right, but crashes still happen."

Eichkorn said another good idea is to take a first-aid kit and a cell phone with them.

"You can dial star-47 on your cell phone to reach the highway patrol. If you're on the turnpike, dial star-KTA, or star-582. These numbers are available for you to report drunk drivers or if you're out of gas or broke down."

Last but not least, Eichkorn said students should remember to take their driver's licenses and insurance information.

Photo by Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Michael Townsend, sophomore in architecture, enjoys the afternoon weather by shooting hoops outside of Van Zile Hall, where he lives. Highs were in the upper 60s Thursday and should be the same today.

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.

CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

We've got the stories you've got to read.

The 2003 Royal Purple yearbook is available for $34.95 in Kedzie 103. Stop by or call 532-6555.

Lamb For Sale

1214-C Moro • 537-1909

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS

1022-1026 Sunset
$345-385
1212 Thurston
$440-460

1950-1960 Hunting
$440-460
1837 College Heights
$385

537-7701

1109 Hylton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502

International Coffee Hour Series

presents
"IRAQ - ANOTHER FACE"

Come and learn about the beauty of Iraq, taste unique foods from Iraq, meet people from different cultures, drink coffee & tea, all for free!

Don't miss this opportunity:

March 14th, 2003 4-5 p.m.
at the International Student Center

GET A JOB

AND SOME GREAT EXPERIENCE!

WANT A JOB WHEN YOU GRADUATE?

Most employers are looking for people who have experience.

Get ahead of the competition and gain some valuable experience at the same time at the Kansas State Collegian.

We're looking for people who are reliable, show initiative, possess writing skills, and are creative and enthusiastic.

If this description fits you, please apply. Pick up an application and job description in Kedzie 103. The following positions are available.

EXECUTIVE POSITIONS

2004 Royal Purple editor in chief

Summer 2003 Collegian editor in chief

Summer 2003 Collegian advertising manager

Fall 2003 Collegian editor in chief

Fall 2003 Collegian advertising manager

Applications due 5 p.m. April 4

If we receive only single applications for these positions,
the deadline extends automatically to April 11 to encourage applications.

ROYAL PURPLE STAFF POSITIONS

Assistant Editor

CD-ROM Editor • Design Editor

Copy Editor • Staff Writers

Photojournalist • Marketing Director

Section Editors

• Student Life

• Organizations

• Sports

• Academics

• People

Applications due April 11

COLLEGIAN NEWS STAFF POSITIONS

Summer 2003 and Fall 2003

Managing Editors

News Editors • Desk Editors

Reporters • Copy Editors

Designers

Photojournalists

Graphic Journalists

Graphic Artists

Online Journalists

Applications due April 11

ADVERTISING STAFF POSITIONS

Summer 2003 and Fall 2003

Assistant Advertising Managers

Senior Account Representatives

Account Representatives

Applications due April 11

GET THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kansas State University
Campus Phone Book

2004
royal purple

K-State at Fort Riley Class Schedule Term 2-2003

Programs for Military and Civilians

January 6 - March 8, 2003

Courses Offered

Course Title	Course Number	Credit Bldg/Hours Room
--------------	---------------	------------------------

Monday/Wednesday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Acctg for Business Ops. (P) ACCTG 231 3 7656/8
(ACCTG $15 Extra Fee)

Earth In Action GEOL 100 3 7656/16
College Algebra (P) MATH 100 3 7656/11
Behavior Modification (P) PSYCH 510 3 7604/14
Public Speaking I SPCH 106 3 7604/13
Intro./Human Development FSHS 110 3 7656/4

Monday/Wednesday 1900-2200 (7:00-10:00 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stats II (P) STAT 351 3 CAMPUS-206 Dickens

Monday/Wednesday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
The Vietnam War (P) HIST 593 3 7656/11
Police & Society (P) SOCIO 362 3 7656/8
Public Speaking II (P) SPCH 321 3 7604/13

Tuesday/Thursday 1730-1930 (5:30-7:30 PM)
General Chemistry (P) CHM 110 3 7656/12
12 WEEKS (January 6-March 29, 2003)

Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Principles of Microecon. (P) ECON 120 3 7656/16
World Regional Geography GEOG 100 3 7656/11
Gen. Calc./Linear Algebra (P) MATH 205 3 7604/10
US Politics POLSC 325 3 7656/4
Urban Society (P) SOCIO 531 3 7604/13
The Helping Relationship (P) FSHS 301 3 7656/8

Tuesday/Thursday 1800-2100 (6:00-9:00 PM)
Elem. Stat./Social Science (P) STAT 330 3 CAMPUS-206 Dickens

Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Intern. Macroeconomics (P) ECON 510 3 7656/11
Intro. to Literature ENGL 251 3 7656/12
Intro. to Politics POLSC 110 3 7656/4
Industrial Psychology (P) PSYCH 560 3 7604/13
The Family (P) FSHS 550 3 7604/14

Friday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Geology Lab (P) GEOL 103 1 7656/16

Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM) and Saturday 0830-1030 (8:30-10:30 AM)
(All CIS classes have $5 extra fee)

Intro. to Info. Tech. CIS 101 1 215/835
January 6-18, 2003
Spreadsheet Applications (P) CIS 102 1 215/835
January 20-February 1, 2003
Database Applications (P) CIS 103 1 215/835
February 3-February 15, 2003
Word Processing Apps. (P) CIS 104 1 215/835
February 17-March 1, 2003

Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM) and Saturday 0900-1200 (9:00 AM-12:00 PM)
Environ. Geography I GEOG 220 4 7656/16

Saturday 0830-1230 (8:30-12:30 PM)
General Chemistry Lab (P) CHM 111 1 CAMPUS
12 WEEKS (January 6-March 29, 2003)

Please check with our office just prior to classes starting for possible changes in the schedule!!!

Program and Registration Information available at:
www.dce.ksu.edu/fortriley

Enrollment Information

Registration

Military enrollment

- Begon November 25, 2002.
- Military enrollment includes active duty military, retired military, reserve components, family members, DOD/DAC, ROTC Cadets, and veterans.
- Military using Tuition Assistance must be enrolled before the second class meeting.

Civilian enrollment

- Begins January 2, 2003.
- Online, telephone, or fax enrollment available beginning the second day of civilian enrollment.
- A Privacy Act Statement with an original signature must be received for the enrollment to be official.
- To ensure access to post, you must include driver's license number and state on enrollment form.

- Enrollment after the first week of classes requires instructor/department approval.

Cost

$127.00 per undergraduate credit hour

Drop Dates

- 100% refund if you drop in writing before the second class meeting
- 50% refund if you drop in writing on or before January 24, 2003
- Withdrawals after January 24, 2003 will be recorded on your transcript.
- If you stop attending class and do not process a drop form you will receive a grade of "F."
- No drops after February 14, 2003.

Active duty military have to see their military education counselor before dropping a class.

(P) = Course has prerequisite(s).

Special Assistance
Kansas State University is dedicated to making academic courses accessible to all persons. Contact the Registration Office at (785)532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 at least two weeks prior to the beginning of the course if you have a physical or learning disability which would require special accommodations.

For more information call:
532-5566, 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
532-5568 (toll free) or visit our web site:
1-800-432-8222 (toll free)

KSTATE
Kansas State University

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

Friday, March 14, 2003

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE, two, or three-bedroom. Close to campus. August 1. (785)317-7713.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! Studio one, two, three-bedroom available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

AVAILABLE AUGUST two-bedroom apartment across from city park, with washer/dryer in each unit. Water/trash paid. $585/ month. Year lease, no pets. (785)539-0222.

AVAILABLE AUGUST= Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)337-9740 or (785)556-2104.

DUPLEX 900 square feet. Two-bedroom, two bath. All appliances. Close to campus. June leases. Call (785)546-8835.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOR RENT: Five-bedroom Brittain Ridge Townhouse. Two and one-half bath. Washer/ dryer. Available August 1. One year lease. $940/ month. Call (913)909-4078 or (913)254-7657 after 5:30pm. Weekends anytime.

FOUR AND FIVE-BEDROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

NEAR CAMPUS, one-bedroom apartments, 1832 Claffin. One-bedroom unique studio house, 909 Kearney (alley). August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549 or (785)539-5508.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom houses. Close to campus. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

STUDIO ONE, two, three, or four-bedroom. June and August leases. No pets, central heat/ air-conditioning. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

TWO AND three-bedroom units available for August 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663, one-half mile from K-State, at the corner of College and Claffin.

TWO AND THREE-BEDROOM. Close to campus, central air, dishwasher, laundry facilities. June or August lease. (785)539-0866.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

2307 ANDERSON, six-bedroom house that backs up to wooded ravine. This house has two complete kitchens, three baths with two fireplaces and a two car garage. The washer/ dryer is furnished. Central air. No pets. June lease. $300 per bedroom. Call (785)313-4812 to see.

A FOUR-BEDROOM house, nice, near campus. June or August. Call (785)317-7713.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE. Two bath, two kitchens. Living room. Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups. No pets. June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSES close to campus. Five-bedrooms, two bath, large bedrooms, lots of living space. Call Doug 537-1978.

SIX OR Seven-bedrooms house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar, June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM TWO bath two and one-half blocks from campus. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Call Mike (785)632-5611 or (785)632-2148.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE bath house, June lease. $900 per month washer/ dryer/ central air, 900 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. $1100. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses. Central air, washer/ dryer. Also one-bedroom apartments. Attentive landlord, no pets. June and August lease. (785)539-0549.

ONE, TWO, three, four-bedroom houses and apartments. June leases, central air, no pets. Call (785)313-4812.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. $1050/ month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, ES. June or August lease. 1022 Humboldt. 1322 Pierre. Call Doug 537-1978.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, main floor apartment. June lease, $780 per month. Washer/ dryer/ window air-conditioner. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949; also two-bedroom basement apartment, could rent as five-bedroom house.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/ month. 709 Bluemont. Washer/ dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, VERY nice condition. One block west of campus. Available June 1. No pets. $300/ bedroom. (785)537-4766.

TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Four-bedroom, recently remodeled, central heat/ air with washer/ dryer, two bath. Available June 1. No pets. $1200/ month. (785)565-1748.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $540 per month. Washer/ dryer, 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

'96 SKYLINE Mobile Home at Colonial Gardens. Two-bedroom, two bath. Quiet neighborhood. Five minutes to campus. Call (785)587-4169. Leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE OR female roommate wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. Available April 1st. $285.50 plus utilities across from City Park downtown Aggieville. Call Merrick (785)371-1371.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for this summer or fall. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Rent $230/ month plus share of utilities. Located at 911 North 11th Street.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking. Washer/ dryer. Trash paid. Near campus. $300/ month (785)537-1219.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month (785)539-5907.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS
1620 McCain
Starting at $900
Available for June and August
2 full baths
Laundry facilities
Off Street Parking
CLOSE TO CAMPUS
Model Showings
Apt. #15
Tues. & Thurs. 3:30-6
Sat. 2-5
776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)537-8420 or (785)341-5346.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, central air, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. June 1 leases. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

4 Bedroom APARTMENTS
• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center
with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical
JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com
McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

145
Roommate Wanted

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Nice two-bedroom apartment Chase Manhattan. $295 each person. Dishwasher, water and trash paid. Call (785)565-9185 or (620)260-7719.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE. 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus. Available June 1st. (785)539-9582 leave message.

FIVE AND four-bedroom. Washer/ dryer included. Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)537-8420 or (785)341-5346.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, central air, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. June 1 leases. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath. Be the first to live in this brand new home. All appliances including microwave, dishwasher, washer, dryer and garage. No pets. August occupancy. $300 per person. (785)556-6899.

4 Bedroom APARTMENTS
• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center
with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical
JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com
McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

145
Roommate Wanted

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Nice two-bedroom apartment Chase Manhattan. $295 each person. Dishwasher, water and trash paid. Call (785)565-9185 or (620)260-7719.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE. 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus. Available June 1st. (785)539-9582 leave message.

FIVE AND four-bedroom. Washer/ dryer included. Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FOR SALE Mobile Home, 1982 Skyline. Two-bedroom, one bath with appliances. Located in Riley, KS. Call (785)539-3430 for information.

145
Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed one-third bills, $255 rent. Please call Chelsea (785)341-2263.

FEMALE roommate wanted for house close to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details. Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for two-bedroom apartment located two blocks from campus. Please call (785)537-3911 ask for Amanda.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. One block to campus. $250, utilities paid. Available immediately. Pets considered. (785)537-4947.

MALE, 1219 Thurston. Washer/ dryer, central air. $185 plus utilities. Call (785)539-3609.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE March 1. Two-bedroom, one bath, dishwasher, washer, and dryer. Water and trash paid. $570. 122 N. 11th. (785)587-8463.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Nice two-bedroom apartment Chase Manhattan. $295 each person. Dishwasher, water and trash paid. Call (785)565-9185 or (620)260-7719.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six, seven-bedroom houses and apartments available. June and August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE. 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASH-ER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE with full unfinished basement in nice Wamego neighborhood. No pets. $575. (785)556-6899.

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus. Available June 1st. (785)539-9582 leave message.

FIVE AND four-bedroom. Washer/ dryer included. Available June 1. No smokers. No pets. (785)776-3184.

310
Help Wanted

COLBERT HILLS requires snack bar/ beverage cart attendants. Must be able to work flexible hours. $6/ hour plus tips, free golf. Must be able to work April- October. Apply in person at 5200 Colbert Hills Drive, Manhattan.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DANCING POSITIONS AVAILABLE. Mustang Gentlemen's Club always hiring. Make $2000- $5000 a month. Eighteen years plus. Stop by in person to apply. 1330 Grant Ave. Junction City. (785)238-7571 Club or call (785)565-9355 Manhattan for information.

FULL-TIME SUMMER help needed with hog farm. For more information, (785)457-3519.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LAWN TECHNICIAN, part-time/ full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. Responsibilities include moving, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello Suite 101, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains southwest of Denver. General counselors and program specialists (hiking, outdoor skills, crafts, nature, sports, challenge course, dance and drama). Early June- mid-August. MAKE A DIFFERENCE. Competitive salary, room, meals, health insurance, travel allowance and end of season bonus. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or e-mail rhondam@gsmhc.org.

LOCAL LANDSCAPE company hiring full-time and part-time positions for landscape maintenance/ installer, irrigation installer. Experience preferred. (785)776-1930.

MCDONALDS IS looking for self motivated people who are interested in working a third shift (11p.m.- 7 a.m.) during new 24 hour operations. Must be willing to participate in regular drug screening program. Above average pay, premium pay for McDonalds experience, uniforms provided

DEBATE | Candidates encourage student voting for greater involvement

Continued from Page 1

voting for a certain candidate. Wilkie said students benefit by voting as a whole because government is the way for the public's opinions to be expressed through those persons elected.

"No good decisions are made if one person thinks they are the end all, cure all," she said. "Manhattan is a place where students live, work and study. Students must voice their opinions."

Candidates also agreed that students benefit by voting because of issues that affect them, such as adequate student housing in the Manhattan area.

In addition, candidates addressed how they would involve students more in city government.

Caldwell said that because local government is so powerful on a smaller scale, students have many opportunities to become involved through different committees.

"Energy is not ever wasted on local affairs," she said. "You can make an impact on the local level and students can make a very deep impact."

Klimek touched on why it is important for both government officials and students to take an active role in the city.

"It is easy to interact with city officials as opposed to federal government officials," he said. "You can call us or stop by. You see us in the supermarket. We try to reach out to students, but students need to make sure to reach out back."

McCandless also asked candidates whether they would support a seat on the commission being reserved for a student.

Snead responded in a prepared statement and said a reserved seat would reduce the effectiveness of the government. He said students can, and have been, successful commissioners.

"I would encourage any citizen to run," he said.

Jared May, junior in secondary education, attended the forum and said he was interested in how the candidates viewed the issue of adequate student housing. He said he was glad that every candidate addressed the issue as a problem in Manhattan, but was concerned that some of the candidates viewed the majority of landlords as good ones.

"The view that 98 to 99 percent of landlords are good is incorrect in my opinion," he said.

May said the debate helped him shape his views of the candidates and will influence which way he votes in the election.

Christine Baker, Union Program Council forums chair and president of the political science club, said the debate was beneficial to those in attendance.

Baker said six students registered to vote during the debate.

"We wanted to get out the point that students need to vote," Baker said. "Older people think that students just don't care, so we need to show them that we do care."

Collinson said students should vote while they live in the Manhattan area because the community serves as a secondary hometown.

"Voting here is the same as voting in your hometown," Collinson said. "Manhattan is your hometown for nine months and students have a vital importance to what goes on here in Manhattan."

BASKETBALL | Women lose

Continued from Page 1

K-State scored quickly off the tip, and Nicole Ohlde hit two free throws on the Cats' next possession to give K-State a 4-0 lead.

Tech missed its first five shots but drew even with points on two straight trips, as the Cats struggled with ball control from the get-go and missed several early opportunities to widen the gap.

"We're just a ways away at this point from really maximizing our 40-minute opportunity, and we've got to face that," Patterson said.

Tech missed three more shots with the score 4-4, and Mahoney found the right touch in scoring the next five to give K-State a 9-4 lead.

But the Lady Raiders answered with points on five straight trips to take a 25-23 lead on back-to-back 3-pointers by Natalie Ritchie, who left the game in the second half with a concussion.

K-State took the lead again 27-25 when Laurie Koehn's baseline floater off penetration dropped with 3:47 to go, and the Cats took a 34-33 edge to the break.

The Wildcats' defense on Texas Tech's first shot opportunities might have been the difference. The Lady Raiders had no offensive rebounds in the first 20 minutes, and K-State owned a 12-board edge on the glass.

But Tech made an effort to change that during the intermission, and the Raiders muscled up to earn extra looks on their first two second-half possessions to grab a 37-36 advantage at the 18:45 mark.

K-State regained the lead, 38-37, when Wecker knocked down two free throws at the 17:54 mark.

But the Lady Raiders weren't done yet.

The Lady Raiders used a 9-4 run to grab the lead at the 3:32 mark with Ritchie's final 3-pointer.

"It definitely hurts a lot," Mahoney said. "We thought we were ready to play, and for most of the game we were, but when it comes down late in those games, we've got to step up. This loss is going to sting for a while."

FORUM | Commissioner candidates discuss platform issues in debate

Continued from Page 1

has a very good selective process, and when the bids are equal, the city prefers the local bid.

Ed Klimek said he is in favor of local work to local businesses when three factors are considered: if the company will be able to satisfy the bid as noted, if the final product will be acceptable and using the tax payers money responsibly.

Another topic discussed was on neighborhood density and the lack of parking on K-State's campus.

Wilkie said it would be important to have all state holders around campus to be involved in solving the problem and suggested the possibility of parking garages.

Hatesohl offered more curbside parking and enforcing that people parking on the curbside live in the neighborhood as solutions.

Snead stressed the importance of being respectful to the neighborhood and to students by making sure all parties are involved in solving the problem.

"We're not going to ever solve the problem but we need to take some steps to improve it," he said.

Klimek said students need to be brought back to campus. He said that if more students lived closer to campus, it would solve a lot of problems, such as traffic, and it would ease the infringements on family lifestyles.

Klimek said it would be important when solving this situation to work with all state holders, tenants and K-State.

Marolyn Caldwell said she is very excited about the recognition of the problem and the progress so far.

She said the city is doing a good job so far and also suggested parking garages.

Collinson said an alliance with K-State would be crucial in solving this problem by making a large apartment complex close to campus.

"Students who live in neighborhoods don't have the same idea of living as homeowners do and bring a lot more people and cars to the neighborhood," he said.

All candidates said they hope to expand the tax base instead of raising property taxes to help pay for community projects.

When the question of how they plan to increase the family friendliness of Manhattan, all candidates said they already view the city as being family friendly.

Five of the candidates said opening a non-profit recreation complex would make Manhattan more family friendly.

A closing statement was made by all of the candidates describing to the public why voters should vote for them.

Klimek said he feels the city government is going in the right direction by making Manhattan a better place to live and diversifying the economics of the city, which is why he would like to continue being a part of the decision-making process.

Caldwell said Manhattan has brought her to life, and she would like to give back to the city by contributing her experience from living in different cities.

She said there are a lot of problems that need solving and wants to help Manhattan.

Collinson said he felt his strong engineering skills would be a valuable contribution to bring to the city.

Wilkie said she believes the government is by the people and for the people, and she is aware of the tough decisions that would be involved and would make sure to listen to both sides of issues.

Hatesohl said he is well-grounded and has a strong work ethic.

Snead said that being mayor twice and being commissioner eight times has been challenging and rewarding.

"The fire still burns in me to continue the service," he said. "I hope to be able to bring the best long-term interests for the community."

FANS | Spectators prove vital in tournament success, future sites

Continued from Page 1

"A Big D Celebration of Big 12 Basketball," which encompasses a four-block area between the stadiums.

The Heinsohns, along with several thousand other basketball fans, were at Victory Fest on Thursday.

That sort of turnout is just what local shop and restaurant owners are counting on to ease slow economic times.

"It's been real good," said Jim Beer, general manager and partner of Gator's Croc and Roc Bar and Grill. "You don't want to say this, but it's almost too many people, which is a good problem to have."

To accommodate the mob's shared interest in basketball and partying, many of the district's restaurants and bars offered free shuttles to both stadiums.

Happy and comfortable fans could be important when tournament officials consider Dallas for future Big 12 Tournaments.

Officials will take bids and choose another host site only after the events move back to Kansas City in 2005.

"I don't know about the whole city, but certainly the West End area and the Victory Fest is a lot more convenient to the stadium than what they had in Kansas City, where you have to go to the (Country Club) Plaza or Westport or someplace like that," Heinsohn said. "Here, you can basically walk back and forth to it, and it's got a whole lot more entertainment and shopping and restaurants."

NEED A ROOMMATE or are you LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO LIVE?

advertise in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Korbue 532-6555

KISS ME I'm irish

Check out St. Patty's Day specials in the Collegian.

$2 Burger
Beer

$2 St. Patty's draws
GREEN BEER
KEEP THE GLASS!

Open at 6.

LONGHORNS
18 & OVER WELCOME

new toe rings spring clothes ankle bracelets

704 N. Manhattan Ave.
Aggieville

512 Poyntz Ave.
776-4794

All services performed
by supervised students

March Specials

$12
Spa
Pedicure
CRUM'S
Expires 3/31/03

$5
Hair Cut CRUM'S
Expires 3/31/03

$9
French
Pedicure
CRUM'S
Expires 3/31/03

15% off Redken products
CRUM'S
Expires 3/31/03

Tonight $3.00 margaritas

Saturday Open @ 9 am. First 40 People get free green pig T-shirts!

$4.50 Basket of Bacon and Beer

$2.25 Stadium cups

Watch the parade
from the Pig

Apple Station
RESTAURANT & PUB

COMEDY
TONIGHT

CALL 539-4671
FOR RESERVATIONS

11th Street Liquor
Wholesale
LIQUOR STORE

$14.49 Bud Lt. 12 Pk. Bottles

$11.29 NATTY suites

$11.99 Bacardi O³ 12 Pks.

Stop by the Drive Thru on your way out of town for Spring Break!

Monday, March 24, 2003

America At War
Update: Operation Iraqi Freedom

TROOPS INVADE IRAQ

Far right: An Iraqi man cries while holding a little boy in front of a house damaged by a missile during an air strike in Baghdad, late March 22. Fresh air raids shook Baghdad on Sunday as a U.S. armored column pushed more than halfway to the Iraqi capital, part of a ferocious onslaught aimed at ousting President Saddam Hussein.
Goran Tomasevic | REUTERS

Right: U.S. Marines from Task Force Tarawa carry a wounded Marine during a gun battle Sunday in the southern Iraqi city of Nasiriyah. The Marines suffered a number of deaths and casualties.
Joe Raedle | GETTY IMAGES

Tanks from the Household Cavalry Regiment in Scimitar look into southern Iraq at destroyed and burning oil well heads.

Bruce Adams | AFP PHOTO POOL

Allies suffer casualties as forces near Baghdad

By Calvin Woodward
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iraq used ambushes and even fake surrenders to kill and capture U.S. troops Sunday, inflicting the first significant casualties on the allied forces driving toward Baghdad. U.S. war leaders declared the invasion on target despite the bloody setbacks.

Up to nine Marines died and a dozen U.S. soldiers were taken prisoner in surprise engagements with Iraqis at An Nasiriyah, a southern city far from the forward positions of the allied force.

On the third day of the ground war, any expectation that Iraqi defenders would simply fold was gone.

"Clearly they are not a beaten force," said Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "This is going to get a lot harder."

Even so, the U.S.-British coalition fought to within 100 miles of Baghdad and tended to a growing northern front.

And at the end of a day filled with plenty of bad news for allied forces, U.S. officials said troops had made what could be an important discovery: a suspected chemical factory near the city of Najaf. U.S. Central Command said troops were examining several "sites of interest," but that it was premature to call the Najaf facility a chemical

"If they want to take Baghdad, they will have to pay a heavy price."

Sultan Hashim Ahmed IRAQI DEFENSE MINISTER LIEUTENANT GENERAL

weapons factory.

Early Monday, Baghdad was bombarded with what appeared to be its strongest airstrikes since Friday, even as a mosque blared "God is great" and "Thanks be to God," perhaps to boost Iraqis' morale.

Allied soldiers came under attack in a series of ruses Sunday, U.S. officials said, with one group of Iraqis waving the white flag of surrender, then opening up with artillery fire, and another group appearing to welcome coalition troops but then attacking them.

Lt. Gen. John Abizaid of U.S. Central Command said a faked surrender near An Nasiriyah, a crossing point over the Euphrates River northwest of Basra, set off the "sharpest engagement of the war thus far." Up to nine Marines died before the Americans prevailed, he said.

Twelve U.S. soldiers were missing and presumed captured by Iraqis in an ambush on an army supply convoy at An Nasiriyah, Central Command said.

"We, of course, will be much more cautious in the way that we view the battlefield as a result of some of these incidents," Abizaid said.

Arab television showed what it said were four Americans dead in an Iraqi morgue - and at least five other

See ALLIES Page 10

Manhattan residents, students express opinions over Iraq war

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

To escape from the constant TV coverage of bombs over Baghdad and wounded soldiers, people spent Sunday afternoon in Aggieville. Yet the war was still on their minds.

For Michele Wilbur, Hutchinson, Kan. resident, military action in Iraq was justified after the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks.

"Because of Sept. 11, I trust the president in knowing more than we do," Wilbur said. "We all know Saddam Hussein is not normal. I have read information on him and his sons. He is just not normal. I am glad somebody has a backbone in the presidency."

And Michele's mother, Phyllis Wilbur, said hearing the story of a friend who survived the World Trade Center attacks has made her more adamant in her support for the war.

"I can't get Sept. 11 out of my head," she said. "We have to make sure we don't have a repeat performance."

Jamie Wolff, Manhattan resident, said she initially was against the war, but changed her mind with what seemed like U.S. successes. But with recent events, she is once again changing her mind.

"At first it was going quick-er, but it seems like there are obstacles now," she said. "You hear of prisoners of war and kids getting shot in the belly. It's just not what you want to hear."

Jeff Gillan, junior in park management and recreation resources, said the United States taking military action in Iraq is not justified.

"We weren't provoked," he said. "We invaded them on our assumptions."

The U.S. presence in Iraq without a U.N. resolution makes the war even more unjustified, Joanne Grant, Manhattan resident, said.

"We are making everyone mad," Grant said. "We needed their support more than we think. If you take care of this problem, but then you have another."

Ash Kumar, junior in marketing, said the invasion seemed too conveniently timed to be in the best interests of the world, but instead the motivation of the U.S. was self-serving.

"I know Saddam is a bad guy," Kumar said. "I think because it's a failing economy, seems all too convenient."

If Bush's true motivation was to prevent terrorism, Kumar said he would be going after all the other countries that support al-Qaeda.

See RESPONSE Page 10

Mounting tensions

The war with Iraq has been preceded by many conflicts and tensions in the past. Here is a look at the events leading up to the current situation.

July 16, 1979 President Al-Bakr resigns and is succeeded by Vice President Saddam Hussein. Hussein executes 20 rivals within Ba'th Party.

Sept. 22, 1980 Iraq attacks Iranian airbases. Iran responds with attacks on Iraqi military and economic targets.

March 1986 U.N. Secretary General reports Iraq is using nerve agents against Iranian soldiers.

Aug. 20, 1988 Iran-Iraq war ends in stalemate. One million soldiers are killed in eight years.

Aug. 2, 1990 Iraq invades Kuwait. U.N. Security Council Resolution 660 calls for full withdrawal.

Aug. 6, 1990 U.N. Resolution 661 imposes economic sanctions on Iraq.

Jan. 17, 1991 The Gulf War starts with aerial bombing in Operation Desert Storm.

Feb. 24, 1991 Ground operation begins. Liberation occurs Feb. 27.

April 1991 A U.N. Special Commission is established to ensure Iraq is free of weapons of mass destruction.

June 27, 1993 U.S. forces launch a cruise missile attack on Iraqi intelligence headquarters.

May 29, 1994 Saddam Hussein becomes prime minister and president.

Dec. 16-19, 1998 The U.S. and Great Britain launch a bombing campaign to destroy chemical and biological weapons programs.

Dec. 17, 1999 U.N. Resolution 1284 creates a monitoring, verification and inspection commission. The resolution calls for inspectors to spend 60 days doing active inspections. Iraq rejects the resolution.

February 2001 Britain and the U.S. bomb Iraq's air defense network.

Aug. 2, 2002 Iraq invites Chief Weapons Inspector Hans Blix for talks on disarmament issues.

Aug. 19, 2002 U.N. rejects Iraq's proposal, but renews offer for inspectors return based on Resolution 1284.

Sept. 12, 2002 President George Bush challenges the UN to confront Iraq or step aside.

Nov. 8, 2002 U.N. Security Council unanimously adopts Resolution 1441, outlining Iraq's disarmament.

Nov. 13, 2002 Iraq accepts Resolution 1441.

Dec. 7, 2002 Iraq provides inspectors with 12,000-page report of its weapons programs.

Jan. 27, 2003 Hans Blix reports Iraq is giving inspectors access to facilities, but he has been unable to interview Iraqi scientists.

Feb. 5, 2003 Secretary of State Colin Powell presents evidence that Iraq is concealing weapons.

Feb. 27, 2003 Iraq agrees to destroy Al Samoud 2 missiles.

March 16, 2003 Leaders of U.S., Britain, Spain and Portugal meet at the Azores Islands. Bush calls U.N. meeting Monday "a moment of truth."

March 17, 2003 Allies do not submit new U.N. resolution. Bush addresses nation and gives Saddam 48 hours to leave Iraq.

March 19, 2003 U.S. fires cruise missiles at targets believed to be occupied by Hussein. Bush addresses nation saying "we will accept no outcome but victory." Saddam appears on Iraqi television.

March 20, 2003 — Twelve Britons and four Americans are killed in a helicopter crash. One U.S. Marine is killed in combat.

March 21, 2003 — Forces launch bombing campaign over Baghdad. The presidential palace and Republican Guard army camp are hit.

March 22, 2003 — A U.S. soldier throws three grenades into tents at the command center of the 101st Division's 1st Brigade at Camp Pennsylvania injuring 10. A car bomb explodes, killing five journalists.

March 23, 2003 — An Arab satellite station airs footage of American prisoners. U.S. forces surge to 100 miles outside of Baghdad.

Sources: U.S. Department of State, The Associated Press

Weather

Today 68 | 38

Mostly sunny

Tuesday 51 | 30

Partly cloudy

776-5577
DELIVERS

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 "M*A*S*H" star

5 Prom venue

8 Poolroom need

12 1957 movie, "County"

14 Great enthusiasm

15 Floated component

16 Int'l. org.

17 "Explain, please"

18 Heinz Holger, e.g.

20 Monastery

23 Sunlight

24 "Show of Shows"

25 Snood

28 Shade provider

29 Grab

30 Chart

32 Mollify

34 Nature lover's journey

35 Count-out start

36 Sporty chapeau

37 Insist on

40 Encyc. bk.

41 Actor Estrada

42 Skier's stopping maneuver

47 Growlup nts

48 Penance prayer

49 Get the ball rolling

50 Conclu-sion

51 To be, in Toulouse

2 Fond du —, WI

3 Conk out

4 Last member of a relay team

5 Waxed

6 Favorable vote

7 Learn

8 Fame

9 Jail

10 Record-setting Broadway show

11 Entangle-ment

13 Jog

19 Un-adorned

20 Sailor's assent

21 Gaucho's weapon

22 Collide

23 "Loves me (not)" predictor

25 Late '60s sitcom

26 Arab chief

27 Receive

28 Witnessed

31 Favorite

33 Reached the summit

34 "The Fly" imperative

36 Still-life container

37 Farmer's home

38 One of HOMES

39 Isinglass

40 Cancel

43 Tandoori bread

44 Lower-back muscle

45 Bobby of hockey

46 Zee preceptor

Solution time: 24 mins.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22

23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33

34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44

45 46 47 48 49 50 51

Answer 3-14

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-225-5981. $99 per minute, long-distance phone. (18¢ only) A King Features service, NYC.

3-24 CRYPTOQUIP

XI PUN SZJWV YWOBSXK

BS B LUF LUNOQ ZW

BIJWS PUN IJ NHXY

B LUKYWBOW VWBK?

Saturday's Cryptquip: A LADDER MANUFACTURING COMPANY PRESIDENT WAS RECENTLY FORCED TO STEP DOWN.

Today's Cryptquip Clue: W equals E

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Crypt Classics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

3-24 CRYPTOQUIP

XI PUN SZJWV YWOBSXK
BS B LUF LUNOQ ZW
BIJWS PUN IJ NHXY
B LUKYWBOW VWBK?
Saturday's Cryptquip: A LADDER MANUFACTURING COMPANY PRESIDENT WAS RECENTLY FORCED TO STEP DOWN.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: W equals E

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 11 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Crypt Classics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475
The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications
Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian
(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 101, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 101, Manhattan, KS 66506-1167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

Nations express varied views on America's war with Iraq

Responses from around the world varied after the U.S. and Coalition Forces invaded Iraq in hopes of overthrowing Saddam Hussein. Some nations stand opposed to military action based on moral stances and the fear of consequences.

Despite no U.N. approval, Secretary of State Colin Powell said Tuesday that by his count, 30 nations consider themselves coalition members and 15 more have promised support.

UNITED STATES

"Saddam Hussein is losing control of his country," President Bush said Sunday. "It's going to take a while to achieve our objective, but we're on course, we're determined, and we're making good progress."

"We're just in the beginning phases. We're executing a plan. That's going to be positive news for those who suffered a long time under Saddam Hussein."

GREAT BRITAIN

"Back away from this confrontation now and future conflicts will be infinitely worse and more devastating in their effects," Prime Minister Tony Blair said during debates last week when legislators voted to use "all means necessary" for disarmament. "It will determine the way Britain and the world confront the central security threat of the 21st century, the development of the United Nations, the relationship between Europe and the United States, the relations within the European Union, and the way that the United States engages with the rest of the world."

Britain and the world confront the central security threat of the 21st century, the development of the United Nations, the relationship between Europe and the United States, the relations within the European Union, and the way that the United States engages with the rest of the world."

IRAQ

"They will face a bitter defeat, God willing," President Saddam Hussein said on state-run television Thursday. "You will be able to achieve glory and your despicable infidel enemies will be defeated."

"Draw your sword and be not afraid," Saddam said. "Long live jihad and long live Palestine!"

FRANCE

Speaking at the end of a European Union summit, President Jacques Chirac said France would reject any moves that "would legitimize the military intervention and would give the belligerents the powers to administer Iraq. That would justify the war after the event," he said, calling the invasion of Iraq as a tragic moment that would have unforeseen consequences.

TURKEY

The Turkish government rejected

U.S. requests for allowing 62,000 soldiers to use Turkey as a base in return for $15 billion in economic aid. It did, however, give the U.S. use of its airspace.

"One hundred percent of the public is against a war," General Hilmi Ozkok said. "Turkey is not capable of preventing the war on its own. If we don't participate, we will suffer the same harm from war. However, our losses won't ever be compensated, and we won't ever have a say in the aftermath."

UNITED NATIONS

U.N. Secretary-General Kofi Annan proposed Thursday using money from Iraqi oil sales to buy food and medicine for Iraqis and refugees fleeing the U.S.-led war. But he argued that the United States bears "primary responsibility" for humanitarian assistance during and after the military strike.

IRAN

Iran has backed opposition groups to topple Hussein in the past. But Iran had strong political reasons for opposing war. A U.S. victory against Saddam's regime would leave Iran sandwiched between American military forces in Iraq and Afghanistan.

"For Iran, this fulfills a nightmare of encirclement," said Dan Plesch, an analyst at the Royal United Services Institute in London. "Clearly they are extremely wary of a long-term American military presence in Iraq."

JAPAN

"Iraq has continued to ignore the United Nations resolutions and has not acted sincerely. Therefore, I understand and support U.S. action to disarm Iraq," Japanese Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi said as hunger strikers protested in Tokyo.

ROMANIA

Romania has opened its airspace, contributed 278 non-combat nuclear, biological and chemical decontamination specialists.

"It's not about supporting an intervention, as we don't even have the means to do it. It's about meeting certain obligations as allies," President Ion Iliescu said.

ISRAEL

Israelis carried gas masks to work Thursday after the opening U.S. attack on Iraq, while Palestinian children in the Gaza Strip waved pictures of Saddam Hussein and burned American flags.

Abdel Aziz Shaheen, a Palestinian Cabinet minister, said the strike is a "war against all the Arabs and Muslims. It shows the real face of Bush."

—Compiled from The Associated Press

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $3,000.

Thursday, March 20

- At 12:52 a.m., Raymond Bradford, 1203 Baehr, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- At 1:51 a.m., Aaron Galloway, 715 S. 9th, No. 8, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 8:31 a.m., Andre Quinton, Jr., 1020 Yuma, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $2,000.
- At 11:20 a.m., Clovis Small, Dwight, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $300.
- At 3:21 p.m., William Fisher, 701 Allison, No. 11, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $3,000.
- At 4:21 p.m., Anthony Jackson, 2512 Staggs Hill, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond amount was unavailable.
- At 4:43 p.m., Charlene Beyette, Riley, Kan., was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 10:36 p.m., Caleb Zeigler, 1534 College Avenue, No. C8, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.

Friday, March 21

- At 1:40 a.m., Melissa Hall, 122 N. 11th, No. 6, was arrested for worthless check, probation violation and driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $273.07.
- At 2:45 a.m., Darryl Humphrey, 1023 Yuma, No. 2, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 3 a.m., James Flemming, 1201 Kearney, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $114.
- At 3:06 a.m., Paul Seger, 719 Bluemont, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

Tuesday, March 18

- At 11 a.m., Garrett Cease, Salina, Kan., was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 12:02 p.m., Vivian Combs, 709 Dondee, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 4:14 p.m., Bobby Pearson, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $2,250.
- At 5:30 p.m., Julian Hernandez, Holcomb, Kan., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 5:50 p.m., Mark Douglas Jr., 1215 Vattier, was arrested for aggravated battery. Bond was set at $5,000.
- At 8 p.m., Robert Lewis, 1101 Woodland, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 9 p.m., Deborah Lynch, 6228 Robin Lane, No. 68, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.

Wednesday, March 19

- At 12:55 a.m., Glenn Shaffner, 2079 Tecumseh, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.
- At 2:30 a.m., Trent Dickerman, Dodge City, Kan., was arrested for probation violation and failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.
- At 12:14 p.m., Phillip Sanchez, Nevada, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond amount was unavailable.
- At 8:34 p.m., Jacqueline Murrell, 2500 Farm Bureau, No. 283, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
- At 11:44 p.m., Michael Ayon, 701 Colorado,

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Mustafa Ozden at 3 p.m. today in Throckmorton 2024.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Vernon Larson at 3 p.m. today in Bluemont 368.
- There will be an international

- agricultural seminar at 3:30 p.m. today in Waters 106. Bob Zeigler will present "Agricultural Biotechnology for Developing Countries: Real Potential or a Fantasy Panacea?"
- Management Information Systems will meet at 7 tonight in Calvin 211.
- Beta Alpha Psi will meet at 7 tonight in the Big 12 Room.
- The Apostolic Campus Ministry will meet at 7 tonight in Union 203.
- The SGA privilege fee committee meeting will be at 7 tonight in the OSAS conference room.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- InterVarsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 8:30 tonight in the north end of the Union Food Court.

In brief

An 18-wheel semi tractor-trailer cut a corner too short and its back end dropped off into the drainage ditch while turning into Dara's Fast Lane on Kimball Avenue, according to the Riley County Police Department. The accident occurred at about 12:30 p.m.

Sunday. No one was injured. RCPD blocked off traffic between Candlewood and Seth Child and the Manhattan Fire Department was called to the scene while a tow truck pulled the semi out.
—Compiled by Tristan Hinderliter

www.kstatecollegian.com

It's Greek Week. See what the events are happening and how you can attend at www.kstatecollegian.com.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

THE FOUR BIGGEST DIETING MISTAKES

By Rick Tague, M.D., M.P.H.
Board Certified in Medical Weight Management

If you made a New Year's resolution to lose weight but have struggled...or have already failed...you are not alone.

Numerous studies show that over 96% of all self-imposed diets fail to bring about a significant long-term weight loss. Regardless of how much willpower you have, the odds are against you when dieting on your own. And with less than a 4% chance of long-term success, you may ask, "why even try?"

Fortunately, a medical specialty called bariatric medicine has discovered simple, easy-to-follow solutions to the four biggest dieting mistakes. The biggest dieting mistakes are:

1. Using a "cookie cutter" approach to choosing your diet. I call this the "one size fits all" diet. No one gains weight...or loses weight...the same way. In order to be successful your program must be individualized around your personal needs, your likes and dislikes, your medical needs, your family history, your environment, your level of stress and more. Unfortunately, fad diets call for everyone to follow the same diet forever which accounts for such a dismal success rate.
2. No medical monitoring of your weight loss. This may lead to losing muscle and even bone versus losing body fat. Losing muscle causes your metabolism to slow down and contributes greatly to eventual weight regain and makes losing weight "the next time" even more difficult. Weight loss must be medically monitored to insure that what you are eating - how often and at what times during the day - causes you to melt away fat...not muscle.
3. Attempting to fight the "cravings battle" alone. Let's face it, the "cravings" can be an almost impossible "enemy" to fight. The reason is that cravings are hardwired into your body's natural self-protection system.

Brain chemicals causing cravings is one of the ways your body preserves itself from starvation. Of course changing your eating habits by dieting doesn't mean you are starving, but your body doesn't know that. Fortunately, using an individualized high nutrient program, adjusting meal frequency, and other medical techniques including appetite suppressants (when appropriate and only if needed), can eliminate cravings which then makes losing unwanted fat pounds easy.

4. Not recognizing there may be underlying medical reasons causing your weight gain. Obviously fad diets do not address your individual medical history nor do they evaluate and monitor blood and lab findings that can provide quick answers to your past difficulty with losing weight. A physician specializing in medical weight management is able to identify and correct hormonal imbalances and other medical problems that can be the key to a slimmer you.

Losing weight doesn't have to be an uphill battle, and more than likely past failures haven't been your fault. An individual's genetics, metabolism, medical problems, life stresses and food cravings can make weight loss on your own a very difficult undertaking. Make sure any program you undertake avoids these four common mistakes.

Also, seek a medical doctor who specializes in nutrition and medical weight management. Not all physicians have this specialized training. And if you'd like more information about how you can finally achieve weight loss success, please call my office today at 776-4443 to set up a complimentary office visit.

Dr. Tague is board certified in bariatric medicine. Dr. Tague is the medical director of the Center for Nutrition and Preventive Medicine at 1443 Anderson Avenue in Anderson Village.

ANDERSON AWARDS FOR OUTSTANDING SENIORS

Nominate a senior you know who shows outstanding:

- Leadership
- Service
- Academics
- Inspiration

Pick up and return nomination forms at the Alumni Association or at the Office of Student Activities and Services. Form can also be found at <http://www.k-state.com/Programs/AwardPrograms/SeniorAwards.asp>

Nominations are due Monday, April 7th to the Alumni or OSAS office. Sponsored by the K-State Alumni Association. Call Mitzi Frieling at 532-5058 with any questions.

Vista DRIVE IN

Fish Special
$1.00 OFF

- Fish Sandwich $1.19
- Fish Basket $2.89
- Fish Combo $2.74

537 - 0100
1911 Tuttle Creek

537 - 0222
Manhattan Town Center

Economists, businesses wait for effects of war

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Local economists and businesses are unsure of what to expect with the onset of war in Iraq.

There are fewer people in town. Consumers might spend less. Or, the best case scenario, the economy might remain steady.

Wayne Nafziger, university distinguished professor of economics, said many people will base their presumptions of war economies on previous wars.

That, however, won't be a good indicator of what to expect with this war, he said.

He said there was a time, like during the depression, that economists thought war helped to stimulate the economy.

"More recently, though, economists think that war tends to weaken the economy," Nafziger said.

The biggest impact a war might have on the economy, Nafziger said, is that it takes men and women from civilian jobs, which also decreases the number of people contributing to the economy.

"In today's economy you would expect a war would take resources, as well as men and women, from other sectors of the economy and lower their productivity," he said.

"After all, resources can be used in many different ways. If you use them for one purpose, then you forego using them for another."

That is especially true in the Manhattan area, said John Armbrust, vice president of the Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce.

"What I think Manhattan will notice is that with so many troops mobilizing, there are less people to spend money in the area, because there are less people," he said.

One thing that might help offset that effect, however, Armbrust said, is that there are more soldiers living in town.

Those soldiers and their families, he said, are spending money at local merchants and businesses.

One example of this is car dealerships.

Randy Kieffer, used car manager at Briggs Auto Group, said he has noticed a decrease in local business, but a definite increase in business from soldiers from Fort Riley in the past few months.

He said many soldiers have been coming in to buy their families used cars before they are deployed.

"There has been a real sense of urgency," he said.

He expects for that to change soon, though.

"But with so much of the base already gone and others continuing to leave, there's only one way for business to go," Kieffer said.

Other local businesses haven't noticed much of a change in consumer spending, but say it is too early and too difficult to make predictions about the next several months.

"We are obviously watching very closely," said Randy Crow, marketing director at Manhattan Town Center.

Nafziger said Americans have always been under the impression that war is good for a downturn economy. While that might have been true many years ago, that assumption doesn't stand as firm today.

In the past, he said, wars employed people. But because the unemployment rate is already pretty low, he said, that won't be as beneficial in today's economy.

"We are close to full capacity, but in the '30s we had much unemployment," he said.

"So when you are close to being fully employed, you can only expand the war economy at the expense of something else."

While Nafziger doesn't expect the average citizen to notice a significant change because of the war with Iraq, he said there are other indicators that the economy might be suffering.

"Economists are increasingly thinking that the war economy is having an adverse impact on things such as the stock market," Nafziger said.

"At the beginning, people said we could conduct war in Afghanistan and Iraq and it would have little impact on the standard of living, but apparently more economists are questioning that."

Fuel prices may rise due to conflict

By Jamie Barrett
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

War with Iraq is underway and although attacks are taking place far from American soil, many aspects of life in America may be affected.

One of those things is the price of gas.

Fuel prices have been lofty recently due to cold weather, low gasoline inventories and high crude oil prices, according to AAA Kansas.

Now many fear the conflict in the Middle East will increase fuel costs even more.

Prices have eased down slightly from $1.69 for regular unleaded in Manhattan to currently $1.64 at many retailers.

Felecia Zeedyk, manager for Texaco Food Mart, 1131 Blue-mont Ave., said it is hard to predict whether prices will be raised or lowered, but she doesn't imagine prices will decrease significantly anytime soon due to the conflict with Iraq.

"They are going to stay high for awhile," Zeedyk said.

And the high prices are being seen nationwide.

A report from AAA states that the nationwide average is $1.72 per gallon, a record high price for the year. That price is up from 6 cents last month and 41 cents from the same month last year, the report said.

Amanda Millard, public relations coordinator for AAA, said although prices are high — and may rise due to war — it is important for motorists to maintain normal routines.

"One thing AAA wants to assure motorists of is that there shouldn't be an immediate effect on gas prices," she said. "Drivers should remain calm and maintain their normal buying patterns."

Millard said high prices also have to do with problems among oil suppliers other than the Middle East.

American oil suppliers include 11 countries — Algeria, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Qatar, Saudi Ara-

Fuel prices in Manhattan are currently $1.64 at most stations, but prices may fluctuate due to war.

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Average yearly gas prices since 1950

Source: United States Department of Energy, report on howstuffworks.com

How to Save Gasoline and Money

- Use an energy conserving vehicle if you have more than one car. Less fuel efficient vehicles include SUV's or vans.
- Consolidate trips and errands.
- Find a general location where you can take care of most errands.
- Slow down. Traveling fast uses more fuel.
- Avoid quick starts and sudden stops.
- Maintain your vehicle routinely.
- Lighten the cargo load. The heavier a vehicle is the more fuel it uses.
- Purchase less expensive regular unleaded gas if your vehicle does not require premium or mid-grade fuel.
- Shop for gas locally, but don't waste gas driving to distant stations.

Source: AAA Kansas

ROYAL PURPLE yearbook

we've got the stories you've got to read.

...Turning Potential Into Performance...

81st Engineering Open House

Tuesday and Wednesday :: 25 & 26 March
Vote for St. Pat & St. Patrick
Duneland & Benton Hall
8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

Friday :: 28 March
Parade & Opening Ceremonies
1:20 p.m. Union Courtyard
Student & Industrial Displays 5:30 - 9 p.m.

Saturday :: 29 March
Student & Industrial Displays 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Social Hours in Cat's Paws Lounge 5:15 p.m.
Engineering Awards Banquet
Union Ballroom 6:00 p.m.
Banquet tickets available in RA 142
...Turning Potential Into Performance...

Organized by Steel Ring

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

Hair Experts Salon & Spa
Open your eyes to a new experience

1323 Anderson Ave
776-4455

Manhattan
800-540-6895

Aquage: SHAMPOO AND CONDITIONERS
5 oz. Shampoo & conditioners $3.95
4 oz. Color leave-in treatment $3.95

Redken: Come see our new Look!

SPA: Experience a high performance eye treatment that will tighten and smooth fine lines & wrinkles.
Only $25.50 each

Attention
Active and Retired University Professors:
Building wealth begins with a relationship.
And our Financial Advisors know it.

At our free seminar, we'll discuss how asset allocation may help you:

- Set realistic expectations for your investment plan based on historical market returns.
- Understand various types of investment risk and how they affect performance.
- Although past performance cannot guarantee future results, explore asset allocation strategies and how past performance could affect your portfolio.

Join us at our free seminar "Beyond Asset Allocation."

Monday, March 31
6:00 PM

Harry's
418 Poyntz Avenue
Manhattan

Speaker:
David F. Widner
Account Vice President
UBS PaineWebber

For reservations call
David F. Widner, Account Vice President
at 816-751-5234 or 800-877-8200.
david.widner@ubspw.com
700 West 47th Street, Suite 500, Kansas City, MO 64112
www.ubspainewebber.com

UBS PaineWebber.

UBS PaineWebber is a service mark of UBS AG.
©2003 UBS PaineWebber Inc. All Rights Reserved. Member SIPC.

Delivers the latest!

OPEN THE LATEST!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

770-3333

Monday mania $3.99

LARGE CHEESE PIZZA-MONDAY ONLY
CARRY OUT ONLY-TOPPINGS EXTRA

stick it to me

Tuesday

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
DINE IN-CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY-TUESDAY

ROCK N ROLL
wednesday

$6.99 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls / minimum 6
pizza sauce/ranch extra + tax.

DELIVERY
DINE-IN CARRY OUT

Ed Klimek
Manhattan City Commissioner

Still makes sense for Manhattan

Individual Concerns are important to Ed. As your City Commissioner he gives you a voice in city government.

Vote for Ed on April 1st.

www.kansas.net/~smkmg/klimek.htm
Paid for by Manhattanites for Klimek - Jerry Lowenstein, Treasurer

At last, great financial news for all you business majors.

A career-building job in Kansas City with an international financial services firm and outstanding benefits could be yours.

Whether you're pre- or post-grad, State Street, a world leader in financial services, has full- or part-time job openings at its Kansas City office, right now.

Join your future -
today!

STATE STREET.
For Everything You Invest In™

Apply online.

statestreetkc.com

©2003 State Street Corporation EOE/AA

TO THE POINT Hope for peace survives despite failed diplomacy

Millions sat enthralled Wednesday night as the news showed live coverage of America's attack on Iraq.

That first big boom just before dawn broke in the Middle East might have signaled a tremendous military victory. It is still unclear whether or not Iraqi President Saddam Hussein survived the attack. But it also signaled the resounding failure of diplomacy at the hands of President George W. Bush and his war-bent regime.

Only four months after U.N. Resolution 1441 was passed to begin weapons inspections by Hans Blix and his team, the inspections were prematurely abandoned and Bush spearheaded an Iraqi invasion only feebly supported by any allies.

This represents a significant breakdown in U.S. international relations.

U.N. Security Council members France, Russia and Germany have openly criticized the use of military force in Iraq. Their chief argument was that Blix had indicated that Iraq, while still defiant, was slowly cooperating, so it seemed only a matter of time before Iraq was completely disarmed.

Bush's stance that the Iraqi threat was too imminent to wait for inspections to work led to the invasion of Iraq.

In his actions, Bush has judged the United Nations irrelevant in issues of world security in a flex of military strength that seems to say the United States is who really calls the shots. This sort of rally-'round-the-flag arrogance is nothing short of appalling.

Bush should have found a way to solve this situation diplomatically without alienating the international community and creating even more anti-American sentiment.

Despite Bush's failings in leadership, so far this operation is to be commended militarily. Military plans have attempted to end this war quickly by targeting Iraqi leadership such as with the initial strike against what was referred to as a "target of opportunity." Thousands of Iraqi prisoners of war are being taken peacefully and treated appropriately.

Now that the U.S. has drawn its guns, it is also important to remember not to blame the brave soldiers fighting this war.

Place the blame where it belongs — on the bad leadership of a diplomatically inept president.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

America cannot rebuild Iraq alone

The U.S. armed forces have been fighting Saddam Hussein's troops since last week, and the battle probably will continue to rage at least through next month.

In an ironic apparent reversal of roles, Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle said Friday that he was "encouraged that things are going so successfully," while Commander-In-Chief George Bush warned the nation on Saturday that the war could be "longer and more difficult" than many had anticipated it to be.

One thing's for sure: No matter who you ask, the formation of a postwar Iraq will not be easy by anyone's standards. For U.S. leaders, the very mention of a postwar Iraqi state carries along with it a vital question: How involved should the United States be in the formation or reorganization of that state?

This is a sticky issue, since there's a whole heap of contributing decision factors to sort through before answering that question.

For starters, there's the religious and ethnic makeup of Iraq. According to the CIA World Fact Book, the vast majority of the country — 97 percent — is Muslim. The tricky part is that about two-thirds of those Muslims are Shiite, while the other third — including Saddam — is Sunni.

The Sunni and Shiite sects of Islam have differences of opinion in many regards, but the political aspect of their disagreements is what threatens peace in Iraq. After decades of Sunni rule, it might be impossible to reconcile the best interests of the two sects to one another in forming a new government in Iraq.

Ethnic barriers also have the potential to pose a problem.

Iraq's biggest ethnic groups are Arabs (75-80 percent), Kurds (15-20 percent), Turks and Assyrians (These two, combined with other miscellaneous groups, comprise about five percent). The problem is that Kurds tend not to get along well with Arabs and Turks, and vice versa.

Religiously and ethnically, Iraq is most definitely heterogeneous. This will produce a unique challenge for American would-be peacemakers. If the United States tries to implement a completely democratic form of government in a post-Saddam Iraq, severe problems could arise.

To see the havoc that Western ideas of government can wreak on non-Western peoples, we don't have to look any farther than Afghanistan. On March 13, Afghan president Hamid Karzai told CNN he needed $4.5 billion just to keep the fledgling national government afloat in the face of opposition by local warlords, who still control most of the nation.

Say what you will about Saddam, but he at least understood his people's mindset enough to hold almost unquestioned sway over the country between his U.S. supported accession to office in 1979 and his imminent U.S.-supported downfall.

What role should the United States play in the reorganization of Iraq?

It should be a limited one as a single member of an international cast. In the unfolding drama of Operation Iraqi Freedom, we must keep in mind that the nation of Iraq is not like Western nations.

As we embrace the rhetoric of freedom and democracy, we sometimes forget that other cultures often do not share our values and views of the world.

Certainly, the people of Iraq should be able to define themselves as a nation. We must not, however, impose our ideas of government and culture on them.

Who's to say we won't force another Hussein on the Iraqi people, albeit out of good intentions?

Only time will tell whether our intervention in Iraq will have been positive and beneficial for the Iraqi people. We can, however, help to ensure their best interests by making sure we do not force them to do anything they aren't ready to do.

The accountability of being in an international coalition would also aid us to help the Iraqis without seeking our own self-interest.

Iraq is not America. If we ever lose sight of that fact, we might as well set up another dictatorship there.

MICAH HAWKINSON

CHRISTOPHER HARROP

Securing support for postwar plans will prove difficult, yet necessary

No outcome but success? The war in Iraq will soon be in danger of ending just as it began — few nations acting alone. Unless relations with our allies are rebuilt, military protections against foreign intrusion enforced and overall stabilization achieved, the true liberation of Iraq will be only a dream.

The Congressional Budget Office projects a $1 billion to $4 billion monthly price tag for a modest occupying force of 370,000 American troops. The Bush administration is evaluating plans as short as 18 months, but these are unreasonably short projections considering recent peacekeeping missions.

The United States and Britain cannot bear this burden alone, but the prospects of our non-coalition allies aiding us seem dim. Despite the outcry against coalition attacks and the antagonizing of our allies ("freedom fries," anyone?), rebuilding ties with France and other nations is, in the words of Dr. Strangelove, both possible and necessary.

Our coalition allies need to exercise their influence to encourage other nations to join us as partners in an Iraqi occupation (Listen up, Tony Blair).

One situation already threatening to ruin the prospects of peace involves Turkey and the Kurdish population of northern Iraq. Despite warnings against crossing the border into Iraq, the Turks seem adamant on expanding their sphere of control into Kurdish lands under U.S. protections. Turkey must realize that it's actions are outside its best interests as a NATO ally and hostile movements in a theater of war.

Threats from Iraq's neighbors are not limited to Turkey, however. To the east, Iran sees change all around its borders and fears being excluded from talks. A number of Iranian groups will likely attempt to influence any new Iraqi government.

Once the United States and Great Britain have the broad international backing for Iraqi occupation, the hard work begins. The first key to maintaining peace in Iraq will be an immediate influx of humanitarian aid. Once a cease-fire is reached, aid should come in greater quantities and forms than it did during years of destructive U.S. sanctions.

The safeguarding of Iraqi oil reserves by an international group is the first step. As Tony Blair stated in his address to the British people, Iraqi oil should be used to re-establish and expand the U.N. oil-for-food program.

Oil reserves, under protected Iraqi control, will prevent the economy from quickly turning stagnant. The building of infrastructure and civil institutions, begun by non-governmental organizations, will later flourish with stable financial backing.

Even if these goals can be achieved, Iraq still has one major problem to face — the tense relations between its ethnic and religious groups. The Kurds, with their troubles to the north, will be but an afterthought as two sects of Islam — Sunni and Shiite Muslims — vie for political control. The once-powerful Sunnis may be at the mercy of Shiite groups with the backing of Iranian interests. This threat highlights the need for a competent military presence that will work in conjunction with humanitarian efforts and NGOs.

If the US plans to take effective steps toward aiding postwar Iraq, it must go back to our U.N. and NATO allies and work with them again. From there, the Pentagon and State Department must take a step back and realize that successful liberation of Iraq entails a strong military presence and protection of Iraq's most valuable resources from foreign threats.

Micah is a senior in English and history. You can e-mail him at micah@k-state.edu.

Chris is a junior in history and political science. You can e-mail him at chris@k-state.edu.

Illustration by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.k-state.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF			Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

You know what? Bush is such a freaking moron, and I hate him so much that I'm cheering for Iraq. Go, Iraq.

I really like how the media decides to give more attention to burning oil than to burning human bodies. Pretty good.

You know it's not a real war when the news reports on three Americans dying.

What have you done to earn your freedom?

This is a war in which bullets are involved. The worst thing our troops can do is go in with too much confidence. We're already seeing casualties.

It makes me sick to see that America is rejoicing in the bombing of my homeland.

I'm still not convinced that Saddam and terrorism have anything to do with each other.

War is not nice.

I think G.W. needs to stop treating Afghanistan and Iraq like his personal ranches. This isn't Texas, Mr. President.

I think George Orwell said it best: "The quickest way of ending a war is to lose it."

Yeah, the French want nothing to do with getting rid of Saddam, but they want everything to do with rebuilding

Iraq once Saddam is out of the way. Without America, France would serve no purpose.

Did I just hear Rumsfeld say this was a "good war"? How can there be such a thing?

Suddenly Tom Daschle has a son involved in the war. What's that I hear? Is he becoming more supportive of the war efforts?

When I watch the war on MSNBC,

I feel like I'm watching Sports Center.

Man, the last time the French were glad to see the Americans was when we saved their butts in World War II.

I like how G.W. considers patriotism as the state of hating all other nations.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Opinions on nature of Iraq war change, made vocal by public

By Zach Hauser
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While America pushes forward in its mission to rid the world of terrorism and its supporters, in doing so it has adopted a much more aggressive foreign posture.

The idea of a "pre-emptive strike" or a "first strike attack" has been discussed in many past administrations, but has been widely dismissed as a way of approaching foreign policy — until now.

The Clinton administration and countless others functioned under a policy of "containment" and "mutually assured destruction," both of which are remnants of the Cold War era inspired by the red scare and the race for arms.

Bush's hard-line doctrine of preemptive action is causing discussion among politicians and political analysts.

Sen. Diane Feinstein, D-Calif., said in reference to Iraq,

"I think a pre-emptory attack without full debate in Congress would be a terrible mistake."

People around the country are divided on the new "Bush Doctrine," but Dale Herspring, senior political science professor at K-State and member on the Council of Foreign Relations, agrees with Bush's approach.

"Clinton chose to err on the side of multilateralism. Bush is choosing to err on the side of unilateralism. Bush took an oath to defend the U.S., not the U.N.," Herspring said.

World leaders have been questioning the role of the United Nations in international relations. One goal cited in the U.N. constitution is, "[We will] ensure by the acceptance of principles and the institution of methods that armed force shall not be used, save in the common interest."

But when does lengthy discussion move from productive to counterproductive?

"There is no meeting of minds, no point of understanding with such terror. Just a choice: Defeat it or be defeated by it. And defeat it we must," British Prime Minister Tony Blair said.

Nick Flentie, senior in political science, said Bush is taking preemptive actions, which transfers to proactive.

"In the era of the modern presidency, Bush is setting a new standard in being a proactive president," he said.

"He has ushered in a new wave of foreign policy for America."

Diplomacy still is a vital component in American affairs, but Washington has now shown its willingness to agree to disagree where it finds talk cheap and diplomacy futile.

One thing however, is clear to Dale Herspring, his respective colleagues and all who pilot the course of America:

"Up here, the United States comes first."

Do you approve of the military action in Iraq?

Gore

"I agree with it, obviously, because I'm in the military. I think it's important that our country goes over and helps out another country that can't necessarily defend themselves."

Stephanie Gore, Army reservist, Columbus, Ohio

Gove

"I just think that they took a lot of things into consideration. I don't think anybody wants to go to war, so I think that they probably know more about what's going on than we do to make a decision like that."

Jennifer Gove, interior design student at University of Nebraska, Kearney

Maddox

"I think we need to support our troops whether we agree with the action or not. But people that are protesting, that is their right. We do have freedom of speech in America, and it's the soldiers that are fighting that give them that right."

Jesse Maddox, 2000 graduate in psychology

McDaniels

"Yes, I do. I think that Saddam is hiding weapons of mass destruction."

Angelo McDaniels, senior at Manhattan High School

Mullen

"I guess I kind of have mixed feelings, in that I understand where the president is coming from. I support the president in that he's done a good job so far. I think maybe they could have waited a little bit longer, but after having watched Saddam Hussein for so long, I don't really know if there would have been any easier way to go about doing it."

Bryce Mullen, graduate student in music

Hall

"No, because I think it's all stupid to begin with."

Natalia Hall, junior at Manhattan High School

Koon

"It just seems like they went from one extreme of the inspections to the other, and there were so many in between that they could have taken that they just disregarded."

Sarah Koon, freshman in open-option

Intal

"No, I don't approve of it. There's no real reason to go over there."

Gabriel Intal, Fort Riley resident

Dadkah

"There are a lot more things we need to be spending our tax money on instead of invading countries. I think Saddam Hussein wasn't as much of a threat as President Bush was trying to make us all believe. I think a lot of our news is propaganda now, and it's a very corrupt war. I don't think Bush is fighting this war for the reasons he's telling us."

Hamid Dadkah, freshman in print journalism

Hokett

"Yes, I guess I'd say I approve. I think someone has to take a stand, and I think we need to stay behind President Bush. Let's do this and get it over with."

Suzanne Hokett, 1977 graduate in interior design

— Compiled by James Hurla

Fort Riley boosts security, plans for frequent vehicle checks; residents experience anxiety after deployment

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Heightened security at Fort Riley since the war with Iraq began will mean longer lines for residents and visitors to the post.

Christie Vanover, deputy media relations officer, said although there haven't been huge differences in the process people go through to gain access onto the fort, people may experience longer delays getting through the gates.

She said soldiers will continue with the random vehicle checks that were in place before the start of the war but may be checking more frequently now.

Vanover also said people might notice soldiers carrying weapons some days and not other days. She said this is to vary the security levels, so there is no set routine in the security system.

While there are other changes in the security at Fort Riley, Vanover said she couldn't discuss specific details.

"We don't want to show our hand," she said.

Visitors still can access the fort with proper documentation.

"People are still welcome to come onto the fort, with the appropriate items — a driver's license, car registration and roof of insurance," Vanover said.

The wives of soldiers who are deployed or set to deploy soon said they often fear for their personal safety in addition to the safety of the fort.

Connie Joubert, whose husband is stationed at Fort Riley, said she has heard other women talking about feeling unprotected.

"They're saying 'What are we left with? Everyone is leaving, and we feel like we're not protected,'" Joubert said. "It's scary."

Joubert said one group she's involved with on post sponsored a self-defense class for women because so many men were being deployed. Vanover said 2,200 of the 10,500 soldiers at Fort Riley have been deployed and another 4,500 have received orders to be deployed.

But Vanover said she thinks the morale at Fort Riley has been higher since the United States declared war.

"People seem to be more optimistic that there's an end in sight," she said. "I've talked to family members of men deployed — a few in tears — and they are nervous, anxious and proud. They have a sense of closure."

Help for families:

Family Readiness Center, Building 7246

■ Designed to help prepare families for separation from their soldiers.

■ For more information, call (785) 239-9435 or e-mail site2665@riley.army.mil

■ The center also has a toll free number available 24 hours a day, seven days a week at 1(888)541-4027

Vanover said it's not only family members who feel that way.

"I've been speaking to some soldiers and for awhile, before we declared war, they were left with an unknown feeling. Now it's started and they know their mission, they're trained to do it and they're ready," Vanover said. "You're always more confident when you know what the next step is going to be."

Specialist Angelo Joyner and his wife Denise agreed.

"There's a sense of relief rather than being up in the air — anticipating what's going to happen," Denise said.

Angelo's unit is on standby to be deployed. He and Denise said the main thing they are doing to prepare themselves for deployment is to spend as much time as possible as a family.

"There will be no 'we wish we wouldn't've done that' feeling," Denise said.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

Hair Experts
Salon & Spa
776-4455/800-549-6995
1323 Anderson • Manhattan

Experience a high performance eye treatment that will tighten and smooth fine lines & wrinkles. Only $25.50 each. Recommended as a pre or post surgical eye lift treatment.

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption.

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Little Caesars

MONDAY MADNESS
1 LARGE 14" PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING
$4.99

No Coupon Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2001 L.C.S., Inc.

539-3333

Tao Massage Therapy

$10 off first appointment!

RATES	Regular	Senior & KSU Students
15 Min	$15	$10
30 Min	$25	$20
1 Hr	$45	$40
1 1/2 Hrs	$67	$60

For your wellbeing

- Deep Tissue
- Swedish Massage
- Sports Massage
- On-site Chair Massage

Call for your appointment
785-341-9928

Cinnamon Street BAKERY

Celebrating Our GRAND OPENING!

LOCATED IN THE COFFEE/SWEET SHOP
1ST FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION

Kappa Omicron Nu would like to congratulate our new spring initiates

Ramona Arnold
Rochelle Baum
Lisa Berland
Shanna Bigler
Kelly Blevins
Amy Bole
Erin Caughron
Cassie Cillessen
Jenny Curoe
Ashley Damas
DeAnna Darting
Carolyn Denney
Jenna Doty
Cassie Ernzen
Kelley Gaunt
Jennifer Latta
Erin Leonard
Mary Martin
Michelle McFaddin
Megan McGreevy
Marisa Nigro
Angela Noll
Stephine Pawlish
Elizabeth Plummer
Amy Schultz
Amber Weaver
Laiya Wells

SNL comedian win DARRELL HAMMOND tickets

To be eligible to win you and one other person must attend UPC's meeting tomorrow evening at 5:00p.m. in Union Station. Pizza and breadsticks will be provided. If you would like more information, please call 532-6571.

upc LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.

HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

NCAA Tournament

THE FIRST STEPS

Left: Megan Mahoney battles for a rebound against Harvard's Hana Peljto during the second half of K-State's 79-69 victory over the Crimson on Sunday. The Wildcats will face Notre Dame on Tuesday in the second round of the NCAA tournament.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

Below: K-State's Kendra Wecker and Megan Mahoney reach for the rebound against Harvard's Hana Peljto during the second half of K-State's 79-69 win Sunday at Bramlage Coliseum. Kendra Wecker was the leading scorer for K-State.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Cats start Dance with win over Harvard U.

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

BY THE NUMBERS

NCAA TOURNAMENT
K-STATE 79, HARVARD 69

K-STATE (29-4)
Wecker 8-15 3-4 21, Ohlde 8-9 4-6 20, Koehn 4-14
5-6 17, Mahoney 2-6 4-4 9, Domenico 1-5 1-2 4,
Dutmer 2-4 0-0 4, Madden 1-2 0-0 2, McFarland 1-1 0-0 2.

HARVARD (22-5)
Cserny 9-15 4-7 25, Peljto 4-15 6-6 15, Moore 5-13
0-0 14, Ides 3-4 0-0 8, Tubridy 3-9 0-0 7.

K-STATE 43 36 — 79
HARVARD 30 39 — 69

3-point goals — K-State 8-28 (Koehn 4-13,
Wecker 2-5, Mahoney 1-3, Domenico 1-5, Dutmer
0-2), Harvard 11-31 (Moore 4-9, Cserny 3-5, Ides 2-3, Peljto 1-2, Tubridy 1-6, Dunham 0-1, Bell 0-5).
Fouled out — K-State (None), Harvard (Cserny, Tubridy). Rebounds — K-State 39 (Wecker 9),
Harvard 32 (Tubridy, Peljto 8). Assists — K-State 20 (Mahoney 6), Harvard 16 (3 tied with 3). Total fouls — K-State 10, Harvard 20.
Technical — None. Attendance — 10,732.

learning to play in the NCAA Tournament.

"Any time you get to the tournament, every game you play is going to be extremely tough," she said.

"It's just the time to come out and compete as hard as we can."

Notre Dame 59, Arizona 47

No. 9 seed Texas Christian's 50-47 win over No. 8 Michigan State marked the first upset of the NCAA Tournament.

But when the final buzzer sounded in Sunday's 6 p.m. contest between No. 6 Arizona and No. 11 Notre Dame, the Irish (20-10) led 59-47, and there were two surprises marring the lines of the bracket.

Both teams endured abysmal first halves as far as shooting was concerned. The Wildcats (22-9) turned in an icy 22.6 percent but were trumped by the Irish's 19.4 percent effort.

Notre Dame got things corrected in the second half and stormed out of the locker room to shoot almost 42 percent. Arizona, on the other hand, continued to struggle from the field and managed just 24 percent in the second frame.

Irish senior Alicia Ratay, a member of Notre Dame's 2001 national championship team, went 3-for-3 from 3-point range in the second half and finished with a game-high 20 points.

Notre Dame will face K-State at 8:27 p.m. Tuesday.

The Harvard Crimson stepped onto the Bramlage Coliseum floor Sunday representing an institution at the forefront of American higher education.

And that's good, because Laurie Koehn's long 3-pointer to open scoring let Harvard know the Wildcats (29-4) were out to teach the Crimson (22-5) a lesson early in the Cats' 79-69 win.

Koehn's basket with just 16 seconds gone was followed by a Nicole Ohlde layup, and Kendra Wecker added another 3-ball shortly thereafter.

Koehn's second 3-pointer of the evening came with 16 minutes left to play. The score was again followed by an Ohlde basket, and Megan Mahoney's long-range shot two minutes later made K-State's advantage 16-11.

Koehn tacked on yet another 3-pointer with 11:52 to go, and Wecker's jumper on the ensuing possession made the count 21-11 to give K-State its first double-digit lead of the night.

Coach Deb Patterson took pride in her team's ability to score in the first half.

"It was really critical that we continued to score the ball because that's a very hard team to contain," Patterson said.

K-State shot a blistering 55.2 percent from the field and 35.3 percent from beyond the arc.

Part of the Wildcats' first-half scoring binge came by way of Ohlde, the Big 12 Player of the Year.

The junior, who moved within 22 points of the all-time K-State scoring record Sunday, led the field with 15 first-half points, and the Cats took a 43-30 lead into halftime.

But the Crimson wouldn't say die.

The Wildcats would push the lead to as many as 19 in the second half, but Harvard battled back on the strength of Reka Cserny's 13 second-half points.

Kate Ides' back-to-back 3-pointers with under four minutes to play brought the Crimson to within 10, but K-State made its free throws down the stretch to put the Crimson away.

Wecker said K-State was smart with the ball at the end.

"We stayed composed during the last few minutes of the game," she said.

Ohlde said witnessing the Crimson effort was just a part of Heightened security meets fans at Bramlage Coliseum

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Bramlage Coliseum looked much like it had for any other women's basketball home game Sunday night.

Plenty of purple filled the arena for the Cats' first-round NCAA Tournament contest against Harvard, and a few anxious fans even trickled in early to catch part of the Arizona-Notre Dame game that preceded K-State's win.

But behind the scenes, a different picture was painted.

Due to a heightened sense of security because of the war in Iraq, a beefed-up police force was busy combing the complex for anything out of the ordinary, while event personnel checked bags, purses and coats to ensure the safety of everyone in attendance.

"We're in a heightened alert state," K-State Police Sgt. Don Stubbings said, "so that's going to bring with it a heightened awareness of our surroundings."

The effort is part of the athletics department's plan to make certain Bramlage remains secure during the first and second rounds of the tournament.

"What our fans will notice is a more thorough inspection of bags and purses that they bring into the arena," said Casey Scott, K-State Associate Athletics Director and Tournament Manager. "There will be more diligence paid to that than in the regular season. We might ask folks to open pockets or allow us to inspect a coat or look under a heavy garment if we need to."

While K-State Police normally staffs between two and five officers for regular season women's games, eight uniformed officers were on hand for Sunday's games, Stubbings said.

"You don't want to get complacent," he said. "With the way the world is today, I think everybody is a lot more aware of their surroundings, and they're definitely looking for things that don't belong or are out of the ordinary."

That includes the Bramlage security team, which conducted its normal search of the facility — sweeps of the roof, parking lot, every room, heating and air-conditioning duct and trash can on the premises — before anyone entered the arena.

"It's as tight as it's ever been here," Stubbings said.

When it comes to his security, St. Mary's resident and K-State fan Tom Turner wouldn't have it any other way.

"I think it's a very good idea right now," Turner said, "especially with what's going on."

Players, media and concessions personnel are all required to show identification before entering the facility, as well.

And while some might think the increased measures might be a bit much, Coach Deb Patterson is in agreement with the new policies.

"It puts in perspective that this little thing that we're doing right here, although it seems like the end of the world at times, is really just a very small part of who we are," Patterson said.

"There are incredibly more significant things going on in the lives of people all over the world and our nation. I think it lends a little greater perspective to the overall picture of the tournament."

K-State looks for effective pitching after break series meltdown

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When K-State baseball left for a spring break trip to Florida on March 3, its pitching staff was suspect.

The Wildcats left for Florida at 6-5 on the season and fresh off of three straight losses to Arkansas. In those three contests, K-State pitchers surrendered 34 runs.

www.kstatecollegian.com

Read spring break coverage of K-State's tennis and golf teams online.

When the Wildcats returned from Florida, the questions surrounding the K-State hurlers still remained.

K-State took games from Seton Hall, Rider, Florida International, and St. Peters in the sunshine state but dropped contests to Seton Hall, Florida Atlantic, and Stony Brook.

In the three losses, Wildcat pitching gave up 27 runs.

A three-game conference-opening series at No. 15 Nebraska awaited the Wildcats and their pitching woes when they returned to the heartland.

Coach Mike Clark said his is a pitching staff with fixable problems.

"The concern that we had coming from Florida was our pitching staff," he said.

"We're going to be fine. It's just going to take some time to get everybody in their role."

"We're fighting through a couple of injuries right now and it's just one of those things where we're just not very deep."

Nebraska wasted no time in exploiting that lack of depth in the series opener at Hawks Field at Haymarket Park on Friday.

The Cornhuskers ran roughshod over the Wildcats in the opener, scoring 12 runs on 17 hits to K-State's three runs on six hits.

Jim Ripley (2-1) took the loss for K-State. The junior went 3 2/3 innings, gave up six runs on eight hits, walked four, and struck out four.

Clark said Ripley's effort isn't what K-State is looking for out of its starters.

"We need our starting pitchers to get us deeper in the ball game than they're getting us right now," Clark said. "Once we get that taken care of, we'll be in pretty good shape. Offensively, we're doing a pretty nice job."

Aaron Marsden (4-0) picked up the win for the

See PITCHING Page 10

OSCARS OVERSHADOWED

Academy awards toned down due to conflict in Iraq

By David Germain
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Demonstrators on both sides of the war issue gathered near the Kodak Theatre, site of the Oscars, on Sunday.

Anti-war protesters held signs such as "Bush Betrays USA," "Bush: Dumb and Dangerous" and "Oscar for Peace." Half a block from the area where stars arrived, supporters of U.S. troops in Iraq chanted "USA, USA," and held a banner reading "God Bless America."

Planners scrapped the glitzy red-carpet arrival festivities. And some celebrities opposed to the war wore peace pins. A few, Susan Sarandon and Tim Robbins among them, showed up in fuel-efficient gasoline-electric hybrid vehicles instead of limousines as a statement against U.S. dependence on overseas oil.

"Well, I'm glad they cut back on the glitz," host Steve Martin quipped at the show's start. "You probably noticed there was no fancy red carpet tonight. That'll send them a message."

After a few initial references to the war and its effects on the Oscars, Martin's opening monologue stuck to mocking nominees, other celebrities and Hollywood at large.

A few stars and filmmakers backed out of the 75th annual Oscars, either in protest of the war or because they felt uncomfortable making merry when people were dying in Iraq.

Backstage, televisions normally tuned to awards pre-show festivities largely carried news coverage of the war until shortly before the Oscars began.

Tightened security included a National Guard mobile lab to test suspicious substances and police sharpshooters stationed at a building across the street from the Oscars.

Frank Pierson, president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences, said it was especially important to carry on with a cultural event such as the Oscars at a time when American values were being questioned around the world.

By the show's halfway mark, ABC News twice offered a brief war update, then switched back to the Oscars.

"Chicago" led the Academy Awards with six trophies, including best picture, at a ceremony that allowed Hollywood to exalt itself while muting the Oscar pageantry because of the U.S.-led war on Iraq.

World events sparked several emotional highlights, including Adrien Brody's tearful speech after winning best actor for "The Pianist" and an attack on President Bush by filmmaker Michael Moore, winner of the best-documentary Oscar for "Bowling for Columbine."

Moore, a harsh critic of the Bush administration, received a standing ovation. He invited his fellow documentary nominees on stage, saying they were there in "solidarity with me, because we like non-fiction, and we are living in fictitious times. ... We live in a time where we have a man who's sending us to war for fictitious reasons.

Illustrations by Stefanie Shank | COLLEGIAN

"We are against this war, Mr. Bush. Shame on you, Mr. Bush. Shame on you," Moore said, amid a mix of boos and applause from the crowd.

Brody played the title character in "The Pianist," based on the real-life story of musician Wladyslaw Szpilman, a Polish Jew who lived through World War II by hiding from the Nazis in the Warsaw ghetto. "The Pianist" was directed by Roman Polanski, a Holocaust survivor himself.

"My experience making this film made me very aware of the sadness and the dehumanization of people in times of war, and the repercussions of war. And whether you believe in God or Allah, may he watch over you, and let's pray for a peaceful and swift resolution," Brody said, fighting back tears and drawing a standing ovation.

Nicole Kidman was named best actress for portraying novelist Virginia Woolf in the somber drama "The Hours."

"Why do you come to the Academy Awards when the world is in such turmoil," Kidman said. "Because art is important. And because you believe in what you do and you want to honor that, and it is a tradition that needs to be upheld."

Chris Cooper, a veteran character actor whose credits include "American Beauty" and "Lone Star," played a scraggly haired, toothless horticultural poacher on a mission to preserve rare orchids in the film loosely based on author Susan Orlean's "The Orchid Thief."

"In light of all the troubles in this world, I wish us all peace," Cooper said as he received his award.

'Chicago' wins 6 Oscars; Brody, Kidman win lead acting awards

The razzle-dazzle musical satire "Chicago" won the Academy Award as best picture Sunday, while top acting honors struck a more somber note: Adrien Brody as a Holocaust survivor in "The Pianist" and Nicole Kidman as suicidal novelist Virginia Woolf in "The Hours."

"Chicago" became the first musical since 1968's "Oliver!" to win the top Oscar and also took home the most trophies, six. Its other awards were supporting actress for Catherine Zeta-Jones and four technical honors including costume design and art direction.

Here is a complete list of winners at the 75th annual Academy Awards, presented Sunday night at the Kodak Theatre in Los Angeles.

Picture: "Chicago."
Director: Roman Polanski, "The Pianist."
Actor: Adrien Brody, "The Pianist."
Actress: Nicole Kidman, "The Hours."

Supporting Actor: Chris Cooper, "Adaptation."
Supporting Actress: Catherine Zeta-Jones, "Chicago."

Adapted Screenplay: "The Pianist," Ronald Harwood.

Animated Feature: "Spirited Away."

Animated Short Film: "The ChubbChudds!"

Art Direction: "Chicago."

Cinematography: "Road to Perdition."

Costume: "Chicago."

Documentary Feature: "Bowling for Columbine."

Documentary (short subject): "Twin Towers."

Film Editing: "Chicago."

Foreign Language Film: "Nowhere in Africa," Germany.

Live Action Short Film: "This Charming Man (Der Er En Yndig Mand)."

Makeup: "Frida."

Original Score: "Frida."

Original Screenplay: "Talk to Her," Pedro Almodovar.

Original Song: "Lose Yourself" from "8 Mile," Eminem, Jeff Bass and Luis Resto.

Sound: "Chicago."

Sound Editing: "The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers."

Visual Effects: "The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers."

Honorary Award: Peter O'Toole.

Academy Award of Merit: Alias/Wavefront for its Maya computer imaging software.

Academy Award of Merit: The Arnold & Richter Cine Technik and Panavision companies for their advanced motion picture camera systems.

* Oscar winners previously announced this year

CALENDAR

Music

■ K-State Jazz Combos will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Hollywood Black Film Festival postponed because of war

The Hollywood Black Film Festival, scheduled to start Tuesday, will be postponed for more than two months because of the U.S.-led war in Iraq.

"This is a critical moment for our country and our soldiers, and at this time the nation's focus should appropriately be on the escalating conflict in the Middle East," Tanya Kersey-Henley, the festival's founder and director said.

The decision was made in part, she said, because organizers feared the war would "prohibit or discourage" filmmakers' plans to attend the Los Angeles gathering.

About 81 features, shorts and documentaries, ranging from the work of professionals to students, were scheduled to be screened during the five-day festival.

CNN reporters Nic Robertson and Rym Brahimi expelled from Baghdad

CNN said Friday that its reporters have been expelled from Baghdad by the Iraqi government.

The news network had two reporters, Nic Robertson and Rym Brahimi, who had remained in the Iraqi capital after most other American news networks had sent their correspondents out for safety reasons.

CNN reporter Bill Hemmer said on the air that he hoped the Iraqi government would reconsider.

CNN had few other details on why the reporters were forced out.

Razzie queen Madonna's 'Swept Away' cleans up at worst-film awards

Madonna and husband Guy Ritchie swept away the competition at the Razzies, an annual spoof of the Academy Awards singling out the worst achievements in film.

"Swept Away," the island-romance bomb that starred Madonna and was written and directed by Ritchie, took five Razzie Awards on Saturday, among them worst picture of 2002.

Madonna tied for worst actress with fellow pop queen Britney Spears, who made her starring debut in "Crossroads," another worst-picture contender.

Ritchie was chosen worst director, while "Swept Away" earned Madonna a second award for worst screen couple with co-star Adriano Giannini.

Billboard Hot 100

Top 10

1. "In Da Club," 50 Cent
2. "Ignition," R. Kelly
3. "All I Have," Jennifer Lopez Featuring LL Cool J
4. "Miss You," Aaliyah
5. "Picture," Kid Rock Featuring Sheryl Crow Or Allison Moorer
6. "Mesmerize," Ja Rule Featuring Ashanti
7. "How You Gonna Act Like That," Tyrese
8. "Miss You," Missy
9. "Misdeemeanor" Elliott Featuring Ludacris
10. "I'm With You," Avril Lavigne
11. "Landslide," Dixie Chicks

Billboard 200 Top Albums

Top 10

1. "Get Rich Or Die Tryin'," 50 Cent
2. "Come Away With Me," Norah Jones
3. "Chocolate Factory," R. Kelly
4. "Home," Dixie Chicks
5. "Sing The Sorrow," AFI
6. "Chicago," Soundtrack
7. "Street Dreams," Fabolous
8. "Cocky," Kid Rock
9. "Fallen," Evanescence
10. "Monster," Killer Mike

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

Residents, students continue protests despite beginning of Iraq war

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some have been protesting for months. Months out in the cold, waving their signs in the air, calling for peace.

Now, the opportunity for a peaceful solution has diminished as the United States is at war with Iraq. But they still waved their signs at cars passing by Thursday evening across from City Hall.

"It's discouraging," Trudy Stratton, Manhattan resident, said. "I feel like I have to do my part. War is not the answer."

Manhattan was not alone in anti-war protests. More than 100,000 people in New York participated in an anti-war protest and traded insults with thousands of war-backers shouting "USA," according to the Associated Press.

In Chicago, 800 troop supporters stood outside a federal building as anti-war protesters shouted "killers, killers, killers."

But with troops in combat and a massive air campaign underway, members of the Manhattan Alliance of Peace and Justice have changed the focus from avoiding war to ending it and bringing troops home.

"We still think the war is wrong, but we do support our troops," John Fliter, associate professor of political science, said. "This is generating more intense anti-American hatred."

"We should end it as soon as possible and get back to working through the U.N. or bring in humanitarian aid."

Fliter brought his 9-year-old and 4-year-old sons.

"This is the first time I brought them," he said. "They know I oppose war."

In a statement released prior to the demonstration Thursday, MAPJ said the purpose of the event was to win a wider hearing for its perspectives. Even though she opposes the war, Stratton said she does understand Saddam Hussein is an oppressive dictator.

Read it. Live it. Wear it.
Can't get enough Fourum?
Get your Fourum t-shirt for $15 in Kedzie 103.

Julia Garza (center) and her father, Ramone, lead a group of anti-war protesters Saturday down Broadway from Times Square to Washington Square Park. More than 200,000 people participated in the march protesting the war in Iraq.

"The thing that bothered me was they gave Saddam Hussein 48 hours - why didn't he just leave?" she said. "I just don't want people to be killed on either side."

Christopher Renner, chairman of the MAPJ, said although Hussein is an evil man, the fault lies with the U.S. government.

"Saddam Hussein is a Frankenstein built, created and armed by the United States," he said. "This is a tremendous downfall of U.S. diplomacy."

The bottom line, Renner said, is the war is illegal.

"There's legitimacy in asking Saddam Hussein to leave the country," he said. "I don't think any country has the right to go in and remove the country because we don't like it."

With criticism among TV commentators and government officials claiming Americans should unite and present united front instead of opposing military action, Renner argues that dissension is what has shaped

American history.

"My reading of U.S. history is this country was founded on dissidents. That's American," he said. "To just blankly accept whatever the government says - it is not the American tradition."

A group of signs lay in wait as anti-war protesters gather on Poyntz Avenue on Thursday evening. Protests continue around the world as the war in Iraq escalates.

ROSES ARE RED,
VIOLETS ARE BLUE,
OUR COLOR COPIES...

ARE ALWAYS
TRUE HUES.

Clafin Books and Copies

$20 today
Get Paid to Study!

Donate your life-saving
blood plasma and earn cash.

Fees apply to new donors

ZLB Plasma Services

1130 Gardenway
785-776-9177

call or stop by
No appointment needed
www.zbl.com

Free 10" one topping
pizza with the purchase
of a large with 2 or
more toppings.

For the fastest delivery,
lunch or late night call

776-5577

K-State Student Union
Lower Level
532-5972

March Specials

Crimpers Too in K-State Student Union

$55 Foil Highlight

($10 for each additional color)

$12 Brow & Lip wax combo

$30 Men's Highlight & Haircut

$10 Manicure

$20 Full Set

$18 Fills

CRIMPERS TOO

Be sure to visit Crimpers in Aggieville for the
"Best Deal in the Ville"

2003 Principal/Counselor/Student Conference

Kansas State University

LIST OF HIGH SCHOOL LOCATIONS

(All assignments in Ahearn are table numbers not room numbers)

Tuesday, March 25 10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m.

Apostolic Academy, Ahearn 58	Marion - Ahearn 24
Atchison County Community - Ahearn 1	Mill Valley - Courtyard
Atchison - Ahearn 2	Minneapolis - Ahearn 25
B & B Baileyville - Union Courtyard 11	Mission Valley - Ahearn 22
Baldwin - Ahearn 3	Nemaha Valley - Union 206 B
Beloit - Ahearn 4	North Central - Ahearn 26
Bennington/Tescott - Ahearn 46	Northern Valley - Ahearn 27
Blue Valley (Randolph) - Ahearn 5	Olathe East - Union 207 A
Blue Valley (Stilwell) - Ahearn 6	Olathe North - Union 207 B
Blue Valley North - Union Big 12 A	Olpe - Ahearn 28
Blue Valley Northwest - Union 205	Osage City - Union 208
Bluestem - Ahearn 7	Osborne - Courtyard 7
Buhler - Ahearn 8	Osawatomie #5 - Ahearn 52
Chaparral - Ahearn 9	Otis Bison - Ahearn 45
Chapman - Union Big 12 B	Oxford - Ahearn 29
Chase Co. - Union Big 12 C	Paola - Ahearn 30
Cimarron - Ahearn 10 - CANCELLED	Pawnee Heights - Ahearn 31
Clay Center - Union Council Chamber	Piper - Ahearn 50
Derby - Ahearn 57	Plainville - Ahearn 32
DeSoto - Ahearn 11 - CANCELLED	Riley Co. - Ahearn 33
Dighton - Ahearn 51	Rock Creek - Ahearn 34
Downs - Courtyard 10	Rossville - Ahearn 55
Ellis - Ahearn 12	Royal Valley - Courtyard 8
Emporia - Union Little Theater A	Sacred Heart - Ahearn 35
Eudora - Ahearn 54	Salina South - Union 209
Eureka - Ahearn 13	Scott Comm. - Ahearn 48
Fredonia High School - Ahearn 53	Seaman - Union 212 A
Goddard - Ahearn 14	Shawnee Heights and
Greensburg - Ahearn 15	Tecumseh-Union 212 B
Hartford - Ahearn 16	St. Thomas Aquinas - Ahearn 36
Haven - Ahearn 17	Smith Center - Ahearn 37
Haviland - Ahearn 18	Southeast of Saline - Union 213
Hays - Union Little Theater B	Stockton - Ahearn 38
Herington - Courtyard 2	Sedan - Ahearn 39
Hesston - Courtyard 3	Tipton Catholic - Courtyard 10
Hoisington - Courtyard 4	Tonganoxie - Ahearn 40
Hillcrest - Ahearn 19	Troy - Ahearn 41
Holton - Union 203	Wabaunsee - Ahearn 56
Hoxie - Ahearn 20	Waconda East - Courtyard 10
Hutchinson - Union 204	Wallace - Ahearn 42
Jackson Heights - Courtyard 5	Washington - Ahearn 43
Jayhawk Linn - Ahearn 21	Washington (KC) - Courtyard 9
Jefferson Co. North - Ahearn 47	Wichita East - Forum Hall C
Jefferson West - Union 206 A	Wichita North - Forum Hall A
Lansing - Ahearn 49	Wichita South - Forum Hall B
Maize - Ahearn 23	Wichita West - Forum Hall D
Manhattan - Courtyard 1	Wilson - Ahearn 44

K-State at Fort Riley Class Schedule Term 3-2003

Programs for Military and Civilians

March 24 - May 17, 2003

Courses Offered

Course Title	Course Number	Credit Hours	Blgd/Room
Monday/Wednesday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Interm./Microeconomics (P)	ECON 520	3	7656/16
Family Rel./Gender Roles (P)	FSHS 350	3	7656/12
Human Dev. & Aging (P)	FSHS 510	3	7656/4
Envir. Geology: Water & Air	GEOL 115	3	7604/13
Human Geography	GEOG 200	3	7604/14
College Algebra (P)	MATH 100	3	7656/8
Social Psychology (P)	PSYCH 535	3	7656/11
Bus./Professional Speaking (P)	SPCH 311	3	7604/10
Monday/Wednesday 1900-2200 (7:00-10:00 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stat. II (P)	STAT 351	3	CAMPUS-206 Dickens
Monday/Wednesday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Principles of Macroecon. (P)	ECON 110	3	7656/11
Public Speaking II (P)	SPCH 321	3	7604/10
Intro. to Women's Studies	WOMST 105	3	7604/13
Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM)
Expository Writing II (P)	ENGL 200	3	7604/13
Plane Trigonometry (P)	MATH 150	3	7656/16
Intro. to Music	MUSIC 250	3	7656/4
Intro./Philosophical Problems	PHILO 100	3	7656/8
US Politics	POLSC 325	3	7604/14
Race & Ethnic Relations (P)	SOCIO 570	3	7656/11
Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2030 (5:30-8:30 PM)
Bus./Econ. Stat. I (P)	STAT 350	3	CAMPUS-106 Dickens
Tuesday/Thursday 1800-2100 (6:00-9:00 PM)
Elem. Stat./Social Science (P)	STAT 330	3	CAMPUS-206 Dickens
Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM)
Acctg. for Invest./Finance (P)	ACCTG 241	3	7656/12
(ACCTG $15 Extra Fee)
The Short Story	ENGL 320	3	7604/13
Families in Diversity	FSHS 552	3	7656/8
Kansas Politics	POLSC 321	3	7604/14
Psych./Mass Commun.	PSYCH 530	3	7656/11
Tuesday/Thursday 1730-2000 (5:30-8:00 PM) and Saturday 0830-1030 (8:30-10:30 AM)
(All CIS classes have $5 extra fee)
Intro. to Info. Technology	CIS 101	1	217/201
March 24 - April 5, 2003
Spreadsheet Applications (P)	CIS 102	1	217/201
April 7 - 19, 2003
Database Applications (P)	CIS 103	1	217/201
April 21 - May 3, 2003
Word Processing Apps. (P)	CIS 104	1	217/201
May 5 - 17, 2003
Tuesday/Thursday 2000-2230 (8:00-10:30 PM) and Saturday 0900-1200 (9:00-12:00 Noon)
Environmental Geogr. II (P)	GEOG 221	4	7656/4

Please check with our office just prior to classes starting for possible changes in the schedule!!!

Program and Registration Information available at
www.dce.ksu.edu/fortriley

Enrollment Information

Registration

Military enrollment

- Began February 10, 2003.
- Military enrollment includes active duty military, retired military, reserve components, family members, DOD/DAC, ROTC Cadets, and veterans.
- Military using Tuition Assistance must be enrolled before the second class meeting.

Civilian enrollment

- Begins March 14, 2003.
- NOTE: This is a CHANGE from the printed brochure
- Online, telephone, or fax enrollment available beginning the second day of civilian enrollment.
- A Privacy Act Statement with an original signature must be received for the enrollment to be official.
- To ensure access to post, you must include driver's license number and state on enrollment form.
- Enrollment after the first week of classes requires instructor/department approval.

Cost

$127.00 per undergraduate credit hour

Drop Dates

- 100% refund if you drop in writing before the second class meeting
- 50% refund if you drop in writing on or before April 11, 2003
- Withdrawals after April 11, 2003 will be recorded on your transcript.
- If you stop attending class and do not process a drop form you will receive a grade of "F."
- No drops after May 2, 2003.

Active duty military have to see their military education counselor before dropping a class.

(P) = Course has prerequisite(s).

Special Assistance

Kansas State University is dedicated to making academic courses accessible to all persons. Contact the Registration Office at (785)532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 at least two weeks prior to the beginning of the course if you have a physical or learning disability which would require special accommodations.

For more information, call:
217-5344 (K-State Civilian Post Mail)
532-5566 (Military & Active Military)
1-800-432-8222 (Outside KSU)

KSTATE
Kansas State University

CLASSIFIEDS

Monday, March 24, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE, two, or three-bedroom. Close to campus. August 1. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE AUGUST two-bedroom apartment across from City Park, with washer/dryer in each unit. Water/trash paid. $585/month. Year lease, no pets. (785)539-0222.

AVAILABLE AUGUST= Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)558-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOR RENT, Five-Bedroom Brittney Ridge Townhouse. Two and one-half bath. Washer/dryer. Available August 1. One year lease. $940/month. Call (913)909-4078 or (913)254-7657 after 5:30pm. Weekends anytime.

FOUR AND FIVE-BEDROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

NEAR CAMPUS, one-bedroom apartments, 1832 Claflin. One-bedroom unique studio house, 909 Kearney (alley). August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549 or (785)539-5508.

NEW TOWNHOMES, Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900, Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

TWO AND three-bedroom units available for August 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663, one-half mile from K-State, at the corner of College and Claflin.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM one and one-half bath. Central air/heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

ROOMS AVAILABLE for end of May and August. Rent $230/month plus share utilities. Close to campus, washer and dryer. Call Jake at (785)539-4904. 911 N. 11th St.

120
For Rent-Houses

SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM house, nice, near campus. June 1st. Call (785)317-7713.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE two bath, two kitchens. Living room, Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets, June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar, June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

GREAT LANDLORD with great houses. Roomy, spacious, and updated three and six-bedroom houses. Central air, washer, dryer, no pets. June lease. (785)313-4812.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/dryer. $1050/month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/month. 709 Bluemont. Washer/dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, available June 1. washer/dryer provided. $520. Water, trash paid. 405 North 10th. (785)539-0939.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking. Washer/dryer. Trash paid. Near campus. $300/month. (785)537-1219.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments. $580 per month. (785)539-5907.

SUMMER SUBLEASE AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large two-bedroom close to campus and Aggieville. Water and trash paid. Washer/dryer, dishwasher, and off-street parking. (785)537-3287.

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

TWO-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

120
For Rent-
Houses

Discover Brittney Ridge
TOWNHOMES
*4 Bedrooms w/ study
*2 1/2 Baths
*Washer/ Dryer in each unit
*Sand Volleyball Court
*1440 sq. ft.
www.mdi-manhattan.com

Now Leasing
Leased our 1 & 2 bedrooms
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904
Kimball & College Aves.
Across from KSU stadium
537-7007

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 Winne. Beautifully remodeled brick ranch, three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets, new central air-conditioning, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day. (785)776-7706, evenings.

913 RATONE. Very nice four-bedroom, two bath, central air, dishwasher, laundry. No pets. June lease. $300/ bedroom. (785)556-5668.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed one-third bills, $255 rent. Please call Chelsea (785)341-2263.

FEMALE roommate wanted for house walk to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details. Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted three-bedroom house, washer/dryer, off-street parking. Water, trash, three-quarters gas paid. $232/ person/month. 1030 Humboldt. (785)587-9786.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE TO two-bedrooms immediately available. Brittney Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville, Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kscf

ATTORNEY CHARLES W. (Chuck) Harper. 25 years experience, divorce and civil law. 400 Poyntz. (785)539-8100. chuckharper@msn.com.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST SET of keys. Probably at Joe's. Green flashlight and Minnesota keychain. Reward. Call Thom at (785)317-8466.

LOST: BLACKHILLS gold necklace at the rec. Call (785)537-2865 if found.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

LADIES ARE you ready for a true, mature, committed man in your life? Compassionate, sensitive, 58 years young widower. Financially secure, successful real-estate business man. Non-smoker seeks female companionship for possible long term relationship. Please call (785)776-2102.

100 housing/real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

1112 BLUEMONT one block to campus- one and two-bedroom available August 1. (785)776-9288 or (785)776-0683.

514 N. 9th Open House, Thursday, March 13th, 5-6pm and Saturday, March 15th, 12-1pm. Three-bedroom, two bath $690 including water and trash. June 1. Two-bedroom 100% Remodeled. $460 including water and trash. June 1. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. (785)537-7431.

911 SUNSET, four-bedroom and one-bedroom- one block to campus- washer/dryer provided. Available August 1. (785)776-9288 or (785)776-0683.

AUGUST LEASES available. One-bedroom and studio apartments and one-bedroom house. 1030 Kearney. No pets. Call (785)537-0177.

AVAILABLE JUNE or August. Two, three, four, five and six-bedroom. Close to campus. Year leasing, no pets. (785)539-2551.

Park Place Apartments
Affordable Prices
1, 2 & 3 Bedrooms
539-3951

NOW LEASING FOR FALL

• Cambridge Sq.
• Sandstone Apts.
• 2000 College Heights
• 1114 Fremont
• LEASED
• Forrest Creek Town Homes

537-9064
Wednes 8:30am-5pm
Satur 10am-3pm
www.kstn.com

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS
1620 McCain
Starting at $900
Available for June and August
2 full baths
Laundry facilities
Off Street Parking
CLOSE TO CAMPUS
Model Showings
Apt. #15
Tues. & Thurs. 3:30-6
Sat. 2-5
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com. (785)539-4357.

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

ROYAL TOWERS

4 Bedroom APARTMENTS

• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
Model Showings
1700 N. Manhattan #305
M, W, F 1-4
Sat. 1-4
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

THREE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday-Friday. (785)776-4805.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rent-apm.com. (785)539-4357.

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

ADVERTISING DESIGN

Practicum MC 484

You can earn class credit for working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2003. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary.

The experience you gain in the spring could qualify you to apply for a paid, part-time position the following semester.

Come to 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

Application deadline Friday, April 18.

Graphic Design Internship

Advertising Design Art Dept.

Would you like to have some creative input in the appearance of ads in the Kansas State Collegian?

If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus fall 2003 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Prerequisites must be met and instructor's permission is required. Application deadline Friday, April 18.

Come to 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

Advertising Design

Practicum MC 484

You can earn class credit for working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2003. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary.

The experience you gain in the spring could qualify you to apply for a paid, part-time position the following semester.

Come to 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

Application deadline Friday, April 18.

Graphic Design Internship

Advertising Design Art Dept.

Would you like to have some creative input in the appearance of ads in the Kansas State Collegian?

If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus fall 2003 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Prerequisites must be met and instructor's permission is required. Application deadline Friday, April 18.

Come to 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

200
service directory

300 employment/
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext. 1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

COLBERT HILLS requires snack bar/beverage cart attendants. Must be able to work flexible hours. $6/hour plus tips, free golf. Must be able to work April-October. Apply in person at 5200 Colbert Hills Drive, Manhattan.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Police is hiring lieutenants and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15-$125 and more per survey! www.surveymedollars.com.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

LAWN TECHNICIAN: part-time/full-time. Real estate company seeking individual to assist with lawn responsibilities. Part-time during school, full-time in summer. Responsibilities include mowing, trimming, planting and general property upkeep. Landscape, lawn care and equipment maintenance experience preferred. Send resume to: Curtin Property Company, 1401 Monticello Suite 101, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

MCDONALDS is looking for self motivated people who are interested in working a third shift (11p.m.-7 a.m.) during new 24 hour operations. Must be willing to participate in regular drug screening program. Above average pay, premium pay for McDonalds experience, uniforms provided, reduced meals and advancement opportunities. Apply in person at McDonalds in Manhattan at 815 North 3rd Street or 1011 Westloop Place in Junction City at I-70 and Washington Street.

NEED PART-TIME babysitter for before and after school in my home until the end of school year. Call Aimee (785)784-2526.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply online: www.campcedar.com

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

A VARIETY of decorations for wedding reception or other events. Can easily have lavender colors changed. Call (785)587-2158.

SUPER FLEA 3/ 27 and 3/ 28. Seniors' Center, 412 Leavenworth.

Lost something?
You can place an ad FREE for three days!

UNIVERSITY COMMONS
APARTMENTS
MODEL OPEN DAILY - Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
Fully Furnished - Computer Lab
Alarm System - Washer/Dryer
Utility Package (One check can cover it all) 539-0500
2215 College Avenue
Office Hours: Mon-Fri 9-5
Sat 10-4

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1996 MITSUBISHI Eclipse. 210 horsepower, red, leather, loaded. $6000 or best offer. Call Rich. (785)784-2526.

530
Motorcycles

WANTED
DEAD OR ALIVE
MOTORCYCLES
1964-2000
ALL CONSIDERED
785-564-2423
ANY TIME

600 travel/
trips

Need a tutor?
Check the classifieds category 205.
Kedzie 103

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

TAKING A STAND

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGAN

Protesters participating in the march in New York City on Saturday lie on the ground in Washington Square Park to represent soldiers killed in the war.

RESPONSE | Viewpoints on war include support, varied opposition

Continued from Page 1

"There's a link between other countries that we are ignoring," he said. "They shouldn't justify it by fighting against terrorism."

Michelle Jeanfreau, doctoral student in marriage and family therapy, said she supported war with Iraq and was discouraged with recent war protests.

"I am all about freedom of speech, but I think they need to support the troops," she said.

"To protest war is one thing, but they should incorporate supporting troops in their protests."

Brandon Noone, senior in graphic design, said even though he supports invading Iraq without U.N. support, he is tired of watching it on TV.

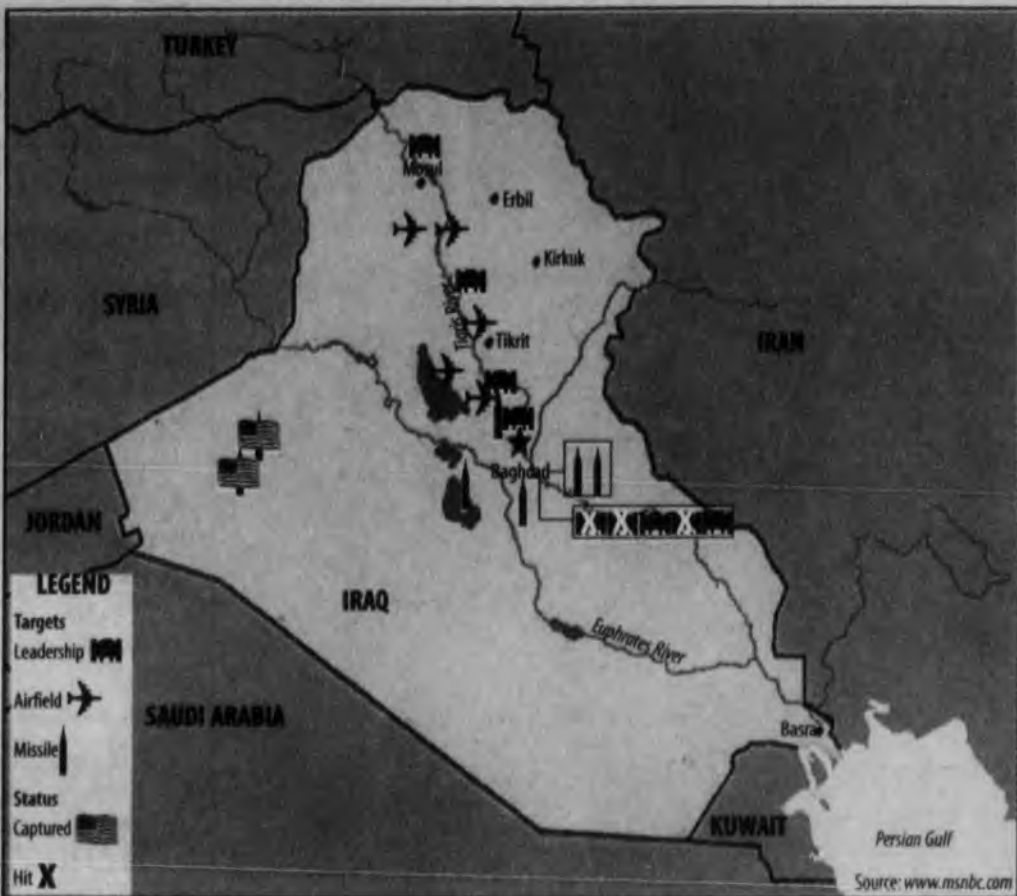

"It gives away all our strategies and ideas," he said. "It's funny how you can turn it on and it's the same stuff it was a couple of hours ago. They're just glorifying it."

We've got the stories you've got to read.
The 2003 Royal Purple yearbook is available for $34.95 in Kedzie 103. Stop by.

ALLIES | Military efforts move towards Baghdad

Going after Saddam

Allied forces have outlined these and other sites as strategic targets in Iraq.

Continued from Page 1

Americans identified as captured soldiers.

"I come to shoot only if I am shot at," said one prisoner, who said he was from Kansas. Asked why he was fighting Iraqis, he replied: "They don't bother me — I don't bother them."

Some of the missing prisoners were from Fort Bliss, Texas, said Jean Offutt, an Army spokeswoman at the base, where family members gathered Sunday night.

"The mood, of course, is very tragic," she said.

U.S. and British officials said some of the stiffest resistance was coming from paramilitary forces known as the Fedayeen Saddam and from Saddam Hussein's personal security forces.

"These are men who know that they will have no role in the building of a new Iraq and they have no future," said Peter Wall, chief of staff to the British military contingent in the U.S.-led coalition.

President Bush kept his eye on the big prize — the removal of Saddam's government and Iraq's eventual disarmament.

"I know that Saddam Hussein is losing control of his country," Bush said upon his return from the Camp David retreat in Maryland. "We are slowly but surely achieving our objective."

He demanded that U.S. prisoners of war be treated humanely.

Iraqi leaders appealed for a united Arab front to condemn the invasion but knew they wouldn't get it.

"There is no hope in these rulers," Iraqi Vice President Taha Yassin Ramadan said.

But Russia and Chinese foreign ministers reasserted their view that the invasion has no legal basis and asked for an immediate halt.

The State Department, for its part, protested that Russian companies sold sensitive military equipment to Iraq in the run-up to the war, maintaining some of the equipment could pose a direct threat to coalition forces.

A British warplane was shot down in a friendly fire attack by U.S. Patriot missiles, killing its crew of two, and a grenade attack in an Army base in Kuwait left a captain dead and a U.S. soldier as the suspect.

In the most notable gain for the coalition, soldiers of the 3rd Infantry Division's 2nd Brigade moved 230 miles in 40 hours, killing scores of Iraqi militiamen who engaged them with machine guns, to take positions less than a day's journey from Baghdad.

The brigade raced day and night across rugged desert in more than 70 tanks and 60 Bradley fighting vehicles. No American injuries were reported in that battle.

Iraqi Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Sultan Hashim Ahmed expressed confidence his troops can hold the capital.

"If they want to take Baghdad, they will have to pay a heavy price," he said.

PITCHING Team hopes to improve

Continued from Page 6

Cornhuskers, throwing a complete game.

In Saturday's contest, Nebraska scored in double digits for the second straight day against K-State and downed the Wildcats 10-4.

K-State's Sean Clancy (1-1) took the loss. The junior went four innings, gave up seven runs on eight hits, walked two and struck out one.

Quinton Robertson got the win for NU, going seven innings, surrendering four runs on seven hits, walking none and striking out seven.

In the series finale on Sunday, K-State outthit Nebraska 13-8, but the Cornhuskers' five-run fifth propelled them to an 11-9 win. Nebraska's sweep of K-State marked seven straight losses in Lincoln for the Wildcats.

Frank Bauer (1-1) picked up the loss. Bauer went 1 1/3 innings, gave up three runs on two hits, walked two and struck out one.

Tim Schoeninger (1-1) picked up the win for the Cornhuskers. He went 4.2 innings, gave up three runs on eight hits, walked two and struck out one.

Nebraska moved to 14-6 overall and 4-2 in the Big 12 while K-State dropped to 10-11, 0-3.

Clark said K-State's offense is clicking, but added that good offense means nothing without defense to complement it.

"It's a situation where we're never going to be out of a ballgame and we're always going to compete hard," he said. "We have to get the other team within range to where we don't have to score seven, eight or nine runs to win."

"That will put a lot of pressure on an offense. But we'll get our pitching staff straightened out and we'll get them going and then we'll use our offense to win ballgames."

Say HEESE
Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909

do you feel a longing for more in your life?

do you radiate joy?

do you long to follow in the footsteps of Jesus?

does love pour out of your smile?

IS GOD CALLING YOU?

THE SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH OF WICHITA

Here's one way to help you find out.

Perhaps you're one of the rare women being called by God to follow in the footsteps of Jesus. But you're wondering, "how can I truly know if I've been called?" This free CD-ROM from the Sisters of St. Joseph may help you find out. To request yours, visit www.csjwichita.org, or call our Vocation Director, Sr. Ann Letourneau, at 316-689-4030. You'll be eternally grateful you did.

the OTHER semester

Summer School 03

The advantages

- Transferable credit
- Get ahead on your college career
- Free admission to classes
- Explore new subjects and majors

Classes

- Non-traditional classes
- Self-paced learning
- Win-win opportunity for you and your school

For a complete listing of courses

- Contact the Summer School Office at 316-689-5111 or summer@ksu.edu
- Visit our website: www.ksu.edu/summer
- For complete course descriptions, visit www.ksu.edu/summer/courses

For more information

August Session (2003)
Spring Session (2004)
K-State Summer School
316-689-5111
www.ksu.edu/summer

Offering a wide range of courses

k state

NEW ATTITUDE

"Anybody that gets in our way is getting kicked to the side."

— Coach Deb Patterson

Inside

Ben Fehr breaks down K-State's chances to make it back to the Sweet 16 and beyond.

Page 2

A more experienced Wildcat squad takes the floor for this year's NCAA Tournament. Find out how they're approaching the Big Dance.

Page 2

We take a look at the favorites and sleepers still alive as the field is narrowed to 32 teams.

Page 3

Five Big 12 teams made the field of 64 this year compared to seven in 2001-02. Find out who was left off this year's invite list and why.

Page 4

The teams the Wildcats could potentially see in the tournament's later rounds are familiar to K-State. Take a look at the similarities between this year's East region and last season's Midwest bracket.

Page 5

Connecticut expecting to win 2nd straight title

By Ben Fehr
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Connecticut won it all in 2002.

The Huskies drew the Midwest's No. 1 seed and shared the region with third-seeded K-State last season.

The Wildcats were a game away from facing those Huskies in the Elite Eight but instead fell to No. 7 seed Old Dominion.

This year, K-State will make its run at the national championship out of the East region.

But a number of things haven't changed.

UConn is still the No. 1 seed, though the Huskies are undefeated no longer. Purdue again claimed the No. 2 spot, and K-State enters the tournament as the No. 3 seed.

But ODU isn't in the tournament as the No. 7 seed in 2003. This year, Old Dominion entered as the No. 12 seed before getting ousted by No. 5 Boston College in Saturday's first round.

So Old Dominion isn't going to eliminate the Cats this year.

Instead, Notre Dame will get its shot Tuesday against K-State at Bramlage Coliseum. I'll take the Cats.

That would mean the Wildcats will likely face Purdue for the right to meet UConn in the Elite Eight. And that's what's going to happen.

Why? Because I'm always right and have an incredible sense about the future.

Except that my predictions rarely ever come true – but nevermind that for now.

Let's just say that K-State earns the right to face UConn in Dayton, Ohio, on April 1. Who would be the winner? Certainly not me; I've got a stats test that week. Nevertheless, I'm going with UConn.

Why? Well, because they're deep, they have a great coach and Diana Taurasi is simply incredible.

What's that you say? K-State has all those elements as well? Well, the end-all argument about greatness would be a national championship – which UConn has and K-State doesn't.

The Huskies, in fact, have three NCAA Tournament titles in the last 10 years.

I see UConn moving out of the East to join Louisiana State, Texas Tech and Tennessee in the Final Four.

I see Tennessee beating Texas Tech and UConn beating LSU. And then UConn will repeat as national champs after stomping the Lady Vols in a repeat performance of last year's regional semifinal.

UConn will repeat because they're better than every other team in the field.

And the Final Four probably won't be including Midwest regional No. 2 seed Villanova, the same Wildcat bunch that ended UConn's unprecedented winning streak at 70 games.

But I'm pulling for Villanova to make the Final Four. It'd be an accomplishment to topple North Carolina and Tennessee in order to earn a shot at Duke or Texas Tech.

And it'd just be poetic for the same team that ended UConn's streak to stand in the way of back-to-back national championships.

Will it happen?

Probably not.

But if it did, could Villanova do it again?

No. And do you know why sports fans? Because champions learn from their mistakes.

Villanova beating UConn was a fluke. Not to take anything away from what the Wildcats did, but UConn is better.

Villanova won that game by controlling the clock. But if they met again, UConn would clock Villanova.

Ben is a senior in social sciences. You can e-mail him at fehr7@ksu.edu.

Experience benefits No. 3 K-State

East's No. 3 seed older, hungrier than last year's team

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A year older, a year hungrier.

That's the message Coach Deb Patterson conveys when talking about her team's second straight trip to the NCAA Tournament.

But don't misunderstand the Wildcat general – K-State's mentality is still rooted in making the most of the moment.

"We're not necessarily more business-like," Patterson said.

"I think there's always a little more knowledge that you gain by virtue of experience. You're just not quite as surprised by everything."

Experience aside, though, the NCAA Tournament can be a pretty intimidating landscape.

Though K-State has lost just four times in 33 opportunities this season, one more would cap the Cats' effort, however rewarding the season has been.

Understanding the finality of it all, Patterson and crew have established a fresh set of goals for the postseason.

"We've created our own sense of new achievements and new standards and new expectations," she said.

K-State extended its season to the Sweet 16 last year, but while an improvement on that effort might be an obvious goal, Patterson said her team isn't looking too far ahead.

"You can't make any assumptions at NCAA Tournament time," she said. "All 64 teams are capable of winning basketball games. That's the wild and crazy nature of it."

K-State learned that lesson last season when Old Dominion upset the Cats in a Midwest regional semifinal game in Milwaukee.

But the past is old news, Nicole Ohlde said – a memory buried by another success-

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State All-American Nicole Ohlde gives the Wildcats an inside size advantage over most opponents they could see in the east region.

ful year and an even hungrier team.

"This year we have a lot more experience," Ohlde said. "None of us last year had been to an NCAA Tournament, so we didn't know how to handle what was going on."

Teammate Laurie Koehn might have explained the situation best.

"It's do or die every game," she said.

So far in this year's tournament, favorites have embraced that philosophy. Higher seeds went 16-0 on Saturday, and just one underdog won Sunday, making the selection committee look pretty good.

That type of record makes K-State's prospects for returning to the Sweet 16 favorable.

That's music to the ears of a Wildcat group looking to put a recent rough stretch in the rearview.

K-State lost twice in its final three games before punching its ticket for the Big Dance. A long break – 10 days to be exact – has given the Cats time to think about those losses. The sting is gone, sophomore Kendra Wecker said. Instead, K-State is thinking about what comes next.

"We have really refocused," Kendra Wecker said. "We learned a lot about our team in the past week. We're just really excited about getting going again. We're starting a new season, and we're going to make the most of it." The best could be yet to come.

"Here we find ourselves a Top-10 program and a No. 3 seed in the NCAA Tournament," Patterson said. "It's a dream-like scenario."

TOURNAMENT UPDATE

Sunday's games capped an exciting weekend of NCAA Tournament play around the country:

East

Top-seeded Connecticut rebounded in a big way from its first loss in two years with a 91-44 win over Boston University.

In other action, No. 9 TCU upset eighth-seeded Michigan State 50-47. No. 11 seed Notre Dame downed No. 6 seed Arizona and third-seeded K-State beat No. 14 Harvard 79-69.

Saturday: (2) Purdue 66, (15) Valparaiso 51; (4) Vanderbilt 54, (13) Liberty 44; (5) Boston College 73, (12) Old Dominion 72; (7) Virginia Tech 61, (10) Georgia Tech 59.

West

Heather Schreiber scored 17 points to help second-seeded Texas beat Hampton 90-46 Sunday for the Longhorns' 14th straight victory.

Elsewhere, No. 5 seed Louisiana Tech beat 12th-seeded Pepperdine 94-60. No. 4 seed Ohio State topped 13th-seeded Weber State 66-44 and No. 7 seed Arkansas cruised by 10th-seeded Cincinnati 71-57.

Saturday: (1) Louisiana State 86, (16) Southwest Texas State 50; (3) Stanford 82, (14) Western Michigan 66; (6) Minnesota 68, (11) Tulane 48; (8) UWGB 78, (9) Washington 65.

Midwest

No. 2 seed Villanova took advantage of two scoring droughts by 15th-seeded St. Francis of Pennsylvania, to pull away and beat the Red Flash 51-36 Sunday night.

Around the region, No. 5 South Carolina beat 12th-seeded Chattanooga 68-54. No. 4 seed Penn State got past 13th-seeded Holy Cross 64-33 and No. 7 seed George Washington rallied past No. 10 seed Oklahoma 71-61.

Saturday: (1) Tennessee 95, (16) Alabama State 43; (3) North Carolina 72, (14) Austin Peay 70; (6) Colorado 84, (11) BYU 45; (8) Virginia 72, (9) Illinois 56.

Midwest

Alana Beard scored 19 points and Duke set a school record for wins but struggled to a 66-48 victory over Georgia State on Sunday.

Also, No. 8 Utah outlasted No. 9 seed DePaul 73-64, second-seeded Texas Tech whipped No. 15 seed SMSU 67-59 and seventh-seeded UCSB beat No. 10 seed Xavier 71-62.

Saturday: (3) Mississippi State 73, (14) Manhattan 47; (4) Rutgers 64, (13) Western Kentucky 52; (5) Georgia 80, (12) Charlotte 61; (6) New Mexico 91, (11) Miami 85.

SUPER TIRE SALE

Save 50% on Tire Installation
Package Now thru March 31st!
Package Includes Mounting, Wheel Balance, Tire Valve and Road Hazard Coverage

Welcome to ExpertTire

Open
Sunday
10AM-4PM

Winter Tire Sale!

SPECIAL PURCHASE

Our Everyday Lowest Priced Radial for Domestic and Import Cars.

40,000 Mile Limited Warranty*

$24⁷⁵ Each

P155/80R13 P175/80R13
P165/80R13

$26⁷⁵ Each

P175/80R13 P185/80R13
P185/70R13 P185/75R14

$28⁷⁵ Each

P185/70R14 P205/75R14
P195/75R14 P205/75R15
P195/70R14 P215/75R15

$32⁷⁵ Each

P205/70R14 P215/70R15
P215/75R14 P225/75R15
P215/70R14 P235/75R15
P205/70R15

LEMAN'S CHAMPION SE

All-Season, Affordable Radial

50,000 Mile Limited Warranty*

$29⁹⁹ Each

P155/80R13 P165/80R13

$34⁹⁹ Each

P175/80R13 P185/70R13
P175/70R13 P175/70R14
P185/80R13 P185/75R14

$39⁹⁹ Each

P175/65R14 P205/75R14
P185/70R14 P205/70R14
P185/65R14 P205/75R15
P195/75R14 P205/65R15
P195/70R14

$44⁹⁹ Each

P215/70R14 P215/70R15
P205/70R15 P225/75R15
P215/75R15 P235/75R15

LEMAN'S TOURING

60,000 Mile Limited Warranty*

$39⁹⁹ Each

P175/65R14 P195/75R14
P185/75R14

$44⁹⁹ Each

P185/70R14 P205/70R14
P185/65R14 P195/65R15
P195/70R14 P205/75R15
P205/75R14

$49⁹⁹ Each

P195/65R15 P215/70R15
P205/65R15 P225/75R15
P215/75R15 P225/70R15

$54⁹⁹ Each

P235/75R15

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE!
Minimum monthly payment required.

MANHATTAN
307 N. 3rd Street 776-8311
Monday-Friday 7:00am-7:00pm
Saturday 7:00am-5:00pm
Sunday 10am-5:00pm

Visit Our Website At: www.ExpertTire.com
For Career Opportunities, call 1-877-PCREWS or visit us on the web: bfmastercare.com

24 HOUR KEY DROP

WE WELCOME NATIONAL ACCOUNTS!

*Group fees in the amount of 8% of labor charges will be added to all services, up to a maximum charge of $25; not applicable in California or New York. Specific product offerings and tread designs may vary. Prices, warranties, MasterCard One Service, credit plans and other offers are subject to change without notice. See retailer for details. Actual retail tire prices may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on originally installed vehicle. See retailer for details, restrictions and copy of each limited warranty. *Credit terms made available by Credit First, N.A. No Payment for 90 Days on qualifying purchases. No interest for 90 days on qualifying purchases. Minimum interest charged from original purchase date if not paid in full within 90 days. Subject to credit approval. Interest at a variable rate of 21.94% APR as of 10/1/02 (APR may vary). Minimum finance charge $0.00. See store for details. *7/1/00

Game Day starts at...

Varney's

623 N. Manhattan Ave. • Manhattan, KS 66502
Mon - Sat 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Sun 11 a.m. - 7 p.m.

shopvarneys.com

Toll Free: 800.362.1574 • Local: 785.539.0511
Web: varneys.com • Email: varneys@varneys.com

THE FIELD AT 32

West

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Kala Bowers and the Big 12 champion Texas Longhorns are the No. 2 seed in the West Region. Texas could gain a rematch with No. 1 seed Louisiana State in the Regional Finals. The Tigers beat the Longhorns on Dec. 28, 76-58, in Baton Rouge, La.

Rematch could emerge if Texas, LSU advance

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The West is flat out the toughest regional among the bunch in this year's tournament.

Louisiana Tech and Texas headline the field, but Stanford hosts a subregional and the regional finals.

Jim Foster has done a masterful job in his first year at Ohio State after leaving Vanderbilt and keeping K-State fans guessing about the future of Deb Patterson.

Patterson elected not to return to coach the team she was an assistant for prior to her gig at K-State, though, and both coaches have been successful since.

LSU topped Texas earlier in the season, but that was before the Longhorns got on a roll and streaked to nab the Big 12 regular season and tournament championships.

Is there anyone who doesn't think Texas deserved a No. 1 seed?

Tuesday's second-round matchup between Arkansas and the Longhorns pits rivals against each other. They'll meet in Cincinnati, though, where few of either team's fans will be able to travel to give the "home-team" advantage.

Expect Texas to advance in that contest.

The Horns' next game should be a thriller, though. Texas could meet Stanford on the Cardinal's home court in a regional semifinal.

LSU should have a relatively smoother path to Maples Pavilion.

The Tigers face darling Wisconsin-Green Bay in the second round and would get either Ohio State or Louisiana Tech in the other regional semifinal if things work out the way they're supposed to.

An easy pick doesn't exist in this region, though, since LSU and Texas will have to travel to California if they expect to make it to Atlanta later.

Measuring up the conferences, though, gives the edge to Texas.

While the SEC has been a dogfight all season, Texas has battled plenty of adversity in the Big 12, while LSU has had to play second fiddle to Tennessee.

Stanford, from the Pac-10, has had its share of scrums as well, but the Cardinal aren't the third seed for nothing.

The sleeper: It's tough to call Ohio State a sleeper given what Jim Foster did in his first season with the Buckeyes. But if Ohio State can upset LSU in the regional semifinals, it could be his biggest win in awhile.

Going home early: Stanford just doesn't fit in the picture for some reason. Although the Cardinal could make it to Atlanta without leaving Maples Pavilion, predicting Stanford to upset Texas and LSU in consecutive games is more than a stretch.

Best matchup: Louisiana State versus Texas in the regional final with a Final Four appearance up for grabs is what March Madness is all about. Can Texas add another title to its treasure trove? The Horns already lay claim to the Big 12 regular season and tournament trophies. An NCAA Tournament title would be icing on the cake.

Collegian pick: Texas

East

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

K-State All-American Kendra Wecker and the Wildcats will take the East's No. 3 seed into the tournament. K-State could have to go through defending national champion and the region's No. 1 seed, Connecticut, to make it to the Final Four.

Connecticut favored in talent-rich regional

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's not the toughest region in the tournament — the West takes the cake for that honor, but the East is all K-State is worrying about right now.

And one team in particular has shown enough firepower this season to be the favorite.

Connecticut's 70-game winning streak might be over, but the Huskies' accolades over the past two seasons — including last season's national title — are enough to give coaches nightmares.

UConn, Purdue and K-State all played in the Midwest regional last season, and all made it to the Sweet 16.

This season, K-State and Purdue could meet for a chance at Connecticut in the regional final.

But don't discount Vanderbilt.

If the seeds hold, the Commodores would get a shot at the Huskies first.

A powerful inside-out combination is tough for any team, including Connecticut, to beat.

Vanderbilt has one in seniors Chantelle Anderson and Ashley McElhiney, but first Deb Patterson's former team must get past upset-minded Boston College.

The Eagles held off an upset of their own in the first round.

The sleeper: Boston College has experience in the close game and could knock off Vanderbilt today.

Going home early: All top seeds have manageable games in the second round.

Best matchup: K-State fans would love to see the Wildcats go up against Diana Taurasi and the Connecticut Huskies.

Collegian pick: Connecticut

Midwest

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

After falling one game short of a Big 12 tournament title, Texas Tech will look to make a return trip to the Final Four on the 10-year anniversary of its last national title. The Red Raiders are the No. 2 seed in the Midwest Region.

Texas Tech, Duke focused on Final Four run

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Duke-Texas Tech is what's expected in the Midwest regional final, but don't be surprised if one of two other teams makes it there instead.

The road to the regional final leads through Albuquerque, N.M., home of the New Mexico Lobos.

That means third-seeded Mississippi State could have a tough time getting past the second round.

Fourth-seeded Rutgers also will have to battle the home-court advantage Georgia will bring today against the Scarlet Knights.

Pre-determined subregional sites could cause the biggest chaos in the Midwest, since only one of the top-four seeds will play another home game the rest of the way.

California-Santa Barbara has garnered much postseason attention, but that might not mean much when the Gauchos face Texas Tech on the Lady Raiders' home floor.

No. 2 seed Tech is 18-1 at home during the NCAA Tournament, and Tech had little trouble in its first-round matchup with Southwest Missouri State.

If you've got to pick a sleeper, it should be New Mexico — although any team that can play leading up to the Final Four at home isn't too much of a longshot.

Still, the safest bet is Duke-Tech in New Mexico with a trip to Atlanta on the line.

The sleeper: New Mexico could make it to the Final Four by playing four games at home.

Going home early: No. 3 seed Mississippi State should find out how rowdy The Pit is today when the Bulldogs battle New Mexico.

Best matchup: Duke-Texas Tech matches two teams with legitimate Final Four aspirations. It would happen in the regional final.

Collegian pick: Texas Tech

Mideast

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Kelly Mazzante and No. 3 seed Penn State likely will have to defeat top-seeded Tennessee on the Lady Vols' home court if the Lady Lions hope to advance past the Sweet 16 in the Mideast region.

Lady Vols will stay in their own backyard

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tennessee has arguably the easiest path to Atlanta of any No. 1 seed in the bracket.

If the Lady Vols manage to make it to the Final Four, they'll do so by winning three more games in Knoxville, where Coach Pat Summitt's program is 41-0 in NCAA Tournament play.

But if the seeds hold, Villanova could give Tennessee all it can handle in the regional final.

The second-seeded Wildcats earned the Big East Tournament title with a 52-48 win over Connecticut that snapped the Huskies' NCAA record 70-game unbeaten stretch.

Third-seeded North Carolina and No. 4 seed Penn State have high-scoring offenses, always an asset should one of the region's two favorites get tripped up.

Tar Heel point guard Coretta Brown was in double figures in 26 of 32 contests this season, and Penn State's Kelly Mazzante was the Big Ten Player of the Year after finishing fifth in the country in scoring.

The sleepers are Colorado, which is hosting a subregional in Boulder as the region's No. 6 seed, and fifth-seed South Carolina, which beat SEC champ Vanderbilt on the road this season.

However, both teams have had their troubles against top-tier opponents this season.

The Buffs were 0-5 against the three teams ranked above them in the Big 12 this season, including a 62-47 loss to tournament and regular season champion Texas on March 13.

The Gamecocks' tournament résumé includes four wins over ranked teams.

Unfortunately, it also comprises six losses to those same teams, highlighted by a 97-78 loss to potential regional semifinal foe Tennessee back on Jan. 23.

Tenth-seeded Oklahoma was hosting a subregional, and the Sooners looked like they could upset No. 7 seed George Washington during the first half.

But order was restored in Norman soon enough, and Coach Sherri Coale's club was bounced in the first round.

Predicting another George Washington win in the second round over Villanova, though, might be too much of a stretch. The game is on a neutral court, but the Cats have more to lose.

The sleeper(s): Colorado and South Carolina have good chances to make it to the Sweet 16. CU has 3-point threats on the perimeter and Tera Bjorklund inside, while USC has the nation's fourth-leading scorer in Jocelyn Penn (16.4 ppg).

Going home early: Third-seeded North Carolina (at Boulder, Colo.) and No. 2 seed Villanova (at Norman, Okla.) will have to win two games on the road if they hope to get to the Sweet 16. One, or both, could go home disappointed.

Best matchup: Tennessee-Villanova in the regional final would be a big-time matchup. If it happens, the Lady Vols will bring a 43-0 home NCAA Tournament winning streak to the contest, while Villanova showed its flair for the dramatic by holding off top-ranked Connecticut in the Big East Tournament championship.

Collegian pick: Tennessee

Who's left

1. Duke
2. Texas Tech
3. Mississippi State
4. Rutgers
5. Georgia
6. New Mexico
7. California-Santa Barbara
8. Utah

Who's left

1. Tennessee
2. Villanova
3. North Carolina
4. Penn State
5. South Carolina
6. Colorado
7. George Washington
8. Virginia

Big 12's NCAA contingency smaller than in 2002

Conference sends 2 fewer schools to tourney's field of 64

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Following Baylor's 77-60 Big 12 Tournament loss to K-State on March 12, Coach Kim Mulkey-Robertson remained optimistic about her team's shot at one of 33 NCAA Tournament at-large bids.

After all, the Lady Bears finished seventh in one of the country's top conferences with a .500 record (8-8) and improved their lot with a first-round win over Texas A&M in the Big 12 Tournament.

That kind of résumé was enough for Texas Tech to make it into the NCAA field last year, Mulkey-Robertson reasoned. Tech went 8-8 during the conference slate, won its first-round game in the league tournament and was awarded a No. 4 seed in the 2002 Big Dance.

But after learning her team wasn't among this year's invited, the Baylor coach was left wondering.

"To be honest with you, our feelings were a little hurt," Mulkey-Robertson said. "If our pride isn't hurt a little bit, then we're not the conference we profess to be."

A glance at this year's at-large teams lends credence to Mulkey-Robertson's sentiments.

The Lady Bears, at 20-10 overall, had a better winning percentage than seven at-large selections and an equal .667 mark to Atlantic Coast Conference school Georgia Tech, seeded 10th in the East.

Another ACC team, Virginia, made the field despite a 16-13 record. The Cavaliers went 9-7 in the ACC, though, and strengthened their chances with a win in the conference tournament on way to nabbing the Mideast's No. 8 seed.

Baylor, on the other hand, struggled against top-tier competition. The Lady Bears managed only one win in seven tries against the Big 12's top four teams and split the season series with lowly Oklahoma State.

The five bids garnered by the

Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

Missouri and guard Kerensa Barr did not receive a bid to this year's NCAA tournament. The Tigers, along with Baylor, were left out of the field of 64, leaving the Big 12 with only five teams in the NCAA Tournament.

Big 12 for this year's tournament suggest the league might have fallen off from last season, after a record-tying seven passes were dished to the conference in 2002.

This year, though, not even a sixth-place finish was worth a spot on the dance floor.

Missouri, at 9-7 in Big 12 play, learned that lesson firsthand.

Instead, Baylor and Missouri were awarded college basketball's consolation prize – invitations to the Women's National Invitational Tournament and a chance at up to five more games.

"We're disappointed we didn't make the NAAs," Mulkey-Robertson said, "but life goes on and we move forward."

"There's no substitute for

Downturn

After sending a conference-record eight teams to the postseason in 2002, the Big 12 will have two fewer teams playing for the NCAA Tournament crown in 2003 and one less squad in the postseason overall.

2002 NCAA Tournament
Baylor, Colorado, Iowa State, K-State, Oklahoma, Texas, Texas Tech
2002 WNIT
Missouri

2003 NCAA Tournament
Colorado, K-State, Oklahoma, Texas, Texas Tech
2003 WNIT
Baylor, Missouri

playing a game, and that's the way we're approaching it."

Both teams have made the most of the opportunity, though.

Missouri fought off Western Illinois and posted a double-overtime 72-69 win in its WNIT opener. The Tigers will host Ball State today.

Meanwhile, Baylor held back Northern Iowa to win its first-round contest 58-56. The Lady Bears then beat Arizona State 85-62 on Sunday.

The WNIT is not seeded, but Missouri and Baylor – both considered legitimate candidates for a spot in the title game – could meet in the tournament semifinals.

"This is an opportunity to win a championship," Mulkey-Robertson said.

"It's not in the NAAs, but it's an opportunity to win a championship and that's why you play the games."

Conference teams relishing home-court advantage

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After more than two months of beating each other up during the conference slate, Big 12 teams were ready to leave their mark Saturday on the rest of college basketball's elite.

If the NCAA Tournament's first weekend was any indication, the conference is adjusting quite nicely to the bully role.

League teams wrapped up the weekend with a 4-1 record in the NCAA Tournament, and Baylor and Missouri combined for a 3-0 record at home in the Women's National Invitational Tournament.

Only Texas, the Big 12's regular season and tournament champion, had to leave home.

Traveling to Cincinnati, the Longhorns didn't seem to mind, though, mopping up first-round opponent Hampton 90-46 to advance to the second round.

As for the league's other NCAA teams, there was no place like home.

Colorado, K-State and Texas Tech had no problem holding home court in their respective regions.

"It's an advantage to play at home, there's no doubt about it," Texas Tech Coach Marsha Sharp said.

"You're in familiar surroundings and your fans can help you."

On Sunday, The Lady Raiders took care of Southwest Missouri State 67-59 at United Spirit Arena in Lubbock, Texas, to improve to 17-1 at home in the NCAA Tournament.

A home crowd of 4,388 in Boulder helped Colorado, seeded sixth in the Mideast, dismiss BYU a day earlier, on a day when five of six NCAA Tournament teams won on their home floors.

The Eugene, Ore., subregional was the only true neutral court, after the Oregon Ducks failed to make it to the NCAA Tournament field.

The advantage of playing at home wasn't lost on K-State, either.

"It's definitely a good feeling to know that we have our fans behind us," sophomore Megan Mahoney said.

"It's a comfort level, but it's the end of the year and every team is playing do or die."

While the Cats used that comfort level to post a 79-69 win over Harvard in their first-round contest, No. 12 seed Old Dominion wasn't as fortunate.

The Lady Monarchs lost to No. 5 seed Boston College 73-72 on Saturday.

K-State will hope for more local support Tuesday, when the Cats take on sixth-seeded Notre Dame at Bramlage Coliseum.

So far
SEC	7-0
Big East	6-1
Big Ten	4-2
Big 12	4-1
C-USA	1-4
ACC	4-0
Mountain West	2-1
Pac-10	1-2
Atlantic 10	1-1
America East	0-1
Atlantic Sun	0-1
Big Sky	0-1
Big South	0-1
Big West	1-0
Colonial	0-1
Horizon	1-0
Ivy	0-1
Metro Atlantic	0-1
Mid-American	0-1
Mid-Continent	0-1
Mid-Eastern	0-1
Missouri Valley	0-1
Northeast	0-1
Ohio Valley	0-1
Patriot	0-1
Southern	0-1
Southland	0-1
Southwestern	0-1
Sun Belt	0-1
West Coast	0-1

American Legion
BINGO!
Sunday 2 p.m.
Tuesday 1:30 p.m.
Wednesday 7:30 p.m.
"Progressive Bingo"
Sundays & Wednesdays
Win Big Bucks
114 McCall Rd.

GEAR UP
As you move through life, rely on American Family Insurance. We'll help you gear up by providing reliable insurance protection.
Call me today.

Clay Taylor
315 Houston-G
Manhattan
539-6949
ctaylor@anfam.com
AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
All your protection under one roof
www.anfam.com
© 2003 American Family Mutual Insurance Company and its subsidiaries. Home Office - Manhattan, NY

You Know You Want To...
Be Kissed...
Have Energy...
Get Some Cash...
Come Inside!

NEXT CLASS STARTS:
Tuesday, March 11th @ 6:00 PM in Lafene, rm 21
Reasons to stop smoking:
better breath, have more energy, save money,
not have to go outside to smoke - in the cold!
Call Lafene Health Center @ 532-6595
for more information or email kiss@k-state.edu
K-Staters Inspired to Stop Smoking

It's time to get your hands on Bernina's newest machines.

artista 200E, 185E and 165E
Visit Bernina and get a hands-on demonstration of the newest artista sewing and embroidery systems, including the revolutionary artista 200E. Then, imagine all the creative projects your hands can make. Give us a call today.
Bernina Shoppe
330 N. 4th St.
Manhattan, KS
537-8919

©2003 Bernina of America • www.bernina.com

NEED A BREAK?
How about some coffee & a Collegian?

DRINK IT. READ IT. LOVE IT.

Monday maniac $3.99
LARGE CHEESE PIZZA-MONDAY ONLY
CARRY OUT ONLY-TOPPINGS EXTRA
stick it to me
Tuesday
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
ONE IN CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY-TUESDAY
ROCK N ROLL
wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls / minimum 6
pizza sauce/ranch extra + tax.
DELIVERY DINE-IN CARRY OUT

Southern Sun
$30 unlimited tanning
expires March 31st
3232 Kimball
776-8060
next to Bobby's in Candlewood

READY FOR MORE?
 AND
March 25
NCAA Second Round
Bramlage Coliseum
Call 1-800-221-CATS for tickets!

2003 NCAA Division I Women's Basketball Tournament bracket

Cats' region features familiar postseason foes

By Dan Smith
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If K-State's players felt a sense of familiarity when they filled out their brackets after Selection Sunday last week, it was understandable.

The Wildcats, seeded third in the East, were placed in the same region as Connecticut, Purdue and Old Dominion.

Coincidence or not, those four teams all were in the Midwest last season, making the East a reunion of sorts for the Wildcats, Huskies, Boilermakers and Lady Monarchs.

"It's kind of like deja vu," Coach Deb Patterson said after watching the bracket unfold.

"Hopefully we get an opportunity to advance to that regional and line up against them."

One of those teams won't be there, though.

Old Dominion was eliminated on the tournament's first day by fifth-seeded Boston College on the Lady Monarchs' home floor.

Last season, seventh-seeded ODU upset No. 2 seed Purdue to advance to the Sweet 16. It wouldn't be the team's last win of the tournament, either.

After skating past Georgia in the first round, ODU took the Boilermakers to overtime before advancing to the regional finals in Milwaukee by way of another upset — this one over third-seeded K-State.

That upset cost the Cats a chance at then-No. 1 Connecticut.

This season, K-State could end up in a similar scenario. The bracket certainly points toward that possibility.

"You get it and you look at it, and you say, 'That would be an awesome opportunity,'" Megan Mahoney said. "But you can't look past anybody. They've got the big names, and they're used to winning. We're going to have to be ready for what everyone brings."

For Connecticut and Purdue, those things seem to be working just fine, as each advanced easily to its respective second round games.

Still, the familiarity of the teams is tough for some Wildcats to get past when looking at the bracket.

"Here we go again seeing the same teams," Kendra Wecker said.

"Connecticut is a great team this year, and we would be excited if we got the opportunity to play them. Anything can happen."

While the Huskies didn't have much trouble with No. 16 seed Boston University on Saturday, the Huskies will Connecticut and junior Diana Taurasi are favored in this year's East region. The Huskies are the top seed in the region. K-State could meet Connecticut in the regional finals.

Zach Long
 COLLEGIAN

face a team Tuesday that knows about tournament dramatics.

TCU upset Michigan State 50-47 to earn an opportunity at UConn in the second round. If the seeds hold true, the Huskies would meet No. 4 seed Vanderbilt in the Sweet 16.

The Cats could face some pretty stiff competition of their own.

K-State will meet 11th-seeded Notre Dame on Tuesday at Bramlage Coliseum, and second-seeded Purdue could be on the other side of that contest.

But despite the potential for a high-powered Sweet 16 matchup, the Wildcats are sticking to the "one-game-at-a-time" mantra.

"All of the teams that are in this region are going to be tough," Nicole Ohlde said. "Whoever we face, we're going to come out and do our best."

Steve's Floral
 www.STEVESFLORAL.net
 Voted BEST FLORIST In Manhattan
 "Established 1983"
 Serving You In Manhattan & Surrounding Areas
 785-539-6227
 Outside Manhattan 1-800-752-9105
 302 Poyntz • Downtown (9, D6)

- Cut Flowers
- Silk Flowers
- Funeral Arrangements
- Wedding Arrangements
- Balloons
- Gifts
- Fruit Baskets

The BARN
 At Kimble Cliff
 "We sell memories"
ANTIQUES & Collectibles
 Open Fri. Sat. 1-5:30 PM
 Sun. 2-5:30 PM
 Weekdays By Appointment
 Betty & Neil Anderson
 (785) 539-3816
 6782 Anderson Ave.
 Manhattan, KS 66503

Affordable Health Insurance For College Students
JOSH SALMANS
 Agent
 Town East Shopping Center
 463 East Poyntz (By K-Mart)
 Manhattan, KS 66502-5045
 Off: (785) 776-8754
 Fax: (785) 776-8841
 STATE FARM INSURANCE COMPANIES
 HOME OFFICES: BLOOMINGTON, ILLINOIS
 "Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there"

Dara's Fast Lane
VALUES ABOUND HOT STUFF PIZZA
 Large PIZZA FOR MEDIUM CHARGE
HOT STUFF PIZZA
 Candlewood Hot Stuff
 3270 Kimball
 587-8833
 Highway 24 Hot Stuff
 8811 E. HWY 24
 587-8844
HOT STUFF PIZZA

RadioShack.
 You've got questions. We've got answers.
 Manhattan
XM SATELLITE RADIO BLOWOUT!
PIONEER & M903XM Receiver
TERMINAL MOUNT ANTENNA
 VALUE $169.99
 $100 Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price
 Your Net Cost $69.99
 Now Located on Ft. Riley Blvd.
 Between 10th and 11th streets
 537-1476

PAT'S PAWN & GUN SHOP, INC.
 WE BUY, SELL AND TRADE
 MON-FRI 9 a.m.-6 a.m.
 SAT 9 a.m.-5 a.m.
 GUNS
 SMITH & WESSON
 HANDGUNS • RIFLES
 COLT • RUGER
 SHOTGUNS
 506 Riley St. • Ogden
 539-0151

HUNAM Restaurant
 free delivery
 Please present coupon
 Buy 1 Buffet, Get 2nd half off
 Expires March 19, 2003
 Reg. $6.95
 Sunday-Thursday only
 (not valid with any other offer) • Free Delivery (minimum $9 purchase)
 free delivery
 1304 Westloop
 539-8888

FRANZ-WHITE
 Liquor - Wholesale & Retail
 539-5052
 Case Lot Discounts
 Import Tues. 10% OFF
 Wine Wed. SAVE UP TO 20%

KNEAD MASSAGE?
Body First
 2308 Anderson
 (785) 587-8300
 www.bodyfirst.com
KSU STUDENT DISCOUNT
One Hour Massage
$35
 With K-state student ID
 Not valid with any other discount or special offer.
 Call for an appt.
 (785) 587-8300
 www.bodyfirst.com

Power
 to choose...
 great pay
 paid holiday vacation pay
 life/health insurance
 referral bonuses
 free office tech. training
 free service quality training
 your own path.
MANPOWER
 776-1094
 www.manpower.com
 639 Poyntz, Suite 245 Manhattan

Like a GOOD neighbor STATE farm is there.
 Check out our Student Health Plans
 1115 Westport Drive
 "Next to Sunflower Bank"
 Manhattan, KS 66502
 Off: 537-1809 Home: 537-4366

Perfect Stitches Tailoring
 Alterations and Dry Cleaning
 219 S. 4th
 Manhattan, KS
 (785) 776-6912
 Susan Pickett

ON THE WILD SIDE
GOOD LUCK, LADY WILDCATS!
 • Subway Posters • Hoops & Rings
 • Incense • Beads
 • Door Bells • Tapestries
 • T-Shirts • Disc Golf
 • Hockey Socks • Clothing
 • Jewelry • Much More...
 Come check us out in Aggieville
 MON.-FRI. 11-6:30 SAT. 11-6
 1128 Moro, Aggieville • 776-2252

Bowinkle's Sports Bar & Grill
Monday Specials
 $3.75 DOMESTIC PITCHERS w/
 PURCHASE OF A $1 GLASS. YOU KEEP THE GLASS.
 $2.00 AMARETTO SOURS
 $4.95 MARGARITA PITCHERS
 15¢ WINGS
 BRING YOUR KSTATE ID IN AND GET A FREE ORDER OF CHIPS AND SALSA WITH THE PURCHASE OF A MEAL
 (VALID ONLY ON MARCH 28TH) 3043 Anderson Ave. • 776-1022
Tuesday Specials
 $2 CORONA & CORONA LIGHT
 $1.50 TEQUILA SHOTS
 $4.95 MARGARITA PITCHERS
 $2 TEQUILA SUNRISE
 $.50 TACOS
 $.75 TACO BURGERS

COUGHING, SNIFFING, SNEEZING??
DO YOU SUFFER FROM
 • HEADACHES
 • RUNNY NOSE
 • WATERY EYES
 • COUGHING
 • SORE THROAT
 • SHORTNESS OF BREATH
WE CAN HELP
 USING A NATURAL APPROACH WITHOUT PRESCRIPTION DRUGS
CHIROPRACTIC NATURAL HEALTH CARE
 THE WAVE OF THE FUTURE
 1130 WESTPORT DR. STE #5 MANHATTAN, KS
 (785) 539-9113
CALL ME TODAY
 PROVIDER for
 PREFERRED HEALTH SYSTEMS
 BLUE CROSS AND BLUE SHIELD
 Dr. Thad Pall

2002-03 Roster

- | | | |
|--------------------|---------------------|----------------------|
| 03 Nicole Ohlde | 21 Kari Hanson | 43 Amy Dutmer |
| 04 Kimmerly Newsom | 22 Chelsea Domenico | 50 Jessica McFarland |
| 10 Laurie Koehn | 34 Megan Mahoney | 53 Kendra Wecker |
| | 42 Brie Madden | |

Advertising Illustration by Kylie Krehbiel

GAS 4 LESS

CHECK OUT OUR GAS PRICES
539-2827

RED Residential & Commercial
Sales Service Installation
537-2869
8964 Green Valley Dr.
Manhattan

ExpertTire
776-8311

Chase Manhattan
APARTMENTS
(785) 776-9663 (24 hours)
1409 Chase Place • Manhattan, KS
Go, Cats!

Good Luck, Ladies!

Go, Lady Cats!
The Women of Kappa Delta

Rambler's
STEAK HOUSE
& SALOON

New ribbon yarns!
Wildflower Yarns & Knitwear supports the Lady Wildcats!
103 N. 3rd

Congratulations on a great season!
1127 Westloop Manhattan Town Center
Mon.-Fri. 10-8 Mon.-Fri. 10-9
Sat. 10-6 Sat. 10-9
Sun. 12-5 Sun. 12-6
537-8191
GNC LiveWell

Go, Lady WILD cats!
From On the Side

Ceramic Canvas
1130 Manhattan Dr., Ste. 2
Manhattan, KS 66507
www.shirtsetc.com
ph: 785.770.8851
fax: 785.770.8852
creative fun for all ages and abilities
GO, LADY CATS!

Bring KSU Student ID and this ad and receive 15% off t-shirts
Design your own, we customize anything.
Mugs, License Plates, Mouse Pads, and much more.
Put your idea here!
Pub Crawls • Student Events • Organizations
770-8444
Manhattan Town Center Visit our website: www.shirtsetc.net

Go, Lady Cats!
Women of Kappa Delta

3015 Anderson Ave.
537-9235
GOLF USA

Go, Lady Cats!
From On the Side

Tuesday, March 25, 2003

Senators to discuss plan for tuition

Senate plans to review 5-year revenue plan

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The first steps toward a five-year tuition revenue plan will happen tonight at a meeting with student senators.

Members of the executive and academic affairs committees will meet at 7 tonight in the Office of Student Activities and Services to discuss a list of enhancements compiled by university legislation. The meeting is open to the public, and students are encouraged to attend, John O'Hara, student senate chair and co-author of legislation, said.

O'Hara said the meeting's purpose is to begin analyzing and prioritizing enhancements the student body wants to see throughout the next year.

"The administration has put together some different things they're looking at for the course of next year," O'Hara said. "We want to hear what the students have to say and what they want to see happen over the course of the year and make sure they have a voice."

Among the list of student enhancements are the increase of student wages on campus, graduate teaching assistant salaries, the global education initiative and library funds, he said.

In addition, details for a five-year tuition plan, similar to that of the University of Kansas, will be discussed. With the plan, O'Hara said students will be able to see where the $10 million in additional tuition revenue will be going.

"We are the ones who are paying for the additional tuition," he said. "It's really important to stress that our money is not going to fill what the state is lacking funding-wise."

Student body president Zac Cook, however, said he disagrees with drawing up a plan similar to KU's.

According to Student Senate legislation, KU's five-year plan would bring in 100 new faculty, bring in 40 to 50 new staff members, increase GTA salaries by 30 percent, waive the graduate research assistant tuition and increase student wages by 50 cents per hour, among other

See FEES Page 10

HOME SWEET HOME

Photos by Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Sonder Smith, sophomore in biology and pre-medicine, gives violin lessons to fourth-grader Sophia Sabates at her parents' home where she lives.

Living at home remains beneficial for student

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Living on their own is one thing people may look forward to when going to college.

But Sonder Smith said she does not feel deprived of the "college experience" by living at home with her parents.

"A lot of people could say that I'm missing out, but I don't feel like I am."

I'm still able to meet people. I have friends who live in the dorms and in apartments, and I can go hang out over there with them," Smith, sophomore in biology and pre-medicine, said.

"Part of college is learning how to live your life, and I think everyone should do that in their own unique way," she said.

Smith said she had originally planned to attend K-State for only two years in the pre-pharmacy program and then transfer to the University of Kansas. This was part of the reason she stayed at home.

She said she later changed her major to pre-medicine and realized she would be at K-State for four years. Instead of moving out, she decided to continue living with her parents.

"I didn't have to worry about finding an apartment, moving in, buying groceries, buying furniture. It's nice to have it all right here," she said. "A lot of people don't even have the opportunity to live at home while at school."

Living with her parents has many benefits compared to living in the residence halls, Smith said.

"I have my own room and my own bathroom. I also like having a kitchen."

Sonder Smith, sophomore in biology and pre-medicine, eats with her parents, Mike and Rita Smith. Sonder has been a Manhattan resident her whole life and lives at home with her parents.

"I really didn't even want to live in the dorms. My parents and I talked about it a lot at first, but I think they're glad I stayed home," she said.

Rita Smith, Sonder's mother, said she is happy her daughter stayed home.

"We all just have a great time. It's a lot of fun having her around," she said.

Rita said living at home accommodates Sonder's busy schedule.

"It gives her more time to keep up with her busy schedule. There's quite a few things to keep up with when you live on your own - little things that most people may not think about," she said.

See HOME Page 10

America At War

Bush addresses Iraqi war costs in money, mortality

By Scott Lindlaw
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON - President Bush is confronting the costs of the war in Iraq in lives and dollars, grieving for lost civilians and soldiers while telling lawmakers it will cost at least $70 billion to fight Baghdad.

The White House has for months refused to provide a price tag for war in Iraq, saying too many variables were at play. That stance forced Congress to vote last week on budget resolutions that included Bush's proposed tax cuts, without war costs factored in.

Bush planned to provide the estimate to congressional leaders Monday, ensuring that lawmakers' discussion of war spending will take place amid a surge of public support for American troops. Aides at the White House and on Capitol Hill said the figure will be between $70 billion and $80 billion.

Congressional aides said it will include $62 billion for the Putting it in perspective

The Congressional Budget Office estimated the cost of deploying/returning troops to be $20 billion and the cost of fighting the war to be $9 billion per month. Post-war cleanup is expected to be $4 billion a month.

■ The total cost of a 2-month war and a 2-year occupation is $134 billion. ■ $134 billion translates into 10,559,169 K-State diplomas. ■ $134 billion translates into the cost of 1,599,140 new Dodge Vipers.

* Based on average 130 credits to graduate with in-state tuition at $97.25/hr.

More quick facts

■ Yale economist William Nordhaus offered a worst-case scenario stating the total cost of war and aftermath would be $1.6 trillion. (President Bush proposed a $2.25 trillion budget for 2004.) ■ The Pentagon underestimated the cost of the Vietnam War by 90 percent. That total cost was $494 billion.

Source: www.businessweek.com

Chelsea Schmidt | COLLEGIAN

Resistance, weather slow coalition forces

By David Espo
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S.-led warplanes and helicopters attacked Republican Guard units defending Baghdad on Monday while ground troops advanced to within 50 miles of the Iraqi capital. White House aides said a down payment on war-related costs would come to $75 billion.

Five days into Operation Iraqi Freedom, fierce resistance prevented American and British forces from securing the southern cities of Basra and An Nasiriyah and thwarted efforts to extinguish burning oil wells.

Iraq claimed custody, as well, of two American pilots after a helicopter went down, in addition to a handful of POWs taken over the weekend.

"These things are never easy," British Prime Minister Tony Blair conceded Monday, the day his country suffered its first combat casualty of the war. "There will be some difficult times ahead but (the war) is going according to plan despite the tragedies."

Saddam sought to rally his own country in a televised appearance. "Be patient, brothers, because God's victory will be ours soon," he said, appearing in full military garb and seeming more composed than in a taped appearance broadcast last week.

Despite Saddam's defiant pose, a military barracks in the northern part of the country was bombed, and Baghdad fell under renewed air attack by day and by night. Iraqis set up mortar positions south of the city and piled sandbags around government buildings and other strategic locations, in evident anticipation of a battle to come.

"Coalition forces are closing in on Baghdad," Maj. Gen. Stanley McChrystal told reporters at the Pentagon.

He said U.S. Apache helicopters attacked Saddam's Republican Guard forces arrayed

INSIDE

Angel Wilson gives readers a list of items to ponder besides conflicts in the Middle East

Opinion, Page 4

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Family identifies Kansas soldier as one of the captives kept in Iraq as prisoner
Pfc. Patrick Miller, 23, of the Wichita, Kan., area is among the five soldiers captured Sunday. Miller and the other captured soldiers were thrust in front of an Iraqi TV microphone and peppered with questions Sunday.
Page 8

Saddam uses religious undertones, patriotism to rally Iraqis

Saddam Hussein is rallying Iraqis by portraying the war as one pitting the faithful against evil. A televised address shown on state-run television Monday underlined his strategy to rally Iraqis through Islam.

Crude oil price jumps on fears of a longer-than-expected war in Iraq
Crude prices surged Monday on market fears that the war in Iraq might take longer than some anticipated. Iraq pumped 2.5 million barrels a day before fighting began.

Ignited propane gas tank causes explosion outside U.S. Navy base

An ignited propane gas tank caused an explosion outside the U.S. Navy 5th Fleet base in Bahrain on Monday night, shattering windows at nearby houses but injuring no one, officials said.

Singapore quarantines more than 700 people to contain mysterious illness
Singapore on Monday ordered about 740 people who may have been exposed to a mysterious flu-like illness to stay home for 10 days. The state recorded 65 cases of severe acute respiratory syndrome, or SARS.

Weather

Today 61 | 33

Partly cloudy

Wednesday 66 | 41

Mostly sunny

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 121

See COST Page 10

* See IRAQ Page 10

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Rope
5 Wound
9 Promptly
12 Gumbo
13 "Oops!"
14 Sapporo
15 Cadets'
17 Director
18 Suggestion
19 Quoted
21 Center of 24 Persian
25 Singer
26 Tries
30 Old
31 Bakery
32 "Caught
33 He'd like
35 Took off
36 Parka
37 Browning

DOWN

1 The
2 ... owed
3 ... many to
4 Blue
42 Seesaw
43 Man-
44 Brooklyn
45 ... the 46 Tatum's
47 Unctuous
50 Request
52 Antitoxins
53 Benefit
54 ... and its
55 Milne's
56 The
57 ... in which
58 ... the
59 ... the
60 ... the
61 ... the
62 ... the
63 ... the
64 ... the
65 ... the
66 ... the
67 ... the
68 ... the
69 ... the
70 ... the
71 ... the
72 ... the
73 ... the
74 ... the
75 ... the
76 ... the
77 ... the
78 ... the
79 ... the
80 ... the
81 ... the
82 ... the
83 ... the
84 ... the
85 ... the
86 ... the
87 ... the
88 ... the
89 ... the
90 ... the
91 ... the
92 ... the
93 ... the
94 ... the
95 ... the
96 ... the
97 ... the
98 ... the
99 ... the
100 ... the

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 3-25

CRYPTOQUIP

RIKRZIFT IL VLXTEFKV
VBF T LUIFA UEAT
BKFVFXU EA "CXRIILLAEZ"
KFXRIELAVBECV
Yesterday's Cryptquip: IF YOU THREW
GELATIN AT A COP, COULD HE ARREST YOU FOR
USING A CONGEALED WEAPON?
Today's Cryptquip Clue: L equals O

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-226-5951/995 per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service. NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

RIKRZIFT IL VLXTEFKV
VBF T LUIFA UEAT
BKFVFXU EA "CXRIILLAEZ"
KFXRIELAVBECV
Yesterday's Cryptquip: IF YOU THREW
GELATIN AT A COP, COULD HE ARREST YOU FOR
USING A CONGEALED WEAPON?
Today's Cryptquip Clue: L equals O

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to: Crypt Classics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error. © 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadle 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Keadle 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2003

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

Highway patrolmen stop gas-mask-wearing motorist

By Chuck Shepherd
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE

South Dakota highway patrolmen made a guns-drawn stop of a motorist in February, because he was driving his van on Interstate 90 while wearing a gas mask (but he said he was just making a restaurant delivery of food that had an unpleasant smell).

Mikhail Kalashnikov, 83, inventor of terrorists' favorite assault rifle, expressed remorse for his invention recently, said he wanted to rehabilitate his name and signed on with a German company to manufacture Kalashnikov umbrellas.

North Korea's Kim Jong Il turned 61 in February, which was an opportunity for countrymen to give Christmas-type presents to their kids, for Kim to celebrate by turning on the electricity at government farms for a whole 24 hours straight, and for the official news agency to remind people of Kim's accomplishments, including 11 holes-in-one in his first-ever round of golf.

Interesting phobias

James C. Schaefer recently self-published an autobiography chronicling what he believes was his textbook case of Wisconsinaphobia (heightened anxiety attacks and debilitating back pains at any mention of the state or anything associated with it). After relocating from Milwaukee to California, he has become unnerved by people speaking with Wisconsin's nasal accents, mentions of Wisconsin companies (Harley-Davidson) and Wisconsin-made products, Green Bay Packers' scores, and even public utilities (since he had been a systems analyst for the largest utility in Wisconsin).

Schaefer, 64, said he is now "90 percent" cured, after intensive therapy.

Widow legislation

The attorney general of the Australian state of Victoria told reporters in February that the government would soon propose legislation to abolish the common-law practice of varying the death benefits for widows according to how pretty they are.

Technically, the doctrine allows a discount on a widow's compensation if she has strong prospects of remarriage, and judges thus unavoidably take note of her attributes in deciding how much money she needs. (The widow most recently judged a looker lost about US $62,000 until an appeals court intervened.)

Readers' choice

Police called on a woman in Kent, Ohio, in February, asking her to make adjustments to a female snowman in her yard whose breasts had been made, according to a complainant, "inappropriate(ly)" large.

The woman, Crystal Lynn, at first acceded to the officer's request and draped the snowman in a tablecloth, but after giving more thought about the mentality of a person who would, in the year 2003, call the police about protrusions of ice, she removed the tablecloth, and the officer dropped the matter.

Names in the news

Antoinette M. Hooker, 40, was sentenced to 21 days in jail for, what else, prostitution (Berks County, Pa., February). The assistant pastor of St. Paul's University Catholic Center in Madison, Wis., who was placed on administrative leave in January after being accused of sexual improprieties: Father Bob DeCock.

A 21-year-old motorcyclist received a light sentence for causing a vehicular death because the judge viewed the collision basically as an accident rather than as caused by marijuana, which the man had admitted to using beforehand; the prosecutor, Ms. Mary Jane Kanabis, was disappointed at the sentence (Greenwich, Conn., December).

Government in action

In February, in her last meeting as mayor of South Gate, Calif. (a Los Angeles suburb), after being overwhelmingly ousted in a special election by voters certain that she and some colleagues were corrupt, Ms. Xochilt Ruvalcaba, 30, sucker-punched nemesis Councilman Henry Gonzalez (age 67, who walks with a cane) in the face. The assault took place in front of 200 catcalling anti-Ruvalcaba voters, some video-recording the meeting.

The Tacoma News Tribune reported in January that Washington state's halfway house for former sex offenders who are kept on for treatment after their prison terms expire is costing taxpayers about $340,000 per "patient" per year (vs. about $25,000 per year to house a prison inmate). So fearful is the state that the three men now housed there will harm the 11 schoolchildren in a nearby elementary school that it has assigned three counselors, a director and a state trooper to watch the men around the clock. Gov. Gary Locke has targeted the program for a cutback, but legislators resist because of their fear of the three men.

People different from us

Gary Lee McMurray, 30, was arrested in February for grand larceny in Jonesville, Tenn. Police said McMurray telephoned Debra Letourneau of Long Hollow while she was at the home of another man, told her he had her upper plate of false teeth, and told her that if she did not pay him a ransom, he would stomp on them.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Friday, March 21

■ At 8:15 a.m., Jerred Snyder, 318 Fremont, No. 4, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $133.
■ At 10:13 a.m., Billy Womack, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 2:35 p.m., Jerod Chambliss, 2215 College, No. 218, was arrested for burglary. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 3 p.m., Jason Calhoun, 725 Crestline, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 3:46 p.m., Patrick Polson, 3412 Musil, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 3:54 p.m., Jason Leonard, 3312 Shadyvalley, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $200.

Saturday, March 22

■ At 12:25 a.m., Kenneth Cody, Fort Riley, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 12:25 a.m., Michael Greenstone, Fort Riley, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 12:25 a.m., Daniel Reyes, 2211 Timbercreek, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 1:20 a.m., Nikolas Hawkins, Fort Riley, was arrested for obstructing the legal process. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:15 a.m., Kevin Wiley, 3000 Tuttle Creek, No. 140, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

set at $750.
■ At 2:30 a.m., Joseph Takens, Fort Riley, was arrested for obstructing the legal process. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 3:05 a.m., Nathan Jeffries, 2600 Millstead, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance, unlawful possession of depressants and DUI. Bond was set at $2,250.
■ At 7:55 a.m., Scott Winter, 906 Gardenway, No. 6, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 9:25 a.m., Alexis Scarnegie, 710 Crestwood, No. 9, was arrested for battery, criminal damage property and failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,653.50.
■ At 6:55 p.m., Uriah Hall, Fort Riley, was arrested for forgery. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 10:22 p.m., Jonas Stoffers, Fort Riley, was arrested for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $750.

Sunday, March 23

■ At 12:30 a.m., Corey Worthington, 401 Dix, was arrested for falsely reporting a crime. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 2:30 a.m., Rusty Montreal, 2411 Woodway, No. K, was arrested for obstructing the legal process and failure to appear. Bond was set at $2,401.
■ At 3:01 a.m., Toni Keener, address unknown, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 3:06 a.m., Mitch Boller, 3012 Sandstone, No. 10, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 9 a.m., Miguel Salinas-Lopez, 15 Redbud Estates, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 12:05 p.m., Wendy Montgomery, 212 N. 5th, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ Career and Employment Services will conduct an Experiential Learning Orientation 2:30 p.m. today in Holtz Hall. Call 532-6506 for a reservation.
■ "The Gospel According to Harry Potter" study group will meet at 5 p.m. today in the ECM Campus Center.
■ Union Program Council will have a meeting open to any K-State student at 5 p.m. today in Union Station. Pizza and breadsticks will be provided.
■ Powercat Master Toastmasters Club will meet at 5:30 tonight in Durland 1029.
■ The Manhattan Midwest Mountain

Bike Patrol will meet at 6 p.m. today in north end of the Union Food Court.
■ The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for supper and Bible study at 6 p.m. today at 1745 Anderson Ave.
■ SGA committee meetings today in OSAS conference room: Senate operations at 6 p.m. and governmental relations at 9 p.m.
■ The Hispanic American Leadership Organization will meet at 6:30 p.m. tonight in Hale Library Tower Room 3.
■ There will be a seminar in religious studies at 7:30 tonight in the ECM Campus Center.
■ Christian Explorers will meet for praise and worship at 9 tonight in the ECM Campus Center.
■ There will be a donation collection for Friends of the KSU Libraries 14th Annual Book Sale at Dillons East and West today through Wednesday. Donate books, audio and video tapes and CDs.
■ Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Donations are welcome. Contact Bryanne at bna388@ksu.edu.

In brief

Both the Royal Purple Yearbook and the Collegian won top national honors during the Spring National College Media Convention, sponsored by College Media Advisers. K-State was the only university to win Gold Crowns from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association for both yearbook and newspaper categories, which were based on last year's publications.

Up next | In Wednesday's Collegian

News | Behind the scenes of student teaching
See what happens when secondary education majors go to work at high schools.

Little Caesars
TUESDAY SPECIAL!
1 18" GIANT PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING
PLUS AN 8 PIECE ORDER OF CRAZY BREAD
$8.99
539-3333 PLUS TAX DELIVERY CHARGE MAY APPLY

Copy with us because we take pride in our work.
Clafin Books and Copies

The eCollegian
browse all about it!

THAI HOUSE

Good Food-Good Price
$2.50
Sweet & Sour Chicken
w/ steamed rice

Bring in this ad & a KSU student ID.
*Expires April 4.

Available Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday
from 5-9 p.m.

THAI HOUSE
587-8999
Manhattan Town Center
Picnic Place

Say HEESE
Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus

ONE BEDROOMS

1022-1026 Sunset $345-385
1212 Thurston $440-460

1950-1960 Hunting $440-460
1837 College Heights $385

DIAMOND
537-7701 1109 Hyton Heights Manhattan, KS 66502

Bobby T's
#1 Sports Bar & Grill

$1.50 Margaritas
50¢ Tacos
$1.50 Drums
$2 Coronas

Taco Tuesday

Game Show Road Show Trivia night begins March 25th @ 7:30

Costumes • Accessories
Shoes • Props • Masks
Wigs • Hats
Theatrical Makeup
539-5200
2011 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Manhattan

MANHATTAN
SHOE REPAIR

Sandals for Summer Fun

776-1193 • 216 S. Fourth • V.F.W. Plaza

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!
Delivers the latest! Pizza & Pub
OPEN THE LATEST!
770-3333

stick it to me
Tuesday
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
DINE-IN/CARRY-OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY

Special
12" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 12" POKEY STICKS $5.99
18" 1 TOPPING PIZZA OR 18" POKEY STICKS $6.99
M-F 11A-11P ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA • CAMPUS ADDRESS ONLY

Rock N Roll
wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Wednesday / minimum 6
pizza sauce / ranch extra + tax.
DINE-IN/CARRY-OUT OR DELIVERY MINIMUM DELIVERY $6.99

City Commission candidates debate

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

City Commission candidates discussed city budget cuts, economic development issues, privatization of city services, transportation development issues and smoking ordinances at a candidate forum Monday night.

With elections only one week away, all six candidates, local news media and more than 50 people attended the debate at 7 p.m. in the Manhattan Fire Department.

The League of Women Voters sponsored the event, along with the Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce, Manhattan Area Retired Teacher's Association, the NAACP and the Manhattan chapters of the American Association of Retired Persons and the American Association of University Women.

Gerri Simon, the League's first vice president, moderated the event, giving each candidate 90 minutes to respond to questions from local news media, followed by questions from audience members and two-minute closing statements.

Candidates first addressed Wal-Mart Supercenter's transportation development.

Incumbent candidate Ed Klimek said transportation development challenges were present even before talk of Wal-Mart expansion.

"An entrance to the Wal-Mart development off of McCall Road will relieve the pressure off of Tuttle Creek Boulevard and Bluemont, and allows people to turn early," he said.

"I think we've done a great job. The TDD is the first in the state of Kansas, and I'm looking forward to those improvements."

Local news media also asked candidates about proposals to privatize city services.

Candidate Marolyn Caldwell said she is against privatization.

"If we start saying economize, that's one thing, but I'm certainly not going to tell city employees that their jobs are forfeit," she said. "I don't think that we economize by allowing private industry to take over essential city services."

Other candidates, like John Collison, said the commission should take a close look at privatization.

"The city needs to look at these departments and see — can we do it better, smarter and more efficient?" he said.

"Can we combine departments? The county and city both have engineering departments, for example. We need to see if we can do something creative so the citizens of Manhattan are served by one group."

Audience members also asked candidates how they would monitor performance standards with privatization.

Candidate Pam Wilkie said the commission should examine what they expect in quality.

"They need to contract what would happen if quality fell below the expected standard and how that contract would be discontinued," she said. "I think that there should be some penalty for failing that contract, a financial penalty."

Economic development and incentive packages also were addressed by candidates.

Incumbent candidate Bruce Sneed said the economic development model can be tailored to the city's economic prospects, resources, skills and needs.

"Now again, the community is voting to continue economic development," he said. "Careful investments can reek economic benefits for our community. We have incentives, utilities, benefits, infrastructure — sometimes we have land, and we have property tax abatements that can be used wisely and carefully."

Commission candidates were also asked if they would favor adjustments to the city's revenue spending.

Candidate Mark Hatesohl said he is not interested in increasing property taxes.

"With Home Depot, the Target store, and once Super Wal-Mart gets in, that will increase our retail sales tax collection to the point where that will keep us ahead budget-wise without increasing property taxes," he said. "The only other option might be to increase user fees."

After two-minute closing statements from each candidate, Simon thanked sponsors, local news media and audience members.

Debbie Nuss, League president, said the organization helps sponsor the event before every election.

"The League tradition is to encourage an informed citizen base and know where candidates stand and provide for the public to know what they're getting at the polls," she said. "Our goal is to educate, not to take a position."

That goal includes educating voters like Ben Fenwick, sophomore in political science.

Fenwick attended the forum to see if City Commission candidates would address issues pertaining to students.

"Some candidates did talk about student housing," he said. "It's most definitely a concern, not only for students, but for other residents as well."

Fenwick said he plans to vote in next week's election and thinks more students should do the same.

"More students need to be a part of the political process, because they're the reason Manhattan exists," he said.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Christyn Murdock, junior in elementary education, competes for Alpha Delta Pi sorority in the hula-hoop contest during Greek Week festivities in City Park. The evening's activities also included a tricycle race and water balloon toss.

Greek Week kicks off with Greek Olympics

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's greek community kicked off Greek Week at City Park Monday night.

Themed "My Big Fat Greek Week," the kickoff event included a hula-hoop competition, a six-legged race, a water balloon toss, Kool-Aid chugging and a tricycle relay race.

Many of the competitions took place simultaneously, and as many people were allowed to enter as many events as they wished. Both guys and girls from different houses competed.

Sign-up sheets were put up at each house, and anyone who wanted to participate could do so, said Stephanie Grecian, sophomore in finance and member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Events for the rest of the week will include a comedian, announcing of homecoming pairs for next fall, a faculty breakfast, Up 'Til Dawn and an alumni reception at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art, Grecian said.

Greek Week is a time to get the greek community together as a whole, said Lori Pollman, junior in marketing and member of Chi Omega.

"We are raising money for St. Jude's Research Hospital

"My Big Fat Greek Week"

- Today: "Greek Idol" talent contest
- Wednesday: Comedian Mike Burton
- Thursday: Barbecue at City Park, "Singed Out" game show, announcement of Homecoming pairings
- Friday: Faculty appreciation breakfast, Up 'Til Dawn philanthropy
- Saturday: Open House carnival games, alumni appreciation reception

For the latest results check out www.ksu.edu/greekwk/results.

this week," Pollman said. Greek Week has a different feel from the rest of the year, Grecian said.

"The goal of Greek Week is to promote unity and greek life to members, non-members and alumni, rather than competition, which is what we're used to throughout the rest of the year," Grecian said.

Jason Tryon, kickoff event coordinator and member of Sigma Nu, agreed.

"We want everyone to have a good time," he said. "It's really low key — we're having fun together."

Tryon said it was good to see so many people there.

"We have a lot competing, but even more are coming to watch," he said.

"That's a good sign of people getting together in our greek community."

Ag Fest set to educate visitors on agriculture

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Agriculture is more than boys and cowboy boots, and Ag Fest co-chair Lynn Schwarz hopes this week's events will help change preconceptions.

"Agriculture often has a bad image on campus. People don't realize the whole spectrum it encompasses. So many majors have nothing to do with beef," Schwarz said. "Any career you could have, you could have in agriculture."

Ag Fest begins today with different activities daily.

"It is a week for us to celebrate and promote agriculture on campus," Schwarz said.

The Kiddie Barnyard will be today in Weber Arena, Schwarz said.

"We expect over 100 kids to show up," she said. "There will be different booths set up. This will give them their first basic idea of where their food comes from."

Ag Council President Josh Roe said Kiddie Barnyard may interest children who did not grow up in a farming environment.

"This annual event is kind of a unique experience for those kids who aren't around this stuff all the time," he said.

Roe said the main activity Wednesday night is the Cowboy Olympics. In the Olympics, teams of four will compete against each other for prizes.

"It's always a big hit. It's a farm competition, and it always ends up being real funny," he said.

The competitive events consist of things people do every day on a farm, Schwarz said.

"They'll be rolling hay, backing up a tractor through obstacles and taking buckets of water from one trough to another," she said.

A lecture and debate will be Thursday, and Schwarz said she hopes the whole campus will get involved.

"I wanted things that would draw people from across campus. In the debate, everyone can have their own opinion about something," she said.

Schwarz said the debate is drawing in people from all over the state.

"Adele Douglass will lecture before the debate, and then she will participate in the debate," she said. "It's a pretty big deal that we're getting her to come."

Roe said Douglass is from a well-known lobbying group in Washington, D.C.

"They lobby for animal rights — to ensure that farm animals are treated properly," he said. "Hopefully, the debate panel will be really informative to show what different people think about different issues."

The debate and lecture also will explain to consumers what goes on before they purchase their meat at a grocery store.

"People can learn of the in-

Check out Ag Fest events this week:

- 9 a.m. to noon today — Kiddie Barnyard in Weber Arena.
- 8:30 p.m. Wednesday — Cowboy Olympics in Weber Arena.
- 2:30 p.m. Thursday — Adele Douglass lecture in Weber 123; 6 p.m. — debate panel in Umberger 105.
- 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday — AGR/FarmHouse barbecue and tractor-driving contest in Call Hall lawn.
- All day Saturday — scavenger hunt across campus; 1 p.m. — Little American Royal in Weber Arena.

spectations and processes that affect the prices of meats," he said.

Roe said he has been involved in Ag Fest in the past, and it always has been a successful event.

"It is fun to see all of our hard work pay off. There's a lot of activities, and it's fun to see students participate and increase their knowledge."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.

CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

K-STATE
Bracket Madness

Unbelievable prizes
sweet sixteen
Men's & Women's Brackets

Free to enter get your bracket of the Union 11-1

more info
available @
royalpurple.ksu.edu

Purchase the 2003 Royal Purple
for $34.95 in Kedzie 103

GET A JOB AND SOME GREAT EXPERIENCE!

WANT A JOB WHEN YOU GRADUATE?

Most employers are looking for people who have experience. Get ahead of the competition and gain some valuable experience at the same time at the Kansas State Collegian.

We're looking for people who are reliable, show initiative, possess writing skills, and are creative and enthusiastic.

If this description fits you, please apply. Pick up an application and job description in Kedzie 103. The following positions are available.

EXECUTIVE POSITIONS

2004 Royal Purple editor in chief

Summer 2003 Collegian editor in chief

Summer 2003 Collegian advertising manager

Fall 2003 Collegian editor in chief

Fall 2003 Collegian advertising manager

Applications due 5 p.m. April 4

If we receive only single applications for these positions, the deadline extends automatically to April 11 to encourage applications.

GET THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kansas State University
Campus Phone Book

2004 royal purple

win SNL comedian
DARRELL HAMMOND tickets

To be eligible to win you and one other person must attend UPC's meeting this evening at 5:00p.m. in Union Station. Pizza and breadsticks will be provided.

If you would like more information, please call 532-6571.

HOTLINE: 532 6572

WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

TO THE POINT Spring break selflessness commendable

Getting tan and drunk wasn't at the top of everyone's spring break to-do list this year.

Some groups of students used the free week they were given to help those in need. That sacrifice of time and commitment to public service is to be commended.

Not only is it inspirational, but it speaks volumes in defense of college students on spring break that these few would devote themselves to building fences and working with children instead of trying their hardest to get on "Girls Gone Wild." This is a level of community service that could only be achieved by those who pledge a heart-felt commitment to charitable organizations.

These students didn't take a week off. They spent a week offering their services to others.

Instead of seeing volunteer work as a loss of spring break, more people should see it as an invaluable experience of self-enrichment that is to be treasured for a lifetime. These volunteers set an example for other people in a society dominated by self-interest.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

QUESTIONABLE

Important questions can be pondered without discussion of Middle East conflict

Welcome back to fabulous Manhattan. I hope that wherever you were over spring break was a lot more exciting than the flip-floppiness of this weather we're experiencing now. With so much seriousness going on in the world right now, I wanted to steer away from that for a while.

No, this is not to negate the relevance of these situations, but this is my feeble attempt to try to bring at least one smile in a very smile-less time. I extend this effort in the form of VIBE magazine's infamous "Twenty Questions," even though I have 25.

1. Is Saddam really angry because his name spelled backwards is madd-as?
2. Thanks to the war, is this officially the maddest March ever?
3. Shouldn't Osama bin Laden officially have his name changed to Osama bin Hiding? Or even Osama bin Not Found?
4. Can a teacher give a homeless child homework?
5. Is it just a coincidence that the word diet has the word die in it?
6. If all of the big stars boycott the Oscars, shouldn't their seats go to the makeup, hair and stunt people?
7. Since we're supposed to be boycotting everything French, does that mean that none of us will be kissing anytime soon?
8. Doesn't the title of R. Kelly's new CD "Chocolate Factory" make you a little nervous?
9. Since 50 Cent is now a millionaire, shouldn't his name be 100 Million Cent?
10. With songs like Nelly's "Air Force Ones" and Killer Mike's "A.D.I.D.A.S.," don't you think they should get discounts for free publicity?
11. Could a person from another country win on "American Idol"?
12. Shouldn't "Girls Gone Wild" really be called "Stank Girls who Embarrass Themselves and Their Families then Get Mad and Try to Sue"?
13. Do you really think that there are any virgins in the Virgin Islands?
14. Wouldn't it be funny if you put the word "down" behind President Wefald's last name?
15. Is it just me or is George W. Bush the best example of the beauty of affirmative action?

16. Isn't America a great place to live since a young, homely, black boy with an afro can grow up into a rich, famous white woman with silky tresses? Just ask Michael Jackson!
17. Shouldn't Martha Stewart be somewhere thanking God that we found something else in the world to talk about?

ANGEL WILSON

18. Since James Gandolfini (Tony Soprano on HBO's hit show "The Sopranos") has been whining about his contract, shouldn't he really have been named "Big Pussy" instead of Vincent Pastore?
19. Do you think the PGA doesn't want women to play with them or at the same places as them because they're afraid of being shown up by a woman?
20. Shouldn't all the classes that require us to be awake at 8 a.m. also be required to provide doughnuts and orange juice?
21. Are the members of B2K even old enough to be asking us to turn around so they can see our body go bump, bump, bump?
22. Shouldn't music-producer Pharrell be crowned the newest "hardest-working man in show business"?
23. Doesn't Buffalo Wild Wings truly have the bomb wings?
24. Shouldn't there be a law that arrests people with ugly toes and feet for wearing any type of open-toed shoe?
25. Does Paul Restivo talk a big game because he doesn't realize he's playing by himself?

Angel is a graduate student in college student personnel. You can e-mail her at angelw@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Anna Wetzel
COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Define irony: protesting violence with violence.

Hey, Pervis Pasco, are you going to go ahead and start celebrating our victory over Iraq?

Screw the Dixie Chicks, does anybody know where we can send in our CDs so we're not giving them money?

Hey, ladies, get your Paul Restivo Gone Wild on Spring Break 2003. You get to see Paul go crazy on spring break. If you order today, we'll give you Paul Restivo Gone Wild from last year.

You know why the French don't want to bomb Saddam Hussein? Because he hates America, he loves mistresses and wears a beret. He is French people.

I'd vote for Michael Moore if he ran for president.

Why don't we change the Fourum's name to the war opinion page?

This is what makes me mad, when there are a few artsy people that work for the Collegian that are so out of touch with reality and they make slanderous statements against the president during a time of war. I wish they'd wake up and see what the real people on K-State's campus thought.

Going to war without France is kind of like going to war without your accordion.

There's just something sexy about a Pepsi delivery man. Maybe it's the blue shirt, or maybe it's the power of the Pepsi. I just don't know.

OK, some of us are for the war. Some of us are opposed to the war. There. Now we can all go back to living our lives like we normally do.

Hey, Jane Fonda, is that you calling in saying you're cheering for Iraq? That is still so sad.

I'm glad that the Collegian staff doesn't run the country or we wouldn't be here anymore.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Identical-twin questions reveal more about individual, not set of sisters

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

I can predict it. Every time new friends find out my deep, dark secret, they return to me with a furrowed brow and angry fists.

"You never told me you were a twin," they belt out at me in a betrayed tone. My expression doesn't change, and I prepare myself for the mirage of generic questions and funny stories about how people always asked them if they were twins, since they look so much alike.

Yes, identical twins are very rare and unique. I know that it is not every day that you meet one or see them together on the street.

I know that you always wished you had a twin and wondered about it through childhood. I will be glad to answer your questions. I do it frequently, so I have it down.

1. Do I like being a twin? Well, I do love my sister Lauren, and I can say that I am grateful for the opportunity of having someone to play or fight with throughout my lifetime. But, do I like being a twin? I don't know how to live as a "single," so that question is impossible to answer.

2. Did we switch places with boyfriends or in school? Now, I think that many identical twins are obligated to try this once. Lauren and I did switch places in elementary school and were busted due to the lack of planning. I think switching places and trying to fool boyfriends is a sick joke, thus Lauren and I have not.

3. Do we communicate telepathically? Wouldn't you like to know? Sorry, no big surprise here. I can attribute things like finishing each other's sentences and having similar experiences while being apart, to simply growing up together. We respond to situations in similar ways because our belief systems are alike. Some things can never be fully explained though.

4. Do we feel each other's pain and ailments? Many twins say they get sick when the other is having a bad day or feels shooting pains when the other is injured, but I attribute that to coincidence. I watched my sister dislocate her knee on the softball field once and laughed out-loud as she fell to the ground, believing she was just clumsy. No pain here.

Beyond these questions something that is key in understanding twins is that they are still two individual people.

We are not going to follow each other to our own detriment just to be close. We lead our own lives, have very different boyfriends, are pursuing different careers and, most importantly, have our own personalities.

I do not look in the mirror and see Lauren. But twins grow to be very understanding and tolerable of name mistakes.

I know there are a hundred more questions that need to be answered, but I am sure that any twin you meet will fill you in on their own unique characteristics. I am only speaking on behalf of my sister and myself.

Lindsey is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at lp6666@k-state.edu.

TO THE EDITOR

Columnist wrong to label English professors; column subject, choice phrases should be considered further in future columns

Editor,

As officers and members of the Student Association of Graduates in English, we were outraged by the comments made by Opinion Editor Paul Restivo in regard to getting rid of "extreme feminists" in the English department, in his March 11 column, "Lent not just time to improve self, time to criticize the faults of others."

There is no excuse for Restivo singling out individuals by name, blaming them with the "fault" of "extreme feminism."

While Restivo didn't directly state or address this, we gathered that his underlying warrant is that "extreme feminism" is a bad, ill-founded thing. Even if we do accept this warrant, it's not entirely clear what Restivo means when he refers to "extreme feminists." Furthermore, it's not entirely clear that Restivo knows what he means by the term "feminist," or even has any consciousness of the history of oppression of women. Surely some feminists have been guilty of committing acts that are considered unacceptable, or bad, or even more generally, "extreme."

Unfortunately, some non-feminists have done the same. In fact, it was the "extreme" maltreatment of women by non-feminists, and more specifically, by men, which historically led to the feminist movement.

The professors to whom Restivo referred in his article are extremely well-respected women in their fields, and many of their students have lauded them as excellent teachers. In accusing them of wrong-doing in a public forum, Restivo has committed an act of violence against these women and their reputations, more commonly referred to as "libel."

Furthermore, while we don't know exactly what Restivo means when he refers to "extreme feminists," if he means it in any derogatory way toward these professors, he has chosen the wrong targets.

Many students behind this letter, men included, would consider these professors feminists of the same caliber as themselves. Surely these professors believe that all people should be treated as equals. Surely they are in favor of more acceptance of women in the workplace, particularly in academia.

While we would not call the professors Restivo named "extreme feminists," we do believe that there are many strong women who call themselves feminists in the English department. We are proud to have them, and we recommend that Restivo take some time to converse with them. He would probably find they are proud to find the adjective "feminist" attached to their names.

Finally, we noticed that Restivo is the "Opinion Editor" for the Collegian, suggesting that he should, at the very least, be a person of journalistic integrity, able to make ethical decisions about what should and should not go to print. Even in an opinion article, support of claims is necessary, and it is possible to commit acts of libel. We are disappointed to find Restivo's lack of integrity and ill-informed writing in the Collegian, an award-winning publication.

In fact, Restivo's approach to opinion writing seems to be that of "anything goes." We believe that, this time among others, he has gone too far, and we hope it won't go any further.

Erin Billing, Tim Bogner, Gina Berend, Ben Cartwright, Matt Groneman, Megan Marie, Darin L. Jensen, Connie Jane Poland, Francine Toff, Hugh O'Connell, Cree Roberts, Stephen Sink, Mathias Nilges, Sarah Hamblin, Amanda Demarais, Amy Hoskinson, Katherine Harder, Jennifer Kehler, Megan Bygness, Michelle Bartels, Erin Fritch, Sara Nettlingham, Heather Healy, Tina Maria
STUDENT ASSOCIATION OF GRADUATES IN ENGLISH

Students use spring break as time to help others in need

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While many students were lying on a beach in Cancun or partying in South Padre Island during spring break, Julie Christensen was digging through rocks and setting fence posts in Mexico.

Christensen, junior in theater, was among 30 other students participating in the Spring Break Alternative program through St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center. The group spent its spring break volunteering at a soup kitchen in Phoenix, Ariz., and at an orphanage in Imuris Sonora, Mexico.

"It's kind of like giving up my spring break, but it also has an absolutely amazing impact on me," she said. "For me, it's about serving. I really like to go out and have fun and serve people at the same time — it beats going out to Padre for me, because I know I'm doing something that's positive."

The student group boarded a charter bus on Friday, March 14, and arrived in Phoenix almost 24 hours later. For the next three days, students prepared food, sorted through donations, painted, did yard work and helped St. Vincent de Paul's homeless shelter serve more than 3,500 meals each day.

"We got so much done as a group," she said. "There were 30 of us in Phoenix for three days, working about 10 to 12 hours each day. I was just thinking that we put in about 1,000 volunteer hours, and that is when it really hit me that we were making a difference."

The group left Phoenix on Wednesday, March 19, traveling to its next stop on the spring break program — Casa de Elizabeth, an orphanage housing 105 children.

"The house is only run by two people, and it's all from donations," she said. "There were 30 of us crammed into two sleeping rooms and a

"I was able to do something not just for me, but for other people. It's a good feeling to know that at the end of the day, you helped someone else out."

Tara Lindahl
JUNIOR IN AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION

living room while we were there."

Christensen said volunteers played with children, painted living quarters and built a fence around the nearby garden. She said volunteers spent about eight hours each day with the children, giving them much needed attention.

"It was well worth it," she said. "The kids were so amazing. Their outlook on life and their ability to live with so little and be absolutely happy — it's just not something you see here."

St. Isidore's group wasn't the only one that devoted its time to others. Students in the Community Service Program's Alternative Spring Break also volunteered during their break.

Brian Hall, junior in pre-medicine, left with five other students on Saturday, March 15, driving almost 10 hours to volunteer at AIDS Services of Dallas.

"I've done this the last two years," he said. "It's a great way to meet people you wouldn't normally meet."

Students built a garden canopy, played with children, cleaned a warehouse and did general maintenance for four days at the 67 housing units devoted to HIV and AIDS victims and their families.

"I kind of enjoy doing community service, and logistically, it's pretty inexpensive," he said. "It's a lot of fun because you get pretty close to the people you work with. You meet neat people, from all walks of life. It's a real eye-opening experience."

Hall said beside giving back to the community, he also learned from the experience.

"I learned a lot about how families deal with health problems and saw it in a different kind of perspective," he said. "I feel like I've been pretty fortunate in my life, and I like to just help people out."

Tara Lindahl, junior in agricultural education, agreed.

Lindahl was among six other students in the program who traveled to Paducah, Ky. While there, students helped renovate a Habitat for Humanity home.

"I don't look at it as though I gave up my spring break," she said. "I wanted an opportunity to get out of Manhattan and Kansas, but I also wanted to have a productive spring break. This was a good opportunity to do something for someone else and to have a little vacation of my own."

Lindahl said students painted the interior of the home, cleaned windows, maintained the lawn and installed new flooring and cabinets. Students worked at the site for about seven hours each day.

"Doing something good for other people is something that we should all do," she said. "I believe in community service and believe it is something that everyone should participate in."

Lindahl said she plans to continue volunteering during her future spring breaks.

"Normally, spring breaks have just been for me — I'm the only one that has benefited from them," she said. "This spring break, I was able to do something not just for me, but for other people. It's a good feeling to know that at the end of the day, you helped someone else out."

SKY-HIGH HOOPS

Brett Ackerman, sophomore in economics, takes advantage of the warm weather by playing basketball outdoors Monday afternoon.
Evan Semón
COLLEGIAN

Students deem vacations successful

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Spring break is over, and students are going back to school.

"The worst part of my trip would have to be that we had to leave," Brian Rottinghaus, graduate student in secondary education, said. "It definitely wasn't long enough."

Rottinghaus spent four days of his spring break in South Padre Island with 14 of his closest friends.

"I have always heard that South Padre is a popular spring break destination, and you always want to check out the different locations while you're still in college."

"This will probably be one of my last opportunities to go somewhere for spring break since I'll be out of school soon," he said. "And anytime you have the opportunity to travel, it's a good idea to take advantage of it."

He said he was glad he took the trip, even though war with Iraq put a damper on his enjoyment.

"It's kind of hard to have this much fun when you know there's a war going on," he said. "I didn't let it keep me from having a good time, but it did put a more serious overtone to a spring break trip."

He didn't stay updated with all of the news, but he heard rumors that the Mexican border was being closed to visitors.

"A lot of people wanted to go down to Mexico to hang out, but I heard they weren't letting people in," he said. "I don't know if that's true or not, though."

Despite the war, Rottinghaus said the trip was very relaxing, and he spent a lot of time at the beach.

"The weather was nice the whole time with temperatures in the 80s, so we just hung out at the beach a lot," he said.

"The water was pretty nice out in the ocean, so we did a lot of swimming, too."

One evening, he took a two-hour cruise on a small double-decker boat.

"While on the cruise, I saw a school of dolphins," he said. "That was really cool."

Rottinghaus said another highlight of the trip was the lack of car trouble. On the way to South Padre, Rottinghaus said, the trip went smoothly.

"The traffic was backed up on the bridge to the island, but I don't think we had it that bad because we arrived on a Sunday," he said. "One of my friends said he was stopped on the bridge for over three hours. We were stopped for only about an hour."

Rottinghaus said it was a good thing to have so many people in his group.

"It was nice to have other drivers so we could drive different shifts," he said.

Lisa Horst, sophomore in elementary education, said she spent a lot of money.

"We spent a lot, but it was mostly on food at different restaurants," she said.

Horst flew to Seattle and then drove down the West Coast with her boyfriend.

"We rented a car, and that made the trip a lot of fun," she said.

The couple spent two days at Disneyland and one day at the Disney-owned California Adventure. The two also shopped at area malls and visited Newport Beach.

"My favorite ride at Disneyland was the Indiana Jones ride," she said. "My favorite area was Newport Beach."

She said she would go back again if she could.

"It was more than I expected," she said.

APARTMENT MODEL SHOWINGS!

NOW LEASING FOR SUMMER AND FALL!

1 BEDROOM

1119 Laramie #4
W 5p-8p
Sat/Sun 12p-3p
*Starting at $475

411 N 17th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

1722 Laramie
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $415

1005 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $420

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $430

1941 College Heights #9
W & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $375

1803 College Heights
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $425

1858 Claflin #15
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $410

418 Poyntz Ave
By Appointment Only
*Prices vary

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $400

210 N 4th St
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $510

Assortment of Conversion
Homes 1-4 BR
$360-$1100

2 BEDROOM

926 Bluemont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $560

1856 Anderson Ave #18
M 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $540

1026 Osage
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $520

1113 Bertrand #9
M & W 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sun 3p-5p
*Starting at $580

1005 Bluemont #7
M, T, & Th 3p-5p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $525

1001 Bluemont #1
M & W 4p-6p
T & Th 5p-7p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $700

1115 N 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $625

1419 Leavenworth #1
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $585

500 N. 12th
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $650

2 BEDROOM

1524 McCain
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $565

700 Fremont
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $490

2514 Stagg Hill Rd
By Appointment Only
*Starting at $570

3 & 4 BEDROOM

1611 Laramie #6
M 1p-4p
Th 3p-6p
Sun 3p-6p
*Starting at $765

2521 Candlecrest Cr
M, W, & Th 3p-6p
Sat 12p-3p
*Starting at $940

1700 N Manhattan
By Appointment Only
or No Appointment
needed M-Sat 11-2p,
just call MDI for individual showings
*Starting at $780

1620 McCain
By Appointment Only
or No Appointment
needed M-Sat 11-2p,
just call MDI for
individual showings
*Starting at $900

776-3804

Check out our website for more information on apartments at
www.mdi-manhattan.com
email: rentals@mdiproperties.com

210 N 4th St Suite C
P.O. Box 1088
Manhattan, KS 66505-1088
(785) 776-3804

2003 Principal/Counselor/Student Conference

Kansas State University

LIST OF HIGH SCHOOL LOCATIONS

(All assignments in Ahearn are table numbers not room numbers)

Tuesday, March 25 10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m.

- | | |
|--|---------------------------------|
| Apostolic Academy, Ahearn 58 | Manhattan - Courtyard 1 |
| Atchison County Community - Ahearn 1 | Marion - Ahearn 24 |
| Atchison - Ahearn 2 | Mill Valley - Courtyard |
| B & B Baileyville - Union Courtyard 11 | Minneapolis - Ahearn 25 |
| Baldwin - Ahearn 3 | Mission Valley - Ahearn 22 |
| Beloit - CANCELLED | Nemaha Valley - Union 206 B |
| Bennington/Tescott - Ahearn 46 | North Central - Ahearn 26 |
| Blue Valley (Randolph) - Ahearn 5 | Northern Valley - Ahearn 27 |
| Blue Valley (Stilwell) - Ahearn 6 | Olathe East - Union 207 A |
| Blue Valley North - Union Big 12 A | Olathe North - Union 207 B |
| Blue Valley Northwest - Union 205 | Olpe - Ahearn 28 |
| Bluestem - CANCELLED | Osage City - CANCELLED |
| Buhler - Ahearn 8 | Osborne - Courtyard 7 |
| Chaparral - Ahearn 9 | Osawatomie #5 - Ahearn 52 |
| Chapman - Union Big 12 B | Otis Bison - Ahearn 45 |
| Chase Co. - Union Big 12 C | Oxford - Ahearn 29 |
| Cimarron - CANCELLED | Paola - Ahearn 30 |
| Clay Center - Union Council Chamber | Pawnee Heights - Ahearn 31 |
| Derby - Ahearn 57 | Piper - Ahearn 50 |
| DeSoto - CANCELLED | Plainville - Ahearn 32 |
| Dighton - Ahearn 51 | Riley Co. - Ahearn 33 |
| Downs - Courtyard 10 | Rock Creek - Ahearn 34 |
| Ellinwood - Ahearn 59 | Rossville - Ahearn 55 |
| Ellis - Ahearn 12 | Royal Valley - Courtyard 8 |
| Emporia - Union Little Theater A | Sacred Heart - Ahearn 35 |
| Eudora - Ahearn 54 | Salina South - Union 209 |
| Eureka - Ahearn 13 | Scott Comm. - Ahearn 48 |
| Fredonia High School - Ahearn 53 | Seaman - Union 212 A |
| Goddard - CANCELLED | Sedan - Ahearn 39 |
| Greensburg - Ahearn 15 | Shawnee Heights and |
| Hartford - Ahearn 16 | St. Thomas Aquinas - Ahearn 36 |
| Haven - Ahearn 17 | Smith Center - Ahearn 37 |
| Haviland - Ahearn 18 | Southeast of Saline - Union 213 |
| Hays - Union Little Theater B | Stockton - Ahearn 38 |
| Herington - Courtyard 2 | Tecumseh-Union 212 B |
| Hesston - Courtyard 3 | Tipton Catholic - Courtyard 10 |
| Hiawatha - Union 202 | Tonganoxie - Ahearn 40 |
| Hillcrest - Ahearn 19 | Troy - CANCELLED |
| Hoisington - Courtyard 4 | Wabaunsee - Ahearn 56 |
| Holton - Union 203 | Waconda East - Courtyard 10 |
| Hoxie - Ahearn 20 | Wallace - Ahearn 42 |
| Hutchinson - Union 204 | Washington - Ahearn 43 |
| Inman - Ahearn 60 | Washington (KC) - Courtyard 9 |
| Jackson Heights - CANCELLED | Wichita East - Forum Hall C |
| Jayhawk Linn - CANCELLED | Wichita North - CANCELLED |
| Jefferson Co. North - Ahearn 47 | Wichita South - Forum Hall B |
| Jefferson West - Union 206 A | Wichita West - Forum Hall D |
| Lansing - Ahearn 49 | Wilson - Ahearn 44 |
| Maize - Ahearn 23 | |

NCAA Tournament

Above: After beating the University of Arizona to advance to the second round of the NCAA tournament, the Notre Dame Fighting Irish will play K-State tonight to see who will move on to the Sweet 16.
Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

Right: Jacqueline Batteast rebounds the ball in Notre Dame's win over Arizona in the first round of the NCAA tournament.
Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

SWEET OR SOUR?

Cats ready for Notre Dame's best

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Deb Patterson issued a friendly warning to 11th-seeded Notre Dame during Monday's media meeting.

"Anyone that approaches Kansas State's basketball team and isn't pre-occupied and doesn't direct the gameplan towards Nicole Ohlde will suffer the consequences," she said. "That's not really a threat. It's just a statement."

The Irish will no doubt heed that warning before their 8:37 p.m. tip with the Wildcats tonight at Bramlage Coliseum.

Patterson's advisory was only a formality, though. Ohlde's first-round performance against Harvard spoke for itself.

The Big 12 Player of the Year booked 20 points and nabbed eight rebounds, despite battling the Crimson's constant double-teams.

The extra attention isn't a surprise either.

"Nicole Ohlde will get as much attention as anyone on the floor every time we take the floor from this point on," Patterson said.

Listening to the Cats' offensive gameplan, it's tough for K-State's opponents to avoid devoting pressure to the Wildcats' strength in the post.

Neither Patterson nor any Wildcat perimeter player denies that K-State's hopes lie primarily in the ability of Kendra Wecker and Ohlde.

"We definitely want to get the ball to Ohlde and Kendra because they are our go-to people and we need them to be touching the ball," sophomore guard Laurie Koehn said.

Koehn, who canned four of 13 tries from 3-point range Sunday and finished with 17 points, is a big part of the Cats' offense too.

Nevertheless, it all keys on K-State's ability to penetrate opponents' defense.

"Even if they're getting it in double and triple teams, they're going to find the open person," Koehn said.

The Wildcats found the open player in plenty of circumstances Sunday.

K-State shot 48 percent from the field and knocked down 17 of 22 attempts at the free throw line to outlast Harvard after the Irish's shocker.

Notre Dame, however, struggled from the field.

Muffet McGraw's squad managed just a 29-percent efficiency and turned the ball over 19 times, but Patterson is expecting a better effort from the Irish tonight.

Part of that view is based on the improvement of second-team All-Big East selection Jacqueline Batteast.

No. 3 K-State (29-4) vs. No. 11 Notre Dame (20-10)

When: 8:37 p.m.
Where: Bramlage Coliseum (13,340)
Tickets: 10,700 reserved seats have been sold.
Tickets are available by calling 1-800-221-CATS.

The sophomore was just 1-of-16 against Arizona, but Batteast still averages 14.5 points per contest.

"You don't expect Batteast to struggle at that level more than once every 25 games," Patterson said. "You know you're going to get a better game out of her, and you know that it's not typical to struggle."

Even while Batteast struggled, Notre Dame stayed tough on defense.

The Irish forced 23 Wildcat turnovers and capped Arizona's shooting at 23 percent.

"It's just a very smart basketball team. They defend extremely well," Patterson said.

That said, K-State will be focused from the beginning on getting good looks on every offensive touch.

Ohlde is just 22 points from the school scoring record, but on a higher level, a trip to the Sweet 16 is also up for grabs.

"I would hope that in bringing that mindset," Patterson said, "we could compete well!"

Cats should top Irish tonight

Still think women's basketball is less exciting than a bowl of Malt-O-Meal?

Obviously you weren't paying much attention last weekend during some of the most exciting hours in women's sports history.

The NCAA Tournament field was whittled to 32 last Saturday and Sunday. On Monday, eight more teams were ousted, and the final eight Sweet 16 tickets got punched tonight.

If you haven't figured it out yet, these chicks can play.

Manhattan has its own brand of March Madness brewing, too, with a second-round matchup between upset-minded Notre Dame and Coach Deb Patterson's Wildcats on tap tonight.

Wonder how that one will turn out? Here's five reasons why the Leprechauns could come out victorious tonight – and one big one why they won't.

1. The luck of the Irish

Was Alicia Ratay's shooting clinic against Arizona on Sunday pure skill? The Notre Dame star scored nine of

See IRISH Page 10

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

MLB | Expos acquire Livan Hernandez
The Montreal Expos acquired Livan Hernandez from the San Francisco Giants on Monday night, uniting the former World Series MVP with his half brother, Orlando Hernandez.

Montreal acquired Livan Hernandez and catcher Edwards Guzman and cash in exchange for pitcher Jim Brower and a player to be named.

Livan Hernandez, 28, was 12-16 with a 4.38 ERA last year for the Giants, and he has a 69-69 major league record and 4.42 ERA since defecting from Cuba. He won the World Series MVP award with Florida in 1997.

• • •

MLB | Johnson signs extension
Randy Johnson and the Arizona Diamondbacks enjoyed their first four years together so much that they don't want to end the relationship any time soon.

Johnson, who has won the NL Cy Young every year he's been in Arizona, agreed Monday to a $33 million, two-year contract extension with the Diamondbacks.

The deal will keep Johnson in an Arizona uniform through his 42nd birthday, and is the largest average annual salary of any pitcher in baseball history. Roger Clemens averaged $15.45 million with the New York Yankees in 2001 and 2002.

• • •

MLB | Wells looking to clear the air
New York Yankees pitcher David Wells, the center of attention this spring because of his autobiography, wants to meet with George Steinbrenner to find out where things stand.

Wells has said "hi" each time he crosses the path of Steinbrenner, but the Yankees owner has yet to answer. The New York Post reported in Monday's editions.

• • •

MLB | Puckett's trial begins
Kirby Puckett's sexual assault trial began Monday, with the Hall of Famer accused of dragging a woman into a restaurant men's room and groping her.

Prosecutors contend the former Minnesota Twins star grabbed the woman's breast before she escaped from the bathroom at the Redstone American Grill in suburban Eden Prairie on Sept. 6.

• • •

NFL | Bucs-Eagles to open Monday lineup
The Super Bowl champion Tampa Bay Buccaneers will visit Philadelphia again on the opening Monday night of the 2003 NFL season in a rematch of last season's NFC championship game.

TOURNAMENT UPDATE

East

(5) Boston College 86, (4) Vanderbilt 85
(2) Purdue 80, (7) Virginia Tech 62

West

(1) LSU 80, (8) UWGB 69
(6) Minnesota 68, (3) Stanford 56

Midwest

(1) Tennessee 81, (8) Virginia 51
(6) Colorado 86, (3) North Carolina 67

Midwest

(5) Georgia 74, (4) Rutgers 64
(6) New Mexico 73, (3) Mississippi State 61

BY THE NUMBERS

No. 3 K-STATE vs. No. 11 NOTRE DAME

After an upset of sixth-seeded Arizona Sunday, a Sweet 16 appearance is on the line tonight when 11th-seeded Notre Dame and third-seeded K-State square off tonight:

Wildcats	PPG	RPG	AST/G	BLK/G
K. Wecker - F	19.3	8.3	3.7	0.3
N. Ohlde - C	18.5	8.9	3.2	1.9
M. Mahoney - F	14.2	6.3	4.8	0.2
L. Koehn - G	12.8	3.5	1.9	0.1
C. Domenico - G	3.5	3.0	3.2	0.0

Irish	PPG	RPG	AST/G	BLK/G
J. Batteast - F	14.5	8.3	2.5	1.5
C. LaVere - F	12.6	5.7	0.7	0.9
A. Ratay - G	12.0	4.8	1.3	0.3
T. Borton - C	8.2	4.8	0.9	1.2
L. Severe - G	7.2	3.5	3.9	0.2

Category	K-STATE	Notre Dame
Record	29-4	20-10
Points per game	75.3	66.2
Scoring margin	+17.9	+4.9
Rebounds per game	40.3	38.3
Rebound margin	+7.6	+3.0
Field goal percentage	.485	.432
Defensive FG percentage	.355	.366
3-point FG percentage	.381	.329
Free throw percentage	.725	.741
Assists per game	18.3	13.7
Turnovers per game	15.4	18.4
Blocks per game	4.5	4.9
Steals per game	7.5	9.0

NCAA fans not significantly affecting business

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Fans are buying NCAA Tournament tickets, but the local economy isn't receiving quite the boost that one might expect.

The reason is simple – season ticket holders are the ones with tournament tickets, Bob Howell, ticket manager, said.

"Most of those ticket holders are from communities around here," Howell said.

So, hotels, for example, aren't seeing significantly higher occupancy than normal.

Tickets are selling for the tournament, though. Attendance at Sunday's game was 10,732, the third best for an East regional first- or second-round game in NCAA history.

Tonight's game against Notre Dame is expected to draw an even larger crowd.

As of Monday evening, 10,770 tickets had been sold.

Howell said he was hoping for a sellout crowd, but with tickets still available, he didn't anticipate that happening.

The same, however, isn't true of local restaurants.

John Rychlock, general manager of the Ramada Inn, 17th Street and Anderson Avenue, said that while they did have a team stay with them for a few nights, that's been the only significant change from normal business.

"We aren't seeing any more individuals coming in than we normally do," he said.

Rich Smith, kitchen manager at Applebee's, 100 Manhattan Town Center, said the restaurant has noticed rushes before and after the games.

He said they have been 1,000- to 1,800-customers-per-day busier than normal. He said part of that can be attributed to the two or three teams they have had come in to eat.

Businesses should be seeing more people, Howell said.

"I would assume these people would be spending some time in the restaurants and on the town," he said.

The K-State women's basketball game against Harvard is shown on a large TV screen at Buffalo Wild Wings Sunday night during the NCAA Tournament.
Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Men's golf sits in 1st place, plans to keep up solid performances

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A recurring theme this season for the men's golf team has been a poor first round followed by solid performances in the final two rounds.

That theme changed at the Stevinson Ranch Invitational in Stevinson, Calif., on Monday. The team sits in first place heading into the final round today.

The Cats shot a two-round score of 573 Monday, six strokes better than second place Wichita State. Coach Tim Norris said the week off to practice really helped his team find its game.

"Obviously, I'd like to think that the practice we put in in the early part of the week didn't hurt us," he said. "This is a golf course that sets up well for us. The grass types are much the same as Colbert Hills and most of the other tournaments that we play. It's a combination of good practice time and a course that we feel pretty comfortable on, even though only two of the guys have played the golf course before – Aaron (Watkins) and A.J. (Elgert)."

Along with the familiarity of the grass on the Savannah Course, Norris said the presence of wind also helped the Cats.

"The wind was pretty calm this morning," he said, "for maybe the first nine holes. Then it picked up and blew 15 to 20 miles per hour from late morning until late afternoon, and then it seemed to die down a little bit for the last three or four holes."

"I think playing in the wind definitely helps us," Norris said. "I'd like to see a little bit tomorrow – not a lot, but enough."

Sophomore Matt Van Cleave and freshman Josh Persons both fired 1-under-par 143 in the first two rounds Monday. "Both Josh and Matt are very capable players," Norris said. "I can't say enough about how Van Cleave has turned it around. He worked so hard through November and December in at Brandeberry. It's

See GOLF Page 10

CREATIVE FIGURES

Right: Brian McCallum's "Birth of Enigma" is made from clay, glazes and fabric and is in his show "Go Figure." The show will run until Saturday at Urban Designs in Aggieville.
 Below: Brian McCallum, graduate student in ceramics, greets and talks to guests at the opening of his show "Go Figure."

Photos by Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Artist presents ceramics, drawings in thesis display

By J. Scott Bowman
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Clay doesn't lie.
 That is why Brian McCallum likes using it to express his creativity. A collection of his ceramic pieces and drawings are a part of his thesis exhibit at Urban Designs in Aggieville.
 "What I do, actually, is very simple," McCallum, graduate student in ceramics, said. "I throw pottery and form it into figures. Then the figures are formed into people."
 "I want people to have a connection to art, and we all have bodies and can relate to this. We can see the beauty in drawing the mark, as well as working it into clay."
 He said he has tried to illustrate dialogues and narratives that people have. McCallum said he is able to gain inspiration for some pieces from the clay itself.
 "Some of the content of the pieces aren't specific," McCallum said. "I try to develop dialogues by moving the clay around. Then, I use what's in front of me as a path for what I'm trying to accomplish."
 "Clay as a media is almost limitless as to what you can do. You can create a tight or loose sculpture, but I think ceramics is the most expressive of all the media."
 McCallum said he has a sense of accomplishment and that the exhibit is like a family reunion to him. He said that he has worked hard for the past six months, and it is the first chance that he will see all of his pieces together in one spot.
 "Art always looks better in a gallery," McCallum said. "It completes the work when it's there. When you elevate it on a pedestal, it feels complete."
 McCallum said he has had a special connection with ceramics. He said he also had a connection with ceramics professor Yoshi Ikeda and found working with him to be beneficial to his work.
 Ikeda said that he thinks McCallum has the potential to become a very well-known artist.
 "He is an outstanding artist," Ikeda said. "He is very creative, and I asked him to be a graduate student here. He is so great at what he does, and he has very unique techniques."
 Ikeda said that every year an artist becomes well-known, and McCallum will probably be one of those artists.
 "People should go see his exhibit," Ikeda said. "He'll be known, and they should know his work before he emerges, so you can see him change."
 "It's like Picasso. You know his later work when he was famous, but as an artist I want to know what it was like in early time. I want to know how artists do their work before they become known."
 Urban Designs is no stranger to the works of Brian Mc-Callum, Deborah Minner, co-owner of Urban Designs, said. They have forged a friendship with the local artist and displayed some of his work in a 2001 exhibit, Minner said.

 "Brian's work brings a unique insight to the human figure," Minner said. "Each piece has a strong expressive personality."
 "I like his work because it has a raw human quality to it. He is unique to other artists."
 Minner said she has wanted to show more of his work ever since the 2001 exhibit. She said that it wasn't hard to agree to host McCallum's thesis exhibit.
 "We like having MFA exhibits here, and he showed some interest," Minner said. "So, we wanted to have a one-man show."
 "We like to try and offer diversity. He does something that others don't, and it is fresh new work."
 McCallum said he feels that art is a very therapeutic activity that complements his craving to be creative. He said it is satisfying to be self-reliant, but he has help from his wife.
 "I've always had an internal need to be creative," McCallum said. "If I'm not making something in ceramics, I'm working with something else, like wood."
 "Even though I can be fairly self-reliant working in art, my wife, Ramona, helps out. It's satisfying to be creative with her and use her creativity, too."

Clay on display

■ What: Brian McCallum MFA thesis art exhibit
 ■ Where: Urban Designs in Aggieville
 ■ When: Until Saturday March 29th
 ■ Hours: 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday
 ■ For more information on Brian McCallum, go to www.brianmccallum.com

Brian McCallum's "Sophia" is made from clay, glazes, steel and fabric and is on display at Urban Designs in Aggieville.

CALENDAR

■ Tentillblue, featuring Dave Oakleaf, will perform at 9 tonight at Gumby's Pizza and Pub in Aggieville.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

A new tour planned for stage version of award-winning musical 'Chicago'
 "Chicago," the stage musical that inspired the Academy Award-winning movie, is going back on the road.

The show begins a new tour June 10 at the National Theatre in Washington, D.C. It will then play San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Boston, Toronto and other cities.

The film version of the Kander and Ebb musical won six Oscars Sunday including best picture and best supporting actress for Catherine Zeta-Jones.

Casting for the tour will be announced shortly, producer Barry Weissler said Monday.

...

Ratings sharply down for Academy Awards; ABC suggests war was factor

Preliminary television ratings for the Academy Awards were down 15 percent from last year, and it could wind up the least popular Oscar telecast ever, ABC said Monday.

The Oscars drew a 25.5 household rating and a 37 audience share in Nielsen Media Research's overnight measure of the 55 biggest cities. The ratings were likely to drop upon release of final national numbers since the Oscars are more popular in cities.

...

Nolte to star in 'The good Thief'

Nick Nolte, who made headlines last year when he was arrested for driving under the influence of drugs, says he's now clean and sober but still finds himself drawn to "criminal" characters.

Nolte, 62, is trying to mend his career with a starring role in a remake of the 1955 French film, "The Good Thief."

Nolte says he gravitates toward characters who reflect his personality.

"Socialization is difficult for me," the actor explained. "I'm not comfortable with people I don't know, so I'll pick out the criminal and go talk to the suffering one."

NEW RELEASES

DVD

"Berserk" 5
 "CKY" 4
 "Femme Fatale"
 "First of the North Star"
 "Jamie Foxx Unleashed"
 "Friday After Next"
 "Fruits Basket" 3
 "Futurama" 1
 "Genma Wars" 1
 "Jackass the Movie"
 "Kimba" 1, 2
 "Mahoromatic" 2
 "Maid in Manhattan"
 "Who Framed Roger Rabbit" Special Edition
 "X" 4
 "Y" 2

Music

"One Heart" Celine Dion
 "Metemora" [ENHANCED] Linkin Park
 "Rules of Travel" Rosanne Cash
 "Dark Side of the Moon" Pink Floyd
 "Ringorama" Ringo Starr

Supported by Digital Shelf

5,000+ different DVD titles
 701 N. 11th 776-6959
www.ksuDIGITALSHELF.com

Hours:
 Mon.-Sun. 11 a.m.-midnight
 sell us your DVDs & video games

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

Westloop theater to reopen with discounted movie, concession prices

by Amy Link
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paying $7 to go to the movies in Manhattan might become a thing of the past.

Manhattan resident Avery Murdie has leased the closed Westloop movie theater and plans to transform it into a discount cinema.

The movies shown will not be seen during their first run, but Murdie said his theater can show those that are dropped from Seth Child Cinema as soon as one day after their release.

Because the movies are delayed, ticket prices will be $3. The theater will have six screens, run two shows a night during the week and offer both matinee and evening shows on the weekends.

The theater will open within the coming weeks.

"We should be open before the students leave for summer," he said.

Murdie said he had anticipated opening the theater in March. However, there were several delays with manufacturing, shipping, and negotiating the lease.

"We started hearing complaints from people saying there was no affordable place to go to the movies, so on a whim, I looked into the business," Murdie said.

Murdie anticipates stiff competition from corporate-funded businesses, as his theater will be local and independently owned.

Despite Murdie's angst about competing with a corporation, Lyle Butler, president of the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce, said Manhattan is a large enough market to support two theaters.

"We have had two theaters in the past," Butler said. "I think to have two theaters, (Murdie) will have to develop a real niche that will provide the community with new entertainment."

In order to create a community connection between the citizens and the theater, Murdie said he would offer discounts for concessions to both high school and college students and other organizations.

Murdie said he is also looking to partner with other restaurants to make dinner and a movie more affordable in Manhattan.

Butler agreed that the theater could help bring more business to the Westloop

Citizens asked to give managerial suggestions

Citizens wanting to offer input on how the new theater in Westloop should be run can call Bulldog Roofing at 770-3275 or e-mail bulldogenterprises@cox.net.

restaurants. There are other perks to the new theater, Butler said.

"The situation is win-win. It will bring more business to that area plus more jobs if he (Murdie) decides to hire employees," Butler said.

Helping the community has been Murdie's goal all along and the reason he asks for community input on how the theater should operate.

Murdie said he has additional goals in mind.

"We want for two adults and two children with concessions to be able to go to the movies for 15 bucks," he said.

Although the tickets will be cheap, he said, the technology of the theater won't be. Technology has been updated and new carpet was put into the old theaters, Murdie said.

"We hope to have a better product at a more affordable rate," he said.

Family identifies Kansas P.O.W.

By Roxana Hegeman
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DERBY, Kan. — The brother of a Kansas soldier held captive in Iraq said Monday he wants the United States to get the war over "as fast as possible" so his brother can come home.

Pfc. Patrick Miller, 23, of the Wichita, Kan., area is among the five soldiers captured Sunday, his family confirmed.

Miller graduated from Valley Center High School. He and his family had been living in Texas but his wife, Jessa, and their two children moved back to Park City to live with her mother when Miller was deployed in December. Valley Center and Park City are near Wichita.

Miller and the other captured soldiers were thrust in front of an Iraqi TV microphone and peppered with questions Sunday. The footage also showed at least four bodies.

The soldier's half-brother, Thomas Hershberger, 27, of Derby, said his mother spoke to Miller's wife Sunday. She had received confirmation from the military that Miller was being held by the Iraqis.

"She is not doing the best right now," he said of his mother, who lives in New Mexico. "I haven't had a conversation with her without her crying."

Hershberger said Miller's wife did not want to talk to the media early Monday.

His brother has a 4-year-old son and 7-month-old daughter, Hershberger said.

Miller was a welder before joining the military last summer to help pay student loans, he said.

The video footage aired on Iraqi TV showed Miller answering questions in a shaky voice, his eyes darting back and forth between the interviewer and another person who couldn't be seen on camera.

Paleontologist Paul Sereno has encountered some of the weirdest creatures that ever walked the earth. Yet some of the scariest things he's discovered aren't likely to become extinct anytime soon. Sad to say, mutual fund management fees will probably outlast us all. That's why Dr. Sereno was afraid of getting eaten alive. So he turned to a company famous for keeping the costs down. That meant more money for him and less for the monsters.

Log on for ideas, advice, and results. TIAA-CREF.org or call (800) 842-2776

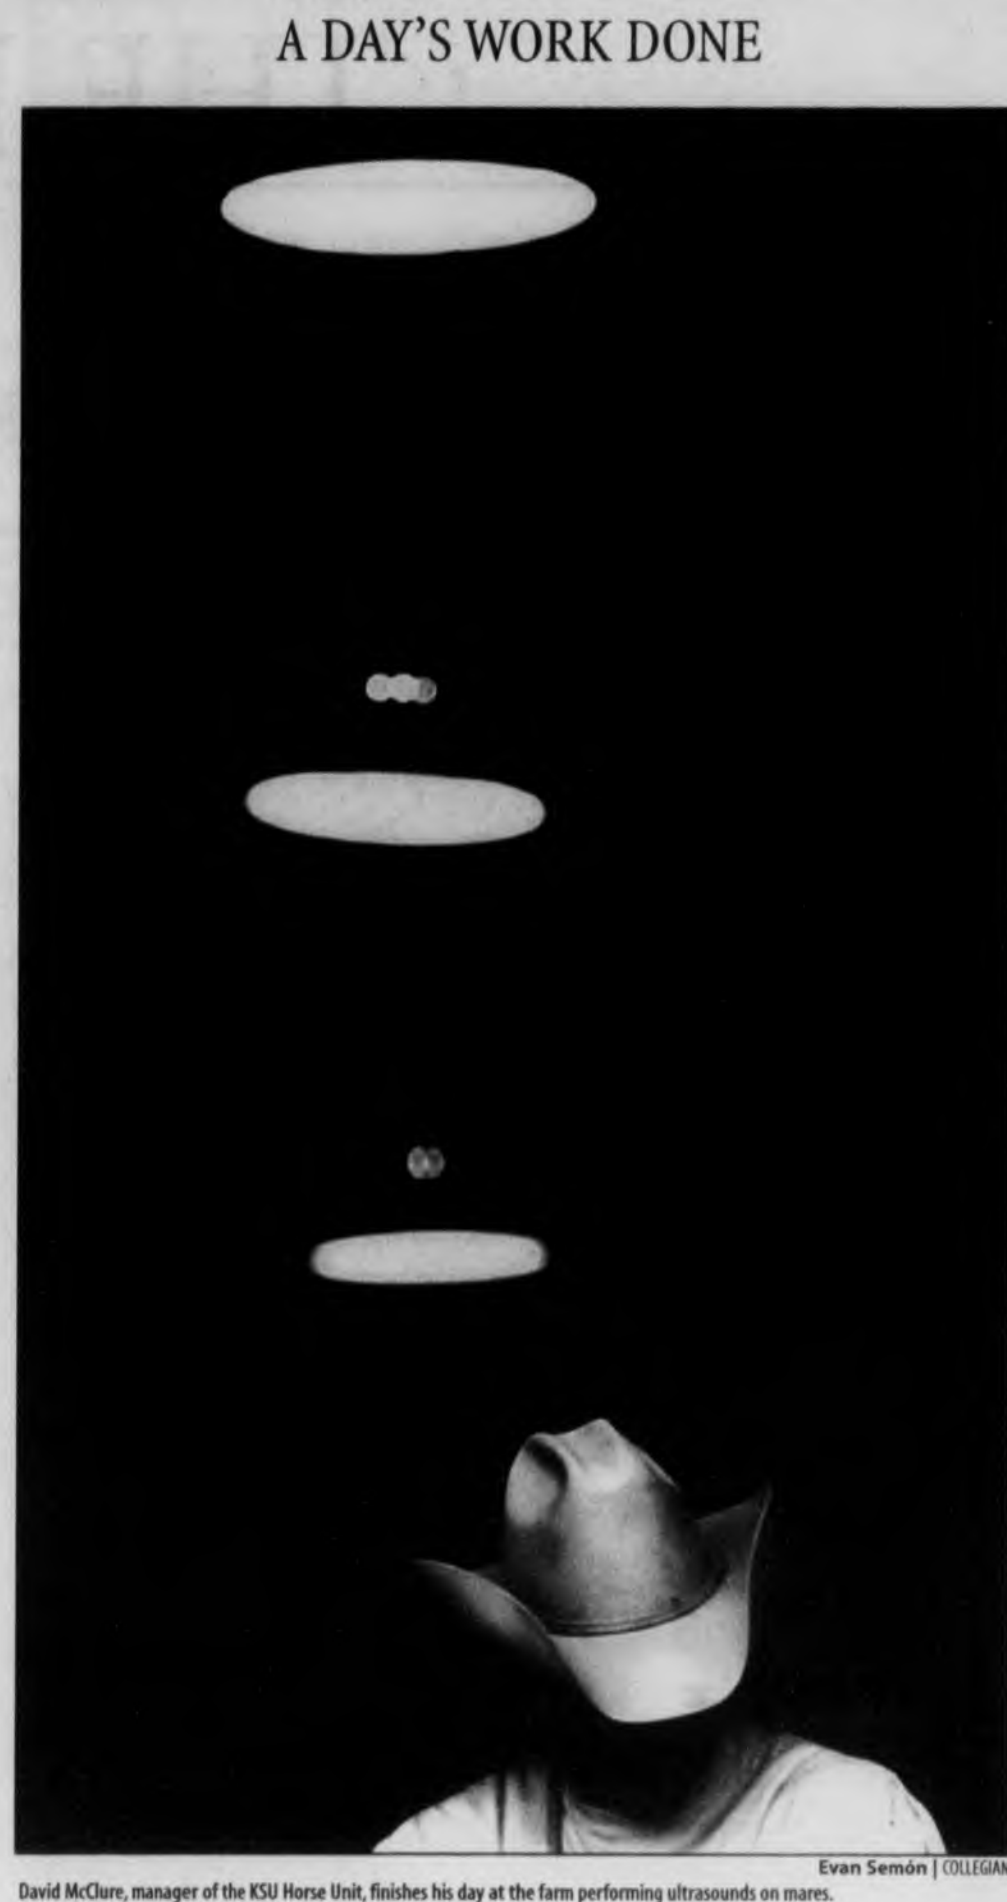

Managing money for people with other things to think about.™

RETIREMENT • INSURANCE • MUTUAL FUNDS • COLLEGE SAVINGS • TRUSTS • INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT

Paul Sereno became a participant in TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services, Inc. and Teachers Personal Investors Services, Inc., distribute securities products. © 2002 Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association-College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF), New York, NY. For more complete information on TIAA-CREF Mutual Funds, please call (800) 223-1200 for a prospectus. Read it carefully before you invest. A charitable donation was made to Project Expedition (www.projectexpedition.org) on behalf of Paul Sereno.

A DAY'S WORK DONE

David McClure, manager of the KSU Horse Unit, finishes his day at the farm performing ultrasounds on mares.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Dream it. Do it. Disney.®

We're recruiting on campus!

Kansas State University
Wednesday, March 26, 2003
5:00 PM, Room 212, K State Union

Mark your calendars — All majors and all college levels invited. This is your chance to go inside this world-famous resort, build your resume, network with Disney leaders and meet students from around the world.

Check out a Walt Disney World® College Program paid internship. 24-hour secured housing is offered. College credit opportunities may be available. Visit our website at wdwcollegeprogram.com and then come to the presentation. Attendance is required to interview.

COLLEGE PROGRAM wdwcollegeprogram.com

EOE • Drawing Creativity from Diversity • © Disney

CLASSIFIEDS

Tuesday, March 25, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE OR two-bedroom Close to campus. August 1. (785)317-7713.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! One, two, three four and five-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

APARTMENTS AVAILABLE June. Two-bedroom duplex, four-bedroom duplex, one-bedroom basement, two-bedroom basement. All one-half block from KSU. Choose now before they're gone. No pets. (785)556-6899.

AVAILABLE AUGUST two-bedroom apartment across from City Park, with washer/dryer in each unit. Water/ trash paid. $585/ month. Year lease, no pets. (785)539-0222.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOR RENT: Five-bedroom Brittainy Ridge Townhouse. Two and one-half bath. Washer/ dryer. Available August 1. One year lease. $940/ month. Call (913)909-4078 or (913)254-7657 after 5:30pm. Weekends anytime.

FOUR AND FIVE-BEDROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath, brand new duplex. Be the first to live in. All appliances including washer and dryer. August 1. No pets. (785)556-6899.

NEW TOWNHOMES, Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

JUNE AND AUGUST. Studio, one, two, three, four-bedroom house/ apartment. Central heat/ air-conditioning, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

NEAR CAMPUS, unique studio cottage 909 Kearney (alley). $299 monthly. Water/ trash paid. August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartment, one block to campus. Off-street parking, water/ trash paid. $375 and $600. (785)776-9225.

SPACIOUS TWO AND THREE-BEDROOMS. Close to campus with fireplace, balcony central air, dishwasher, and laundry facilities. June or August. (785)539-0866.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. Laundry. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4166.

TWO AND three-bedrooms units available for August. 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663, one-half mile from K-State, at the corner of College and Clifton.

TWO STUDIO apartments. June or August lease. No pets. 1030 Kearney Street. Call (785)537-0177.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

115
Rooms
Available

ROOMS AVAILABLE for end of May and August. Rent $230/ month plus share utilities. Close to campus, washer and dryer. Call Jake at (785)539-4904. 911 N. 11th St.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A FOUR-BEDROOM house, nice, near campus. June 1st. Call (785)317-7713.

A SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE, two bath, two kitchens. Living room, family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets. June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM, TWO baths and three-bedroom, one bath, central air, washer/ dryer, close to campus. June lease (785)770-3722.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. $1100. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

GREAT LANDLORD with great houses. Roomy, spacious, and updated three and six-bedroom houses. Central air, washer, dryer, no pets. June lease. (785)313-4812.

HOUSES CLOSE to campus for sale. Parents buy don't rent. Call Larry at Century 21. Nights (785)317-7713 for complete list.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses. Multiple bathrooms and kitchens. Central air, washer, dryer, June and August leases. No pets. (785)539-0549.

SPACIOUS FOUR-BEDROOM house, 1328 Pierre. June lease, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. $1050/ month. No pets. (785)537-1566.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, one-half block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking $900. (785)776-9225.

THREE-BEDROOM, SPACIOUS, west of City Park. Washer, dryer, dishwasher. June 1. $900. (785)532-4424/ (785)537-9425.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/ month. 709 Bluemont. Washer/ dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bathroom, basement apartment. $675/ month. Washer/ dryer, window air-conditioning. 709 Bluemont. June lease. (785)539-4949.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $450 per month. Washer/ dryer, 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking. Washer/ dryer. Trash paid. Near campus. $300/ month. (785)537-1219.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments. $580 per month. (785)539-5907.

SUMMER SUBLEASE AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large two-bedroom close to campus and Aggieville. Water and trash paid. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher, and off-street parking. (785)537-3287.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JUNE or August. Two, three, four, five and six-bedroom. Close to campus. Year leasing, no pets. (785)539-2551.

911 SUNSET, four-bedroom and one-bedroom, one block to campus, washer/ dryer provided. Available August 1. (785)776-9288 or (785)776-0683.

NOW LEASING FOR FALL

• Cambridge Sq.
• Sandstone Apts.
• 2000 College Heights
• 1114 Fremont
• LEASED
• Forrest Creek Town Homes

537-9064
Weekdays 8:30am-5pm
Sundays 10am-3pm
www.hillcrestrealty.com

Park Place Apartments

Affordable Prices
1, 2 & 3 Bedrooms
539-2951

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition. http://www.rentkstate.com (785)776-4166 or rentkstate@lycos.com

ONE, TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS
1620 McCain

Starting at $900
Available for June and August

• 2 full baths
• Laundry facilities
• Off Street Parking
• CLOSE TO CAMPUS

776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development

ROYAL TOWERS

4 Bedroom APARTMENTS

• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development
210 N. 4th Ste. C

ONE-BEDROOM $400. Water and trash paid. Laundry facilities. Cats okay. (785)587-8002.

ONE-BEDROOM NOW. Northwest of KSU could be furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM, No pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOMS. All amenities. August leases. Close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)539-4641.

TWO, THREE, and four-bedroom apartments, central air. June lease. Very nice. (785)313-2443.

TWO-BEDROOM, No pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, available June 1. Washer/ dryer provided. $520. Water, trash paid. 405 North 10th. (785)539-0939.

NOW LEASING
Leased our 1 & 2 bedrooms
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

NEAR AGGIEVILLE and campus. For rent, two blocks east of Aggieville, four-bedroom, two baths, new carpeting, off-street parking and central air. 12-month contract available August 1. $1000/ month. (785)537-8070.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ Dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)655-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June. July, August. www.rent-apr.com. (785)539-4357.

SIX-BEDROOM HOUSE/ duplex, three-bedroom. Washer/ dryer free. Good condition. Two-bedroom duplex very nice. No pets. (785)537-2289.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM COULD be furnished for August. Walk to campus. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus. Available June 1st. (785)539-9582 leave message.

Lost something?
You can place an ad FREE for three days!
Kedzie 103 532-6555

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 Winne. Beautifully remodeled brick ranch, three-bedroom home. $900. Immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets, new central air-conditioning, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day. (785)776-7706, evenings.

913 RATONE. Very nice four-bedroom, two bath, central air, dishwasher, laundry. No pets. June lease. $300/ bedroom. (785)556-5668.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1, 426 N. 17th, duplex, second floor. One-bedroom, fireplace, central air, outside deck, washer, dryer. $425/ month plus utilities, deposit, lease. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large duplex, 426 N. 17th. Two-bedroom, fireplace, outside porch, patio, central air, washer, dryer. $660/ month plus utilities, deposit, lease. (785)539-3672.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/ dryer. Available August 1st. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)537-8420 or (785)341-5346.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, central air, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. June 1 leases. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

Discover Brittnay Ridge

4 Bedrooms w/ study
2 1/2 Baths
Washer/ Dryer in each unit
Sand Volleyball Court
1440 sq. ft.

Starting at $940
776-3804
Model Showings
2521 Candlecrest
M, W, Th 3-6
Sat 12-3
McCullough Development

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310
Help Wanted

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

120
For Rent-
Houses

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASHER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE roommate wanted for house walk to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details. Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted three-bedroom house, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. Water, trash, three-quarters gas paid. $232/ person/ month. 1030 Humboldt. (785)587-9786.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. One block to campus. $250, utilities paid. Pets considered. Call (785)537-4947.

MALE for lower level now. All furnished, washer/ dryer without meter, walk to campus. $180 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE TO two-bedrooms immediately available. Brittany Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air. $235/ month plus shared utilities. (602)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

ROOMMATE WANTED for nice three-bedroom, two bath duplex. Washer/ dryer provided. $260 plus one-third utilities. June 1. Jenny (785)770-8284.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom townhouse. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

150
Sublease

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

NEAR AGGIEVILLE and campus. For rent, two blocks east of Aggieville, four-bedroom, two baths, new carpeting, off-street parking and central air. 12-month contract available August 1. $1000/ month. (785)537-8070.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ Dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)655-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June. July, August. www.rent-apr.com. (785)539-4357.

SIX-BEDROOM HOUSE/ duplex, three-bedroom. Washer/ dryer free. Good condition. Two-bedroom duplex very nice. No pets. (785)537-2289.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM COULD be furnished for August. Walk to campus. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, 530 Bertrand. Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call Stacey (785)587-8700.

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus. Available June 1st. (785)539-9582 leave message.

1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext. 1436.

HELP WANTED

SUMMER STAFF needed Camp Wood YMCA- Counselors, Program Directors, Lifeguards, Wranglers, and more. Call (620)273-8641 or email campwood@bulldog-net.com

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)-293-3985 ext. 548.

COLBERT HILLS requires snack bar/ beverage cart attendants. Must be able to work flexible hours. $6/ hour plus tips, free golf. Must be able to work April- October. Apply in person at 5200 Colbert Hills Drive, Manhattan.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymonkey.com

FEES | Senators plan to organize 5-year tuition revenue information

Continued from Page 1

improvements.

Cook said K-State simply does not have the funds to run a similar five-year plan.

"At some point, we're going to have to realize we're not KU," Cook said.

"They have more scholarship money and more endowment."

"I don't have a perfect five-year plan, but I wouldn't support one exactly like KU's. We need to show our individuality, and it all goes back to having a different student population than they do."

O'Hara said the goal of the meeting, though, is to organize

Tuition meeting

Members of the Student Senate executive and academic affairs committee will be meeting for the first time regarding a five-year tuition revenue plan at 7 p.m. tonight in the OSAS office. The public is encouraged to attend.

information before meeting with university administrators in the coming weeks.

"This is the first time we've ever done something like this," he said.

"We're not going to rush to make any type of decision. We want to make sure students voice their opinions and make a recommendation to the administration."

HOME | Living with parents may make meeting others a challenge

Continued from Page 1

Even though she lives with her parents, Sonder said she is independent. She can tell when her parents disapprove of her decisions or behavior, but they do not check up on her all the time.

"We don't keep tabs on her," Rita said. "She's very responsible and has never given us a reason to question her. She comes and goes as she pleases. She has no younger siblings living here, so it's really just like three adults living together."

Sonder agreed.

"We've moved from a parent-daughter relationship to basically a friendship. They respect me as an adult. It's like we're just roommates," she said.

Although she is happy with her living situation, Sonder said she has had to make an extra effort to get involved and meet people.

"In college, you definitely have to work to make friends," she said.

"I had a friend who went away to school and lived in the dorms. Sometimes I would get a little jealous because she had all those people right there — like instant friends."

Her first year at K-State was difficult, she said, but this year is much better because she is getting more involved.

Sonder is a member of the Student Alumni Board, the Student Foundation and the Multicultural Student Honor Society. She also plays the violin in the string quartet for K-State, and she plays the bass guitar in a jazz band with eight other musicians.

"I'm the only girl and the youngest person by like 20 years, but it's a lot of fun," she said of the band.

"My high school piano teacher is in the band, and they needed a bass player. We usually play two or three gigs a month on weekends."

Aside from those activities, she said she is starting to volunteer on a regular basis at the Crisis Center.

"Other than that, I do a lot of homework and studying," Sonder said.

"My friends are usually my first priority in my free time because there is not much of it."

For now, she said she will keep things the way they are.

"It's fine for right now," she said. "I don't feel the need to move out yet — for at least a year."

IRAQ | Forces near capital encounter inclement weather, Iraqi gunfire

Continued from Page 1

around Baghdad, while another official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said a "large portion" of the day's bombing runs were dedicated to hitting the same units.

Asked about ground forces, McChrystal said, "We have not gotten into direct firefights with Republican Guard forces."

That seemed a matter of not much time, though.

The Army's 3rd Infantry Division was within 50 miles of the capital, battling sandstorms more than Iraqi fire as it neared the approaches to Baghdad.

The advance of long columns of thousands of vehicles was aided by heavy air protection that wiped out a column of Iraqi armor at one point and sent some of Saddam's outer defenses withdrawing toward the capital.

The convoy passed bombed anti-aircraft guns, empty foxholes and berms dug for tanks that had been abandoned.

President Bush invited senior lawmakers to the White House, and aides said he would ask Congress for $75 billion.

Of that, $62.6 billion would be in direct war costs, according to these aides, for 30 days of combat.

Bush also talked with Russian President Vladimir Putin by phone.

Spokesman Ari Fleischer said the president expressed concern about reports that Russia was selling anti-tank guided missiles, jamming devices and night-vision goggles to Baghdad.

COST | War bill expected to include security costs, worker assistance

Continued from Page 1

Defense Department for the war and perhaps other expenses related to the fight against terrorism. That sum is based on a vaguely defined, brief period of combat in Iraq.

The bill also is expected to include about $3.5 billion for domestic security programs, such as assistance for police and other emergency workers. It would also pay for stepped-up security for American diplomats and assistance to U.S. allies Israel, Egypt and Jordan, but not Turkey.

Before the first bomb fell on Iraq last week, the president had tried to brace Americans for casualties, and the number of those who died increased during the weekend.

"I pray for God's comfort and God's healing powers, to anybody, coalition force, American, Brit, anybody who loses a life in this, in our efforts to make the world more peaceful and more free," Bush said Sunday.

"I thank them for the sacrifice they make, and we pray with them," Bush told reporters Sunday as he returned to the White House from a weekend stay at Camp David. On Monday, an aide said Bush had not watched videotape of U.S. prisoners of war in Iraq.

Bush's schedule Monday included a morning meeting with Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, lunch with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and a session with his economic team before a meeting with congressional budget experts. Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan attended the economic meeting — his second White House session of the day — as stocks tumbled amid concerns about the war.

IRISH | Cats set to win despite Irish's advantages

Continued from Page 6

her 20 points during a 15-0 second-half run that put the Wildcats on their back for good.

It's just silly to think Notre Dame would go quietly in a month devoted entirely to the Irish, and Arizona obviously got pinched for not wearing green.

2. Speed beats size

Arizona's first-round chances hinged on behemoth center Shawntinice Polk.

Polk, the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year, tips the scales at about 250 pounds and casts a 6-foot-5 shadow.

To say the least, Polk took up plenty of space in the lane.

Notre Dame's starting lineup, on the other hand, featured no players taller than 6-foot-3.

No matter, though. A quick zone collapsed around Polk on nearly every touch, forcing the freshman into low-percentage shots on many possessions.

Notre Dame will face another powerful post player tonight in Nicole Ohlde.

3. They've done it before

Notre Dame Coach McGraw says her team is embracing this year's underdog role better than when the Irish won the national championship in 2001 as a No. 1 seed.

Now, McGraw and company will try to knock off Patterson's Wildcats at home.

4. Muffet

While fans watching at home have very little to do with a game's outcome, it's tough to root against a coach with the first name Muffet.

After all, Patterson doesn't have the most original first name.

Throw in the fact the Irish aren't favored to win and any leftover Arizona fans that made the trip to the Little Apple from Tempe will be cheering on the Irish, and

Notre Dame might have a sentimental advantage.

5. God is on their side

Not just any God, either. Catholicism is the largest denomination in America, and if you've got the Pope on the ropes, being Irish ain't exactly a death sentence.

If it comes down to the last moments, don't count on any deities saving K-State. If push comes to shove, though, pray for a Hail-Wefald to save the Cats.

But let's get back to reality, folks.

K-State will win this game because the Cats earned their No. 3 seed.

The Big 12 is a better conference than the Big East, and K-State will be playing in front of 11,000 rabid fans determined to cheer the Cats on to a return trip to the Sweet 16.

Dan is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at dansmith@k-state.edu.

GOLF | Team looks to keep up positive pace

Continued from Page 6

not glamorous stuff, but he was out at the golf course every day in November and December. It's like I had the keys to the gym for a gym rat.

"Josh is just a kid that I think is going to get better and better," Norris said.

Norris said it's nice to see K-State not have to dig themselves out of a first-round hole this week, something that has repeatedly been a problem this year.

The 14-team field will tee off for the final 18 holes today at 8 a.m. He said K-State will have to play the same way if it hopes to hold off the rest of the field.

"Tomorrow we need the same type of performance," he said. "Just have a lot of players right there. They just have to get through a stretch of tough holes and not letting it affect the rest of their round."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

we kick ads.
Manifield • 52-690

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Interview Suits

24 Years of Launching Careers with Professional Clothing

The confidence you need in an employment interview comes from the clothes you wear.

- Choose from our large selection of suits (starting at $295)
- Short, regular, long, big & tall sizes
- Featuring Hart Schaffner & Marx and Borck Brothers Collection
- Save $50 with your K-State Student ID
- Professional Tailoring and Guidance

Borck Brothers Westloop Shopping Center
Mon-Sat 9:30 - 5:30 Thursday until 8:00
Manhattan's Leading Menswear Store 785-537-8636 • www.borck-bros.com

UNLIMITED

night & weekend

FREE nationwide Long Distance
FREE Voice Mail
FREE Caller ID

25% Off All Face Plates

Kansas Wireless

305 Ft. Riley Blvd., Manhattan
For rate limits: 785-565-9219 / M-F 10-6, Sat. 10-2

*Limited time offer. Some restrictions apply. See store for details.

MANHATTAN KANSAS

Announces the following position vacancies

PUBLIC WORKS
ENGINEER I Starting Salary: $34,465 - $37,912/yr (full time)
Requirements: Graduation from an accredited University with B.S. in Civil Engineering
Position Purpose: Responsible for the design & maintenance of records & files on all engineering projects; reviews plans, plans & contract documents submitted for approval by engineering firms & developers; deal with other professional public inquiries & public agencies concerning projects & assist other city departments with projects.
Closing Date: 03/27/03

PARKS & RECREATION
MAINTENANCE WORKER I Starting Salary: $8,900/yr (full time)
Experience Required: Knowledge of types & uses of hand tools. Basic skills in irrigation, pruning, planting, & pest control also general understanding of turf & landscape maintenance practices preferred. Willingness & ability to perform heavy manual labor for extended periods of time, work outdoors in all weather, & perform routine repetitive tasks essential.
Position Purpose: Provides labor, operates machinery & various equipment. Assist in providing routine landscape, maintenance, facilities, services, & experiences to park patrons.
Closing Date: Open until filled

SUNSET ZOO
JUNIOR ZOOKEEPER SUPERVISOR Starting Salary: $5,450/yr
Experience Required: Diploma or GED required. Excellent supervisory skills, experience working with youth, & animal knowledge vital. Must maintain a valid driver's license & be able to work three or more days each week throughout the summer. Incumbent will supervise & educate several youth volunteers working with basic animal husbandry & interpretation.
Closing Date: 04/09/03 (temporary/part-time position)

SEASONAL EDUCATION STAFF
Starting Salary: $4,250/yr
Experience Required: Diploma or GED required. Excellent supervisory skills, experience working with youth in an educational setting & curriculum development vital. Basic science skills important. Must maintain a valid driver's license & be able to work three or more weekdays throughout the summer. Incumbent will develop curriculum & supervise children during summer clubs.
Closing Date: 04/09/03 (temporary/part-time position)

—SPRING/SUMMER SEASONAL—
Starting Salary: Various (seasonal positions, non-benefits eligible)
Position Listing: Daycamp Counselor, Daycamp Coordinator, baseball & softball umpires, referees, instructors & hall field maintenance; swim instructors, lifeguards & concession workers; horticulture, park, forestry & cemetery seasonal laborers; piano accompanist & a range of theater positions from directors to set designers, among others.
Special Requirements: Applicants should be at least 18 years old or older for most positions. Prior seasonal employees encouraged to re-apply.
Closing Date: Applications will be accepted until positions are filled.

To be considered for an available position, you must complete a City of Manhattan application & return it to the attention of Human Resources by 5pm on the closing date. For applications or more information, visit ci.manhattan.ko.us/jobs.htm or call the Job Line at 785-565-2446 or e-mail hr@ci.manhattan.ko.us or visit City Hall, 1101 Poynter Ave.

the OTHER semester

Summer School 03

The advantages

- Flexible scheduling
- Guaranteed admission to your preferred program
- Earn credit while you relax
- Examine your progress

Classes

- Business 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408, 409, 410, 411, 412, 413, 414, 415, 416, 417, 418, 419, 420, 421, 422, 423, 424, 425, 426, 427, 428, 429, 430, 431, 432, 433, 434, 435, 436, 437, 438, 439, 440, 441, 442, 443, 444, 445, 446, 447, 448, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 454, 455, 456, 457, 458, 459, 460, 461, 462, 463, 464, 465, 466, 467, 468, 469, 470, 471, 472, 473, 474, 475, 476, 477, 478, 479, 480, 481, 482, 483, 484, 485, 486, 487, 488, 489, 490, 491, 492, 493, 494, 495, 496, 497, 498, 499, 500, 501, 502, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509, 510, 511, 512, 513, 514, 515, 516, 517, 518, 519, 520, 521, 522, 523, 524, 525, 526, 527, 528, 529, 530, 531, 532, 533, 534, 535, 536, 537, 538, 539, 540, 541, 542, 543, 544, 545, 546, 547, 548, 549, 550, 551, 552, 553, 554, 555, 556, 557, 558, 559, 560, 561, 562, 563, 564, 565, 566, 567, 568, 569, 570, 571, 572, 573, 574, 575, 576, 577, 578, 579, 580, 581, 582, 583, 584, 585, 586, 587, 588, 589, 590, 591, 592, 593, 594, 595, 596, 597, 598, 599, 600, 601, 602, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 613, 614, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 624, 625, 626, 627, 628, 629, 630, 631, 632, 633, 634, 635, 636, 637, 638, 639, 640, 641, 642, 643, 644, 645, 646, 647, 648, 649, 650, 651, 652, 653, 654, 655, 656, 657, 658, 659, 660, 661, 662, 663, 664, 665, 666, 667, 668, 669, 670, 671, 672, 673, 674, 675, 676, 677, 678, 679, 680, 681, 682, 683, 684, 685, 686, 687, 688, 689, 690, 691, 692, 693, 694, 695, 696, 697, 698, 699, 700, 701, 702, 703, 704, 705, 706, 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712, 713, 714, 715, 716, 717, 718, 719, 720, 721, 722, 723, 724, 725, 726, 727, 728, 729, 730, 731, 732, 733, 734, 735, 736, 737, 738, 739, 740, 741, 742, 743, 744, 745, 746, 747, 748, 749, 750, 751, 752, 753, 754, 755, 756, 757, 758, 759, 760, 761, 762, 763, 764, 765, 766, 767, 768, 769, 770, 771, 772, 773, 774, 775, 776, 777, 778, 779, 780, 781, 782, 783, 784, 785, 786, 787, 788, 789, 790, 791, 792, 793, 794, 795, 796, 797, 798, 799, 800, 801, 802, 803, 804, 805, 806, 807, 808, 809, 810, 811, 812, 813, 814, 815, 816, 817, 818, 819, 820, 821, 822, 823, 824, 825, 826, 827, 828, 829, 830, 831, 832, 833, 834, 835, 836, 837, 838, 839, 840, 841, 842, 843, 844, 845, 846, 847, 848, 849, 850, 851, 852, 853, 854, 855, 856, 857, 858, 859, 860, 861, 862, 863, 864, 865, 866, 867, 868, 869, 870, 871, 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 877, 878, 879, 880, 881, 882, 883, 884, 885, 886, 887, 888, 889, 890, 891, 892, 893, 894, 895, 896, 897, 898, 899, 900, 901, 902, 903, 904, 905, 906, 907, 908, 909, 910, 911, 912, 913, 914, 915, 916, 917, 918, 919, 920, 921, 922, 923, 924, 925, 926, 927, 928, 929, 930, 931, 932, 933, 934, 935, 936, 937, 938, 939, 940, 941, 942, 943, 944, 945, 946, 947, 948, 949, 950, 951, 952, 953, 954, 955, 956, 957, 958, 959, 960, 961, 962, 963, 964, 965, 966, 967, 968, 969, 970, 971, 972, 973, 974, 975, 976, 977, 978, 979, 980, 981, 982, 983, 984, 985, 986, 987, 988, 989, 990, 991, 992, 993, 994, 995, 996, 997, 998, 999, 1000

For more information

Call 785-565-9219 or visit www.k-state.edu/summer

Offering a wide range of courses

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wednesday, March 26, 2003

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

War Hits Home

Soldiers reflect on Gulf War

Current attacks compared to past

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Feelings of déjà vu may be setting in for some soldiers as they invade Iraq — almost 13 years after the Gulf War.

U.S. troops are returning to the Middle East where, in 1991, they liberated Kuwait from Iraqi dictatorship.

Lt. Col. Bart Howard, G-3 of the 24th infantry division at Fort Riley, said he remembers defeating Iraqi forces just north of Kuwait City in February 1991. Howard led 70 soldiers and 14 armored tanks in the second armored division from October 1990 to April 1991.

"We ended up in one of the focal parts of the campaign," he said. "We cut off Iraqi forces on the highways north of Kuwait City."

Howard and his men saw some of the heaviest fighting there, in what has since become known as the Highway of Death.

"Afterward we found Iraqi vehicles full of stolen belongings — TVs, 50 boxes of Reebok shoes — things that kind of shocked us as what we thought of as an army," he said. "The Iraqis had brutalized, raped, tortured and killed people in Kuwait. These Iraqis, in the end, were more thugs and

See GULF Page 10

War affects students abroad

War creates tension for foreign studies

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students studying abroad may spend less time worrying about a weekly assignment or project and more time worrying about their safety now that the United States has begun military action in Iraq.

Barry Michie, director of study abroad, said there are 180-190 students in semester-long study abroad programs and 150-200 students in short-term programs. Although most students are in Australia or the Czech Republic, safety concerns arise when the war in the Middle East intensifies anti-American feelings overseas, Michie said.

"We advise students about this, and it's all a part of pre-departure orientation," he said. "Right now, I would not send students to the Middle East, and we don't have students through our programs going to the Middle East — we wouldn't send students into a war zone."

Michie said that before students depart, they participate in a day-long pre-departure orientation to learn how to live abroad and what to expect.

"There is a whole staff at the office that is looking after our students," he said. "They provide an orientation for our students and teach them basically how to keep a low profile when

See ABROAD Page 10

Iraqis killed in attack

150 to 500 die in battle as U.S. troops approach Baghdad

By David Espo
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American infantry troops fought off a desert attack by Iraqis on Tuesday, inflicting heavy casualties in a clash less than 100 miles from Baghdad. British forces battled for control of Basra, a city of 1.3 million souls sliding toward chaos.

Defense officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said between 150 and 500 Iraqis were killed in the battle near An Najaf, adding there were no immediate reports of American casualties.

Iraqis launched their attack on a day of howling sandstorms — weather bad enough to slow the U.S.-led drive toward the Iraqi capital.

Despite the adverse weather in some parts of Iraq, U.S.-led warplanes bombed targets in the northern part of the country and briefly knocked government television off the air in the capital. And U.S.

America At War

troops in control of a vast Iraqi air base sealed 36 bunkers, designated as possible hiding places for Saddam's elusive weapons of mass destruction.

American officials issued fresh cautions, as well, about the possible use of chemical weapons by Iraqi troops, although none have yet been used in the 6-day-old war — or even found by the invading troops.

As the pace of combat quicken, American and British officials sought to prepare the public for something less than a quick campaign, and predicted difficult days to come.

Still, President Bush forecasts victory.

"The Iraqi regime will be ended ... and our world will be more secure and peaceful," he said after receiving a war update at the Pentagon.

Not surprisingly, Saddam saw it differently. State

See WAR Page 10

No Pot O' Gold

Photos by Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

Amy Dutmer, left, and Brie Madden watch as the final seconds tick down during their 53-59 loss to Notre Dame Tuesday night. The Wildcats were 7-28 from the floor in the second half. K-State finished its season 29-5 and 14-2 in the Big 12.

Cats' 2nd-half drought dooms K-State at home

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Notre Dame Coach Muffet McGraw said she had worried about how her team would handle K-State's offense in Tuesday night's NCAA Tournament second-round contest.

During a 59-53 upset win, the 11th-seeded Irish (21-10) passed that test and then some.

K-State (29-5) shot just 33 percent and committed 14 turnovers, while Notre Dame made the most of its opportunities in booking the Irish's second upset in three days to advance to the Sweet 16.

"They were very, very effective in dictating tempo and style," K-State Coach Deb Patterson said, "and we didn't respond well to that."

Sophomore Laurie Koehn led three Wildcats in double figures with a game-high 23 points, but even Koehn's seven three-pointers weren't

See BASKETBALL Page 8

Notre Dame celebrates after its 59-53 victory over K-State in the second round of the NCAA tournament. The Irish advanced to the Sweet 16 and will face Purdue in Dayton, Ohio.

Greek community participates in Greek Idol talent contest

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It was like a scaled-down version of FOX's "American Idol" — only without the harsh criticisms of BMG Record Executive Simon Cowell.

Greek students filled Forum Hall to capacity Tuesday night, cheering on contestants in "Greek Idol" — a talent competition fashioned after the popular TV series.

Ashley Holmes, senior in psychology and member of Chi Omega, helped coordinate the event. Holmes, events coordinator for the Greek Week steering committee, said the competition put a new spin on the talent contest of previous years.

"We just had a talent show last year, but this time we thought this would be a lot of fun," she said. "Anybody that wanted to participate was able to."

Holmes said there was a good turnout, with 15 contestants in five categories — including male solo, female solo, variety entertainment, dance and group singing.

Daniel Munden, junior in agronomy and FarmHouse member, was the first to perform. Munden also went on to

See GREEK IDOL Page 8

INSIDE

Should celebrities use their fame to support or oppose war and other foreign policy?

Opinion, Page 4

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

U.N. food agency launching $1 billion appeal for Iraq food

A U.N. aid agency will ask for more than $1 billion to help feed Iraqis for six months. Sixty percent of Iraq's population of 22 million are completely dependent on food handouts, according to the World Food Program.

Page 3

U.S. ambassador upset with Canada
Canada's refusal to join the coalition fighting in Iraq has upset and disappointed the United States, U.S. Ambassador Paul Cellucci said Tuesday.

F-16 fires on Patriot missile battery in friendly fire incident

An American F-16 fired on a U.S. Patriot missile battery in Iraq after the battery's radar locked on the jet, U.S. Central Command said Tuesday. No U.S. casualties were reported.

North Korea warns of 'second Iraq crisis' on Korean Peninsula

North Korea claimed Tuesday the United States may attack the communist state after the war in Iraq and spark a "second Iraq crisis."

House rejects proposals on school aid

Efforts to increase public schools funding were rejected Tuesday by Kansas House members. Gov. Kathleen Sebelius has recommended keeping aid constant at $3,863 per pupil.

Weather

Today 72 | 44

Mostly sunny

Thursday 74 | 37

Thunderstorms

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 122

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Poke
4 Fairy-tale word
8 — mater
12 Exist
13 "Peter Pan"
14 Authentic
15 Shea athlete
16 Losing proposition?
18 Aromatic herb
20 Weeding tool
21 Overly theatrical
24 Makes like rodents
28 Goat wool
32 Tease
33 Pub
34 Too-too proper person
36 Binary digit
37 Branch
39 Monetary concern
41 Hyundai head-quarters
43 Othello, for one

DOWN

44 Chowder-head
46 Correct
50 Experiment for dummies?
55 Caustic solution
56 Throw hard
57 Exam format
58 Mrs. McKinley
59 Pitch-black
60 Cereaceous
61 — canto
1 Down-frame part
2 Vicinity

3 Vegas revenue
4 De-vise?
5 Normal number
6 — shoe- string
7 Humorous poet
8 Ferid
9 Main-lander's souvenir
10 West of Holly-wood
11 Ht.
17 Be unwilling to share
19 Potsdam pronoun
22 Inmost planet (Abbr.)

23 Hecuba's hubby
25 MP's quarry
26 Drunkard
27 Mulligan, e.g.
28 Big barrel reader
29 Choir member
30 Palm reader
31 Exxon, once
35 Soon
38 Contempt-ibly
40 Work-week end (Abbr.)
42 Bonfire residue
45 Pack away
47 Smooth-talking
48 Steven-son villain
49 Mallard's cousin
50 Greek X
51 Scoot
52 Clumsy craft
53 Historic period
54 Clinton's instrument

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 3-26

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-228-8858, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern time only. A King Features service, NYC.

3-26 CRYPTOQUIP

VWHM BYCM ZDSHGB JDII
D BUGYSH. OF UWHK VDIS
DGFLMO JDGGKYM C HZQK
QYJSHU BYCMB?
Yesterday's Cryptquip: ATTRACTED TO SOLDIERS, SHE'D OFTEN FIND HERSELF IN "PLATOONIC" RELATIONSHIPS.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: B equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK #1 Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Cryptoclassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.
The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an anastrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

There was an error in Monday's Collegian. Hamid Dadkhah's name was misspelled. There was an error in Tuesday's Collegian. John Collinson's and Geri Simon's names were misspelled. The Collegian regrets the errors.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., K-State 101, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, K-State 101, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

BANTER AND BELLOW

Columnists consider possible soundtracks to accompany individual life occurrences

Layton:

How ridiculously cool would it be if the entirety of your life could be recorded as a soundtrack compiled of all your favorite songs which exemplify everything you've ever experienced?

Even more, what if you could hear it as it actually happened? To put it simply, let's say you were sitting on a dock near what seems to be a bay area sunset and Otis Redding's "Sitting On the Dock of the Bay" just suddenly swallowed all other sounds and carried on as long as it would in a movie.

On the surface, it sounds like absolute heaven, but it also spells out spiraling chaotic recipes for disaster.

Let's say you hear "Dueling Banjos" from the movie "Deliverance" drifting from the most beautiful woman you've ever seen at your favorite pub one evening. When your eyes meet, hers let you know she would pull a bear's bad tooth just to whisper in your ear for a moment or two.

She approaches and explains she has chosen you to live with her through a rapidly approaching nuclear winter in a bunker 1,000 feet below the surface where an undreamable paradise has been built just for you and yours to enjoy.

It's perfect. You'll be a founding father of a new civilization. People will probably worship you 1,000 years from now.

It's also a terrific time to write that book you've been thinking about.

Still, all you can hear is the twing-twang, hootin', hollerin' guit-fiddlin' of "Dueling Banjos." The worst of it is you know she's going to make you to squeal like a pig ... boy.

Dana:

Everything's better with music.

Songs with energy encourage my reluctant rise out of bed in the morning. My arm radio gives any run an epic marathon feel. At the end of the day, Coldplay and Radiohead lull me to peaceful rest.

Life already has a sort of soundtrack. Vivaldi knew this when he composed music based on the four seasons. Lately, sound seems to have taken a more cheerful turn with songbirds' chirps and students' flip-flopping around the sun-drenched campus.

What we really need are personal theme songs. We don't need to be attempting impossible missions or hanging out with Indiana Jones to deserve a few bars upon entrance into a room.

However, life doesn't really have one particular theme. Fluctuations in work loads, weather and the general feel of each day would make picking one song a problem.

Sometimes I have enough spring in my step that I could definitely be groovin' down the street to a hot disco beat. But that would be embarrassing.

Luckily, disco fever quickly broke.

When my judgment is clouded, the theme would be me, tromping to school with a furrowed brow, headphones and something either angry or depressing blasting at my eardrums. Sometimes it's good to simmer in your own pot of self-pity.

But most of the time, my theme would be simpler. All it takes is an acoustic guitar and a sincere voice.

Other days are so wonderful, they're almost holy. What do I say to that? "Hallelujah."

Question: What would it be like if our lives had soundtracks?

You can e-mail Banter and Bellow columnists Dana Strongin, junior in print journalism, and Layton Ehmke, senior in print journalism, at banter@pub.ksu.edu.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, March 24

- At 9:55 a.m., J. Clifford White, 1721 Anderson, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $750.
- At 6:30 p.m., Lisa Vasser, Topeka, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $2,500.
- At 11:05 p.m., Nicole Carter, Junction City, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Lloyd Letcher Jr. at 1:30 p.m. today in Blumont 487.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a Resume Critique Workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Holtz Hall.
- The K-State Chess Club will meet at 6 tonight in Union 206.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- AgFest will have Cowboy Olympics at 8:30 tonight in Weber Arena.
- There will be a donation collection for Friends of the KSU Libraries 14th Annual Book Sale at Dillons East and West today. Donate books, audio and video tapes, and CDs.
- The Native American Student Association will have an informational meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in Kedzie 105. Contact Deah Robinson at deah@k-state.edu.
- Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Donations are welcome. Contact Bryanne at bna3388@k-state.edu.

Quotable

The Associated Press

"This is going to get a lot harder," — Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, after a day that saw nine U.S. Marines killed and a dozen Americans taken prisoner in Iraq.

Up next

In Thursday's Collegian

- News | Cowboy Olympics results
See what happens when people try to do farm chores as part of Ag Fest at Weber Arena. Watch to see how the Collegian team competes in Cowboy Olympics.
- Sports | Intramural competition
Intramural softball starts this week. Get the skinny on the popular spring sport, and find out the Cats manage against Wichita State on the baseball diamond.

Jeanel Drake
COLLEGIAN

TONIGHT
ABE
FRIDAY NIGHT
Pins & Needles
SATURDAY NIGHT
Loco Macheen
DAVE'S HIDEAWAY

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption." 539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Little Caesars
WEDNESDAY
HOT & READY
1 LARGE
14" PIZZA
WITH PEPPERONI
4:00 PM - 8:00 PM
$5.00
No Coupons Necessary
Valid only at participating locations. ©2001 L.C.E., Inc.
539-3333

Mel's Tavern
Manhattan's Downtown Sports Bar & Grill
wednesday special

10 oz. top sirloin
Baked Potato
Side Salad and Texas Toast
$6.99
Domestic Bottles $1.75
Old Milwaukee & Old Milwaukee Light $1.25
Mel's Tavern
105 N. 3rd
Manhattan (785) 776-9879

Say HEESE
Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909
International Coffee Hour Series
presents
"Indonesia: A Land of Great Diversity"
presenter: Lia Boediman
Come and learn about Indonesia, meet people from different cultures, have cookies and a lot of fun, all for free!
Don't miss this opportunity:
March 28, 2003 4-5 p.m.
@ the International Student Center

Washed PALACE
Wednesday
$1.50 Men's Shirts
laundered and starched
BRING IN THIS AD TO RECEIVE off any
20% DRY CLEANING or DROP OFF LAUNDRY
The Wash Palace
Exp. 5/31/03

Bake Sale Today!
KSU Bakery Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

81st Engineering Open House
Wednesday - 26 March
Vote for St. Pat & St. Patricia Dorland & Benton Hall
8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.
Friday - 28 March
Parade & Opening Ceremonies
1:20 p.m. Union Courtyard
Student & Industrial Displays 5:30 - 9 p.m.
Saturday - 29 March
Student & Industrial Displays 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Social Hour in Out's Fours Lounge 6:00 p.m.
Engineering Awards Banquet
Union Ballroom 6:00 p.m.
Banquet tickets available in Rm 142
...Turning Potential Into Performance...
Organized by David King

State prisons cut programs, costs as budget decreases

Operating costs cut by $1.9 million

By Adam Lee
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Decreasing funds from the state and increasing inmate populations are making operating Kansas' correctional facilities a difficult task.

A loss of $6.8 million in state funding has forced the Kansas Department of Corrections to reduce its operational costs and cut inmate programs.

In order to adhere to the reduced budget, operating costs have been reduced by $1.9 million, $1 million has been cut from community correction programs and $2.7 million has been cut from inmate programs, according to a 2003 Corrections Briefing Report.

These cuts have reduced — or in some cases eliminated — repairs to facilities, halfway houses and educational and vocational programs for inmates.

In addition, the budget for food service has been cut, and $2.5 million in food service contracts have been financed from the Inmate Benefit Fund, revenues created by purchases by inmates, and commissions from collect phone calls which are normally spent on items such as exercise equipment.

Bill Miskell, Department of Corrections public information officer, said it is hard to decide where to reduce funding while not inhibiting the department's goals.

"When making cuts, our priority is to minimize the impact to public, staff and inmate safety," Miskell said.

These financial problems become more critical as more inmates enter the prison system and the facilities near their capacities, he said.

Together, the state's eight correctional facilities have a capacity of 9,114 inmates. As of March 7, the prison system held 8,893.

The Kansas Sentencing Commission expects the inmate population to grow to 9,044 by June and to exceed the state's current capacity by July or August. Miskell said that some of the prison already have been forced to convert classrooms and other areas into housing units.

A new cell block at the El Dorado prison would create housing for up to 256 additional inmates, but building the unit would cost $7.1 million, Miskell said.

With building funds already being redirected to help subsidize other programs, however, the Department of Corrections is looking for a way to delay building another prison for two to three years, he said.

In order to help manage the growing prison population, Secretary of Corrections Roger Werholtz has proposed a bill to the Kansas Legislature that would require community-based substance abuse treatment rather than jail time for nonviolent drug offenders.

Retroactivity of the bill could release 300 of the state's inmates into treatment programs.

Miskell said that while inmate population growth will be slowed if the provision is passed, there still will be financial problems to address. Among them are restoring funding to community-based treatment programs whose outpatient capacity was reduced by 75 percent due to budget cuts this year.

"You can't divert 150 or 200 people from prison in the course of a year and save $7 million," Miskell said.

Financial problems for correctional facilities at the local level have been less severe.

Allan Collins, Riley County jail administrator, said that the county's jail hasn't been affected by budget cuts yet.

As a consolidated agency, funded by both Riley County and the city of Manhattan, the jail doesn't rely on money from the state directly.

But because both the state and the county receive substantial portions of their revenues from the state, Collins said the jail might have to look at reducing its expenses in the future if the financial crisis continues.

Collins said local jails receive money from the state for housing parole violators.

Reimbursement from the state to counties will increase from $1.7 million in 2003 to $2.6 million in 2004. Collins said the increase simply reflects a larger number of parole violations.

Collins said the state's reimbursement rates are not sufficient in covering the cost of housing parole violators. It costs $55 per day to house an offender at the Riley County Jail, and the state reimburses the county at $50 per day.

He said that while the county is losing money, the number of parole cases is small enough not to have too much of an effect.

Collins said he predicts that as state prisons fill, there will be changes in sentencing that will transfer offenders to county jails.

"Some laws are being changed. It hasn't affected us yet but it's going to be a problem down the road," Collins said. "If we're holding people that normally would be sent to prison, we'll reach our capacity much quicker than anticipated."

Tao Massage Therapy

$10 off first appointment!

RATES	Regular	Seniors & KSU Students
15 Min	$15	$10
30 Min	$25	$20
1 Hr	$45	$40
1 1/2 Hrs	$67	$60

NATIONALLY CERTIFIED IN THERAPEUTIC MASSAGE AND BODYWORK

For your wellbeing:
 ▶ Deep Tissue
 ▶ Swedish Massage
 ▶ Sports Massage (pre or post-event & rehabilitative)
 ▶ On-site Chair Massage

Call for your appointment
785-341-9928

Delivers the latest!

OPEN THE LATEST!

GUMBY'S
Pizza & Pub

702 N. 11th Street
 Sunday 11 a.m. - 2 a.m.
 Mon. - Wed. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
 Thurs. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

770-3333

Fast Delivery, Dine-in, Carry-out

ROCK N ROLL

wednesday

$6.99 MINIMUM DELIVERY

50¢ Pepperoni Rolls / minimum 6 pizza sauce/ranch extra + tax.

DELIVERY DINE-IN CARRY OUT

BIG ASS

20" One Topping $11.99 or Two for $21.99

Additional Toppings $1.19 per pizza

THURSDAY Mania

XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99

Must mention coupon when ordering. Not valid w/ any other special.

DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY

EVERY PIZZA GETS A FREE RANCH

Ed Klimek

Manhattan City Commission

Still makes sense for Manhattan

As your City Commissioner, Ed has enhanced our Parks and Recreation System. Quality of life makes Manhattan one of the most livable cities in Kansas. Ed believes in recreation opportunities for both youth and adults. Vote for Ed on April 1st.

www.kansas.net/~smkmkg/klimek.htm

Paid for by Manhattanites for Klimek - Jerry Lowenstein, Treasurer

ENTER THE DRAGON

"...ENTER THE DRAGON is the best martial arts film yet..."

—JOHN KOCH, BOSTON HERALD AMERICAN

BRUCE LEE

MOVIE

Place: Union Forum

Date: Wed., March 26th Time: 7:00 p.m.

Admission: FREE!

K-STATE Bracket Madness

Unbelievable prizes

Free to enter

Men's & Women's Brackets

more info available @ royal.purple.ksu.edu

Purchase the 2003 Royal Purple for $34.95 in Kedzie 103

KANSAS STATE BASEBALL

MAKE THE CONNECTION

K-State vs. Wichita State

Wednesday, March 26 7 p.m.

*Subject to change due to weather. Check www.k-statesports.com for updates.

Dairy Queen

Cinnamon Street

BAKERY

Celebrating Our GRAND OPENING!

LOCATED IN THE COFFEE/SWEET SHOP
1ST FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION

TO THE POINT Prison control bill will help overcrowding

A bill has been proposed to help control Kansas prison populations by creating a program to treat some substance abusers instead of imprisoning them.

The legislation, proposed by Secretary of Corrections Roger Werholtz, is an excellent way to help keep prison populations at an acceptable level.

If the bill is passed, it could retroactively release up to 300 state inmates and keep others from ever getting to prison.

That means more room would be available for violent offenders who truly belong behind bars.

The Department of Corrections is attempting to delay construction of a new prison for another two to three years due to budget constrictions.

This sort of program is perfect for reducing the need for another prison, as well as providing treatment to substance abusers.

No one wants to let criminals go before they pay their debts to society, but violent offenders are a much greater threat than criminals arrested for drug offenses.

This legislation would provide drug users with treatment and help control prison crowding.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnett
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnett PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane AGE EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER
	Chris Harrop CO-COPY CHIEF
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

I think I live with a French terrorist.

Protesting should be an act of treason.

Why do all chicks in Manhattan dig Canadians?

Treason should be considered a capital-punishment crime.

This is for that intelligent person who said 'Go, Iraq!' move out. Wake-up call: We are at war. So, stop protesting. It does nothing.

I wish you protesters knew what you were protesting.

I haven't seen one camel yet on the news. I was wondering if we bombed them all in the last war.

Hey, Fourum, could you be a little more anti-war?

If you like Iraq so much, why don't you just move back there and see how long you'll last?

If Iraq is so great, why did you leave?

I was calling in on the recent war issues. With Italy on our side and France on the other, do you think if France attacked Italy from the rear, if Greece would help?

I think we should screw all this war talk. We still have more important issues around here. Pervis Pasco for one.

Anyone who does not support the war in Iraq should go live under Saddam's reign and tell us what it's like.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

CELEBRITY OPINION

Actors in Hollywood are better at acting than commenting on war

Everyone turns into a critic during the Academy Awards.

People watch the awards show with friends and family to critique the clothes, attitudes and partners of those walking the famed red carpet.

Commentators approach celebrities to find out "who" they are wearing and how much their jewels are worth. The stars step out of limousines and flash brilliant smiles to the cameras as they pick and choose which reporters are worthy of their time.

People tune in worldwide to watch the charmed lifestyles of the rich and famous. They imagine being as famous, rich, powerful, beautiful and talented as the celebrities they worship. Awestruck fans anticipate their favorite celebrities winning the coveted Oscar, the pinnacle of recognition in Hollywood.

But this year, the frivolity was taken out of the Oscars and celebrities showed a depth and seriousness usually painfully absent from their lifestyle.

The Academy Awards ceremony and its participants did recognize that death and carnage were taking place overseas. The truncating of the red carpet was the first relief from the disgustingly overdone splendor that usually accompanies Oscar glory.

The dazzle of Hollywood and hours of coverage were noticeably missing this year, and the celebrities responded accordingly. Halfway through the ceremony, a war update was given and many of the celebrities' speeches touched on the war.

This year's Oscars were heralded by celebrities who once again take themselves and their intelligence way too seriously.

It is ironic that the same people who spend millions of dollars on their wardrobes and make more money per film than most of us make in a year can so freely spout political views about justice and peace. Not all celebrities horde their wealth and use it for self-serving purposes. Many of them climb on platforms to save endangered species and fur and cockroaches. Causes taken on by the stars leave a sweet taste in the mouths of celebrities while their own lifestyles remain absent of morality and peace.

If celebrities want to take up a political platform and use their power to sway American opinion, I would like to see them travel overseas and provide humanitarian aid to Iraqis and Afghans.

Let them see and understand oppression before they say this is not America's war to fight.

When they call President Bush and his corporate buddies warmongers and oil seekers, let's see a little of their own wealth removed from their tight fingers to rebuild Iraq and Afghanistan.

Michael Moore, winner of the documentary feature Oscar for "Bowling for Columbine" was quoted in a column titled "Oscars feel war pressure" published by the BBC news in response to whether he would attend the Oscars.

"I'm definitely going," Moore said. "You can't have anything more American than Oscars — that's why our boys are fighting and dying."

Moore was attempting to make a cultural statement, but are the Academy Awards an unambiguous view of how we want the American culture perceived by the rest of the world?

Our American soldiers are not fighting for your ego trip. They are fighting for a cause they believe will free the Iraqi people and keep Americans safe from weapons of mass destruction.

Argue that concept until you are out breath, Mr. Moore, but don't associate the sacrifice of the American military with your self-serving awards ceremony.

With the current war and the rise in casualties, the Academy Awards ceremony should have been the first thing canceled in celebration of real courage and sacrifice.

Kathryn is a junior in public relations. You can e-mail her at krh5588@k-state.edu.

KATHRYN HOLLINGSWORTH

NOW THAT I HAVE YOUR ATTENTION... SUCK ON THIS AMERICA.

Illustration by Adam Hayes | COLLEGIAN

U.S. citizens must question whether effort was made to avoid war

I hung an American flag in my truck throughout all of my spring break travels. I did it to support the troops, many of whom are my age or younger, as they serve our country. I pray for their safety at night.

And that is why I don't support this war.

Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld went on NBC's "Meet the Press" to talk about the war.

He said, "War is the last choice." President Bush has said he has made every effort humanly possible to avoid it.

These words came as the graphic tape surfaced of the dead Americans and captured prisoners of war. One of the POWs is from Valley Center and is my age. While I sit here on a beautiful spring day, he faces I tell you that I can't begin to fathom.

Seeing that tape makes me want to scream at Bush: Everything humanly possible?

Don't tell me that.

Not after the fact that the ink hadn't even dried on Resolution 1441 when we began sending troops over. Not after we began claiming inspections weren't working before they'd even reported their findings. In reality, we never gave the inspections a chance. When we shared our intelligence about Iraqi weapons in a Security Council meeting, the inspectors claimed that they were useless.

Instead of giving more information to them, we said it was further proof inspections weren't working.

Everything humanly possible would have included an attempt to get a real coalition effort. Not Micronesia and El Salvador, but a true coalition that could support us financially and with troops.

By doing that we could try using military pressure and true allied coalition to force Saddam Hussein to show his cards by getting the world behind us.

Perhaps a war could have been avoided then. Perhaps not. We'll never know.

In 1991, Secretary of State James Baker went from ally to ally across the Atlantic, listening to them and gathering support as building a coalition.

More than 90 nations were behind us then. Baker even talked to Iraqis before the war started as a last ditch effort.

Contrast that to this war. Our president flew halfway across the Atlantic to the Azores. Not to meet with countries that didn't agree with us, but with three allies we already had — for an hour.

Every effort humanly possible?

Bush's doctrine of preemptive strikes was laid out long ago and has been followed to the hilt. It is a lie to say we made every effort to avoid a confrontation.

We decided Iraq was sufficient enough a threat to ignore their sovereignty and justify an attack. And that is exactly how we've proceeded.

So now we see troops die. Our own Americans spilling their blood on a foreign soil on a preemptive attack that will only worsen as we prepare to take Baghdad.

We think a free and democratic Iraq can serve as a beacon of hope in the Middle East. This puts a lot of faith in the fact that they will embrace our principles and occupation. The truth is that Iraq is a hornet's nest. We don't know what all the different ethnic groups there want. Instead of stabilizing this area, we could be driving it further into chaos. Remember, this idea was born in a think-tank in Washington, D.C., not by people in Iraq.

I will support our troops because they are just regular people who are doing their jobs. But how can I feel that everything was done to keep them out of harm's way?

I guess that is how war works. Those who make the decisions and plans aren't on the front lines facing the bullets. It is the common people who make the real sacrifices.

That goes for both sides of the conflicts. Remember there are things TV coverage doesn't show. I wonder just how much shock and awe the women and children of Baghdad feel as bombs rain down every night. For us, war is something we get to control in the amount of what we see and hear. We can be detached. They get to live it every day.

So think about that when you begin to debate about the war.

Think about the loved ones back here who wait with bated breath for news of their soldiers. Think of the innocents who are dying over there right now because of bombings and shortages of food and water.

Why should there be so much death when every effort wasn't made to avoid this war? I guess that is a question we all get to ask ourselves.

Fletcher is a senior in geography and natural resources and environmental sciences. You can e-mail him at fjacobs@k-state.edu.

FLETCHER JACOBS

Junior colleges to be reviewed

Kansas Board of Regents plans to consider community college advising, opportunities for student leadership

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Kansas Board of Regents could begin taking steps to ease students' transition from two- to four-year colleges.

Student Body President Zac Cook said that advising at community colleges in Kansas has not been effective in preparing students to continue toward bachelor's degrees.

Cook said the possible addition of student leadership from community colleges will be discussed at the Regents meeting today and Thursday.

"Hopefully it will make it easier for someone to get higher education when starting at a local community college," Cook said.

Students who begin post-secondary education at community colleges with the intent

Meetings

The Kansas Board of Regents monthly meetings are in the Jackson Office Building, 1000 S.E. Jackson in Topeka. The public is invited to attend each meeting, with times and dates of meetings on the Regents Web site, www.kansasregents.org.

to earn four-year degrees are often confused as to whether they should have an adviser from the community college or the university, Cook said.

Because the requirements for a two-year associates degree differ from a bachelor's degree program, many students take unnecessary courses at community colleges, Cook said.

The Regents oversee all higher education institutions in Kansas, including technical schools, community colleges and universities.

Ensuring that community colleges are able to include student leaders in the Regents meetings could help increase communication between Kansas institutions, Cook said.

Faculty Senate President Al Cochran said the Board has been working hard in the last year to provide for issues relating to all aspects of the state's higher education system, including discussions about how community colleges are governed and how funding is established to support them.

Board of Regents meet once each month and are open to the public.

Cochran said attendance at the meetings could prove beneficial for Kansas residents.

"It's important not only for students," Cochran said, "but for everyone in the state, because its responsibilities are very important."

U.N. food aid agency plans to launch $1 billion appeal to assist Iraqis

By Tom Rachman
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROME — With food dwindling for millions of Iraqis, a U.N. aid agency will make the biggest single request for cash in its history — more than $1 billion to help feed the war-stricken nation for about six months.

About 13 million people — 60 percent of Iraq's 22 million — are completely dependent on food handouts, World Food Program spokesman Trevor Rowe said.

U.N. officials pulled out of Iraq after the start of the U.S.-led war last week, and Iraqis have about five weeks of food left, the agency estimates.

"We expect that we will be asking for over $1 billion," Rowe said in an interview at the agency's Rome headquarters.

"We anticipate that this could well turn into the largest humanitarian operation in history."

The appeal for money will be part of a larger U.N. request for Iraq aid that will come "very, very soon," Rowe said, possibly on Wednesday at United Nations headquarters in New York.

"We have a plan. We don't have the cash yet. We're going to need that the money be given with unprecedented speed because the window of opportunity is shrinking every day," he said. "The clock is ticking."

Iraqis have been heavily dependent on food rations from the U.N.'s oil-for-food program, which let Iraq sell unlimited quantities of oil as long as the money went primarily to humanitarian relief.

Before the war, the U.N. food agency had said it was stocking warehouses in countries surrounding Iraq for emergency aid to feed 900,000 Iraqis for 10 weeks.

However, the latest appeal will be far larger in scope, aiming to feed millions of Iraqis for months while the country works to become more self-sufficient.

In addition to the World Food Program, the U.N. contingency plans call for UNICEF to be on the ground to help with water and sanitation issues and the U.N. refugee agency to cope with refugee needs.

The headquarters for the Iraq operation is Cyprus.

NEED A ROOMMATE or are you LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO LIVE?

advertise in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 332-6555

NEED AN APARTMENT FOR FALL OF 2003 IN MANHATTAN? COME VISIT US DURING THE KSU OPEN HOUSE MARCH 29, 2003!!

We offer Apartments and Townhouses throughout Manhattan. For a preview of our properties, please visit our website at: www.mdi-manhattan.com

STUDIOS/
ONE BEDROOM
$360-$520

TWO BEDROOMS
$500-$700

THREE & FOUR
BEDROOMS
$750-$940

JUNE, JULY & AUGUST LEASES AVAILABLE

For more information please contact our office at (785) 776-3804.

McCullough Development, Inc.

210 N. 4th, Suite C • Manhattan, KS 66502 • (785) 776-3804 • mdi-manhattan.com

Start the spring season with a free phone.

600 WHENEVER minutes

UNLIMITED weekend minutes

FREE
NATIONWIDE, long distance
and roaming

$39.99 per month

FREE
Nokia 3390
($99.99)

Bring in this ad for a $35 store credit with T-Mobile activation. Offer good only at K-State Student Union.

THINK WIRELESS

1st. Floor of K-State Union 785-317-1620

T-Mobile Coverage not available in all areas. Credit approval, activation fee and one-year service agreement required with $200 early termination fee per number. Applicable taxes, assessments, toll and roaming charges additional. Unpaid minutes do not carry forward to a subsequent billing cycle. Any fraction of a minute used is rounded up and billed at the full minute rate. Calls are measured from the time the network begins to process the call (before the phone rings or the call is answered) through its termination. The call. Minutes are defined as minutes for through midnight local time. All minutes include T-Mobile service and network (not for credit card or operator-assisted calls) on the national GSM digital network of T-Mobile and its U.S. roaming partners. Your use of the service constitutes acceptance of the T-Mobile terms and conditions including the mandatory arbitration clause. Our PCS system is not compatible with analog TTY, which may prevent or delay emergency calls. Additional restrictions apply. See printed materials for details. Offer valid in select T-Mobile markets only and subject to change without notice. T-Mobile is a registered trademark of Deutsche Telekom AG.

Wildcat Creek Sports Center

Monday
&
Tuesday

2 Cats + 1 Cart = $22
(9 holes)

* Subject to cart supply.

Hey Guys:

2 rounds of mini-golf: 9.90
(let her win)

6 batting cage token: 5.00

1 medium bucket of balls: 10.00

A good, fun date night: Priceless

Of course Mastercard is accepted!

CHEAP FILL.

Chipotle

BIG BURRITOS. WHEEEEEEE.
IN AGGIEVILLE

Baseball loses on the road

Pitchers walk 6 Bluejays

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Pitching problems from last week in Florida followed the K-State baseball team to Omaha, Neb., Tuesday in an 11-6 loss to the Creighton Bluejays.

K-State (10-12) sent six different pitchers to the mound but received the same outcome from each Wildcat — control problems. K-State gave free passes to 11 Bluejay hitters, including three from Wildcat starter Jared Brite.

"It's very frustrating," Coach Mike Clark said. "Until we get some consistency pitching-wise, and some guys that will attack the zone — get ahead in the count consistently and be aggressive — we're going to have to put up 10, 12, or 15 runs a game."

"I'm not going to put up with this anymore. There isn't any bailing out. I'm trying to find four or five guys that will be aggressive, attack, throw strikes, get ahead in the count, and that might be our pitching staff for the rest of the season."

The game marked the second straight time K-State has out-hit an opponent, but gone on to lose the game. The Wildcats hit safely 15 times compared to only nine hits for Creighton, but K-State stranded a season-high 14 runners.

Another problem that plagued the Wildcats was hitting into double-plays. Clark said a lot of that had to do with K-State falling behind the Bluejays early.

"When you're behind, you can't start runners to try and stay out of those double plays," he said. "You can't put the hit-and-run on when you're that far down for fear that the batter swings and misses and you get thrown out stealing."

In the top of the first, K-State left the bases loaded, and it came back to haunt them in the bottom of the inning. Brite walked two batters and gave up one run in a rocky first inning in his first start of 2003.

Brite then allowed four runs on three hits and walked four batters in four innings of work, which was the beginning of a carousel of players to walk at least one batter.

"It doesn't do any good to change pitchers," Clark said. "All we're doing is letting the guy that got us in trouble off the hook, and then the other guy comes in and I don't see anything better."

K-State finally managed to score a run in the fifth inning when Brad Anzman scored on a sacrifice fly by Pat Maloney. But again, K-State stranded runners as Terry Blunt was picked off of second base with the bases loaded.

"I thought we did a good job of getting people in position," Clark said. "For the most part we did a good job of hitting when we had people in position, but a couple of times we hit into some bad luck."

Things won't get any easier for a struggling Wildcat team as Wichita State comes to Tointon Family Stadium to face K-State at 7 tonight.

"We have to match their pitching," Clark said. "We've got to go out and keep them off the bases. A lot of their offense is stealing bases and putting pressure on your defense."

"Offensively, we've got to take advantage of the opportunities that we get," he said. "They have a tremendous pitching staff—one of the best staffs in the country."

Clark will send senior Kevin Melcher (0-1, 6.61 ERA) to the mound against the Shockers. Melcher has struggled with his velocity, something he and the coaching staff have been focusing on this week.

"Kevin's problem is that he's gotten into some fundamental problems," he said. "He's lost 5-6 mph on his fastball, which makes everything pretty much the same speed. We're hoping we've got that taken care of."

Golf wins without wind

Team places 2nd at meet

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Accommodating for wind is an essential part of playing golf in the often-breezy Flint Hills.

Thus, while their opponents scowled, the men of the Wildcat golf team had to hold back grins when they encountered 20 mile-per-hour winds on Monday at California's Stevenson Ranch Golf Course.

The Cats took advantage of their new-found ally and were blown into first place, primed to win their first competition of the spring session.

But on Tuesday Coach Tim Norris said his athletes found their best weapon gone.

The wind had passed, and the Cats relinquished the lead to finish second.

But, he said, although K-State surrendered first place, it was still a successful weekend capped by a strong final round.

Sophomore Matt Van Cleave and freshman Josh Persons were K-State's top shooters.

Van Cleave shot a final-round 72 and finished tied for fourth while Persons shot a 73 to finish eighth in what Norris said was a very strong field.

"It was a good tournament for both of them," he said.

"Josh is a freshman, and Matt is a sophomore, so this represents the future of our team. It is looking very bright right now."

The duo was joined in the Top 20 by junior co-captain Aaron Watkins, who finished in 17th place with a 75.

Norris said the only thing that stood between the Cats and a sure victory was the hot hand of University of Pacific.

Riding behind Matt Hansen, who finished first with a final round 68, the University of Pacific team managed to overtake the Cats and win by six shots.

Despite the close score, it didn't boil down to the 18th hole. Pacific simply found its stroke when it mattered the most, Norris said.

"It was close, but I can't say one or two holes at the end made the difference," he said. "They had a really good team score, and there was no weather."

Norris pointed out that the Cats did finish ahead of all the teams in their division. He said that would leave K-State looking pretty for its next action — the Texas A&M Border Olympics, held at the Laredo Country Club in Laredo, Texas on April 4 and 5.

"We were there and put ourselves in a position to win it, and we had a chance," Norris said. "We did beat all the teams in our division, though. When teeing off as the leader, you kind of had a bullseye on your back. Everyone was gunning for us out there."

TOUGH GOING

Nicole Ohlde goes up for a rebound against Notre Dame's Teresa Borton during the first half of K-State's second-round 53-59 loss to the Irish. Ohlde finished the game with 11 boards and 15 points.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Irish game plan shuts down K-State post presence

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Notre Dame, utilizing the same game-plan it employed in upsetting No. 6 seed Arizona on Sunday, focused on stopping the post presence of All-American candidate Nicole Ohlde on Tuesday at Bramlage Coliseum.

Mission accomplished. "Ohlde is a great player, and our goal was to double-team her and make it difficult for her to shoot," forward Courtney LaVere said.

"Sometimes we doubled down and let some shooters open, but she's a great player, and we had to."

The Irish held Ohlde to only four shots in the first half, continually hampering the Big 12 Player of the Year. Needing just 22 points to become K-State's all-time leading scorer, Ohlde finished the night with 15.

"They were very, very effective," Ohlde said.

"They had hands up all over the place. They were just being aggressive and were doing the things they needed to do."

That stingy post play forced Ohlde and forward Kendra Wecker into committing nine of the Wildcats' 14 turnovers. The Irish capitalized to the tune of 17 points.

"I felt we got out to a great start," Notre Dame Coach Muffet McGraw said. "I was so pleased with our defense. I felt that's how we won the game."

The Irish, led by LaVere's 14 points, outscored K-State 22-16 in the paint. That came with little aid from second-team All-Big East selection Jacqueline Batteast.

Batteast continued to struggle from the floor, connecting on just one of 10 field goals after a 1-of-16 performance Sunday night.

LaVere made up the difference, however.

Playing beyond her years, the freshman made several key plays in ushering the Irish to victory.

Back-to-back Lauria Koehn three-pointers with 1:40 to go in the first half brought the Bramlage crowd — 11,534 strong — to its feet as the Wildcats gained their biggest lead at 31-26. LaVere answered with a basket inside to end K-State's 14-3 run.

LaVere showed poise late in the game as well, knocking down two free throws with 39 seconds left and the Irish clinging to a tenuous 53-51 lead.

But K-State's comeback efforts fell short. While the Wildcats seemed to solve Notre Dame's man-to-man defense by the end of the first half, switching to a zone in the second rattled K-State.

Employing McGraw's aptly named "storm" defense, the Irish shook K-State's offense like a roll of thunder.

"Unfortunately, there wasn't a lot of movement, and there wasn't a lot of continuity," K-State Coach Deb Patterson said. "When you get to championship-caliber games, you have to expect that there is physical play. You have to learn to finish in those scenarios."

"You can see the more aggressive team got to the line more frequently, and that's an indication they were bringing a more aggressive mindset to the physical play. They certainly answered it tonight better than we did."

Disappointment was painted on the faces of Ohlde and Koehn following the game. According to Patterson, though, the root of that disappointment went beyond simply losing.

"You're hopeful that you're going to bring your very best to this 40 minutes," Patterson said. "The most disappointing thing for us is we will leave the floor knowing we didn't necessarily play to the character we demonstrated all season long."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Playoffs to use normal officials
The NFL plans to scrap all-star officiating crews for the playoffs, choosing instead to use officials who worked together during the regular season. The decision was designed to eliminate the kinds of gaffes that plagued the postseason.
The move, announced Tuesday at the NFL meetings, is designed to ensure more cohesion within the crews. Until now, playoff crews had been made up of officials who rated the highest at their positions but hadn't necessarily worked together before.

Cycling | Armstrong worried about safety
Lance Armstrong will worry about his team's safety this summer during the Tour de France if the United States is still at war with Iraq, he said Tuesday.

The four-time champion said he would be concerned about his U.S. Postal team as it rides each day through the mountains and countryside.

Armstrong did not, however, say those worries would keep him from competing in the race.

Tennis | 2 more join U.S. Fed Cup team
Meghann Shaughnessy and Alexandra Stevenson will join Serena and Venus Williams on the U.S. team in the first round of the Fed Cup against the Czech Republic next month.

Shaughnessy is ranked 22nd and Stevenson is 27th. Serena Williams and Venus Williams are ranked first and second, and were previously named to the squad that will compete in Lowell on April 26-27.

College basketball | SAT debate
Georgia basketball recruit Alexander Johnson said he took the SAT exam in December and knows nothing about an allegation that someone else was asked to take the test for him.
University of Georgia officials are investigating the latest allegation of improprieties in the basketball program.

MLB | Guerrero drops suspension appeal
Montreal outfielder Vladimir Guerrero dropped his appeal of a three-game suspension Tuesday in exchange for the commissioner's office cutting it to two games.

SPORTS ONLINE

Read why Sean Purcell thinks Tiger Woods proved himself an even greater athlete by playing through sickness, and why other golfers still are lagging behind. Also, check out a recap of the Wildcat women's postseason run at www.kstatecollegian.com.

TOURNAMENT UPDATE

East

(1) Connecticut 81, (9) TCU 66
(11) Notre Dame 59, (3) K-State 53

West

(5) Louisiana Tech 74, (4) Ohio State 61
(2) Texas 67, (7) Arkansas 50

Midwest

(4) Penn State 77, (5) South Carolina 67
(2) Villanova 70, (7) George Washington 57

Midwest

(1) Duke 66, (8) Utah 54
(2) Texas Tech 72, (7) UCSB 68

BY THE NUMBERS

NCAA TOURNAMENT
NOTRE DAME 59, K-STATE 53

K-STATE (29-5)
Koehn 7-19 2-23, Ohlde 6-10 3-4 15, Wecker 4-15 0-0 10, Mahoney 2-8 1-25.

NOTRE DAME (21-10)
Severe 6-11 5-6 17, LaVere 5-16 4-5 14, Ratay 3-13 3-4 12, Duffy 2-3 4-4 10, Borton 2-3 0-0 4, Batteast 1-10 0-0 2.

K-STATE 28 31 — 59
NOTRE DAME 31 22 — 53

3-point goals — K-State 9-30 (Koehn 7-17, Wecker 2-6, Dutmer 0-1, Domenico 0-2, Mahoney 0-4), Notre Dame 5-11 (Ratay 3-6, Duffy 2-3, Batteast 0-1, LaVere 0-1). Fouled out — None. Rebounds — K-State 36 (Ohlde 11), Notre Dame 42 (LaVere, Severe 8). Assists — K-State 15 (Mahoney 5), Notre Dame 10 (Severe 4). Total fouls — K-State 16, Notre Dame 13. Technical — None. Attendance — 11,534.

Wednesday, March 26, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

DEFINING CHEATING

Unfaithful partners can lead to relationships full of troubles

By Wendy Gorman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Unfaithful lovers are the topic of countless books, movies and sappy country songs — yet another instance of art imitating life.

The possibility of a partner cheating is a reality anyone in a relationship faces.

"There are a million reasons why people (cheat)," said Charlie Drees, outpatient therapist and licensed clinical marriage and family therapist at Pawnee Mental Health Services.

"Bored, feel hurt, their partner might have done something to hurt them. Sometimes maybe they're just trying to make a statement that 'I'm not ready to be tied down, and no one can control me,'" Drees said.

The definition of cheating can differ one from person to the next.

"That's a loaded question," Keen Umbehr, sophomore in psychology, said. "To me, an intimate kiss can be as much cheating as having sex."

Amber Thomas, sophomore in apparel marketing and design, said many behaviors can be considered unfaithful.

"What defines cheating is anything you can't tell him or her. If you're going on a date and don't tell him, then it's cheating because there's obviously something you're hiding," Thomas said.

Rusty Andrews, licensed clinical marriage and family therapist at Andrews and Associates Inc., said cheating might indicate that problems are already present.

"It can come from dissatisfaction. More times than not it is a symptom of a problem rather than the cause of a problem."

Whatever the motivation, when a committed person engages in an affair, his or her relationship will be affected to some degree, and the outcome varies Andrews said.

"It depends on a lot of circumstances. It is not necessarily the end of the relationship when it occurs, but it is a sign there are serious problems."

"There are issues of trust to be dealt with and issues of hurt and forgiveness. Relationships can be better after an affair if both partners are committed to making that happen."

When one partner has cheated, there are steps that must be taken to repair the damaged trust, Drees said.

"I think if someone's had an affair, they have to make a decision about what kind of relationship they want. The person who had the affair must accept there will be a period of time where his or her partner is very upset," Drees said.

"For the person who has been cheated on, I ask them to help clarify what they need from the other person, what behavior they find trustworthy. They may need to hear it over and over again until they're convinced they can trust the other person again."

The cheater may be tempted not to tell their mate what happened because of the consequences.

"It depends on the relationship, how long it has been," Umbehr said. "It's ideal you don't put yourself in a situation where you might be tempted to cheat."

Andrews said that whether a person should admit to having an affair is a decision that should be made after evaluating the relationship.

"I don't think you can make a blanket statement that every affair needs to be disclosed," Andrews said. "That decision should be made on the level of commitment, how long ago it occurred, if (the affair) is continuing, if it will be helpful to the relationship to disclose it."

Drees said that if people are cheating, they are making personal decisions and need to examine what they want out of a relationship.

"What kind of relationship do you want with the person you've cheated on? Do you want a relationship where you can have secrets, or do you want one where you can be honest?"

Umbehr said the decision to be unfaithful is not justified in any situation.

"Even if your boyfriend or girlfriend is cheating on you, you should be the bigger person and break it off."

Illustration by
Stefanie Shank | COLLEGIAN

CALENDAR

■ ABE will perform at 10 tonight at Dave's Hideaway.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Greek filmmakers urge boycott of American movies

Greek filmmakers are calling for a boycott of American movies to protest the war in Iraq.

The Union of Greek Filmmakers said Monday the boycott was "not a condemnation of the American people or American art" but a protest against the war.

Fugitive filmmaker's Oscar win may ease filmmaking for exile

Roman Polanski's surprise Oscar win for directing "The Pianist" has returned Hollywood's attention to his career.

Jeff Berg, his agent, refused to say who has approached him about working with Polanski, but pointed out that the filmmaker has never wanted for celebrity colleagues, even in the years since a 1977 sex crime made him flee to France.

PERSONALITY PROFILE

Willie the Wildcat
Mascot

1. What would you like to be having for dinner tonight?

"I would want chicken. I hear they have a good restaurant in Lawrence. Or Texas Steak, and probably corn on the cob. These cover all my food groups, and trust me, I have one big appetite."

2. What is in your CD player right now, or who is your favorite musical artist?

"Well, I wasn't much of a country fan till I saw Willie Nelson this past football season — that guy rocked. I enjoy everything, but when it's game time, I resort to the drumline from the KSU Band."

3. What kind of car do you drive?

"Everybody has seen my car at tailgates and down on the field. It may not have airbags, but it gets the job done. I can't wait 'til Harley day comes around."

4. What was the last movie you saw. Why did you see it?

"Besides KSU highlight films? I think 'Jackass' was playing at the Union the other day. I wanted to see it, but didn't have a date, so I stayed home and studied."

5. What is your must-see TV show?

"ESPN is definitely a must to keep track of all of games. I also enjoy 'The Man Show' to get new ideas, 'The Bachelor' because I can relate to that, and of course everyone loves the Deb Patterson show."

6. What is your favorite place to eat in Manhattan?

"Little Apple Brewery is good, but to be honest, I'm a big fan of Willie Sports Bar and Grill. Catchy name, huh?"

7. Who is your idol and why?

"I'm a big fan of Megan Mahoney right now. I also idolize those guys on the front row dressed in the referees' jerseys. They really get me fired up before a game."

8. What is your favorite alcoholic drink?

"I would have to say whatever is on special in Aggieville. I may be a wildcat, but I'm in college also. The cheaper the better."

9. What is the craziest thing you have done in college?

"Where do I start? Somewhere from doing the K-S-U on sky box and crowd surfing after a touchdown."

10. Have you ever cheated on a test?

"What was question number four again?"

New York's Carnegie Hall next stop for K-State choir members

Fund-raising concert tonight at McCain will enable several Midwest choirs to perform in historic concert hall

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Few have the chance to perform at Carnegie Hall once in their lives, but Sarah Mann is going for her second trip.

Mann, who performed in the New York concert hall as a senior in high school, will join other members of K-State choirs to perform on April 27.

"It's just such a larger scale," Mann said. "The acoustics are incredible."

Many of the choirs traveling to New York will perform at 7:30 tonight in McCain Auditorium to raise money for the trip to New York.

"It's a chance to hear some very fine choirs sing," said Rod Walker, professor of music and guest conductor for the performance.

Mann is a member of the Kansas State Choir, which will be joined tonight by the Kansas State Chorale, Emporia High School Chorale and Cowley College Concert Choir.

The Denton High School Chorale of Texas and the K-State Alumni Choir will complete the 275-member chorus for the Carnegie Hall performance.

The performances will be conducted by Walker, who will be conducting at Carnegie Hall for the first time.

The choirs will perform "The Testament of Freedom," by Randall Thompson, which is based on writings by Thomas Jefferson.

Originally, Walker said, the piece was selected to honor the victims of the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks.

But recent events have made the work applicable to the current global situation.

"It's not a pick-sides piece," Walker said. "I think what it does is to reaffirm what we are as Americans and

Sharing the wealth

A fund-raising performance by K-State and other choirs will be at 7:30 tonight in McCain Auditorium. Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students and senior citizens, and are available at the McCain Box Office, 532-6428.

what it is to be American."

Mann said the performance sends a powerful message, no matter the views one takes on America's war in Iraq. She said it helps to unite people from both sides of the debate.

The most exciting aspect of the performance, Walker said, will be for students to perform in Carnegie Hall.

"It's a really good feeling to sing in this hall — one of the most storied concert halls in the world," he said.

Mann said the thought of knowing so many famous people have preceded the choirs on the stage at Carnegie Hall makes the performance special.

The choirs will be in New York for three days and four nights, Walker said. Students will rehearse in the mornings and have afternoons free to explore New York.

The Metropolitan Opera is Mann's target destination for her free time. She said it will be exciting to be able to visit New York's cultural attractions.

While Mann is looking forward to New York's culture, Walker said the performance speaks highly of Manhattan and K-State.

"I'm just pleased for the students and that they'll have this opportunity," he said.

"It reflects well on K-State's cultural programs that we were invited to perform at Carnegie Hall. I really think our cultural programs here are first-rate."

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

GREEK IDOL | Contest showcases performances

Continued from Page 1

win the male solo category. "A friend of mine that was on the board for Greek Week kind of convinced me to do this," he said. "I was a little nervous at first, but I got more comfortable when I got out there and started playing."

Sarah Hazen, senior in secondary education and member of Sigma Kappa, won for her performance in the variety entertainment. She said she hoped her comedy act would get the audience excited.

"Most people wouldn't expect seeing it in a talent show, especially from a girl," she said. "It's kind of a challenge, too, being the only girl act, before and after guys. It's kind of interesting holding your own as a female."

Chris Lai, freshman in open-option and Sigma Alpha Epsilon member, said he was nervous before the dance competition. Lai was breakdancing for the title.

"I haven't done this since my sophomore year in high school," he said. "I just started back up yesterday, and I made up my routine this morning."

However, Julie Fletcher said

Greek Idol winners

Male solo: Daniel Munden, FarmHouse — "Give Me Jesus"

Female solo: Ashley Rippe, Chi Omega — "I Turn to You"

Variety entertainment: Sarah Hazen, Sigma Kappa — Hazen: This Is What I Have To Say

Dance: Kappa Delta — KD Company Performing: "We're About to Break"

Group song: Tara Hanney and Mandy Achilles, Alpha Delta Pi — "I Will Survive"

Overall competition: Who's Anthony, Delta Tau Delta — "Innocence" by Outhouse and "Plush" by Stone Temple Pilots

Kappa Delta members practiced their dance routine for about two months. The 10-member group went on to win the dance competition.

"We didn't really get into it for serious competition," she said. "We just wanted to have some fun."

Contestants weren't the only ones who had to practice before the contest. Co-hosts Carly Waugh, freshman in animal sciences and industry and member of Sigma Kappa, and Andy Allison-Gallimore, senior in agricultural economics and member of FarmHouse, had to earn their spots on stage, too.

"I'm just lucky to have the opportunity to do it," Waugh said. "It's nice to have a big variety of performances in different genres. There has been some really phenomenal talent here."

Holmes said about 10 people tried out for the host and hostess spots.

"They stuck out in our minds because they were the most creative and good on their toes, and they just seemed comfortable doing it," she said.

Kristin White, sophomore in apparel design, said she came to cheer on two friends entered in the competition.

"I just wanted to come and support them," she said. "I also like Greek Week because you get to hang out with other houses."

Kelly Welch, assistant professor in family studies and human services, was one of five judges critiquing competitors. She said this was the first time she has judged a talent contest.

"It was hard to judge everyone. Their talents were all pretty equal," she said. "You have to admit — it takes a lot of courage to get up there and do what they did."

BASKETBALL | Wildcats stop short of Sweet 16

Continued from Page 1

enough to keep the Irish from sealing the game late.

K-State narrowed Notre Dame's nine-point second-half lead to two three times within the final 1:13, but the Irish drained eight straight from the charity stripe during that span and 15 of 18 for the half.

Notre Dame's clutch free throws, coupled with the Wildcats' offensive inconsistency during the final 30 seconds, eliminated any hopes for a K-State comeback inside the final minute.

"You've got to give a lot of credit to Notre Dame," junior Nicole Ohlde said.

"They came out, they were fired up, they were all over the place and they just got after it."

That the Cats were able to make a game of it down the stretch was an accomplishment in its own right.

Leading 31-28 at the break, K-State opened the second 20 minutes ice cold and went without a field goal for the half's first 11:04.

"For whatever reason, in the second half, we just mentally froze," Patterson said. "The same team that played us in the first half played us in the second half, but the personalities of the two teams were revealed at that critical juncture."

By the 10:28 mark, the Irish had built a 40-32 lead behind a 12-1 run.

The Cats wouldn't lie down, though.

Back-to-back 3-balls from Koehn brought the Cats back to within four at 42-38, but Megan Duffy canned a clutch trey of her own with few ticks left on the shot clock to start another Notre Dame run.

"It was big for a lot of reasons," McGraw said.

"She's not one of our main 3-point threats. She had great presence of mind to know how much time was on the clock. I was a little surprised that she took that shot, and I was really glad that it went in."

Another K-State cold streak during the next 2 1/2 minutes allowed Notre Dame to take its largest lead at 48-39.

But the Cats still weren't done.

"We knew no matter the lead, they could get right back into it because they're such a great 3-point-shooting team," Irish forward Courtney LaVere said. "We just needed to stay poised through the whole game, and I think we did that."

K-State closed the gap to four with 1:27 left behind two Koehn free throws, but Notre Dame had little trouble solving the Cats' man press and converted from the free throw line in the game's closing moments.

"It's extremely disappointing," Koehn said. "I don't know how else to say it. It's devastating and not a good feeling and not a way you'd ever want to feel."

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

- Integrity
 - Experience
 - Leadership
 - Innovation
 - Commitment
- Vote April 1st!

Re-elect

Bruce Snead

for

City Commission

Paid for by Bruce Snead for City Commission, Mark Knackendoffel, Treasurer

Announces the following position vacancies

PUBLIC WORKS
ENGINEER I Starting Salary: $34,465 - $37,912/yr (full time)
Requirements: Graduation from an accredited university with B.S. in Civil Engineering.
Position Purpose: Responsible for the design & maintenance of records & files on all engineering projects; reviews plans, plans & contract documents submitted for approval by engineering firms & developers; deal with other professional public agencies & public agencies concerning projects & assist other city departments with projects.
Closing Date: 03/27/03

PARKS & RECREATION
MAINTENANCE WORKER I Starting Salary: $18,900/yr (full time)
Experience Required: Knowledge of types & uses of hand tools; basic skills in irrigation, pruning, planting, & pest control also general understanding of turf & landscape maintenance practices preferred. Willingness & ability to perform heavy manual labor for extended periods of time, work outdoors in all weather, & perform routine repetitive tasks essential.
Position Purpose: Provides labor, operates machinery & various equipment. Assist in providing routine landscape, maintenance, facilities, services, & experiences to park patrons.
Closing Date: Open until filled

JUNIOR ZOOKEEPER SUPERVISOR Starting Salary: $5,450/yr
Experience Required: Diploma or GED required. Excellent supervisory skills, experience working with youth, & animal knowledge vital. Must maintain a valid driver's license & be able to work three or more days each week throughout the summer. Incumbent will supervise & educate several youth volunteers working with basic animal husbandry & interpretation.
Closing Date: 04/03/03 (temporary/part-time position)

SEASONAL EDUCATION STAFF Starting Salary: $6,250/yr
Experience Required: Diploma or GED required. Excellent supervisory skills, experience working with youth in an educational setting & curriculum development vital. Basic science skills important. Must maintain a valid driver's license & be able to work three or more weekdays throughout the summer. Incumbent will develop curriculum & supervise children during summer clubs.
Closing Date: 04/03/03 (temporary/part-time position)

—SPRING/SUMMER SEASONAL—
Starting Salary: Various seasonal positions, non-benefits eligible.
Position Listing: Daycamp Counselor, Daycamp Coordinator, baseball & softball umpires, referees, instructors & ball field maintenance; swim instructors, lifeguards & concession workers; horticulture, park, forestry & cemetery seasonal laborers; piano accompanist & a range of theater positions from directors to set designers, among others.
Special Requirements: Applicants should be at least 18 years old or older for most positions. Prior seasonal employees encouraged to re-apply.
Closing Date: Applications will be accepted until positions are filled.

To be considered for an available position, you must complete a City of Manhattan application & return it to the attention of Human Resources by 5:00 p.m. on the closing date. For applications or more information, send e-mail to: manhattan@cityofks.org. Call the Job Line at 785-246-2465 or e-mail: jobline@cityofks.org. Call the Job Line at 785-246-2465 or e-mail: jobline@cityofks.org. Call the Job Line at 785-246-2465 or e-mail: jobline@cityofks.org.

STUDENT TRAVEL

web fares

London.....	$462
and NOT just online
Paris.....	$318
Rome.....	$359
Madrid.....	$340

Fare is roundtrip from Kansas City. Subject to change and availability. Tax not included. Restrictions and blackout apply.

(800) 554.7547

www.statravel.com STA TRAVEL

ONLINE • ON THE PHONE • ON CAMPUS • ON THE STREET

When you're in college, the last thing you want to worry about is banking. Lucky for you, Commerce Bank has made the decision easy. Open a checking account today and turn your ID card into an ATM/debit card that can be used all over campus and all over town.

Use your card at any of these convenient locations:

OFF CAMPUS

Applesseed Art & Frame
Ballard's Sporting Goods
Candlewood Aesthetics
Center Medical Skin Care
Candlewood Veterinary Clinic
Cary Company Inc.
Cat's Closet
Children's Book Shop
Corner Chiropractic
Domino's Pizza
Dr. Paul Bullock, Optometrist
Eric Wisdom, D.D.S., P.A.
G. Thomas Jewelers
Guiding Light Greetings Gifts & Nutrition
Hibachi Hut
Homestead Rental/Furniture Warehouse
It's Greek To Me
Kansas Veterinary Education Supply
K-Hill Engine Service
Kistner's Flowers & Greenhouse
Olson's Shoe Service
Orthopaedic Sports Medicine
Pet Stop Automotive

Randall's Formal Wear

Reed & Elliott Jewelers
Rod's Hallmark
Rusty's Last Chance
Rusty's Next Door
Rusty's Other Side
Stonycreek Family Physicians
Taylor's Shoes
Texas Star Café
The K-State Place
The Palace
The People's Grocery
Varney's Bookstore

ON CAMPUS

Animal Science & Industry Athletics
Bluemont Buffet
Career & Employment
Continuing Education
Diagnostic Medicine
Hale Library
Housing/Dining Services Office
Kansas Extension Forestry
K-State ID Center
K-State Union Bookstore
K-State Union Cats Den

K-State Union Computer Store

K-State Union Copy Center
K-State Union Food Court
K-State Union Recreation Center
LaFene Health Center
McCam Auditorium
Moore Hall Food Store
Parking Services
Quick Cats - Vanzile
Recreational Services
Registrar's Office
Student Publications
Telecommunications
Union Business Office
Union Program Council
University Cashier's Office
Vet Med Office
Veterinary Medicine Hospital
Veterinary Medicine
Instructional Technology Center

the OTHER semester

Summer School 03

The advantages

- Smaller class sizes
- Catch up on classes you couldn't get into
- Get ahead on degree plans
- Explore new areas of interest

Classes

- Run from May 19 - August 8, 2003
- Last 2nd 8 weeks
- Will be completed by August 8th

For a complete listing of courses

- Contact the Summer Session Office at 785-532-5712 or e-mail samsch@ksu.edu
- Visit our web online at www.ksu.edu/pa/samsch
- For the summer session schedule, visit our website <http://courses.ksu.edu/catalog/11001>

For more information

K-State Summer 2003
Summer Session Office
Kansas State University
200 Anderson Hall
Manhattan, KS 66506-0310

Call, click, or come by • 532-3500 • www.commercebank.com

Offering a wide range of courses

CLASSIFIEDS

Wednesday, March 26, 2003

KANSAS STATE COLLEGEAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE OR two-bedroom
Close to campus. August 1.
(785)317-7713.

A THREE-BEDROOM
apartment. Close to campus. (785)317-7713.

ACROSS STREET from campus/ Aggieville. Three-bedroom/ gas, water paid.
$900/ month. June lease.
(785)749-2865.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS.
best deals around! One,
two, three four and five-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations.
(785)770-3722.

APARTMENTS AVAILABLE
June. Two-bedroom duplex, four-bedroom duplex, one-bedroom basement, two-bedroom basement. All one-half block from KSU.
Choose now before they're gone. No pets. (785)556-6899.

AVAILABLE AUGUST two-bedroom apartment across from City Park, with washer/dryer in each unit. Water/trash paid. $585/ month.
Year lease, no pets.
(785)539-0222.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations
have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-
9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550.
(785)539-2482.

FOR RENT Five-Bedroom Brittany Ridge Townhouse. Two and one-half bath. Washer/ dryer. Available August 1. One year lease. $940/ month. Call
(913)909-4078 or (913)254-
7867 after 5:30pm. Weekends anytime.

FOUR AND FIVE-BED-ROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975.
(785)770-3722.

JUNE AND AUGUST. Studio, one, two, three, four-bedroom house/ apartment.
Central heat/ air-conditioning, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
and one-half bath, brand new duplex. Be the first to live in. All appliances including washer and dryer. August 1. No pets. (785)556-6899.

NEAR CAMPUS, unique studio cottage 909 Kearney (alley). $299 monthly.
Water/ trash paid. August
lease. No pets. (785)539-0549.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two
and three-bedrooms. $750-
$900. Manhattan Rentals.
(785)341-4496.

NEW, DIFFERENT, Wildcat
Village at Stadium Place.
Four-bedroom luxury living with safe room in each unit.
Large bedrooms with walk-in closets. Two separate living room areas. All appliances including washer, dryer and microwave hood. High efficiency heating and cooling, expanded basic cable TV and cable internet provided. Ready for May occupancy. (785)776-2425.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One
two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments.
Central air. Free washer/dryer. No pets. Available
summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms
one block from campus.
Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August
1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE AND TWO-BED-ROOM apartment, one block to campus. Off-street parking, water/ trash paid
$375 and $600. (785)776-
9225.

ONE, TWO, three, four-bedroom apartments, houses,
and combo duplexes.
June, August leases. Good locations. (785)539-4440.

SPACIOUS TWO AND THREE-BEDROOMS.
Close to campus with fireplace, balcony central air, dishwasher, and laundry facilities. June or August.
(785)539-0866.

THREE-BEDROOM. TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/trash paid. Cheap utilities.
Laundry. August lease.
$275/ bedroom. (785)776-
4166.

TWO AND three-bedroom
units available for August 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-
3663, one-half mile from K-
State, at the corner of College and Claflin.

TWO STUDIO apartments.
June or August lease. No pets. 1030 Kearney Street.
Call (785)537-0177.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM
one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus.
(785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month.
(785)341-4496.

115
Rooms
Available

ROOMS AVAILABLE for end of May and August.
Rent $230/ month plus share utilities. Close to campus, washer and dryer. Call
Jake at (785)539-4904. 911
N. 11th St.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A FOUR-BEDROOM
house, nice, near campus.
June 1st. Call (785)317-7713.

A SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1.
(785)317-7713.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE.
Two bath, two kitchens. Living room. Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove,
refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets. June lease.
(785)539-1975. (785)313-
8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM, TWO baths and three-bedroom, one bath, central air, washer/ dryer, close to campus.
June lease (785)770-3722.

FOR RENT, three, four, and five-bedroom houses. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer.
(785)449-2181

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE,
walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease (785)539-1975 or
(785)313-8296 or (785)313-
8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE,
walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease (785)539-1975 or
(785)313-8296 or (785)313-
8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO
bath, Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease.
$1100. (785)336-6286 or
(785)770-0062.

GREAT LANDLORD with great houses. Roomy, spacious, and updated three and six-bedroom houses.
Central air, washer, dryer,
no pets. June lease.
(785)313-4812.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, one-half block from campus, water/ trash paid.
Off-street parking $900.
(785)776-9225.

NEAR CAMPUS, four and eight-bedroom houses.
Multiple bathrooms and kitchens. Central air, washer, dryer. June and August leases. No pets. (785)539-0549.

THREE-BEDROOM
HOUSE close to campus.
$750/ month. One-bedroom basement apartment. $300/month. No pets. Open House, Sunday, March 30th,
1pm- 3pm 1112 Thurston.
(913)208-9029.

THREE-BEDROOM, SPA-
CIOUS, west of City Park.
Washer, dryer, dishwasher.
June 1. $900. (785)532-
4424/ (785)537-9425.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO
bath main floor apartment.
June 1. $750/ month. 709
Bluemont. Washer/ dryer
window air conditioning.
(785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO
bathrooms, basement apartment. $675/ month. Washer/dryer, window air-conditioning. 709 Bluemont. June lease (785)539-4949.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE
bath basement apartment.
June lease, $450 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931
Vattier. (785)539-4949,
leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE
wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month
plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st.
Call Kimberly (785)456-
4204.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May.
Washer/ dryer, window air
conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

TWO FEMALE roommates
needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking.
Washer/ dryer. Trash paid.
Near campus. $300/ month.
(785)537-1219.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE
now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month.
(785)539-5907.

SUMMER SUBLEASE
AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large two-bedroom close to campus and Aggieville. Water and trash paid. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher, and off-street parking (785)537-3287.

115
Rooms
Available

TWO ROOMS available.
Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered, $300/ month.
Negotiable. (785)537-1948.

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 WINNE. Beautifully
remodeled brick ranch,
three-bedroom home, $900,
immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets, new central air-conditioning,
close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706,
evenings.

913 RATONE. Very nice
four-bedroom, two bath,
central air, dishwasher, laundry. No pets. June lease. $300/ bedroom.
(785)556-5668.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1, 426 N.
17th, duplex, second floor.
One-bedroom, fireplace,
central air, outside deck,
washer, dryer. $425/ month
plus utilities, deposit, lease.
(785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large duplex, 426 N. 17th. Two-bedroom, fireplace, outside porch, patio, central air,
washer, dryer. $660/ month
plus utilities, deposit, lease.
(785)539-3672.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM
house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/dryer. Available August 1st.
(785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE
near city park. Washer/ dryer hookups, central air.
Available August 1. (785)-
539-1145.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, across from campus,
off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/
dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)537-8420
or (785)341-5346.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, central air, washer/
dryer. Close to campus.
June 1 leases. Several Locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath, washer, dryer hook-
up, no pets or smokers.
1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

ROYAL TOWERS

4 Bedroom
APARTMENTS

* 1500 sq. ft.
* Starting at $780/mo.
* Close to Campus
* Large Bedrooms
* Hollywood Baths
* Resident Center
with 6 full-sized
washers & dryers.
* Economical

JUST STEPS AWAY
CALL 776-3804

www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough
Development
210 N. 4th Ste. C

ONE-BEDROOM NOW.
Northwest of KSU could be furnished. No smoking.
drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

Park Place Apartments
Affordable Prices
1,2 & 3 Bedrooms
$39-295

THREE-BEDROOM. NO
pets or smokers. 1021 Fremont. $660 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday.
(785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOMS. All
amenities. August leases.
Close to campus/ Aggieville.
(785)539-4641.

TWO, THREE, and four-bedroom apartments, central air. June lease. Very nice.
(785)313-2443.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-
MENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition.
http://www.rentstate.com
(785)776-4166 or rentstate9@yahoo.com

TWO-BEDROOM. NO pets
or smokers. 624 Bluemont.
$500 plus utilities. August
lease. Monday- Friday.
(785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE
bath, available June 1.
washer/ dryer provided.
$520. Water, trash paid. 405
North 10th. (785)539-0939.

115
Rooms
Available

VERY NICE one and two-bedroom close to campus.
Available June 1st.
(785)539-9582 leave message.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for nice, two-bedroom apartment. Split utilities, water and trash paid.
Available August. Call Lauren (785)539-5430.

FEMALE roommate wanted
for house walk to campus.
Split utilities, trash paid.
Call for details. Amy
(785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE
wanted. One bedroom to campus. $250, utilities paid.
Pets considered. Call (785)537-4947.

MALE FOR lower level now.
All furnished, washer/ dryer without meter, walk to campus. $180 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, pets.
(785)539-1554.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No
smoking, drinking, pets.
$180 plus utilities. (785)539-
1554.

ONE TO two-bedrooms immediately available. Brittany Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer and central air.
$235/ month plus shared utilities. (620)672-1513. Ask for Brandon.

120
For Rent-
Houses

Discover Brittany Ridge

TOWNHOMES

*4 Bedrooms
w/ study
*2 1/2 Baths
*Washer/ Dryer
in each unit
*Sand Volleyball Court
*1440 sq. ft.

Starting
at $940
776-3804

Model Showings
2521 Candlcrest
M.W.Th. 3-6
Sat. 12-3
McCullough
Development

NEAR AGGIEVILLE and campus. For rent: two blocks east of Aggieville, four-bedroom, two baths,
new carpeting, off-street parking and central air. 12-month contract available August 1. $1000/ month.
(785)537-8070.

NEVER FOUR-BEDROOM,
two bath duplex. All kitchen appliances, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, close to campus. June 1 lease, no pets. 926 Vattier, $1050.
Call (785)841-2503.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM
house. Close to campus.
Washer/ Dryer hookups. No
pets/ smoking. June contract $1100. 1524 Hartford
(785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

ONE, TWO, three, four, five,
six-bedroom houses and
apartments. Available June,
July, August. www.rent-
apm.com (785)539-4357.

SIX-BEDROOM HOUSE/
duplex. three-bedroom.
Washer/ dryer free. Good condition. Two-bedroom duplex very nice. No pets.
(785)537-2289.

THREE, FOUR, and five-
bedroom houses available.
No pets. Call Stacey Hoff-
man with Hallmark Homes
Real Estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM COULD be furnished for August.
Walk to campus. No smoking, drinking, pets.
(785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM
HOUSE, 530 Bertrand.
Lease available for next year. No pets. $600. Call
Stacey (785)587-8700.

THREE-BEDROOM. TWO
bath, washer, dryer, no pets
or smokers. 515 Vattier.
$900 plus utilities. August
lease. Monday- Friday.
(785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM.
WASHER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. $900
plus utilities. August lease.
Monday- Friday (785)776-4805.

BLUEVILLE NURSERY is accepting applications for part-time and full-time temporary employees for the spring season. Experience in retail sales, lawn sprinkler installation, landscape installation, nursery work and lawn maintenance preferred.
Must be available mornings.
Apply in person at Blueville
Nursery, Inc., 4539 Anderson. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CHILD CARE AND light housekeeping for suburban Chicago families. Responsible loving, non-smoker. Call Northfield Nannies. (847)- 501-5354.

COLBERT HILLS requires snack bar/ beverage cart attendants. Must be able to work flexible hours. $6/ hour plus tips, free golf. Must be able to work April- October.
Apply in person at 5200 Colbert Hills Drive, Manhattan.

CRUISE LINE entry level,
on board positions available,
great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-
6434 or www.cruiseadvice.com.

DRILL TEAM COACH: A Drill Team Coach is needed for Riley County High School. Please contact
Becky Pultz as soon as possible. (785)485-4000 or bpultz@usd378.org

ENTERPRISE MUNICIPAL Pool is hiring lifeguards and swimming pool manager for 2003 summer. Send resume to 206 S. Factory, Box 245, Enterprise, KS 67441.

310
Help Wanted

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and
more per survey!
www.surveymedians.com.
EASIER BUNNIES and helpers needed for the upcoming Easter season at the mall. Must be available
Thursday- Sunday, April 5-19. Call Reflections Photography at (785)539-1550.

ADVERTISING...
IT WORKS
KANSAS STATE COLLEGEAN
103 Kedzie
832-6860

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED for nice three-bedroom, two bath duplex. Washer/ dryer provided. $260 plus one-third utilities. June 1. Jenny
(785) 770-8284.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/pets. 715 Laramie.
(785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE APRIL or May through July 31st. One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan Apartments. Call now.
(785)539-4306.

SUBLEASER NEEDED! Female roommate needed to take over payments June/July. $275 a month plus utilities. 2000 College Heights
#3. Very clean and nice.
Call (785)587-8632.

SUMMER SUBLEASE available. Two-bedroom apartment in Chase Apartments.
(785)539-4517.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available.
On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280.
520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

200
service directory

300 employment/
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

$550 WEEKLY Salary- Mailing our Sales Brochures from Home. No experience necessary. Full-time/ part-time. Genuine opportunity.
All supplies provided. Paychecks guaranteed. Call
(1630)306-4700 (24 hours).

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan.
www.greatcampjobs.com

BARTENDER POSITION.
Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext. 1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential.
Local positions. (800)-293-
3985 ext. 548.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY!
Sports camp in Maine.
Coaches needed. Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free.
(888)844-8080 or apply online. www.campcedar.com

SIX-FIGURE INCOME.
Can be yours by joining our company. Easy work from home.
Call toll free (866)612-5303
5am-9pm est. www.lower-myphonebill.com/angel

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS
has an opening for a Macintosh technician. The tech support team maintains approximately 50 Macintosh

GULF | Military personnel reflect on earlier operations in Persian Gulf

Continued from Page 1

thieves than a professional army – and it disturbed us.”

Although Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm is considered a U.S. victory, Howard said some people still criticize the outcome of the war, especially with war raging yet again in the Middle East.

“It’s easy to say in hindsight that we could have taken Saddam Hussein out, but that wasn’t the mission,” he said. “The mission was to liberate Kuwait.”

Howard said that after the mission was accomplished, U.S. officials decided to put a sanction on the Iraqi government instead, under the supervision of the United Nations.

“I’ve never questioned those decisions that were made at that time,” he said.

However, people who do question war-time decisions have a right to do so, Howard said.

“We have free speech, and people are allowed to express their views, and that’s very important in our government and in our life,” he said.

Air Force ROTC Corps Commander Alan Schulenberg, senior in electrical engineering, said many people may think the United States is fighting overseas for oil, but he disagrees.

“History has shown us too many times that if we just ignore people with the mind-set of Saddam Hussein, they will eventually abuse their power,” he said. “I think that war should be the very last option, but sometimes war is the only choice.”

It is choice that will directly affect students like Schulenberg.

“I just have to have faith in the people above me who are making those decisions,” he said.

Howard said people shouldn’t take these missions lightly.

“Our nation asks the military at times to go into harm’s way. That’s what we will ask our military to do in this situation,” he said. “That’s just part of the military – I lived through it in Desert Storm.”

Howard said soldiers work to protect the soldier standing next to them in battle as well as the nation.

“When we go in to work, at the end of the day, we aren’t asking if we made a profit in our business or whether our product is selling,” he said.

“We say, ‘Are we trained? Are we ready? Can we do whatever job it is we’re called to do?’”

Christie Vanover, deputy media relations officer at Fort Riley, said the army base deployed an entire division of such soldiers, about 12,000, during the Gulf War.

“I think it’s important for our citizens of these local communities to realize how precious our soldiers are,” she said. “Not many people are willing to look in the mirror and say they can take a bullet for someone else, but we have 10,500 soldiers at Fort Riley who are.”

ABROAD | Students studying abroad cautioned

Continued from Page 1

they arrive, you know, don’t march down the street with an American flag.”

The study abroad office sends notices to students, keeps copies of passports and notifies U.S. embassies as standard procedure. When there is a war, however, students abroad are more cautious.

“We keep track of the U.S. Department of State’s travel advisories, and if war were to spread to an area where a student is studying, we would immediately try to contact students and coordinators on the other end who we’re operating through to see what is going on and, if a situation warrants, how we are getting students out,” Michie said. “If U.S. nationals are in danger, the embassy can assist in evacuating students.”

Bradley Shaw, director of international studies for arts and sciences, said he doesn’t think there is a direct threat to students, although he can’t be certain.

“Students need to be advised to take all due precautions always, and certainly at a time of conflict,” he said. “I support study abroad and encourage students to study abroad.”

Shaw said he was surprised at the number of students who have remained in the program despite ongoing conflict.

Students like Amy Jones, who will study in Sancerre, France, from May 23 to June 24.

“It’s kind of scary to think about going over there and being away from what I know, but I know everything will work out,” she said.

“I know that this is a really awesome opportunity for me, and I don’t want to let anything come in the way of that.”

Jones said she plans to continue with her plans to study abroad despite anti-American sentiment in France.

“My sister is studying in Montpellier right now, and she’s had people cuss at her just for being American and for no other reason,” she said. “But I can’t let fear dictate my life. It’s something I want to do, and I don’t want to let what is going on in the world stop me from doing that.”

However, some students fear studying abroad. But

Shaw said there is some danger to Americans everywhere.

“We’ve been told that there is a likelihood of some kind of terrorist action somewhere in the U.S. We have a warning every week – warnings here, warnings there,” he said. “We know that that’s a possibility, and we’ve seen attacks on Americans abroad. There’s crime in American cities, and there’s crime in foreign cities – you can’t guarantee that students will be totally safe in Manhattan, Kansas.”

Michie said students have been overseas during past conflicts.

“During the Kosovo crisis several years ago we were concerned about students in Europe, but most of the strong demonstrations were in Australia, of all places,” he said. “Generally, anti-American sentiment is aimed at U.S. policies, not taken out on the individual.”

Shaw said regardless of what happens, all precautions will be taken.

“All of us think about what happened a year and a half ago when we board an airplane,” he said. “It could happen, but we still go on with our lives.”

WAR

Iraqi death toll unconfirmed

Continued from Page 1

television carried what it described as a message from him to tribal and clan leaders, saying, “Consider this to be the command of faith and jihad and fight them.”

If confirmed, the initial reports of fighting near An Najaf would make it the biggest ground clash of the war and the first encounter between advancing American infantry and the Iraqi units guarding the approach to Saddam’s seat of power.

A senior military official said the U.S. troops had hunkered down against a sandstorm, less than 100 miles south of Baghdad, when Iraqis – either Republican Guard or paramilitary Iraqi troops traveling on foot – opened fire with rocket-propelled grenades.

Some of the 7th Cavalry’s equipment was damaged in the attack, the official said.

The unit is part of the force driving on Baghdad.

NEED A ROOMMATE or are you LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO LIVE?

Stagg Hill Golf Club

Student Membership Rates!

$115/30 Days

• With KSU Student I.D. •

Twilight Rate $12.00 Green Fee after 4 pm
Play All You Want!

DRIVING RANGE SPECIAL

with this ad,

3 Buckets $6.75

Save $1.50 off

Regular Price.

Expires April 30, 2003

539-1041

3 Miles West of Holidome on K-18

GET IN HERE!

532-6560

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN ADVERTISING

Your Career Takes Flight

Come to a place where your career can take flight. You'll be surrounded by professionals ready to help you at a moment's notice. You'll develop working relationships that feel like family. At the end of the day, you'll know you've made a difference doing what you love to do.

Consider the possibilities...

SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHERS – Provide year-round instruction to children with low incidence disabilities, autism, sensory impairment, moderate to severe learning and behavior problems in self-contained classroom of six to eight children. Design and implement instructional programs to meet individual student needs based on a functional curriculum. High staff/student ratio with medical, psychology & therapy support services provided in the classroom. Experienced teacher assigned for training & support.

Degree in Special Education & certification in MR, SMD, will consider certification in BD with experience in multiple disabilities or additional special ed. cert., K-12. Competitive salary based on education & experience. Excellent employee benefits. Contact Julie Noller for information at jnoller@heartspring.org or to submit a resume. EEO/M/F

8700 East 29th Street North • Wichita, KS 67226
(800) 835-1043 • fax (316) 634-0555 • www.heartspring.org

Get Involved!

Serve on a Student Governing Association (SGA) Senate Standing Committee, the Executive Branch Cabinet, a Judicial Board or an at-large University Committee.

Applications and a list of positions are available at:

www.ksu.edu/osas/sga

or the

Office of Student Activities and Services

Deadline:

Wednesday, April 9th 4 pm

Office of Student Activities and Services
Ground Floor, K-State Student Union

Collegian
Explore it!
kstatecollegian.com

tonight
$2 pitchers wings 10¢

call 639-4671 to get your tickets for DUSTIN DIAMOND
a.k.a. Screach from Saved by the Bell appearing Sunday & Monday

Aggie Station
RESTAURANT & PUB

Claflin Books and Copies
Where YOU are #1
dependable, quality service

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping
pizza with the purchase
of a Large with 2 or
more toppings.

For the fastest delivery,
lunch or late night call

776-5577

~Ag Fest 2003 Debate Panel~

Food Livestock Production: Who should run the system?

Invited Panelists

Mike Collinge, former Kansas Livestock Association President

Adele Douglass, Animal Welfare Specialist

Dr. Mark Spire, Professor of Veterinary Medicine

Christy Linders, McDonalds Franchise Owner Paula Ford, former Public Voice Activist

THURSDAY, March 27th 6pm, Umberger 105

Free meal to follow for all in attendance supported by Excel

The Office of Student Activities and Services again offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

for more information visit the website at:
<http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH HENSON

785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours:

Monday - Friday:

9:00 - 11:30 am & 1:30-3:30 pm

Tuesday Evening appointments available upon request.

Understanding
Islam

Call to the way of your Lord with wisdom and sincere exhortations and debate with them in manners that are most appropriate (Al-Rah 16:125)

What Makes Islam Different?

When: Thursday, March 27, 2003

Time: 3:30 - 5:00 p.m.

Where: Big 12 - KSU Student Union

Everybody is Welcome!

REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Thursday, March 27, 2003

America At War

Coalition delivers relief to civilians

By Davis Espo
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warplanes attacked a convoy of Iraqi armored vehicles leaving Basra under cover of sandstorms Wednesday, raising hopes that British ground troops soon could enter a city feared on the verge of a humanitarian crisis.

Iraq claimed American missiles killed 14 civilians in Baghdad.

The possibility of a major battle loomed south of the capital as a second, far larger, Iraqi column of vehicles moved in the direction of American forces aiming for Saddam Hussein's seat of power.

One week into the war, the first substantial delivery of humanitarian supplies rolled into southern Iraq, greeted at the border by hungry children.

"This war is far from over," President Bush said in a quick trip to the Florida headquarters of U.S. Central Command, which is overseeing the war. Still, he said victory was only a matter of time.

The Iraqis countered with a military communique of their own — nothing like Bush's assessment — reporting an unbroken string of successes.

Student to revitalize downtown

May graduate to be new project director

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Lisa Rockley will be headed downtown after her May graduation.

The 22-year-old beat out 30 other applicants to become the new director of Downtown Manhattan Inc. — a non profit organization dedicated to revitalizing the city's downtown area.

Rockley, senior in social science with an emphasis in public relations, began working part-time for the company March 17 and will spend the next few weeks learning the ropes from outgoing director Carrie Ohm.

"I feel lucky to be in a position that I know I'm going to enjoy and have some experience with," Rockley said. "Manhattan was the main street association I really wanted to be involved in from the very start. I've been a student in the community for the past five years and have learned to love Manhattan and hope to stay here for a long time."

Rockley stays busy throughout the week, taking 20 credit hours and working three days a week. As director of the Kansas Downtown Development Association, she doesn't have much free time on weekends, either.

"I'm trying to learn as much as I can and take over

See DIRECTOR Page 5

Salina engineering professor dies

Campus loses long-time faculty member, adviser

By Kari Kennedy
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Don Buchwald, professor of engineering technology at K-State-Salina, died Tuesday following a brief illness.

He was a professor of mechanical engineering with a specialty in robotics, said Kristin Magette, public and alumni relations for K-State-Salina.

Buchwald had been a professor at K-State-Salina since 1966, a year before the campus opened for classes.

"He added a sense of history and tradition since he was one of the first faculty mem-

Don Buchwald
FORMER PROFESSOR OF ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY

bers hired here," said David Delker, head of the Department of Engineering Technology. "He also gave us lots of expertise in the field of study he was involved with."

In addition to being a professor, he had many positions in student and professional organizations. He was adviser to the student chapter of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers and was a former chair of the society's senior chapter in Salina. He was the campus representative for the American Society for Engineering Education and in 2002 he was named Faculty Member of the Year for the College of Technology and Aviation.

"He was really an energetic person. He put a lot of enthusiasm into everything he did," Delker said.

Both Delker and Magette said Buchwald has a strong tie to the students.

"He put his heart right there with the students and really dedicated a lot of his time and energy to developing laboratory activities for them," Delker said. "He really put them first."

Buchwald put a lot of time and commitment into his classroom activities and always found new activities to include in that course, Delker said.

Because of his commitment to the students, his death has had a significant impact.

"The students were very fond of him, and his passing is leaving a big hole in our campus right now," Magette said.

Even though memorial services have not been organized yet, students have been talking about what they can do to remember him, Magette said.

The funeral service information hasn't been set so the level of it affecting the upcoming All-University Open House is uncertain.

"He was really a fixture on our campus," Magette said. "It will be different because people will be missing his presence here."

Further obituary information was not available.

COMPETING COWBOYS

Photos by Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Barb Bremkamp, junior in agronomy, competes in the lawn mower race during the Cowboy Olympics, which took place in Weber Arena. Bremkamp and her team competed against other teams in timed events during the event, which was part of Ag Fest 2003.

4-person teams compete in ag olympics

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wrangler jeans, flannel shirts and wide-brimmed hats were in high fashion Wednesday evening in Weber Arena at Cowboy Olympics.

Twenty-five teams of four competed in timed events of stacking hay bales, rolling a large round hay bale, pushing a pickup truck, driving a tractor lawn mower forward and backward and post driving.

"It's stuff we've already done before," Matt Houtwed, freshman in agriculture economics, said.

Houtwed's team, named "Three Hicks and a Chick," came in second place.

The three "hicks" — Houtwed, Casey Mattke and Craig Kennedy, grew up on farms, which they said made the competition much easier.

"We're basically professionals," Mattke,

See OLYMPICS Page 5

Danielle Bailey, junior in animal science, helps her team compete in the hay bale roll during the Cowboy Olympics at Weber Arena. Teams paid $26 to compete and awards of brown farm jackets, hats and gift certificates were given.

Campus tours provide student jobs, recruit new K-Staters

By Kari Kennedy
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Essence Halliburton leads a group of people with purple and orange K-State folders around campus on prospective campus tours.

She says the group is one big family.

Halliburton, senior in marketing and international business, has been a tour guide for two years.

"I really enjoy talking to prospective students and their parents," she said. "I sometimes meet alums who know something more about the school that I can add to my tour."

Emily Lehning, assistant director of New Student Services, said the guides are very important to recruiting students.

"It is the only opportunity we can guarantee the prospective students that they will have time with a current K-State student," she said.

"The guides can share past experiences and give the prospective students insight into K-State life."

One prospective student from Broomfield, Colo., participated in one of Halliburton's tours Wednesday and said it really helped.

"She was great and made it fun, but she also explained a lot," Hannah Franka said.

Her mother, Jenny Franka, liked the tour as well and said Halliburton tried to include the people in the tour on a personal level, which made it more enjoyable.

Halliburton said the best part of the job is giving the tours and seeing those students as freshmen the next year and waving to her on campus.

"It's almost like you are building a relationship with those students," she said.

Lehning said that to get this minimum-wage job as a tour guide, one must fill out an application and have a short interview.

Nicole Donnett | COLLEGIAN
Essence Halliburton, senior in marketing and international business, talks to a group of prospective students and parents while giving a tour of the K-State campus Wednesday.

"We look for students who have a variety of experience and variety of background," she said. "They are excited about their college experience and are willing to put in long hours and walk outside in bad weather."

Halliburton said the one tough part is giving tours all year with the variety of weather conditions.

"If we have students that are willing to go on the tour, we have to give it," she said.

She said she gives one to two tours a week, and an average is no more than three tours a week.

Halliburton said she once got tipped for giving a tour, and sometimes people remember the tour guides and start e-mail correspondence.

Lehning said the tour guides are a great asset.

"They do so much for us, and they are really fun people," she said.

INSIDE

See the New York protests through the lenses of 6 student photographers.

Focus, Page 10

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

About 1,000 U.S. paratroopers land in northern Iraq

About 1,000 U.S. paratroopers landed in northern Iraq on Wednesday, a U.S. military spokesman said, as part of the American strategy of opening a northern front against Saddam Hussein's regime.

Relief convoy rolls into Iraq as allies struggle to clear the way for more

The first sizable relief convoy rolled into Iraq on Wednesday bringing water, tuna, crackers and other food to Iraqis, some of whom cheered as they swarmed allied troops handing out supplies. "Eat, eat!" shouted an Iraqi boy of about 10, pointing to his mouth as the trucks lumbered past.

British forces backed by coalition strikes pound column of Iraqi vehicles

Coalition aircraft pounded a convoy of Iraqi tanks and armored vehicles streaming out of the besieged southern city of Basra late Wednesday, British military sources said.

Both sides seek speedy work on $74.7 billion bill financing war

Leaders of both parties say they will try to quickly approve funds for waging war against Iraq, while acknowledging it will be difficult to prevent money from being added to the $74.7 billion bill President Bush sent Congress.

Daniel Ellsberg, two Nobel laureates, arrested near White House

Two Nobel Peace Prize winners, two bishops and Vietnam War activist Daniel Ellsberg were among those arrested near the White House in anti-war protests Wednesday. More than 100 demonstrators in Florida denounced President Bush during his trip there.

Weather

Today 64 | 33

Showers/wind

Friday 50 | 28

Partly cloudy

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 123

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Height of fashion
4 Centers
8 One of the Three
12 Here (Fr.)
13 Largest of the seven
14 Congressional call
15 Kitchen-related
17 Going into extra innings
18 Saturn auto model
19 As if entranced
21 Ceremony
24 "2001" computer
25 Oklahoma city
26 That girl
28 Trudges
32 Sarajevo citizen
34 Joke
36 La Scala tune
37 Gran's successor
39 Chatter
41 Get dressed in

DOWN
1 "It went down the wrong way"
2 Old French coin
3 Service-related
4 "— and Her Sisters"
5 Dream Team
6 Hitchcock villain?
7 "Open wide"
8 Kneecap
9 Surrounded by
10 Banana castoff
11 Mayberry marshal
16 Debtor's letters
20 Use a ray gun
21 Impetuous
22 Notion
23 Journey segment
27 Scott Joplin's genre
29 Plain
30 60-Across singer
31 Vocalized
33 Toni Morrison novel
35 Hiatus
38 Carpenter's tool
40 Infertile
43 Clear the windshield
45 Pronoun
46 Supplements, with "out"
47 Actress Sorvino
48 Teller's partner
49 Start over
53 Resume
54 Staff
55 "Of course"

Solution time: 27 mins.

Yesterday's answer 3-27

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-226-5555! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (16+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP
GXYR P QNUR UT QYULPTC
PEEPBZH N HWLLUHY
URY BUWQC BPQQ EXPE
P GNOCBPE HETNZY
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHEN SIGN MAKERS CALL A STRIKE, DO THEY WALK AROUND CARRYING EMPTY PICKET SIGNS?
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: E equals T

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.
The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals G, it will equal G throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Redzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Redzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7161.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

SPOTLIGHT | Theater design student

Architecture graduate continues to design sets for department after graduation

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Nathan Sauber just can't get enough of K-State. He received his bachelor's degree in architecture with a minor in theater design last May, but he has continued to stay at K-State, taking a few classes and working for the theater department.

And his list of accomplishments has kept growing. "Nathan has set a new standard for production in the Purple Masque Theatre," said Annie Davidson, sophomore in English with a minor in theater. "He has brought a lot to K-State. The designers and faculty don't want to see him go."

Sauber originally was an architecture major. "Architecture is a five-year program, but I did it in six years," he said. "I started taking theater classes toward the end of my schooling to fill spaces, but they really intrigued me, so I decided to go for my minor."

"That took an extra year and a half," Sauber said. "I am in my eighth year, and this is my last semester."

He stayed on this year to do set design for a couple of shows, he said. He worked on "The Game of Life," "The Man Who Couldn't Dance" and did both set and lighting design for "The Mancheros," which went to the American College Theater Festival Regional Competition last fall.

In addition to being in charge of sets for many productions at K-State, Sauber said he has worked in the scene shop for the past three years.

"I am a senior technical assistant and a master welder," he said.

"I do most all of the welding, and another senior technical assistant and myself are in charge of lab students — we teach them how to build sets."

Sauber now is working on "The Skin of Our Teeth," which is set to show in the end of April.

He is the props master, the assistant set designer and the special effects designer for the play, he said.

He also spent a semester abroad in Prague, Czech

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Nathan Sauber, K-State graduate in architecture and theater design, continues to work on various productions for K-State's theater department.

Republic; parachuted with the parachute club and played intramural sports, he said.

Scott Hansen, faculty technical director for KSU Theatre, said Sauber strives for success in his work.

"Nathan leads work crews and has really taken over the role as a designer," he said.

"He takes a great deal of pride in his work, and he always works toward excellence."

He possesses the ability to take matters into his own hands, Hansen said.

"We rely heavily on Nathan's skills," he said.

"We give him assignments with limited instructions, and he takes broad parameters with his designs."

People always ask why he's been at K-State so long, Sauber said.

"I've had friends that have left after four years and wanted to come back," he said. "I kind of get to live that fantasy."

"You learn so much more than academics in school — you learn social skills and how to live on your own. Once you leave school, you can't really go back."

BEST BETS | FOR THE WEEKEND

1 | OPEN MIC NIGHT

Sing a song, read a poem, or tell jokes at open mic night at the K-State Student Union. Admission is free, so bring all your friends and your own musical instruments and props. Starts at 8 p.m. at Union Station.

2 | THE CORE

After a week of partying during spring break, why not relax and take in a movie? "The Core," starring Aaron Eckhart and Hilary Swank, opens Friday at Seth Childs Cinema.

3 | SUNSET ZOO

Take a walk on the wild side at Sunset Zoological Park — for free. As part of Sunset Zoo's Community Appreciation Day, no admission will be charged Saturday. Guests can make bird feeders, and other items for the animals. Hours are noon to 4:30 p.m.

4 | WILDCAT BASEBALL

Grab a bag of sunflower seeds and head to Tointon Family Stadium to watch the Cats take on the Missouri Tigers. Game are at 7 p.m. Friday, 2 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free with your student ID.

5 | ALL-UNIVERSITY OPEN HOUSE

Explore the Insect Zoo, watch the engineering parade or take in the College of Human Ecology's fashion show at the All-University Open House. Learn about all the colleges and take part in their activities from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, March 25

- At 10:05 a.m., Jason Collins, 4509 Freeman, was arrested for lewd and lascivious behavior. Bond was set at $500.
- At 10:22 a.m., Wendy Montgomery, 212 N. 5th, was arrested for driving on a suspended license.
- At 2:18 p.m., Jared Hothan, 1217 Kearney St., was arrested for lewd and lascivious behavior. Bond was set at $500.
- At 2:35 p.m., Justin Keane, 2028 Hayes St., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 3 p.m., Darrel Baldwin, Junction City, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $300.

Wednesday, March 26

- At 12:25 a.m., Shane King, 1400 Hartford, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Animal welfare activist Adele Douglas will speak at 2:30 p.m. today in Weber 123.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a Resume Critique Workshop from 3:30 to 5 p.m. today in Holtz Hall.
- Food Livestock Production will have a forum panel at 6 tonight in Umberger 105. There will be a free meal for attendees.
- The Multicultural Student Honor Society will meet at 6 tonight in Union Council Chambers.
- The Native American Student Association will have an informational meeting at 7 tonight in Kedzie 105. Contact Deah Robinson at deah@k-state.edu.
- Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. April 25-26. Donations are welcome. Contact Bryanne at bnab388@k-state.edu.

Quotable

The Associated Press

"We cannot know the duration of this war, yet we know its outcome." — President Bush, in a speech at the Pentagon.

Up next

In Friday's Collegian

Sports | Back in action
Wildcat baseball opens home conference play this weekend against Missouri. Find out what adjustments Coach Mike Clark is looking for going into the three-game weekend set.

Tonight
$1 bottles
1/2 priced food
Dustin Diamond
a.k.a. Screech will be appearing
March 30th and 31st
@ 7 & 10 p.m.
call 539-4671 for reservations
Apple Station
RESTAURANT & PIZZA

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption." 539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Apply to be an Ambassador
in the College of Arts and Sciences
Applications available in 113 Eisenhower
Contact Pete Elsasser
539-3082

Your Career Takes Flight
Come to a place where your career can take flight. You'll be surrounded by professionals ready to help you at a moment's notice. You'll develop working relationships that feel like family. At the end of the day, you'll know you've made a difference doing what you love to do.
Consider the possibilities...
SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHERS — Provide year-round instruction to children with low incidence disabilities, autism, sensory impairment, moderate to severe learning and behavior problems in self-contained classroom of six to eight children. Design and implement instructional programs to meet individual student needs based on a functional curriculum. High staff/student ratio with medical, psychology & therapy support services provided in the classroom. Experienced teacher assigned for training & support.
Degree in Special Education & certification in MR, SMD, will consider certification in BD with experience in multiple disabilities or additional special ed. cert., K-12. Competitive salary based on education & experience. Excellent employee benefits. Contact Julie Noller for information at jnoller@heartspring.org or to submit a resume. EEO/AF
HEARTSPRING
8790 East 29th Street North • Wichita, KS 67226
(800) 835-1041 • fax (316) 634-6555 • www.heartspring.org

GUMBY'S Pizza
Mon-Wed 10:30 am-2:30 am
Thurs-Sat 10:30 am-3:30 am
Sun 10:30 am-2:00 am
Fast, FREE Delivery
$1.50 PBR Pints Daily
SUNDAY
$4 - 60 oz. Domestic Pitchers
$2.25 Girle Beer Bottles
MONDAY
Golden Tee Tournament - 9 pm
$1 PBR Pints
$2.75 Jack Drinks
$2.50 Import/Micro Bottles
TUESDAY
Local Live Music - 9 pm
$2 Wells
$2 Boulevard Pints
$2.50 Jager Shots
WEDNESDAY
Pool Tournament - 9 pm
$3 - 60 oz. PBR Pitchers
$2 Domestic Bottles
$3 Premiums
THURSDAY
Open Mic Night - 9 pm
$3 Domestic Pints w/ $1.50 Refill & Keep the Glass!
$2.50 Caffe
$2.50 Import/Micro Bottles
FRIDAY + Binge
Local Live Music - 10 pm
$5 Domestic BIG ASS Beers
$2.50 Captain Drinks
SATURDAY
$1.50 Domestic Pints
$4 - 60 oz. Domestic Pitchers
$4 Red Bull & Vodka

Say HEESE Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909
Ed Klimek
Manhattan City Commission
Still makes sense for Manhattan
As your City Commissioner, Ed responds to individual concerns and works hard to support our local business community.
Vote for Ed on April 1st.
www.kansas.net/~smkmkg/klimek.htm
Paid for by Manhattanites for Klimek - Jerry Lowenstein, Treasurer

Journalists discuss media's war coverage

By Tristan Hinderliter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Journalists must try to put together a broad and accurate picture of war from many different perspectives and details, journalism professors said in a forum Wednesday.

The A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications had a forum for students and faculty to discuss media coverage of the war in Iraq and how coverage influences public opinion.

Several faculty members shared their views about the situation.

James Stephens, assistant professor of journalism, said one of the challenges news organizations face is deciding whether to show pictures and video footage of dead American bodies. A precedent for doing so was set in the Vietnam War, he said.

"One of the reasons for a push for that now, is when you show dead American soldiers, that sways public opinion," he said.

"In terms of holding the politicians accountable, when you don't have those kinds of images driving public opinion, then you can very much do what you want."

Stephens also said he had concerns that the First Amendment rights of freedom of press and freedom of speech are not being upheld.

"Those that are against the war have become by and large marginalized, and in terms of if they say something not in support of the war, they are communists," he said.

Professors discussed the differing nature of coverage through different forms of media.

Network TV stations lost hundreds of millions of dollars in advertising proceeds during the first few days of commercial-free coverage of the war in Iraq, Lori Bergen, associate professor of journalism, said.

The tradeoff is that they hope to attract viewers who will still watch their stations after the war is over, said Todd Simon, professor and director of the journalism school.

Some TV stations have even gone to 24-hour coverage of the conflict.

"Always remember, news is a business," Simon said. "It's an opportunity for them to grab more customers."

News coverage also is becoming more personality driven than ever before, he said, whether it be the reporter in the field or the news anchor in the studio.

For example, the Kansas City Star sent a reporter to Iraq because it's good for promoting its newspaper, Simon said.

"Personality is driving it in a way that I've never seen before," he said.

K-State Collegian photographers who went to New York City during spring break showed a slide show of pictures from an anti-war march they photographed. They presented the photos to make the point that each individual's perspective can influence how an event is covered.

The forum was in the Union 212 and was attended mostly by journalism faculty and students.

R & B artist to return to Kansas, perform at Arts Center

By Adam Lee
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kansas native and 88 Records recording artist Kelley Hunt will perform at the Manhattan Arts Center on Saturday evening.

Those who attend will experience songs from Hunt's upcoming album that is slated for release this summer. In addition to getting to hear brand new, unreleased material, fans will have the opportunity to offer feedback about the songs at a post-show reception at the Hibachi Hut.

Hunt is working to finish the recording of her third album at the Sound Emporium studios in Nashville, Tenn. She said it will be good to get out of the studio and see what her fans in Manhattan think about some of her untested work.

"I'm not necessarily going around taking a poll to see what song people like best, but I'm really looking for that organic reaction to what's working and what isn't," Hunt said.

Hunt has developed a national recognition with her unique style of roots rhythm

Got the Blues?

R & B artist Kelley Hunt will be at the Manhattan Arts Center on Saturday night.
■ Doors open at 7 p.m., show starts at 8.
■ Tickets are $15, $12 with a student ID, and are on sale at the arts center and the Hibachi Hut. Ticket holders will be admitted to a free reception with Hunt and the band at the Hibachi Hut following the show.

and blues and her provocative live performances. She's played in clubs, theaters and music festivals across the United States and Canada. Her songs have been heard on over 800 radio markets from Kansas to Europe to New Zealand.

Old-time R&B is not something associated with Kansas, but it was almost all Hunt was exposed to growing up in Emporia.

Hunt said her musical preferences were heavily influenced by her family. Her parents and brother had extensive collections of blues, R&B, jazz and gospel recordings that were perpetually played around the house.

In addition to being fervent listeners, Hunt's family also was made up of accomplished musicians. Her father played the upright bass in the U.S. Navy band, and her mother was a professional singer who was featured on a weekly radio show out of Kansas City.

"I was pretty much inundated from the get-go. I started playing the piano when I was 3, but because I was so young my parents were just like, 'Oh, that's cute,'" she said.

When Hunt began to play songs by ear that she heard on the radio, her parents realized that she had the interest and

See HUNT Page 5

Sponsored by AXΩ & ΔΤΔ

Wanna Play?

3 on 3 Basketball Tournament

Monday, March 31st at 6pm

contact 395-2770 to register a team

Ramblers
STEAK HOUSE & SALOON

Thursday Night Specials

12 oz. USDA Choice Top Sirloin
Choice of potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $7.99 + tax
or
"The Couples Special"
2 complete dinners for only $14.99 + tax
8711 E. Hwy. 24 539-4989

PIZZA SHUTTLE
DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call 776-5577

Happy Valley Chinese Restaurant

Grand Opening March 31

1120 Laramie • Aggieville

- * Large Variety of Authentic Chinese Cuisine
- * Lunch Buffet & Menu Items Available

Dinner Specials
Hot Pot - Buffet Style Self Cooking
Chinese Wok - Full Service Buffet Style Cooking

Sunday Specials (11-3)
Dim Sum - Ala Carte Style Serving
- Large Variety of Flavors

Sun-Thur 10am-10pm Fri-Sat 10am-11pm

Bobby T's
OPEN MIC NIGHT

Thursday

$2 Pints and $2 Wells
$3.99 Burgers and Quesadillas

Attention Student Leaders

Hold your group meeting at
Wildcat Creek Sports Center

After the meeting enjoy a round of mini-golf

Or

Take your frustrations out at the driving range or in the batting cages!

Get Involved!

Serve on a Student Governing Association (SGA) Senate Standing Committee, the Executive Branch Cabinet, a Judicial Board or an at-large University Committee.

Applications and a list of positions are available at:

www.ksu.edu/osas/sga
or the
Office of Student Activities and Services

Deadline:
Wednesday, April 9th 4 pm
Office of Student Activities and Services
Ground Floor, K-State Student Union

TO THE POINT War coverage plans based on editors' goals

War creates extra challenges and opportunities for journalists.

Journalism students and professors met Wednesday to discuss coverage of the war in Iraq. Topics included observations of coverage and ethical decision-making.

The Collegian editors have been planning war coverage for months. These plans are based on our goals.

Maybe you just glance at the Collegian occasionally, or maybe you're constantly reading and watching different media. Either way, we aim to provide an unbiased, well-rounded source for war news.

You'll notice the label "America At War" on news stories. This indicates that a story covers the war on the national or international front.

We also want readers to know how the war affects them. These stories will be labeled "War Hits Home."

The Opinion Page also can contain war content separate from news coverage. We as an editorial board have taken stances on the conflict. Individual columnists share their personal views. The Forum and letters to the editor are the public's mouthpieces.

If you have any comments about our coverage, please write in or e-mail us. We are here to serve you through this unique and difficult time.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Does anyone else find it ironic that people who go to the Rec to work out always are in a real hurry to find the best parking spot?

Apparently, God's a Notre Dame fan.

I am a black college male here at K-State, and I feel that Angel Wilson just embarrassed the entire black population with that stupid article that she put in the paper.

I bet Saddam is shaking in his boots now that we've got the dolphins on our side.

Yeah, I just wanted to give a shout out to the K-State women's team. You did a good job. Keep your heads up.

The only thing that made the K-State women's team look good this season was Pervis Pasco.

Let's all boycott the Collegian. Its official opinions all year have, for the most part, been pushing the limit of sure idiocy. And the stance on the war in Iraq has gone too far.

If you didn't think that there were going to be people who died in war, you're an idiot.

All I want for my birthday is to see KU lose in the NCAA Tournament.

The people who sit in the chairbacks at the basketball games are terrible fans. They don't stand up and cheer.

Angel Wilson, that article did not bring a smile to my face. All I can say is "D'oh!"

Three blind refs. Three blind refs. See how they suck. See how they suck.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

MOTIVATED BY ECONOMICS

America's leadership questioned in war tactics

It should be the duty of a country as powerful as the United States to be a leader that helps developing countries fairly and ethically. It should not be isolated when it comes to making decisions that will largely affect the rest of the world. The United States lacks a reputation of good diplomacy, which puts it in a precarious position.

Any possibilities that America could take on characteristics of a team player in the United Nations have been officially choked to death. In minutes, President Bush smothered all of President Clinton's efforts toward turning America into a world leader that could be trusted. America plunged into world dominance with the sudden turn toward isolationism, which is no way to command the unquestionable world authority.

Bush has buried foreign diplomacy in the backyard. He has made it clear there is no room to negotiate anything. Whatever America wants, America gets.

Fareed Zakaria of Newsweek reported, "President Bush's favorite verb is 'expect.' He announces peremptorily that he 'expects' the Palestinians to dump Yasser Arafat, 'expects' countries to be with him or against him, 'expects' Turkey to cooperate. It is all part of the administration's basic approach toward foreign policy, which is best described by the phrase used for its war plan—'shock and awe.'"

The notion is that the United States needs to intimidate countries with its power and assertiveness, always threatening, always denouncing, never showing weakness.

Defense Secretary, Donald Rumsfeld often quotes a line from Al Capone: "You will get more with a kind word and a gun than with a kind word alone." Rightly so, many Americans decided they didn't agree with running the country as a mobster would.

For the first time, Americans protested a war before it even started. Nationally synchronized protesting occurred in the first two days of this war. Few powerful countries have even teetered with the idea of supporting this countries' campaign for war.

Bush's cowboy logic of 'you gotta keep on keepin' on' is fueling his unilateralist thought, but his actions on that philosophy should frighten us all. And just like a trigger-happy cowboy from your favorite spaghetti western, Bush is asking his enemies to gang up on him.

Bush didn't even listen to top military officials like veteran Norman Schwarzkopf and, specifically, Colin Powell, who tried to hush ideas of war just days after Sept. 11, 2001. Even though they stand by the president, which they should do anyway since the hammer already has fallen, they knew it was not the right way to conduct business.

Gen. Wesley Clark said, "In the twilight of World War II we recognized the need for allies. We understood the need to prevent conflict, not just fight it, and we affirmed the idea that we must banish from the world what President Harry Truman, addressing the founding of the United Nations, called 'the fundamental philosophy of our enemies, namely, that 'might makes right.'"

Truman went on to say that we must "prove by our acts that right makes might."

Since Sept. 11, America has been in a similar position: the most powerful nation in the world, but facing a deadly enemy. The United States has the opportunity to use the power of the international institutions it established to triumph over terrorists who threaten not just the United States, but the world.

What a tragedy it will be if we walk away from our own efforts and from 60 years of post-World War II experience, to tackle the problem of terror without using fully the instruments of international law and persuasion that we ourselves created.

It is true that Saddam Hussein is a thug who should not be anywhere near a position of authority, as well as his heirs who have been equally ruthless.

He gassed 60,000 of his own people in 1986 in Halabja.

He sacrificed nearly 1 million Iraqis and killed or wounded more than 1 million Iranians in two wars. Iraq would be much better off without him.

If the United States is going to follow up with liberating oppressed peoples, there is need for consistency.

But something tells me Bush isn't going to hunt down any of the other modern-day Hitlers in the world for the simple economic reason they don't have a thousand centuries' oil supply within and beneath their borders.

Illustration by Ben Dolezal | COLLEGIAN

Layton is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at layton@k-state.edu.

TO THE EDITOR

Editorial board's anti-war comments lack facts, reflect rash opinions rather than solid research

Unpatriotic words abuse free speech

I read the editorial "Hope for peace survives despite failed diplomacy" today. I noticed that it is credited to the Collegian Editorial Board and not one individual. I have to take this to mean it is approved as the view of the Collegian. The Collegian provides a valuable service to the campus, and one of those services is presentation of a wide range of opinions on world issues.

Based on that, I am thankful that we have such an outlet for anti-war views on campus. We should critically evaluate any potential armed conflicts since the loss of any human life is a tragedy.

I freely admit I am biased in support of the war against Iraq and that this does affect my analysis of editorials like this one.

However, I would like to raise a few points of concern about this editorial. These points are not based on emotion or opinion but on a desire to see factual reporting of the news. Following are some excerpts of the editorial to which these concerns apply:

1. "... at the hands of President George W. Bush and his war-bent regime." You must admit this is an unfair ploy to attack President Bush. If he and his staff are "war-bent," where is the evidence? Why didn't Bush use public support and surging American emotions as a means to gain approval for an attack against Iraq soon after Sept. 11, 2001? That was the prediction of the anti-Bush crowd then, and it didn't happen.

Furthermore, why not attack North Korea right now if they are "war-bent"? "War-bent" is a plea to the emotions with no factual basis.

2. "Only four months after U.N. Resolution 1441 was passed to start weapons inspections by Hans Blix and his team, the inspections were prematurely abandoned and Bush spearheaded an Iraqi invasion only feebly supported by any allies."

Similar resolutions have been in place since the end of the first Gulf War and have been ignored by Saddam. Using the "four months" time frame is misleading at best. Clinton ordered the bombing of Iraq in 1998 because of violation of these resolutions and sanctions. Was Clinton "war-bent"?

The "feebly supported" phrase is not at all justified. If this were written six weeks ago, maybe you could use that. Everyone saw the reports of growing support as soon as the action started. We all saw the headlines that more countries support this action than supported Desert Storm.

3. "U.N. Security Council members France, Russia and Germany have openly criticized the use of military force in Iraq."

France opposes every war. They refused to help in the first Gulf War, too. Now we see them jockeying for position to have control over the rebuilding of Iraq. Why would they do that so early? If they are so concerned with avoiding war, why not continue to "seek peace" instead of profiting from the inevitable outcome of this war?

I also would suggest that the recent information about Russian equipment sold to Iraq must be evaluated before any Russian stance on the war is credible.

These are three of the handful of points with which I was disappointed. I think if you are putting the stamp of the Collegian on an article, even an editorial, the facts must be presented.

I understand editorials are opinion pieces, but that does not give a license to manipulate facts. On the contrary, I would think that if you wanted to present an anti-war or even anti-Bush opinion piece that adhering to facts would serve to strengthen your argument and set it apart from the many skewed opinions and emotional pleas we see from both sides of this debate in the media daily.

Brian Coffey | GRADUATE RESEARCH ASSISTANT

Editor,

The first comment in the Forum on Monday, "You know what? Bush is such a freaking moron, and I hate him so much that I'm cheering for Iraq. Go, Iraq," is wrong. The person who called in has a constitutional right to say what he or she said, granted the vast majority disagree with this person.

However, the Collegian should not have printed this comment. The other anti-war comments are fine, but the anti-American comments have no place in any publication in the United States. There are U.S. forces fighting now and at all times for the rights of our citizens to speak and live freely, and even for the Collegian to print their paper.

If they weren't fighting for this right, the Collegian wouldn't be able to print this paper, and ignorant people couldn't speak what is on their minuscule minds. When the Collegian prints a comment such as this one, it looks really bad. I am terribly offended by this. I would appreciate if the Collegian would print an apology or a retraction. There are husbands and wives and friends and relatives of U.S. soldiers that go to school and read this publication who also would appreciate it.

Josh Puett | SENIOR IN MANUFACTURING SYSTEMS ENGINEERING

DIRECTOR | Student to act as director of nonprofit organization

Continued from Page 1

as many responsibilities as I can and still remain a student in good standing," she said. "It's a lot of time management."

She takes over her new position May 18 — the day after graduation.

Carrie Ohm, current director of Downtown Manhattan Inc., said Rockley has what it takes.

Ohm, who is relocating to Kansas City in April, said that although Rockley was the youngest applicant, she was the most qualified.

"She had a lot of enthusiasm and was really excited about the position," she said. "She is already experienced with Main Street and already has a good foundation to start with. She seems really willing to jump right in with both feet."

Ohm said Rockley's first priority will be meeting business owners, community leaders and city government members.

She said that as director, Rockley will appear at city commission meetings and represent downtown Manhattan to others in the community.

"This is a one-man office, so the director is in charge of everything from planting flowers to planning budgets," she said. "You do it all here."

Rockley said her experience has prepared her for the challenge.

She has spent the last year planning promotional events, as an administrative assistant for a similar organization in Emporia, Kan. She said her experience working with main street businesses has taught her the value of a city's downtown community.

"I've become increasingly aware of the importance of downtown," she said. "The downtown is the living room to the community that surrounds it."

HUNT | Artist to perform at arts center

Continued from Page 3

the talent to become a serious musician, and they arranged for her to take piano lessons. Her first instructor, who was both classically trained and Vaudeville experienced, not only taught Hunt how to read music but also inspired a love of boogie-woogie styled piano.

Hunt developed that style in dance halls across Kansas before taking it to Los Angeles, Nashville and the world.

Hunt last performed at the Manhattan Arts Center in February 2002. That show was a solo performance, and Hunt said she is looking forward to bringing her band back to her home state.

"It's fun for me to bring my guys in from Nashville and show them where I grew up," Hunt said.

"I enjoy being able to bring it home once in a while."

OLYMPICS | Teams stack hay bales, drive posts in Cowboy Olympics; event promotes agriculture

Continued from Page 1

freshman in agriculture economics, said.

The team members, however, caused a delay in the festivities when the strings on the round hay bale broke and a new one had to be brought in.

The "chick," Megan Donnelson, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, said being the only member not to grow up on a farm did not put her at any disadvantage.

"I think I had as much of a chance as any other girl out there," she said.

The Agronomy Club team said the most difficult event was stacking the hay bales.

"We had a stacker, and the rest of us helped," Barb Breckenkamp, junior in agronomy, said.

Teams paid $26 to compete and awards of brown farm jackets, hats, gift certificates and glass chalk were given to those with the three fastest times.

The olympics were part of Ag Fest 2003, which celebrates and promotes agriculture on campus, co-chair Lynn Schwarz said. However, Cowboy Olympics are always a highlight, she said.

"It's more camaraderie and those people who didn't grow up on farms — it shows them the tasks people do every day," Schwarz said.

And for those who are used

Results

1st place "Breed'n Crew" — Bill Pope, Kyle Rockhill, Ryan Garrett, Tyler Breeden

2nd place "Three Hicks and a Chick" — Matt Houtwed, Craig Kennedy, Casey Matke, Megan Donnelson

3rd place "P. Daddy and His Wranglers" — Tim Pralle, Jeff Morgan, Jeff Brothers, Cole Taylor

23rd Place "Collegian Cowboys" — Jessica Pitts, Paul Restivo, Layton Ehmke, Kacia Seyb

to throwing hay around for a living, it was a time just to have a good time.

"It brings ag people together for a night of fun," Kennedy, freshman in animal science, said.

Get personal with the Collegian.
Collegian personal ads. Call 532-6555.

RC McGraws
Manhattan's Oldies, Country, Night Club
KARAOKE
Thursday, 9-1
50¢ TACOS
hard or soft
$1.99 Island Oasis Margaritas
776-9588 • 2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Blue Hills Shopping Center

MANHATTAN KANSAS
Announces the following position vacancies

PUBLIC WORKS
ENGINEER I: Starting Salary: $34,465 - $37,912/yr (full time) dependent upon qualifications
Requirements: Graduation from an accredited University with B.S. in Civil Engineering
Position Purpose: Responsible for the design & maintenance of records & files on all engineering projects; reviews plans, plans & contract documents submitted for approval by engineering firms & developers; deal with other professional public inquiries & public agencies concerning projects & assist other city departments with projects.
Closing Date: 03/27/03

PARKS & RECREATION
MAINTENANCE WORKER I: Starting Salary: $8,900/yr (full time)
Experience Required: Knowledge of types & uses of hand tools. Basic skills in irrigation, pruning, planting, & pest control also general understanding of turf & landscape maintenance practices preferred. Willingness & ability to perform heavy manual labor for extended periods of time, work outdoors in all weather, & perform routine repetitive tasks essential.
Position Purpose: Provides labor, operates machinery & various equipment. Assist in providing routine landscape, maintenance, facilities, services, & experiences to park patrons.
Closing Date: Open until filled

SUNSET ZOO
JUNIOR ZOOKEEPER SUPERVISOR: Starting Salary: $5,450/yr
Experience Required: Diploma or GED required. Excellent supervisory skills, experience working with youth, & animal knowledge vital. Must maintain a valid driver's license & be able to work three or more days each week throughout the summer. Incumbent will supervise & educate several youth volunteers working with basic animal husbandry & interpretation.
Closing Date: 04/09/03 (temporary/part-time position)

SUNSET ZOO
SEASONAL EDUCATION STAFF: Starting Salary: $6,250/yr
Experience Required: Diploma or GED required. Excellent supervisory skills, experience working with youth in an educational setting & curriculum development vital. Basic science skills important. Must maintain a valid driver's license & be able to work three or more weekdays throughout the summer. Incumbent will develop curriculum & supervise children during summer clubs.
Closing Date: 04/09/03 (temporary/part-time position)

—SPRING/SUMMER SEASONAL—
Starting Salary: Various (seasonal positions, non-benefit eligible)
Position Listing: Daycamp Counselor, Daycamp Coordinator, baseball & softball umpires, referees, instructors & ball field maintenance, swim instructors, lifeguards & concession workers, horticulture, park, forestry & cemetery seasonal laborers, piano accompanist & a range of theater positions from directors to set designers, among others.
Special Requirements: Applicants should be at least 18 years old or older for most positions. Prior seasonal employees encouraged to re-apply.
Closing Date: Applications will be accepted until positions are filled.

To be considered for an available position, you must complete a City of Manhattan application & return it to the attention of Human Resources by April 10, 2003. For applications or more information, contact Manhattan Human Resources at 776-9588 or 776-9589 (toll-free) or visit our website at www.manhattanks.org. Call the job line at 776-9588 (toll-free) or e-mail hr@manhattanks.org or visit City Hall, 1101 Poyntz Ave.

~Ag Fest 2003 Debate Panel~
Food Livestock Production: Who should run the system?
Invited Panelists
Mike Collinge, former Kansas Livestock Association President
Adele Douglass, Animal Welfare Specialist
Dr. Mark Spire, Professor of Veterinary Medicine
Christy Linders, McDonalds Franchise Owner Paula Ford, former Public Voice Activist
THURSDAY, March 27th 6pm, Umberger 105
Free meal to follow for all in attendance supported by Excel tonight come have a shot with the Bacardi Girls 2003 Kappa Sigma Wildcat Women Calendar contest

T-shirts and Prizes
Coors Light & Bacardi Drink Specials
Last week before the finals!

As an engineer in the U.S. Air Force, there's no telling what you'll work on.
(Seriously, we can't tell you.)

United States Air Force applied technology is years ahead of what you'll touch in the private sector, and as a new engineer you'll likely be involved at the ground level of new and sometimes classified developments. You'll begin leading and managing within this highly respected group from day one. Find out what's waiting behind the scenes for you in the Air Force today. To request more information, call 1-800-423-USAF or log on to airforce.com.

U.S. AIR FORCE
CROSS INTO THE BLUE

Come spend your summer in the heart of the Rockies.

Mt. Princeton Hot Springs Resort, LLC is currently looking for full time summer employees.
Housing is available.

Available jobs:

Cooks	Grounds
Waitstaff	Lifeguards
Administrative	Housekeepers
Pool Staff	Internship

Call today to apply for an incredible opportunity in one of the most beautiful parts of the country.

Mt. Princeton Hot Springs Resort
15870 County Road 162
Nathrop, Colorado 81236
1-888-395-7799
www.mtprinceton.com

GIVING IT AWAY

Pitching, defense lead to Wildcats' 5th-straight loss

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After watching his team commit five errors and allow 15 runs in K-State's last two games, Coach Mike Clark came into Wednesday night's tilt with Wichita State expecting improvement from his club.

Turns out, things only got worse.

The Cats (10-13) botched four defensive plays and gave up leads of 3-1 and 4-3 in a 14-10 loss to the Shockers at Tointon Family Stadium.

"We did everything in our possible power to not make plays and not make pitches when the game was on the line," Clark said.

The loss pushed K-State's longest losing streak in two years to five games.

But after a solid start from Wildcat starter Kevin Melcher, it seemed K-State might be getting off the schidne.

After spotting the Shockers a run in the first inning, Melcher was nearly perfect over the next two innings.

The senior retired six of seven during that span, while the Cats stormed back with three runs in the third to snatch a two-run lead.

But Melcher's spell wore off and Wichita State knotted the game at three with two in the fourth before Clark could summon Jonathan Gutierrez from the bullpen.

Pat Maloney's fourth home run of the year in the fifth returned the lead to K-State and extended Maloney's streak of reaching base to 55 games, but the celebration wouldn't last long.

With two on and one out in WSU's half of the sixth, a grounder up the middle gave second baseman Brett Williams too many problems.

Williams probably could have ended the inning with an unassisted double play, but instead the Shockers had runners on every base for second baseman Phil Napolitan.

Three pitches later, Napolitan was trotting the bases with his first career grand slam — a laser that cleared the trees beyond the left field wall.

"It's just a mental situation right now where we've got to show our character and step up and make a play," Clark said. "Instead of making a play, we're awfully passive in those situations."

The carnage would continue in the seventh.

Photos by Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State catcher Ryan Baldwin collects a throw as Wichita State's Mark Johnson slides safely into home plate during their game Wednesday at Frank Meyers Field. The 14-10 loss pushed K-State's longest losing streak in two years to five games.

Three errors — one each by Ty Soto, Ryan Baldwin and Gabe Luttrell — allowed the Shockers to send 12 batters to the plate in the inning, and only two of Wichita State's six runs in the frame were earned.

By Clark's count, the Cats faulted on five plays altogether.

"If they only score one run in that inning, we win that ballgame 10-9," he said. "If they score two, we're playing extra innings."

K-State rallied back with with six runs in the final two innings, including Ryan Baldwin's fourth homer of the season in the ninth, to make things interesting late, but the Shockers already had booked the win by converting on the Cats' free passes.

WSU reliever Kyle Banick (2-1) worked 4 2/3 innings, struck out two and surrendered just three hits to tally the win, while Gutierrez (0-1) was collared with the loss after giving up six runs — only four of which were earned — in two innings.

"It's the execution that's the problem," Clark said.

"At this level, that's what it's about. It's about pitchers hitting spots and it's about infielders and outfielders making plays. Tonight, we didn't."

"We did everything in our possible power to not make plays and not make pitches when the game was on the line."

Mike Clark
COACH

Wichita State's Phil Napolitan looks for a call as K-State's Marc Chabot tries to keep his foot on the bag during their game Wednesday at Frank Meyers Field.

Intramural softball highlight of spring season, students say

Spring sports itinerary includes racquetball, handball, badminton

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With intramural softball games kicking off the spring intramural season this week, books have been tossed aside as teams are taking to the fields outside of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

"I'm looking forward to (the season)," said Erik Sackman, senior in architecture and captain of the independent team Fun Mom.

"It gets us out of the studio for at least an hour."

The first softball games were played Wednesday night. Play will continue at 5 p.m. every Monday through Thursday and at 3 p.m. Sundays for the remainder of the season.

Sackman said his team is not entirely concerned with winning, but the taste of victory can make the games more enjoyable.

"We want to be competitive, but by having fun it helps keep us competitive," he said.

The members of Ag Econ, a co-ed team composed of graduate students in agriculture economics, only had one thing on their mind before their first game — fun.

"We're just out here to have fun," Wendee Grady, Ag Econ member, said.

Roy Jessup, one of Grady's teammates, echoed her statements.

"Our team is looking pretty tough, and the other teams are looking pretty tough," he said. "We're just out there to have fun. The season looks exciting."

While softball is the most popular of the spring intramural sports offered, there also are others offered to suit the needs of students with different athletic tastes.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Tina Balecotcha, freshman in advertising, is shortstop for her team, "Third Floor Goodnow."

Among the other sports offered this spring are 3-wall handball doubles, 3-wall racquetball doubles, horseshoes doubles, tennis doubles, badminton doubles, 3-on-3 basketball, triples volleyball, around the world, a home run derby and a track meet.

"Our major team sport is softball, and we have individual dual sports," John Wondra, assistant director of intramurals, said.

"Also, later in the spring we do have the track meet. There are a lot of things to choose from here."

Rowing team to host 1st spring home event

Crew hopes to improve since last weekend

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's rowers will hit Tuttle Creek Reservoir this weekend for their first spring home event. Racing starts at 9 a.m. Saturday with a novice four race between the Wildcats and Iowa. Clemson will join the Hawkeyes and Wildcats for the rest of the event.

Back from a week of training in Austin, Texas, capped by the Cats' first competition at the Longhorn Invitational, Coach Jenny Hale said she expects a better performance.

While K-State dropped four races to Texas to open the meet March 21, the first varsity eight boat posted the third fastest time of the weekend.

The Wildcats rebounded the next day by taking six of seven races, including sweeps of SMU and Tulsa. The team's setback came at the hands of Iowa's first varsity four, setting up a rematch this weekend.

The Cats battled fatigue in the final session Sunday, dropping four races to Duke.

Hale said that while the team experienced mixed success, the spark is there.

"We really saw the team progress after we put the line-up together," Hale said.

"It doesn't happen overnight. We competed well with the exception of our races against Duke. I was pleased with things, but I was not happy with the way we closed out the weekend."

Regardless of the results, the Wildcats gained valuable experience. A frigid spring gave the team little preparation time. Break allowed the Cats to put lineups together and begin to gel as a team.

"We spent the whole week together in such close quarters that it really helped us to blend together," junior coxswain Stephanie Riegle said.

Coming at the Cats this weekend are Clemson and Iowa squads each riding waves of success. Clemson's first varsity eight is fresh off victories over No. 13 Notre Dame and North Carolina, while Iowa is coming off a Longhorn Invitational performance that saw them sweep their varsity races.

Riegle said Iowa has been a traditional measuring stick for K-State's progress. The Cats saw plenty of the Hawks at the Head of the Iowa and Head of the Des Moines events last fall.

"Iowa is a really good team," Riegle said. "Going against them and seeing how we compete really shows how well we're doing."

Iowa won both events. This weekend, the Hawks and Tigers travel to the Wildcats' home waters.

The weekend races are the first of two home events this spring for K-State with the Wildcats playing host to the University of Kansas in the Kansas Cup on April 19. The Big 12 Invitational Regatta is on May 3 in Lawrence.

At this point, however, Riegle said the team's focus is one step at a time.

"No matter what day it is, you have to go to practice ready to put your best foot forward," she said. "We're ready to take on the challenge."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NBA | Expos acquire Livan Hernandez

Houston Rockets coach Rudy Tomjanovich told his team in an emotional meeting Wednesday that he will be out indefinitely while undergoing treatment for bladder cancer.

Tomjanovich, 54, was diagnosed on March 18 with the transitional cell cancer on his bladder that doctors said would be treatable with medication.

Team physician Dr. James Muntz said there had been no change in the diagnosis.

• • •

NFL | Owners turn down overtime proposal

NFL owners rejected a proposal to give each team the ball in overtime and delayed until May a decision on expanding the playoffs from 12 to 14 teams.

The overtime proposal received 17 votes from the 32 teams Wednesday, seven short of the 24 needed. There was one abstention — from the Oakland Raiders, who abstain more often than they vote.

• • •

MLB | Bowa's objection clears benches

Philadelphia Phillies manager Larry Bowa was ejected in the fourth inning of Wednesday's game against Toronto after yelling at Blue Jays starter Roy Halladay, causing both benches to empty.

Bowa, enraged that Halladay hit Jim Thome with a pitch in the third inning, charged out of the dugout to argue with plate umpire Eric Cooper. The umpire had warned both teams in the top of the fourth after Phillies reliever Rheal Cormier threw two inside pitches to Halladay.

• • •

College basketball | Harrick decision soon

University of Georgia athletics director Vince Dooley plans to make a decision about the future of suspended basketball coach Jim Harrick by the end of next week.

"Some decision needs to be made by the Final Four," Dooley said. "Programs need to be decided around that time."

The NCAA men's Final Four, which begins April 5 in New Orleans, is a common place for job interviews because nearly all college basketball coaches attend the National Basketball Coaches Association convention at that time.

Harrick has been suspended with pay since March 10. Dooley and university President Michael Adams banned the team from playing in the SEC and NCAA tournaments after they discovered academic fraud within the program.

SPORTS ONLINE

Chris Shank explains why Pervis Pasco isn't to blame for the demise of K-State's men's basketball program and why there's good times ahead.

BY THE NUMBERS

SHOCKERS 14, WILDCATS 10

K-State	ab	r	h	bi	Wichita State	ab	r	h	bi
Anzman	3	0	0	1	Napolitan	6	2	4	4
Blunt	5	0	0	0	Green	6	1	1	1
Maloney	4	2	2	1	Sorensen	4	1	4	3
Doty	4	2	2	2	Moffitt	4	0	0	0
Soto	3	1	1	0	Clark	4	1	0	0
Sndrs	2	1	1	1	Erstad	3	1	1	0
Baldwin	5	2	3	3	DMcrr	1	1	1	1
Luttrell	2	0	1	0	Bell	1	0	0	0
Patty	2	0	0	0	Johnson	5	2	3	1
Williams	2	0	1	2	Muich	1	0	0	0
Taylor	0	1	0	0	McCoola	4	2	3	2
Chabot	1	0	0	0	Smarsh	0	0	0	0
Dnsmr	1	1	1	0	Blasi	5	3	0	1
Melcher	0	0	0	0	Foster	0	0	0	0
Gtrrz	0	0	0	0	Banick	0	0	0	0
Bagley	0	0	0	0	Booth	0	0	0	0
Bauer	0	0	0	0	Sphns	0	0	0	0
Ehling	0	0	0	0
Rollins	4	0	0	0
Totals	34	10	11	10	Totals	44	14	17	13

Shockers 100 204 610 — 14 17 1

Wildcats 000 000 000 — 10 11 4

E—Clark; Soto, Baldwin, Luttrell, Williams.

LOB—K-State 11, Wichita St. 6.

DP—Wichita St. 3, 2B—Doty.

3B—Sorensen, SB—Green, Sorensen.

K-State	IP	H	R	ER	BB	SO
Melcher	4.0	5	3	3	1	1
Gutierrez L, 0-1	2.0	6	4	3	0	2
Bagley	0.2	3	6	2	2	0
Bauer	0.1	0	0	0	2	1
Ehling	1.0	3	1	1	0	0
Rollins	1.0	0	0	0	0	1
Wichita St.
Foster	1.1	3	3	3	2	0
Banick W, 2-1	4.2	3	1	1	1	2
Booth	2.0	4	4	4	2	3
Stephens	1.0	1	2	0	1	0
T—3:03. A—672.

Erin Billing, graduate student in English, reads a selection during a poetry reading at Ad Astra Coffee Shop. Billing joins a group of English graduate students at the shop every Thursday to read poetry.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

POETIC JUSTICE

Ad Astra Coffee Shop creates open mic night for poets

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If you dig poetry, Manhattan has yet another creative outlet.

Ad Astra Coffee Shop, in correlation with some aspiring writers, recently started a poetry open mic night. Though the original intent was to have a venue for poets, the open mic night is not limited to poetry, Erin Billing, graduate student in English, said.

"We all have a good time together, and it is open to all sorts of artistic performances," said Billing, co-organizer of the mic night. "People should come if you enjoy literature or a similar sort of entertainment. We have serious things we read, but we have a lot of fun, too."

"We have a really level table that includes storytellers, singer-songwriters, poets, grad students and undergraduates."

Billing said there are several good writers in Manhattan, and she wanted to help create a scenario to have people read in front of a live audience. She said she participated in a workshop that had a similar goal, but it fell apart. She said she wanted to have a place that people could rely on and a place where everyone is invited.

"I love literature, and poetry is written to be read," Billing said. "It's intended to be heard, and I love hearing what other writers are writing. It helps to hear what great writers are writing. It helps to inspire me."

People might be curious about coming to a poetry reading, said Ben Cartwright, co-organizer and graduate student in English. He said no one should be afraid to stop by and hang out, especially if they are under 21.

"I've been to a lot of open mic nights in bars at home," Cartwright said. "But the problem is that it's hard to hear in a bar."

"Not to mention if you're underage, this gives you another place to be. Especially if you're hanging out in a café anyway, you can come and watch the show."

Someone who isn't used to going to poetry readings might be intimidated, Cartwright said. He said the atmosphere at Ad Astra Coffee Shop is very friendly and welcoming.

"People who read or write poetry aren't uppity," Cartwright said. "We aren't overly dramatic, wearing berets or capes. Poetry is fun, and it shouldn't be something that people are afraid of."

"If you're a writer, you'll have to read to an audience eventually, and this is a low-stress environment. It's a good place to practice."

All writers need to have experience in reading their work, Susan Rodgers, instructor of creative writing, said. She said there are many events that are for faculty and graduate students to read, but not too many places designated just for students.

"It's a great opportunity for people who want to write," Rodgers said. "It's low-pressure, very casual, which is good, because getting up to read can be very daunting if you aren't used to performing. You can get up and read an OK poem and get positive support, and you can realize that the world doesn't end."

Rodgers said it is important to support artistic performances. She said the Department of English always likes anything that can get the community involved.

"Hearing poets read their stuff out loud is a richer experience," Rodgers said. "And from a writer's aspect, we read our work out loud because you can hear things you may not always catch when you read over it, and it needs to be polished."

Having a poetry open mic night is a win-win situation, said Elizabeth Wood, co-owner of Ad Astra Coffee Shop. She said that if good customers tell other people about it, the event will get more popular and people will hear more about the coffee shop.

"Some English majors need a place to go," Wood said. "A coffee shop is hospitable. Bars are louder, and people at a bar may not enjoy a poetry reading."

The coffee shop is no stranger to having performers, Wood said. She said Ad Astra has been host to music acts before, and having a poetry open mic night made sense.

"We have music every two weeks," Wood said. "I think we'll be having

Open mic night

When: 7 p.m. every other Thursday starting March 27
Where: Ad Astra Coffee Shop, 406 Poyntz Ave.
Hours: 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday, 1-4 p.m. Sunday

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Shannon Draper, graduate student in English, reads her story, entitled "Lush," at Ad Astra Coffee Shop on Poyntz Ave.

poetry on Thursday nights and more live music on Friday and Saturday nights.

"We decided to have the poetry open mic night when we had two regular customers come in that were wanting to help out with a poetry reading, so we agreed."

Ad Astra seemed like a great place to have a poetry reading, Billing said. She said the owners have been great to work with, and the shop has great colors.

"We knew that other cafés were having scheduled events," Billing said. "But, this is just a different type of café. I enjoy introducing it to people, and it isn't near Aggieville."

Cartwright said the events are great for students because they are free, and the readings can last up to an hour and a half. He said people should come out, and everyone who comes doesn't have to read.

"Poetry rocks," Cartwright said. "I have a megaphone and a slide projector. We might decide to bring in dry ice and go-go dancers. Anything is possible. Dimensions will explode."

CALENDAR

■ Photographer Ron Olshwanger will be discussing his award-winning photography at 7 tonight in the UMB Theatre at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art.
■ The play "Gloommate" will be performed at 11:30 a.m. today in the Purple Masque Theatre. Admission is free.
■ The K-State Choir will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel Auditorium.
■ Dave "Elmo" Bailey's Blues All-Stars will perform at 8 tonight at Cox Bros. Barbecue.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

'Who Framed Roger Rabbit?' producer says there won't be a sequel

Don't expect to see Roger Rabbit in a sequel — getting co-stars Bugs Bunny, Mickey Mouse, Betty Boop and Porky Pig together again would be too difficult for producers.

"It was never in the cards. We could never get the planets back into alignment," co-producer Don Hahn said in an interview to promote Tuesday's DVD release of the original film. "There was something very special about that time when animation was not as much in the forefront as it is now."

"Who Framed Roger Rabbit?," directed by Robert Zemeckis, became a $156 million hit in 1988 with its mix of live-action detective noir and cartoon silliness.

K-State Media Relations

Peking Opera of Jilin performance for Friday canceled

A performance from the The Peking Opera of Jilin, scheduled for Friday, has been canceled. The opera company was unable to obtain visas to travel in the United States. For more information on the refund process, call McCain Box Office at 532-6428.

WEB REVIEWS

www.marykay.com
Official Mary Kay Web site

Positives

- There is a section that includes new products
- Good pictures
- Search engines for consultants
- Suggested prices are listed which is good because you can check and see if you are being overcharged

Negatives

- More information on career possibilities than about products
- Mary Kay Foundation page link did not work

Grade: B-

<http://www.angelfire.com/ga/page451>

Page451 is a Web site named after Ray Bradbury's novel "Fahrenheit 451" and is dedicated to information about censorship.

Positives

- Polls about censorship
- List of banned books
- Articles of censorship
- Comments by Bradbury
- Good opening page graphic

Negatives

- Other than the opening page graphic, it is mostly just words
- Needs more color

Grade: B

www.sony.com

Official Sony Web site

Positives

- Information about Sony pictures, music and technology
- Prices listed with merchandise
- Good pictures of merchandise

Negatives

- Some overcrowding on pages
- May take awhile to find what you want
- Pages take a while to download

Grade: C+

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

CLASSIFIEDS

Page 8

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thursday, March 27, 2003

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A ONE OR two-bedroom close to campus, August 1. (785)317-7713.

A THREE-BEDROOM apartment. Close to campus. (785)317-7713.

ACROSS STREET from campus/ Aggieville. Three-bedroom/ gas, water paid. $900/ month. June Lease. (785)749-2865.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! One, two, three four and five-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

APARTMENTS AVAILABLE June. Two-bedroom duplex, four-bedroom duplex, one-bedroom basement, two-bedroom basement. All one-half block from KSU. Choose now before they're gone. No pets. (785)556-6899.

AVAILABLE AUGUST two-bedroom apartment across from City Park, with washer/ dryer in each unit. Water/ trash paid. $585/ month. Year lease, no pets. (785)539-0222.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU. Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facilities. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $550. (785)539-2482.

FOR RENT: Five-Bedroom Brittney Ridge Townhouse. Two and one-half bath. Washer/ dryer. Available August 1. One year lease. $940/ month. Call (913)909-4078 or (913)254-7657 after 5:30pm. Weekends anytime.

FOUR AND FIVE-BEDROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR BED APARTMENT available August 1st. Close to Aggieville. $840 plus four-sixth of utilities. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. (785)632-5211 or cell (785)632-1759.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

JUNE AND AUGUST. Studio, one, two, three, four-bedroom house/ apartment. Central heat/ air-conditioning, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath, brand new duplex. Be the first to live in. All appliances including washer and dryer. August 1. No pets. (785)556-6899.

NEAR CAMPUS, unique studio cottage 909 Kearney (alley). $299 monthly. Water/ trash paid. August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEW, DIFFERENT, Wildcat Village at Stadium Place. Four-bedroom luxury living with safe room in each unit. Large bedrooms with walk-in closets. Two separate living room areas. All appliances including washer, dryer and microwave hood. High efficiency heating and cooling, expanded basic cable TV and cable internet provided. Ready for May occupancy. (785)776-2425.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartment. One block to campus. Off-street parking, water/ trash paid. $375 and $600. (785)776-9225.

ONE, TWO, three, four-bedroom apartments, houses, and combo- duplexes. June, August leases. Good locations. (785)539-4440.

SPACIOUS TWO AND THREE-BEDROOMS. Close to campus with fire place, balcony central air, dishwasher, and laundry facilities. June or August. (785)539-0866.

THREE-BEDROOM. TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ trash paid. Cheap utilities. Laundry. August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4166.

TWO AND three-bedroom units available for August 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663, one-half mile from K-State, at the corner of College and Claflin.

TWO STUDIO apartments. June or August lease. No pets. 1030 Kearney Street. Call (785)537-0177.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

115
Rooms
Available

ROOMS AVAILABLE for end of May and August. Rent $230/ month plus security. Close to campus, washer and dryer. Call Jake at (785)539-4904. 911 N. 11th St.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A FOUR-BEDROOM house, nice, near campus. June 1st. Call (785)317-7713.

A SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE JUNE 2nd. Four-bedroom, central air, washer/ dryer at 1011 Laramie. $275/ person plus utilities, lease, and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE. Two bath, two kitchens. Living room, Family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hook-ups, no pets. June lease. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

FOR RENT, four-bedroom house. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar. June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. $1100. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

GREAT LANDLORD with great houses. Roomy, spacious, and updated three and six-bedroom houses. Central air, washer, dryer, no pets. June lease. (785)313-4812.

NEAR CAMPUS, four, five and eight-bedroom houses. Multiple bathrooms, kitchens. Central air, washer, dryer. June and August leases. No pets. (785)539-0549.

NEWLY REMODELED four-bedroom two bath. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. Close to KSU. Available August 1. Call (785)770-8733, leave message.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE close to campus. $750/ month. One-bedroom basement apartment. $300/ month. No pets. Open House, Sunday, March 30th, 1pm- 3pm 1112 Thurston. (913)208-9029.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, one-half block from campus. water/ trash paid. Off-street parking $900. (785)776-9225.

THREE-BEDROOM, SPACIOUS, west of City Park. Washer, dryer, dishwasher. June 1. $900. (785)532-4424/ (785)537-9425.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/ month. 709 Bluemont. Washer/ dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bathroom, basement apartment. $675/ month. Washer/ dryer, window air-conditioning. 709 Bluemont. June lease. (785)539-4949.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $450 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

FOR SALE: 1999 Atlantic mobile home. Three-bedroom, two bath, corner lot in quiet park. (785)323-1968.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking. Washer/ dryer. Trash paid. Near campus. $300/ month (785)537-1219.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month (785)539-5907.

SUMMER SUBLEASE AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large two-bedroom close to campus and Aggieville. Water and trash paid. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher, and off-street parking. (785)537-3287.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JUNE or August. Two, three, four, five and six-bedroom. Close to campus. Year leasing, no pets. (785)539-2551.

NOW LEASING FOR FALL

- Cambridge Sq.
- Sandstone Apts.
- 2000 College Heights
- LEASED
- LEASED
- Forrest Creek Town Homes

537-9064
Weekdays 8:30am-5pm
Saturdays 10am-3pm
www.homedesire.com

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM basement, near city park. Central air, non-smoker. Available May 1. (785)539-1145.

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS
1620 McCain
Starting at $900
Available for June and August
2 full baths
Laundry facilities
Off Street Parking
CLOSE TO CAMPUS

776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development

120
For Rent-
Houses

2505 WINNE. Beautifully remodeled brick ranch, three-bedroom home. $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets, new central air-conditioning, close to KSU (785)776-1213, day. (785)776-7706, evenings.

913 RATONE. Very nice four-bedroom, two bath, central air, dishwasher, laundry. No pets. June lease. $300/ bedroom. (785)556-5668.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1, 426 N. 17th, duplex, second floor. One-bedroom, fireplace, central air, outside deck, washer, dryer. $425/ month plus utilities, deposit, lease. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large duplex, 426 N. 17th. Two-bedroom, fireplace, outside porch, patio, central air, washer, dryer. $660/ month plus utilities, deposit, lease. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 2nd. Four-bedroom, central air, washer/ dryer at 1011 Laramie. $275/ person plus utilities, lease, and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/ dryer. Available August 1st. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE near city park. Washer/ dryer hookups, central air. Available August 1. (785)539-1145.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus, off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer, no pets, available August. $1200. (785)537-8420 or (785)341-5348.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, central air, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. June 1 leases. Several locations. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer hook-up, no pets or smokers. 1016 Thurston. $1300 plus utilities. June lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

NEAR AGGIEVILLE and campus. For rent- two blocks east of Aggieville, four-bedroom, two baths, new carpeting, off-street parking and central air. 12-month contract available August 1. $1000/ month. (785)537-8070.

NEWER FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath duplex. All kitchen appliances, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, close to campus. June 1 lease, no pets. 926 Vattier, $1050. Call (785)841-2503.

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer hook-up. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

SIX-BEDROOM HOUSE/ duplex, three-bedroom. Washer/ dryer free. Good condition. Two-bedroom duplex very nice. No pets. (785)537-2289.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, WASHER, dryer, no pets or smokers. 1523 Pierra. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

TWO-BEDROOM. NO pets or smokers. 624 Bluemont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, available June 1. washer/ dryer provided. $520. Water, trash paid. 405 North 10th. (785)539-0939.

NOW LEASING
Leased our 1 & 2 bedrooms
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

537-9064
Weekdays 8:30am-5pm
Saturdays 10am-3pm
www.homedesire.com

Kimball & College Aves.
Across from KSC stadium
Pet-friendly apartment

537-7007

115
Rooms
Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered, $300/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948.

120
For Rent-
Houses

THREE-BEDROOMS, TWO baths, attached garage, fence, central air, appliances, available June, $900. (785)537-8420/ (785)341-5348.

THREE, FOUR, and five- bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM COULD be furnished for August. Walk to campus. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for nice, two-bedroom apartment. Split utilities, water and trash paid. Available August. Call Lauren (785)539-5430.

FEMALE roommate wanted for house walk to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details. Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted three-bedroom house, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. Water, trash, three-quarters gas paid. $232/ person/ month. 1030 Humboldt. (785)587-9786.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. One block to campus. $250, utilities paid. Pets considered. Call (785)537-4947.

MALE for lower level now. All furnished, washer/ dryer without meter, walk to campus. $180 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE TO TWO-BEDROOMS immediately available. Brittney Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

ROOMMATE WANTED for nice three-bedroom, two bath duplex. Washer/ dryer provided. $260 plus one-third utilities. June 1. Jenny (785)770-8284.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom townhouse. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

150
Sublease

HAVE THREE open rooms in great house this summer. Huge rooms, pool access, sand volleyball court and more. Please call Katie at (785)317-3177 or call (785)587-9275.

SUBLEASE APRIL or May through July 31st. One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan Apartments. Call now. (785)539-4306.

SUBLEASER NEEDED! Female roommate needed to take over payments June/ July. $275 a month plus utilities. 2000 College Heights #3. Very clean and nice. Call (785)587-8632.

SUMMER SUBLEASE available. Two-bedroom apartment in Chase Apartments. (785)539-4517.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

120
For Rent-
Houses

Discover Brittney Ridge

TOWNHOMES
*4 Bedrooms w/ study
*2 1/2 Baths
*Washer/ Dryer in each unit
*Sand Volleyball Court
*1440 sq. ft.

Starting at $940
776-3804

Model Showings
2521 Candlecrest
M.W.Th 3-6
Sat 12-3
McCullough Development

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rentapm.com. (785)539-4357.

THREE, FOUR, and five- bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM COULD be furnished for August. Walk to campus. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

1000 SUMMER camp counsellor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext. 1436.

BLUEVILLE NURSERY is accepting applications for part-time and full-time temporary employees for the spring season. Experience in retail sales, lawn sprinkler installation, landscape installation, nursery work and lawn maintenance preferred. Must be available mornings. Apply in person at Blueville Nursery, Inc., 4539 Anderson. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DRILL TEAM COACH: A Drill Team Coach is needed for Riley County High School. Please contact Becky Pultz as soon as possible. (785)485-4000 or bpultz@usd378.org

EASTER BUNNIES and helpers needed for the upcoming Easter season at the mall. Must be available Thursday- Sunday, April 5-19. Call Reflections Photography at (785)539-1550.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymatters.com.

HAVE FUN teaching tennis, basketball, or basketball this summer. Work with kids in the beautiful mountains of Massachusetts. Salary, room, board and complete travel. Dates 6/21- 8/18. It's not too late to join the fun! For more info email staff@campwinadu.com or complete application in staff area.

HELP WANTED for custom harvesting, combined operators and truck drivers, guaranteed pay. Good summer wages. Call (970)483-7490 evenings.

HORIZON CAMPS: Are you a dynamic, energetic, compassionate, motivated individual looking for the EXPERIENCE OF A LIFETIME? If so then Horizon Camps is the place for you. Horizon Camps is made up of five OUTSTANDING co-ed summer camps, seeking AMAZING staff to work with INCREDIBLE kids ranging in age from 7 to 15. Located in NY, PA, ME, and WV, positions are available in the areas of group leading, athletics, theater - arts water sports, outdoor education, and so much more. For more information and to complete and application please contact us... www.horizoncamps.com 1-800-544-5448.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week. May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2021 Throckmorton Hall, by Friday, April 4.

200
service directory

205
Tutor

TERM PAPER Editing! Editing performed by professors and graduate students. Visit us at www.paperscheck.com or call us toll free at (866)693-EDIT.

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential making our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counsellor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com.

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext. 1436.

BLUEVILLE NURSERY is accepting applications for part-time and full-time temporary employees for the spring season. Experience in retail sales, lawn sprinkler installation, landscape installation, nursery work and lawn maintenance preferred. Must be available mornings. Apply in person at Blueville Nursery, Inc., 4539 Anderson. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DRILL TEAM COACH: A Drill Team Coach is needed for Riley County High School. Please contact Becky Pultz as soon as possible. (785)485-4000 or bpultz@usd378.org

EASTER BUNNIES and helpers needed for the upcoming Easter season at the mall. Must be available Thursday- Sunday, April 5-19. Call Reflections Photography at (785)539-1550.

Islam

Call to the way of your Lord with wisdom and sincere exhortations and debate with them in manners that are most appropriate (Al-Nahl 16:125)

What Makes Islam Different?

When: Thursday, March 27, 2003
Time: 3:30 - 5:00 p.m.
Where: Big 12 - KSU Student Union
 Everybody is Welcome!

REFRESHMENTS INCLUDED

K-state after hours:

FRIDAY, MARCH 28TH

AT THE K-STATE STUDENT UNION

LIVE MUSIC
 • Dan Bergen (Courtyard) 9 P.M.

BOARD GAMES CRAFTS

FREE FOOD
 • Sandwich Bar (Union Station) 10 P.M.

COMEDIAN
 • Erik Passoja (Union Station) 10:30 P.M.

FREE MOVIE
 (Forum hall) Zolander MIDNIGHT

Co-Sponsored by Smurthwaite Scholarship House

FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT: WWW.KSU.EDU/AFTERHOURS

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

THE FOUR BIGGEST DIETING MISTAKES

By Rick Tague, M.D., M.P.H.
 Board Certified in Medical Weight Management

If you made a New Year's resolution to lose weight but have struggled...or have already failed...you are not alone.

Numerous studies show that over 96% of all self-imposed diets fail to bring about a significant long-term weight loss. Regardless of how much willpower you have, the odds are against you when dieting on your own. And with less than a 4% chance of long-term success, you may ask, "why even try?"

Fortunately, a medical specialty called bariatric medicine has discovered simple, easy-to-follow solutions to the four biggest dieting mistakes. The biggest dieting mistakes are:

- 1. Using a "cookie cutter" approach to choosing your diet. I call this the "one size fits all" diet. No one gains weight...or loses weight...the same way. In order to be successful your program must be individualized around your personal needs, your likes and dislikes, your medical needs, your family history, your environment, your level of stress and more. Unfortunately, fad diets call for everyone to follow the same diet forever which accounts for such a dismal success rate.
- 2. No medical monitoring of your weight loss. This may lead to losing muscle and even bone versus losing body fat. Losing muscle causes your metabolism to slow down and contributes greatly to eventual weight regain and makes losing weight "the next time" even more difficult. Weight loss must be medically monitored to insure that what you are eating - how often and at what times during the day - causes you to melt away fat...not muscle.
- 3. Attempting to fight the "cravings battle" alone. Let's face it, cravings can be an almost impossible "enemy" to fight. The reason is that cravings are hardwired into your body's natural self-protection system.

Brain chemicals causing cravings is one of the ways your body preserves itself from starvation. Of course changing your eating habits by dieting doesn't mean you are starving, but your body doesn't know that. Fortunately, using an individualized high nutrient program, adjusting meal frequency, and other medical techniques including appetite suppressants (when appropriate and only if needed), can eliminate cravings which then makes losing unwanted fat pounds easy.

4. Not recognizing there may be underlying medical reasons causing your weight gain. Obviously fad diets do not address your individual medical history nor do they evaluate and monitor blood and lab findings that can provide quick answers to your past difficulty with losing weight. A physician specializing in medical weight management is able to identify and correct hormonal imbalances and other medical problems that can be the key to a slimmer you.

Losing weight doesn't have to be an uphill battle, and more than likely past failures haven't been your fault. An individual's genetics, metabolism, medical problems, life stresses and food cravings can make weight loss on your own a very difficult undertaking. Make sure any program you undertake avoids these four common mistakes.

Also, seek a medical doctor who specializes in nutrition and medical weight management. Not all physicians have this specialized training. And if you'd like more information about how you can finally achieve weight loss success, please call my office today at 776-4443 to set up a complimentary office visit.

Dr. Tague is board certified in bariatric medicine. Dr. Tague is the medical director of the Center for Nutrition and Preventive Medicine at 1443 Anderson Avenue in Anderson Village.

Special Orders
 If we don't have what you want, we'll gladly order it for you.

Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
 Now carrying Rockies jeans

Lee's Western Wear

8424 E. Hwy 24
 2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan
 (785) 776-6715

Light-up K-State Caps

Mon.-Fri. 10-6
 Sat. 10-5

get a lot more.

Sign up with Cellular One today and get twice the Anytime Minutes, Unlimited Nights & Weekends and more Roaming Minutes than ever.

	REGULAR RETAIL PLAN	PROMOTIONAL PLAN
MONTHLY RATE	$35	$35
anytime minutes	350	700
night & weekend minutes	3,500	unlimited
roaming minutes	75	100

plus, get free nationwide long distance

OFFER ENDS SOON!

Already a Cellular One Customer?
 Call now to get this great new plan.
 Restrictions apply. 24-month agreement required.

get a phone delivered to your door
 CALL 1-800-CELL-ONE or VISIT cellularonewest.com

FREE nokia 5165
 after instant rebate

CELLULARONE®

Call on someone you know.

SIMPLICITY CHOICE VALUE 30-DAY SATISFACTION GUARANTEE

Cellular One proudly supports The National Youth Anti-Drug Media Campaign www.TheAntiDrug.com

Cellular One

1115 Westloop Place
 785-537-4646 • 800-467-7858

Manhattan Town Center Mall
 785-776-1414

Offers good for a limited time on new activations on select rate plans only, and are subject to change without notice. Free phone offer not available to existing Cellular One customers. Credit approval required. Some customers may not qualify. Starter Program customers may be required to pay a non-refundable program fee and recurring administration fee. Not available in all areas. May not be combined with any other offers or discounts. Included minutes apply to calls from within local service area only. Unlimited minutes expire each month. "Night" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Monday through Thursday and "weekend" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. Friday to 11:59 p.m. Sunday from within home calling area only. Roaming minutes apply to calls made within our 20 state regional roaming area. Free nationwide long distance applies to calls made from the home area to anywhere in the United States only. Billing of some charges such as roaming charges may be delayed or applied against allocated minutes or services in a subsequent billing cycle, which may cause you to exceed your allocated minutes or services in that particular billing cycle. Except as indicated, additional fees apply for taxes, assessments, surcharges, roaming, long distance, operator-assisted, credit card or other toll charges. Incoming and outgoing calls are rounded up and billed in full-minute increments from the time the network begins to process the call (before the call rings or is answered) through its termination of the call, any fraction of a minute of usage is rounded up and charged or deducted from any included minutes at the full minute rate. Service is subject to the terms of our standard 24-month service agreement that includes a $200 fee for early cancellation and a mandatory arbitration provision for each phone. Activation fee and deposit may be required. Digital handset required. Outside the digital coverage area, service may be analog, and certain digital features may not function. Instant Rebate: Rebate has no cash value. Taxes apply to original purchase price. Only one rebate per phone purchased. Featured hardware available at Cellular One stores and participating dealers while supplies last. Service is not TTY compatible. See store for complete details. Other restrictions may apply. Western Wireless is a registered service mark of The Cellular One Group. © 2003 Western Wireless Corporation.

CLASSIFIEDS

310	310	310	310	310	330	410	455	510
Help Wanted	Help Wanted	Help Wanted	Help Wanted	Help Wanted	Business Opportunities	Items for Sale	Sporting Equipment	Automobiles
SUMMER JOBS in Arizona. Hiring camp counselors for three resident camps for 2003 season. 5/31- 8/4. Programs serve girls ages 7-17. Positions include instructors for ropes, riding, life guarding, canoeing, archery, dancing, arts and crafts, ceramics, drama, sports, as well as female counselors and unit leaders. $200-300 weekly. Apply on-line at www.girlscoutsaz.org/home.htm or call for application 1-800-352-6133 ext. 303. Equal opportunity employer.	THE TECHNOLOGY Center located in Varney's Book Store is looking for some body to fill Tuesday and Thursday afternoon shifts from 12- 5 and weekends. Qualified applicants should be familiar with video games and game systems such as Xbox and PlayStation 2 consoles and applicable games. Other duties include cellular phone sales, inventory management, and data entry. Starting pay is $5.20/ hour plus commissions. Applications are available at the Technology Center in Varney's Book Store, 623 N. Manhattan Avenue.	TOP BOYS SPORTS CAMP IN MAINE! Play and coach sports- have fun- make $$. Openings in: all team and individual sports, all water sports, plus: camp/ hike, ropes/ rock climbing, ice/ roller hockey, office/ secretaries. Top salaries, excellent facilities, free room/ board/ laundry, travel allowance. On-line application: www.campcobbosses.com or call: (800)473-6104.	THE ROCK Springs 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40- 50 summer staff positions. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, including team building, horses, environmental education, rifles, trap, archery, canoes, crafts and lifeguards. We also have several positions in food service, maintenance and custodial departments. Internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs offers a monthly salary and room and board. Rock Springs is a nationally recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 youth and adults each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For an application or more information you can contact me at: Rock Springs 4-H Center, C/O Jamie Farr, 5405 West Highway K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. jfarr@rocksprings.net	MUSIC FANS: need music fans to assist in concert promotion. Internship Position. Involves filming for concerts. If interested in getting your foot in the door with promotions and music call Velocity Marketing. (866)716-9693.	The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.	A VARIETY of decorations for wedding reception or other events. Can easily have lavender colors changed. Call (785)587-2158.	FOR SALE: Olympic weights. Multi-position bench and attachments. Hip sled, squat rack, lat machine, extra bars, great shape! Call (785)565-9545.	1992 PONTIAC Gran Prix Good condition. $1800 (best offer. Must sell. Call Hugo or Steph (785)531-9115 or email hez4848@ksu.edu
								1994 JEEP Grand Cherokee Limited Edition. $6000.
								530 Motorcycles 2001 HONDA CBR F4i. S ver/ black, $6900. (785)311-1224.
								600 travel trip

A young woman helps hold up an anti-war sign as she marches down Broadway from Herald Square to Washington Square Park.

Matt Elliott
COLLEGIAN

A father holds onto his son who is resting on his shoulders while walking in the anti-war march on Broadway Ave. in New York City last Saturday.

Nicole Donnert
COLLEGIAN

PROTESTING FOR PEACE

Andy Place finishes a chant by yelling "peace" while walking down Broadway from Times Square during the peace march in New York City March 22.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Students describe protest

Collegian photographers share experiences during protests in the Big Apple

"Where else but in New York would you see such a thing? Being a part of the march really opened my eyes to see the big picture. There are a lot more opinions out there other than what we see here on the corner of 17th Street and Anderson Ave. in Manhattan, Kan."

Matt Stamey | Collegian

• • •

"I wondered what it was like living in the Big Apple, as opposed to the Little Apple, during times of war. I was thrilled to experience something I have never seen before."

Kelly Glasscock | Collegian

• • •

"This protest was such an overwhelming experience for me to shoot, marching with over 125,000 protesters screaming and chanting to the top of their lungs."

Matt Elliott | Collegian

• • •

"It was hard to get an idea of how many people were filling the streets from Times Square to Washington Square Park, but their moods ranged from quiet cries for peace to angry insults toward President Bush."

Jeanel Drake | Collegian

• • •

"Seeing business men, hippies, teenagers, mothers, WWII veterans, exchange students and children walking and chanting for the same goal was overwhelming and hard to put into words."

Nicole Donnert | Collegian

• • •

"I know there is no way I could compare this scene to Kent State, Alabama or even the World Bank Riots, but it was the first time I had ever seen violence like this first-hand. Police were using pepper spray, tear gas and their batons on protesters. I had to dodge mace myself. I stood there stunned that this could even happen after such a peaceful march."

Evan Semón | Collegian

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

More than 70 people were arrested and 14 NYPD officers were injured in Saturday's peace march that started in Times Square and ended in New York's Washington Square Park.

Matt Stamey | COLLEGIAN

Members of The Missile Dick Chicks dance at Washington Square Park after the march for peace March 22 in New York. The group sang parodies of famous songs with lyrics such as: "The bad economy demands a new scapegoat/That's why Iraq must become our client state so/The world will be safe for Macy's, Sak's and Target/To whip it out and penetrate their market."

Gerhard Schlanzy, New York, holds an anti-war sign that he made to use as a statement of protest during a peace march in New York City Saturday. "I don't know what else to do. I can't sit home and watch television," Schlanzy said. "I'm pissed off." Schlanzy was one of more than 100,000 protesters who shared similar feelings about the war in Iraq.

Jeanel Drake
COLLEGIAN

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Friday, March 28, 2003

Fast food chain to extend hours

24-hour service to be offered at McDonald's

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Mac attacks can occur at any time — and local McDonald's are taking steps to satisfy even late-night cravings.

At least three local McDonald's — Third Street, Westloop and Interstate 70 near Junction City — will be switching to 24-hour service within the next month, said Ruthie Seitz, office manager for local McDonald's.

The scheduling change was discussed among regional McDonald's owners and operators, Seitz said.

Owner Clark Linders said the fact that Manhattan is a college town did play into the decision.

Some Lawrence locations already have made the switch with some success, he said.

"There are limited places to eat late at night," Linders said. "We've had some success in the evenings, so it looked like it would work well."

Seitz said the student body could play a role in making the extended hours a success.

"There's business to be had," she said. "During late-night cram sessions, especially."

The 24-hour schedule will be a four- to six-month trial, Seitz said, and will be considered for continuation following this period.

But before the extended hours can take effect, Seitz said the Manhattan stores will have to hire and train a third-shift staff.

"It hasn't really been a roadblock, but it's just a new thing," she said.

"Not many people were looking for third-shift work at McDonald's."

Newspaper advertisements have been seeking employees for the late shift, Seitz said, and many applications have been received.

The longest part of the process, though, will be hiring and training the additional employees.

Seitz said the Interstate 70 location is expected to begin the extended schedule on or around April 7, and the two Manhattan locations should be ready for round-the-clock service sometime in the first half of April.

Warplanes bomb Iraq

25 Marines hurt, missing

By David Espo
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American-led forces bombed Iraqi targets and battled Iraqi troops the length and breadth of Saddam Hussein's slowly shrinking domain on Thursday, and British forces claimed the destruction of 14 tanks in their biggest kill since World War II.

But American officials reported 25 Marines wounded or missing after fighting, apparently around An Nasiriyah, and the Iraqi regime breathed defiance. "The enemy must come inside Baghdad, and that will be its grave," said Defense Minister Sultan Mashem Ahmed.

Eight days after the launching of Operation Iraqi Freedom, President Bush met with British Prime Minister Tony Blair and declined to set a timetable for the war. It will last "however long it takes" to win, he said, thumping the lectern for emphasis.

Both men said the United Nations could help rebuild postwar Iraq, but sidestepped tricky questions of who would create and run a new government once Saddam was toppled.

In the war zone, sandstorms abated and the Americans and British reported making 600 strike flights during the day as they exploited their unchecked air superiority.

America At War

Warplanes bombed positions in northern Iraq near Kurdish-held areas and hit Republican Guard forces menacing American ground forces 50 miles south of Baghdad. The capital was rocked by an enormous explosion a few hours after nightfall when one of Saddam's presidential palaces was hit.

Combat aircraft dropped bombs "just about as fast as we can load them," said Capt.

Thomas A. Parker, aboard the USS Kitty Hawk in the Persian Gulf.

Cargo planes flew military supplies into northern Iraq, one day after 1,000 American airborne troops parachuted in to seize an airfield. One source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said additional personnel were being flown in, as well, and an early objective would be securing the northern oil fields near Kirkuk. Invading forces took control of southern Iraqi oil fields in the early hours of the ground war.

Several miles away, Kurdish militiamen and villagers celebrated the fall during the

See WAR Page 10

BACK TO SCHOOL

Mandy Inchaustegui, senior in secondary education, helps Nik Krstic, sophomore at Manhattan High School, with his homework. "I love student teaching. It gives you a really good taste as to what your first year will be like," Inchaustegui said.

Photos by Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

Future teachers getting more field exposure

By Tristan Hinderliter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Twenty-three-year-old Sara Hostetler never misses a day of high school.

Hostetler, senior in secondary education, teaches five classes a day covering computer applications, graphic applications and desktop publishing.

She is one of about 60 student teachers placed in area high schools this spring.

K-State's student teachers are better prepared to teach than ever before, due to changes in the secondary education curriculum phased in over the last eight years, said Larry Scharmann, chair of the department of secondary education.

Students now have substantially more experience in the classroom before they actually student teach, Scharmann said, and the results have been very positive.

"The only time 20 years ago that a student got in a classroom was the second half of the final semester of their senior year," he said. "Now they're incredibly more prepared."

The secondary education curriculum

See TEACHERS Page 10

Chris Frakes, sophomore at Manhattan High School, receives help from Mandy Inchaustegui, senior in secondary education.

Fraternities, sororities announce homecoming pairings in week's final event

By Katie Copeland
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Barbecue, mocktails and "Singled Out" were just a few of the events at City Park on Thursday as the greek community gathered to hear the 2003 Homecoming pairings.

Each year, a sorority is randomly paired with several fraternities to compete against other greek houses during Homecoming Week. The pairs work together throughout the semester to plan functions, float designs and other events.

In February, 24 fraternities were selected by computer in order to keep numbers balanced. In the past, fraternities were able to select their own partners before being paired with a sorority. Last year was the first time the fraternities were pre-selected.

Despite the cold weather, hundreds of greeks awaited the announcement of pairs.

"We're ready to win homecoming," said Katie Horton, sophomore in public health nutrition and member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Horton's sorority was paired with Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternities.

Before the pairings were announced, representatives from 15 houses competed in mocktails, sponsored by members of Greeks Advocating Mature Management of Alcohol.

"It's an alternative drink contest to see who can make the best smoothie or mixed drink without any alcohol in it," Samantha Bevin, vice president of GAMMA, said. "We just do this to promote having fun without alcohol."

Homecoming pairings

Sororities were randomly paired with several fraternities.

- Sigma Kappa, Alpha of Clovia, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Kappa Theta, Triangle
- Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Upsilon, Phi Delta Theta
- Alpha Delta Pi, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon
- Chi Omega, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Sigma Phi
- Kappa Kappa Gamma, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Beta Sigma Psi, Acacia
- Pi Beta Phi, Phi Gamma Delta, Pi Kappa Phi
- Delta Delta Delta, Sigma Nu, Theta Xi
- Alpha Chi Omega, Farmhouse, Sigma Chi
- Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Delta Tau Delta
- Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha
- Kappa Delta, Sigma Lambda Gamma, Kappa Sigma, Delta Chi

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN

Members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority respond as they find out who their homecoming partners for next year. They were paired up with Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

INSIDE

K-State is host to the All-University Open House this weekend. See what the event entails.

Open House Guide

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

1,000 U.S. Army troops parachute into northern Iraq in nighttime operation Denied rights to invade by land from Turkey, the U.S. military instead parachuted about 1,000 Army troops into Kurdish-held northern Iraq in a dramatic nighttime operation that opened another front against Saddam Hussein's regime.
Page 3

U.S. ambassador walks out of U.N. debate after Iraq's accusations
The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations walked out of a debate on the Iraq war Thursday after Iraq's ambassador accused the United States of trying to exterminate the Iraqi people.

Rumsfeld holds out hope for Shiite uprising in Baghdad
Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld held out hope Thursday that the Shiite population in Baghdad opposed to President Saddam Hussein would stage an uprising against the regime, without the need for U.S. ground forces to invade the city of 5 million people.

Mayors complain of new security costs, demand more federal assistance
The nation's mayors said Thursday the heightened state of alert is costing their cities $70 million every week, an expense they said could be eased with more federal aid sent directly rather than through states.

Court dismisses lawsuit on state aid
A lawsuit filed by cities and counties over the state withholding $48 million in aid was dismissed Thursday by the Kansas Supreme Court.

Weather

Today 47 / 26

Partly cloudy

Saturday 49 / 19

Partly cloudy

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 124

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
 1 Guys
 4 Boston
 7 Form
 12 Spoon-
 13 Indivisible
 14 Within the 15 Family
 16 Inter-
 18 Lemieux
 19 Clear
 20 Casino
 22 Greek
 23 Female
 27 Passbook
 29 Rotary
 31 Like
 34 Wasteland
 35 Wasteland
 37 Philbin's
 39 Sched.
 41 Cobra's

DOWN
 2 "Love
 47 House-
 48 "Oh,
 52 "Town"
 53 Duck
 54 "Big
 55 Hwy.
 56 Borscht
 57 Storm
 58 Evergreen
 21 Order-in 23 Map

Solution time: 28 mins.

Yesterday's answer: 3-28

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-226-5577. 9¢ per minute, touch-tone rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

3-28 CRYPTOQUIP

WE NRK TMPKB TS ZWPH
 GWABH SWBZE ETZK TS
 ZH SBAKPG XWJJ ZK
 NRK XTM-TBGAPWNTB
 Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHEN A LION OR LEOPARD ATTACKS, I SUPPOSE ONE COULD
 CALL THAT A WILDCAT STRIKE.
 Today's Cryptquip Clue: B equals R.

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.
 The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals Q, it will equal Q throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
 © 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

There were errors in Thursday's Collegian. Lisa Rockley is a senior in social science. Tina Balcotcha plays third base for the "Sixth Floor Goodnow" team. The Collegian regrets the errors.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 1021 N. Main, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1021 N. Main, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

CAMPUS CONNECTION

Finding time to study involves setting priorities, rearranging busy schedules

By Kari Kennedy
 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Setting priorities to get things done is a tough reality to face for some college students.

Taking time to study seems to be difficult for some, and for others it isn't.

Jennifer Gould, senior in management information systems and pre-law, said she has a hard time finding a parking spot at the library when she wants to study.

"I always study in the library, and it is always packed there," she said.

Claire Dehon, professor of modern languages, said it is easy for her to see when students are not studying as much as they should.

"I can tell by the grades on their exams and the way they write their papers," she said.

Dehon said the amount of studying students do should depend on the level of the course. The more advanced the course, the more hours should be spent.

Regina Demina, assistant professor of physics, said the problem for his students isn't how much they study but that they don't think enough.

"The problem is their whole life experience teaches them that if you work really hard, you will succeed," she said. "You have to think to succeed. For many of them, it is the first time they encounter this concept."

Applying the information is one problem facing students, but other things get in the way of not devoting time to studying.

"They might feel that for a particular class they feel confident that they know the material," Gould said.

Gould said students might also overbook their schedules and not leave enough time to study.

Most of the time, the amount of studying students do depends on the individual student, Dehon said.

"I try to make the material relevant and more useful," she said.

Dehon said students have to motivate themselves to study.

"I can't do it for them," she said.

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN

Jill Clisso, senior in kinesiology, studies history of death and dying on the second floor of Hale Library. Many students use the library as a place to study between their classes.

concept."

Applying the information is one problem facing students, but other things get in the way of not devoting time to studying.

"They might feel that for a particular class they feel confident that they know the material," Gould said.

Gould said students might also overbook their schedules and not leave enough time to study.

Most of the time, the amount of studying students do depends on the individual student, Dehon said.

"I try to make the material relevant and more useful," she said.

Dehon said students have to motivate themselves to study.

"I can't do it for them," she said.

University of Rhode Island professors examine time students spend studying

By Lisa Morrill

THE GOOD FIVE CENT CIGAR (U. RHODE ISLAND)

KINGSTON, R.I. - Are students spending far less time doing their schoolwork and studying than they should be? Or is it that teachers are assigning way too much work?

This question has plagued faculty and students alike and was the topic of an Instructional Development Program forum at the University of Rhode Island's University Club.

According to a study published by The Chronicle of Higher Education, the most commonly prescribed amount is at least two hours of class preparation for every hour spent in the classroom. The typical full-time college student should spend at least 25 to 30 hours studying outside of class, the study said.

Frank Heppner, professor of biological sciences, said the requirement is reasonable.

"It would be an average of 50 hours a week, and the rest of the time belongs to students," Heppner said.

"There is a gap in expectation," said Bette Erickson, assistant director of the Instructional Development Program.

Erickson said there needs to be more information available from students and faculty about what they expect from each other.

He noted that if teachers lower their standards, then students would lower theirs as well.

Professors said students have to learn better study skills and find better ways to manage their time. Professors also said they design their courses to ease students into the material.

"Students are not taking the time," said Judy Van-

Wyk, a professor of sociology and anthropology. VanWyk said she helps students earn good grades and eases them into the material by weighing the assignments at the beginning of the semester with less value than those assigned toward the end of the semester.

"It relieves a lot of anxiety," she said, while noting that students are going into college not knowing exactly what they are in for.

Erickson noted another study that asked students about their study habits, especially how many hours a week they study and how many they plan to study.

"The number of students that said they plan to study less than 10 hours a week is alarming," she said.

VanWyk said students don't find the material they are reading interesting and it takes away from their hunger for knowledge.

"They are not studying if they perceive it's boring," she said.

VanWyk said she invites students to take a look at a list of books she would be willing to use in her classes. She said she allows students to sift through the texts and pick out the ones they think are most interesting and informative.

Students also have additional, unacademic challenges, like being athletes, working to pay for their educations and belonging to clubs and organizations.

Most agreed that students procrastinate more than ever and that procrastination is one of the biggest problems preventing students from doing well in class. Another key issue at the meeting was useful study tips.

Marie Schwartz, associate professor of history, stressed that everyone learns and manages their time differently, and there can be no uniform way to handle or fix the problem.

"I don't see any difference in student willingness to perform as the problem," she said. "I don't think there is one formula that will work better for everybody."

The blotter
Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, March 26

- At 8:38 a.m., Michelle Drywater, Westmoreland, Kan., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 3:48 p.m., Ronald Young, 2221 Green, was arrested for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $750.
- At 3:48 p.m., Christopher Hartmann, 1001 Humboldt, No. B, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Bernadette Kahler at 10 a.m. today in Justin 256.
- Alpha Gamma Rho and Farmhouse fraternities will sponsor a free meal at 11:30 a.m. today at Call Hall lawn.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Mohammed Al-Haj Ebrahim at 3 p.m. today in Blumont 111.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- The Canterbury Episcopal Club will meet for worship and praise at 5 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.
- Christian Explorers Food and Fellowship will meet at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Campus Center.
- SGA committee meetings on Sunday night in OSAS conference room: student affairs and social services at 6 p.m., allocations at 7 and academic affairs and university relations at 9.
- The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.
- Friends of the KSU Libraries will sponsor the 14th Annual Book Sale from March 29 to April 3 during regular Hale Library Hours. Purchase books, CDs, audio/video tapes.

Up next
In Monday's Collegian

- News | Disaster relief
How prepared are you for a potential disaster? Find out how Manhattan residents became informed about disaster relief and other activities at the Manhattan Town Center's Red Cross Day.
- Opinion | Returning columnists
Fletcher Jacobs returns to Monday for his weekly column. Also, don't miss what Angel Wilson has to say.
- Edge | Weekend comedy
Dustin Diamond, a.k.a. a Screech from "Saved by the Bell," is in town and will be performing at Aggie Station on Sunday and Monday. Find out how the show went.
- Sports | Weekend wrapup
We'll wrap up the Cats' three-game series with Missouri and document what K-State's baseball team did well and badly over the weekend.

Religion Directory

FIRST LUTHERAN
 10th Poyntz 537-8532
 Worship
 Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
 Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

Episcopal Church at K-State
 5:30 p.m. Sunday
 Danforth Chapel
 Worship and Praise
 Ft. Matthew Cobb, 532-9099

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
 Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
 Friday 12:10 p.m.
 Saturday 5 p.m.
 Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
 Sun. 4:30, 6 p.m.
 Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
 711 Denison 539-7496

Grace Baptist Church
 2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child
 ♦ Sunday ♦
Morning Worship
 8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
 Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
 Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
 776-0424

JOIN THE DIRECTORY
 Call 532-6560

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH
 Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45
 1000 Fremont • Manhattan
 (785) 539-4079

Agape Family Church
Meeting at Wareham Opera House
 410 Poyntz
 An Affiliate of the Mennonite Brethren Church of North America
 Sunday 9:30 a.m. School of the Bible
 Sunday 10:30 a.m. Worship
 Sunday 7:00 p.m. Evening Worship
 Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Hour of Power
 Children Services
STERLING HUDGINS - PASTOR
 Office: 121 S. 4th Suite 205
 Everyone is welcome.
 (785) 539-3570

Come Worship With Us
1st Church of the Nazarene
 3031 Kimball Ave.
 • 9:30 Sunday School
 10:45 Sunday Worship
 7:00 Wed. Bible Study, Tithes
 Youth & College ministry opportunities
 Service Pastor: Pat Weyersbach
 539-6376

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
 8:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM
 College and Young Married Couples:
 Sunday School 9:30 & 11:00AM
 Youth Ministry Opportunities
 Senior Pastor: David Thompson
 3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
 537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
 481 Zeandale Road, (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile) Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education, classes for youth.
 Day care for toddlers
 The Rev. David Grimm
 For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufellow

Christian Science Society
 Sunday 10:30 a.m.
 Danforth Chapel
 KSU Campus
 Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
 Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1
 105 N. 4th St.

Blue Valley Memorial United Methodist Church
 835 Church Ave. 539-8790
 Pastor: the Rev. Dr. E. Carolyn Wills
 Worship hours: Saturday at 5:30 PM and Sunday at 10:30 AM

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
 330 Sunset Avenue
 Saturday-
 Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
 Sunday-
 Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
 College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
 Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
 Campus Pastor - Eric Wood
 Email: campusmn@flinthills.com
 (785) 539-2604

Faith Evangelical Free Church
 • Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00
 • Sunday School at 9:15
 • College Class at 9:15
 Steve Ratoff, Senior Pastor
 Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor
 1921 Barnes Rd
 1.6 Miles North of Kimball
 776-2086

First Presbyterian Church
 ♦ Worship at ♦
 9:15 & 10:30 a.m.
 Sunday School for all
 at 9:15 a.m.
 Students Welcome!
www.firstpresmanhattan.com
 801 Leavenworth St. • 537-0518

Lutheran Campus Ministry
 Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.
 at Luther House 1745 Anderson
 Sunday Evening Worship
 7 p.m., Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
 Pastor Jayne Thompson
 (pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
 Open to All

Calvary Chapel
Come Grow With Us!
 Solid Bible Message
 Contemporary Worship
 Casual Atmosphere
Sunday Service: 11AM
 1961 Strong Ave.
 539-3667
cofmanhattan@cox.net

Faith Tabernacle United Pentecostal Church
 1010 Burke Drive at Eisenhower
 Junction City, KS
 Sunday: Morning Service 10:00am
 Worship Service 11:15am
 Sunday: Night Service 6:00pm
 Tuesday: Youth Service 7:30pm
 Thursday: Bible Study 7:30pm
 Senior Pastor D.M. Westberg
 Pastor Edwin Young
 (785) 238-2988

St. Mary Magdalene Orthodox Christian Mission
 ECM Bldg. 1021 Denison, 5 South.
 539-3440
 Divine Liturgy:
 9:30 AM First Saturdays and
 8:00 AM Third Sundays monthly
 Typica:
 8:00 AM First, Second, Fourth
 and Fifth Sundays monthly
 Visit the K-State OCF website at www.ksu.edu/orthodox

You are welcome at...
First Assembly of God
Weekly Services
 Wednesday
 Prayer Meeting 7:00 p.m.
 Youth Group (grades 7-12)
 Royal Rangers (Boys Clubs)
 Missionettes (Girls Clubs)
 Pastor Bryan Elliott
 Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship for College Students 8:00 p.m. -
 (KSU Little Theatre)
 Nursery provided for all services.
 Sunday
 Sunday School
 9:00 a.m.
 Morning Worship & Kids Church
 10:00 a.m.
 Evening Worship
 6:00 p.m.
 Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
 2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS
 (785) 537-2633 www.manhattanag.org

3 students awarded Goldwater

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Spring break brought some wealth for Jonathan Whitmer, senior in physics and mathematics.

Whitmer said he was in Kentucky enjoying the break from school when his mom called to tell him he was one of three K-State students to win the Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship.

The other winners are Sarah Meyer, junior in microbiology, and Aaron Wech, senior in physics and mathematics.

The scholarships are $7,500 per year and cover the cost of tuition, fees, books and room and board.

James Hohenbary, scholarship adviser, said the scholarship program invites applications from students in math, science and engineering disciplines who are interested in research careers.

Hohenbary said students are only eligible if they have one or two undergraduate years remaining.

Aaron Wech
JUNIOR IN MATHEMATICS AND PHYSICS

Jonathan Whitmer
SENIOR IN MATHEMATICS AND PHYSICS

Sarah Meyer
JUNIOR IN MICROBIOLOGY

After applying to be one of four K-State representatives in the competition, the students applied to the national competition in January.

All three recipients said they didn't expect to win the scholarship but were pleasantly surprised when they did.

Wech plans to pursue a doctorate in atomic physics.

"I like the challenge involved and the mathematics involved," he said. "I like to understand how things work."

Meyer, who wants to work in molecular genetics, said she's always known she'd pursue this type of career.

"I always knew I wanted to do something with science or biology," she said. "When I was a freshman, I worked in a plant transformation lab. Just seeing the stuff they did there made me realize that's the kind of stuff I want to do."

Whitmer said after receiving his mom's phone call, he celebrated by dancing around the kitchen and then called his fiancée to tell her the news.

"I was basically very happy," he said.

Whitmer said he wants to work with nano-scale materials in the future.

"Interests of mine are developing materials that can be used to build devices on smaller scales, like computer chips," he said. "The research I've done so far has in different ways been related to different aspects of developing tools like that."

K-State ranks third in the nation among four-year universities in producing Goldwater scholars. Princeton University and Harvard University beat K-State with 51 and 50 Goldwater scholars respectively. K-State is tied with Duke University at 48 scholarship recipients.

Among the 500 state schools, K-State is first.

Hohenbary said since the program started in 1989, K-State has had at least two Goldwater scholars every year, and all four of K-State's nominees receive the award many years.

Hohenbary said that although winning isn't new to K-State, he tries not to lose sight of the fact that receiving a Goldwater Scholarship is a great accomplishment.

"We're very happy to have three winners," he said. "Every year that we have this many winners, it's just an exceptional accomplishment."

1,000 U.S. paratroopers land in northern Iraq

By Brian Murphy and Jonathan Ewing
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BASHUR, Iraq — Denied rights to invade by land from Turkey, the U.S. military instead parachuted about 1,000 Army troops into Kurdish-held northern Iraq in a dramatic nighttime operation that opened another front against Saddam Hussein's regime.

It was one of the biggest paratroop drops in decades and put in place the first large coalition ground force in the north.

Together with the 100 special operations troops and thousands of Kurdish militiamen already in the area, the force intends to square off against an estimated 100,000 Iraqi troops dug in along the green line dividing semi-autonomous northern Iraq from the rest of the country.

"This tightens the noose against Saddam's forces battling coalition forces to the south," Brigadier Gen. James Parker, commander of U.S. forces in the north, said. "And it may also serve as a warning to Turkish forces."

In Baghdad, Defense Minister Sultan Hashim Ahmed spoke to a news conference Thursday.

He said that "the American-British enemy is trying to open a front in the north to ease off pressure on other sectors."

He warned the Kurds in northern Iraq not to support the coalition forces. "As for our Kurdish brothers, we hope that they don't take the side of the traitor so history doesn't record them as traitors," he said. "On our part, however, we are ready for all possibilities."

America At War

KANSAS STATE BASEBALL
MAKE THE CONNECTION

K-State vs. Missouri
Friday, March 28 3 p.m.
Saturday, March 29 2 p.m.
Sunday, March 30 1 p.m.

*Subject to change due to weather.
Check www.k-statesports.com for updates.

Varney's

Greek Odyssey Cafe

New Serving
Great Greek
Cuisine
in the
K-State
Student
Union

Celebrating Our GRAND OPENING!

Up 'Til Dawn
Final Event Tonight 6 p.m. - 6 a.m.
ALL NIGHT ENTERTAINMENT, FOOD, AND FUN!

Bands Lucky Joan
The Billions
Ryan Willis

UP 'TIL DAWN THANKS THE FOLLOWING SPONSORS FOR THEIR GENEROUS SUPPORT:

Ramada Plaza Hotel & Gold Fork Food & Spirits	Applebee's Neighborhood Bar and Grill
Kansas State University Student Governing Association	Timberland Steakhouse
Chipotle	Patricia's Undercover
Kansas Heart Hospital	Little Caesars
Interfraternity Council	Mr. Goodcents Subs & Pastas
Panhellenic Council	Mead Lumber
Krispy Kreme	Golf USA
Kansas City Royals	Pets N Stuff
Kansas State University Police	Dry Clean City
Pizza Hut	Ballard's Sporting Goods
PepsiCo of Manhattan	Java Espresso & Bakery
ToKan Designs	Dairy Queen
CellularOne	Hastings
Carlos O'Kelly's	Victoria's Secret
McDonald's	It's a Party
Topoka Civic Theatre & Academy	Skyvue Quick Lube
McCormick and Schmick's	S Bar J Western Wear
Wendy's	Rick's Movie Shop
Bagel Express	Stickle Cleaners
Westin Crown Center
Subway
Adam's Mark Hotel
Harry's Uptown Downtown
Hyatt Regency
Marco Polo's
Dick's Sporting Goods
Body First
Burger King
Colbert Hills
Cottonwood Racquet Club
Willie's Sports Bar and Grill
Quiznos Sub
Schlitzky's Deli
Culligan
Sirloin Stockade
Optimum Therapeutic
Salon Essentials
Sun Connection
Southern Sun
KC Masterpiece
Taco Bell
El Cazador

THE FINAL EVENT IS A CELEBRATION OF THE UP 'TIL DAWN FUNDRAISING EFFORTS

THE ONLY THING WHITE IS THE HOUSE

CHRIS ROCK • BERNIE MAC
HEAD of STATE

DREAMWORKS PICTURES PRESENTS CHRIS ROCK 'HEAD OF STATE' A 3 ARTS ENTERTAINMENT PRODUCTION
A FILM BY CHRIS ROCK BERNIE MAC DYLAN BAKER NICK SEARCY ROBIN GIVENS JAMES REBHORN
VICTORIA THOMAS MARCUS MILLER AND DAVID DJ QUIK BLAKE AMANDA SANDERS
STEPHEN A. ROTTER STEVEN JORDAN DONALD E. THORIN ASC EZRA SWERDLOW
ALLI LEROI CHRIS ROCK MICHAEL ROTENBERG CHRIS ROCK & ALLI LEROI CHRIS ROCK

PG-13 PARENTS STRONGLY CAUTIONED
Some Material May Be Inappropriate for Children Under 13
Learns About Sex, Smokes, and Briefs Excretion

www.headofstate-themovie.com R00T

COMING TO THEATRES MARCH 28

TO THE POINT Organization offers disaster preparation

Residents will have the opportunity to become prepared for any disaster thanks to Manhattan Town Center's American Red Cross Day on Saturday.

In this time of war, many people have become worried about the future and the potential disasters that may come with it.

However, the Red Cross is stepping up and providing information for disaster readiness by organizing CPR and disaster classes along with conducting a blood drive at the event.

Members from the community should attend the event to further enhance their knowledge of disaster relief. Besides receiving insightful disaster relief information, residents can take this knowledge and apply it to a number of emergency situations that occur in everyday life.

Manhattan's Red Cross has stepped up and taken action to prepare the community in the case of disasters.

It is now the community's turn to return the favor.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnert
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF	Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR
Nicole Donnert PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane ART EDITOR
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR
	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM

395-4444

If peeing your pants is cool, consider me Miles Davis.

Some people say pornography is wrong, but I say "Hey, state of Utah, whatever a man and a woman, another woman, another man, a donkey and a midget do is their own doggone business."

I like gambling stories because they always start out so hopeful. "I was up $9,800. Then I was out blowing a guy in the parking lot for a sandwich."

I think the theme song to this war should be "Bombs Over Baghdad."

Leave it to English grad students who have to write a 10-paragraph response to a one-paragraph comment.

Yeah, that's real smart. Climbing out the sunroof. I couldn't stop laughing when the cop pulled you guys over.

How do you castrate a Frenchman? Kick his sister in the jaw.

One week into the war with Iraq, and the Collegian's headline read "Iraqis killed in attack." That's deeply profound, and I want everyone to know that I sent that one in to Jay Leno.

Was that really Layton Ehmkie and Paul Restivo at the Cowboy Olympics?

Yeah, this war is apparently going to cost $70 billion, but giving the entire world running water would only cost $12 billion.

Saddam, go Iraq yourself.

My dad always said, if you're going to be dumb, you've got to be tough.

I've got a riddle for you. How many Kramer supervisors does it take to fold up laundry. Four. One to fold, and three to stand around complaining about how things aren't getting done fast enough.

I mean, whatever happened to that other dictator in North Korea? What did he feel he couldn't compete with Saddam's media coverage? What happened to him?

Bombs over Baghdad.

Girls like wedgies, too.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Illustrations by Melesa Loret | COLLEGIAN

RESHAPING NATIONS

U.S. war in Iraq could drastically alter Middle East's political landscape

I got an unexpected gift this spring break: National Geographic's Atlas of the Middle East.

After glancing through it, I put it aside. And then I dug it out the next day when war broke out.

The book has been pressed open to the map of Iraq ever since.

I can't help but wonder if I'll need a new atlas in six months. After all, Iraq will probably be renamed New Texas by then.

Just kidding. But in all seriousness, this conflict is going to change a lot of things about the region. The entire geopolitical balance of the Middle East will be radically altered by this.

Sound too dramatic? Maybe, but I feel we are witnessing a major historical event here.

The upcoming battle for Baghdad has been predicted to be the biggest since World War II. Surely the aftermath will affect the world's balance of power just as the aftermath of that great war did.

And in an area as volatile as the Middle East, we are talking about a big chessboard with a lot of players. Who will benefit and who will be checkmated?

Iraq

Obviously, the United States is going to be heavily involved with postwar Iraq's government, just like Afghanistan. Iraq will probably come under American sway as a result.

The country itself will most likely be too focused on domestic problems to trouble the world for a long time, if that was even a goal. Territorially, it might be diminished, especially if the Kurds in the north increase pressure for their own state.

Kuwait

When Kuwaiti flags were raised over Umm Qasr, there was speculation that perhaps they weren't planning on leaving anytime soon.

That city is Iraq's only significant seaport. It controls the al Faw peninsula and the mouth of the strategic Shatt al Arab waterway, long contested by both Iraq and Iran.

Nearby is the important Rumaila oil field, which has shifted hands from the Iraqis to the allies but is also coveted by Iran.

If Kuwait, with American and British backing, retains control over al Faw, it will nearly double in size and vastly increase its oil power.

This would also send a message to Iran not to take advantage of Iraq's future weakness to seize territory.

Israel

A former prime minister of Jordan spoke to United Press International about the effect this war could have on the Israeli peace process.

"If the U.S. can get a new Iraq to recognize Israel as a quid pro quo for a final Palestinian settlement," he said, "others will fall into place — Syria, Saudi Arabia, and the other Gulf states. Iran would then have to pull back its military support for Hezbollah."

Another prominent Jordanian politician theorized that resolving the Palestine question could help heal the rift the war in Iraq has driven between America and Europe.

The war on terror and the Axis of Evil

George Friedman of The Stratford Weekly said, "The primary purpose of the Iraq war is to set the stage for undermining the foundations of al-Qaeda in particular and of radical Islam as an effective paramilitary force in general."

Al-Qaeda is like a batch of parasites that has infested several host countries. America relies on those countries to help root out its threat.

But Friedman said, "Whether unwilling or unable, they have not taken definitive steps to render al-Qaeda's support systems inoperative within their territory. Moreover, in the case of Iran, for example, the danger that Iranian weapons of mass destruction will be transferred by some means to al-Qaeda remains substantial."

This, along with Iran's unique political system, makes that country seem like the next battlefield.

Although President Khatami has reassured the United States he will cooperate, he can always be overruled by Iran's faqih or supreme religious authority, the Ayatollah Khomeini.

Still, there likely will be no action on that front for a while unless Iran provokes it. The military will need time to regroup, time that will allow the message of Iraq to sink in for other countries like Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

These are just some of the changes that will likely take place in the next year. No matter what happens, it's sure to be an interesting time for all of us.

Especially the National Geographic Society.

Andrew is a sophomore in print journalism. You can e-mail him at lawson@k-state.edu.

Warm fuzzies in an envelope: snail mail provides personalized emotion

You know what my favorite thing in the world is? Not Snood or chocolate, or even good grades. No, my favorite thing is letters.

Yep, that's right, good old fashioned snail-mail letters — envelope, stamp and all. There's nothing in this world better than getting a letter in the mail.

It means someone cared enough to take the time to sit and write the letter, braved paper cuts, the taste of the sealing glue and the ever-increasing price of postage, just to send you a message. It ranks right up there with a beautiful spring day and playing in the rain. There's something about getting an actual letter in the mail that e-mail, instant messaging and a phone call just can't compete with, even if they are convenient.

E-mail is too easy and often nothing but random forwards, jokes and chain letters declaring that if you don't forward them to 100 people in five minutes, you're doomed for life and will never get another date.

Instant messaging, while fun, is generally not much more than chat and random emotions. Telephone calls are enjoyable enough in their own right. It is always nice to hear the voice of a long-lost friend or a family member calling in for the weekly report. But no, the best form of long distance communication is the letter.

A letter is a personal form of communication made even sweeter with the random way they show up in the mail. Letters carry personality and a certain something that no other form of communication has. The handwriting, the paper, and even the postage — all of it adds to the warm fuzzy feeling a letter evokes. You can tell from the person's handwriting whether they were happy, angry, sad or in an average mood when they wrote it. Doodles and scribbles, smudges in the ink or pencil lead, the look, feel and smell all add to a letter's appeal. It's one of life's simple pleasures.

Perhaps the best type of letter is the "just because" letter. Typically beginning with "Hi, how are you," and filled in with random bits of information, possibly a joke or two and never really saying anything incredibly important, but fun to read nonetheless. Another fun sort of letter is hate mail, so long as it's not ticking. No offense to anyone, but sometimes hate mail is incredibly fun to read.

People will read things into what you say and insert their own meanings and phrases without even realizing it, then promptly make the effort to show you the light. Become a columnist sometime, and you'll know what I'm talking about.

I bet there's not a girl alive who didn't save the love letters that junior high and high school boyfriends sent them. Letters professing an undying "love" or how they worshiped your every move are always fun to go back and read on a rainy day, provided the relationship didn't end on a sour note.

Books of war letters are also nice to read. True emotions and thoughts make their way to the surface so much more easily when tomorrow isn't a surety, something taken for granted in our peaceful everyday lives.

Letters are just one of those simple pleasures that no one should do without. They're a ray of sunshine on a cloudy day, the marshmallows in your hot chocolate, your favorite song playing when you switch on the radio.

So, if you find time in your busy schedule, send someone a letter, braving paper cuts and postal glue, and show them you care.

Aimee is a freshman in pre-veterinary medicine. You can e-mail her at ain5544@k-state.edu.

ANDREW LAWSON

AIMEE NOEL

Pulitzer Prize winner speaks

Ron Olshwanger, a 1989 Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer, spoke at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art on Thursday evening. Olshwanger spoke about his photograph of a St. Louis, Mo., firefighter giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a 2-year-old girl.

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Photographer explains his prize-winning photograph

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Since Ron Olshwanger was a child, he has been interested in two things: fires and taking pictures.

Little did he know that when he combined his two interests, they would win him the 1989 Pulitzer Prize in photojournalism.

His photo, titled "Nothing I Could Do," is part of the traveling exhibit of Pulitzer Prize-winning photographs featured at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art until Sunday.

Olshwanger was asked to give a special presentation of his photograph Thursday night. Olshwanger's story may be called unique — he is not a photojournalist and has never taken a photography class.

"I consider myself to be an amateur photojournalist," Olshwanger said.

He said he is in private business, but doesn't go anywhere without his camera.

"I've made it a habit of strictly photographing fires," he said. "I have taken photos of homicides and accidents, but those are used for medical training."

The prize-winning photograph is of St. Louis firefighter Adam Long coming out of a burning building carrying a dead 2-year-old girl.

The photograph happened by accident, he said.

"I wasn't going to go to the fire, but then I saw the smoke," he said. "I was standing there, and I saw a firefighter coming out of the building with the girl."

A St. Louis Post-Dispatch photographer told Olshwanger

he had missed everything, so Olshwanger called him after he developed his film. The photos were published in the Post-Dispatch and about eight months later, he got a call that he had won the Pulitzer Prize.

Olshwanger received $3,000 for winning the prize. "I donated it to the city to buy smoke detectors for families who couldn't afford them," he said.

Since then, he has copy-righted his photograph, he said. He allows people to use it only for training and educational purposes.

Olshwanger said if someone is interested in photography, the most important thing he or she can do is not leave home without a camera.

"You never know when something's going to happen," he said.

Red Cross to teach disaster readiness

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The American Red Cross will be at Manhattan Town Center on Saturday to inform residents about disaster readiness.

Information will be available throughout the day near the mall's food court, and an emergency response vehicle will be on display, said Clay Myers-Bowman, executive director of the Flint Hills chapter of the American Red Cross.

There also will be blood drive, and classes on CPR and disaster management.

The information and classes are part of the Red Cross' national campaign, "Together We Prepare."

"It's to help us think about how to be better prepared in case of an emergency. We personalized it for local residents so it doesn't look like a national campaign," he said.

The Red Cross has worked

Red cross events

The American Red Cross will have informational booths, presentations and classes Saturday at the mall.

- 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.: Blood drive
- Noon: Presentation by Executive Director Clay Myers-Bowman
- 1 to 5 p.m.: CPR class
- 6 to 9 p.m.: Disaster class in conjunction with the mall previously to help inform Manhattan residents, Randy Crow, Town Center marketing director, said.

"It's more of an example of our Town Center mission and mentality," Crow said.

In addition to the classes and blood drive, Myers-Bowman will be giving a presentation at noon in the food court about specific steps one can take to be prepared for a disaster.

Having a plan, building a kit, being properly trained, volunteering and giving blood are essential steps to preparedness, Myers-Bowman said.

These five steps relate to all kinds of disasters, including natural disasters or terrorist attacks, because being prepared helps lessen the stress and anxiety once disasters hit, Myers-Bowman said.

Myers-Bowman said he feels the event is necessary for residents during times of war.

"Right now, there's a lot of stress and anxiety about the war and potential terrorist threats," he said.

"One of the best ways to alleviate that is to prepare yourself."

ADVERTISE
ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

PREGNANCY
TESTING CENTER

Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption.

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

HUNAM
Restaurant

Please present coupon

Buy 1 Buffet, Get 2nd half off

Reg. $6.95
Sunday-Thursday only
(not valid with any other offer) • Free Delivery (minimum $9 purchase)

Expires April 18, 2003

1304 Westloop 539-8888

Apply to be an Ambassador
in the College of Arts and Sciences

Applications available in 113 Eisenhower

Deadline
April 4th

got pancakes?

Who? K-State Student Chapters of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers and Agricultural Communications of Tomorrow
What? All-You-Can-Eat Pancake and Sausage Feed
When? March 29, 7 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
Where? 142 Seaton Hall
Why? Support ASAE and ACT Student Activities

Come one, come all and enjoy all the delicious pancakes and sausage you can eat during Open House activities and festivities. Purchase tickets in advance from members of ACT and ASAE or at the door. $3.50/person; $3.00/student; $1.50/child 5-12

XΩ THE WOMEN OF CHI OMEGA

would like to formally invite the following men to our Spring Formal

Jared Jaynes
Shawn Sparks
Tom Fletcher
Cade Butler
Paul Miller
Tom Bauer
Mark Hayes
Taylor Hartley
Tim Ellis
Ryan Wasinger
Michael Long
Andy Lyon
J.D. Nighswonger
Brian Cromwell
Jon Rhoades
Neal Troyer
Brett Bathurst
Eric Swan
Leaie Novak
Jesse Newton
Brandon Williams
Mike Maris
Peter Carter
Trevor Woolen
Jason Ingram
Joey Buckley
Johnny Brocius
Heath Starr
Evan Meyers
P.J. Kasper
Ian McDonald
Brian Schulte
Mark Stamper
Jason Boehm
Frank Moyers
Travis Brownrigg
Adam Clayton
Brett Springs

Cole Reichle
Andy Nielson
Ryan Sear
Ryan Kurlbaum
Eric Rome
John Rowland
Billy Casper
Tyler Emery
Tom Koppe
Chris Heck
Mindy Meinhardt
Bryan Kolchavar
Tim Zande
Ben Noyes
Matt Eski
Jacob Wilson
Marcus Watts
Sean Rhoads
Glen McMurrey
Ryan Rachel
Nathan Hall
Scott Grier
Dan Sebek
Jeremy Kruse
Matt Ledbetter
Ryan Schoonover
Kane Adams
Nate Carrier
Lance Stafford
John Sherrell
Jacob Scotty
Chris Mill
Travis Gulleddge
Sam Nave
Eric Kuller
Josh Thies
Eric Anderson
Nick Traugott

What people are saying about City Commissioner
Bruce Snead

"Bruce Snead has encouraged strong, steady growth while at the same time focusing on sustainability of our community's assets."

John and Mary Roberts

"Bruce is committed to Manhattan and maintaining a quality of life for individuals, families, and businesses."

John Tatarko

"Bruce Snead is a strong, intelligent, and savvy leader in our community and he deserves another term in Manhattan's City Commission."

Ben Champion

Re-elect
Bruce Snead
for
City Commission

Paid for by Bruce Snead for City Commission, Mark Knackendoffel, Treasurer

kevin wikk rock radio program

EVERY SATURDAY 3-7 PM

THIS WEEK:

→ IN THE STUDIO

↳ LOCO MACHOEN

↳ TO KICK OFF CD RELEASE PARTY IN THE
AND NEW TO THE SCENE, OPENERS:

Spent Time With

→ CD GIVEAWAYS & MOVIE TIX

Wildcat 91.9

contact : kwrr@yahoo.com

$2 ADULTS $1 14 & UNDER

Harry Potter
CHAMBER OF SECRETS

Fri. March 28 7:00 pm
Sat. March 29 9:30 pm
Sun. March 30 8:00 pm

Forum Hall
Ground Floor
K-State Student Union

Track rules change

Season starts with new rules

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As students across campus shed the sweaters of winter and don the shorts of summer, K-State track is taking a breath of fresh air as well.

The indoor track season is over, the Cats will begin anew Saturday with their first competition of the outdoor season.

K-State will compete at the Arizona State Invitational in Tempe, Ariz., and the Stanford Invitational in Palo Alto, Calif., but don't look for any records to be broken just yet.

"A lot of the time, early season meets are just glorified practices," coach Cliff Rovelto said. "That will definitely be true this weekend."

Rovelto said the continuing construction on K-State's home R.V. Christian Track has proven to be a major hurdle in preparing for the season.

Without a track to work on, athletes have had to make due. The runners have been relegated to the facilities at Manhattan High School and throwers have found new places to work. But others haven't been as lucky.

"In some cases, just getting the opportunity to get outside and work will be important," Rovelto said of this weekend's activities.

When the Wildcats do emerge from Ahearn Field House this weekend, they will be faced with more than just the cramps from a long stay in the dark arena.

They will confront the new face of NCAA Track and Field, too.

This year, the NCAA has instituted a new set of guidelines for national qualifying. In previous years, the NCAA set a mark in order to qualify. Now, in an effort to balance the playing field between the colder Northern schools and those in the warmer, southern states, teams will compete at a regional and only the winners will advance.

The new rule could mean vast changes in training strategy for collegiate coaches.

"In the past, you could go out this week, run fast, throw far, qualify for nationals, and it wouldn't matter what you did between now and the nationals meet," he said. "Now it's going to be a lot more difficult for the individual. There will also be more pressure on the coaches to have someone ready on a given day."

The Cats' drive to nationals gets underway Friday at the Stanford Invitational. At 9:30 a.m. Saturday, the throwing events will start at Arizona State. Following this weekend's action, K-State will compete at the Texas Relays in Austin and the Emporia Relays in Emporia, Kan.

DEFENSE DILEMMAS

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Tim Doty looks the ball in as Wichita State's Bryan Erstad dives back into the base Wednesday at Tointon Family Stadium.

Wildcats try to mend their defense concerns

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Everyone inside K-State's baseball family knew it was coming. They just hoped it would have come and gone by now.

K-State's inexperience from the mound has shown during the Cats' five-game losing streak. Twelve new pitchers were on the roster this spring and the inexperience might have been expected, but coaches hoped it would be ironed out by the time K-State opened Big 12 play.

But as Missouri comes to Manhattan this weekend for a three-game series, pitching is still the main concern for Coach Mike Clark.

"We don't want to make it into a bigger thing than it is," he said. "We knew we had a lot of inexperienced guys. We were walking a real fine edge when we lost Mitch (Walter) and Terry (Montoya) to injuries that made it even tougher. (Kevin) Melcher comes out and struggles. When we went to Nebraska, we went out

Schedule

Friday

KS Jim Ripley (2-1, 4.85 ERA) vs. MU Justin James (3-3, 3.40 ERA)

Saturday

KS Sean Clancy (1-1, 5.73 ERA) vs. MU Garrett Brosenius (3-2, 6.69 ERA)

Sunday

KS TBA vs. MU Derrick Roeper (3-1, 4.32 ERA) and started three pitchers that had never thrown a Big 12 game before."

K-State lost all three of those contests to open conference play 0-3.

The defense also has been cause for concern. K-State has committed six errors in the last two games. Clark said both the weather and lack of games at home have contributed to the poor play in the field.

"Everywhere we've been playing has had rain, so we haven't been able to take infield," he said. "It's tough to get into a rhythm, because the only time we're taking ground balls is during the ballgame."

Left fielder Pat Maloney said not all the blame can be placed on the pitchers — the defense has contributed its fair share also.

"I don't think we feel as much pressure offensively as we do defensively right now," Maloney said.

Missouri is 3-0 in conference play and leads the Big 12 in runs scored at 8.8 runs a game.

"We just have to throw strikes," Clark said. "We have to make a defensive play when we need to. If you took the number of five- or six-run innings that we've given up and changed those even just to one or a two run inning, we'd be 15-7. We've just got to stay out of the big inning."

Junior Jim Ripley (2-1, 4.85 ERA) will get the start for K-State today, as the Cats face the Tigers at 3 p.m. at Tointon Family Stadium. Missouri will send sophomore Justin James (3-3, 3.40 ERA) to the mound.

"I don't really feel any pressure," Ripley said. "I know my job and what I have to do."

Missouri series critical gauge for baseball team

How desperate is Coach Mike Clark for a win?

After K-State's 14-10 loss to Wichita State extended the Cats' longest losing streak in two years to five games Wednesday, Clark hinted there might be a few changes to the Cats' lineup for today's Big 12 home opener against Missouri.

Actually, Clark's post-WSU rant sounded more like a warning to his team: Shape up or ship out.

"We've got a pattern," Clark said, "and the only way you stop it is to get different personnel."

The slide began during K-State's 11-9 loss to Nebraska on March 23, when the Cats committed three errors in a five-run fifth inning.

Clark's club self destructed again two days later in Omaha against Creighton. K-State pitchers allowed 11 runs on nine hits, issued 11 walks and hit three batters in an 11-6 loss to the Bluejays.

On Wednesday, after building leads of 3-1 and 4-3 by the fifth inning, K-State's pitching and defensive demons returned.

Jonathan Gutierrez served up a grand slam to Shocker second baseman Phil Napolitan in the sixth, and the Cats turned in a three-error debacle in WSU's half of the seventh.

The effort had Clark steamed.

To say the least, K-State's clubhouse was not a place for niceties following the game.

Neither was Thursday's practice, as Clark returned to basics in preparation for the Cats' weekend set with the Tigers.

"At this point, we've given some of these kids great opportunities to have this job. But the last two weeks they haven't done anything to keep them," Clark said after the game.

Statistically, Clark couldn't be more right. Over the last 10 games, K-State has committed 20 errors, including nine in the Cats' last three contests.

The Cats haven't held an opponent to single digits in five contests, a streak dating back to K-State's 21-2 win over Rider on March 19.

At this point, Clark is looking for the smallest semblance of something positive to happen.

"We're fighting and we're competing," Clark said, "but there's a difference at this level between competing and making plays."

If the Cats don't start making plays soon, K-State's hopes of returning to the postseason will bounce away quicker than a hard-hit grounder up the middle.

The Cats' 0-3 start in conference play is nothing new. K-State has started six of seven seasons in the Big 12 that way.

But, if the Cats can't come up with something good this weekend, K-State might be in for a long spring.

Dan is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at dansmith@k-state.edu.

DAN SMITH

Tennis team finishes road trip against Iowa State, Missouri this weekend

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The 54th-ranked K-State tennis team will resume Big 12 play this weekend with one thing on its mind — the season is still wide open.

The Cats will take on Iowa State (2-10, 0-6) at 1 p.m. today and Missouri (10-3, 4-2) at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Texas, which entered last weekend undefeated in Big 12 play, suffered a 4-3 loss at the hands of Oklahoma. The Longhorns' defeat leaves no clear-cut leader in the Big 12, and many teams, including the Cats are scrambling to make up ground.

"It's a wide open year," Coach Steve Bietau said. "At the beginning of the season we felt like it was Texas and a large group after that. I think the season at this point is working like we expected, if not more so. I don't see a really great team up here, but I see a lot of good teams."

The Cats (7-4, 2-2) will square off against one of the "good teams" on Saturday in Missouri. The 34th-ranked Tigers are fifth in the Big 12 standings, one spot ahead of K-State.

One key for the Cats this weekend will be improvement in doubles play. Bietau said. K-State has lost five of its last six doubles points.

"We're always looking to play better in the doubles," Bietau said. "Our performance in that area recently just puts a higher premium on us figuring something out."

K-State opens play today against the cellar-dwelling Cyclones, who have yet to win a Big 12 match this season and sit in 12th place in the conference. The Cats haven't lost to Iowa State since 1991.

With the season winding down and the Big 12 Tournament looming on the horizon, Bietau said his team needs to remain focused and win matches down the stretch.

"We're down to the part of the season where we're obviously looking to

Projected weekend matchups

Singles

1. Petra Sedlmajerova, K-State vs. Sabrina Evers, ISU (Urska Juric, UM)
2. Maria Rosenberg, K-State vs. Tara Goedjen, ISU (Katka Sevcikova, UM)
3. Jessica Simosa, K-State vs. Courtney Leese, ISU (Hana Kraftova, UM)
4. Paulina Castillejos, K-State vs. Evangelina Soriano, ISU (Kristina Olshanskaya, UM)
5. Hayley McIver, K-State vs. Charlotte Ljungkrantz, ISU win matches," he said. "We always work to play our best and, to add to that, play our best when it really matters most. We're really coming into that time here where our fate at the end of the year and what kind of team we ultimately become is going to be decided in these next weeks."

One positive for the Cats down the stretch will be the fact that four out of their last five matches will be at home.

"It'll be nice not to travel," Bietau

Doubles

1. Cooper/Simosa, K-State vs. Evers/Rutten, ISU (Juric/Sevcikova, UM)
2. Sedlmajerova/Castillejos, K-State vs. Goedjen/Elizabeth Chermel, ISU (Kraftova/Barry, UM)
3. McIver/Rosenberg, K-State vs. Soriano/Leese (Olshanskaya/Ruskova, UM) said. "Our players have handled this stretch in a positive way and have found some ways to get better. We just need for that to continue."

During this important stretch of the season, Bietau said he is looking for any way to make his team better.

"It's important that everyone in our program have a really open mind in approach to things and we stick to the idea of constantly looking for small improvements," he said.

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College basketball | Harrick resigns
Georgia coach Jim Harrick resigned Thursday amid a scandal in the basketball program that also cost his son a job as an assistant.

Harrick was suspended with pay March 10 pending a joint investigation by the university, the NCAA and the Southeastern Conference into alleged academic fraud.

The scandal prompted the school to ban the No. 25 Bulldogs (19-8) from playing in the SEC and NCAA tournaments.

The decision came after it was discovered that at least one player received an A in a class taught by assistant coach Jim Harrick Jr. despite never attending.

University officials said that under a resignation agreement, the elder Harrick will receive his remaining base pay, broadcast payments and a Nike payment, which total $254,166.

PGA | Woods trailing at TPC

One year away from the Champions Tour, Jay Haas pieced together a 4-under 68 in swirling winds and under the threat of rain to share the clubhouse lead with Rocco Mediate, Bob Tway and Skip Kendall on Thursday at the The Players' Championship.

All of the leaders are in their 40s, except for Kendall — he's a spry 38.

Tiger Woods, coming off an 11-stroke victory at Bay Hill for his third win in four tournaments this year, spent most of his morning playing from ankle-deep grass and rallied over the final few holes for an even-par 72.

MLB | Astros released

After focusing the entire spring on finding a fifth starter, the Houston Astros surprisingly placed veteran Shane Reynolds on waivers Thursday to make room for young pitchers Tim Lincecum and Jeremie Robertson in their starting rotation.

Reynolds, who said he had fully recovered from a season-ending back operation last summer, had been effective at times during spring training despite an 0-1 record and 5.87 ERA. In 23 innings, he allowed nine home runs, 15 earned runs and 30 hits.

MLB | Woman testifies against Puckett

Pausing several times and fighting back tears, a woman testified Thursday that she struggled against a violent attack by former Twins star Kirby Puckett that left her afraid she would be raped.

On the first day of Puckett's trial on sexual assault and other charges, jurors began sifting through two different versions of what happened in a suburban restaurant on Sept. 6.

His accuser said Puckett grabbed her arm shortly after midnight and began tugging her toward the bathroom.

MLB | Mets' bench coach has cancer

New York Mets coach Don Baylor has been diagnosed with cancer in his bone marrow but hopes the chemotherapy treatments won't cause him to miss any games.

Baylor, 53, will undergo four days of oral and intravenous chemotherapy beginning Tuesday — the day after the Mets open the season.

Staff and wire reports

Football | 2003 Player reps announced

Coach Bill Snyder released a list of K-State's eight player representatives Thursday.

"The role of these leaders will be to promote those traits which they each possess: unselfishness, team concepts, unity, strong work habits, great attitude and a strong commitment toward achieving success," Snyder said in a press release.

The representatives are listed below:

LB Josh Buhl (Sr.) DE Andrew Shull (Sr.)
TE Thomas Hill (Sr.) RB Darren Sprioles (Jr.)
OL Nick Leckey (Sr.) SS Rashad Washington (Sr.)
QB Eli Robertson (Sr.) FB Travis Wilson (Sr.)

BY THE NUMBERS

Statistical comparison

K-State has taken six in a row from Missouri, but the Tigers could be catching the Cats at the right time. Coach Mike Clark's squad is mired in a five-game losing streak.

K-State	Category	Missouri
10-12	Overall record	16-8
306	Batting average	.314
19	Home runs	21
383	Total bases	375
.455	Slugging percentage	.464
20	Ground-into double play	7
.388	On-base percentage	.426
17	Stolen bases	35
.952	Fielding percentage	.957
201	Runners stranded	184
18	Double plays	13
6.34	ERA	4.11
.307	Opponent's batting average	.235

CRIPPLING DIALOGUE

Newly released war movie seems unreal in light of war in Iraq; plot seems incomplete

Though fictional, "Tears of the Sun" blends horrifying images of war with glimpses of human compassion to connect with and draw in the audience.

Bruce Willis ("Bandits," "Hart's War") stars as Lt. A.K. Smith, assigned to lead a group of Navy SEALs into the heart of Nigeria to extract an American doctor, Lena Kendricks (Monica Bellucci, "The Brotherhood of the Wolf"). The nation is in the grip of a civil war between Muslim and Christian groups. Lena refuses to leave the African refugees at the mission, and Lt. Smith finally agrees to help lead her patients to an American post in Cameroon.

However, the travelers find they are being tailed by rebel guerrillas. Lt. Smith learns that the son of the recently assassinated Nigerian president is hiding within the group of refugees, and the opposition will take any means necessary to get rid of this individual. To make matters worse, Lt. Smith's superior is unable to send assistance by air.

"Tears of the Sun" hits the theaters in an environment bound to elicit mixed responses. In light of the real war America is facing, a made-up one might seem unreal and trivial. In addition, the political background of this film is sketchy and incomplete. The tale doesn't seem to fit into the big picture very well.

Cheesy dialogue cripples some of the intense moments, though the actors generally have enough skill to keep the ridiculous lines from being blatantly obvious. The pacing is also quirky. After a quick start, the action starts to stagnate.

Considering how much screen time is devoted to edge-of-your-seat suspense, graphic combat scenes and stunning displays of brutality, the amount of empathy for the characters the film draws is impressive. Several short segments depicting interaction among and between the refugees and soldiers instills a compelling human element to the story.

Willis delivers an impressive performance, occasionally allowing Smith's inner doubts and turmoil to break through his crusty, jaded exterior. There are moments when the questions and pain churning in his head can be read plainly on his face.

He is supported by talented men and women. Their gut feelings to separation from loved ones, death and the cruelties of war are truly heart wrenching. In particular, the SEALs' intervention in the ethnic cleansing of a small village is impossible to watch and remain stone-faced.

A quote by Edmund Burke that flashed across the screen after the final scene summed up a powerful message from the movie. "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

"TEARS OF THE SUN"

★★★★☆

Movie review by Wendy Gorman

Courtesy art

Paltrow, Myers crash in comedic airline flick

"VIEW FROM THE TOP"

★★★★☆

Movie review by JJ Duncan

Trying to salvage bits of comedy from this 747 wreckage is about as tough as trying to figure out why Gwyneth Paltrow did the film in the first place.

Paltrow's star appeal and the presence of comedic mastermind Mike Myers in a small role couldn't save this doomed movie. "View From the Top" is a shoddy screenplay with a predictable plot that goes light on actual comedy.

Paltrow is Donna, a small-town, white-trash Nevada girl who dreams of living a life bigger than what her trailer park offers. After being dumped, she decides to become a flight attendant but that isn't nearly as glamorous as she thought it would be. Then, she and her fellow small-time flight attendants try getting jobs at the prestigious Royalty Airlines.

Paltrow is a natural flight attendant and outshines her friends. Wow, now that's an inspirational story for following your dreams.

Along the way, Paltrow falls in love and has to choose between the guy and her career. Who would have ever seen that coming?

Excuse me while I pull my tongue from my cheek, but seriously, this movie elicits more groans than when "Kangaroo Jack" hopped into No. 1 at the box office a couple months back. It's a bad movie.

As far as comedic relief, the movie has its moments, but every one of them are in the previews. Yeah, Mike Myers is funny every now and then as the tough flight attendant instructor, but it sounds more like his humor was the result of his notorious improvisation on the set, not a witty script.

It is movies like this that are the kind that make me feel ripped off by the studios.

Johnny Cash's latest gravely musical effort may force listeners into state of mourning

"AMERICAN IV: THE MAN COMES AROUND"

★★★★☆

Music review by Matthew Webber

When you hear Johnny Cash's cover of Nine Inch Nails' "Hurt" — and especially when you see the video — you can't deny it: Cash sounds and looks like he is dying. The man who once sang that he shot a man in Reno just to watch him die is near death, and we, unwittingly, have to watch.

When Cash sings, "Every one I know goes away in the end," I realize I don't want "to have it all." I don't want his "empire of dirt."

Although the raw pain of "Hurt" was already beautiful to hear, Cash's version becomes even more poignant because of its admittance and acceptance of fate.

Cash's newest album, "American IV: The Man Comes Around," might serve as his last will and testament.

It already sounds like a requiem for himself or the Book of Revelations with acoustic guitar.

The album's sepulchral tone is unique to popular music.

Cash and gangsta rappers have long sung of capping people. It's harder to recall an artist singing about aging, infirmity and mortality with such candor.

His gravelly voice, which has never been lower or grittier, also sounds alive. If Cash has embraced his end, he's also fighting it.

He's going down, guns blazing, aiming to take you with him.

"I killed a man they said," he sings in "Sam Hall." "And I smashed in his head/And I left him laying dead/Damn his eyes!"

Oops! In "I Hung My Head," he did it again, this time unintentionally.

He shot a man, but he didn't mean to pull the trigger.

He was practicing his aim when the gun went off. He's not that innocent.

Cash has never been more relevant or hip. Rick

Rubin produced "The Man Comes Around," as he has the other albums in the "American" series.

The album features more guest appearances than a P. Diddy remix: Fiona Apple, Don Henley, Nick Cave, Randy Scruggs and Heartbreakers Benmont Tench and Mike Campbell sing or play on various tracks.

The covers could sound gimmicky, if they weren't sung and played with such somber respect.

Cash's favorite themes have always been love, God and murder, so it's hard to distinguish "Bridge Over Troubled Water," "Personal Jesus," "Danny Boy," "Desperado" and the Beatles' "In My Life" from Cash's originals.

He ends the album with "We'll Meet Again," which here sounds like a eulogy: "We'll meet again/Don't know where/Don't know when/But I know we'll meet again/Some sunny day."

I hope the Man in Black will live to record another "American" album, but I'm already wearing black in mourning.

CALENDAR

- The Peking Opera of Jilin performance is canceled for tonight.
- Mike West will perform at 10 tonight at Auntie Mae's Parlor.
- Binge will perform at 9 tonight at Gumby's Pizza and Pub.

MOVIES

Seth Childs Cinema

All times are p.m.

"A View From the Top"

9:35

A young woman with meager beginnings with a dream to become a first-class international flight attendant.

www.miramax.com/viewfromthetop

"Agent Cody Banks"

1:30, 4:30, 7:30, 10

Cody Banks (Frankie Muniz) is a typical teen, but he's got a secret — he's a secret agent.

www.agentcodybanksmovie.com

"Basic"

1:10, 4:15, 7:05, 9:35

When a legendary commander (Samuel L. Jackson) and several of his men turn up missing, the last thing the government wants is a rogue DEA agent (John Travolta) investigating the disappearance.

www.sonypictures.com/movies/basic

"Boat Trip"

1:30, 4:20, 7:30, 9:50

Hoping to get his mind off his ex-girlfriend Felicia, heart-broken Jerry decides to join his best friend Nick on a tropical singles cruise.

www.boattripthemovie.com

"Bringing Down the House"

1:20, 4:15, 7:20, 9:55

Peter Sanderson (Steve Martin) is a divorced, uptight attorney smitten with a woman Charlene (Queen Latifah), who turns out to be a prison escapee who's proclaiming her innocence.

movies.yahoo.com/house

"Chicago"

1:15, 4:15, 7:10, 9:55

Velma Kelly, a vaudevillian, tells the story of chorus girl Roxie Hart's murder of a night-club regular.

www.chicagothemusical.com

"The Core"

1, 4, 7, 10

When 17 people suddenly drop dead within a 10-block radius in Boston, the government calls in scientists to determine if the deaths are due to a covert enemy electromagnetic weapon.

www.thecoremovie.com

"Dreamcatcher"

1, 4, 7, 9:45

Four young friends perform a heroic act and are changed forever by the uncanny powers they gain in return.

dreamcatchermovie.warnerbros.com

"Head of State"

1:30, 4:30, 7:10, 9:35

A Washington, D.C. neighborhood alderman is plucked from obscurity and thrust into the limelight as his party's nominee for President of the United States.

www.headofstate-themovie.com

"The Hunted"

1:20, 4:20, 7:20, 9:45

The bond between two men is revealed during the bloodiest of fighting in Kosovo.

www.huntedmovie.com

"Old School"

1:35, 4:35, 7:15, 9:40

Three men are disenchanted with life and try to recapture their college days.

www.oldschool-themovie.com

"Piglet's Big Movie"

12:30, 2:35, 5, 7:15

Piglet moves to center stage for a story of friendship, as the gang from Hundred Acre Wood learns it doesn't take somebody big to do big things.

disney.go.com/disneypictures/piglet

"Tears of the Sun"

1, 4, 7, 9:55

Lt. Waters travels to war-torn central Africa to rescue Dr. Lena Kendricks (Monica Bellucci), a U.S. citizen who runs a mission in the countryside.

www.sonypictures.com/movies/tearsofthesun

Misdirection | Scranton Goldwater

scrantwater@hotmail.com

That's the Spirit | Stefanie Shank

sshank_is@hotmail.com

CLASSIFIEDS

Page 8

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, March 28, 2003

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

A ONE OR two-bedroom Close to campus. August 1. (785)317-7713.

A THREE-BEDROOM apartment. Close to campus. (785)317-7713.

ACROSS STREET from campus/ Aggieville. Three-bedroom/ gas, water paid. $900/ month. June lease. (785)749-2865.

AGGIEVILLE/ CAMPUS, best deals around! One, two, three four and five-bedrooms available for June or August. Various locations. (785)770-3722.

APARTMENTS AVAILABLE June. Two-bedroom duplex, four-bedroom duplex, one-bedroom basement, two-bedroom basement. All one-half block from KSU. Choose now before they're gone. No pets. (785)556-6899.

AVAILABLE AUGUST two-bedroom apartment across from City Park, with washer/ dryer in each unit. Water/ trash paid. $585/ month. Year lease, no pets. (785)539-0222.

AVAILABLE AUGUST- Pre-leasing for August, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location and size. (785)537-9740 or (785)556-2104.

FOR AUGUST: next to KSU Deluxe two-bedroom apartment 350 N. 16th, near Nichols Hall. Equipped modern kitchen, central air, dishwasher, disposal, laundry facility. Tenant pays only electric. Starting $350. (785)539-2482.

FOUR AND FIVE-BEDROOM apartments and houses. June or August leasing. No pets. Close to campus. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

FOUR BED APARTMENT available August 1st. Close to Aggieville. $840 plus four-sixth of utilities. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. (785)632-5211 or cell (785)632-1759.

FOUR-BEDROOM one block from Aggieville and campus. One bath, central air, pets considered. $975. (785)770-3722.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO and one-half bath, brand new duplex. Be the first to live in. All appliances including washer and dryer. August 1. No pets. (785)556-6899.

JUNE AND AUGUST. Studio, one, two, three, four-bedroom house/ apartment. Central heat/ air-conditioning, washer/ dryer. Close to campus. (785)587-9460.

NEAR CAMPUS, unique studio cottage 909 Kearney (alley). $299 monthly. Water/ trash paid. August lease. No pets. (785)539-0549.

NEW DUPLEXES. Two, three, and four-bedroom. All appliances. Washer/ dryer hookups. Available June 1. Call (785)341-2269.

NEW TOWNHOMES. Two and three-bedrooms. $750-$900. Manhattan Rentals. (785)341-4496.

NEW, DIFFERENT, Wildcat Village at Stadium Place. Four-bedroom luxury living with safe room in each unit. Large bedrooms with walk-in closets. Two separate living room areas. All appliances including washer, dryer and microwave hood. High efficiency heating and cooling, expanded basic cable TV and cable internet provided. Ready for May occupancy. (785)776-2425.

NEXT TO CAMPUS. One two, three, four, six-bedroom, houses, apartments. Central air. Free washer/ dryer. No pets. Available summer, fall. (785)537-7050.

ONE AND three-bedrooms one block from campus. Dishwasher, one and one-half, laundry facilities in complex. Available August 1. (785)537-7810 or (785)537-2255.

ONE, TWO, three, four-bedroom apartments, houses, and combo duplexes. June, August leases. Good locations. (785)539-4440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. All bills paid. Washer/ dryer. $450/ month. (785)341-4496.

SPACIOUS TWO AND THREE-BEDROOMS. Close to campus with fireplace, balcony central air, dishwasher, and laundry facilities. June or August. (785)539-0866.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath apartment three blocks to campus/ Aggieville. Excellent condition. Water/ laundry paid. Cheap utilities. Landlord August lease. $275/ bedroom. (785)776-4166.

TWO AND three-bedroom units available for August 2003 starting at $590 per month. Call Chase Manhattan Apartments (785)776-3663, one-half mile from K-State, at the corner of College and Clinton.

TWO STUDIO apartments. June or August lease. No pets. 1030 Kearney Street. Call (785)537-0177.

TWO, THREE-BEDROOM one and one-half bath. Central air/ heat. Laundry facilities. Close to campus. (785)537-1746.

TWO-BEDROOM apartment, one block to campus. Off-street parking, water/ trash paid. $600. (785)776-9225 evenings. (785)564-1197 daytime.

TWO-BEDROOM close to campus. Water and trash paid. $585 per month. (785)341-4496.

get results...
ADVERTISE.
CLASSIFIEDS
• 532-6555 •

115 Rooms Available

ROOMS AVAILABLE for end of May and August. Rent $230/ month plus share utilities. Close to campus, washer and dryer. Call Jake at (785)539-4904, 911 N. 11th St.

120 For Rent-Houses

A FOUR-BEDROOM house, nice, near campus. June 1st. Call (785)317-7713.

A SIX OR Seven-bedroom house, three baths. Close to campus. Available June 1. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Six-bedroom, two bath, two kitchens. Located across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Central air, fireplace, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. Rent $275/ person plus utilities, lease and deposit. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 2nd. Four-bedroom, central air, washer/ dryer at 1011 Laramie. $275/ person plus utilities, lease, and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE-BEDROOM HOUSE two bath, two kitchens. Living room, family room, central air, dishwasher, stove, refrigerators, laundry hookups. No pets. June lease. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

FIVE-BEDROOM, TWO bath and three-bedroom, one bath, central air, washer/ dryer, close to campus. June lease (785)770-3722.

FOR RENT, four-bedroom house. Close to campus, off-street parking, washer/ dryer. (785)449-2181.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE, walk to Aggieville. Two bath, no pets, bar, June lease. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296 or (785)313-8292.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath. Central air. Hardwood floors. Washer/ dryer. Very clean. No pets. June lease. $1100. (785)336-6286 or (785)770-0062.

GREAT LANDLORD with great houses. Roomy, spacious, and updated three and six-bedroom houses. Central air, washer, dryer, no pets. June lease. (785)313-4812.

NEAR CAMPUS, four, five and eight-bedroom houses. Multiple bathrooms, kitchens. Central air, washer, dryer. June and August leases. No pets. (785)539-0549.

NEWLY REMODELED four-bedroom two bath. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. Close to KSU. Available August 1. Call (785)770-8733, leave message.

SIX TO SEVEN-BEDROOMS. Three bath. Washer/ dryer hookups. August lease. (785)537-6017.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE close to campus, $750/ month. One-bedroom basement apartment, $300/ month. No pets. Open House, Sunday, March 30th, 1pm-3pm 1112 Thurston. (913)208-9029.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE, one-half block from campus. water/ trash paid. Off-street parking $900. (785)776-9225 evenings. (785)564-1197 daytime.

THREE-BEDROOM, SPACIOUS, west of City Park. Washer, dryer, dishwasher. June 1. $900. (785)532-4424/ (785)537-9425.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath main floor apartment. June 1. $750/ month. 709 Blumont. Washer/ dryer window air conditioning. (785)539-4949.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bathroom, basement apartment. $675/ month. Washer/ dryer, window air-conditioning. 709 Blumont. June lease. (785)539-4949.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment. June lease, $450 per month. Washer/ dryer. 931 Vattier. (785)539-4949, leave message.

FOR SALE: 1999 Atlantic mobile home. Three-bedroom, two bath, corner lot in quiet park. (785)323-1966.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Available June 1st. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

MALE ROOMMATE needed now through end of May. Washer/ dryer, window air conditioner. Price negotiable. 931 Vattier (785)539-4949.

TWO FEMALE roommates needed for nice, four-bedroom house. No smoking. Washer/ dryer. Trash paid. Near campus. $300/ month. (785)537-1219.

150 Sublease

SUBLEASE AVAILABLE now through July 31. Two-bedroom Woodway Apartments $580 per month. (785)539-5907.

SUMMER SUBLEASE AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large two-bedroom close to campus and Aggieville. Water and trash paid. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher, and off-street parking. (785)537-3287.

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

Spacious Apartments
• 2 Bedrooms
• Walk to Campus
• Ample Parking
• Quiet Conditions
• Furn. or Unfurn.
• Reasonable Rates
• Washer/Dryer
539-3638

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

1112 BLUEMONT one block to campus- one and two-bedroom available August 1. (785)776-9288 or (785)776-0683.

1219 KEARNEY One-bedroom basement. June 1st. Year lease. Across street from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Off-street parking. $310. (785)539-5136.

1219 KEARNEY One-bedroom June 1st year lease. Across street from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Off-street parking. $340. (785)539-5136.

14 N. 9th Open House Saturday, March 29th, 4-5pm. Three-bedroom, two bath $690 including water and trash. June 1. Open House. Saturday, March 29th, 5-6pm. Two-bedroom 100%. Remodeled. $450 including water and trash. June 1. No smoking, pets, waterbeds. (785)537-7431.

814 THURSTON two-bedroom June 1st year lease. No pets. Water/ trash paid. $530. (785)539-5136.

911 SUNSET four-bedroom and one-bedroom- one block to campus- washer/ dryer provided. Available August 1. (785)776-9288 or (785)776-0683.

AVAILABLE JUNE or August. Two, three, four, five and six-bedroom. Close to campus. Year leasing. No pets. (785)539-2551.

FEMALES WANTED. Close to campus. $180/ month. Available May 16 to the third week in August. Four-bedroom, two bath. Washer/ dryer. Reserved parking. Call Mrs. Guest (785)776-9746.

NOW LEASING FOR FALL
• Cambridge Sq.
• Sandstone Apts.
• 2000 College Heights
• 1 LEASED
• 1 LEASED
• Forrest Creek Town Homes

537-9064
Weekdays 9am-5pm
Saturdays 10am-3pm
www.thecolpages.com

100 housing real estate

WANTED: MR. FIX IT
We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

LARGE, FOUR-BEDROOM, two bath, ultra modern, with private laundry facilities, seven blocks to campus. Non-smoker. (785)776-1717.

Park Place Apartments
Affordable Prices
1, 2 & 3 Bedrooms
$49.2951

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Walk to campus. Excellent Condition. http://www.rentkstate.com (785)776-4166 or rentkstate@lycos.com

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

4 BEDROOM APARTMENTS
1620 McCain
Starting at $900
Available for June and August
2 full baths
Laundry facilities
Off Street Parking
CLOSE TO CAMPUS
776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com

McCullough Development

ROYAL TOWERS
3 & 4 Bedroom APARTMENTS
• 1500 sq. ft.
• Starting at $780/mo.
• Close to Campus
• Large Bedrooms
• Hollywood Baths
• Resident Center with 6 full-sized washers & dryers.
• Economical
CALL 776-3804
www.mdi-manhattan.com
McCullough Development
210 N. 4th St. C

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available. Four-bedroom two bath house. Male or female, washer/ dryer, off-street parking, smoke-free, pets considered. $300/ month. Negotiable. (785)537-1948.

120 For Rent-Houses

2505 WINNE. Beautifully remodeled brick ranch, three-bedroom home, $900, immaculate condition. Available June 1. No pets, new central air-conditioning, close to KSU. (785)776-1213, day, (785)776-7706, evenings.

913 RATONE. Very nice four-bedroom, two bath, central air, dishwasher, laundry. No pets. June lease. $300/ bedroom. (785)556-5668.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1, 426 N. 17th, duplex, second floor. One-bedroom, fireplace, central air, outside deck, washer, dryer. $425/ month plus utilities, deposit, lease. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Large duplex, 426 N. 17th. Two-bedroom, fireplace, outside porch, patio, central air, washer, dryer. $660/ month plus utilities, deposit, lease. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Six-bedroom, two bath, two kitchens. Located across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Central air, fireplace, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. Rent $275/ person plus utilities, lease and deposit. (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 2nd. Four-bedroom, central air, washer/ dryer at 1011 Laramie. $275/ person plus utilities, lease, and deposit. (785)539-3672.

FIVE, SIX-BEDROOM house, three bath, two kitchens. Central air, washer/ dryer. Available August 1st. (785)539-0939.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE near city park. Washer/ dryer hookups, central air. Available August 1. (785)539-1145.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, across from campus. Off-street parking, central air, appliances, washer/ dryer. No pets, available August 1. (785)537-6032.

ONE-BEDROOM NOW. Northwest of KSU could be furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT near campus. Off-street parking, laundry facilities included, no pets. Available August 1. (785)336-2784.

THREE-BEDROOMS. All amenities. August leases. Close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)539-4641.

TWO, THREE, and four-bedroom apartments, central air, June lease. Very nice. (785)313-2443.

TWO-BEDROOM. NO pets or smokers. 624 Blumont. $500 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath, available June 1. Washer/ dryer provided. $520. Water, trash paid. 405 North 10th. (785)539-0939.

WANTED FEMALE roommates to share nice five-bedroom, two and one-half bath townhouse. Central air and heat, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. Low utilities. (785)336-2313 after 5pm or leave a message.

NOW LEASING
Leased our 1 & 2 bedrooms
3 BR From $753
4 BR From $904

Kimball & College Aves.
Across from KSU stadium
Please call for an appointment
537-7007

ADVERTISE
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
532-6555

115 Rooms Available

NICE FOUR-BEDROOM house. Close to campus. Washer/ Dryer hookups. No pets/ smoking. June contract. $1100. 1524 Hartford. (785)759-3520 or (785)565-2487.

120 For Rent-Houses

ONE, TWO, three, four, five, six-bedroom houses and apartments. Available June, July, August. www.rentapm.com. (785)539-4357.

SIX-BEDROOM HOUSE/ duplex, three-bedroom, washer/ dryer free. Good condition. Two-bedroom duplex very nice. No pets. (785)537-2289.

THREE, FOUR, and five-bedroom houses available. No pets. Call Stacey Hoffman with Hallmark Homes Real estate. (785)539-6096.

THREE-BEDROOM COULD be furnished for August. Walk to campus. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, washer, dryer, no pets or smokers. 515 Vattier. $900 plus utilities. August lease. Monday- Friday. (785)776-4805.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, attached garage, fence, central air, appliances, available June, $900. (785)537-8420/ (785)341-5346.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for August lease in four-bedroom duplex, one block east of campus. Washer/ dryer/ dishwasher/ cable internet. $250 plus one-fourth utilities. Call (785)776-4260.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for nice, two-bedroom apartment. Split utilities, water and trash paid. Available August. Call Lauren (785)539-5430.

FEMALE roommate wanted for house walk to campus. Split utilities, trash paid. Call for details. Amy (785)776-9914.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted three-bedroom house, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. Water, trash, three-quarters gas paid. $232/ person/ month. 1030 Humboldt. (785)587-9786.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. One block to campus. $250, utilities paid. Pets considered. Call (785)537-4947.

MALE FOR lower level now. All furnished, washer/ dryer without meter, walk to campus. $180 plus utilities. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

NEEDED IMMEDIATELY for lower level. Male. Walk to class. Washer/ dryer without meter. All furnished. No smoking, drinking, pets. $180 plus utilities. (785)539-1554.

ONE to two-bedrooms immediately available. Brittany Ridge Apartments. No deposit. (913)486-9144.

ROOMMATE WANTED for nice three-bedroom, two bath duplex. Washer/ dryer provided. $260 plus one-third utilities. June 1. Jenny (785)770-8284.

ROOMMATE WANTED now through end of July. Central air, off-street parking, high-speed internet, no smoking/ pets. 715 Laramie. (785)313-6084.

TWO ROOMMATES needed for a five-bedroom town house. Washer/ dryer included, very nice. Call (785)539-8834.

HAVE THREE open rooms in great house this summer. Huge rooms, pool access, sand volleyball court and more. Please call Katie at (785)317-3177 or call (785)587-9275.

SUBLEASE APRIL or May through July 31st. One-bedroom at Chase Manhattan Apartments. Call now. (785)539-4306.

SUBLEASER NEEDED! Female roommate needed to take over payments June/ July. $275 a month plus utilities. 2000 College Heights #3. Very clean and nice. Call (785)587-8632.

120 For Rent-Houses

SUMMER SUBLEASE available. Two-bedroom apartment in Chase Apartments. (785)539-4517.

SUMMER SUBLEASE. Two or three-bedroom available. On corner of Aggieville. Water and trash paid. $280. 520 N. 11th. (316)393-6913.

200 service directory

205 Tutor

TERM PAPER Editing! Editing performed by professors and graduate students. Visit us at www.papercheck.com or call us toll free at (866)693-EDIT.

300 employment opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial position of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

$1500 WEEKLY potential mailing our circulars. No experience required. Free information packet. Call (203)683-0257.

1000 SUMMER camp counselor position available in Northeast and Michigan. www.greatcampjobs.com

BARTENDER POSITION. Make up to $300 shift. Flexible hours, great pay. Great college job. Call (800)806-0085 ext. 1436.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250 day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisejobs.com.

DRILL TEAM COACH. A Drill Team Coach is needed for Riley County High School. Please contact Becky Pultz as soon as possible. (785)485-4000 or bpultz@usd378.org

EASTER BUNNIES and helpers needed for the upcoming Easter season at the mall. Must be available Thursday- Sunday, April 5-19. Call Reflections Photography at (785)539-1550.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.surveymatters.com.

HAVE FUN teaching tennis, baseball, or basketball this summer. Work with kids in the beautiful mountains of Massachusetts. Salary, room, board and complete travel. Dates 6/21- 8/18. It's not too late to join the fun! For more info, email staff@campwinadu.com or complete application in staff area of www.campwinadu.com

HELP WANTED for custom harvesting, combined operators and truck drivers, guaranteed pay. Good summer wages. Call (970)483-7490 evenings.

JOHNSON COUNTY/ Summer help wanted. General field work growing flowers and vegetables at K-State Research and Extension Center. Must have own transportation to field site at 35125 W. 135th Street, Olathe. $7.00/ hour for 40-hour week, May 19 through August 22 (negotiable). Apply in Horticulture, Forestry and Recreation Resources office, 2

BIRTHRIGHT
of Manhattan

An International
Pregnancy Service

Hotline : 1-800-550-4900

539-2555

206 South 5th Street

Little Caesars

CHEDDAR
Stuffed Crust
Deep Dish Pizza

Large Pizza
with one topping $5.99

539-3333

Attitude for Success

by
Michael Witmer

March 31, 2003
@ 6 pm
K-State Union
Little Theatre

sponsored by
Apostolic Campus Ministry

Sponsored by
AXΩ & ΔTA

Wanna Play?

3 on 3 Basketball Tournament

Monday, March 31st at 6pm

contact 395-2770
to register a team

UNLIMITED
Night & Weekend Minutes

FREE Nationwide
Long Distance

FREE Voice Mail

FREE Caller ID

25% Off
All Face Plates

$29.99
PHONE ONLY
Limited Time Offer

Stop In & Register For A
FREE Year's Supply of Coca-Cola

Kansas
Wireless

305 Ft. Riley Blvd/Manhattan
For one month. 785-565-9219 / M-F 10-6, Sat. 10-2

*Limited time offer. Some conditions apply. See store for details.

k-state
after hours:

FRIDAY, MARCH 28TH

AT THE K-STATE STUDENT UNION

LIVE MUSIC
• Dan Bergen (Courtyard) 9 P.M.

BOARD GAMES

CRAFTS

FREE FOOD
• Sandwich Bar (Union Station) 10 P.M.

COMEDIAN
• Erik Passoja (Union Station) 10:30 P.M.

FREE MOVIE
(Forum hall) Zoolander MIDNIGHT

Co-Sponsored by Smurthwaite Scholarship House

FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT: WWW.KSU.EDU/AFTERHOURS

Golden Key National Honor Society

Congratulates

Jennifer Kehler

for 2003 GTA of the year

"THE HUT"

NOW OPEN TILL 2
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHTS

$2 POUNDERS $3 PITCHERS

OTHER NIGHTLY SPECIALS

WED., APRIL 2
Open Mic
Night

an aggieville alternative.

The Hibachi Hut 608 N. 12th

SMOKING & NON-SMOKING

CLASSIFIEDS

310 Help Wanted

IMMEDIATE OPENING for CARRIER

The Collegian needs a carrier immediately who is available Monday-Friday from 5:30-7:30 a.m. with a reliable vehicle.

Applications available in 103 Kedzie.

Application deadline
Monday,
March 31.

LIFEGUARDS NEEDED for summer employment. WSI preferred but not required. Apply in person Manhattan Country Club, 1531 N. 10th Street.

LIVE AND WORK IN COLORADO! Be a CAMP COUNSELOR at Girl Scout overnight camp in the mountains southwest of Denver. General counselors and program specialists (hiking, outdoor skills, crafts, nature, sports, challenge course, dance and drama). Early June-mid-August. MAKE A DIFFERENCE. Competitive salary, room, meals, health insurance, travel allowance and end of season bonus. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or e-mail rhondam@gsmhc.org

NOW HIRING front of house and cooks. Apply in person 1130 Moro between 1:30-4p.m.

310 Help Wanted

MCDONALDS is looking for self motivated people who are interested in working a third shift (11p.m.-7 a.m.) during new 24 hour operations. Must be willing to participate in regular drug screening program. Above average pay, premium pay for McDonalds experience, uniforms provided, reduced meals and advancement opportunities. Apply in person at McDonalds in Manhattan at 815 North 3rd Street or 1011 Westloop Place in Junction City at I-70 and Washington Street.

MOVIE EXTRAS! models needed! Earn $150-$450/Day!! Print modeling, music videos, extra positions. Local casting. No experience necessary! 1(888)820-0164 extension 1016.

PART-TIME SALESPERSON at Faith Furniture. Please apply in person at 302 East Highway 24, Manhattan.

PLAY SPORTS! HAVE FUN! SAVE MONEY! Sports camp in Maine. Coaches needed: Tennis, basketball, baseball, water-sports, rock climbing, biking, golf, archery, hockey and more. Work outdoors. Have a great summer. Call free: (888)844-8080 or apply online: www.campcedar.com

RETAIL SALES positions available in Manhattan and Wamego for a self-motivated energetic individuals to join our team. Please contact Shawn at (785)556-2002.

SIX-FIGURE INCOME. can be yours by joining our company. Easy work from home. Call toll free (866)612-5303 5am-9pm cst. www.lowermyphonebill.com/angel.

310 Help Wanted

RIDE HORSES IN COLORADO! Be part of the western riding staff at Girl Scout overnight camp southwest of Denver. Must have recent experience riding and teaching basic skills. Competitive salary, room, meals, travel allowance, end of season bonus. Late May-mid-August. Call (303)778-0109 ext. 281 or e-mail rhondam@gsmhc.org

STUDENT FOR summer to do apartment maintenance, remodeling, constructing, painting, cleaning, yard work, flexible hours. Average 20-30 hours per week. Must be self starter, knowledgeable about construction science. Work as if an independent contractor. Desire to complete casts and projects in an orderly and professional manner. Send name, resume, references to: Collegian Classifieds Box 2, Manhattan.

THE TECHNOLOGY Center located in Varnay's Book Store is looking for a somebody to fill Tuesday and Thursday afternoon shifts from 12-5 and weekends. Qualified applicants should be familiar with video games and game systems such as Xbox and PlayStation 2 consoles and applicable games. Other duties include cellular phone sales, inventory management, and data entry. Starting pay is $5.20/hour plus commissions. Applications are available at the Technology Center in Varnay's Book Store, 623 N. Manhattan Avenue.

SUMMER WORK. This summer... join 40 K-State students, gain career skills and make $2500 per month. Call Regan at (785)770-8944.

310 Help Wanted

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS has an opening for a Macintosh technician. The tech support team maintains approximately 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have some experience with Mac OS X Server and be familiar with design software such as Adobe Photoshop, Adobe InDesign and Quark Express. Any experience with networking, programming or with UNIX/Linux is also helpful. Pay starts at $7.50 an hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students currently enrolled in at least one course at Kansas State will be considered. A two-week paid training period will be scheduled sometime in April/May. Optional summer hours may be available. Regular work schedule will begin approximately August 11. Between 10 and 20 hours will be available per week with some emergency on-call hours. You may pick up an application in Kedzie Hall room 113 or 115 or online at <http://spub.ksu.edu/~mac-tech/>. Application deadline is 2 p.m. Friday, March 28 (the week after spring break).

TOP BOYS SPORTS CAMP IN MAINE! Play and coach sports- have fun- make $$. Openings in: all team and individual sports, all water sports, plus: camp hike, ropes/ rock climbing, ice/ roller hockey, office secretaries. Top salaries, excellent facilities, free room/ board/ laundry, travel allowance. On-line application: www.campcobbossee.com or call: (800)473-6104.

310 Help Wanted

SUMMER JOBS in Arizona. Hiring camp counselors for three resident camps for 2003 season, 5/31-8/4. Programmers serve girls ages 7-17. Positions include instructors for ropes, riding, life guarding, canoeing, archery, dancing, arts and crafts, ceramics, drama, sports, as well as female counselors and unit leaders. $200-300 weekly. Apply online at www.girlscoutsaz.org/home.htm or call for application 1-800-352-6133 ext. 303. Equal opportunity employer.

THE ROCK SPRINGS 4-H Center is seeking applicants for 40-50 summer staff positions. Applicants must be graduating high school seniors or college students. Positions are recreation instructors, including team building, horses, environmental education, rifles, trap, archery, canoes, crafts and lifeguards. We also have several positions in food service, maintenance and custodial departments. Internships are available for those who qualify. Rock Springs offers a monthly salary and room and board. Rock Springs is a nationally recognized camp and conference center serving approximately 27,000 youth and adults each year, most during the summer. Rock Springs is located 14 miles south of Junction City, Kansas on K-157 Highway. For an application or more information you can contact me at: Rock Springs 4-H Center, C/O Jamie Farr, 5405 West Highway K-157, Junction City, KS 66441. (785)257-3221. jfarr@rocksprings.net

WANTED FULL-TIME farm employee for crop and livestock operation in Northeast Kansas. Call (785)437-3162.

WANTED COWBOYS. Cowgirls and couples to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Visit our website at www.sombrero.com or write to us at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301.

310 Help Wanted

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

MUSIC FANS: need music fans to assist in concert promotion. Internship Position. Involves touring for concerts. If interested in getting your foot in the door with promotions and music call Velocity Marketing. (866)716-9693.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

AMAZING GLOW-IN-THE-DARK Jawhawk T-shirts. Two minute charge lasts all night. Great for all night activities. Jogging, bike riding, cruising. Show your team pride both day and night. Introductory price $12.95. Shipping free, order from web: www.fireglo.net or send $12.95 check or money to Fireglo, Box 1216 Indiana, PA 15701. State size, and shipping instructions.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

FOR SALE: Olympic weights. Multi-position bench and attachments. Hip sled, squat rack, lat machine, extra bars, great shape! Call (785)565-9545.

1973 VW Bug. New chrome rims, rebuilt engine. Runs great. Price negotiable. Call (785)770-9983.

1992 PONTIAC Gran Prix. Good condition. $1800 or best offer. Must sell. Call Hugo or Steph (785)532-9115 or email hez4848@ksu.edu

1994 JEEP Grand Cherokee Limited Edition. Leather, V8, $6000 or best offer. (785)565-0666.

530 Motorcycles

2001 HONDA CBR F4i. Silver/black. $6900. (785)317-1224.

WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE

MOTORCYCLES 1964-2000 ALL CONSIDERED

785-564-2423 ANY TIME

THERE ARE PLENTY OF FISH IN THE SEA

SO HOOK ONE WITH A PERSONAL ALREADY!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.00
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.40
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.05
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $13.35
each word over 20 40¢ per word (consecutive day rate)

TEACHERS | Students are getting a chance to see the classroom earlier

Continued from Page 1

is divided into four sections. The first involves classroom experience as a teacher's aide, and the last involves classroom experience while student teaching.

The change is in the two middle blocks. Now secondary education students get classroom experience in both of those blocks whereas before there was none, Scharmann said.

"What we're finding is that they're better prepared as they become student teachers because they've had more experience," said Cindi Dunn, clinical instructor at Manhattan High School West Campus.

Dunn works with both the student teachers and the high school teachers whose classes the students are placed in — called cooperating teachers.

Whenever K-State makes changes to its curriculum, she said, officials always talk to teachers in the field as well as the cooperating teachers.

"We pull all that information together when we make program changes," Dunn said. "There's a lot of people involved in the development of it."

Brad Ficke, cooperating English teacher at Manhattan High School West Campus, agreed that more classroom experience before student teaching is a positive change.

"The more classroom experience you have prior to your student teaching brings about a more well-rounded student teacher," Schaub said.

"I know when I did my student teaching back in the '80s, we were only in the classroom one time before we student taught."

The more somebody can get in the classroom, the better, Ficke said.

"If you're going to be a secondary education teacher, you better start getting used to that idea and getting used to those kids," he said.

"I've seen people come in and just freeze up, and it takes them nine weeks just to get used to being around that age group."

Hostetler said she is learning a lot as a student teacher.

"The courses did well to help develop your philosophy, but nothing can really prepare you to student teach," she said. "It's a lot different going from having a 10:30 class, and now I'm up every day at 6:30."

Hostetler said she and her cooperating teacher sit down and talk about the basics every day.

Ficke's student teacher, Mandy Inchaustegui, said K-State's secondary education program has prepared her well to student teach.

"The program they have in place is pretty effective," In-chaustegui, senior in secondary education, said. "There's not a way to simulate some of the things that you have to learn in student teaching without just doing it — that's just part of doing it."

She said student teaching is both harder and more rewarding than regular courses.

"You don't just write a test to turn into a teacher," she said.

"You write a test, and then you get to hand it out to the students, and then you get to grade it, and see what they've learned from what you've taught."

Ficke said he is trying to make it a realistic classroom experience so she will be prepared to be a first-year teacher.

"The days are gone where the cooperating teacher met a student teacher at the door, shook your hand and said, 'Here's your class — you're on your own,'" Dunn said.

WAR | 1st supply plane lands in Iraq despite slow force movement

Continued from Page 1

day of a hilltop position where Iraqi forces had menaced civilians for years.

U.S. forces had pounded the northern hills around Chamchamal over the past several days, and it appeared that the Iraqis abandoned their checkpoint and bunkers and retreated to the west.

In central Iraq, the first resupply plane landed on a restored runway at Tallil Airfield — hastily renamed "Bush International Airport" by American forces who had secured it.

Still, Iraqi resistance continued to slow the drive on the capital and kept American and British forces out of key cities such as Basra and An Nasiriyah. Its mines kept ships with humanitarian assistance from unloading their cargo at the southern port city of Umm Qasr.

After eight days of fighting, Pentagon officials said close to 90,000 troops were in Iraq, and that another 100,000 to 120,000 were en route. All were part of a military blueprint made up long ago, officials said, sensitive to criticism that commanders had underestimated the need for troops to quell stronger-than-expected resistance or protect long supply lines.

In New York, hundreds of demonstrators lined three blocks of Fifth Avenue and dozens more lay down in the street in a "die-in." At the United Nations, the U.S. ambassador walked out of a debate on the war after Iraq's ambassador accused the United States of trying to exterminate the Iraqi people.

The eCollegian
browse all about it!

WELCOME
FUTURE
K-STATERS
Clafin Books and Copies

LIVE!
Cross Canadian Ragweed
May 1
Tickets on sale April 1
$2 burgers & beer
open @ 6
LONGHORNS

Re-elect
Bruce Sneed
for City Commission
Mayor
1997
2001
I appreciate the support of these citizens. I need your vote to continue my service. Please vote on April 1!

Say
HEESE
Lamb For Sale
1214-C Moro • 537-1909

All Apartments within Walking Distance to Campus
ONE BEDROOMS
1022-1026 Sunset $345-385
1212 Thurston $440-460
1950-1960 Hunting $440-460
1837 College-Heights $385
DIAMOND
1109 Hyton Heights
Manhattan, KS 66502
537-7701

Tao Massage
Therapy
$10 off first appointment!
NATIONALLY
CERTIFIED IN THERAPEUTIC
MASSAGE AND BODYWORK
MEMBER
AAMP
RATES
Regular $15 $10
30 Min $25 $20
1 Hr $45 $40
1 1/2 Hrs $67 $60
Call for your appointment
785-341-9928

Your Career Takes Flight
Come to a place where your career can take flight. You'll be surrounded by professionals ready to help you at a moment's notice. You'll develop working relationships that feel like family. At the end of the day, you'll know you've made a difference doing what you love to do.
Consider the possibilities...
SPECIAL EDUCATION TEACHERS Provide year-round instruction to children with low incidence disabilities, autism, sensory impairment, moderate to severe learning and behavior problems in self-contained classroom of six to eight children. Design and implement instructional programs to meet individual student needs based on a functional curriculum. High staff/student ratio with medical, psychology & therapy support services provided in the classroom. Experienced teacher assigned for training & support.
Degree in Special Education & certification in MR, SMD, will consider certification in BD with experience in multiple disabilities or additional special ed. cert. K-12. Competitive salary based on education & experience. Excellent employee benefits. Contact Julie Noller for information at jnoller@heartspring.org or to submit a resume. EEO/DFW
HEARTSPRING
8700 East 29th Street North • Wichita, KS 67226
(800) 835-1043 • Fax (316) 544-5555 • www.heartspring.org

★ Dick Hayter - Mayor 1990
★ Wanda Fateley - Mayor 1983
★ Roger Reitz - Mayor 1999
★ John Stites - Mayor 1967
★ Sydney Carlin - Mayor 1996
★ Ed Horne - Mayor 1980
★ Dave Fiser - Mayor 1984, '88
★ Helen Cooper - Mayor 1994
★ Rick Mann - Mayor 1986
★ Bob Linder - Mayor 1971, '78
★ Karen McCulloh - Mayor 2000
★ Bill Rehschuh - Mayor 1970
★ Kent Glasscock - Mayor 1989
★ Gene Klingler - Mayor 1983, '87, '91
Paid for by Bruce Sneed for City Commission, Mark Knackendoffel, Treasurer

Weekly
Specials
Monday $5.95 All You Can Eat Wings 5-9
$1.50 Domestic Draws
Tuesday 2 for 1 Smokey Joes
$2 Domestic Pitchers
$3 Michelob Family Pitchers
Wednesday Chef's Creation
$2.50 Any Beer
Drafts, Bottles, Imports, Micros
Thursday $4.95 Half Chickens
$2.00 Wells
Friday Chef's Creation
$1 PBR Cans
While they last
Check out
Bridge Road Caravan
friday night
&
Shamans Harvest
saturday night
Pats
Blue Rib'n
BarBeQue
Aggieville

GET A JOB
AND SOME GREAT EXPERIENCE!
WANT A JOB WHEN YOU GRADUATE?
Most employers are looking for people who have experience. Get ahead of the competition and gain some valuable experience at the same time at the Kansas State Collegian.
We're looking for people who are reliable, show initiative, possess writing skills, and are creative and enthusiastic.
If this description fits you, please apply. Pick up an application and job description in Kedzie 103. The following positions are available.
EXECUTIVE POSITIONS
2004 Royal Purple editor in chief
Summer 2003 Collegian editor in chief
Fall 2003 Collegian editor in chief
Summer 2003 Collegian advertising manager
Fall 2003 Collegian advertising manager
Applications due 5 p.m. April 4
If we receive only single applications for these positions,
the deadline extends automatically to April 11 to encourage applications.
GET THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kansas State University
Campus Phone Book
2004 royal purple

THE ROAD TO RETIREMENT
MAY SEEM SMOOTH,
BUT IT'S LITTERED WITH TOLLS.
Fees, Charges, Hidden costs. Over time these things can erode the retirement savings you're working so hard to build. Contact us, a company known for keeping costs low. It ain't a free ride, but it's close.
TIAA-CREF.org or call (800) 842-2776
TIAA CREF
Managing money for people with other things to think about.
RETIREMENT • INSURANCE • MUTUAL FUNDS • COLLEGE SAVINGS • TRUSTS • INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT
TIAA CREF Investment and Institutional Services, Inc. and Teachers Personal Investors Services, Inc. distribute certain life products. For more information, call (800) 842-2776, ext. 5569 for prospectuses. Read them carefully before investing. © 2002 TIAA CREF. Insurance and Annuity Issuance by Colonial American Life Insurance Company (TIAA CREF), 130 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017-3049.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN OPEN HOUSE

Friday, March 28, 2003

DARING TO TAKE THE CHALLENGE

Ben Scoby, junior in golf course management, runs up the steps at Memorial Stadium as part of his exercise routine.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

All-University Open House
offers prospective students chance to learn about K-State

K-State baseball's Brett Bagley warms up at practice. Catch the Wildcats in action against Missouri at 2 p.m. Saturday and at 1 p.m. Sunday at Tointon Family Stadium.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Melanie Glascock (left), sophomore in interior architecture, sits with friends who live on the fourth floor of Goodnow Hall, Jessica Hemberger (right), sophomore in interior architecture, and Lindsay Sutter, sophomore in interior design. The three take advantage of an "academic cluster" which groups students of similar majors on the same floors of the dorms.

Evan Semón | COLLEGIAN

Garrett Dowling, junior in life sciences, studies trigonometry in Hale library.

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN

Open house to feature challenges

By Mako Shores
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State is daring students to take the challenge at the 23rd-annual All-University Open House on Saturday.

Open house will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the university's campuses in Manhattan and Salina.

A variety of visitors attend each year to get a taste of college life and experience what K-State has to offer.

"K-State's Open House is meant to be a university-wide recruitment event," Pat Bosco, dean of student life, said.

Open house also offers a chance to learn about the university's more than 200 academic programs and nearly 400 campus organizations, said Kim O'Halloran, public relations coordinator for open house.

This year's theme is "Dare to Take the Challenge" and will involve challenges such as eating a bug, handling live reptiles, fighting aliens in a 3-D video game and locating a lamb in a pregnant sheep.

Along with the range of activities, open house will offer 3,500 displays, exhibits, demonstrations, tours, live entertainment and food during the one-day extravaganza.

"At times, it brings tears to my eyes of the sheer magnitude of all the activities we have going on in one day," Bosco said.

Open house also is a way to bring visitors on to campus to get an overall feeling of what K-State life is all about.

"It gives 20,000 visitors, students, parents, citizens of Kansas and people throughout the Midwest a chance to experience firsthand the academic options and the quality of K-State's student life," Bosco said. "The program is a great K-State tradition and involves over 2,500 student and faculty volunteers, which is truly remarkable."

Each year the Open House Coordinating Council meets to plan out goals it wants to reach for the event.

The council also is looking to give students the chance to display their unique qualities to visitors, said Cassie Schultz, senior in biology and pre-medicine and the council's student coordinator.

"We want our students to have the opportunity to showcase their leadership skills as they work together to put on this comprehensive all-university event," Schultz said.

Bosco said he looks forward to open house displaying many of the university's diverse aspects.

"I hope that our visitors come away with an overall impression of our friendliness, enthusiasm we have for learning, and the tremendous variety of programs we have for our students," he said. Schultz said she is enthusiastic about Saturday's event.

"It promises to be a great day," she said. "I look forward to stepping back and enjoying all of the hard work of the volunteers and seeing how the colleges and organizations play to the theme 'Dare to Take the Challenge.'"

All-University Open House events schedule

Challenges

- Eat a bug or hold a tarantula, Insect Zoo at the K-State Gardens.
- Go on an agricultural scavenger hunt in the dirt, Bluemont 108.
- Navigate an obstacle course, hourly from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Bluemont Hall.
- Manhattan Mathematical Olympiad, grades 5-12, 9 a.m. to noon, Cardwell 101.

Entertainment

- Local band performances, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Union Plaza.
- Cat Town, with Willie the Wildcat, K-State sports stars and carnival activities, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Waters Hall quad.
- All Breed Dog Show, 2 p.m., Frick Auditorium.
- Apparel marketing and design live model show, 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., Justin 247.
- "Capture the Moment: The Pulitzer Prize Photographs," 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Marianna Kistler Museum of Art.

Food

- Pancake and sausage feed, 7 a.m. to 1 p.m., Seaton 142.
- Open Air Cafe featuring hot dogs, chips and free Pepsi-Cola soft drinks, patio at Justin Hall.
- Pork burger feed, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., outside Mosier Hall.
- Union Food Court, 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., with the Barbecue on the Plaza, 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Union Plaza.

- Food and tests, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Call Hall.
- Doughnuts, fresh bread and cheese puff samples, Shellenberger Hall.

Agriculture

- Cockroach races, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., Insect Zoo.
- Water garden landscape, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., first floor, Throckmorton Hall.
- Food test, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., second floor, Call Hall.
- Little American Royal, 1 p.m., Weber Arena.
- Fruit-growing workshop, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., KSU Gardens.

Architecture

- Faculty show, Chang Gallery, first floor, central wing, Seaton Hall.
- Advising, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., 113 Seaton Hall.
- DeCANstructing hunger in Manhattan, Pierce Atrium, ground floor, east wing, Seaton Hall.

Arts and Sciences

- Glass blowing demonstrations, 10 a.m., 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., Department of Chemistry table, Union.
- Gan blue light shows, 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., Cardwell 113.
- Tightrope-walking rats, Department of Psychology table, Union.

Business Administration

- Inflatable Monopoly, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., first floor, Calvin Hall.
- Big Wheel, K-State and College of Business Administration trivia game, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., first floor, Calvin Hall.

Education

- Navigate an obstacle course, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Bluemont Hall.
- Build a character car out of candy, Bluemont 107.
- Go on an agricultural scavenger hunt in the dirt, Bluemont 108.

Engineering

- Balsa bridge design contest for high school students, register 9 a.m. to 11 a.m., Fiedler Hall.
- See how to design and race a concrete canoe, Fiedler Hall.

Human Ecology

- Reality check game for teens and adults, Hoffman Lounge, Justin Hall.
- Financial skills golf hole-in-one game, Hoffman Lounge, Justin Hall.
- Make your own patriotic K-State Powercat pennant, Justin 251.

Technology and Aviation (K-State-Salina)

- See how many students fit in a Cessna 150, 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 2:30 p.m., K-State ramp, Aviation Center.
- Design your own Web page, 11 a.m. to noon, Technology Center 167.
- Concrete strength testing demonstration, noon and 1 p.m., Civil Lab.

Veterinary Medicine

- Learn what it takes to give a pony a palpitation physical, Mosier Hall.
- Dog IQ testing and dogs working out on treadmills, Trotter 104.

Krystallos

Powercat
Charms
Now
Available

ZIPPINI
FIRENZE

Modular Italian Charm Bracelet Collection

708 N. Manhattan

Aggieville

ALCO

Values to $140⁰⁰

Reebok $24⁹⁹

to $49⁹⁹

Men's and Ladies' sizes

First Quality
Name Brand
Sandals, Boots,
Joggers, Cross
Trainers, and Athletic Shoes

Cool Brands + Hot Prices = Alco Shoes

3007 Anderson at
Seth Child

Open Daily 9-9
Sunday 11-6

Walk to Campus!

Spacious Studio, 1 and 2 Bedroom Apartments
3 Bedroom Townhomes

Full Appliances including Microwave,
Dishwasher, Disposal

Laundry Facilities in Each Building

Fireplaces in Some Units

On-Site Management and Maintenance

Swimming Pool with Sundeck

Campus East
Apartments

1422 McCain Lane

(785) 539-5911

at the corner of Claflin and McCain

www.firstmanagementinc.com

OPEN LATE

We deliver the Latest!

Checks add 50¢

FULL BAR
LOTS OF FUN!

Book your party or social today

GUMBY'S
Pizza

770 - 3333

CARRY-OUT SPECIALS

16" 2-Topping $7.99

14" 2-Topping $6.99

FAST FREE DELIVERY,
DINE-IN, CARRY OUT

Pizza, Subs (Hot & Cold), Salads, Calzones, Pokey Stix, Pepperoni Rolls, Bread Stix, Wings, Party Subs

MONDAY
MANIA

$3.99
CHEESE

carry out or drive in only

STIX IT TO ME
TUESDAY

Buy one pokey stix at regular price,
get one of equal or lesser value FREE!

THE BIG ASS

One 20" Massive
1- Topping Pizza

$11.99

2 for $21.99

SMALL MEAL DEAL

Any 2 for $11.99

- Medium 1 - Topping Pizza
- Medium Pokey Stix
- 4 Pepperoni Rolls
- 10 Wings
- 4 - 32 oz. Sodas

GUMBY VALUE MEAL

$7.99

- 1) 14" 2 - Topping Pizza
- 2) 12" 1 - Topping Pizza & 1 Soda
- 3) 10" 2 - Topping Pizza & 1 Soda
- 4) 20 Wings & 1 Soda
- 5) 12" Pokey Stix + Soda
- 6) 10" Cheese Pizza + 5 Wings
- 7) 10" Pokey Stix + 5 Wings
- 8) 10" Cheese Pizza + 2 Pepperoni Rolls
- 9) 5 Pepperoni Rolls + Soda
- 10) 14" Pokey Stix

Local hotels, businesses prepare for open house

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Hotels around Manhattan will have no vacancies this weekend as thousands of visitors come to K-State's All-University Open House.

"We will definitely be full, based on the large number of people coming to town," said Nancy Bartell, director of sales at the Ramada Inn.

She said the hotel has sold out in past years, and it usually fills up early because of advance registrations.

"Part of it is because of our location right across campus, and part because of our close ties to the university," she said.

More staff will be on hand at the hotel's restaurant this weekend, she said, and workers also will decorate the hotel with purple balloons.

Many other local businesses are doing their part to show off the university and community.

"This weekend is a time for K-State and Manhattan to show off our pride," said Jeff Levin, manager of Varney's Book Store. "People are coming out here to see not only the university, but the whole community as well. We all want to represent K-State very well."

Levin said this weekend also will be a good chance to show off K-State's baseball team.

"We're sponsoring the baseball team this weekend as they play Missouri," he said. "We'll hopefully be giving away some tickets to that game."

Varney's also will have some sales in the store, Levin said, but it wants to keep most of the activities outside since most people stay on campus.

Steve Levin, director of the K-State Student Union Bookstore, said his store will have sales at the end of the week.

"We'll have sales here and at Varney's on K-State clothing, gifts and supplies," he said.

Steve said this weekend also will be an opportunity for him to show future students what services the book store provides.

"We can inform students of how you buy textbooks and how you can pre-order them," he said.

Dietetic Association sponsors 2-mile walk to benefit children

Walk planned to raise money for children, local dietetic students

By Crystal Becker
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Student Dietetic Association is looking to raise $5,000 and make a step in the right direction on Saturday.

The SDA and Healthy Kids Challenge are sponsoring "Take a Step, Make a Difference," a two-mile walk that will benefit local third-through fifth-graders and dietetic students.

Deborah Canter, registered dietitian and SDA adviser, said she is expecting dietetic students, faculty, K-State athletes and area elementary school students to participate in SDA's first fund-raising event. She said the walk has two purposes.

"We want to bring some attention to good nutrition and exercise to kids," she said. "We're also hoping to raise money to go into a fund so our students can then gain hands-on experience."

Canter said hands-on experience is necessary.

"It's one thing to sit in class and read a nutrition book, but it's another to get out and work with kids and parents and change kids' lives," she said. "Anytime a student can get out of the classroom and into the community and into a real work situation, that always enhances their education."

Vickie James, 1976 graduate in dietetics, hopes to give children that real-world experience. James founded Healthy Kids Challenge in 1998, now reaching more than 800 schools and 500,000 students with her message of eating right and staying healthy.

"There is a trend of larger portions, high-fat foods, eating on the run, spending a lot of time in front of the TV and playing video games," she said.

James said much needed dietitian students can play an important role in a country where less than two percent of children are meeting food pyramid requirements and 14 percent of children ages 12 to 19 are overweight.

"We don't have funding for a large staff, but our need is huge. Our program is growing as the needs across the country keep growing," she said. "In the past, we haven't had the funding to take care of students' expenses — they've had to do it themselves. This should free them up a bit, giving more students more opportunities."

Erin Schmidt, junior in dietetics and SDA open house chair, is helping organize the event. She said walkers will meet at Justin Hall, travel along north Manhattan Avenue, along Claflin Road and back to Justin Hall.

"We're going to be chalking the route and putting little signs of nutritional facts along the way, so when we go by, kids can read it and gain some nutrition awareness," she said. "If kids gain that knowledge, they'll be more likely to develop a healthy lifestyle."

She said participants can register for the walk at 9:30 a.m., earning the chance to win T-shirts and other prizes.

"We want to make it an annual event, so that more kids will want to participate next year and in the coming years," she said.

James said K-State's dietetic program is one of the best in the nation.

"Cooperation with the dietetics program at K-State is really a personal commitment that I have, as well as a professional commitment to give back to the university," she said.

James said she was surprised at the number of people who have shown interest in the walk.

"That's a lot of people that say, 'I'm willing to take a step and make a difference,'" she said.

Cleaning house?
Sell your stuff to students.

Kansas State Collegian • classifieds • 103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555

Kappa Delta

welcomes you to Open House!

stop by for a tour

Saturday, March 29
12 pm-5 pm
1220 Centennial Drive

Questions? call 395-7689

NEED AN APARTMENT FOR FALL OF 2003 IN MANHATTAN? COME VISIT US DURING THE KSU OPEN HOUSE MARCH 29, 2003!!

We offer Apartments and Townhouses throughout Manhattan. For a preview of our properties, please visit our website at:
www.mdi-manhattan.com

STUDIOS/
ONE BEDROOM
$360-$520

TWO BEDROOMS
$500-$700

THREE & FOUR
BEDROOMS
$750-$940

JUNE, JULY & AUGUST LEASES AVAILABLE

For more information call 776-3804.

McCullough Development, Inc.

210 N. 4th, Suite C • Manhattan, KS 66502 • (785)776-3804 • mdi-manhattan.com

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

You'll find greeting cards and gift ideas for anyone or occasion!

K-State & Sorority Gifts

Kansas Souvenirs

Yankee Candles

Jewelry & Charms

Crabtree & Evelyn

Candy & Balloons

Picture Frames & Albums

Plaques & other Decor

We sell and accept Aggie Bucks!!!

An Aggieville tradition since 1929

704 N. Manhattan • Aggieville • 539-7654

Mon.-Fri. 8:30-8:30 • Sat. 8:30-5:30 • Sun. 12:00-5:00

Start the spring season with a free phone.

600
MINUTES
WEEKLY

UNLIMITED
WEEKEND MINUTES

FREE
NATIONWIDE
LONG-DISTANCE
AND ROAMING

$39.99
per month

FREE
Nokia 3390
(SFP $49.99)

Bring in this ad for a $35 store credit with T-Mobile activation. Offer good only at K-State Student Union.

THINK WIRELESS

1st. Floor of K-State Union 785-317-1620

T-Mobile Coverage not available in all areas. Credit approval, activation fee and one-year service agreement required with $200 early termination fee per number. Applicable taxes, assessments, and roaming charges additional. Unlabeled minutes do not carry forward to a subsequent billing cycle. Any fraction of a minute used is rounded up and billed at the full minute rate; calls are measured from the time the handset begins to process the call (before the phone rings or the call is answered) through its termination at the call. Weekends defined as midnight Fri. through midnight Sun. All minutes include free domestic long distance and roaming (but not for credit card or operator-assisted calls) on the national GSM digital network of T-Mobile and its U.S. roaming partners. Your use of the service constitutes acceptance of the T-Mobile terms and conditions including the mandatory arbitration clause. Our PCS system is not compatible with analog TTY, which may prevent or delay emergency calls. Additional restrictions apply; see printed materials for details. Offer valid to select T-Mobile numbers only and subject to change without notice. T-Mobile is a registered trademark of Deutsche Telekom AG.

Stop by our Open House Bake Sale
Saturday 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

FRESH BREAD ALL DAY LONG
Specialty Breads, Monster Cookies and
MUCH MORE!
First Floor Shellenberger Hall

ON THE WILD SIDE

Welcome,
Students!

Come check us out
in Aggieville.

1128 Moro, Aggieville • 776-2252

- Subway Posters
- Incense
- Door Bells
- T-Shirts
- Hoops & Rings
- Beads
- Spring Attire
- Disc Golf

What do you like best about K-State?

VANLERBERG

"I like the people here. Everyone is really friendly. I especially enjoy the school spirit, like during football season."

Mary Vanlerberg
SENIOR IN ADVERTISING AND APPAREL MARKETING

JAMISON

"The professors here are pretty cool. The people are nice, and I love the scenery. You look out there and think, 'I could take a picture.' You just have a little piece of heaven here on campus."

Darren Jamison
JUNIOR IN SECONDARY EDUCATION

MURPHY

"I like all of the people. They're very friendly, and the staff is friendly also. They are very willing to work with you. I haven't had an instructor yet that didn't take time out of their day to help a student that needed it."

Thom Murphy
FRESHMAN IN BIOCHEM-ISTRY

PEARSON

"My favorite thing about K-State is the faculty. They're really willing to help you, and they'll make sure you're doing all right. They're really caring."

Karna Pearson
JUNIOR IN ENGLISH LITERATURE

CRAWFORD

"I like that K-State makes me feel like I'm at home, and my friends are my family away from home."

Meridith Crawford
SOPHOMORE IN ADVER-TISING

JONES

"Everybody is open and really friendly. You walk through campus, and people say 'hi' and smile. It's just a friendly atmosphere."

Nanette Jones
SOPHOMORE IN PUBLIC RELATIONS

JEAN

"I've got to meet a lot of people. I enjoy a lot of the activities associated with the school, especially football and stuff like that."

Scott Jean
SENIOR IN MARKETING AND INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

TAUMANUPEPE

"I would not be at K-State if it weren't for the people. The people make K-State friendly. Everyone from all over the world comes together, and you get to meet different people."

Alo Taumanupepe
FRESHMAN IN OPEN-OPTION

ECHOLS

"I like the people and the diversity."

Quintin Echols
FRESHMAN IN SOCIAL SCIENCE

WARE

"In the sociology department, there are teachers that really care about you and what you're going to do after college and your career."

Kimberlyn Ware
SENIOR IN SOCIOLOGY

Take a seat.

Let the classifieds do the work.

Kansas State Collegian • classifieds • 103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555

Grand opening

29march03 29march03 29march03 29march03 29march03 29march03

25+mph up to 150 mpg

colors:
red, yellow, or black

Open 9-5 Sat.

cobra gas scooters

in the BOX. special

BASE model

$550.00 + tax

$599.95 + tax

credit cards accepted

set up included, accessories available

@ J&L Auto Sales

2017 Ft. Riley Blvd
Manhattan, KS 66502

785-539-1122

Open 9-5 Sat.
March 23, 2003

we also have clean, dependable cars, trucks & SUV's at reasonable prices

After paying tuition, it's great to receive some things for free.

Welcome to UMB.

- Minimum deposit of $50 to open account
- Overdraft protection for qualified applicants
- Write 20 free checks a month
- Free Ultra ATM card or free Ultra II Visa check card*
- Free ATM transactions at all UMB Bank Ultra ATMs (More than 400 statewide)
- Internet Banking through OnLine Direct
- Access to more than 90 banking centers statewide.

529 Humboldt • 785-776-9400

3049 Anderson • 785-537-4006

umb.com

*UMB is a registered service mark of UMB Financial Corporation. Member FDIC. *Based upon approval

THE MEN OF Delta

WELCOME YOU TO KANSAS STATE OPEN HOUSE

Please stop by for barbeque and a house tour from 11am-5pm

1001 Sunset •

Corner of College •
Heights and Sunset

2 Blocks from Campus •

539-2376 •

ROOM GROUP EXPRESS

FURNITURE

Guaranteed savings by the piece,
SAVE EVEN MORE WHEN YOU BUY THE ROOM GROUP!

Mattress Sale

TWIN SET	FULL SET	QUEEN SET
AS LOW AS	AS LOW AS	AS LOW AS
$129	$149	$199

Oak or Cherry
FUTON
$149

4 Drawer CHEST
$99

YOUR CHOICE

RECLINERS
Starting At $149

Full/Queen
BOOKCASE HEADBOARD

Room Group $699
Dresser, mirror, chest, headboard, Queen mattress & foundation, and Queen bedframe

Room Group $899
Sofa, loveseat, 3 tables and 2 lamps

ROOM GROUP EXPRESS FURNITURE

Up To 24 Months Free Financing Available on Approved Credit
See Store for Details

M-Sat. 10-6
Sun. 1-5

539-3838

8370 E. Hwy. 24 1/2 M.E.
Dick Edwards Ford

Welcome to your K-State Student Union
Host to the Campus...Expanding the Community

Welcome, Students
check out our new line of spring fashions

ZOTCIS
A F T U R E
1203 Moro - Aggieville

are the classes
you want Full?

check across the street, our classes transfer!

M·A·N·H·A·T·T·A·N
CHRISTIAN COLLEGE
539-3571 • www.mccs.edu

Clovia

The women of Alpha of Clovia would like to invite you to our OPEN HOUSE on
March 29, 2003.

House Open from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. to see our cooperative living arrangement.

Please call 539-4500
with any questions or stop by 1200 Pioneer Lane.

PARK PLACE APARTMENTS

OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY, MARCH 29
10:00-3:00

SMALL PET PERMITTED/CABLE PAID
1, 2 & 3 BEDROOMS
1413 CAMBRIDGE PL. #8
539-2951

WELCOME

to

K-State's

Open

House

During your visit, make tracks to

Downtown Manhattan

CLAUSSEN'S
Custom Design & Repair

- Unique KSU jewelry
- One of a kind engagement rings
- Custom designed matched wedding sets

537-6884 410 Poyntz Ave.
Mon.-Fri. 9-6, Sat. by appointment

GEOMETRICS

FURNISHINGS & UNCOMMON GIFTS

407 POYNTZ AVE., MANHATTAN, KS 66502
785-537-7677
MON.-FRI. 10-6, SAT. 10-5

Welcome
to K-State
come visit Lilacs
on the Prairie.
Boutique & Gallery

- Zoppini Italian embroidery, shoes, bracelet w/ K-State Pin
- Full line of Brighton Pottery
- Caswell Massey
- Fine Gifts
- Plush animals
- Crosses
- Jewelry
- Women's apparel 50-70% off

MANHATTAN
SHOE REPAIR
Sandals for Summer Fun

25% OFF Retail

776-1193 • 216 S. Fourth • V.F.W. Plaza

NEW SHOES
NEW MANAGEMENT
NEWEST STYLES

Brown's SHOE

Open 7 days a week

AMELIA'S
HOME AMBIENCE

M-F 10-6
Sat. 10-5
Sun. 1-5

407 Poyntz Ave. • Manhattan, KS 66502

COUPON-NO TIME LIMIT!

SAVE $1 ON WATCH BATTERIES

Expertly Installed while you wait
Regulator Time Company
214 S. 4th, Manhattan, 776-6977
FREE parking in front

Discount Furniture
of Manhattan

322 Houston
539-2520

We Discount the price-
NOT the quality!

Before you buy-check our mattress prices

K-State's open house helps recruitment

All-university event reaches out to Kansas high school students

By Tina Deines
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sixteen years ago, K-State was at an all-time low for recruitment, but thanks to a program started by President Jon Wefald, numbers have increased.

One of the recruitment techniques highlighted in the program is All-University Open House.

Lesley Hellerud, admissions representative, said that although open house is an important recruitment tool, it's only one of the many ways to reach high school students.

K-State sends eight admissions representatives to each of the 362 Kansas high schools at least twice a year. Hellerud said this helps give a personal contact between the university and the student as well as inform prospective students about the school.

The representatives try to hit on the highlights of the university and encourage students to visit while also sharing their own personal experiences at K-State.

"It gives the students a name with a face," Hellerud said. "It gives them a person to contact on the phone."

She also said it provided a sense of comfort as the students already knew someone on campus.

Pat Bosco, dean of student life, said the admissions representatives are very important to the recruitment process.

"They work 24-7 communicating with high school parents and students in a very responsive way," Bosco said. "This is an enormous service to K-State."

Tony Wichmann, post-secondary counselor at Manhattan High School, said that about 60 representatives visit the high school during college fairs. These visits, he said, are very helpful to students.

"They get a sense of if they could go there," he said. "I think that's something that really makes or breaks it for the students."

One of the main things Hellerud said K-State tries to emphasize is its atmosphere. She said the main advantage of K-State is that it's a "friendly, responsive, student-focused campus."

Bosco said K-State utilizes its friendly atmosphere to lure prospective students.

"K-State sells itself - our smiling students, our caring faculty and staff," Bosco said. "We get a big kick out of showing off."

Open house, Hellerud said, provides an opportunity for students to see if K-State would be a good fit for them.

"They have a good idea what K-State is about and can see if they feel like they can fit in," she said.

K-State's open house has been nationally showcased in magazines, Bosco said.

"It's the largest recruitment event in the state and one of the top in the country," Bosco said.

Hellerud also noted that three junior days and nine senior days also were important recruitment tools.

Wichmann said he also feels it is helpful for students to make a trip to their prospective universities.

He said the school facilitates this by permitting two excused college visits per year for juniors and seniors.

With about 70 percent of students going on to four-year colleges after graduation, about half of the students take advantage of college visits, Wichmann said.

Bosco said any event that informs high school students about the university is advantageous.

"Anytime our university has a chance to showcase its academic programs and quality is a big plus for everyone," he said.

Chemistry fraternity to present magic show

By Kelli Pitman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For those interested in a little magic and a lot of explosion, the Alpha Chi Sigma professional chemistry fraternity will be putting on two magic shows Saturday.

There will be many hands-on demonstrations for adults and children, said David Heroux, member of Alpha Chi Sigma and graduate student in organic chemistry.

A few of those demonstrations will include hydrogen balloons, grain silos and liquid nitrogen.

"The liquid nitrogen and anything that explodes is always popular," Heroux said.

There will be two 50-minute shows: one at 11 a.m. and another at 1 p.m., both in Willard 114.

The All-University Open House is the biggest and best event of the year for the fraternity, Heroux said. Things that cannot be done off campus are possible at open house because of the accessibility to the lab, making the show the best one of the year.

"We are going to have many new demonstrations because a lot of people have seen our shows in the past," Heroux said.

"We try to mix things up and have some fun while teaching some principles of chemistry."

Audience involvement is a big part of the show, he said. Almost every demonstration requires a volunteer to help out. This year the show will start with a bang, with a demonstration involving Pringles cans and hydrogen, Heroux said.

The Department of Chemistry also will have other activities going on in the K-State Student Union throughout the day, including slime making and glass blowing.

Kappa Alpha Theta

welcomes you to Open House!

Stop by for a tour
Saturday, March 29, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

1517 McCain Lane

Questions?

Call 395-7606

Stop by during the K-State Open House

(Continuous Tours from 9 a.m. - noon)

KSU Meat Sale

SATURDAY 9 a.m.-noon

Rm. 166 Weber Hall

*Saturday ONLY: everything 10% off

BEEF

roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK

pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork

Have a

Taste of K-State!

Try our FREE samples

For information call 532-1279

a new Lease on Life...

university COMMONS apartments

Looking for an excuse to get into a new place? Ready for your new lease on life? We've got the perfect place for you, it's UNIVERSITY COMMONS. And what a place it is - ideally located, totally affordable, awesome apartments decked out with...

- 2 & 4 Bedroom Apartment Homes • Individual Leases • Decked-out Kitchens • Fully Furnished
- Near KSU Stadium • Computer Lab with Copier & Fax • Washers and Dryers in unit
- Tennis, Basketball & Volleyball Courts • Recreation Room • Swimming Pool • Expanded Cable
- Permit Parking • Exercise Room • Monitored Alarm Systems • Roommate matching • Balconies
- Utility Package (one check can cover it all)

2215 COLLEGE AVENUE / 785-539-0500

Office Hours: Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

www.universitycommons.com

THE MEN OF ALPHA OTAU
MEGA

would like to welcome
 you to our
 Open House.

Saturday, Noon - 5 p.m.

Don't
 Have a COMPUTER
 for school?
DON'T WORRY.

We can custom build one for your needs!

- Computer systems starting at $499
- Largest selection of instock computer components in the area
- Networking
- Service

Advantage COMPUTER Solutions

PEOPLE WHO KNOW... KNOW THE ADVANTAGE

9-6 Mon-Fri • 1109 N. 3rd-Behind Bob's Diner • 323-1000

The women of
Sigma Kappa
would like to welcome you to our home

Stop by our Open House
 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.
 1525 Denison
 (across from the botanical gardens)
 Visit our Information booth in the Union.

Now Leasing!

Laundry Facilities
 Private Deck
 Pool
 Fireplaces

Large 2-bedroom Units

Cambridge Sq. Apt. Homes
BRAND NEW!
 Pebblebrook Apartment Homes
 Sandstone Apartments

Visit us online: hillinvestmentandrental.com
537-9064
 Weekdays • 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturdays • 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

early edition restaurant

Breakfast • Brunch
 Lunch

3210 Kimball
 (Candlewood Shopping Center)

539-3255

Serving breakfast, brunch, and lunch
 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri., 7 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Sat.-Sun.

the men of
Theta Xi would like to welcome you to their
Open House

Saturday, March 29th

Feel free to stop by from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Questions? 395-6294 ext. 112

1803 Laramie

Wash PALACE

Q: What happens when your hangers are empty and your laundry bag is full?

A: You drop off your laundry at:
THE WASH PALACE.

BRING IN THIS AD AND RECEIVE
20% off any DROP OFF or DRY CLEANING
THE WASH PALACE
 Drop Off Laundry
 Exp. May 31

7 a.m. - midnight 3216 Candlewood Center 537-9833

Alpha Delta Pi welcomes you to Open House
stop by for a tour
Saturday, March 29
12 pm - 6 pm
518 Sunset
 Questions? Call 395-2320

AΔΠ AΔΠ AΔΠ AΔΠ AΔΠ

Target practice, statue building all part of Salina open house experience

By Mako Shores
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Cramming to see how many students can fit into a Cessna 150 airplane is just one of numerous activities K-State-Salina will offer during the annual All-University Open House from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

The Cessna 150 event started two years ago with 16 students fitting inside the small airplane. The record was broken last year. "The Cessna 150 is the most widely known event," said Lynsey Burnett, K-State-Salina student body president. "Last year, a professor's daughter was the last one in, breaking the record with 17 inside."

Weld-a-Thon is a new event this year in which students and faculty will create a K-State-related design with donated sheet metal from Salina-area businesses and organizations. The event also is for charity.

"I'm looking forward to the Weld-a-Thon," said Kristin Magette, public and alumni relations coordinator for K-State-Salina. "One of our alumni who works in Salina has a 4-year-old child with severe medical problems and had a liver transplant in January. They have extensive medical bills, so all the money we raise will support their bills."

The design is unknown, but spectators will be able to watch the design progress into a K-State statue of some type.

Burnett said that although enrollment was low this year, she thinks this open house will bring more people.

"I think this year will be a better turnout because of our new alumni public relations coordinator," Burnett said. "She has more ideas, and she is bringing in more events and attracting more alumni to open house."

One event bringing in more alumni is the annual golf tournament, which takes place each year, but this is the first time it has been in conjunction with open house, Burnett said.

Another popular event is the Cat Cannon target practice, which Burnett said has finally become more known to students.

"It's a unique tradition to our school," she said, "and the students are really interested in getting to fire it."

K-State-Salina also is offering a flight simulator, aviation tours and a paper airplane contest.

Visitors often look forward to looking at the planes that are set up as well, Magette said.

"People are usually excited about the aircraft training fleet on display," she said. "They like seeing the airplanes and the Powercats on them."

Overall, Magette said the Weld-a-Thon should bring numerous people.

"It's for a good cause and people are into helping each other right now," Magette said. "We all want to hear good news."

ROUNDING THE CURVE

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Tanner Clagett, sophomore in philosophy and English, runs around the Memorial Stadium track Thursday afternoon. Clagett usually runs once a day. The new track, he said, is easier on his legs.

NEED A ROOMMATE or are you LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO LIVE?

advertise in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN • 801 Kessler • 622-6655

Gamma Phi Beta

"Building friendships that last a lifetime!"

1807 Todd Rd. 539-2372

Come and browse in a spacious, comfortable bookstore.

Thousands of hardback & paperback books in good condition and at low prices on any subject imaginable.

SECONDHAND BOOKSELLERS

THE DUSTY BOOKSHELF

BOOKS, BOUGHT, SOLD & EXCHANGED

Hours: Mon.-Fri. 10-8 • Sat. 10-6 • Sun. 1-5
700 N. Manhattan Ave. In Aggieville

Chase Manhattan Apartments offers apartments designed for Your lifestyle, within walking distance to Campus!

Spacious Living Area

Modern Interiors including
Ceiling Fans and Mini-Blinds

Full Appliances including Microwave,
Dishwasher, Disposal

Cable and Phone Jacks in Every Bedroom

24-Hr. Fitness Facility, 24-Hr. Laundry Care Center

On-Site Management and Maintenance

Swimming Pool with Sundeck - Basketball Court

Covered Parking Available

Chase Manhattan
Apartments

(785) 776-3663

at the corner of College and Claflin

www.firstmanagementinc.com

Welcome to ExpertTire

We Want to Earn Your Business

- Full service car care is always available
- Oil changes FAST in our oil change bay
- Tires installed in 59 minutes or less
- Maintenance tune-up & engine diagnostics performed
- Quality brake service & repair available
- Open weekdays and Saturdays at 7am... most stores open Sunday
- No appointment necessary

ONE STOP Sale!

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE! Open an AutoPass account today. Good on tires and MasterCard Car Services. Minimum monthly payment required.

Open Sunday, March 30th 10am-4pm

Firestone Sale! DOMESTIC CARS	Firestone Sale! IMPORT CARS	BRIDGESTONE Sale! SUVs • LIGHT TRUCKS
FR440 SALE Save now thru 4/1 4 TIRES FOR $119 60,000 mile limited warranty* All 13" sizes 4 For $169 All 14" sizes 4 For $199 All 15" sizes 4 For $229 70, 75 and 80 series size wheelwells	F570 SALE Save now thru 4/1 4 TIRES FOR $39.99 60,000 mile limited warranty* black letters 165/70R13 $39.99 175/70R13 $40.99 185/70R13 $43.99 185/70R14 $45.99 185/70R14 $46.99 205/70R14 $49.99 call for other sizes	DUELER H/T SALE Save now thru 4/1 4 TIRES FOR $74.99 60,000 mile limited warranty* white outline LT215/75R15c $83.99 P215/75R15 $77.99 LT235/75R15c $89.99 P205/70R15 $76.99 P235/70R15 $87.99 31x10.50R15LT $101.99 call for other sizes

$20 EACH P155/80R13
$22 EACH P165/80R13
$25 EACH P175/80R13
$27 EACH P185/80R13
$29 EACH P195/80R13
$20 EACH P175/80R13
$22 EACH P185/80R13
$25 EACH P195/80R13
$27 EACH P205/80R13
$29 EACH P215/80R13
$20 EACH P175/80R13
$22 EACH P185/80R13
$25 EACH P195/80R13
$27 EACH P205/80R13
$29 EACH P215/80R13

40,000 mile limited warranty*

Oil Change and Filter

- Filter • 5 quarts premium oil
- Lube • Free Courtesy Check
- Most vehicles. Add $2 for oil disposal fee.

Offer Ends 4/1/03
$9.99
4 Days Only!

Wheel Alignment

With any Bridgestone
or Firestone tire purchase.

Offer Ends 4/1/03
$20 OFF
4 Days Only!

Wiper Blades, Air Filters, Fuel Filters, Headlamps, Belts & Hoses

Save on installed purchase price

Most vehicles. Offer Ends 4/1/03
25% OFF
4 Days Only!

Brake Service

• Low Brake Pedal? • Grinding or Squeaking? • Pulling? • Pulsation?

- Complete Brake System Inspection
- Install brake pads and shoes
- Resurface drums and rotors
- Adjust drum brakes (on serviced axle)
- Road test vehicle

Price is for most vehicles with front disc and rear drum brakes. 4 wheel disc systems require higher. Additional brake systems, parts, grease and other towing repair extra. If needed.

ExpertTire

4 Wheels for $99
Offer Ends APR 03

MANHATTAN

307 N. 3rd Street 776-8311

Monday-Friday 7 am-6 pm

Saturday 7 am-5 pm

Sunday 10 am-4 pm

Visit Our Website At: www.ExpertTire.com

For Career Opportunities, call 1 877PITCREWS or visit us on the web: bmastercare.com

24 Hour KEY DROP WE EMPLOY CERTIFIED ASE TECHNICIANS LET US SERVE YOU! WE WELCOME NATIONAL ACCOUNTS We Also Honor:

*Shop fees in the amount of 6% of labor charges will be added to all services, up to a maximum charge of $25, not applicable in California or New York. Specific product offerings and brand designs may vary. Prices, warranties, MasterCard Car Services, credit plans and other offers available at Firestone Tire & Service Centers and Fire Station, see official dealers label for their competitive offers and warranties. If you do not achieve guaranteed mileage, your Firestone retailer will require your tires on a purchase basis. Actual tread life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on original purchase date. See retailer for details. Restrictions and copy of each limited warranty. *Credit terms made available by Credit First, N.A. No Payment for 90 days on qualifying purchases. No interest for 90 days on qualifying purchases. Minimum monthly payment required. Actual interest assessed from original purchase date if not paid in full within 90 days. Subject to credit approval. Interest at a variable rate of 21.84% APR as of 10/1/02 (APR may vary). Minimum finance charge $0.50. See store for details. 78362

WE CARRY A COMPLETE LINE OF BRIDGESTONE BRAND TIRES!

P
O
W E
R

At Manpower, people are our business. We work hard at being the best worldwide provider of staffing services to our 400,000 customers, and we strive to be the benchmark in providing quality employment opportunities to more than 2 million people per year.

How can we help you today?

great pay
paid holiday vacation pay
life/health insurance
referral bonuses
free office tech. training
free service quality training

...your own path.
MANPOWER
776-1094
www.manpower.com
555 Poyntz, Suite 245 Manhattan

to choose...

April Specials

Lighten & brighten color foils

FREE
Spa Pedicure with any wax

$15 and up

Also available:
Full service clinic floor
Artificial Nails • Manicures
Facials • Color
Haircuts • Perms

Enroll for May classes now.
Cosmetology & Manicuring

CRUM'S BEAUTY COLLEGE
512 Poyntz Ave.
Manhattan • 776-4794

All services performed by students under the supervision of licensed instructors.

THE WOMEN OF

Alpha Xi Delta

WELCOME YOU TO OUR HOME

House Tours

SATURDAY, MARCH 29TH
FROM 9 A.M.-5 P.M.

601 FAIRCHILD TERRACE

QUESTIONS? 395-1400

Turning potential into performance...

81st Engineering Open House

Friday: 28 March

Parade and Opening Ceremonies
• 1:20 p.m. Union Courtyard

Student & Industrial Displays
• 5:30 - 9:00 p.m. Union Courtyard

Saturday: 29 March

Student & Industrial Displays
• 9:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. Union Courtyard

Social Hour in Cat's Pause Lounge
• 5:00 p.m. Union - Cat's Pause

Engineering Awards Banquet
• 6:00 p.m. Union Ballroom
Tickets Available in RA 143

Turning potential into performance

FRIDAY SPECIAL

$2 BURGER & BEER

BIGGEST

Dance Floor in Aggieville

Wednesday

Ladies' Night

HOME FOR YOUR FAVORITE TEXAS MUSIC!

LONGHORNS

18 and over to enter

MOORE Property Management

All locations close to campus.
Trash & water paid.
Full time maintenance
Electric Central Heat & Air

One Bedroom
526 N. 14th

Two Bedrooms
1010 Thurston
428-430 N. 6th
923 Fremont
1212 Bluemont

Some locations offer washers and dryers, private balcony, built in library shelves, and fireplaces.

For more info call 537-0205

Duplexes Available

The Women of

Delta Delta Delta

would like to welcome you to visit our home

1834 Laramie St.

Saturday, March 29th
From 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m

Federal Jobs Panel

Wednesday April 2nd
Union 212
3:30 pm

Come hear tips on starting a career with the federal government from this panel of experts:

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA)
Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC)
U.S. Department of State (State Department)

Contact Career & Employment Services for more information
532-6506 - www.ksu.edu/ces

Beach museum to display student art

Fine arts majors' work showcased

By James Huria
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Fine arts students will have their work on display during the All-University Open House on Saturday at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art.

The art show, organized by the Student Friends of the Beach Museum, is the first student show at the museum, Kathrine Schlageck, Student Friends adviser, said.

More than 20 students will have their work on display, including Laura Bott, senior in fine arts.

Bott, a photographer, has had her work displayed previously at Radina's Coffee House and during Commerce Bank's art show. She said she hopes students will take the time to look at her work.

"I take a lot of candid shots," Bott said.

"I just record the things around me. But I know people have their own interpretations of what's going on around them."

Rebecca Olson, president of the Student Friends organization, said the show is designed to help student artists get their names recognized.

Prizes will be awarded to the best two-dimensional and three-dimensional pieces and for the best overall piece. Jay Nelson of the Strecker-Nelson Art Gallery will judge the exhibition.

See the show

The student art show will be from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art's auditorium.

In addition, Olson said, students will be available if anyone at the show is interested in purchasing their art.

The student art show was chosen by the Student Friends organization as a way of incorporating the museum with the open house, Schlageck said.

"We were wanting to show prospective students on the K-State campus what the museum has to offer," Schlageck said. "It also gives us a chance to showcase the art department."

The Student Friends is still a relatively new organization, Schlageck said. The group plans the museum's family day and open house events, and she expects the organization to continue similar events in the future.

"They're hoping this will be an annual event," Schlageck said. "They may expand it to include more students and more artists."

But for this year, Olson said there is something for everyone at the show.

"Those who view the show will be able to see what students have been working on since they've been at K-State," she said.

"For the students involved, it's a chance to show off their work."

"And for our group, it's a chance to view some different art, to meet other students and to overall have a good time."

Math Olympiad planned to challenge students

By Katie Copeland
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Addition, multiplication and division are just a few of the basic elements needed for the seventh annual Manhattan Mathematical Olympiad on Saturday.

All students in grades five through 12 are invited to challenge their thinking and creativity skills throughout the event, which is a part of K-State's All-University Open House.

Yan Soibelman, professor of mathematics, expects 85 to 150 students to participate in the competition, which will be from 9 a.m. to noon in Cardwell Hall. Participants are invited to return for the solution session and awarding of prizes from 5 to 8 p.m.

"This is an open competition," said Soibelman, chair of the Olympiad committee. "We expect a team from Alabama. A few years ago, we had a winner from Wichita."

Students will have three hours to complete four problems.

"Solutions will require creativity and concentration, not just routine application of what they learned at school," Soibelman said.

The Olympiad, which Soibelman introduced to K-State seven years ago, is designed to encourage kids interested in mathematics.

The competition is modeled after both the U.S. and International Mathematical Olympiads as well as others throughout Europe.

"Mathematical Olympiads have long tradition in Eastern Europe," Soibelman said. "I use the same format. I don't think there is anything like that in Kansas."

ROYAL PURPLE yearbook

we've got the stories
you've got to read.

Order your 2003 Royal Purple yearbook for $34.95
on Kodak 103, or call 532-6555.

Yes, the students are back in town.

They're also spending money to furnish their living spaces.

They're shopping in the Kansas State Collegian classifieds.

Call to place an ad today. 532-6555.

SELYOURSTUFF

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.

CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

K-STATE SUPER STORE

A Division of GTM Sportswear

WELCOMES YOU TO THE K-STATE OPEN HOUSE!

- Customized Authentic Football And Basketball Jerseys
- Unique K-State Accessories
- K-State Apparel
- Shop Online 24/7: kstategear.com

520 McCall Rd (Northeast of Wal-Mart) • Manhattan
M-F 8:30am - 7pm, Sat. 9am - 7pm, Sun. Noon - 5pm

BRING IN THIS AD AND RECEIVE A 10% DISCOUNT!

Coupon good for all in stock and sale merchandise. Valid Mar. 28-31, 2003.

Student Special

We proudly offer all of the following facilities:
Tennis (3 indoor, 3 outdoor courts),
Racquetball, Squash, Hand Ball,
Basketball, Jacuzzi, Saunas, Cardio
Equipment and Weight Room. Personal training and exercise classes are available. Day lockers available at no charge, ample parking.

Non-students please contact
Christian at Cottonwood for specials.
Group and private lessons are available for all ages and abilities.
These rates will be pro-rated from time of membership.

3615 Cloffin

776-6065

Grand Ol' Trunk

Some things are better
the Second time around

1304 Pillsbury Dr. Hwy. 177
537-2273

The Women of

Alpha Chi Omega

would like to welcome you to our Open House
Saturday 12-5 pm

Book Sales

Manhattan Library Association

March 28 - 30

Friday 5:30 - 7

MLA members only
(memberships available on-site)

Saturday 10 - 4

Sunday 1 - 3

Manhattan Public Library - Auditorium
Juliette & Poyntz Avenue

Featuring cookbooks, children's and large print books.

Friends of the KSU Libraries

March 29 - April 3

Saturday 9 - 5

KSU Open House

Sunday 1 - 8

Monday, Tuesday
& Wednesday
(regular library hours)

Hale Library - Second Floor
K-State Campus

Books, CD's, audio & video tapes
available.

Ball club offers training

By Emily Meissen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Beyond handing out information or setting up a booth, the K-State Softball Club will be teaching hands-on skills in conjunction with the All-University Open House on Saturday.

Up to 15 members of the Softball Club will offer a free softball clinic from 9 a.m. to noon at the softball diamonds north of the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

The clinic, for any young girls interested in fast-pitch softball, will teach basic hitting, throwing, catching and other softball skills.

"We will basically be helping them to better their skills and provide a good base for them to build on," club president Mandy Goodwin said. "We wanted to tie into open house because there will be so many people on campus."

As one of only two schools in the Big 12 with a club team instead of an intercollegiate team, Coach Richard Baker said the club hoped to get publicity to those who don't know about its program. Baker said the members wanted to do something to give back to the community.

"The idea behind this is that it gives younger girls someone to look up to," Baker said. "The girls on the team are in college full time, have jobs, are busy and are still playing softball. They decided education has to take a precedence, but they still want to play softball."

Following the clinic, the softball team will play a doubleheader against Hesston College at 3 p.m. at the Optimist Fields on Plymate Lane. The game is free, and Baker said he encourages anyone to attend after open house.

The clinic on Saturday is a prelude to a larger daylong clinic the Softball Club will have May 3.

"The girls who are instructing represent a wealth of information about softball," Baker said. "Many of them want to be coaches or have been coaches in the past."

The clinic in May will cost $40 and will include lunch, a T-shirt and a chance for girls to have one-on-one contact with members of the softball club.

2nd annual Rock Fest to be part of All-University Open House weekend

Local bands to play in student union plaza

By Lindsey Tipling
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

This year's All-University Open House will mark the second-annual Rock Fest.

Rock Fest is an event at which numerous local bands come out and show the community what they have to offer, said Matt Bartlett, open house entertainment committee chair.

Rock Fest will take place from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the K-State Student Union Plaza.

"We will be having seven local bands performing throughout the afternoon," Bartlett said. "Each band will play approximately 30 to 45 minutes, except for Gang of Hours, the featured band, which will be playing one hour."

Including Gang of Hours, Bartlett said the other bands that would be present are Lucas, Who's Anthony, The Unit, Tumbler, Podstar and Tripwire.

Jeff Rundle, senior in civil engineering, who will emcee the event, said he is looking forward to it.

"I have been asked to introduce them and then do filler time in between bands," he said.

Bartlett said the radio station KJCK-FM 97.5 will be covering the event and helping hand out prizes during breaks between bands as well.

As one of the people involved in Rock Fest last year, Bartlett said his goal was to increase attendance at this year's event.

"We just want to make it bigger and better," he said.

"We want to get more people to come out."

In the event of rain, Bartlett said Rock Fest will be moved into Union Station, but planners are hoping for nice weather.

In addition to Rock Fest, the Union Program Council and the Open House Entertainment Committee also will be sponsoring Cat Town, which will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Quad behind Hale Library.

Bartlett said Cat Town will feature a putt-putt golf course, a carnival and craft tables, and local K-State athletes will come out for the event.

Another event taking place is K-State Fear Factor.

Bartlett said prominent K-State students will be doing a miniature version of the popular reality TV series "Fear Factor."

"We are working with the entomology department," he said. "So we will have some gross things for them to do."

Two of the students participating in this event will be Student Senate members John O'Hara and Tammy Jo Osborn, he said.

"We thought it would be fun for everyone to watch," Bartlett said.

Bartlett said there will be several other events throughout the day.

"A rock wall set up by the ROTC will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Union Plaza, and smaller groups such as K-State Cadence and Devon Henderson's magic show will perform before Rock Fest from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m."

"I think this will definitely be an open house for people to come out and enjoy a good environment," he said. "They can be in a good atmosphere and enjoy some good bands."

The Men of Beta Theta Pi would like to invite you to our house at 500 Sunset

11 am - 4 pm
Saturday, March 29th

Welcome To KSU's Open House and The Lil' Apple

WE HAVE 3 MANHATTAN LOCATIONS TO SERVE YOU

- AGGIEVILLE
"WORLD'S OLDEST PIZZA HUT"
1121 MORO
539-7666
- WESTLOOP
2931 CLAFLIN
539-7447
- 3RD & MORO
231 MORO
776-4334

This Coupon Good For LARGE PIZZA
FOR A MEDIUM CHARGE

EXPIRES APRIL 30, 2003

* Limit 1 discount per coupon
* Not valid with any other special offer or on the Big New Yorker Pizza or Stuffed Crust Pizzas
* 1/20 cent cash redemption value
©Pizza Hut of Manhattan, Inc. 2001

*PIZZA HUT - NAMED "#1 PIZZA IN MANHATTAN, KANSAS

GREEK Letter

The Greek Letter is a monthly advertisement that publicizes greek life and events. If you have any questions or comments, please contact Greek Affairs at 532-5546.

Sorority Recruitment

is August
10-16, 2003!
Register online at www.ksugreekaffairs.com!

Fraternities and sororities offer more than just housing; they offer leadership, intramurals, scholarship opportunities, community service and lifelong friendships!

Why should you consider Greek Life?

Greek Membership Helps Keep You in College

Fraternity and sorority membership increases student retention by about 28%! Alumni Members Achieve Financial Success- After factoring out parents' education level, gender and year of graduation, Greek membership correlates positively with higher income!

Why is K-State Greek Life So Amazing?

81% of K-State's fraternity chapters have received national awards of excellence, and 10 chapters have been named number one in the nation!
For the past 20 years, the all-Greek GPA has been higher than the all-university GPA!
All but two U.S. Presidents since 1865 have been fraternity men!
Last year at K-State, sororities donated over $57,000 and spent more than 10,000 hours serving the campus and community!

Check out the Greek Affairs website at www.ksugreekaffairs.com to find out when fraternity recruitment events are being held!

K-State is home to 24 fraternities and 11 sororities. More than 3500 undergraduates, about 20% of the K-State student body, are members of the Greek community. While Greeks are only 20% of the student body, they hold nearly 65% of campus leadership positions!

Go Greek!

Faculty Member of the Month

We would also like to congratulate Barbara Anderson for being the recipient of the March Faculty of the Month program winner. Barbara is an instructor of many classes having to do with Interior Design. Barbara was nominated by the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Barbara has a continued dedication to this university. She continues to reach tenure, by providing detailed instruction and acting as a professional advisor and resource. She has been asked to lecture at many different conventions in her field and to write numerous articles, which have been featured in many publications of her trade. She specializes in historic preservation of design.

In addition to her wonderful skills in instruction, she has also worked to lead and push forward the interior design program here at Kansas State University. Many budget cuts have affected the Interior Design Program here, forcing some instructors to seek positions elsewhere. Barbara has taken on double the teaching load, but has not lost any of her dedication.

In addition, Barbara Anderson is dedicated fully to her students, her department, her profession and the university in general. She has been called a treasure by her students and should be recognized for her continued service. She is a truly caring woman, who tries to help her students both inside and outside of the classroom. She encourages students to have fun while pursuing their careers, and illustrates these points through her daily life. Thank you Barbara Anderson for your amazing efforts here. The student body and the rest of the campus truly appreciate you!

Greek of the Month

Special congratulations to the recipient of March's Greek of the Month, Andy Newton from Alpha Tau Omega! Andy is a senior, majoring in Bioengineering, Pre-Med and Pre-Law with a 3.9 GPA. Andy is always dedicating 100% of his time to his fraternity, his education and the Greek system. Andy is very deserving of this award.

Throughout his fraternity experience, Andy has held many offices. He is currently the outgoing president. While serving as the chapter president, the chapter received Top Alpha Tau Omega Chapter in the Nation. He is also currently serving as one of two undergraduates nationwide on the National Alpha Tau Omega Board of Directors while also holding positions on many other committees for the national headquarters. He is currently serving his chapter as Scholarship Chairman, Mom's Weekend Coordinator and as an Executive Committee Member. He also recently finished initiating a new project, where his fellow fraternity members could utilize a system of resumes and cover letters, to better aid them in receiving employment opportunities after college.

Outside of his chapter, Andy is involved in many other activities, both inside and outside of the Greek system. He is currently the lead ambassador for the Greek Ambassador program. He is a member of the KSU Student Foundation, the American Red Cross Club and an Adopt-a-School tutor. His honors and awards are too numerous to mention, but they include the KSU Dean's list, the National Dean's List, and countless numbers of scholarships and honor societies.

Outside of all of his other activities, Andy still tries to find time to participate in intramural sports and community service. He enjoys hanging out with his friends when his busy schedule allows it. After college, he hopes to continue work in Electrical Engineering to eventually find ways to help paralyzed patients have feeling in their limbs again. He also hopes to continue his education on to law school, where he will study intensely in Patent Law and Intellectual Properties Law. Eventually, he hopes to have his own bioengineering and nanotechnology research firm to find cost efficient solutions to medical problems. He hopes to eventually have a family and to repay his parents for all of their sacrifices that they have made to help him get to where he is today!

As you can see, Andy Newton from Alpha Tau Omega is very deserving of this award. We would like to thank him for his contributions to the Greek system and this university as a whole. People like Andy make this campus the wonderful place that it is today.

Α Β Γ Δ Ε Ζ Η Θ Ι Κ Λ Μ Ν Ξ Ο Π Ρ Σ Τ Υ Φ Ψ Χ Ω Α Β

KANSAS STATE COLLEGLIAN

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Monday, March 31, 2003

America At War

Troops advance north

Contact with Iraqis growing in wary steps

By Calvin Woodward
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Front-line U.S. troops inched toward Baghdad on Sunday, meeting friendly farmers along the way, and British forces enlisted the local population to help press their campaign against Saddam Hussein loyalists in the south.

The coalition reported increased contacts with ordinary Iraqis on many fronts.

Iraq's leadership said 4,000 Arabs have come to Saddam Hussein's aid and suggested coalition soldiers would face more attacks from plainclothes killers like the suicide bombing that left four Americans dead Saturday in Najaf in south central Iraq.

A Marine UH-1 Huey helicopter crashed Sunday night at a forward supply and refueling point in southern Iraq, said a spokesman, 1st Lt. John Niemann, in Kuwait. Three people aboard were killed and one was injured in the crash that occurred while the helicopter was taking off.

Questions grew over how long the war might last and whether the United States had committed enough troops to it. Gen. Tommy Franks, commander of the allied coalition, side-stepped when asked if it could go on into the summer.

"One never knows how long a war will take," Franks said.

War Hits Home

Churches encourage prayer

Americans turn to faith during war

By April Middleton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGLIAN

Prayers are being said in churches and homes across the nation.

In times of world conflict — like the present war in Iraq — many people turn to their faith and their church for guidance.

While the war effort might seem very far away, Jim Reed, senior pastor at First United Methodist, said it hits very close to home for many.

"Almost everyone knows someone who is involved in this effort," he said.

Regardless of the position a person takes, he said, it is important to be supportive right now.

It's too late, he said, to prevent a war.

"War is tragic any way you slice it, but at the same time judgments have to be made. I am not a pacifist, but there are other churches that would see things differently," Reed said.

"But I can't conceive of any-

See CHURCHES Page 9

CELEBRITY SEND-OFF

Photos by Evan Semón | COLLEGLIAN

Country singer Travis Tritt shakes hands with one-year-old Seth Price, son of Sgt. Ramey Price (right) Friday afternoon at the Barlow Theater in Fort Riley. Tritt took a break from his concert tour and spoke with the troops to express his support of their efforts in the war in Iraq.

Singer, senator give support to Fort Riley troops

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGLIAN

Country singer Travis Tritt came to Fort Riley on Friday with a purpose.

After hearing various members of the entertainment community express their negative opinions on war, Tritt wanted to let soldiers know his feelings.

"As a member of the entertainment community, I know there's a lot of people out there that you see from time to time on television that make statements that are not in support," he said. "I just want to let you know that they are a very, very small minority, and the majority of the people that I know are people that back you folks 100 percent."

Tritt, along with Sen. Sam Brownback, R-Kan., came to Fort Riley on Friday to show their support for troops being deployed to the Middle East, notably the 1st Battalion, 13th Armor Unit. The unit, part of the 3rd Brigade, has deployment orders and will be sent to Northeast Africa and Asia Minor sometime in the coming week.

"I just wanted to let you folks know that we appreciate what you do for us," Tritt said. "Without a doubt you are the most well-trained, most efficient fighting force on this planet."

Tritt also thanked the troops for their hard work and dedication to their jobs.

"Personally, it gives me a tremendous amount of pride as an American to know that I can lay my head down every single night and know that we're defended by you men and women out there," he said. "We believe that you will not falter, you

See TRITT Page 9

Family prepares to part ways due to deployment

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGLIAN

He couldn't stop smiling. With news of deployment and the realities of leaving his wife and infant daughter behind, all Lt. Philip Crabtree could do was anxiously await the arrival of country singer Travis Tritt at Friday's event to honor the soldiers of the 1st Battalion, 13th Armor Unit at Fort Riley.

Hours earlier Crabtree and his wife, Katie, were handed keys to a new house.

The Crabtree family spent months living in a hotel room after a shortage of homes in the Fort Riley area. Days before Philip's deployment, though, the Crabtrees received the good news that a home on post had opened up.

"I'm glad we got housing. That's one worry off my mind of where my family is going to live," Philip said.

But behind the soldier's smiles was a man who realized that in a matter of days, he'd be departing from his wife and more importantly, missing a lot of "firsts" with his daughter, Bailey — notably her first birthday, which is two weeks away.

"There's so much I will miss about her," he said. "I thought I was getting on the plus side of getting to see her and now I'm leaving for probably another year of her life.

"I'll miss her talk, and when I come back, she'll have long hair and running around all over the place."

Katie said that although the reality of war has set in, she knows that this is one opportunity her husband cannot miss.

"I'm scared for him to go over there right now," she said. "But I get to see him have the chance to go over there and fight for what he has been training for."

"We keep the lines of communication open, and talk about how we're family right now."

In order to pass time, Katie said she has enrolled to take summer classes at K-State and finish her degree in business. In addition, she said she'll keep busy with her new house.

"I'm ecstatic. I cannot wait to get our house set up," she said.

However, between Katie's classes and Philip's job, the Crabtrees know it will be a difficult year of separation.

"Katie makes up for so much that I lack, so we're a real partnership," Philip said, with tears in his eyes. "And my daughter is just a sweetheart."

Lt. Philip Crabtree of the 1st Battalion, 13th Armor Unit at Fort Riley, holds his daughter, Bailey, while waiting with his wife Katie for the arrival of country artist Travis Tritt at Friday's event to honor soldiers.

Up 'Til Dawn philanthropy raises $117,000 for hospital

Evan Semón | COLLEGLIAN

Judges for the "American Idol" sequence of "Up 'Til Dawn," Neely Holland, senior in public relations, John Huff, senior in marketing, and Haley Thompson, junior in marketing, get ambushed by morale leader, Matt Clayton, sophomore in accounting and finance.

By Tina Deines
KANSAS STATE COLLEGLIAN

In its first year at K-State, Up 'Til Dawn surpassed any other university in funds raised.

"This is gonna be an awesome end to an awesome beginning," said Sol Pettit-Scott, executive director of Up 'Til Dawn, during the opening ceremony of Up 'Til Dawn's finale Friday night.

The event at Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex, which lasted from 6 p.m. Friday until 6 a.m. the following morning, celebrated the success of Up 'Til Dawn at K-State, said Megan Barr, public relations director and senior in mass communications.

More than 100 schools participate in the national philanthropy and as a first-year participant, K-State led in fund raising for the 2002-03 school year.

The 100 teams, which consisted of about 700 total participants, raised more than $117,000 for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Throughout the night, there were many events, including performances from the Classy Cats, Cadence and bands

See GREEK Page 10

INSIDE

What happened to Screech? Dustin Diamond is now a comedian, and he performed Sunday.

The Edge, Page 7

NEWSWORTHY

The Associated Press

Rumsfeld says fiercest fighting ahead, no timetable set for war's end

The fiercest fighting and gravest danger lie ahead for U.S. troops as they advance toward Baghdad, and the Pentagon's plan will result in victory, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said Sunday.

...

Pentagon considering speeding up flow of combat forces to Iraq war

The Pentagon may send reinforcements to Iraq sooner than scheduled, and the number of U.S. and allied forces in the Persian Gulf region now exceeds 290,000, officials said Saturday.

...

Iraq rewards family of suicide attacker who killed four Americans

Iraq gave $34,000 to the family of an Iraqi army officer who killed four U.S. soldiers in a suicide attack. The leader of the Islamic Jihad said Sunday its volunteers had gone to Baghdad for similar bombing missions.

...

Amnesty International: Governments using Iraq war as opportunity to violate human rights

Amnesty International delivered a petition to Prime Minister Tony Blair, calling on the government to make more information public about civilian deaths in Iraq. The group said it had found evidence of abuses in 14 countries since the start of the war.

...

Rocket slams into headquarters of international peacekeepers

A rocket slammed into the headquarters of the international peacekeeping force in Afghanistan late Sunday. There were no reports of injuries.

Weather

Today 75 | 45

Mostly sunny

Tuesday 81 | 55

Sunny

Contact Us

Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Display advertising.....532-6560
Classified advertising.....532-6555
Delivery problems.....532-6555

www.kstatecollegian.com

Vol. 107, No. 125

- Integrity
- Experience
- Leadership
- Innovation
- Commitment
- Vote April 1st!

Re-elect

Bruce Snead

for

City Commission

Paid for by Bruce Snead for City Commission, Mark Knackendoffel, Treasurer

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 The girl
4 Public's perception of you
9 Mac rival
12 St.
13 Bernard's burden 14 Heston's
org.
15 Act of swallowing
17 Cistern
18 Mauna
19 Spot
21 Protection
24 Show boredom
25 A billion years 26 Visibility hindrance 28 Dispose of 31 Gabrieli
Chanel
33 Flushed
35 Arizona
river 36 Whale variety 38 Take blades t blades 40 Rowing need

DOWN

41 Cheat at hide-and-seek 43 Singer
Warwick
45 Chant
47 Wilde-beest
48 Miss
Piggy
49 Shot
54 Bustle
55 Worship
56 Prompt
57 Longing
58 Mississippi Valley deposit
59 Prior to
DOWN
1 Tackle moguls
16 out a living 20 Small branch
21 Min.
fractions
22 Old-fashioned skirt enhancer
23 Beginning
27 Prized possession
29 Family
Shoes
30 Aesopian
also-ran 32 Sandwich cookie
34 Ebbets
Field squad
37 Service
39 Finches
42 Japanese fencing
44 Chic no longer 45 be wrong,
but ...
46 Profu-berance
50 Dimaggio
or Namath
51 Lipinski's surface
52 Miss
Brooks
53 Born

Friday's answer

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22
23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33
34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44
45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55
56 57 58 59 60 61 62 63 64 65 66

STUMPED?

For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-225-5851 99¢ per minute, touch-tone only. (18+ only) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

Q U H W F O H I R Z W G Z J O X H V H R
J H E R G U Z X X . M Y H X M H N H
U H Q M X X U F N H Y H H W
" M W E Z G V Z I M W F V H E . "

Saturday's Cryptquip: BY WORKING ON MY MASTER'S AS WELL AS MY DOCTORATE, I'M BEING KILLED BY DEGREES

Today's Cryptquip Clue: X equals L

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Crypt Classics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you know that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

3-31 CRYPTOQUIP

Q U H W F O H I R Z W G Z J O X H V H R
J H E R G U Z X X . M Y H X M H N H
U H Q M X X U F N H Y H H W

" M W E Z G V Z I M W F V H E . "

Saturday's Cryptquip: BY WORKING ON MY MASTER'S AS WELL AS MY DOCTORATE, I'M BEING KILLED BY DEGREES

Today's Cryptquip Clue: X equals L

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to Crypt Classics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you know that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Sarah Rice at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., 1011, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, 1011, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

NAMES IN THE NEWS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Madonna criticizes pop trends, idols

LONDON — Madonna has blasted manufactured pop acts and a stream of TV talent searches, saying they're homogenizing the music world.

In excerpts released Thursday from an interview with British music magazine Q, the 44-year-old singer accuses record chiefs of choosing new acts based on their marketing potential instead of their talent.

"I arrived at a different time, before the time of Svengalis holding talent searches — finding a girl that looks right and can carry a tune and then figuring a way to market her," Madonna said in the magazine's May issue.

Referring to singers Pink, Christina Aguilera and Britney Spears, she said: "I'm not saying those girls can't grow into something, but I really don't know where we're going with the world. Everything's so homogenized."

Madonna joins other music veterans, including Elton John and George Michael, who have criticized talent searches such as "Pop Idol," a British reality TV show in which viewers choose a winner to get a record contract. The U.S. version of the show, "American Idol," is in its second successful season.

Madonna was also critical of young hopefuls who crave celebrity for its own sake, rather than wanting recognition of their abilities.

"It's the allure of this beautiful life. Drive this car, you're gonna be popular," she said.

Filmmaker interviews stars about drug use

LOS ANGELES — A documentary filmmaker was surprised by the candor of the movie stars he interviewed for a film about how Hollywood deals with the subject of drug abuse.

Bruce Sinofsky, whose AMC documentary "Hollywood High" was scheduled to air Monday, said director Oliver Stone admitted trying the hallucinogen peyote to get inspiration for "The Doors," the story of rocker Jim Morrison.

Sinofsky said Willem Dafoe told him the star and his friends used to get high to watch Disney's animated "Fantasia" when they were young. Writer-director John Waters claimed "100 percent" of the audience, crew and actors were high on marijuana for the premiere of his offbeat 1972 comedy "Pink Flamingos," Sinofsky said.

"What I didn't expect was the honesty, the truthful interviews I was doing. I didn't expect them to be talking about their own drug experiences that openly," Sinofsky said.

Sinofsky's film traces the evolution of drug films, from the 1938 cautionary tale "Reefer Madness" and the 1970s marijuana comedies of Cheech and Chong to recent films like "Requiem for a Dream" and "Traffic" about the effects of cocaine and heroin.

Joe Millionaire's Zora has day dedicated to her

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J. — Joe Millionaire's girl-friend Zora Andrich got a royal welcome when she returned to her former hometown.

About 300 fans turned out Saturday to celebrate "Zora Day," honoring the local girl who made good on Fox's reality television series "Joe Millionaire."

The guest of honor rode a horse-drawn carriage along Main Street and then signed autographs at a restaurant for two hours.

"Zora Day" evolved by accident, according to Mayor David Del Vecchio, who said he agreed to the event when a radio personality asked on air what Lambertville would do if Andrich won.

After the show aired, attracting 40 million viewers, Andrich moved out of town due to publicity.

Former Beatle releases new album

LOS ANGELES — Ringo Starr has just released his latest album, "Ringo Rama," but the former Beatle says his first love will always be playing for audiences.

"Sometimes it's the most spiritual plane that you ever get to," Starr said. "On certain nights there is nothing better. So I'm blessed as long as I can hold the sticks."

Adam Hayes | COLLEGIAN

The new album, which includes a tribute to former Beatle bandmate George Harrison, comes after a period of loss for the drummer. His first wife, Maureen, died in 1995. Three years later, longtime friend Linda McCartney died, and confidant Harrison died in 2001.

But Starr, who battled substance abuse in the 1980s, says he has learned to appreciate the simpler joys in life.

He continues to tour with his All-Starr Band, but he also dedicates time to writing, painting, gardening and shopping for flowers with his wife, actress Barbara Bach.

"I just don't let things get on top of me as much," Starr said. "I try not to rule the world. I think just getting up in the morning is a great achievement."

Jazz legend doses nightclub business

NEW ORLEANS — After 43 years, jazz clarinetist Pete Fountain is bowing out of the New Orleans nightclub business.

Fountain opened his first New Orleans club on Bourbon Street in 1960, but has been playing the last 26 years at the Hilton Riverside club, where he held his finale Friday before 400 mostly invited friends and family.

Fountain, 72, said the time was right to move on, noting the tourist business has been down since the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks.

"I needed a change," Fountain said. "I didn't want it, but I needed it. It's one of those things. Since 9-11, we've seen a lot of people that used to come don't come any more. The club was still making it, but we could see the handwriting on the wall."

"It's been a real good ride, and we've still got a lot of riding to do," he said. "I might get off the motorcycle and ride a little scooter now, but it's still a ride."

Fountain said he'll keep playing at private events, as well as at the French Quarter Festival on April 11 and at the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival on May 4.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, March 27

■ At 8:36 p.m., Michael Wallace, 1623 Pierre, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.

Friday, March 28

■ At 12:30 a.m., Bryan Allen, 312 Haymaker Hall, was arrested for consumption of alcohol, possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $2,250.

■ At 1:24 a.m., Jason Schmitt, 2453 Hobbs, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.

■ At 2:01 a.m., Cody Nash, 2411 Woodway, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

■ At 2:03 a.m., John Hahn, Nebraska, was arrested for unlawful possession of depressants, possession of a controlled substance and DUI. Bond was set at $3,000.

■ At 3:15 a.m., Eric Nikkel, 1212 Thurston, No. 1, was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $750.

■ At 3:40 a.m., Mandy Horan, 1032 Gardenway, was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ There will be a basic library class at 10:30 p.m. today in Hale classroom 408.

■ There will be an International Agricultural Seminar at 3:30 p.m. today in Waters 137. David Regehr will present, "Direct Seeding, Crop Rotation, and Weed Management: Myths and Principles."

■ Friends of the KSU Libraries will have a book sale during regular Hale Library hours today through Thursday.

■ KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.

■ The Management Information Systems Club will meet at 7 tonight in Calvin 211. Scott Seglie will be speaking about network security.

■ Springtime Stories will be presented at Manhattan Public Library at 7 tonight. Golden Key Honor Society members will read stories. For more information, call 776-4741 ext. 125.

■ Career and Employment Services will have a State Department information session at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in Calvin 202.

■ Entries will be taken for the Home Run Derby in the Chester E. Peters recreational office today through Thursday. The contest is Saturday.

■ Relay for Life will be from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. on April 25-26. Donations are welcome. Contact Bryanne at bna8388@ksu.edu.

Up next

In Tuesday's Collegian

News | Living situation series
Remember eating at the dining center and sharing bathrooms? Read about how one woman views residence hall life.

Claflin is now taking reservations for our premium 100% cotton paper.

We provide the highest quality dissertation and thesis printing.

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. 776-3771

Don't want to see you on page 2.

BE RESPONSIBLE

$20 today Get Paid to Study!

Donate your life-saving blood plasma and earn cash.

Fees apply to new donors

ZLB Plasma Services

1130 Gardenway
785-776-9177

call or stop by
No appointment needed
www.zbl.com

VOTE

Mark Hatesohl
City Commissioner

Little Caesars

MONDAY MADNESS

1 LARGE 14" PIZZA
WITH 1 TOPPING

$4.99

539-3333

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting, & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Total confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Laundromutt

Affordable self-service baths for your dog.
Elevated bath, shampoo, towel and dryer provided.

Call for details
Bark Avenue Canine Designs
607 N. 11th • 565-0612

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

Free 10" one topping pizza with the purchase of a Large with 2 or more toppings.

For the fastest delivery, lunch or late night call 776-5577

OPEN THE LATEST!

GURBY'S PIZZA

Delivers the latest! Pizza & Pub

770-3333

Monday mania

LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY
CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA

stick it to me Tuesday

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE
GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
ONE INCORPORATED OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY

Rock N Roll

wednesday

$6.99 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ minimum 6 pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.

DELIVERY DINE-IN CARRY-OUT

Tao Massage Therapy

$10 off first appointment!

RATES	Regular	Students & KSU Members
15 Min	$15	$10
30 Min	$25	$20
1 Hr	$45	$40
1 1/2 Hrs	$67	$60

Call for your appointment 785-341-9928

• Integrity
• Experience
• Leadership
• Innovation
• Commitment
• Vote April 1st!

Re-elect Bruce Snead

for City Commission

Paid for by Bruce Snead for City Commission, Mark Knackendoffel, Treasurer

New ID system in place

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State students will have a little more convenience in their hectic lives.

Electronic IDs begin replacing all other student access names and passwords for K-State's computing system today.

The first will be KATS, said Rebecca Gould, director of information technology assistance center. Other systems, like K-State Online, will follow.

"The new eID system will provide a lot more convenience for students," she said. "They will only have to remember one ID and password to access all of K-State's information technology resources.

For every action, there is a reaction, though.

The tradeoffs to having only one ID are the security issues that arise, said Harvard Townsend, director of computer and networking services.

"Security is much more critical," he said.

If someone finds out a student's password, he said, they will have access to everything that student has access to, on that student's account.

"Students must be careful. Don't share passwords with anyone or write them down where anyone else could see them."

Online enrollment through KATS for fall 2003 will use the new eID system, Townsend said.

"Students will need to use their eID to enroll, but there will be a grace period until May 1 where students may use either their eID and new password or their student identification number and password," he said.

Townsend said that the most important aspect of the new eIDs is security.

"Students should almost be paranoid about them," he said.

Dorothy Champion, freshman in animal science, spins on a gyro sphere Saturday afternoon during open house activities. The gyro sphere was sponsored by Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Student organizations set up protest

By Jessica Pitts
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

They want the war to end. They want the soldiers to come home, and they want peace to be restored.

For four K-State organizations, those motivations are enough to unite for a common cause.

Ordinary Women, Students for Environmental Action, Campus Greens and KSU Socialists have formed the K-State Coalition for Peace, a group with a mission solely to speak against the US-led war in Iraq.

"We want to be an outlet for students with concerns," said Willie Wake, president and founder of the Coalition. "We want to be able to express our views about the war during school hours and on campus."

The origin of the group, Wake said, began at the Campus Anti-War Network in Chicago that he attended.

"There was a lot of talk about coalitions, and that is where I got the idea," he said.

"One of the biggest problems at K-State is apathy, and I think this is a way to combat that."

That apathy might be due to a lack of education about war events, said Erin Runnels, a representative from Students for Environmental Action.

"A lot of people just don't seem to be aware of what is happening," she said. "They know the United States is at war, but they might not know why exactly. A lot of the knowledge about the war comes from TV and that tends to be mostly pro-war views. We want to provide alternate education."

The group saw the need when they saw only community members were participating in Manhattan, Runnels said.

"There hasn't been anything that is geared towards students," she said, "and we think that there are a lot of students that want to get involved, but they are not sure where to turn. This organization and its protests will provide that outlet for student comments about the war."

The first chance to express those views, a protest scheduled for noon on Thursday in the K-State Student Union Plaza, will feature three speakers and an open forum.

"We want to hear the students' views," Wake said. "Anything is allowed as long as it is not a personal insult."

Wake hopes the protest will spark discussion about the events in Iraq.

"I would rather have someone argue with me than just quietly walk past me," he said.

Although it is an anti-war protest, Runnel said war supporters are encouraged to attend.

"We want this to be as much about education as it is protest," she said. "The more views that are represented, the better educated we can be."

Wake stressed that although they are against the war, the group is not against the deployed soldiers.

"We are supporting the soldiers," he said. "Our view is we want them to come home. We want the war to end. This is our way of showing support for them."

All-University Open House event attracts visitors, prospective students to K-State

Weekend event provides activities, information

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Emma Samenus, 7, told her father that she she wanted to attend college at K-State Saturday.

Emma, daughter of alumni Rob and Jennifer Samenus of Manhattan, carefully decorated her newspaper hat with the help of student volunteers at K-State's All-University Open House on Saturday.

Carrie Kohake and Katie Remsburg, both juniors in elementary education, helped children make art projects in Blue-mont Hall.

Volunteers represented Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society in education, by painting visitors' faces.

Lora Pellegrin, 8, showed her K-State support by getting a Wildcat painted on her cheek.

Lora said she wants to attend K-State to become an author, although she is already a published author and is currently working on an eight-chapter mystery book.

At the K-State Student Union, the psychology department manned a booth throughout the day with rats that could tightrope.

"Having our display be the rats tightrope shows what we can do, and it's applying what we learned in the classroom," Whitney Gebhart, senior in psychology, said.

Michael Mattox, senior at Shawnee Heights High School, said the open house was very helpful in deciding his major.

"I got to look at the areas I'm interested in — mechanical engineering and mechanical nuclear engineering. After looking at the job opportunity and marketability, I'm definitely going into mechanical nuclear engineering," he said.

Mattox said he's already turned in the housing contract and is ready for K-State.

"It seems like a promising campus," he said.

9 Thank God the Fourum is back. I have been paying $2.95 a minute to confess to Miss Cleo all summer.

Can't get enough Fourum? Get your Fourum t-shirt for $15 in Kedzie 103.

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.

CAMPUS FOURUM: 395-4444

VOTE

Mark Hatesohl
City Commissioner

GET A JOB

AND SOME GREAT EXPERIENCE!

WANT A JOB WHEN YOU GRADUATE?

Most employers are looking for people who have experience.

Get ahead of the competition and gain some valuable experience at the same time at the Kansas State Collegian.

We're looking for people who are reliable, show initiative, possess writing skills, and are creative and enthusiastic.

If this description fits you, please apply. Pick up an application and job description in Kedzie 103. The following positions are available.

COLLEGIAN NEWS STAFF POSITIONS

Summer 2003 and Fall 2003

Managing Editors
News Editors • Desk Editors
Reporters • Copy Editors
Designers
Photojournalists
Graphic Journalists
Graphic Artists
Online Journalists
Applications due April 11

ADVERTISING STAFF POSITIONS

Summer 2003 and Fall 2003

Assistant Advertising Managers
Senior Account Representatives
Account Representatives
Applications due April 11

ROYAL PURPLE STAFF POSITIONS

Assistant Editor

CD-ROM Editor • Design Editor
Copy Editor • Staff Writers
Photojournalist • Marketing Director
Section Editors
• Student Life
• Organizations
• Sports
• Academics
• People
Applications due April 11

GET THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kansas State University
Campus Phone Book

2004
royal purple

Wildcat Creek Sports Center

Monday
&
Tuesday

2 Cats + 1 Cart = $22
(9 holes)

* Subject to cart supply.

Hey Guys:

2 rounds of mini-golf: 9.90
(let her win)

6 batting cage token: 5.00

1 medium bucket of balls: 10.00

A good, fun date night: Priceless

Of course Mastercard is accepted!

TO THE POINT Protesting war, supporting troops possible

As Americans who love life as much as the country in which we live, we are allowed to be against war while supporting the heroic efforts of U.S. soldiers.

Don't let anyone else tell you otherwise.

For the past few weeks, various groups have tried to polarize public opinion of the war in Iraq by painting war protesters as anti-American, soldier-hating supporters of Saddam's regime. The truth is, many war protesters and anti-war celebrity activists have taken an anti-war stance without bashing the soldiers thrust into military action.

Travis Tritt's recent speech at Fort Riley, Toby Keith's public pro-war stance, Michael Moore's outburst at the Academy Awards and Dixie Chicks lead-singer Natalie Maines' Bush bashing have all set the stage for celebrities to make their stances on the war known.

But average people are taking stands too. The Collegian has taken an anti-war stance in its editorial boards, but we at the paper would like the soldiers to know that their work is respected despite the fact that we disagree with their Commander in Chief — President Bush.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Dana Strongin
Jamie Barrett
Sarah Rice
Nicole Donnett
Amy Preston
Kecia Seyb
Katie Lane
Dan Smith
Paul Restivo
Tara Patty
JJ Duncan
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters will be edited for length and clarity.

SPRING 2003 EDITORS

Dana Strongin EDITOR IN CHIEF			Jamie Barrett MANAGING EDITOR
Sarah Rice NEWS EDITOR	Dan Smith SPORTS EDITOR	JJ Duncan FEATURES EDITOR
Nicole Donnett PHOTO EDITOR	Katie Lane AGE EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF
Amy Preston CITY/GOV EDITOR	Paul Restivo OPINION EDITOR CO-COPY CHIEF	Adam Hemmen AD MANAGER
Kecia Seyb CAMPUS EDITOR	Tara Patty PRESENTATION EDITOR	Jon Loeb ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

This war is the best reality show on TV.

The camel comment the other day made me think of a camel toe. And I liked it.

I think we should just take over the entire world and call it the United World.

Layton, you have always been an embarrassment to this school. Now you're an embarrassment to this country. Do yourself a favor and don't say another word.

I think we should rename the Collegian to The Liberal Times.

I'm from the wrong side of the tracks, but today, I got up on the right side of the bed. Do those cancel each other out?

You know how to tell when a moth farts? When it flies in a straight line.

Are we in Leawood? Because I got stopped by three cops tonight for no reason.

Stefanie Shank, you must be a real idiot. Radio stations only have a four-letter call sign.

What a great day when the capri pants come out of hibernation and grace us with their presence. And by great day, I mean the worst day ever.

I can't feel the right side of my face. I can't feel it. It's got to be the drugs.

To the girl in my organism biology lecture with the thunder thighs: Don't ever squeeze the zits on your legs again. That's just nasty.

Hey, Pervis, did you travel anywhere for vacation?

My boyfriend has bangs and wears jean shorts. What's up with that?

Not enough Forum? Visit
www.kstatecollegian.com

Freedom of speech limited by war

FLETCHER JACOBS

"To announce that there must be no criticism of the President, or that we are to stand by the President, right or wrong, is not only unpatriotic and servile, but is morally treasonable to the American public."

Theodore Roosevelt, The Kansas City Star — May 7, 1918

I called my buddy Miles last night to tell him my job plans when I graduate.

I'm going to be a country singer. "Excuse me?" he asked.

A country singer.

"I thought you hated modern country music."

Well I do, but this can't miss. All I need is a good flag-waving song.

Toby Keith's "Courtesy of the Red, White and Blue" and Darryl Worley's "Have You Forgotten" have shown me the way.

"But I thought you didn't like those songs."

Well, they are terribly written songs. But people love the way they make them feel. Toby's song is pandering to that wonderful human longing for revenge and preaches good ole American arrogance. And what insightful lyrics. "We'll put a boot in your ass — it's the American way." Pure poetry.

Darryl Worley's song makes it seem like we are avenging 9/11 by attacking Iraq. Kind of like before the war in the White House press conference where George Bush mentioned 9/11 eight times. So I guess I don't even need to worry about having facts when I write country songs.

"But I thought you were against jingoism."

I am. But it sells.

McVay Media and the Frank N. Magid, two influential media consulting firms, both revealed in last Friday's Washington Post that war sells and protests don't. Their advice for media is to play patriotic music and wrap yourself in the flag. I mean, Dan Rather told the BBC last May that since Sept. 11, 2001, our news participates in censorship all the time. Showing the dead and maimed in Baghdad and anti-war stuff is just bad business. And since there are fewer owners in media today, these policies are much more likely to be followed.

And I'm tired of always searching for the true story and questioning stuff. The revolution is over.

How many Thomas Jefferson quotes about free press and speech can I hear? I'm just going to watch Fox News from now on.

"So are you for the war now?" he queried.

Does it matter? If I exercise my right to free speech, I'm told I'd lose my tongue in Iraq doing that. Evidently I should shut up after hearing that. But if we don't exercise our free speech, wouldn't that make us like the Iraqis, albeit tongues intact? Somehow I can't follow that logic.

"You lost me, dude."

A local morning country DJ said you should never speak out against the President publicly. Ever. You can think it but don't voice it. Of course, these same country stations were the ones whose morning shows made a living for several years off Clinton jokes.

"But those were funny."

Hell, yeah, they were. I used to forward those e-mails every day. But in war the rules are different. I realize he is the commander in chief, but he's still an elected official. I even voted for the guy, but I wouldn't say anything bad about him today.

"Isn't that what happened to those 'Hanoi Jane' Dixie Chicks?"

Yeah. What they said wasn't real bright. But they were just frustrated and expressed their opinion. Agree with them or not, I thought people would respect their right to speak out.

But a systematic campaign is being led by right-wing groups and radio stations owned by Clear Channel Communications to smash their CDs and boycott their relevant hit, "Travelin' Soldier." They are being silenced for speaking their mind.

So you can be celebrated for the courage it takes to wave the flag. Or you can be ostracized for using their First Amendment right and questioning the president. The lesson there is pretty obvious.

ANGEL WILSON

With K-State's open house week-end just ending, this seemed like the appropriate time to talk about courtesy.

Since common courtesy is a phrase that I thought everyone knew, I was shocked at some of the discourtesy that has been displayed around campus lately.

The Department of Housing and Dining Services recently recognized some of its hardest workers during Maintenance, Housekeeping, and Dining Staff Appreciation Week. It was not done to belittle or pity anyone in the department. Rather it was a small attempt to recognize the efforts made by these people to make our lives run a bit smoother.

How many times have you sat in class and put your hands under your desk only to feel old, hard gum, or even worse, fresh, recently placed gum? What about when you've been in the bathroom and seen unflushed toilets, sanitary napkins or tampons not properly disposed of, and wet paper towels everywhere but in the trash?

Don't forget the times you've been in any residence hall elevator and realized you're standing in something wet, but it's not raining.

Contrary to popular misconception, this is your home. Yeah, some of you disagree, but how could any place where you spend nine months and receive mail (including bills and porno magazines) not be home to you? Is it the food? Is it the location? Is it because it's not where your parents live? I hate to burst your bubbles, kiddies, but you're home.

And the same things that you would never do at your parents' house, you shouldn't be doing here. When you spill anything at your mother's house, do you just let it sit there because "she'll clean it up?" Do you defecate everywhere but the toilet stool because you just want to give your father "something to do?" Do you litter your driveway with bottles and cans because your parents understand that you were merely "having some fun?" When you're bored, do you scribble and deface walls and doors because you simply believe in "expressing your artistic ability?"

Of course these questions are ridiculous because none of us behaves the same way here as we do at home. We have too much respect for our families to act like a donkey like we do so effortlessly here.

The people who have opted for a career in cleaning up behind others have definitely undertaken the responsibility of a lifetime. No, they are not volunteering to be your personal servant — they are doing a job. While we are yelling and screaming "Go Wildcats" at the top of our lungs at Bramlage, there are those people waiting silently to tend to the massive messes we've made.

While we're safely and snugly asleep after a wild night of partying and drinking, there are those people working diligently to scrub our vomit from toilets and floors. While we stuff our faces with food we claim we don't like and leave wrappers, napkins and other leftovers behind, there are those laboring quickly to clear away everything so they can be prepared for the next meal.

This is not an attempt to make anyone feel guilty about his or her careless habits. Well, actually it is. How would you feel if you were forced to be around people day in and day out who didn't seem to appreciate you or the work that you do for them? Doesn't sound too fun, huh?

The next time you're thinking about not cleaning up a spill or not flushing a toilet, remember that as tired as you think you are, there is somebody who is a lot more tired than you and for a lot better reasons than extreme laziness.

Angel is a graduate student in college student personnel. You can e-mail her at angelw@k-state.edu.

Illustration by Ben Dolezal | COLLEGIAN

"What's that?"

Know your place and shut your face. So, no more questions from me. I really need this job. Besides, I think that is what God would want us to do in times like this. That and wave the flag.

"Cool."

Yeah. But the other day I heard some hippie playing a John Prine song. It was called "Your Flag Decal Won't Get You Into Heaven Anymore."

It kind of freaked me out. As an American, I always assumed that simply humming the "Star-Spangled Banner" would be a one-way ticket through the Pearly Gates. Could that ... be wrong?

"Who is John Prine?"

A folk singer.

"Folk singers. Dirty socialists." I'd listen to Toby Keith's song and start writing on bombs, John Wayne, and the French.

Yeah, I smell a No. 1 hit, too. I better find a word that rhymes with mass destruction. Later, man.

Red Cross promotes preparedness

Audrey Atencio, freshman in pre-medicine and music and Kristen Ford, freshman in biochemistry, laugh about the practice dummy falling apart while they practice CPR at the American Red Cross CPR class at the Manhattan Town Center on Saturday.

Proper steps also assure readiness for terrorist attacks

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Preparedness was the primary issue during American Red Cross Day at Manhattan Town Center on Saturday, with Executive Director Clay Myers-Bowman's presentation on the five steps to disaster preparation.

Making a plan, building a kit, getting trained, volunteering and giving blood are all important in being ready for disasters, he said.

In addition, volunteers and information were available to help mall visitors fulfill each of the five steps.

Devising a disaster plan is the first step to being prepared, Myers-Bowman said.

Posting emergency telephone numbers, knowing how to turn off gas and electricity, and establishing a meeting place are a few of the steps involved in establishing a

Preparation

Information on disaster preparation is available at the Flint Hills chapter of the American Red Cross' Web site, www.thinkred.org.

plan.

A disaster kit is also vital to being prepared for disasters. Food, water, a first aid kit, tools, supplies, clothing and bedding are essential, Myers-Bowman said.

CPR and disaster classes helped students learn proper techniques to help themselves and others in the event of a disaster.

The CPR class filled quickly, Lantz said, with 18 people enrolled, most of which were K-State students.

Many potential donors had to be turned away because of the limited staff taking blood, Lantz said.

"There has been lots of interest," Lantz said. "Any time we're here doing things, it draws lots of interest."

The location and convenience of having a blood donation center in the mall probably helped increase willingness to donate, Lantz said.

An emergency response vehicle was on display as well. Lantz said it served as a centerpiece for the entire day and sparked lots of interest for the classes and blood donation center.

Throughout the day, Danae Doubek, assistant event chair, stood by the emergency response vehicle to help distribute information and answer questions.

She said there were many questions about the Red Cross' role in distributing aid during the war in Iraq.

Although there are no individuals serving the Red Cross in Iraq, officials are helping to dictate fair treatment of the prisoners of war.

And despite tension among many of the patrons, Lantz said Kansans should be bracing themselves more for natural disasters than for terrorist attacks.

"The Red Cross has spent over 100 years preparing for disasters," he said. "Only now have citizens been taking an active interest."

"They should focus their attention on natural disasters rather than terrorist attacks."

"If you're prepared for one, you're prepared for the other."

Senior student receives Truman scholarship

Burch to apply $30,000 prize toward law school

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Jessica Burch was able to win the $30,000 Truman scholarship — despite an early lack of resources in her native language.

Burch, senior in criminology and pre-law, is one of 76 winners selected from 635 candidates and 305 universities.

She began writing her public policy proposal and filling out her application while she was studying in the Czech Republic — without any English libraries available.

"I was ecstatic," Burch said. "It was a great feeling knowing that I had worked so hard on something."

Burch said she spent nearly a year composing and revising her policy proposal and application.

Her proposal and application were submitted for final review, and she attended an interview in Washington, D.C.

Prior to her national application, Burch had to be nominated by K-State.

Burch marks the 26th K-State student to be awarded the Truman scholarship, making K-State No. 1 among public universities, James Hohenbary, scholar adviser, said.

The scholarship can be applied to Burch's final year of undergraduate study and to her graduate studies.

She said she plans to attend law school at George Washington University to study child welfare law.

Burch first began working as a peer counselor in Wichita when she was 16, where she dealt with children who had been neglected and abused, she said.

This experience inspired her to continue work in child welfare.

By studying child welfare law, Burch hopes to be able to devise reforms for the child welfare system to maximize its efficiency.

Hohenbary said Burch espouses many of the traits the Truman scholars represent.

"The Truman's primary focus is on leadership and public service," he said. "Jessica already has a strong record of various leadership activities, and she is easily able to demonstrate her dedication to public service."

Burch is the vice president of Amnesty International, and a member of International Ambassadors, Criminology Club and Pre-Law Club.

In her home town of Wichita, she worked as a peer counselor for the Wichita Children's Home Street Outreach, was an intern for the city's law department and was an executive committee member and membership committee chair for Wichita's Promise Youth Council.

Hohenbary, who Burch said played an important role in helping revise her application, said he was proud of Burch's accomplishment. It speaks highly of her and of the university, he said.

"I believe there's a strong emphasis on this campus on the values of leadership and service," Hohenbary said. "That emphasis really comes out in competition like the Truman scholarships."

Jessica Burch
TRUMAN SCHOLAR

Rumsfeld says no timetable for end of war with Iraq

By John Heilprin
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The fiercest fighting lies ahead for U.S. troops as they advance toward Baghdad, and the Pentagon's plan will result in victory, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said Sunday.

While he said he did not know when the war might be over, "It's going to end with the Iraqis liberated," Rumsfeld said in between appearances on the morning talk shows.

He acknowledged that resistance "has been in pockets quite stiff. It's going to get more difficult as we move closer to Baghdad," where President Saddam Hussein's most trusted Republican Guards are waiting.

"I would suspect that the most dangerous and difficult days are still ahead of us," he said.

Rumsfeld denied published reports that he had rejected requests from U.S. war planners for additional troops.

"The planners are in the Central Command. They come up with their proposals and I think you'll find that if you ask anyone who's been involved in the process from the central command that every single thing they've requested has in fact happened," Rumsfeld told "Fox News Sunday."

The plan developed by Gen. Tommy Franks is "a good one and it's working. I think the people who are talking about it really are people who haven't seen it," the defense secretary said.

Like Franks, who said at a briefing Sunday in Qatar that "one never knows how long a war will take," Rumsfeld would not say when the fighting might cease.

"We've never had a timetable. We've always said it could be days, weeks or months and we don't know. And I don't think you need a timetable," Rumsfeld said on ABC's "This Week."

He also took on critics of the war strategy who contend the United States underestimated Iraqi resistance.

U.S. and British forces now top 290,000. The Army's 4th Infantry Division is being sent, its first supplies expected to arrive in Kuwait in days, and troops and gun-mounted utility vehicles could be deployed sooner than scheduled.

VOTE ★ ★ ★ ★ ★
✓ Mark HATESOHL
City Commissioner

- Control increases in city spending
- Attract and create more quality jobs
- Promote appropriate redevelopment of older neighborhoods
- Protect property owners and fixed-income citizens from over taxation
- Promote better efficiency in city staff and services

Common Sense Leadership and Shared Values

Paid for by Hatesohl for City Commission, Tim W. Ryan, Treasurer 1206 Stacy Lane, Manhattan, KS 66503

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

THE FOUR BIGGEST DIETING MISTAKES

By Rick Tague, M.D., M.P.H.
Board Certified in Medical Weight Management

If you made a New Year's resolution to lose weight but have struggled...or have already failed...you are not alone.

Numerous studies show that over 96% of all self-imposed diets fail to bring about a significant long-term weight loss. Regardless of how much willpower you have, the odds are against you when dieting on your own. And with less than a 4% chance of long-term success, you may ask, "why even try?"

Fortunately, a medical specialty called bariatric medicine has discovered simple, easy-to-follow solutions to the four biggest dieting mistakes. The biggest dieting mistakes are:

1. Using a "cookie cutter" approach to choosing your diet. I call this the "one size fits all" diet. No one gains weight...or loses weight...the same way. In order to be successful your program must be individualized around your personal needs, your likes and dislikes, your medical needs, your family history, your environment, your level of stress and more. Unfortunately, fad diets call for everyone to follow the same diet forever which accounts for such a dismal success rate.

2. No medical monitoring of your weight loss. This may lead to losing muscle and even bone versus losing body fat. Losing muscle causes your metabolism to slow down and contributes greatly to eventual weight regain and makes losing weight "the next time" even more difficult. Weight loss must be medically monitored to insure that what you are eating - how often and at what times during the day - causes you to melt away fat...not muscle.

3. Attempting to fight the "cravings battle" alone. Let's face it, cravings can be an almost impossible "enemy" to fight. The reason is that cravings are hardwired into your body's natural self-protection system.

Brain chemicals causing cravings is one of the ways your body preserves itself from starvation. Of course changing your eating habits by dieting doesn't mean you are starving, but your body doesn't know that. Fortunately, using an individualized high nutrient program, adjusting meal frequency, and other medical techniques including appetite suppressants (when appropriate and only if needed), can eliminate cravings which then makes losing unwanted fat pounds easy.

4. Not recognizing there may be underlying medical reasons causing your weight gain. Obviously fad diets do not address your individual medical history nor do they evaluate and monitor blood and lab findings that can provide quick answers to your past difficulty with losing weight. A physician specializing in medical weight management is able to identify and correct hormonal imbalances and other medical problems that can be the key to a slimmer you.

Losing weight doesn't have to be an uphill battle, and more than likely past failures haven't been your fault. An individual's genetics, metabolism, medical problems, life stresses and food cravings can make weight loss on your own a very difficult undertaking. Make sure any program you undertake avoids these four common mistakes.

Also, seek a medical doctor who specializes in nutrition and medical weight management. Not all physicians have this specialized training. And if you'd like more information about how you can finally achieve weight loss success, please call my office today at 776-4443 to set up a complimentary office visit.

Dr. Tague is board certified in bariatric medicine. Dr. Tague is the medical director of the Center for Nutrition and Preventive Medicine at 1443 Anderson Avenue in Anderson Village.

Baseball Brats & Buds

all day Monday & Tuesday

PRIZES $1.00 Dogs $2.50 Brats $2.00 Bud Products
Hot Roasted Peanuts
BUD Giveaways

Join us at Willie's for all the opening day action

The Royals vs. White Sox @ 12:00 Monday

Tuesday Every Opening Day game on MLB Extra Innings
WILLIE'S

Join Brian Smoller & Matt Walters from 1350 KMAN's "The Game" from 4-6 pm Tues.

SPORTS BAR AND GRILL
307 Seth Childs Rd. 539-6746

Cinnamon Street

BAKERY

Celebrating Our GRAND OPENING!

LOCATED IN THE COFFEE/SWEET SHOP
1ST FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION

Royals may shine

Success is possible for KC

TOM FONTANA

I had a dream the Kansas City Royals won a championship.

But it wasn't a dream. Who cares if it was a measly spring training championship, it's something to work with. Holding spring training in Surprise, Ariz., the Royals finished the spring with the best record in baseball, 19-10, and won a Cactus League Title.

The Royals became the Anaheim Angels of spring training — everyone expected them to be awful, but they came out on top.

For everyone who expected them to stink, you have nothing to worry about — they still definitely will stink.

In 1999, the Royals went 22-9 and won the Grapefruit League title. When the regular season rolled around, the Royals laid another famous Kansas City egg, finishing 64-97.

So what if it's only the second time since I was 4 years old that the Royals have won anything. The sad part is, both times they have won something since the 1985 World Series, it's been in spring training.

You don't get a trophy for winning a spring training championship, and you probably don't deserve one. About all you get is a handshake and a firm smack on the backside, a baseball tradition.

Earlier this semester I mentioned I had lost interest in the Royals and was not looking forward to the season. I cited that I was sick of being let down time and time again.

Well, after spring training, I have let myself regain that interest, and I am kind of excited to see how many games this team can actually lose. It could easily reach 100 for the second consecutive year.

But for some reason, I am looking forward to today's first pitch of the 2003 Royals season. Why, I'm not sure.

Maybe it's because I thought we would get to see some solid baseball from the K-State baseball team and that hasn't happened.

Or it could be that I see some promise in the Royals' young pitching staff, the second youngest rotation in baseball averaging 24 years.

Perhaps it's just because I'm stupid. What reason do I have to believe this team can even smell finishing around .500. The young pitching staff I just mentioned has a combined 21 victories in Major League play.

I have put my faith in this team since I was born, and it's been to the playoffs once in the last 18 years. Granted, that was a rather successful trip, winning the World Series in seven games over St. Louis, but what's to say it will ever happen again in today's money-driven baseball world.

Oh, by the way, the average age of the 1985 pitching rotation was 25. That team defied all odds and went all the way.

It wasn't supposed to beat the Toronto Blue Jays in the American League Championship Series, and it did. It wasn't supposed to beat the Cardinals in the World Series, and it did with a convincing 11-0 victory in game seven.

This is a young team with a few veterans people have never heard of. They could surprise people. You never know.

Am I predicting the Royals will make a run? I know better. They most definitely will not. I'm not predicting anything really. I guess I'm still dreaming.

Tom is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at taf5473@ksu.edu.

8 STRAIGHT

K-State second baseman Ty Soto tries to get hold of the ball as Missouri's Zane Taylor slides into the bag during the Wildcats' loss to the Tigers on Sunday at Frank Meyers Field. The loss marked the Wildcats' eighth straight.

Photos by Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Loss sets team at worst start since 2000

By Tom Fontana
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When you're in the middle of an eight-game losing streak, nothing seems to go your way.

A 5-4 loss to Missouri at Tointon Family Stadium on Sunday leaves K-State (10-16, 0-6) off to its worst start in Big 12 play since 2000, and the eight-game losing streak is the longest since the Cats lost 11 straight in 1997.

K-State fell behind early for the third consecutive game, allowing a run on two hits and an error in the first inning.

The Cats bounced back in the second on back-to-back singles by Andrew Dunsmore and Josh Heinrich, scoring Ty Soto who walked earlier in the inning.

The 2-1 lead gave the Wildcats their first lead in nearly 25 innings.

The Tigers tied the game in the top of the fourth, but K-State junior Brian Patty broke a 2-2 tie in the bottom of the fourth with his first career home run at K-State.

As has happened all season with teams facing K-State, the Tigers came up with a multiple-run inning in the sixth, scoring three runs on three hits.

"It starts with a walk or an error," senior right fielder Pat Maloney said.

"It's tough to get out of because right now, none of us are making plays. Someone's got to step up and make a play. Right now, no one really is."

Another troubling theme for Clark has been double plays. K-State grounded into two twin-killings and were doubled up in the third inning on a base-running mistake by Ty Soto.

"It's lack of discipline with our hitters," Clark said.

"We're trying to pull pitches that we should be driving the other way. I can think of about all but one of them was exactly that. We're trying to pull a breaking pitch way or a fastball away and we're out in front rolling over."

"It's a mental approach," he said. "We've just got to change the way we're doing things."

K-State made it interesting in the bottom of the ninth. Trailing 5-3, Adam Dunsmore reached on an error, and Gabe Luttrell doubled to left-center.

Dunsmore scored on a balk by Tiger reliever Travis Wendte. The rally was stopped, however, when senior shortstop Brett Williams grounded to second to end the game.

"It's real tough," Maloney said. "We're in a skid right now, but we came out and really tried to win the ballgame in the last couple innings. We gave it a chance from the sixth inning on. That's what we've got to do to try and get out of this slide."

K-State pitchers Kevin Melcher (0-2) and Eric Rollins combined for a fairly solid effort. Rollins threw 3 2/3 scoreless innings in relief for Melcher, allowing only three hits. Melcher went 5 1/3 innings, giving up five runs on 10 hits.

"We did what we needed to do in order to give ourselves a chance to win," Clark said. "That's what this is all about. We'll get that key at-bat. We just have to have that kind of effort off that mound."

"Their pitchers threw good," he said. "They did a real good job and made it really difficult for us. There's just a lot of little things that lead to the outcome of that ballgame that we've just got to keep working on."

Trio of Wildcats earn start in Clark's latest combination

By Dan Smith
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Brian Patty isn't normally a part of the Tointon Family Stadium pregame festivities.

While the public address announcer belts out the names of K-State's starters, Patty is more likely to be settling into his spot on the Wildcat bench rather than hustling out to one on the field.

But losers of seven straight and winless in the Big 12 coming into Sunday's series finale with Missouri, Coach Mike Clark was willing to change anything he could to end his team's stretch of bad luck.

"We're looking and hunting and trying to find the right combination," Clark said after the Cats' 5-4 loss gave the Tigers their first series sweep since 1998.

Using Patty — who had just two hits in 26 plate appearances this season — was part of Clark's latest combination. Third baseman Andrew Dunsmore and catcher Josh Heinrich were also in the lineup.

Combined, the trio had started only 10 of K-State's 28 contests in 2003.

Don't blame Patty, though. The reserve outfielder reached base twice and hit his first career homer in the fourth inning to give K-State a brief 3-2 lead.

"It's tough to sit guys that are hitting .280 and put in a guy that's hitting .077," Clark said, "but we were hoping (Patty would) give us a charge, and he did."

Dunsmore and Heinrich each connected for hits, too.

"They did a fine job," Clark said. "We've got to keep fighting through and find the right combination, and when we find the right combination, go."

Finding it has been a struggle, though. What seemed like a motivational tactic to solve the Cats' defensive and pitching woes after K-State's losing streak reached five games after a 14-10 decision to Wichita State on March 26 has turned into a guessing game as to who will start for K-State each time out.

K-State's Brian Patty is congratulated after hitting a home run during the Wildcats' loss to Missouri on Sunday at Frank Meyers Field.

TOUGH STRETCH

The Collegian takes a five-part look at what stories have developed during K-State's eight-game losing streak.

Today: Changing lineups

Blunt earned his ninth start Friday against the Tigers.

None of those lineups produced a win, however, and now the Cats are forced to find something positive during practice before a three-game set with Oklahoma State begins Friday in Stillwater.

Clark is hoping that process starts today with some time away from the ballpark.

"We've got a good day for an off day, and I told the guys to just get away from baseball," he said.

"I told them to just get away and relax — go fishing, go golfing, do something other than baseball just to clear their heads."

Dunsmore sees Clark's trial-and-error approach as a chance for more playing time.

"Right now, no one has really stepped up in any particular position," he said. "Coach keeps saying everything's wide open. Wherever you go, whoever performs and steps up and performs will get the start."

Clark said the changes are just another part of solving the Cats' riddle before it's too late.

"It's just one of those things," he said, "where we're looking at anything to try and help the team win right now."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

MLB Texas wins 1st game in 2003

The Anaheim Angels started this season the same way they began last year — with a thud.

Alex Rodriguez, Juan Gonzalez and Michael Young homered, making Buck Showalter a winner in his Texas debut as the Rangers beat the Angels 6-3 Sunday night in the major league opener.

College basketball Final Four set

The 65th Final Four will have one No. 1 seed, one team back for a second straight year and two schools from the same conference for a fifth straight season.

Texas was the only top seed to make it through its bracket, beating Michigan State 85-76 Sunday to get the Longhorns in the Final Four for the first time since 1947.

Texas will meet Syracuse, and the Big 12's other representative, Kansas, will square off against Marquette on Saturday for a chance to play in the national championship game.

NASCAR Earnhardt Jr. can't hang on

Ryan Newman passed Dale Earnhardt Jr. with 11 laps remaining and held on to win the Samsung/Radio Shack 500 at Texas Motor Speedway on Sunday.

Newman gambled by changing just two tires on his last pit stop, and the payoff was his second career victory and first since Sept. 15, 2002, in New Hampshire.

Golf Love takes TPC

Davis Love III hit all the shots and made all the crucial putts Sunday in The Players Championship, closing with an 8-under 64 in cold, blustery conditions for a victory he ranks among his best.

Two strokes behind to start the final round, Love blitzed the field with five straight birdies. From the pine straw on the par-5 16th, he wrapped a 6-iron around the pines and over the lake to 10 feet for eagle.

When it was over, Love matched the best closing round in the 30-year history of The Players Championship and won the richest prize on the PGA Tour.

Staff and wire reports

Track Successful weekend for Cat tracksters

Annika Haedt of K-State made the most of her collegiate outdoor-track debut by winning the women's pole vault Saturday as the bulk of the Wildcats' team opened the outdoor season at the Arizona State Invitational.

She was one of three women and two men from K-State who won individual events on Saturday.

Haedt cleared 11 feet, 8 inches to win the women's pole vault, moving into third place all-time at K-State in the event, which has been contested for women since 1997.

Tabra Alpers won the women's javelin and qualified for the NCAA Regionals with a throw of 151-3.

Senior Rebekah Green hit regional-qualifying marks in both the hammer, finishing third by adding two feet to her career-best with a throw of 178-1, and the discus, placing fifth at 155-7. Amy Mortimer had a regional-qualifying mark with her second-place finish in the 800 meters at 2:10.07.

Morgan High matched the regional standard by placing third in the high jump at 5-7.

Rowing K-State disappointed at home

Iowa captured all three varsity races by an average of nine seconds over second-place Clemson and third-place K-State with a shortened 1,990-meter course on Tuttle Creek Lake.

The Hawkeyes varsity eight clocked a regatta-best 6:59.2 to beat Clemson, which posted a 7:05.3, and K-State, not far behind, with a 7:13.1.

The K-State second varsity eight battled with Clemson in the second race of the day for second place, only to lose by 1.6 seconds in the last 500 meters. The race was won by the Iowa boat in 7:05.1, followed by the Tigers 7:17.8. K-State finished in 7:19.4.

In novice eight action, Clemson beat out the Iowa threat by only 2.9 seconds to win the closest battle for first place in any of the four races. The Clemson boat finished in 7:36.6, with Iowa behind in 7:39.5 and K-State in 7:49.0.

Tennis Cats post wins over Mizou, ISU

The 54th-ranked K-State tennis team upset its third opponent of the season and won its third straight match when it beat No. 34 Missouri, 5-2, Saturday at the Green Tennis Center.

After winning the doubles point, the Wildcats were tied with Missouri before winning three of the next four singles matches to clinch the upset.

On Friday, K-State won its third Big 12 Conference dual match of the season and posted its third shutout of the year when it beat Iowa State, 7-0, at the Ames Racquet & Fitness Club.

The Cats snapped a three-match streak of losing the doubles point when it won all three matches Friday over the Cyclones.

Dustin Diamond reminds the crowd at Aggie Station of the gesture of the flying buttock. Diamond will perform again at 7 and 10 tonight.

Photos by Matt Elliott | COLLEGIAN

DIAMOND SHINES ON

'Saved by the Bell' star brings comedic act tailored to 20-somethings

By Matthew Webber
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Have you ever seen the "Saved by the Bell" episode in which Samuel "Screech" Powers tells jokes in Manhattan?

Had you entered Aggie Station at 7 or 10 Sunday night, you might have thought you were watching it.

Dustin Diamond, the actor who played Screech for almost a decade, performed two sets of stand-up comedy to capacity crowds.

Wade Phillips, who books comedy shows at Aggie Station, said Diamond's show differs from the typical show at Aggie Station.

Phillips said he usually books comedians who appeal to a 30-years-and-older crowd.

He said he booked Diamond because of how well he appeals to college students.

"Dustin's so identified with the 20-something age market," Phillips said.

"They grew up with Dustin. He's a great fit for a college town."

Diamond seemed to understand that college students still identify him as his "Saved by the Bell" character.

He opened his monologue by asking how many people came to his show to have a few drinks and laugh at his jokes.

Then he asked how many people "came out to get [really] drunk and make fun of Screech?"

Diamond made fun of Screech and "Saved by the Bell" throughout the show.

He wondered if people expected him to wear "multi-colored pants up to my nipples" and a "pubic forest fro."

He compared himself to Urkel, another television icon.

He said he performs stand-up because he really needs the money. He described his comedy as "observational" and told jokes about Iraq, drugs and feces.

"We can all relate to it," he said about his potty humor.

Dave Temple, senior in public relations, said he attended

Dustin Diamond, better known as Screech from "Saved By the Bell," performs for the sold-out crowd at Aggie Station.

Comedy show

What: Second night of Dustin Diamond
Where: Aggie Station
When: 7 and 10 tonight
Cost: $12 in advance and $15 at the door

the show because he had heard Diamond would be dirty.

"I like dirty jokes," Temple said. "I'm a dirty guy. It's fun to see a guy who used to be a nice kid become dirty."

Other reasons for attending the show varied.

